The Opera House, Strand Theatre and Hippodrome at Carthage; Park Theatre at Cobleskill, Strand Theatre, Dolgeville; Princess Theatre, Regent Theatre, State Theatre, at Corning; Glove Theatre, Hippodrome Theatre, Family Theatre, at Gloversville; Temple Theatre, Auditorium Theatre, renamed Rialto Theatre, at Lockport; Colonia Theatre, Strand Theatre at Norwich; New Grand Theatre, Universal Theatre at Auburn; Oneonta Theatre, Palace Theatre, Strand Theatre at Oneonta; Richardson Theatre, Orpheum Theatre, Capitol Theatre, Strand Theatre at Oswego; Grand Theatre, at Rochester; Park Theatre, at Medina; Babcock Theatre, at Bath; Playhouse Theatre, Liberty Theatre, at Canandaigua; Rialto Theatre, at East Rochester; Rivoli Theatre, at Fairport; Smtih Opera House, Temple theatre, Regent Theatre, at Geneva; Andrews Theatre, Strand Theatre, at Salamanca; Elmwood Theatre, Sampson Theatre, at Penn Yan.

F. P.-L. TALK IN KANSAS CITY

A report is being discussed in Kansas City film circles that the Newman and Royal theatres are to be taken over by Famous Players and that Frank L. Newman, owner of the theatres, has been offered an important position with that company's Los Angeles theatres. Newman, who is out of town, telegraphed the Kansas City Star, in response to a query, that the report was incorrect.

BANDIT GETS ROOSEVELT'S CASH

A lone bandit last week held up Mrs. Mildred Ecklund, cashier of the Roosevelt Theatre, Chicago, as she and two theatre employes were coming out of the box office after counting the receipts for the night. The thief grabbed the cash box and after threatening the employes with a gun got away in the passing crowds.

Rowland Urges Theatres' Support on Radio

When film and stage producers exhaust their maledicitions against radio and begin calmly to ponder the matter, they will find that properly devised co-operation will result in a mutual benefit for all. This is the opinion of Richard A. Rowland, general manager of First National Pictures. He says:

"One way that suggests itself is to give radio programs all the big stars they want—but restrict their renditions to hours that do not conflict with theatre hours. The contrast will react to the benefit of the theatre."

Tornado Exacts Greatest Film Toll in Illinois, Reports Show

Exhibitor and Wife Killed; 5 Theatres Demolished—Survey Indicates Showmen in Greater Stricken Area Are Fortunate

MOVING PICTURE WORLD this week is able to offer to its readers detail and comprehensive reports of the casualties and property losses relative particularly to the exhibitor population in the devastated central area visited recently by the tornado. From these reports at this time it would seem Illinois has suffered the greatest film loss, an exhibitor and his wife having been killed outright and five theatres known to be totally demolished.

Carl Laemmle, head of Universal Pictures, was one of the first to respond to the appeal for help. When he heard of the disaster that had visited Southern Illinois and vicinity he immediately wired $100 to St. Louis as his contribution to the relief fund being raised here. Employes of the local Universal office added $35 to their bit.

Chicago showmen, this publication is advised by its correspondent, are now raising several thousands of dollars to aid the cyclone sufferers. Indications are that similar movements are underway in all parts of the country.

ILLINOIS AND MISSOURI

Five motion picture theatres in Illinois were destroyed, one unroofed and otherwise damaged and several others sustained minor damage in the tornado which swept Missouri, Southern Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee and Kentucky Wednesday, March 18, causing a loss of 808 lives, injuries to 3,800 persons and property damage estimated at $7,500,000.

C. L. Hicks, former owner of the Isis Theatre at Marion, Ill., and his wife were killed when the storm demolished their home in West Frankfort, Ill., while C. Boulton proprietor of the theatre at Gorham, Ill., was injured seriously when that theatre was destroyed. He is now in a hospital at Cairo, Ill. So far as could be ascertained all the other motion picture men in the stricken territory escaped serious injury.

Hicks had not been in the motion picture business for several months, and after selling his theatre in Marion moved to West Frankfort, Ill., to make his home.

The houses destroyed were the Dunn Theatre, Annapolis, Mo., owned by W. H. Dunn; Little Egypt, Gorham, Ill., owned by C. Boulton; Liberty Theatre, Murphysboro, Ill., owned by John Marlowe; Bush Theatre, Bush, Ill.; Gem Theatre, De Soto, Ill., A Friedline, owner; the Hippodrome Theatre, Murphysboro, Ill., owned by John Marlowe of Herrin, Ill., was unroofed and otherwise damaged.

The Rex, West Frankfort, owned by the Reed, Yemm & Hayes Circuit and the Majestic, West Frankfort, operated by William Muhlenbach escaped with minor damage. The Home, a neighborhood house in West Frankfort, E. H. Nooner, owner, and the two small houses in Frankfort Heights also escaped, being outside the path of the storm.

The Strand at Orient, Ill., was also damaged, but the extent has not been ascertained.

The Hurst Theatre, Hurst, Ill., owned by W. R. Clarke is reported to have been destroyed while the Star Theatre in that city operated by E. Beasen was badly damaged.

The other houses reported to have been damaged by the storm were the Royal at Royalton, Ill., operated by Robert Brandon, and one of the houses operated by Reed, Yemm & Hayes in Benton, Ill.

So far as present inadequate communication with the stricken areas permitted a check, all the other theatres in the affected cities escaped appreciable damage. Telephone and telegraph wires into the damaged cities were available only for emergency calls relating to dead and injured and newspaper reporters and others seeking to send information out of the area were forced to travel thirty and forty miles to obtain wire, and some Chicago newspapers were compelled to send men into St. Louis in order to secure wire facilities. These conditions naturally interfered with a canvass of the zone of damage.

C. D. Hill, manager of the St. Louis office of the Producers Distributing Corporation, president of the St. Louis Film Board of Trade on Sunday, March 22, left for the Southern Illinois cities hit by the storm to check upon the theatres and theatre owners at the request of the Hays organization. Every effort will be made by the national organization to assist the exhibitors who were victims of the storm.

When news of the extent of the tornado reached St. Louis the local exchanges immediately cancelled all film shipments into the towns that had been hit, and it was announced that the bookings and accounts of the exhibitors in the storm area would be suspended pending a return to normal conditions. Some of the towns were completely wiped out while Murphysboro had about two-thirds of its homes blown down. It will be many, many months, it is feared before motion picture houses can operate in those parts. It is possible a few of the towns will never be rebuilt.

The Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois of which I. W. Rodgers of Cairo, Ill., and Poplar Bluff, Mo., is president, also stands ready to furnish every assistance to brother exhibitors hit by the storm.

(Continued on next page)

Northwest Union Headed by Steffes

Al Steffes this week announces the formation of the Allied Theatres Incorporated as the sequel to the original announcement of the establishing of a booking combine of 200 Northwest exhibitors. The theatres included in the plan are located in Minnesota, Western Wisconsin and Kakotas, Mich.

Steffes has been named president of the new incorporation. Thomas Burke, a well known exchange man, is his assistant. The headquarters of the new organization will be in Minneapolis.

With the same dispatch comes one from Moving Picture World's Chicago correspondent reading as follows:

According to a well known authority a new co-operative booking club consisting of theatres both in and out of Chicago territory is in process of formation and a definite announcement of its membership will soon be made. It is to have more theatres than any Illinois Circuit now in business.

Vitagraph, Cleared of Debt, Elects New Directorate

At a meeting of the Vitagraph stockholders on March 18, new directors were elected for the fiscal year 1925 and 1926. The directors elected for Vitagraph Company of America and Vitagraph, Inc., are: Albert E. Smith, chairman; John B. Rock, J. Stuart Blackton, A. Victor Smith and A. I. Siegel.

The new executives of Vitagraph Company of America are: Albert E. Smith, president; John B. Rock, vice-president and treasurer; J. Stuart Blackton, vice-president; A. I. Siegel, secretary, and A. Victor Smith, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. The officers of Vitagraph, Inc., are: Albert E. Smith, president; John B. Rock, vice-president and treasurer; A. I. Siegel, secretary, and A. Victor Smith, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

The election of a new directorate and executive heads follows the payment of the last bank indebtedness incurred by this old company. More than six weeks ago just before President Smith went west to lay the final production plans for the 1925-1926 schedule, he announced the payment of one million dollars of serial notes under an indenture affected in 1916. These cancelled bonds were burned at the Vitagraph studios at a luncheon attended by the members of the Vitagraph family.

Tornado Film Toll Reports

(Continued from preceding page)

[illegible] St. Louis [illegible]

[illegible] St. Louis [illegible] Southern Illinois [illegible] Carbondale [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Then they heard a terrible roar. [illegible]

[illegible] a heavy rain and hail.

[illegible]

[illegible] Hill [illegible] Carbondale [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] United Artists [illegible]

"There was a dark cone like cloud, twisting and swirling through the air, then a shrill whistle followed by a roar, a mass of mud and debris and then a strange silence," he said. "My car was almost overturned but managed to hold the road. Then followed a heavy hail storm. Houses were laid open as if cut by a huge knife."

[illegible] Princeton, Ind. [illegible]

OHIO

Motion picture exhibitors of Princeton, Evansville, New Harmony and Mt. Vernon, Ohio, are aiding in the raising of relief funds for the horror stricken inhabitants of the territory in Southern Indiana which was visited by last Wednesday's death-dealing twister. The tornado [illegible] the little town of Griffin and left a vast [illegible] of death and destruction at [illegible] and Princeton.

No exhibitors and no theatres were caught in the path of the storm. There were only about 150 inhabitants of the little town of Griffin and they obtained their cinema entertainment at New Harmony and other larger towns nearby. [illegible] and at Princeton the twister did its damage in the extreme [illegible] portion — a section occupied by railroad shops, a [illegible] factory and small residences.

KENTUCKY

Although there was some little tornado damage done in Kentucky on March 18 when Indiana, Illinois and other states suffered severely, the damage in Kentucky was scattered and consisted principally of damage to isolated buildings which fell full prey to the storm. There was no city damage reported here or out in the state that amounted to anything and not a single report has been received of damage to any moving picture theatre in Kentucky.

CANADIAN PREFERRED'S OFFICERS

The personnel of the new organization, Preferred Pictures, Limited, an independent exchange with headquarters at Toronto, Ontario, has been announced. The president is [illegible] proprietor of the new [illegible] Theatre, Danforth avenue, Toronto. [illegible] a member of the Toronto City Council, is vice-president of the Ontario Division of the Canadian M. P. T. O. Tom Maguire, brother of ex-mayor Maguire of Toronto, is vice-president and the secretary-treasurer is Sam [illegible] who was prominent for years in the former [illegible] chain of theatres and exchanges in the Dominion. The managing director of Preferred Pictures is George Jeffrey, [illegible] Ontario for [illegible] and [illegible] general manager of the [illegible] Corporation.

BERLIN SUES ON COPYRIGHT

The [illegible] Theatre at [illegible], Ky., has been made a defendant in a suit brought by Irving Berlin, [illegible] that a copyrighted song of Berlin's, a member of the American Society of Composers, was played at a public performance in the theatre [illegible]. The suit is one of a series of such suits that have been filed and others are to be filed.

"FLU" HITS LOUISVILLE HOUSES

As a result of [illegible] attacks of influenza [illegible] the Louisville Health Department has [illegible] theatres [illegible] the railway company [illegible] persons [illegible] per week, the [illegible] being similar to that of [illegible] but not nearly as serious.

RED-HANDED CHICAGO CAPTURE

Four burglars [illegible] in the office of the Madison Square Theatre at [illegible] West Madison street, Chicago, where they had cracked a safe were captured after [illegible] fifteen policemen from the Austin avenue station. The burglars had used an [illegible] to open the safe door, and it was the [illegible] noise of the instrument which brought about their capture.

GUTHRIE HAS CITY CENSORS

A city censorship has been established at Guthrie, Okla., to censor moving pictures, plays and all public performances. Mrs. Mary [illegible], Mrs. N. M. Carter, Mrs. A. P. [illegible], J. H. Craven and C. F. Rush compose the board.

Selling Your Seats

Here's the newest style of treasure hunt for any picture.

How Hyman surrounded As Man Desires.

Makes Rag Man banner of old clothes.

Worked [illegible] for Janice Meredith.

Selling The Lost World in Philadelphia.

Stage wedding for Cheaper to Marry.

Sells So Big by contrast with Flaming Youth.

Uses [illegible] in office buildings.

Cinderella contest [illegible].

Another sales angle for Abraham Lincoln.

Peter Pan alligator had [illegible].

Got business women for Smouldering Fires.

Makes lobby banners from black roofing paper.

Local beauty sleeps in The Golden Bed.

Novelties to sell The Lost World.

Advertising examples on The Navigator, Locked Doors, Janice Meredith, Those Who Dance, The Inferno and Frivolous Sal.

[illegible]

Chicago Suburbs Fight For Open Sunday

The campaign to permit motion picture theatres to open on Sundays in Evanston and Oak Park, Ill., the big north side and west side suburbs of Chicago, is on in full blast and overshadows the political campaigns of the [illegible] the [illegible] candidates in both towns. The voters will go to the polls on April 7th to determine whether they will have Sunday movies or not.

In Evanston, several of the leading citizens have come out for Sunday shows, among them Prof. William L. Bailey of the Northwestern University who said that the Sabbath entertainment can be rigidly regulated and the shows given will be of benefit rather than a detriment to the Evanston folks.

If the Sunday movie wins in these towns it means that larger and better theatres will be opened by the big circuits which, it is said, plan to build in event of success at the polls of a liberal Sunday policy.

Incorporations

With six companies incorporating during the past week, the motion picture industry in New York State continues to show activity both in the number of companies seeking charters and in the amount of capitalization represented. The following gives the names of the companies formed the past week, the amount of capitalization and the names of the directors: Gaymus Corporation, $50,000, Bernard Novambre, W. C. Davison, B. Freyer, New York City. K. S. & B. Amusement Corporation, $25,000, M. E. Gossett, J. J. Bernstein, E. Sager, New York City. Lupino Lane Comedy Corporation, $100,000, I. M. Michelman, R. Liebhoff, A. J. Johnston, New York City. Paramount Picture School, Inc., with Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, New York City; Joseph Hergesheimer, West Chester, Pa. Benart Pictures, Inc., Henry H. Guttman, Hal Benedict, Arthur Robitschek, New York City. Re-Ward Amusement Company, Inc., H. Hernbran, H. Lewis, P. Schwartz, New York City, the capitalization of the last three companies not being specified.

Hammons to Build 20 Theatres All Exclusively for Short Subjects

Educational President Broadcasts from Los Angeles His Intention to Inaugurate a "Vaudeville of Screen Entertainment"

THAT he is planning to build twenty theatres throughout the United States to inaugurate the "Vaudeville of Screen Entertainment," was announced publicly by E. W. Hammons, president of Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., in a talk which he made to radio fans from the Warner Bros. west coast broadcasting station KFWB as part of the Mermaid Comedy night program on Monday, March 17th.

Hammons' announcement of his plans to build theatres to run short subjects exclusively came at the close of a talk on his experiences in the short subject field.

"I have been asked to say a few words regarding the short reel subjects," said Hammons in his radio talk. "A few years ago the motion picture exhibitors considered all short subjects as merely fillers or chasers, meaning by this, that they were only used on their programs to fill in enough time to give a complete performance for their patrons and to empty the theatre between showings of the feature; it did not matter to them what the quality of these subjects were, if they were one or two reels of film they were fillers, nothing more.

"I could see no reason why these short subjects should not be made just as important to the exhibitor and the public as his so-called feature picture, and they should be selected with the same care and attention as he gave to selecting his feature subject. The theatre patrons were paying to see a complete diversified evening's program, which should be a balanced one so far as quality was concerned. With this idea firmly implanted in my mind I started an organization known as Educational Films Corporation of America, which was solely a producing organization. In addition to producing, from the available material I endeavored to select the very best Short Subjects, which at that time consisted mostly of scenics and travelogue pictures. There is a distinction between a scenic and a travelogue picture, though at that time they were considered the same. A scenic picture is one on which the director has spent many weeks of hardships in seeking out the wonder spots of nature that he might photograph them and have them projected on the screen for your amusement, whereas a travelogue picture is one that has usually been photographed in a foreign country, or in some city in America, as the case might be, that will depict the habits and customs of these places and people. And I might add here that of all the pictures that have been and are shown on the screen, I know of none that have done or will do as much as these subjects can to bring about a better understanding of the problems of the different nations of the world. Unfortunately, these scenics and travelogue subjects have not received and are not now receiving the proper support of the theatres, and in a few years more, it looks as if they will completely disappear from the screen.

"Another Short Subject, the two-reel comedy: Contrary to all predictions that it was suicidal to try to build a world-wide organization to distribute nothing but so-called Short Subjects, we have conclusively proven that if the quality was there, there was a demand for such pictures. At the time I organized Educational there was a scarcity of good two-reel comedies on the market, and from the scenics and travelogues which we were handling almost exclusively, we added to our program the two-reel and one-reel comedies. Branching into this I then organized the Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., and opened 36 exchanges or branch offices in the so-called key centers of the United States and Canada as distributing centers.

"In taking on the comedies which are distributed under this banner (The Spice of the Program), namely the Mermaid Comedies, Hamilton Comedies, Christie Comedies, Larry Semon Comedies, Tuxedo Comedies, Juvenile Comedies, Cameo Comedies and others, I make it my business to see that they are pictures such as the public would want and approve of: they are clean and wholesome, devoid of anything that would offend your wives and children. I believe that comedies can be made funny without being offensive.

"It may be interesting to you who are listening in to know that the comedies we release take from four to six weeks to produce and proportionately to feature pictures they are more expensive. We have gathered what we believe the very best producing brains that we could find to make these pictures and no efforts have been spared to make them truly "The Spice of the Program."

"At the present time I am planning to build twenty theatres throughout the United States to run and feature Short Subjects exclusively —and inaugurate the 'Vaudeville of Screen Entertainment' for your pleasure.

"In conclusion, if my efforts to furnish clean and wholesome short reel entertainment for you have met with your approval, I am amply rewarded. I thank you."

CECIL DE MILLE HEADS BANK

Through the action of the board of directors of the Culver City Commercial and Savings Bank, Cecil B. De Mille now holds the additional distinction of being a bank president. De Mille was elected to the presidency of the Culver City bank this week, after it had been bought by the Ameri Commercial Corporation Holding Company for the Bank of America and the Commercial National Bank of Los Angeles, in which De Mille is interested and now holds the office of vice-president.

Standing Room in Mass. Prohibited

Standees in all theatres in Massachusetts, with the exception of those within the city of Boston, no longer will be permitted, according to an order issued by Alfred A. Foote, state commissioner of public safety, who has jurisdiction over all theatres outside of Boston.

The order not only prohibits persons from standing in the foyer between the back row of seats and the rear wall, but also forbids persons from standing in lobbies "when there are no seats for sale." This, of course, means that there must be no more crowding of lobbies during seat sales.

Ohio Jurists Will Pass on Merits of Noted Film

Probably one of the most distinguished movie audiences ever assembled before a screen in the State of Ohio, is to be composed of Supreme Court justices. The place of exhibition has not as yet been definitely decided. It will, however, be either the Ohio Supreme courtroom or the offices of the Division of Film Censorship. The film selected for this occasion is "The Birth of a Nation," which is having a "return showing by special request."

The picture in question has had anything but easy sailing in Ohio. It first was barred from exhibition within the State by Governor Frank B. Willis ten years ago. It was then permitted to be shown for a short time under the gubernatorial incumbency of James M. Cox, but later, when Governor Harry L. Davis took his oath of office, he forthwith announced that there was nothing doing insofar as this particular picture was concerned, and what's more, there has been nothing doing ever since, notwithstanding the fact that Davis has long since surrendered the office to his successors. An appeal has now been filed by the Epoch Production Co. of New York from the ruling of Educational Director Vernon M. Riegel, barring the picture from Ohio. The petition in error declares that Director Riegel abused his discretionary power in refusing to approve the picture for exhibition. An answer to the petition, filed by Attorney-General C. C. Crabbe, alleges that Director Riegel acted within his discretionary authority in barring the film on the ground that it was not of a moral, educational or amusing nature, but of a harmful character.

Until the "picture show" is given before the above mentioned distinguished audience, who will officially pass on the film, exhibitors are maintaining a policy of watchful waiting.

Hays Announces "Open Door" Policy for Film Industry

"WE are striving to make the most of the industry's possibilities as an educator and an interpreter of America as it really is, as well as the nation's principal entertainment," comments Will H. Hays in announcing an "open door" policy in the motion picture industry.

"The distinctive characteristics of the new 'open door' policy is that we invite every organization of every description in either this country or any other country which is interested in public betterment, to designate an authoritative representative who will be its contact with the motion picture industry—invited at all times to come in through our 'open door' and tell us of improvements which might be made in having the motion picture more responsive to its public service obligation, and how we can co-operate with them."

This decision was reached by the M. P. P. D. A. through its committee on public relations. Jason S. Joy has beenselected to direct this new department which will have its headquarters also at 469 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Theatre Building in Detroit This Season Set for Record

FROM all indications, Detroit theatrical interests are going to build new theatres that will exceed other seasons by at least $2,000,000 in total expenditures. Reports from cities, towns and small communities throughout the State also indicate that exhibitors in Michigan are going to keep pace with their city brothers. A resume of Spring building plans shows the following taking place in and near Detroit:

The New State and the Chicago theatres being erected by the Kunsky-Balaban and Katz interests. One to seat 3,000, the other to seat 5,000. Both located in the heart of downtown Detroit. Costs will run into several millions.

The new 3,000-seat house being erected by C. W. Munz at Grand River and Joy Road. Steel work now up and prospects good for an opening in the fall.

At Woodward and the Six-Mile Boulevard, David Nederlander is erecting a theatre to seat about 2,500 and costing in the neghborhood of a million. The location is looked upon as one of the best in the northern section.

On Fenkell avenue, two new theatres are partly under construction, one under the supervision of Samuel Brown.

Joseph Cosco a few days ago opened his new Tivoli Theatre on Woodward avenue. Other smaller houses are the New Roosevelt, seating 1,800, and the new Franklin, both in the eastern section of the city, which will open during the summer.

In Dearborn, the suburban home of Henry Ford, two big houses, seating in the neighborhood of 3,000, are under way and will be ready for fall openings.

In the State there will be a new Fitzpatrick & McElroy house in Alpena, a new community theatre in Manistee, a new theatre by the Butterfield interests in Flint.

Warners Announce Affiliation with 75 Theatres

Announcing that twenty-six of the best pictures ever turned out by a producing company would be made by Warner Bros. during the 1925-26 season, and stating that affiliation had been made with 75 theatres in territory controlled by monopolies, Harry M. Warner returned to the New York office of the company this week.

He immediately made it known that he and Sam Warner will hereafter look after the theatrical end of the company; Jack Warner will be in entire charge of the West Coast production, with Bennie Ziedman as his assistant, and Abe Warner will attend to the inside business of the firm.

"I am not going into details now about the theatrical end," Mr. Warner said. "Suffice to say that I have not been travelling around the country the last year for nothing. I cannot put it too strongly that we do not intend to enter into active competition with exhibitors where our product is getting a show, but with our organization set for the biggest year in its history, we intend to insure first runs for our product.

"We are going to have theatres where they are needed or where monopolies control. We are now associated with about 75 houses, and our next point of attack will be Chicago, where we will open an office."

SMITH-CADWELL RE-INCORPORATE

Hamilton Smith and Arthur A. Cadwell, both pioneers in the industry, announce that they have incorporated under the laws of North Carolina the Asheville Motion Pictures Corporation. The certificate of incorporation places the finances at the disposal of the new organization in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, they say. It will be recalled that these two producers made pictures starring Dorothy Mackaill, Wydnham Standing and others which were distributed by Pathe under the Smith-Cadwell banner.

Roxbury Projectionists Settle Lengthy Strike

The twenty-one weeks' strike of union motion picture projectionists and musicians at the Niagara Theatre in Roxbury, Mass., has been settled to the satisfaction of all parties concerned, according to an announcement by James F. Burke, business agent of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union of Boston.

The strike was caused by the alleged refusal of the theatre management to pay the new wage scale of the allied theatres of the city of Boston, which became effective last October. This increased the weekly wages of the projectionists from $51 a week to $56.10 for a six and one-half-day week.

N. J. LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS

The New Jersey State Legislature adjourned its session last week without taking action on a Sunday opening bill, covering motion picture theatres, but it was stated at a meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of New Jersey, held in Newton, that as a result of the intensive work done by the Legislative Committee of the state organization the foundation had been laid for future efforts to bring about Sunday opening and it was thought that at the next session of the Legislature definite action may be had.

WILL H. HAYS AT THE WARNER BROS. STUDIOS
The Director-General of the M. P. P. D. A. recently visited Hollywood. In this group, from left to right, are: Jack Warner, Ernst Lubitsch, Mr. Hays, H. M. Warner and Sam Warner.

First Session of Albany Zone, N. Y. M. P. T. O., Well Attended

WITH the report of Louis Buettner, of Cohoes, chairman of the arbitration committee, as the outstanding feature of the meeting, motion picture exhibitors from as far north as Lake Placid and Saranac Lake, members of the Albany Zone Committee, met at the Zone headquarters in Albany on March 23 for a general discussion of matters that have arisen since the zone committee was formed in January. Meyer Schine, of Gloversville, presided. Four women exhibitors were among those present, these being Betty Feuer, of the Crescent, in Schenectady; Mrs. A. E. Milligan, of Schuylerville; Mrs. Elizabeth Walton, of the Happy Hour in Lake Placid and Gertrude Myers, of the Grand in Scotia and the Star in Schenectady.

The business meeting was preceded by a luncheon at the Hotel Kenmore. Louis Buettner, of Cohoes, was elected secretary of the Albany Zone Committee, to succeed Benjamin Apple, of Troy, who resigned. Walter Hays, of Buffalo, president of the New York State M. P. T. O., was unable to be present but in a letter which was read at the meeting, complimented the Zone upon its progress and declared that both Buffalo and the New York Zones will be obliged to "step some" in order to keep pace.

"Don't become easymarks," said Buettner, "through the pleadings of film salesmen. Don't let them induce you to buy on the plea that 'they haven't sold anything this week,' etc. We are all booking too many pictures at a time. Remember that you pay for them or play them.

"Send in your complaints to the Zone Committee. We can not get you out of all predicaments, but remember above everything else, in booking pictures, to watch out for number one and do not book too many pictures. The outlook is that the independents will make a lot of good pictures next year."

Robert Wagner, of the Gateway in Little Falls, took up the—cudgels declaring that when an exhibitor appears before the Film Board of Trade looking for an adjustment, he should bring every bit of evidence and information available, and that hearsay evidence is of no value. Mr. Wagner cautioned the exhibitors to keep a copy of all correspondence with exchanges and to invest in a typewriter rather than to pencil a few notations on the back of an envelope.

At this juncture, C. H. Moyer, a wide-awake exhibitor in Herkimer, inquired just how many breeds of contracts there were. Ben Davis, of Gloversville, addressing the exhibitor, declared that the best remedy for evils was an organization of exhibitors, and besought those present to go out and ask other exhibitors in their neighborhood to join the committee.

L. L. Connors, with theatres in Salem, Granville and Cambridge, brought up the matter of C. O. D.'s, declaring that exhibitors should have the same credit extended them as is given men in other lines of business. Connors said that if exhibitors were found who could not be trusted by the exchanges, that a list should be published of such persons, and given to each exchange and that reputable exhibitors should not be forced to spend money on C. O. D.'s by reason of the fact that there were a few who would not pay their bills unless forced through films being sent on the C. O. D. basis.

In all probability, the Albany Zone Committee will meet monthly from now on. President Schine will shortly name a committee to adopt by-laws and agree upon the frequency with which meetings should be held.

There is a proposition under foot which may result in the Albany Zone being further zoned under the key-city idea. This would mean that an exhibitor would be named in each city or each locality, who could be quickly reached by wire or otherwise, where quick action was needed, and who would in turn quickly notify all other exhibitors in his section. In closing the meeting, Buettner again impressed it upon those present that in buying pictures, they should exercise all care and judgment and above all they should know the real meaning of the contract which they sign.

Montreal Censors Seem Overloaded

Exhibitors and exchange managers of Montreal, Quebec, are hard pressed to carry on the usual operations of the moving picture business, all because of the Quebec Board of Moving Picture Censors.

The declaration has been made that the Quebec Censor Board has got so far behind in its work that, on a certain recent date, there were no less than 43 moving picture features in the vaults at the censor bureau waiting to be examined by the Quebec censor officials. The claim has been made that the Quebec censors are taking their time in passing upon the productions, with the result that both exchanges and exhibitors are put to a great deal of worry. A number of houses use six features every week and the whole available supply is needed to meet this demand.

Cohen Would "Rest on Laurels" as Regards M. P. T. O. A. Chair

SYDNEY S. COHEN this week issued the following statement in which he expresses his own sentiments regarding reports for him again heading the M. P. T. O. A.:

"Convention time always brings with it a lot of rumors about who will be President or who won't be, and the Milwaukee Convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America this year seems to be no exception.

"I thoroughly enjoyed the four years I was President of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America because of the opportunity it afforded me to render service to the theatre owners in particular and the industry in general. I feel I have contributed sufficiently along these lines to be permited to devote my time and attention to the furtherance of my own business interests. I took my duties as President very seriously and conscientiously. It meant a lot of hard work and other things, but the many fine real friendships and acquaintances I have made all over this country, Canada and abroad, among theatre owners and others, are more than sufficient compensation for all of this. I have had more than my share of honors in national, state and local exhibitor organizations, and I feel that at this time I should be permitted to 'rest on my laurels.' I believe I can be of better service to the industry along other lines.

"The only elections by the delegates to a national convention are the members of the Board of Directors, who in turn choose the President and all other officers. There are a great many wonderful fellows, fine, loyal organization men and leaders among the present officers of the organization and in our ranks throughout the land, who have devoted their time, effort and personal service to the cause of the theatre owner, who are worthy in every way of being President of our Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, and who can fittingly carry on.

"However, most of us are a great deal more interested at this time in the grave business problems that confront the theatre owners and other independents, and our constructive effort and thought are being given to them rather than to lesser matters. Milwaukee will have a greater attendance of theatre owners and others interested in the industry, both from America and abroad, than any other convention, and our co-ordinated strength and power will be a big forward step toward bringing needed relief for all independents."

Boston Film Blast Starts Civil Suits for Over $200,000

Suits aggregating more than $200,000 have been filed in Suffolk Sounty Superior Civil Court, Boston, against the Famous-Players Lasky Corporation and John F. Bowditch of Boston as a result of the explosion in a trolley car in the Tremont street subway on the afternoon of January 3. A score of men and women, occupants of the car, suffered burns and other injuries. Each of the two defendants is being sued by the various plaintiffs in similar amounts.

An indictment has been returned against Timothy Doherty, employee of the Famous-Players exchange, who is alleged to have permitted James Shirley to take the scrap film. Doherty was indicted on two counts, one alleging that he unlawfully delivered the film clippings to Shirley and John F. Bowditch, knowing it to be of an explosive nature, and the other that he allowed the scrap film to be taken from the exchange. Another indictment is that against John C. Bowditch, named in the civil actions as John F. Bowditch, and James Shirley, alleging that they unlawfully transported the film clippings.

Fox Abandons Program Pictures; All Specials on 1925-26 Schedule

Shirley Mason and Edmund Lowe to Be Presented as Leading Players Under the New Plan—Two in Production

WILLIAM FOX will release only special productions in the theatrical season 1925-26, which commences next August. Coupled with this statement authorized by the producer, who is now in Los Angeles, is the converse and significant statement that Fox will make no program pictures for next year. These facts are not only of great importance to exhibitors playing Fox product but they carry a deeper significance. They say, in brief, that Wiliam Fox has graduated from program pictures. The process of evolution which has been going on in the output from this, one of the very largest producing companies in the entire motion picture industry, has reached its culmination point with this statement sounding the knell of the small program product.

It has not been hard to prophesy that Fox was about through with program pictures. Increasingly in each successive year for the past five or six years he has made more and more of the larger productions known as special attractions, and less each year of the small pictures cut to the accepted program standard.

Fox, always an independent since his early advent into the picture business, was a pioneer many years ago in making big productions. These were more or less isolated attempts—every year or two—stupendous affairs for the period in which they were produced and milestones in production adventuring. More latterly these large productions have multiplied and become of more frequent occurrence on the Fox schedule. About five years ago one amusement season saw Fox Film Corporation sponsor "Over the Hill," "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" and "Queen of Sheba."

Since that time Mr. Fox has year after year made more big pictures and less small ones—"Monte Cristo," "The Silent Command" and "If Winter Comes" being outstanding successful examples of his big pictures. Now the climax: Fox is through with program pictures. His next season's output lists only specials.

The statement authorizing this announcement reveals that Shirley Mason and Edmund Lowe, who are still under the Fox contract, will be presented as leading players in the important roles of special productions. These artists have been recently presented under the Fox banner as stars in respective series of program pictures.

Mr. Fox himself is now in Hollywood where he has been for some months personally superintending production at his West Coast studios. Here some of the biggest and most important of the pictures to be released next season are already under way, including several made from the John Golden stage successes to be released as members of the John Golden Unit of Clean American Pictures, which productions will be an important part of the Fox product for the new season. Among these, "Lightnin'" and "Seventh Heaven" have already been started and "The First Year" is in course of active preparation. "Havoc," the successful stage drama of London social life based on war conditions; "Lazybones," the New York stage success of the current season; "Marriage," H. G. Wells' first work to be presented upon the screen—these and a number of others are being made ready to join "The Iron Horse," "The Fool" and "As No Man Has Loved" (the new title bestowed on "The Man Without a Country") as big guns of the company's broadside to set booming when the new season starts.

Minister Raps Blues

Exhibitors, newspapers and scores of individuals having taken "shots" at Missouri's Sunday closing bill, an attack now has been launched from the pulpit by a minister recognized as Kansas City's leading pastor—Dr. Burris A. Jenkins of the First Christian Church.

"We cannot fill the churches by passing blue laws. We have got to fill them by making religion the gracious thing that Jesus made it," he said.

THREE N. Y. TOWNS CLOSE SUNDAY

Three Western New York towns have put the stamp of disapproval on the exhibition of motion pictures on Sunday. The proposition of allowing pictures on the Sabbath was defeated in Westfield, N. Y., at the annual election in a referendum. A total of 1,159 votes were cast, with 613 being against Sunday pictures and 535 in favor of them. It was a close victory for the antis. Newark, N. Y., proved concisely that it did not want Sunday pictures by voting down the proposition, 1,000 to 309. Waterloo, N. Y., voters cast 915 votes against the exhibition of Sunday movies.

Sam Taylor Signed to Direct First Lloyd-Paramount Film

SAM TAYLOR will direct Harold Lloyd in his first production for Famous Players-Lasky release. Taylor has been connected with the Lloyd organization for five years and has been co-director of all the comedian's feature pictures for the past two and a half years. With the recent completion of Lloyd's last production for Pathe, Taylor was chosen to direct the first Harold Lloyd picture to be released through Paramount. His new contract with Harold Lloyd Productions is for one picture only.

SAM TAYLOR

Taylor is one of the youngest of the successful directors on the West Coast, being still in his twenties. He made his entrance into the industry with the old Kalem company and was at one time scenario writer for Vitagraph when the late George Randolph Chester was scenario chief. He joined Harold Lloyd when the comedian was making his last short reel subjects, and has been connected with him continuously, first as gag man, then as author and finally as author and co-director, during Lloyd's phenomenal rise to popularity.

Among the pictures which he co-directed are "Grandma's Boy," "Safety Last," "Why Worry," "Hot Water" and the untitled college story which has just been completed.

Heavier Postal Rates

Under the increased postage rates, recently decreed at Washington, the heaviest single item of additional tax is the two cents service charge on all parcel post packages. There is also the doubling of the present one-cent rate of postage on private mailing and picture postcards. These two items alone will aid considerably in procuring the additional $60,000,000 revenue for which the new rates are created.

N. D. DOWNS SUNDAY OPTION

The bill in North Dakota intended to institute a system of local option regarding Sunday closing of moving picture shows was killed in the state senate at Bismarck, North Dakota last week.

Hot Legislative Tilt Swings N. Y. Into Censorship for Another Year

Committee Kills Hackenburg Bill—Walker Delay Assured—Tight Party Lines—Vote Against Smith's Appointee

NEW YORK STATE will have motion picture censorship for at least another year. The bill introduced in the New York State Legislature several weeks ago, calling for the abolishment of the motion picture commission on June 30, and the repeal of censorship, died in committee on Wednesday noon, March 25, following an attempt by Assemblyman Frederick L. Hackenburg, of New York City, introducer of the measure, to have the bill reported out of committee.

By a vote of eight to seven, a motionto report favorably the Governor's appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth V. Colbert,of Albany, as a member of the New York State Motion Picture Commission, was downed in the Senate Finance Committee at the State Capitol on March 24, the action precipitating the biggest fight marking the closing days of the New York State Legislature.

No sooner had the Senate Finance Committee, to which Mrs. Colbert's nomination had been referred nearly seven weeks ago, reported its action than Senator James J. Walker, the Democratic minority leader, laid plans to force a vote on the confirmation of Mrs. Colbert's appointment on the floor of the house. Three Republicans voted with four Democrats in favor of reporting favorably on Mrs. Colbert's appointment.

It is claimed that Mrs. Colbert is not eligible to appointment to the commission and a position which pays $7,500 a year because of allegations that she was not favorable to censorship and had opposed it in the past. The New York Civic League also entered in the situation, charging that her attitude on the question of censorship had not been such as to warrant her appointment.

By a strict party vote, with the Republicans lining up to a man against the bill being reported out of committee, and with the Democrats united on the bill, Assemblyman Hackenburg went down to defeat by a vote of ninety to fifty, a few of the members not being present at the time. In view of the fact that party lines were sharply drawn, even more so than in past years when there was some breaking away by Republicans, there seems absolutely no chance of the Walker bill calling for a repeal of censorship being reported out of committee on the Senate side of the legislature. This year, the Senate is also Republican in Majority and the last two days of the sessions finds party lines closely drawn and with little or no leverage or breaking away.

Assemblyman Hackenburg's attempt to bring forth his bill from committee, was the feature of Wednesday's session. As he arose and started to speak, a silence settled over the Assembly Chamber and there was a rush from other parts of the Capitol by persons anxious to know the outcome. Canon William S. Chase, the well-known reformer, was on the ground.

Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond, of Saratoga County, a Republican, speaking against the bill being reported out of committee, declared that the women of New York State were against the repeal of motion picture censorship and then added: "We can well trust the sensibility of the women in this matter."

Continuing Esmond said: "The move to repeal motion picture censorship in New York State comes from just one source, the managers of the business who want to be free to place before the public any sort of a motion picture that is profitable."

Assemblyman Hackenburg replied by saying that the motion picture business, which has grown so that it is today the third largest business in the United States had reached the point where it is fully well able to take care of itself.

"The women in my district," said Assemblyman Hackenburg, "the working women, and housewives, the women who wash dishes and raise families, are not interested in all this. Mr. Esmond means that small group of women who have nothing to do except tend their poodle dogs and fuss with the affairs of the Republican party."

Assemblyman Esmond jumped to his feet and in a voice that could be heard throughout the entire chamber, asked if there were not "poodle tending women" in the Democratic party?

"We have nuisances in our party," yelled back Assemblyman Hackenburg, "but we don't pay as much attention to them as you do in your party."

Assemblyman Walter F. Clayton, of Brooklyn, whose bill back in 1921 brought about motion picture censorship in New York State, spoke briefly saying that the censorship law as it existed was in the interests of the children of the State who could not legislate for themselves and their parents.

"Many of the producers," says Assemblyman Clayton, "would subsidize the soul of your daughter and send her to hell for the sake of a few dollars."

Assemblyman Bloch, Democratic leader in the lower house, was emphatic in his declaration that there were sufficient laws on the statute books in New York State to punish producers putting out improper pictures.

Assemblyman F. Trubee Davison, of Nassau County, Republican and author of the Davison bill of a year ago, which called for a repeal of censorship, also spoke.

Managers Escaped

Steve Farrar, of Harrisburg, Ill., writes that he made a tour of the tornado devastated districts in Illinois the day following. As he accompanied the Grand Master of Masons in the State of Illinois, he was able to make a complete tour of the district without hindrance. He writes in part:

"I was in Murphysboro, West Frankfort and other towns. No one can tell you how these towns look. It will take them years to recover. As luck would have it, not a theatre or theatre man's family in any of the towns was hurt. There was no show at De Soto, but West Frankfort has four and Murphysboro two, but they were all out of the direct path of the blow. Our towns (Harrisburg and Eldorado) did not even have a high wind. The shows at Murphysboro belong to the Marlow Circuit, of Herrin, and the ones at West Frankfort belong to the Reid, Yemm and Hays Circuit, of Du Quoin."

SYRACUSE KILLS FEE BILL

The committee on politics and licensing will have to draw a new ordinance regulating motion picture theatre license fees in Syracuse. After haggling over the one presented to the common council for this year's fees, for four weeks, the original ordinance was killed in council the past week.

$3,500 TAMPA HAUL

The safe of the Victory Theatre, Tampa, Fla., of the Consolidated circuit was blown by bandits who secured almost $3,500 and made their escape. The theatre management was protected by insurance who made payment of the loss the same day as it was reported.

DATES FOR PA. CONVENTION

The M. P. T. O. of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia will hold its fifth annual convention in the George Washington Hotel, Washington, Pa., on April 21-22-23.

POLICE WATCH FOUR THEATRES

A temporary police censorship has been provided for four Kansas City legitimate theatres—the Empress, Gayety, Twelfth Street and Gillis. All are burlesque houses. The police censorship followed a "clean-up" campaign by a group of ministers.

KANSAS UNAFRAID OF HICK'S BILL

Although a measure introduced last week in the Missouri legislature by Representative William Hicks of Kansas City is decidedly detrimental to exhibitors of Kansas City and St. Louis—a measure pertaining to license fees for theatrical performances—exhibitors of Kansas City are expressing little fear of the passage of the bill, due to the fact that it smacks too much of class legislation to become a law.

BIECHELE SUGGESTS KANSAS CITY

R. R. Biechele, president of the M. P. T. O. of Kansas and Missouri has sent a letter to members of the board of directors requesting that they consider Kansas City, rather than Excelsior Springs, Mo., as the place for the organization's convention on May 4-5.

Meador Joins Producers' Ranks; Resigns from Metro-Goldwyn

J. E. D. MEADOR, for seven years prominently identified with the motion picture industry as one of the leading forces in the publicity, advertising and exploitation fields, announced his resignation from Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corporation this week to enter production.

Mr. Meador's production plans have been under way for some time, and while he leaves Metro-Goldwyn with the good wishes and the regrets of Marcus Loew and the entire organization, his entrance into the production field is not a surprise, as he has been responsible for some of the screen's biggest successes having been filmed.

Blasco Ibanez's "Queen Calafia," published recently and his most popular book, will be Mr. Meador's first production. This will be followed by "The Fifth Horseman," a sequel by Ibanez to his "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." Mr. Meador's third production will be chosen from one of the numerous successful Ibanez works which he controls or from a published work not yet decided upon.

It was "Jack" Meador's introduction of Blasco Ibanez to Marcus Loew and Richard A. Rowland, then president of Metro, that led to the production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Mr. Meador sold Ibanez's "Blood and Sand" to Famous Players-Lasky. It was made into one of Rudolph Valentino's most successful starring pictures. Mr. Meador also disposed of Ibanez's "Enemies of Women" to William Randolph Heart's Cosmopolitan Corporation, and to the same company two other Ibanez works, "The Temptress" and "The Torrent," which have not yet been produced.

Other Ibanez novels which Mr. Meador controls and from which his third production may be selected are "The Cabin," "La Bodega" (Fruit of the Vine), "the Mayflower" and "Sonica."

The initial production of "Queen Calafia" will be produced on an elaborate scale. One of the most prominent directors in the industry has been placed under contract by Mr. Meador and the cast will be composed of celebrated players. Further announcement will be made shortly.

"Queen Calafia," like Mr. Meador's other productions, will be made in the East. The story is laid in California and modern Madrid.

Marcus Loew, in expressing his regret at Mr. Meador's resignation, said: "Mr. Meador leaves us with the best wishes of myself personally and of the whole organization he has been so prominently identified with during the building up of Metro. His energetic efforts for Metro's success have borne fruit during the seven years he has been with the company, and while we are sorry to have him end his association with us, I feel sure that his wide experience, his contact with the public and with exhibitors, and his knowledge of box-office values in motion pictures, will ensure him great success in the field of production which he is entering."

J. E. D. Meador was prominent in newspaper and magazine work before entering the picture field. His newspaper career began following his graduation from Culver Military Academy and the University of Chicago. He was identified with the Chicago Record-Herald, the Chicago Tribune, New York World, New York Sun and New York Herald.

Before the war Mr. Meador was vice-president and general manager of the Internation Newspaper Syndicate, with headquarters in Paris. In 1914-15 he was war correspondent at the front for the New York Times and later for the London Times.

Mr. Meador, in announcing his production plans, stated: "The record of Blasco Ibanez as a writer of the outstanding popular successes both in literature and in motion pictures is well known to the industry. Ibanez's stories, 'The Four Horsemen,' 'Enemies of Women,' 'Blood and Sand,' rank among the biggest box-office hits the business has seen. 'Queen Calafia,' I am confident, will take its place with these, as will 'The Fifth Horseman.' I intend to give exhibitors pictures made by the best directors, with casts whose names mean money at the box-office."

J. E. D. MEADOR

Trans-Canada Houses Acquired by F. P. L. Is Latest Report

An important addition has been made to the holdings of Famous Players Canadian Corp., Limited, Toronto, through the reported acquisition of the chain of theatres in Ontario, formerly operated by Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, Montreal. The first move toward the securing of this chain of some 10 theatres has been made at London, Ontario, where the Grand Theatre has been acquired. Negotiations for the control of this property were made when Clarence Robson of Toronto, supervisor of theatres for Famous Players, paid off a mortgage of $40,000 on the London Grand which was held by the London Loan and Savings Corporation. Following this recent incident, announcement was made that the Trans-Canada houses "have come under the ownership of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation." It has also been stated publicly that one who has been acting for Famous Players in the deal was Alfred Maguire, former mayor of the City of Toronto.

It is officially announced that J. R. Minhinnick, manager of the Grand at London for the past 14 years, would continue to have charge of the theatre under the direction of Famous Players. Minhinnick is one of the best known theatre men in Canada. He was first a manager under the late A. J. Small, of Toronto, who disappeared five years ago. When Small was bought out by Trans-Canada, Mr. Minhinnick became general manager of theatres for Trans-Canada and continued to manage the London Grand.

The Trans-Canada theatres are scattered throughout Ontario. The one at London was built in 1900 and was purchased by the late A. J. Small in 1907. Although it is an old structure, the theatre has been remodeled and is attractive in appearance. Famous Players already have the Capitol Theatre in London, the manager of which is Tom Logan. Famous Players secured the Capitol when the corporation purchased the assets of Allan Theatres, Limited, Toronto, the house having been built as an Allen Theatre. This purchase took place about three years ago.

New Hal Roach-Pathe Contract Involves $15,000,000 in Pictures

PATHE and Hal Roach have signed a contract covering production and distribution which is effective for a period of two years.

The two-year agreement between the production and distribution organizations involve $15,000,000. Its terms provide that Hal Roach shall make a minimum of 96 and a maximum of 104 two-reel comedies during that period. In order to do this it is estimated that the cost of the two-reel subjects in themselves will run into $9,600,000.

Of the two-reel subjects there will be five series. They are the Charley Chase series, the Glenn Tryon series, Clyde Cook series, "Our Gang," and the Hal Roach Star series. The latter series will carry no permanent feature names but will feature various players of the Hal Roach stock company.

In addition to the two-reelers, the Hal Roach organization will also make twenty-six single-reel comedies and about two or three feature-length productions a year.

The contract was closed between the Hal Roach organization and Elmer Pearson, vice-president and general manager of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., who has been on the coast for several months outlining the future releasing product.

The first feature-length picture to be delivered following the renewal of contract is "Black Cyclone." This production features the famous horse star Rex and is a follow-up picture to the recently released production, entitled "King of Wild Horses" that has met with such unusual success throughout the country.

Associated Exhibitors Elects Woody; Radical Policy Changes Are Planned

General Manager Succeeds Arthur S. Kane, Resigned—Twenty-four Pictures for Next Season, Three Delivery Dates

J. S. WOODY

J. S. WOODY has been elected president of the Associated Exhibitors, succeeding Arthur S. Kane, who recently became affiliated with Universal. The election was held last Wednesday at a meeting of stockholders in the company's general offices, 35 West 45th street, New York City.

Jay A. Gove, sales manager, succeeded Mr. Woody as secretary of the company. Walter N. Seligsberg was re-elected assistant secretary and C. Bardet was re-elected assistant treasurer. The office of treasurer, vacated by the resignation of Roy Crawford, whose stock Mr. Woody has purchased, was not filled.

The new administration, according to an authorized statement, proposes several radical changes in policy, these having to do both with production and distribution. The method, heretofore followed, of working on a picture-to-picture basis, both with respect to the acquisition and releasing of product, is to give way to the broader plan of handling productions in units of eight. Next season's plans have already been arranged on this basis, except for a few minor details. Productions have been contracted for three delivery dates, namely June, September and January, making twenty-four pictures in all.

It is expected that all of the fall product will be ready for screening and exhibition substantially at the time fall selling starts. The same condition is planned for the winter, spring and summer units, the idea being to fortify exhibitors with advance product without necessitating their buying blindly.

"It has been my experience," Mr. Woody explains, "that there is considerable objection to block buying and particularly to that form of block buying which results from offering thirty or forty proposed pictures upon the showing of three or four as 'samples.' It was not practical, of course, for an organization like ours, which does no direct producing, to have a season's output all prepared in advance and ready for screening, with press book and accessories on hand, at the time when selling began. I decided, therefore, to offer the season's output in three groups of eight pictures each, to have each eight ready in advance of the selling season and to ask exhibitors to buy solely on a basis of the value that could be shown in the completed film. There may be some better and safe way of avoiding 'blue sky' selling, but if there is I have not yet discovered it."

Mr. Woody is the third president of Associated Exhibitors, which is now in its fifth year, having been organized on February 8, 1921. Samuel Harding, the first president, held office for one year, being succeeded by Mr. Kane, who had a three-year tenure.

The new executive's connection with Associated Exhibitors began in June, 1923, when he was appointed general manager. Subsequently in August of that year he became a director and secretary of the corporation, the latter office being relinquished yesterday upon his election to the presidency.

Mr. Woody's experience in motion pictures dates back to General Film days when he was an exchange manager at Seattle. He has held the positions of vice-president and general manager of Selznick and general manager of Realart, in addition to a similar post at Associated, and has been actively and prominently identified with distribution and production throughout his whole career.

During the past two years a great deal of his time has been given to production problems. When he took over the reins at Associated Exhibitors he found the selling organization handicapped by shortage of product. His responsibilities were materially increased about a year ago when Mr. Kane moved to Los Angeles and virtually withdrew from active executive work for Associated Exhibitors. He soon found that his task of formulating a production program was by no means completed when he had signed contracts with producers for the pictures which he needed.

"We were in a peculiar position," the official statement explains. "The quantity of product was insufficient to meet distribution requirements. Obviously it was up to me to increase the quantity. Accomplishing this without sacrificing quality, or without actually involving the organization in production activities, was a serious problem. However, the solution was found in our present system of contracting for pictures, subject to approval of stories, continuities, directors, casts and expenditures.

"As matters have worked out I devote considerably more time to the details of production than to the promotion of sales. I suppose I give the work practically as many hours a day as I would if we had a production department of our own. As a consequence, Associated Exhibitors, within the past year, has come to be regarded as one of the largest and best outlets available to independent producers. It has, within this period, taken over seventy-seven releases from Selznick, former numerous new producer alignments and very materially increased its weekly gross."

The policy with respect to production, it is announced, will be to strive for a high-grade of individual pictures. These will provide good star, cast, story and director values, but on a reasonable cost basis which can insure profits to exhibitor, distributor and producer.

"I would like to have it understood," Mr. Woody says, "that although our program is set for the coming season, I am ready at all times to negotiate with responsible producers who are willing to make pictures on a sane and reasonable basis. In order to afford a market to reputable product, I shall be glad to consider expanding any except our fall group of pictures by the addition of one or two more. We have set twenty-four releases as our minimum—as the number we are now actually prepared to guarantee to exhibitors. The number, however, will remain at twenty-four unless the right sort of additional pictures can be obtained and the terms can be arranged on a basis which properly protects the exhibitor and us from the standpoint of values and price."

WESTERN PA. EXHIBITOR RALLY

Approximately eighty exhibitors attended an enthusiastic rally and luncheon meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Western Pennsylvania, at the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh, March 11. The meeting was conspicuous for its harmony, the theatre owners are working in closer cooperation than they have ever done before. The main subjects of discussion were the menace of block booking, and the forthcoming fifth annual convention to be held at Washington, Pa., on April 21, 22 and 23. Several of the speakers urged those who attended to help along the independent producer, and pointed out their reasons for the suggestion.

LAEMMLE SIGNS HAWLEY TURNER

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, has engaged Hawley Turner to head the sales promotion department, which has its headquarters in the Universal home office and functions in connection with the Universal exchange system. It serves to develop new leads for the sales force and to aid in the establishment of 100 per cent. service to exhibitors. Turner, until recently, was one of the directors of the Ritz Carlton Pictures, Inc. He has had extensive advertising experience.

THE FIRST RUN

PRESENTATIONS – PROLOGUES – MUSIC

Making Presentations Pay

By

Colby Harriman

THE common argument relative to the success of a presentation is that this particular form of production should have a financial value as well as an artistic appeal. Any business man who manufactures and markets a product that is not profitable, either changes his model or dispenses with the entire article. If it doesn't pay it doesn't work.

In the theatre business the presentation and the prologue should pay the exhibitor and serve as an attraction in the same proportionate terms as that of his picture. Every manager who has added such features to his regular programs has pages in his ledger which either attest to the success of the enterprise or act as unpleasant reminders of unnecessary and exorbitant expenditures.

One of the chief arguments against presentations is that managers are reluctant to add to the overhead where the financial returns are doubtful.

Each unit of the program must be profitable, and to operate on this basis the cost and expense must be minimized.

Quality and Economy are expressive of the dual demands of successful program operation. Good showmanship is simply the ability to produce the most effective feature at a minimum of cost, resulting in a maximum of return. Good showmanship is not so much an art as the ability to handle the business of the theatre in a common sense way. To combine these two vital factors—Quality and Economy—is the certain test.

A solution is offered to the manager who is encountering difficulties and has found himself enmeshed in the gnarled network of production problems.

The framework of the entire structure should be a schedule of presentations and prologues, carefully selected subject matter, a development permitting a co-ordination with the picture, and production operations based on a budget system. This is the path leading towards the successful maintenance of the work.

Selection of subject matter for presentations is as important as booking the feature picture. The pecular physical demands of these forms remove them from the realm of pre-established theatrical attractions, such as vaudeville acts, musical comedy and dramatic excerpts. The presentation primarily is a child of the motion picture theatre and is to be nurtured accordingly.

The difference between the two types of production should be noted. If it is a prologue, attention should center around the elements correlating it with the picture, enabling the atmospheric values to be clearly defined. If a presentation is selected, its novelty and the artistic and entertainment values, must be developed in a complete manner permitting the attraction an honest exploitation which will rebound profitably at the box-office.

This is the first stumbling block. We can usually attribute the lack of interest in certain presentations to thoughtlessness and carelessness in preparation and the ultimate hasty development. Scenery will not suffice to make a successful presentation. The action is the thing. That is the core of your subject matter.

Linking the presentation and prologue to the picture program is necessarily of great importance. To more regularly accomplish this, it is possible to schedule the various productions in the same manner employed in booking pictures. The schedule of what is to be done in the succeeding weeks removes the many alibis. Sufficient time is given the various themes selected, and an opportunity is accorded the production department to create a feature that has exploitive angles. The added feature becomes an agency for creating interest at the box-office.

In figuring the financial aspects of your program, it is not policy to produce features in excess of the physical limitations of your stage. Two things are necessary:

1.—Simplicity in construction; a sufficiency of standard equipment which can be basically used in various combinations.

2.—Purchasing such materials as are necessary; renting items where repeated usage is not apt to occur.

Purchasing materials is the shoal of many disasters. There are forms of standard equipment and supplies which are reliable and serviceable, but many useless materials go into the theatre via the stage. Money is expended for goods which have no value other than the initial service.

What to buy? and where to buy it? are vital factors. The theatre is not an experimental laboratory. When a purchase is made, and supplies delivered, the producer should feel positive that what he has to work with is the best and the most serviceable.

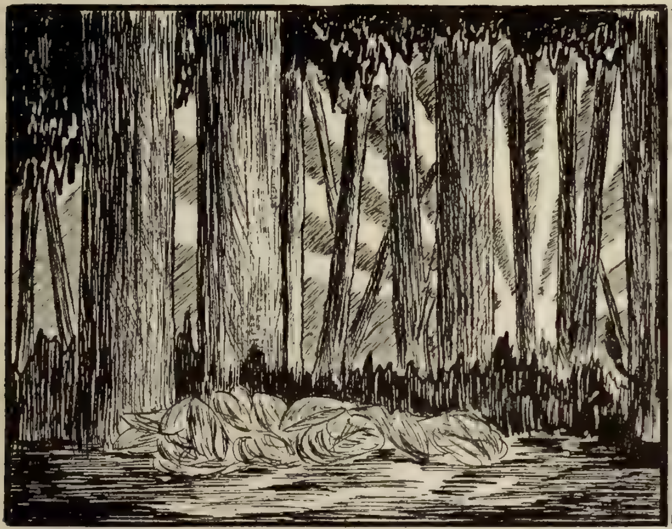
It has been suggested that a WHITE LIST OF RELIABLE DEALERS be prepared and submitted to the producing managers. This would be in the nature of a reporting system, indicating the best and marking the pitfalls. The idea is a good one. Merchants who supply the theatre with the production necessities (scenic, electrical, decorative, etc.) should be rated according to the serviceable quality of their products. After all, the indispensable requirement of materials as with the completed production is performance of the service rendered, irrespective of its nature.

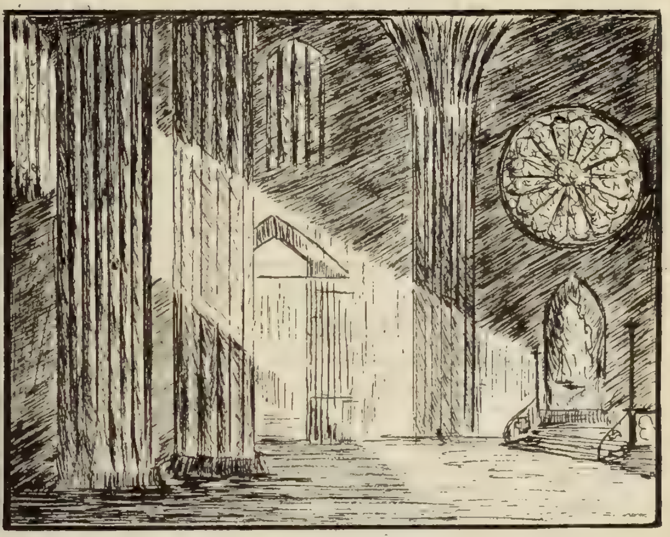
The intent and purpose may be very religious in the conception and acquisition or offering, but "Make-good" is expected and demanded. Materials must be serviceable. Presentations must pay.

A Moving Picture World Presentation

Complete subject matter for a novel prologue or presentation will appear weekly in this department. Any producer engaged in this type of production work in motion picture theatres is entitled to use the suggestion in its entirety or make his own adaptation.

Working plans, complete in every detail, are available on the presentation suggested herewith. Blueprints have been prepared with view to aiding showman who may desire to avail themselves of the Colby Harriman suggestions. Music cue sheets, color diagrams and costume plates are included. Same may be secured without charge by requesting same of the editor.





"AN EASTER IDYL"

A "Moving Picture World" Presentation Devised by Colby Harriman

THIS is one of two seasons where particular emphasis can be placed on the religious aspect of life and transplant it to the theatre. The Easter season is not only picturesque but the diversified programs based on the single theme will generally meet with universal approval.

For a suggestion to producers, we are offering a little novelty that takes cognizance of the Easter story and the re-birth in Nature.

The presentation is in two scenes, which changes with a manipulation of the lighting equipment.

The first scene suggests a woods, the trees silhouetted against a gray morning sky. Two large tree trunks are set down right center, the tops being lost in the foliage border. Another tree trunk is set up stage left of center. Ground rows and foliage banks mask the bases of the trees. A transparent or scrim drop is hung back of the up-stage tree. The other trees are painted on this, same being opaqued to permit the lighting treatment for the sun-rise effect. The trees down stage can be constructed or a fabric set made using a hoop for the base. The up-stage tree can be a flat piece.

In the foreground a leaf bank is seen.

At the rise, the lights render a purple haze through the forest scene. Bird calls are heard, as the music suggests the approaching dawn. Presently a dancer, garbed in diaphonous clothing, which can be given a treatment of luminous paint, flits in and dances around the trees and foliage set pieces. She touches one section of the leaf bank, then another, and soon large flowers in bud formations appear. The various buds reveal themselves as the headdress for other dancers, who are garbed in costumes of leaves. The dance becomes spirited, the music more animated. A large roseate sun appears on the edge of the horizon, visible through the trees. Large shafts of light are shot heavenward as the action progresses. In the distance can be heard the voices of choristers, blending with the tempo of the dance as they sing a seasonal anthem. The scene takes on more color; the varied greens, dotted here and there with pinks and whites in flowers, appear. The dance reaches its height as the music of the singers increases. The lighting on the back drop becomes a riot of color, the shafts merging into a writhing mass of red, orange, purple and yellow. The dancers exit as the color treatment on the back drop intensifies. The tree outlines on the scrim become indistinguishable, the set trees begin to lose the appearance of tree trunks as column lights within the trunks are brought on. The voices of the singers are nearer, the mighty tones of an organ can be heard. The sun loses itself in the constant changing color scheme, and from its last distinguishable position a large "rose window" appears. The outlines of the setpiece take on the appearance of columns, and a doorway is slowly revealed at center. Through the doorway march, in measured step, the vested choir boys. The music is swelled as they enter, a shaft of light from a vaulted window high-lights the singers as they proceed to a suggested altar on the left. The finale comes crashingly with the song emphasized by the volume of the organ, with chimes added.

This presentation can be produced with a small cast if desired. Its application to a small stage is simple and the feature will not lose any of its impressiveness or effectiveness. There is a variety in action and theme which will prove popular with the patrons.

Variations

Music Notes

Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld and Josiah Zuro of the Rivoli and Rialto theatres, New York City, are members of the Mayor's Music Committee and sponsors of the New York Art Center. The plans call for a great Music and Industrial Art High School which is to be the nucleus for a group of buildings being projected for the 200-acre site east of the Jerome Park Reservoir. Indications are that New York will possess an unrivaled center of municipal art in which the motion picture theatre music will be recognized in the curriculum. One of the representatives of the city recently stated that in this group of buildings "all persons from a blacksmith to an architect may survey the best ideas in their field." There will be provided large auditoriums for opera, chamber music, the dance and drama, numerous practice and class rooms for the study of various instruments and voice, libraries and other features. Musicians everywhere cannot be other than gratified at the tentative arrangements for instruction and practise music in this projected institution.

Fills a Long Felt Want

Moving Picture World, 729 Seventh Ave., New York.
Gentlemen: March 21, 1925.

Please let us congratulate you on your new "Moving Picture World Presentation" idea. This is the sort of thing we have been looking for and collecting for some years past and which our theatres in Australia welcome with open arms.

Though you probably do not hear very much from the other side of the world in regard to presentations there, I can assure you that they form a very important and enjoyable part of the programs given in many theatres in Australia; this being confirmed by the writer's recent visit and inspection of a good many of the theatres there.

We should be very glad indeed to receive a few sets of your working plans, blueprints, color diagrams, etc., for our theatres in Australia and would be very glad if you would put us on your mailing list for these as they are issued so that I can mail them down without delay in each outgoing mail.

Most of our leading theatres are already on your subscription list and receive every issue of your paper but they will, I am sure, appreciate receiving these plans without waiting until they can write back to you for them.

Thanking you in anticipation, we remain,

Yours sincerely,
March 23, 1925. AUSTRALASIAN FILMS, LTD.

Capitol Theatre

New York City

A Cycle of Inca Indian Music

An effective presentation teeming with atmospheric values has been produced as a setting for the introduction of Carlos Valderrama, pianist and one of the foremost authorities on Inca music. The production has two scenes. The first is in two. The pianist is seated down stage, extreme right, at a grand piano, facing center. The drop is a painted scrim in design typical of the Incas. A large disc motif is right, with the center given a broken outlined arch through which can be seen a drop bearing the massive image of a native god resplendent in the trappings of the personality with which he is invested. A scenic treatment suggestive of hanging moss, or clinging growths on wall bases is over the surface of the first drop—the painted scrim. Amber floods the sides, with the red foots in a few points. The back drop is flooded with a light green. A white spot cut down to hit the head and shoulders of the pianist is thrown from the front. Mr. Valderrama plays a "Prelude," at the conclusion, Blanca de Pinillos, dressed in a white costume edged with a design in gilt, enters and sings "Trieste." A canary spot on the girl reveals the beauty of the Inca costume she wears. The lights dim gradually on the back drop during the song, and the scene of the god becomes indistinguishable. The next number is the "Imanirta" or "Hyman to the Sun." A rose spot is brought in back of the drop. The lights come up full and as the front painted scrim is taken away, a mountain scene is revealed. This setting is one of the most artistically lighted scenes which has appeared on Broadway in a long time. It is a rare picture, large, formidable mountains, in the foreground, surrounded with a dull blue-green haze which is shaded gradually as the distant mountainous valley is revealed, surmounted with jagged, mountain outlines and crowned with a pinnacled peak, around which is diffused a halo of red. Reds in the foots are blended with blue foots and first borders, the side lighting being in blues, greens and reds. A waterfall is seen at the right, two ribbon like streams which are caught with an effect. The climax of the song is reached and Doris Niles with the Capitol Ballet Corps of six dancers, all clad in the costume of Inca ritualists, render a spirited "Worship Dance," Miss Niles carrying a metal symbol staff. Orange amber floods, with canary to highlight is the general lighting on the dancers.

"Phantom's" Premiere in San Francisco

"The Phantom of the Opera" will have its world premiere at the Curran Theatre, San Francisco, on April 26, according to announcement just made by Carl Laemmle.

The presentation at the Curran will be on an elaborate scale, befitting the magnitude of the production, which is Universal's most ambitious effort to date. The Curran is a legitimate theatre and the showing of "The Phantom of the Opera" will be conducted at regular theatre prices.

A sixty-piece orchestra will play the musical score written by Joseph Carl Briel.

Maria Yurieva and Veselaff Svobodia

These two distinguished dancers from the Petrograd and Moscow Imperial Ballets dance "Adagio: Nocturne in E Flat" by Chopin. The scene is a garden at evening. A garden bench is down stage at left, with a blue net drop hung in one, and masked with a deep green foliage border. The back drop reveals the outlines of conventional trees and shrubbery. A rose-purple sky is contrasted to the dim green tone of the base of the drop. The dancers are in conventional ballet costume, with a light blue spot on the man and an orange amber spot on the lady. The blending of the two spots is very effective.

Strand Theatre

New York City

Song and Ballet Pictures

Mr. Plunkett has used the revolving stage in the presentation of two very attractive divertisements. The revolving stage is about the most practical piece of stage equipment a theatre could possess. It is possible to present little scenic classics with the device. The first part of the presentation is titled "A Dish of Tay" by Crampton, in which Pauline Miller and Everett Clark are discovered seated at a small white table set for tea. A flower row of daffodils masks the base, with a yellow flowering bush right and left with the black panel of the revolving stage as the backing. The lady is costumed in a white Spring dress of the late eighties, the man in a green coat and light waistcoat and breeches. A stool is right of the table, a chair at the left. The properties are in white. White spots—two from overhead and one on each side—light the setting. The scene changes, the stage revolves in a black out. The lights are brought on, and three characters, two men and a lady, dressed in shimmering costumes appear as "Dresden Statuettes." Mlle. Klemova, M. Daks and Fernandez, descend from the enamelled dais, and do a charming dance number. The lights from the sides, in canary, light amber, orange and red blend beautifully on the glistening costumes of the dancers. At the finale, the dancers return to the dais, pose for the curtain and call.

"Little Boy's Blue"

A simple setting with hanging pieces constitutes the background for the popular presentation of the program. Mettaline curtains are hung down in two, a small platform is center, upon which is seated the Mound City Blue Blowers, and back of them stands the Mark Strand Male Quartet. The men are all clad in carnival costumes of green and blues. The action opens in a black out, the voices of the quartette accompanied by the instrumentalists singing "Those Farewell Blues." The lights gradually come up, with blue tones predominating. The draperies down stage are toned in blues, the back drop being given a light blue treatment. The Blue Blowers render two selections on their instruments, consisting of a guitar, banjo, comb and two small cigarette cans. During the rendition of their numbers a red spot is slowly brought up on the back drop, highlighting the folds from the left. This is followed with a canary light green spot from right which produces the same effect. The red is taken off as the green comes in full. The quartette sing "Whack-a-doo" as the concluding number. Orange amber high-lights the finale.

Rivoli Theatre

New York City

"In a Garden of Roses"

A very charming and cleverly conceived presentation with the Rivoli Ensemble. The setting depicts a garden. A cut wood drop with foliage border and large rose designs is hung in two; a net drop covers this hanging piece. Back of the drop is a platform which has a large vase setpiece, flat, and a sky and water backing. A marble garden bench is down stage left, with a blossoming cherry tree at extreme left, and a flowering trellis back of the bench. A garden statue and pedestal is up right, flanked with two boxtrees. A small boxed tree is up left of center. There is a profusion of small foliage, shrub and flower set pieces. The foreground is toned in orange amber, with canary, green and red intermingling from the sides. At the opening of the presentation a lady and gentleman are discovered seated on the garden bench, and up on the platform three girls are seen reclining. The action opens with a song rendered by the two singers; this is followed with a dance by the three girls who come from the platform. For the conclusion of the number the singer appears on the platform as the girls complete the dance, clad in diaphanous costumes, full stage.

"Souvenir"

A musical novelty, simple, but effective to the extent of billing it as a presentation, is the artistic rendition of Drdla's "Souvenir" by three violinists—Michael Rosenker, Maurice Price and Ovady Julbert. The three artists appear in the orchestra pit, one at center, the other two right and left. An amber spot from the balcony is given each musician. The arrangement is by Willy Stahl, the accompaniment being by the organ with Harold Ramsbottom at the console.

Music in Broadway Theatres

(Week Beginning March 22nd)

CAPITOL THEATRE

The overture is "Thirteenth Hungarian Rhapsody" and played by the Capitol Grand Orchestra, with David Mendoza conducting. The interlude is the charming descriptive selection, "In a Bird Store," by M. L. Lake. The associate conductor, Graham Harris, was at the desk.

MARK STRAND THEATRE

"Carneval," by Dvorak, was played by the Mark Strand Symphony Orchestra for the overture, with Carl Edouarde conducting. The musical score for the picture presentation was well arranged.

RIVOLI THEATRE

Overture—"Overture Populaire," an arrangement of the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," was played by the Rivoli Concert Orchestra, with Irvin Talbot and Emanuel Baer conducting.

RIALTO THEATRE

"Mignon" was effectively played by the Rialto Orchestra as the overture. This well-known composition of Ambroise Thomas was conducted by Hugo Riesenfeld and Willy Stahl. The latest version of Riesenfeld's Classical Jazz proved tremendously popular. Joseph Allssi, trumpet virtuoso, played "Inflammatus" from "Stabat Mater," by Rossini.

COLONY THEATRE

The overture was "Queen of Sheba," by Goldmark, and played by the Colony Concert Orchestra, with Dr. Edward Kilenyi conducting. Miss Strella Wilson, soprano, sang Forester's "I Wonder If Love Is a Dream." John Priest was at the console.

PICCADILLY THEATRE

Frederic Fradkin and his Piccadilly Concert Orchestra gave an effective rendition of "Rhapsodie Espana," by Chabrier, for the overture selection. As an orchestral interlude, Dvorak's "Humoresque" was played. John Hammond, S. T. O., at the organ played two special selections—"March Militaire," by Schubert, and the popular number, "I'll See You in My Dreams."

Rialto Theatre

New York City

Theodore Webb, Baritone

A cenventional setting is used as the background for the song number, "Swing Along," by Will Marion Cook. A narrow panel done in fantastic flowered design is center, running entire height of opening. Metalline drapes toned in amber at center and blending to green at the sides form the balance of the setting. Mr. Webb appears in dress clothes with a light amber spot from the front.

Colony

New York City

Elizabeth Brown and Sedano

A highly artistic interpretation of "Chanson Bohemienne" by Baldi is given by these two clever dancers. A scrim drop is hung in one. The back drop is a scenic adaptation of one of the well-known Maxfield Parrish paintings, "Morning." The reproduction in color is faithfully given, which results in a setting of extreme beauty. A cut drop is hung in two, which represents two large carved columns right and left, with a flowered foliage border.

A Western Fantasy

A western desert scene is depicted. In the foreground are several properties indicative of the "cow-country," such as saddles, blankets, etc. The Colony Quartette dressed in the conventional cowboy costume are grouped around a glowing camp-fire at left center. A large cactus set piece is placed right and left up stage. The back drop is a wide expanse of sky with a long stretch of desert, punctuated with cactus and the dim outline of foothills completes the setting. Deep blue sky, with high-lighting in orange amber, and amber in the foreground, with blue as complementary lighting, is the color scheme. Following the quartette selection, Frederick Brindley, tenor, sings "A Little Grey Home in the West" (Lohr), the lights gradually dim as M. Juravsky, in white shirt and dark trousers, picks up the theme song of the picture in an effect violin obligato. The scrim close in as the lights dim down for the picture.

The Piccadilly

New York City

A Venetian Vision

An artistic background is offered as a setting for the rendition of Brogi's "Visione Veneziana," sung by Harold Kravitt, basso. The scene depicted on the drop is a conventional Venetian motif, the base of a arched bridge in the foreground, a waiting gondola tied to the pier, with two lamped posts lighted in orange amber. Across the rippling water can be seen the outlines of St. Mark's and the Campanile. The sky is in deep blue, merging into a dull red at the horizon. The purple tone of the water is broken with the highlights of the rippler. The singer appears in the costume of a Venetian gondolier. The overheads are dimmed during the progress of the scene, which emphasizes the lights on the posts and the windows in the distant houses. An amber pin spot with a green spot for trunk is used on the singer.

No Presentation Can Be Better Than Its Mechanical Equipment

There is just as much art in the mechanical end of stage work as in any other end. Whether it's a prologue or a single number or a complete production you are putting on, the brains that you are putting into the show demand the best mechanical help they can get. Tell us your problems. We're equipped by knowledge and experience to help you.

COUNTERWEIGHT SYSTEMS
STAGE CURTAIN RIGGING

Smooth-running Curtain Control operating from any location desired; Spot Lights, Portable Switchboards, Dimmers, Border Lights—

Headquarters for All Kinds of
Electrical and Mechanical Stage Lighting Effects
Information gladly given on request.

J. H. WELSH
270 West 44th St. New York City

Pioneers in Presentations

S. L. Rothafel

Managing Director, The Capitol Theatre, New York City

A Series in Which Mr. Harriman Chats About Recognized Leaders

ONE seldom makes a business appointment at midnight, but this was the case when we sought a chat with Samuel L. Rothafel of the famed Capitol Theatre, New York City.

On several occasions we had chatted together about the generalities of the business, but particular stress was placed on the idea that we wanted a "close up" of "S. L." in action.

Every one in the motion picture business knows or has heard of Sam Rothafel to the countless thousands in his radio audiences he is known as "Roxy." The name has always been one to conjure with since the inception of prologues and presentations in what is known as the De Luxe houses.

Mr. Rothafel is a real pioneer in presentation. He is more than that. He is the creator of the idea. As we ponder the intervening years since the inception of this advanced program idea, we are amazed at the brevity of the span, and when we consider the product of today, compared with the productions of those first days, we are astounded at the development.

Rothafel realizes the necessity of taking infinite pains in whatever he does. This same enthusiastic spirit which he constantly radiates is caught by every member of his organization. Everyone seems to know what they are to do and how to do it. Under his leadership the task is accomplished.

A "Light Rehearsal"

On this particular midnight, the main attraction was a "light rehearsal." To say that such rehearsals are practically unknown would be making a broad statement, but it is doubted if there is another theatre in the United States that conducts a rehearsal as thoroughly and completely as the one we witnessed.

When the presentations are designed and arranged, the lighting scheme is noted; general instructions are given to the men backstage as to the probable lighting of the various settings, but nothing is final until after the rehearsal. Every Saturday at midnight the various settings for the next week are run.

S. L. ROTHAFEL

In the center aisle of the theatre, and about half-way back, a desk is placed upon which is a color board, notation pads, and a microphone which is connected with amplifiers backstage, in the booth and at the various electric stations. When Rothafel opens the rehearsal the house is dark. He issues instructions for the lighting for the overture. Then the house is lighted so that there is a synchronization of color. He goes about his work in a definite way. He has a preconceived idea of what he wants, and he keeps at it until he gets the exact effect he set out to achieve. As an artist paints with pigments, Rothafel traces his designs in lights. And there seems to be no limit to the number, power or colors ready at his hand.

The various stage sets are called for, and each in turn given a preliminary survey. The curtains are ordered closed. Then, with instructions to his electricians, the curtains are opened, and the work of building up "the lighting scheme" is under way.

The work of building up the lighting arrangement begins.

First comes the ground-work, or basic tones. The order is to increase or decrease the intensity, change a color or more effectively time a dimmer.

The high-lighting processes ensue. A shaft is thrown from the right of the stage, a complementary lamp on the opposite side is cut in. A spot plays on a particular zone of the stage, one of the electricians in front—high in his station over the orchestra of the theatre—sends a flaming color upon one of the workmen standing in the position to be taken by the performer.

The work progresses until a word of approval and satisfaction is uttered by Rothafel.

There is a little rule in lighting which he follows, that when he begins to light a scene he asks—what is to become of the actors, the singers and the dancers, what is to become of the scene. There is an intelligent and obvious cause for every effect and with thought he develops the proper treatment.

It was particularly noted that every detail of the work of the large staff of men was carried out quickly and quietly, punctuated only by the calm, direct commands of Rothafel, seated at his desk.

Lighting Is Important

The light rehearsal is complete in itself. He does not combine it with the musical or the presentation rehearsals. In this way he accomplishes not only correct lighting, but the truly marvelous effects for which his house is famed.

Rothafel realizes that light is Life. He is also conscious of the intimate emotional part it plays. He knows that light, in itself, is but a raw material, and that the finished product desired requires thought, and consistent planning.

Rothafel holds that Light is as important as Music or the Presentation.

The three elements are necessary.

The first rule of art is that any work must have unity within itself and that unity must extend to every detail of the work.

It is a delightful thing to be permitted to sit through one of Rothafel's "light rehearsals." One becomes convinced of the dynamic quality of light and realizes the potent factor which is capable of visual expression of emotional attributes.

The vastness of the theatre itself, seeming more vast in its emptiness on that particular midnight, with colors playing symphonies on various scenic background, was a fount of inspiration.

Light seems to me to be a living thing. No other sensuous excitement aside from music can seize and absorb our attention. Light represents the soul of action; carries us in its ebb and flow; gives us the sense of living in its inner life.

SELLING the PICTURE to the PUBLIC

EDITED BY EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Roy L. Smart Works New Style Hunt for Hidden Treasure with The Thief

ALTHOUGH a new style treasure hunt almost caused a gasoline shortage in London for the past several months, Roy L. Smart, of the Noble Theatre, Anniston, Ala., is the first American manager to try out the idea, working his stunt on The Thief of Bagdad. It was not that The Thief suggested the idea. The stunt was fully worked out and was being saved for the next big picture, and Mr. Smart figured that The Thief of Bagdad would measure up.

The value of the idea lies in the fact that this is not a stunt for children, but is held to adults, since an automobile is necessary to the chase.

Briefly it is a point-to-point chase with a new clue at each point, but since the solution of each clue calls for some cleverness, there is a real fascination in the chase and it ceases to be a matter of speed.

How It Works

About the best explanation of the idea can be had from a description of the hunt as planned by Mr. Smart. Both in the newspaper displays and the house Close-up he announced the coming event, adding that the start would be made from the Noble at 6:45 on a stated evening. It added that an automobile and a flashlight were the only requisites. The latter was necessary because of the use of a cave.

There was a large crowd in the lobby of the Noble well before the appointed hour, milling about and asking what it all meant. All the house people would say was that the contest would be started at the time announced.

Promptly at the time set the cashier started to issue cards, about 4 by 4 inches reading:

Bon voyage

If your path becomes narrow and dangers lurk ahead, fear not. Remember that Happiness Must be Earned.

You will need a flashlight or some matches on your way. You must complete your rounds by 9:30 p. m. List on the back of this card the stations you visited and sign your name or names.

At each station you will find some sign or indication of where you are to go next. The first ten to finish will win the following prizes: A month's pass to the Noble, four tickets, 3rd to 6th two tickets each, 7th to 10th one ticket each. In the case of couples the prizes apply to each member of the pair.

Now speed away to the first station.

Where winding road the beautious view on every side enhances.

And setting sun's last gorgeous beam the mind of man entrances.

That Was Easy

That rhyme may not mean anything to you, but it told the recipient that the first point was Sunset Drive, too well known locally to be overlooked in the guessing.

On the drive they found a three sheet cutout of Fairbanks in charter and the advice "Retrace 510 steps, then onward and upward." Here the short legged man was a little out of luck, for it took 510 average steps to lead back to where an arrow, hidden from the point of original approach, read "Happiness must be earned" and pointing up a narrow path through the woods. Further along a similar arrow assured the seeker he was still on the right track, and well beyond was a tank on which had been painted:

"1—Where many great men come from. (7 letters). 2—What the caveman used on his beloved. (4 letters)." The second word led to the guessing of the first, and hustling back down the path, the quester sought the Country Club.

Took the Cake

Here a large may was displayed with a certain location marked with a star. As a further hint was a legend below the map reading: "The crust is golden." With this additional clue they could figure that the bakery was the location represented by the star. Here the baker gave them a slice of cake each, (donated), and a card reading: "Aese aeth adguar ata Apcam Anmcclella. Tell him how happiness is to be had."

This was another simple one, for most persons know Hog Latin and could figure Camp McClellan, and from this get the message "See the guard at Camp McClellan." The cipher is formed with a preliminary A and the last letter of the word.

By telling him that happiness must be earned, he handed out a third card which read: "Rough the way and dark the passage. Sun rays never touched where your feet must tread. Proceed with care. Forget not the fate

Wins Nice Windows With Comedy Stars

Most managers seem to feel that it does not pay to waste time giving exploitation to comedies, though a lot of managers would be surprised could they know how often a good comedy will save an indifferent feature.

C. C. Dressendorfer, of the Educational Exchange, Indianapolis, figured that all the stars might interest where a single comedy might be overlooked, and to prove his point he sold the Bell Telephone Company in Indianapolis on a display of framed pictures and some talk about the theatres handling the Educational product. Then he took an encore on the Merchants' Light and Heat company and with this for his ice breaker he is selling the smaller towns.

The display on this page is in the window of a clothing store and sells the showings at the Victory Theatre, Kokomo, Ind. The display was made by Jack Iliff, the dresser for the Cross Clothing store, and shows eight pictures of the stars and two large and one small card.

It brought people to a halt in front of the window just as though the pictures were those of some dramatic player, and that is all a window dresser asks.

GETS WINDOWS FOR COMEDY STARS IN SEVERAL TOWNS

No particular comedy is mentioned, but pictures of the stars in Educational comedies are used as the basis of window displays by C. C. Dressendorfer, of the Indianapolis Educational exchange. This display is from Kokomo, Ind., but is one of several.

of Floyd Collins. But remember only the brave deserve the fair. Happiness must be earned."

Caved In

There was only one answer to that, a local cave, and here was painted on the rocky portal: "Fear not. Happiness must be earned. Enter." Inside the cave was a placard reading: "Now haste to the place of the Two Johns. Their wares refresh, cure and beautify. Ask for a package."

This was easy. There was only one drug store kept by two men named John. The package was a small box of candy, with an advertisement of the store, and a card which read:

> Home, Home, you're nearing home. One thing yet remains before complete happiness may be had. You should soar over the clouds on the Magic Rug, fly through the sky on the snow white horse, climb a magic rope, conceal yourself in an invisible cloak with Douglas Fairbanks in The Thief of Bagdad. At the Noble Monday and Tuesday.
>
> Now proceed to the house of Paramount Pictures, deliver your card to the one from whom it came, and ask your companion if she wouldn't like to see Thomas Meighan in Coming Through, Right now! It's a fine picture.

Made Business

Mr. Smart writes that a large proportion of the hunters took the suggestion and saw Meighan, for the stunt was timed to be over before the second show started. It could be done easily in an hour and a half, but two hours and a quarter were allowed. The winner got back to the theatre in fifty minutes.

The first ten were all back by half past eight, but they kept on coming until nine o'clock. One contestant came in on three tires and a rim, not stopping to change a blowout.

It made a ten day talk, won several newspaper stories and an editorial and paved the way for a repeat, when the stunt will be made a trifle harder.

It's a knockout. Work out the idea and save it until you need a big exploitation kick—but don't wait too long. This is going to be a craze this summer. Beat your local paper to it.

For his lobby banner for Jackie Coogan in The Rag Man J. P. Read, of the Joie Theatre, Fort Smith, Ark., fashioned the letters from old clothes, stretched over outlines of heavy wire. It helped business more than a little.

Production Hints from Edward L. Hyman

Managing Director, Mark-Strand Theatre, Brooklyn

STRAND broadcasting which has been conducted for several weeks through WNYC, the Municipal Station of New York City, had its climax on the program with Milton Sills in "As Man Desires." Such interest was worked up among radio fans who had heard the Brooklyn Mark Strand Theatre Artists through the air, that it was considered good business to put on a radio-stage number. The favorite artists were, therefore, lined up for this incident, so that the radio fans could come to the theatre and see them in person. The publicity and the newspapers and the good business which resulted, indicated that the radio programs each Sunday night are an asset to the theatre.

The entire performance ran 2 hours and 9 minutes. The photoplay, "As Man Desires," took up 1 hour and 20 minutes of this time. The Topical Review was reeled off for its customary 8 minutes and an "Irish Springtime Prelude," in salutation of St. Patrick's Day, also required 8 minutes. Thirty-three minutes were given over to the radio number, which was programmed as "In Our Broadcasting Studio."

Each de luxe performance was opened with the "Irish Springtime Prelude," used in the nature of a combination overture-stage number. First the orchestra played an introduction made up of familiar Irish tunes, such as "The Wearing of the Green," etc. The lighting, as can be guessed, was green throughout. Two Mestrum floods of 160 amperes being thrown from the booth on the orchestra and the side drapes while two more floods were thrown from the dome on the draw curtains closed across the production stage. Following the introduction, the curtains opened revealing an Irish cottage centre stage with a thatched roof and opened doorway. To the left was a set well, against which an Irish tenor was leaning. Centre stage in front of the cottage was seated a mezzo soprano, made up as an old lady. At her knee was a dancer attired as an Irish lassie. The tenor sang "Mother Machree," Back Erin." A baritone came on from the left and sang "A Great Day Tonight for the and then the mezzo soprano sang, "Come Irish," in which the mezzo soprano and the tenor joined for a finish.

Following the Topical Review, came the radio stage number, running for 33 minutes. Preceding it was a trailer in the nature of an introduction, setting forth the names of the artists and their selections. At the opening, the setting showed the various artists seated and standing in different poses. Black plush cyclorama was used as a back ground and the balance of the setting followed closely the specially equipped studio adjoining the stage. A baritone served in the capacity of announcer. The lighting included 2 amber floods from the dome on the whole set, augmented by spots of amber and lemon from the sides and overhead. The sequence of the incident, with the baritone making the announcements preceding each number, was as follows:

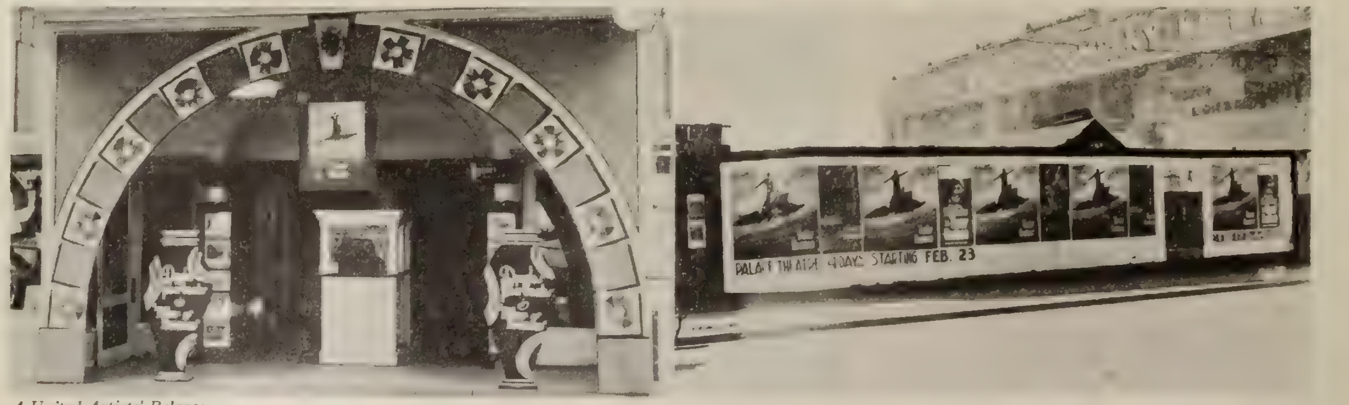
Frank Banta, noted recording pianist. . "Blues"
Duet from "Mme. Butterfly" .... Puccini
Edna Burhams, soprano; Rosalie Erck, contralto.
Mark Strand Trio
Sascha Kindler, violinist; Robert Thrane, cellist; Frang Banta, pianist.
"Extase" .... Ganne
"When You and I Were Seventeen"
Ruth Watson, mezzo soprano; Richard Bartlett, tenor.
Harry Breuer, xylophonist
"Gypsy Love Song" .... Herbert
Duet from "La Boheme" .... Puccini
Louis Dornay, tenor; Tom Williams, baritone
"Sometime" .... Friml
Estelle Carey, soprano.
"Lolita" .... Buzzi Piccia
Carlo Ferretti, baritone.
Mad Scene and Sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor"
Charlotte Bergh, coloratura soprano.
Mark Strand Ensemble

Anniversary Special

Alexander Frank, of the Plaza and Waterloo theatres, Waterloo, Iowa, recently celebrated his fifth managerial anniversary, and the Courier ran a special four-page section entirely devoted to complimentary advertisements from local firms.

Worked Museums

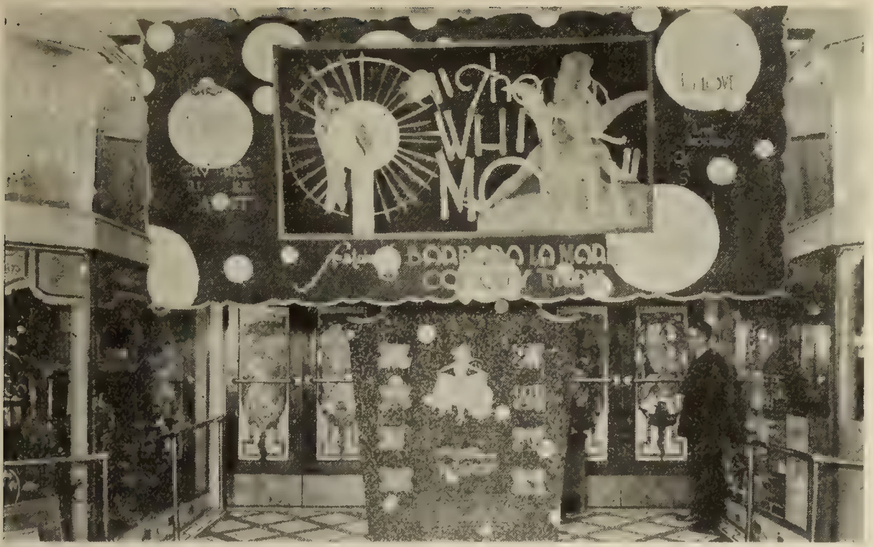
In addition to the almost stereotyped campaign on Janice Meredith, including the school angle, the Princess Theatre, Charleston, S. C., found a new touch in the local museum. All of the cases containing Colonial displays were placarded for the showing.



A United Artists' Release

TWO OF THE SELLING STUNTS USED BY RALPH NOBLE AT THE PALACE THEATRE, McALESTER

For The Thief of Bagdad he got an ornamental and striking lobby at a small cost for painting, and he built up stands out of the threes and sixes, with five 24-sheets which ran undated for several days to get extra interest. He billed the nearby towns and advertised in the county paper, with the result that about a third of his heavy business was from out of town.



A First National Release

ROSIN PAPER IS THE FOUNDATION OF THIS NICE BANNER

Russell F. Brown, of the Rex Theatre, Eugene, Ore., cuts cost with builders' paper, but he gets results equal to the compo board structures. Note this display for The White Moth, then read up.

White Moth Banner Very Inexpensive

You could not ask for a nicer lobby display than Russell F. Brown made for The White Moth, and yet the cost was comparatively small since he uses "rosin" paper instead of the usual compo board in building his displays.

The stores adjacent to the Rex Theatre, Eugene, Oregon, are recessed, arcade style, so the banner can get a display though it is set well back from exposure to rain or snow, and the rosin paper serves as well as the more costly material.

In this display the foundation is black with a yellow border and white circles of various sizes dotting the surface. In the centre there is an oblong cutout across which a piece of black scrim is stretched. To this is pasted the candle and flame and the title. In back are cutouts from the First National 24-sheet on this title. Back of the web, between the scrim and the backing, a cardboard moth is hung by a thread. The wings are painted with metallic bronze which radiates the light from the lamps used to illuminate the figures, the thread permitting response to the slightest draft or jar.

Below is a panel of compo board, black spattered with white, on which are pasted the stills, each cut into the outline of a moth, with a one-sheet cutout for a centre. The whole made a display that brought Mr. Brown a lot of extra money.

Backing this with a special prologue, he put over this release like a pre-first-run. It was first run so far as Eugene was concerned.

Alligator Clock Had Perfect Ring

A borrowed stuffed alligator was the basis of the display of the Grand Theatre, Columbus, Ga., on Peter Pan.

J. Wright Brown connected an electric bell to a flasher and timed it to ring at frequent intervals, but to get the attention value of an interrupted noise. He backed this with green crepe paper and to this attached cutouts from the six sheets.

Green crepe paper bordered all of the still frames, and from a paper hanger he obtained a border designed for nurseries and children's rooms, showing the heroes of the Mother Goose rhymes. This gave a little too much emphasis to the idea that Peter is solely a child's picture, but it made for a very pretty lobby.

He made the usual hook-ups with the various trade articles included in Leon J. Bamberger's extensive list, notably with the clothing and plugger song. He broke no records, but he did go well above the average and far from the red ink.

A Coupon Stunt

Sam Friedman, of the Luna Theatre, Sharon, Pa., has been having good returns on a new coupon stunt.

He provides merchants with coupons good for ten cents on the purchase of an adult ticket to the Luna for any matinee except Saturday; only one coupon to apply on a purchase.

It not only brings him considerable cash business, but he gets a fine showing in the window of each cooperator. Merchants like them because they are given only with purchases of a dollar or more and they have a tendency to run a seventy or eighty cent purchase over the dollar line.

For his lobby title board on The Thief of Bagdad N. C. Farley, of the Empire Theatre, Montgomery, Ala., used a compo board cut to the shape of the Minaret of a Moslem mosque, done in oriental colorings.

Sold Business Women

Pauline Frederick plays a business woman in Smouldering Fires, and A. J. Sharick, Universal exploiteer, figured that if he could interest the Business and Professional Women's Club of Toledo, it would not hurt the chances of the picture at the Temple Theatre, so he arranged with the Temple for a special showing after the regular night performance, but in advance of the showing of this title.

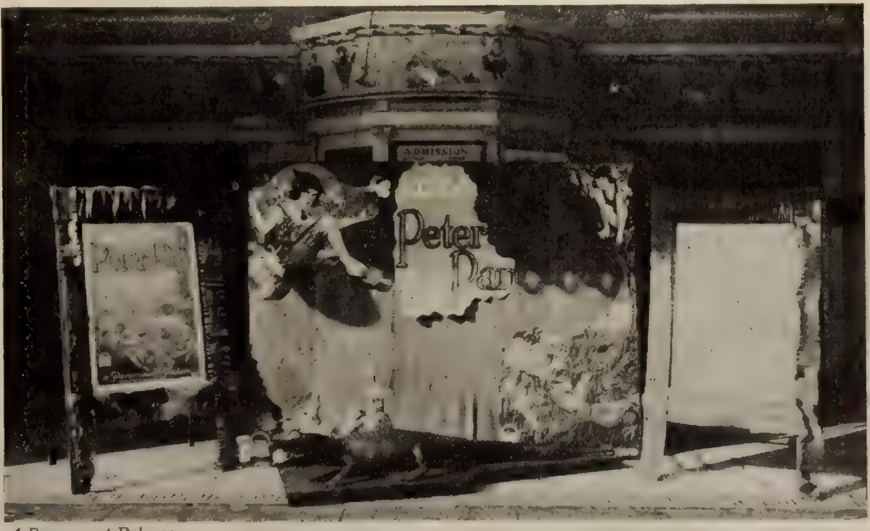
After the picture was run off Sharick made a brief but telling talk on Carl Laemmle's stand for clean pictures and as they passed out each guest was handed ten postcards with the request that they be mailed to friends.

If you have no similar society, it might be a good stunt to get some hustling woman to organize one following a special showing of the picture to which all business women are invited.

Just a Little

Using the telephone stunt, the Egyptian Theatre, Long Beach, Calif. A girl with a nice voice was hired to ask subscribers "Is this the Egyptian Theatre?" When a negative reply was given she would say "Excuse me" and hang up.

It dawned on most of the victims sooner or later that Excuse Me was at the Egyptian, so they laughed and went.



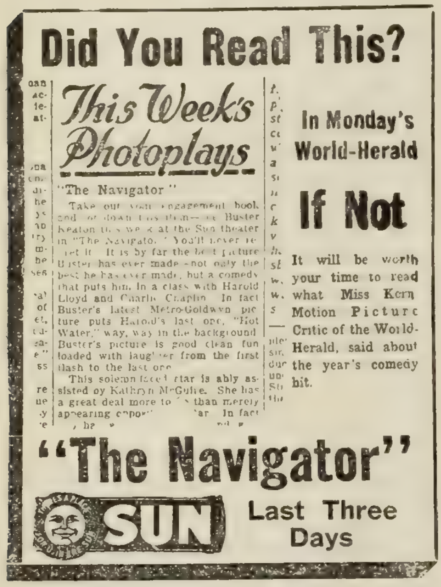
A Paramount Release

TWO NEW IDEAS ON A PETER PAN LOBBY FROM GEORGIA

J. Wright Brown, of the Grand Theatre, Columbus, used a borrowed alligator with a clock in its mouth, the alarm being connected with a flasher circuit to obtain an intermittent ring. Note the nursery rhyme border around the lobby.

Lets Local Critic Write the Ad Copy

Very often the Sun Theatre, Omaha, comes to the fore with a new idea or a better handling of an old one, but it seldom does better than this prompt pick-up of a local criticism. The opening paragraph was reproduced in the display section the following days and gave emphasis to what the writer had said. The original criticism probably was read by interested fans, and not without effect, but without the emphasis that this play-up gives. This isolates the meat of the comment and invites particular attention to it. It gives better copy than anything the theatre possibly could evolve. Typographically this would have been a little better had there been more white space between the clipping and the right hand bank. The display type sets too close against the edge of the cut to get the best result. Even half an em of white would have helped the display very materially. The Sun also is responsible for the renaming of the comedian. The Tuesday announcement makes him Record Buster Keaton. The Navigator is such a surprisingly good comedy that it is worth all the extra effort a house can give it, and the Sun has done very nicely in helping to get it over.



Did You Read This?

This Week's Photoplays

"The Navigator"

Take out your engagement book and jot down this item—see Buster Keaton this week at the Sun theater in "The Navigator." You'll never regret it. It is by far the best picture Buster has ever made—not only the best he has ever made, but a comedy that puts him in a class with Harold Lloyd and Charlie Chaplin. In fact Buster's latest Metro-Goldwyn picture puts Harold's last one, "Hot Water," way, way in the background. Buster's picture is good clean fun loaded with laughter from the first flash to the last one.

This solemn faced star is ably assisted by Kathryn McGuire. She has a great deal more to do than merely appearing opposite the star. In fact

In Monday's World-Herald

If Not

It will be worth your time to read what Miss Kern Motion Picture Critic of the World-Herald, said about the year's comedy hit.

"The Navigator"

SUN

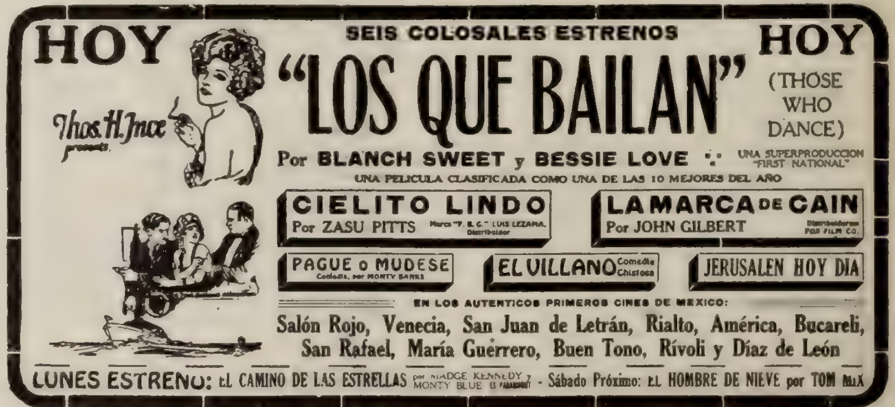
Last Three Days

A Metro-Goldwyn Release

CLEVERLY DONE

Makes One Ad Sell Ten Even Showings

Down in the City of Mexico they play the same picture day and date in from six to a dozen houses. This page shows a display for ten houses on Los Que Bailan, which is the Spanish for Those Who Dance. This is not offered because it is a novelty, for the same thing is done almost every week, but the space is interesting in showing that the display is very like that you would get in the average office here in the States. This is an exchange advertisement and in addition to announcing the First National at the local houses, it advertises a number of other releases. Evidently the exchange does the house advertising. Block booking does away with the question of runs, for they are all first runs, like a Harold Lloyd comedy up here. Apparently the existing copies are all shown and then sent to the smaller towns. This space is a seven sevens, and is very nicely set for the amount of copy it has to carry, but some of the towns further south do not yield as good results.



HOY

SEIS COLOSALES ESTRENOS

HOY

Thos. H. Ince presents

"LOS QUE BAILAN" (THOSE WHO DANCE)

Por BLANCH SWEET y BESSIE LOVE ∴ UNA SUPERPRODUCCION "FIRST NATIONAL"

UNA PELICULA CLASIFICADA COMO UNA DE LAS 10 MEJORES DEL AÑO

CIELITO LINDO Por ZASU PITTS Marca "F. B. C." LUIS LEZAMA, Distribuidor

LA MARCA DE CAIN Por JOHN GILBERT Distribuidores FOX FILM CO.

PAGUE o MUDESE Comedia, por MONTY BANKS

EL VILLANO Comedia Chistosa

JERUSALEN HOY DIA

EN LOS AUTENTICOS PRIMEROS CINES DE MEXICO:

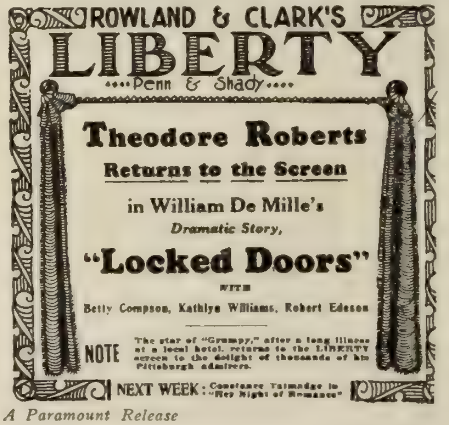
Salón Rojo, Venecia, San Juan de Letrán, Rialto, América, Bucareli, San Rafael, María Guerrero, Buen Tono, Rívoli y Díaz de León

LUNES ESTRENO: EL CAMINO DE LAS ESTRELLAS por MADGE KENNEDY y MONTY BLUE Es Paramount - Sábado Próximo: EL HOMBRE DE NIEVE por TOM MIX

ADVERTISING THOSE WHO DANCE IN TEN THEATRES

Milt Crandall Gets Much from Roberts

Besides being a good example of a clean set-up in all type, this section of the Rowland and Clark advertisement for the Pittsburgh string, makes an extra star of Theodore Roberts in Locked Doors. The note at the bottom of the space reminds the reader that it was during a stay in Pittsburgh that the veteran was stricken with illness that still keeps him confined to a wheel chair in which he has played his last two roles. This gives a strong local appeal to his reappearance. This space is about four inches deep and about two columns wide. Each of the R. and C. attractions gets a similar space, though some of these are shown at two houses, and the result is a four space section that gives a large and yet economical display. Generally Milt tries to run in a cut, not always with good results, but now and then he sticks to type and gets an effect that Pittsburgh did not yield a year or so ago. This makes a small but pretty space by itself. Run with the others, the set of houses are well advertised at a smaller cost than single houses out of the string defray.



ROWLAND & CLARK'S

LIBERTY

····Penn & Shady····

Theodore Roberts

Returns to the Screen

in William De Mille's

Dramatic Story,

"Locked Doors"

WITH

Betty Compson, Kathlyn Williams, Robert Edeson

NOTE The star of "Grumpy," after a long illness at a local hotel, returns to the LIBERTY screen to the delight of thousands of his Pittsburgh admirers.

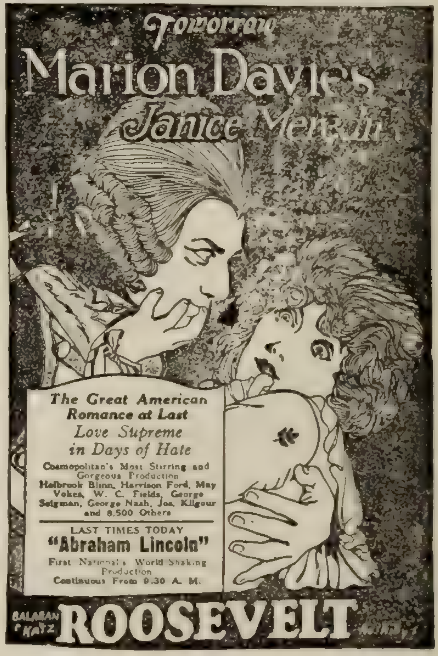
NEXT WEEK: Constance Talmadge in "Her Night of Romance"

A Paramount Release

STARRING ROBERTS

Cut in Reverse Gives a Change

Although the original newspaper advertisement of the Roosevelt Theatre, Chicago, does not give a solid black ground for this reverse cut of Marion Davies in Janice Meredith, the cut comes out so well that the average reader will study the star and title to see what it is all about. The original is only two columns wide and this gives rather too small a letter to be properly prominent, so the cut has to work for the lettering, but it does this nicely because there is strength to the drawing as well as the pose. The agent has wisely mortised in to get the rest of his display, knowing that six point would be utterly lost in reverse. On good program stock this cut would come up very nicely. On rapid press work, where a strong black is not achieved, it is only about 80 per cent. effective, but it is different from the usual line cut, and that helps not a little. Reverse always is a lottery on a large newspaper, and this did not draw the capital prize, though it comes out better than might be expected. In the reproduction it will look much better



Tomorrow

Marion Davies

Janice Mer

The Great American Romance at Last

Love Supreme in Days of Hate

Cosmopolitan's Most Stirring and Gorgeous Production

Holbrook Blinn, Harrison Ford, May Vokes, W. C. Fields, George Seigman, George Nash, Joe. Kilgour and 8,500 Others

LAST TIMES TODAY

"Abraham Lincoln"

First National's World Shaking Production

Continuous From 9.30 A. M.

BALABAN & KATZ ROOSEVELT

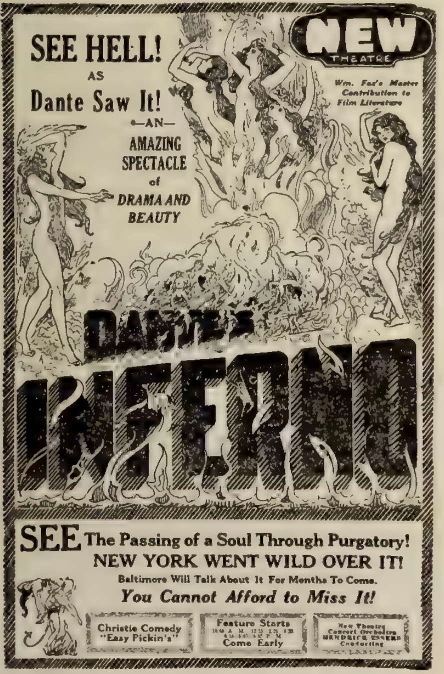
A Metro-Goldwyn Release

FAIRLY EFFECTIVE

than in the original, because of better press work. You can't get a full black on rapid web presses unless the ink is made so heavy that it will smear.

Border Rule Saves Sectional Display

The New Theatre, Baltimore, came close to having two advertisements on The Inferno in which one was mostly cut and the other largely type. But for the saving grace of a heavy border this display would be regarded as two different announcements since one section is so completely cut off from the other by the bottom of the cut. This cut was intended to sink to the bottom of the space in which it was used. It was not planned for a middle section, but the type is in two sections and could not be as well set above the cut. This makes an awkward handling of the material, and it is saved only by the border rule. Where the cut is used, the copy should be written to go into the space above. If it cannot be fitted in, some other cut would better serve the purpose. We think that it would have been possible to have used the lower lines above the cut, stringing out the three small panels below, if they are used. Most of the selling will be done on the title and the cut. Further argument seems almost unnecessary. About six inches of space could have been saved without loss of any appeal through putting more dependence upon the cut; which is precisely why the cut was given in this form.



SEE HELL! AS Dante Saw It!

—AN— AMAZING SPECTACLE of DRAMA AND BEAUTY

NEW THEATRE

Wm. Fox's Master Contribution to Film Literature

DANTE'S INFERNO

SEE The Passing of a Soul Through Purgatory!

NEW YORK WENT WILD OVER IT!

Baltimore Will Talk About It For Months To Come.

You Cannot Afford to Miss It!

Christie Comedy "Easy Pickin's"

Feature Starts [illegible] Come Early

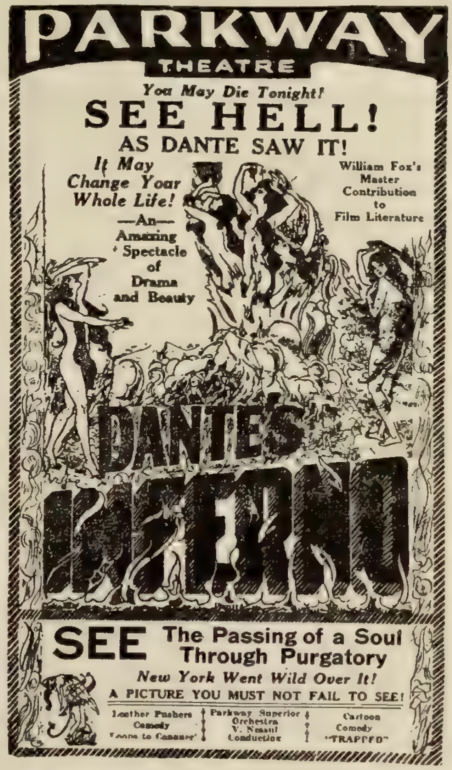
New Theatre Concert Orchestra HENDRICK ESSERS Conducting

A Fox Release

BADLY DIVIDED

Parkway Is Personal in Inferno Display

When the Fox production of the Inferno played at the New Theatre, Baltimore, it used much the same advertisement as was employed by the Parkway, in the same town, but in a three column width instead of a two. But where the New advised the reader to "See Hell as Dante saw it," the Parkway opens with "You may die tonight" and adds that seeing Hell through Dante's eyes might change your life—and presumably make necessary to see the Fox production if you wished to see the Inferno instead of getting a personally conducted post-mortem tour. We are not particularly impressed by that line. Presumably the Parkway management knows what will appeal to its clientele, but we do not think that the line will be widely copied. It may be strong but the reaction may be unfavorable and create a sentiment against the house rather than the play. It might be possible to get a laugh out of the "see Hell" without bringing in the suggestion of death. That is where this idea is apt to fail.



PARKWAY THEATRE

You May Die Tonight!

SEE HELL!

AS DANTE SAW IT!

It May Change Your Whole Life!

—An— Amazing Spectacle of Drama and Beauty

William Fox's Master Contribution to Film Literature

DANTE'S INFERNO

SEE The Passing of a Soul Through Purgatory

New York Went Wild Over It!

A PICTURE YOU MUST NOT FAIL TO SEE!

Leather Pushers Comedy [illegible]

Parkway Superior Orchestra V. Nemsul Conducting

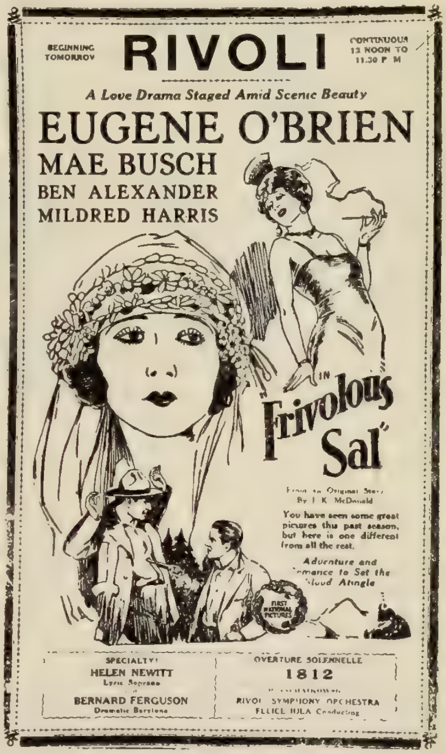
Cartoon Comedy "TRAPPED"

A Fox Release

RATHER PERSONAL

Small Topline Gets Display for Title

In this space from the Rivoli Theatre, Baltimore, the size of the cut has made it necessary to set the slogan line pretty close to the signature and star names. It is so long that to get it into the space it must be set upper and lower case. Doing this, the compositor has achieved a much better display than in some recent instances where he has had room enough to put the slogan in two lines of all capitals. It not only looks better and is more distinct, but it gives a much better play-up to O'Brien's name than it would get did the latter have to fight a larger type in all caps. The effect is so much better that it would be supposed that the printer himself would notice it and take a repeat even when a shorter cut or a longer space gives him more room. About the last thing the average compositor seems to think of is the display value of certain lines. It is nothing to him. If he gets all the letters in, he seems to think that he has done his share. And many managers seem to think that the value of a space is in direct proportion to the amount of ink they can get on the paper. Perhaps they have helped to get the compositor set in his ways. We do not now refer to the Rialto management or the man who set this advertisement, but to all printers and most managers. It is one of the widespread ideas that the blacker an advertisement the "stronger" it is. This display proves to the contrary and we hope that the Rialto management will instruct the printer to stick to the style he has used, and set all slogan lines in the same type, even if that does let a little white space into the display. A good advertisement is not a good advertisement until it achieves the best possible visibility, and that means not only conspicuousness but legibility. Look back at some of the other Rialto spaces and we think you will agree that the small slogan looks the better.



BEGINNING TOMORROW RIVOLI CONTINUOUS 12 NOON TO 11.30 P. M.

A Love Drama Staged Amid Scenic Beauty

EUGENE O'BRIEN

MAE BUSCH

BEN ALEXANDER

MILDRED HARRIS

IN "Frivolous Sal"

From an Original Story By J. K. McDonald

You have seen some great pictures this past season, but here is one different from all the rest.

Adventure and Romance to Set the Blood Atingle

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

SPECIALTY! HELEN NEWITT Lyric Soprano

BERNARD FERGUSON Dramatic Baritone

OVERTURE SOLENNELLE 1812

RIVOLI SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA FELICE IULA Conducting

A First National Release

SMALL LETTERS BEST

Caught Both Sexes

Figuring that if one peep show was good two might be better, Jack Rowley, of Laredo, Texas, used two, both for Norma Talmadge in "Secrets."

The boxes were black with red lettering, one being labeled "For Men Only" while the other was dedicated to the ladies.

In the first was a bust length of the star with her finger to her lips and "See me here Sunday night in my latest First National Play, Secrets." The other showed her in crinoline and the legend started with: "I will be here next Sunday and Monday, etc." Both pictures were cut from the lithographs.

Naturally the men wanted to peep into the other box and vice versa, and their efforts to steal a look heightened the effect of the stunt.

NEWEST REVIEWS and COMMENTS

EDITED BY CHARLES S. SEWELL

Features Reviewed In This Issue

Bridge of Sighs (Warner)
Confessions of a Queen (Metro-Goldwyn)
Contraband (Paramount)
Declasse (First National)
Forbidden Cargo (F. B. O.)
Hunted Woman, The (Fox)
On the Go (Artclass)
One Way Street (First National)

"The Hunted Woman"

William Fox Presents Vigorous and Entertaining Outdoor Story Adapted From Curwood Novel

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Another of James Oliver Curwood's stories of the great outdoors has reached the screen, his "The Hunted Woman" serving as a basis for the William Fox production of the same title, directed by John Conway with Seena Owen and Earl Schenck in the principal roles.

It is a story of the southern Alaska mining country dealing with the romance of an author who disappointed in love seeks material for a new novel, and a refined girl who comes to the lawless community in search of a brutal husband to obtain a confession that will clear her brother of crime.

The plot develops the vigorous drama and melodrama characteristic of this author's works, and the interest is held throughout by the stirring action resulting from the hero and heroine being pitted against a brutal type of dance hall keeper and his associate who turns out to be the heroine's husband.

The situations follow largely along lines that are more or less familiar, but there is an extra punch introduced by having the heroine learn that her husband is alive after she has married the hero. Its greatest weakness lies in the fact that this is discovered from a photo in her possession that one would suppose she would have used in tracing him. The ruse by which the hero invades a heavily guarded camp also is rather unconvincing. There is enough punch and action to make up for these deficiencies, and the picture should prove a good attraction for all who like vigorous outdoor stories.

The atmosphere of adventure is well brought out, the human interest and romantic angles capably handled and the cast is a well-selected one. Seena Owen is admirably suited to the character of the heroine and Earl Schenck satisfactory as the hero. Cyril Chadwick and Victor MacLaglen are competently cast as exceedingly villainous types.

Cast

Joanne Gray	Senna Owen
John Aldous	Earl Schenck
Marie	Diana Miller
Culver Rann	Cyril Chadwick
Joe De Bar	Francis MacDonald
Charlie	Edward Peil
Quade	Victor MacLaglen

Based on novel by James Oliver Curwood.
Directed by John Conway.
Length, 4,934 feet.

Story

John Aldous, an author, goes to a lawless Alaskan mining settlement and grubstakes McDonald and DeBar who locate a rich gold claim. Joanne Gray, a refined woman comes to the settlement and goes to Quade's dance hall for a room, and he insults her. Aldous befriends her and takes her to his cabin where he learns she is seeking news of her husband Fitzhugh. McDonald recalls seeing a grave with that name and he investigates and finds only old clothes and a watch. In the meantime, DeBar, his tongue loosened by liquor tells Marie he has struck it rich and Quade and his partner Rann torture him and make him reveal the location and start for the claim. Rann dynamites a hillside and Aldous and Joanne are trapped in the cabin. They pledge their love for each other, and when they are dug out, MacDonald says he found Fitzhugh's body and Joanne and Aldous are married. Aldous discovers from a photograph that Fitzhugh is Rann and they all start for the claim. Quade kidnaps Joanne and Rann claims her as his wife, they fight and Rann is killed. Through a ruse Aldous gets into the camp. DeBar gets free and kills Quade, and Joanne and Aldous find happiness with each other.

"On the Go"

Buffalo Bill Jr's Newest for Artclass is Actionful Western With Unusual Lot of Comedy

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Number seven in the series of eight features distributed by Artclass Pictures Corporation on the independent market starring Buffalo Bill Jr., "On the Go" is a western which has been treated in a novel manner.

At the start it seems almost like a burlesque of the western type as the hero and villain are shown engaging in various sports, a subtitle indicating that this takes up so much of their time they have no time for taking care of the cattle. The picture also introduces more than the usual amount of comedy relief, which is amusing but some of it is rather morbid as it is supplied by an undertaker who is looking for business, measuring his prospective patrons and finally allowing the hero to sleep in his stockroom filled with coffins.

The story itself gets away somewhat from the conventional type and has greater human interest, the star also furnishes considerable comedy in the sequences where he works as a boy in a general store and his horse resents being hitched to the delivery wagon, also in a dream sequence where he chases an apparition of the girl. There is plenty of villainy as usual, including a robbery for which the hero is blamed, and a fast-moving climax in which he catches the real culprit.

The opening gives chances for feats of cowboy skill including broncho busting, lassoing and pony express riding, and once the story gets under way it introduces the usual line of western stunts with plenty of fighting, villainy and fine riding.

The star is a likeable chap, thoroughly at home in a fight or on horseback and there is plenty of action and stunts. This combined with the out-of-the-ordinary treatment and theme, and the comedy, should make it a satisfactory attraction where westerns are popular.

Cast

Bill Drake	Buffalo Bill, Jr.
Nell Hall	Helen Foster
Mr. Hall	Lafe McKee
Philip Graves	Nelson McDowell
Matilda Graves	Rae Hampton
Tom Evans	Charles Whitaker
Mr. Evans	Louis Fitzroy
Ed. Moots	George Marion
Snoopy	H. A. Hewston
Sheriff	Morgan Davis

Story by Frank L. Inghram.
Directed by Richard Thorpe.
Length, 4,825 feet.

Story

Bill arouses Tom's enmity by beating him at cowboy sports and later Bill finds a girl who has fainted on the highway. He takes her home, but Tom's father refuses to give her shelter. Graves the local undertaker, however turns her over to the care of his wife. Bill, to be near the girl gets a job in the grocery store. Tom, who has gambled away the payroll robs the store, Bill meets him later and is suspicious. Bill is accused as he has tried to borrow money to help the girl, he escapes and finally overpowers Tom and gets the money back. In the meantime, a detective has found the girl and wired her father who comes and takes her home. Bill rides after the train, leaps through the window and they soon come to an understanding.

"Forbidden Cargo"

F. B. O. Offers Evelyn Brent in Melodrama of Rum-Runners, Hi-Jackers and the Secret Service

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

While Evelyn Brent in "Forbidden Cargo," her newest production for F. B. O. again appears as a femine law-breaker who through the influence of love is led to give up her illegal work, both her role and the story itself differ considerably from her previous offerings.

"Forbidden Cargo" is frankly a melodrama of the most lurid type with the star as the captain of a rum-running boat with a villainous mate and a roughneck crew, and the hero a member of the secret service.

There is certainly no dearth of physical action for the hero is attacked in an island cafe and shanghaied aboard the rum-runner; there is a raid on the boat by hi-jackers, the escape by the hero who steals their motor boat and takes the unconscious girl; the landing on a lonely island, the capture of the pair by the mate who in torturing the hero even goes to the extent of preparing to drop molten lead in his eyes; and the final climax where the villain blows up the boat with dynamite after the heroine has summoned a U. S. warship by means of an S O S signal.

(Continued on page 475)

EXHIBITORS' NEWS AND VIEWS

EDITED BY SUMNER SMITH

New York State Showman Lands Big Fish in Southern Waters

No longer will the six-inch brook trout of the Adirondacks and the fighting black bass of Lake George and other waters possess a thrill for L. J. Shearer, president of the Cohoes Amusement Company, operating theatres in Cohoes, Mechanicsville and Hudson Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Shearer are spending the winter in Miami and the first fishing trip settled New York State's lakes and streams forever more. Instead of a two-pound bass, Mr. Shearer landed a sixty-pound sail fish that almost dragged him overboard. A single day's catch netted several of these fish, and judging from letters received back in Cohoes, it's a foregone conclusion that Mr. Shearer will spend each and every winter hereafter along the Florida coast. Oh, yes, one thing more—he now wants to land a tarpon.

Film Row said how-do-you-do the other day to Exhibitor Adams of Millerton, who has an odd sort of an arrangement running theatres in Dover Plains and Copake and being employed in another house in Millerton. Last week was his first appearance in Albany in many a day. Too darn busy to get away, he said.

Al Bothner, who is handling Smalley's house in Mohawk, is having a rather hard time these days digging up enough amateurs to fill the bill on amateur nights which are being staged at several of Smalley's houses. So last week Mr. Bothner invaded Utica, and it now looks as though he had sufficient talent in sight for a long time to come.

With a brand new steel colored fedora, Joe Braff, who runs the Lyric in Albany and has just taken over the Hudson in Watervliet, appeared around town the other day. Along with the hat there was a story to the effect that Mr. Braff might have bought a new car but was afraid to drive it in Film Row on the grounds that prices of pictures would be immediately advanced.

LEATRICE JOY

Paramount star will shortly be seen in "The Dressmaker From Paris."

Claude Frederick of the Capitol in Pittsfield, Mass., signed a nice contract last Wednesday on a trip to Albany. Dropping in at the Famous Players' exchange, he decided to take over the entire "Second Forty" and will start playing these at once.

Finding it cheaper to do business by telephone than to spend the time and the money journeying to Albany's Film Row by train, Lew Garvey of Oriskany Falls, who runs a house in Clinton, is a rare sight in the Capital City. Mr. Garvey seems to know what he wants when he telephones, and as he is a pretty busy man the whole arrangement appears to work out in a satisfactory manner.

Jimmy Rose, who recently acquired the Columbian Theatre in Rensselaer, is going to fool the boys in that city who have taken a supreme delight in the past in picking off the stucco from the front of the house. As a result, the theatre-front presented the appearance of having undergone a bad case of smallpox or the measles. Mr. Rose is planning to replace the stucco with solid concrete and will then have the laugh on the boys.

Mrs. Harry Hellman, wife of the owner of the Royal in Albany, is suffering considerably these days with rheumatism and will probably spend several weeks at Sharon Springs in the hope of getting relief. Mrs. Hellman takes an active interest in the management of the theatre and does much of the booking.

There is no question but that D. J. Harrington, who runs the Palace in Saratoga Springs, is a wonder when it comes to holding his head. He never gets fussed up no matter how busy he may be, and a sixteen-hour day is generally too short for Mr. Harrington. He is a lawyer by profession. Last Tuesday morning was a fair sample of the way he spends his time. At 9 a. m. there were four clients in an outer office waiting for him. He had three cases in court that day and yet he found time to buy several pictures for his theatre, and they were not bought in any hit and miss manner either.

BLANCHE MEHAFFEY

Leading lady in Hal Roach comedies, released by Pathe.

Business must have been pretty good last winter with Chris Marx of the Rialto and Highland theatres in Utica. He is going to spend a portion of the summer in Europe.

When it comes to downright work, Walter Suckno is putting over some exceptionally good exploitation these days at the Albany Theatre. While "Capital Punishment" the week before was well done, Mr. Suckno went a step further with Dante's "Inferno" last week, boosting his prices to 25 cents and making some of the other exhibitors rub their eyes at the crowds he attracted. He is a chip of the old block, for his father was for many years one of the best known exhibitors in this section.

When J. L. Frisbee of Meredith arrived in town last week he brought two or three friends with him. In fact, along Film Row some of the people said he must have brought all Meredith. Anyhow, Mr. Frisbee is proving a good exhibitor and that's that.

(Continued on next page)

Now Booking
"STOP FLIRTING" an
AL. CHRISTIE
FEATURE
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

New York Live Wires

CAPITAL FILM EXCHANGE
729 7TH AVE., N. Y. Byt. 9074
"PASSION'S PATHWAY"
"FOR WOMAN'S FERVOR"
"THE LIGHTS OF LONDON"
"PEARL OF LOVE"
"LOVE, LIFE AND LAUGHTER"
"THE HEART OF ALASKA"

CORINNE GRIFFITH
The Beautiful First National star

Buffalo, N. Y.

Nathan H. Satuloff, manager of the Main-Central market building, Buffalo, has admitted that negotiations are being carried on which may result in the big Main street structure being remodeled into a picture theatre. No deal has as yet been closed, he says, declining to give out details for this reason. Rumors are to the effect that Universal may take over the property and operate a popular price picture house there. Mr. Satuloff declares some negotiations have been carried on with Universal but that they are not concerned with the deal now pending. He declined to state whether or not the proposed deal was with Fox. It is hinted by Mr. Satuloff that if the deal goes through the property may not be sold but leased. The Main-Central market directly adjoins the site on which Michael Shea and associates are building their $1,500,000 theatre. Mr. Shea owns property both to the north and south of the market structure. There have been rumors that Universal would like to obtain a permanent site for a theatre in Buffalo. The company is now operating the Olympic on Lafayette Square under a lease which runs a year or more as yet. There has also been some talk of Fox joining with other interests in the building of a theatre in Buffalo.

G. W. Vincent has sold the Canisteo Theatre in that town to A. L. Boller, owner of the Boller Theatre in the Western New York town.

Another big midnight benefit performance for the National Vaudeville Artists organization will be given in the Eastman Theatre, Rochester, some time in Easter week. General Manager Eric T. Clarke of the Eastman and House Manager John O'Neill will attend to all arrangements. Co-operating with them will be a special committee of the Rochester Managers Association, including Al Root of the Gayety, Bill Calihan of the Regorson Corporation, Arch McCallum of Fay's, John J. Farren of the Victoria and Harry Mitchell of the Temple.

Notice has been served on Mayor Frank X. Schwab of Buffalo and the council that Simon Wertheimer will apply in Supreme Court on March 30 for a peremptory mandamus order to compel the city to permit erection of a picture theatre in the rear of 1400 Hertel avenue without the consent of the Saint Margaret's Roman Catholic Church across the street, which has been opposing the project. The new house would be almost next door to Shea's North Park Theatre.

Manager Vincent McFaul announces that Gilda Grey is soon to throw a mean shoulder in Shea's Hippodrome. The Vanity Fair orchestra, composed entirely of fair musicians, is also booked for an early appearance at the "Hipp."

Charles E. Dickinson and Attorney A. Edmund Lee, representing the directors of the new Empire Theatre, East avenue and Elm street, Lockport, N. Y., have returned from New York City where they visited practically all of the leading playhouses and inspected organs in use in them. They have now announced that a contract has been awarded for a large organ which will be installed June 1. A contract has also been awarded for decorating the interior of the new house. The ornamental plastering has progressed so far it is planned to have the artists begin their work this week. The Empire will be the largest theatre in Lockport. The capacity will be around 2,400.

Turn about is fair play. If you read Van's Straight from the Shoulder reports, you ought to contribute to them.

Now Booking
A. H. Sebastian presents
A George Melford production
"Friendly Enemies"
with
Weber & Fields
Produced by Edward Belasco Productions Inc.
Producers Distributing Corporation

Hope Loring and Louis Lighton, whose contract was recently renewed by Warner Bros. They will remain with the scenario staff another year

Albany, N. Y.

(Continued from preceding page)

Perhaps because he didn't want to appear too anxious to do any booking, Thomas Thornton of the Orpheum in Saugerties, who is also a lawyer, was on Film Row last week introducing his presence by saying that he was in town on some legal matters. Of course he bought some pictures, and he even went so far as to admit that business had been pretty good during the winter and that he is looking forward to a continuance during the spring and summer.

No wonder the manager of the Producers' Distributing Corporation's exchange in Albany, a newcomer to town, told M. E. Silberstein of the Community Theatre in Catskill that he was most glad to meet him the other day. Mr. Silberstein had dropped into the exchange to book "Charley's Aunt" and then went right ahead and bought all the remaining product.

Changing his collar each day and with a white carnation adorning the lapel of his coat, Jake Golden of Harmanus-Bleecker Hall in Albany is having a real week at his theatre, staging a Fashion Show with fifteen beautiful models from off Broadway. It might also not be amiss to say that the "Broadway" is not the Albany thoroughfare. Of course Mr. Golden is playing pictures along with the Fashion Show, and of course he has met all the models, but what's the use of continuing? The show did a tremendous business and as Jake banked the money each day he smiled. All in all, it was a pleasant week for Jake.

No matter how busy he is, Louis Buettner of Cohoes always finds time to greet his visitor with a smile. Today Louis Buettner is probably the best liked exhibitor in this part of the state. He has his ups and downs, but he is never heard complaining and always looks to a better and brighter future.

A. J. Sardino, one of the owners of the Crescent and Temple theatres in Syracuse, and W. B. Marks of Old Forge have bought the Thomson Theatre at Old Forge, paying approximately $65,000. The theatre is closed while repairs are being made, after which it will be reopened as the Strand.

From now on George Dwore, an exhibitor in Schenectady, will probably have his say when he appears before the arbitration board. Mr. Dwore was before the board last week, and inasmuch as he has just opened a law office in Schenectady, he indulged in legal phraseology to the extent that some of the members remarked that they had "better give him what he wanted." Charles Sesonske of the Grand in Johnstown was also before the board, and while he didn't get all he wanted he left quite well satisfied.

News of Massachusetts Field

Charles Gorman, owner of Gorman's Theatre in Roslindale, is a pioneer in the film realm of New England. He opened the first vaudeville agency in this section. When pictures became popular Mr. Gorman opened a theatre and nothing short of an earthquake could cause him to abandon his chosen field. He maintains his theatre in a strictly first-class manner and gives the best of shows.

Charles A. Newhall, Boston real estate man, has announced plans for the construction of a modern theatre on the site of the Old College House in Harvard Square, Cambridge, opposite Harvard University yard. The entrance will be on Massachusetts avenue. Mr. Newhall heads the corporation formed for the purpose of conducting the theatre.

From a theatre to the ministry. Well, in the case of William Dawes Veazie it's true. He now is the pastor of the First Universalist Church at Norwell. Rev. Mr. Veazie formerly was connected with Boston theatres. He was ordained to the ministry two years ago. He now is engaged in personally superintending the construction of a community house for his parishioners.

Larry Berg, manager of Gordon's Capitol Theatre in Allston, presented a fashion show during the week of March 23. Ten models appeared.

For several weeks there have been rumors in Boston that Joseph M. Schenck and Sid Grauman intend to build a house in the Hub, but no one in theatrical circles of the city seem to know any details.

The new skyscraper at the corner of Tremont and Hollis streets in Boston virtually has been completed. The theatre, which occupies the larger part of the structure, probably will be ready for an opening during this summer.

Al Newhall, managing director of the Mark-Strand Theatre in Lynn, learned that President Calvin Coolidge planned to pass his summer vacation at Swampscott, near Lynn, and wrote, inviting him to occupy a box at the Strand while vacationing. Mr. Coolidge's secretary in a communication to Mr. Newhall has accepted the invitation and assured the Lynn showman that if the President comes to Swampscott he would bear in mind the courtesy extended.

B. I. Coonen has plans for the construction of a theatre on Portland street in Worcester.

Leading photoplays in Boston the week of March 22 were as follows: Fenway and Modern and Beacon, "Charley's Aunt"; Loew's Orpheum, "Cheaper to Marry"; Boston Theatre, "The Roughneck"; Gordon's Scollay Square Olympia, "New Lives for Old"; Gordon's Olympia, Washington Street, "Her Husband's Secret"; Lancaster, "School for Wives," Excuse Me," "Enticement," "Price of Pleasure"; Loew's State, "Sackcloth and Scarlet."

Canadian Exhibitor Activities

Fred Taylor, proprietor of the Ideal Theatre, Toronto, fell foul of the law on March 19 when he was fined $20 and costs for breaches of the Amusement Tax Act of Ontario. Inspector Boll, Provincial Government theatre inspector, entered the charges against Taylor, declaring that the theatre had failed to sell the amusement tax with admission tickets on four different occasions recently. Taylor pleaded illness as his defense, but Magistrate Cohen entered a conviction.

Joseph M. Franklin, manager of B. F. Keith's Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, is a proud father—not that there is anything new in his family but because of the showing which his daughter made on March 16 with the Ottawa Symphony Orchestra. His daughter, Miss Lillian Franklin, is but 12 years of age, yet she played first violin in the annual local concert of the Ottawa Orchestra, which has a personnel of 75 pieces. She is the youngest by far of all the orchestra members. Two years ago she was a gold medallist at the Halifax, N. S., Conservatory of Music. Mr. Franklin's son, Mitchell, is an accomplished pianist.

The Imperial Theatre, Ottawa, one of the large houses of the Canadian Capital, reduced prices of admission on March 21, the general reduction being 5 cents. General admission for adults at evening performances now stands at 20 cents. The theatre was taken over by A. H. and Solomon Coplan a few months ago from the estate of the late Harry Brouse. The new proprietors put in a concert orchestra, added to the film programs and have now reduced the admission scale.

Kenneth M. Leach, proprietor of the Regent Theatre at Calgary, Alberta, made quite an impression with a published announcement in local newspapers that he had booked the whole group of 21 special Universal pictures for 1925, known as the "White List."

No less than three of the theatres of Ottawa, Ontario, had "performances" on Sunday evening, March 22, for special purposes, although the law in Ontario prohibits the presenting of Sunday shows. At B. F. Keith's Theatre there was a performance in aid of the striking miners in Nova Scotia, the theatre being loaned for the occasion by Manager J. M. Franklin, who himself is a Nova Scotian. At the Rex Theatre, the owner of which is Ex-Alderman P. J. Nolan, a show was held for the unemployed of Ottawa, with Mr. Nolan in charge. At the Francais Theatre a performance was held by the St. Brigid's Society of St. Brigid's Parish. The proprietor of the Francais Theatre is A. Donaghy.

Harry Dahn has decided to revert to Sunday openings for new shows at the Capitol Theatre, Montreal, a leading house of that city. Mr. Dahn made this decision when he returned to the management of the house following a brief stay in Toronto. For some months past the Capitol programs have been starting on Saturdays.

Rhode Island

Ira Lloyd Letts, counsel for the Emery Amusement Company of Providence, has been appointed assistant United States district attorney.

H. R. Hogan, manager of the Opera House in Newport, is one of Rhode Island's live-wire exhibitors. His vast experience in the realm of dishing out amusement never fails him in putting over his shows.

Neil Hamilton and Paul Doucet in a scene from Paramount's production, "The Little French Girl."

Maine

Church officials of Rumford have lodged a protest with the board of selectmen against the Sunday benefit picture shows which have been conducted by various Rumford organizations in the Opera House virtually every Sunday during this winter. The use of the expressions "for charity" and "for the benefit of" are said to have been rather loosely construed.

The Park Theatre Company of Portland has been authorized to do business with a capital stock amounting to $10,000. Harold D. Young is named president.

William P. Gray, president of the Maine and New Hampshire Theatres Company, who recently underwent an operation at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., is now reported to be regaining his health rapidly.

Connecticut

The Connecticut State Senate has rejected a bill aimed at race, creed or color discrimination in places of amusement, restaurants, etc. The senate committee on judiciary reported that it was of the opinion that there was no necessity for amending the present law and that Connecticut was liberal in regard to the rights of people without considering color or race.

Theatre managers in Bristol have cause to be jubilant. The city council has decreed that no traveling carnivals shall show in the city this year. Carnivals have been barred from Bristol for several years.

Now Booking
A FRANK WOODS SPECIAL PRODUCTION
"BEAUTY and the BAD MAN"
By PETER B. KYNE
Directed by WILLIAM WORTHINGTON
Released by
- PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION -

State Lake Theatre, Chicago, Entertains 10,000 Each Day

The State Lake Theatre of the Orpheum Circuit celebrated its sixth anniversary last week with an elaborate program of vaudeville and pictures. When the house was erected six years ago at State and Lake streets, then off the beaten amusement path, many thought it would not pay, but today it is the greatest profit-taking house of the circuit. According to the management, the house entertains at least 10,000 people daily. Twenty million people have visited the theatre in the six years of its existence. The success of the State Lake Theatre led the Orpheum Circuit to build similar houses in Kansas City, Minneapolis, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The local office of S. W. Strauss & Company will offer a bond issue of $1,200,000 to finance the construction of the new theatre and office building that the Reuben Circuit will build in Joliet, Ill. The date of occupancy of the projected house has been set at March 1, 1926, and C. W. and G. L. Rapp are the architects. The house will be called the Rialto Square. This will give the Reuben Circuit three houses in Joliet, the others being the Orpheum and the Princess Andrew Karzas, owner of the Trianon and the Woodlawn on the South Side, will lease and operate the new theatre projected at Hammond by the Merchants Improvement Association of that city. The American Bond and Mortgage Company has underwritten a first mortgage bond issue for $900,000 and the Longacre Construction Company will do the work. Walter Ahlschlager is drawing the plans for the new structure. It is estimated that the new house and recreation center will cost $1,650,000 and seat 3,165. Samuel A. Schlessinger, president, and David Posner, secretary and treasurer of the Merchants Association, put over the deal for the Hammond end of the new house.

John C. Burch, manager of the Woods Theatre, is spending his vacation in the South, and Aaron Jones, Jr., is looking after his work.

Paddy Harmon, owner of the Dreamland and Arcadia, put over a tie-up last week with the ten movie stars with personal appearances headed by Bryant Washburn. Needless to say, he had capacity business.

Shapker Stuart & Company are selling $475,000 worth of 7 per cent bonds on the new Grove Theatre and office building going up at 7606 to 7622 Cottage Grove avenue, that will be operated by Lubliner & Trinz.

Lubliner & Trinz have leased a whole floor in the Bell Building at Michigan and South Water street for the main offices of the company. The general offices have been in the Kimball Building at Jackson and Wabash avenue for several years.

Guy M. Wampler has taken over the Royal Theatre at Palestine, Ill., and will show pictures exclusively.

The Lear Amusement Company has leased a 1,500-seat theatre at 63rd and Halsted from William Vogt for thirty-five years at a term rental of $15,000 annually. The Lear Circuit has three houses and may build a new house on the South Side soon.

The lease on the new Orpheum Theatre in the Eitel Building, now under way on West Randolph street, has been transferred from the Palace Theatre and Realty Company to the Monroe Theatre Company, but the same officers control both companies.

Fitzpatrick & McElroy plan a big expansion of the circuit and will announce the new lineup at an early date, according to word from their main office last week.

The members of the firm of Jones, Linick & Schaefer are scattered all over the map. Here is Peter Schaefer sending a cable from Athens, Greece, telling the boys here how well off they are, and Adolph Linick out in California and Aaron Jones just back from New York.

H. H. Burns, well known manager, is now connected with the Lynch Circuit as manager of the Savoy Theatre at 4346 West Madison street. He was formerly with the Aristo at 2650 Lincoln avenue.

A. G. Spencer has resigned his connection with F. B. O. and will manage the Miller and Spencer theatre circuit whose headquarters are in Evanston. The boys are branching out and the theatre they took over recently at Sterling, Ill., is making good, they report.

Roger E. Murrell, G. Crowl and Irving Berger have organized a company with offices in the Woods Theatre Building to conduct all kinds of theatricals under the name of Roger E. Murrell, Inc.

The Liberty at Davenport has been closed after a short run under the management of Bellamy & Rapp. It is understood the house will be reopened soon with a straight picture policy.

A new 900-seat picture theatre is projected for East Chicago, on Chicago avenue between McCook and Melville streets. John Borse has acquired the site for $40,000 and will announce plans of the new house at a later date.

Carl A. Barrett, well known Loop manager, has organized the Barrett's Central Theatre, Inc., with a capital stock of $20,000 and offices and theatre located at 64 East Van Buren street. Ernest Strum and Joseph P. Gaul are associated with him.

Managing Director McCurdy of the Randolph held Lon Chaney's new picture, "The Monster," over for the second week at his popular house.

Manager Goldberg of the new Jeffrey Theatre at 71st and Jeffrey avenue claims the distinction of having the youngest organist at the console of the big Chicago theatres, in the person of Joe Alexander.

Paul Rustishauser has opened another picture theatre at 615 West Madison street. The new house is called the Midway, seats 588 and caters to the popular price trade, as the admission has been set at a dime. He also has the Virginia and the Wonderland in the same neighborhood.

E. Brenemann sold his Colonial Theatre, La Salle, Ill., last week to Mrs. M. Glenn of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who took immediate possession.

J. L. Ranney has opened the old Opera House, Monmouth, Ill., and will try picture programs exclusively.

Pittsburgh

Milton D. Crandall, publicity director of the Rowland and Clark Theatres, Pittsburgh, has returned from Atlantic City. The purpose of his visit was not made clear at the time, but now it develops that he made all arrangements for having the Rowland and Clark Theatres select the Pittsburgh girl who is to represent this city in the Atlantic City Beauty Tournament the coming summer. This is an annual affair at the eastern resort, each city sending a representative and the winner being declared the most beautiful girl in America.

Wheeling's new $25,000 Rialto opened on March 9. The new house is owned and operated by Charles Marsh, formerly manager of the Avalon of this city, which had been closed previous to the opening of the Rialto. The Rialto seats 500 and will show second runs.

The Dixie at West Union, W. Va., which has been under the direction of Wm. J. McElhiney and W. A. McLain, has been taken over by Orin Scott.

The Manas Amusement Company opened its new 500-seat Manas Theatre at New Cumberland, W. Va., on March 14. Andrew Lake, formerly of the Palace, Wellsburg, manages the new theatre. The company also controls two picture theatres at Wellsburg and a like amount at Weirton. N. G. Anas is general manager of the company.

Fred Herrington, secretary of the M. P. T. O. of Western Pennsylvania, is visiting the exhibitors of West Virginia and inviting them to attend the fifth annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania boys to be held in Washington, Pa., on April 21, 22 and 23.

Sam Haimovitz, New Kensington movie magnate, came to town on St. Patrick's Day wearing a huge green ribbon. In spite of Sam's name there was no denying that there was a warm spot in his heart for the Irish.

Harry Worthington, who has been remodeling the old Homewood Theatre at 811 Homewood avenue, Pittsburgh, announces that the house will be ready for opening on April 11. Mr. Worthington, who is a Pittsburgh business man, has put the best of everything in his house and the theatre will no doubt be the finest of its size to be found anywhere. The capacity will be 300.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors seen on the Row the past few days were: C. M. McCloskey, Uniontown; Earl Dorsythe and Edward Beadle, Canonsburg; Mike Marks, Oil City; John Dobbin, Wilson; Jake Smith, Barnesboro; Charles Feinler, Wheeling; Carl Becker, Butler, and James Velas, Wheeling.

Henry Poke, owner of the Shiloh Theatre, Mt. Washington, and William Fritz, formerly an exhibitor on the North Side, who have been living in Los Angeles for some time past, are expected to motor back to Pittsburgh early in the summer.

Now Booking
HARRY CAREY
in
"Beyond the Border"
Directed by Scott Dunlap
A HUNT STROMBERG personally supervised production
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Texas

J. C. Chatmas, veteran theatre man of Marlin, Texas, will open on May 1 what is to be one of the finest theatres in Central Texas. It will be named the Majestic and motion pictures will form the piece de resistance, although road shows, dramatic and stock companies will be played. Chatmas is leasing the structure from J. W. Christian, capitalist, the builder. The structure is of steel and concrete, has a frontage of 106 feet, while the length, including the great stage, is 120 feet. The stage is 60 feet wide, with a depth of 24 feet and height of 65 feet from floor to ceiling.

B. V. Crowell of Van Alstyne, Texas, has purchased a picture theatre at Raymondsville, Texas, and has gone there to reside.

A theatre solely for children will be established in Dallas on April 13 by the Dallas Junior League. Monthly plays will be given for children of various hospitals and pictures also will play a part.

Flames from film damaged the Dixie No. 1 Theatre at Galveston, Texas, to the extent of $25,000. The flames leaped halfway across the street, igniting a piece of fire apparatus and a touring car. Fifty persons were inside and all beat an orderly but hasty retreat to the street. No one was injured, and this fact is considered remarkable. A. Martini, owner of the theatre and a veteran in the game, at once announced plans for rebuilding on a far more elaborate scale than heretofore. He will raise the seating capacity to 1,250.

Cranfill H. Cox, formerly secretary of the Athens Chamber of Commerce, has purchased the Crystal Theatre in Gilmer, Texas, from J. W. Croley and will move with his family to the latter town.

Oliver Hinsdell, director of the Little Theatre in Dallas, has been reappointed by the board of directors to that position.

The capital stock of the Lufkin Amusement Company, at Lufkin, Texas, has been raised from $45,000 to $75,000 and a new theatre is being built by the company at Lufkin. The theatre will play traveling troupes as well as pictures.

The Dye, Ford & Rogers Enterprise of Amarillo, Texas, will soon reopen their Deandi Theatre there as a vaudeville and picture house. It will make the fourth amusement house for the town, all controlled by D., F. & R.

San Angelo, Texas, is to have a new and modern theatre to seat between 1,200 and 1,400 and to cost approximately $160,000. Robb & Rowley will be the owners. The theatre will have a women's rest room, smoking loges and balcony. It will be of sufficient size to attract the largest road shows. The owners started out in the picture game in San Angelo about ten years ago and now own thirty-six houses in Texas and Oklahoma.

Michigan

Dynamite was used by somebody to show their resentment against M. A. Slepski, owner of the White Star Theatre on Joseph Campau avenue, Detroit. A charge of the explosive was placed in the ticket office and the detonation wrecked the front of the building and windows in buildings nearby. Police have arrested several suspects. Slepski places his damage at $2,500.

The Butterfield managers in Saginaw inaugurated an annual theatre dance recently at the Auditorium Banquet Hall, selling tickets at $1 per couple and opening it to the public. A large crowd attended the first affair.

Ben Cohen of Ben and Lou Cohen, Inc., announces he will again spend the summer at St. Clair Flats, where he has a cottage, speed boat and all the trimmings.

Kansas

R. R. Biechele, president of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri, has left Kansas City for New York to attend the meeting of the committee of the Hays organization, which will discuss proposed revisions of the present uniform contract. The uniform contract was one of the principal subjects of discussion at an executive meeting of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri directors last week in Kansas City.

The following changes in management and new theatres in the Kansas City territory have been announced: New 300-seat theatre opened by F. O. Williams in Carl Junction, Mo.; Opera House, Mound City, Kans., purchased by W. D. Bearce, manager of the People's Theatre of the same town, from T. H. Lauck; New Centre Theatre, Fifteenth street and Troost avenue, Kansas City, purchased by W. Lee Vaughn, owner of the Art Theatre, Kansas City, Kans., from M. B. Shankman and Julius Blender.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors in the Kansas City market last week were: G. L. Hooper, Orpheum, Topeka, Kans.; H. Staples, Rockport, Mo.; Harry McClure, Strand, Emporia, Kans.; C. M. Pattee, Pattee Theatre, Lawrence, Kans.; F. G. Weary, Farris Theatre, Richmond, Mo.; S. E. Wilhoit, Jefferson, Springfield, Mo.; Charles Sears, Sears Circuit, Nevada, Mo.

Frank L. Newman, Jr., has accepted a position as publicity manager of the Newman and Royal theatres, Kansas City, he having resigned his position on the Paramount sales force.

The Consolidated Amusement Company of Kansas, the largest amusement syndicate in the state, has installed new Simplex projectors in both the Miller and Palace theatres in Wichita, Kans., making all theatres of the circuit now equipped with Simplex projectors, the equipment coming from the Yale Supply Company, Kansas City.

Few timely opportunities does Mrs. Nell Brinkley, manager of the Mainstreet Theatre, Lexington, Mo., overlook. Mrs. Brinkley is planning a spring style show, having been assured of the co-operation of local merchants and the leading girls among the younger set. Style shows are rare occurrences in a town the size of Lexington. Consequently, the entire community is talking about it.

An exhibitors' and inter-exchange spring golf tournament has been arranged by the powers that be along Kansas City's movie row. The event will be on April 7 over the Excelsior Springs, Mo., course. Entrance fee, including a luncheon, will be $5. Contestants have been requested to forward their entries to Tom O. Byerle, manager, First National, 1712 Wyandotte street, Kansas City, Mo.

Turn to Page 465 for the greatest exhibitor helps in the industry. Then reciprocate by contributing.

Emmett King in Vitagraph's "Pampered Youth"

Cincinnati

Whether a few balmy days caused General Manager I. Libson to believe summer was just around the corner, the deponent sayeth not, but at any rate Manager Libson recently announced a decrease in the scale of admission prices at his Strand Theatre. The revised admissions are 25 and 30 cents as compared with the previous prices of 25 and 40 cents.

Among the recent theatre transfers in Cincy is recorded the sale of the Casino, located at the corner of Clark and Linn streets, considered one of the best houses in the city. It has been in the hands of E. B. Corcoran for some time, but the name of the purchaser was not disclosed by the realty company which negotiated the transaction.

The Oxford Theatre, Oxford, Ohio, was dark for a few days recently owing to the death of Lucy A. Keen, wife of Edward Keen, owner of the house.

Jules Frankel, manager of Gifts Theatre, Cincinnati, played host to about one thousand of the city's newsboys on a recent Saturday morning, when a special showing of "Let Women Alone" was given.

A pretentious picture theatre is to be erected at Lakewood, Ohio, at Hilliard road and Madison avenue, one of the best locations in the city. The capacity is reported as 1,500, and the project is said to represent an investment of $700,000.

The Lexington Seventy-first Amusement Company, Cleveland, has been granted a charter. The company has been incorporated for $10,000.

Now Booking

Charles R. Rogers presents
A RENAUD HOFFMAN Picturization
"ON THE THRESHOLD"
with
Gladys Hulette, Henry B. Walthall, Sam De Grasse, Robert Gordon, Charles Sellow, Margaret Seddon and Willis Marks

Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

San Francisco

The "Path of Gold," as San Francisco's famous Market street is known, is shining with even more brilliance than ever since the opening of the Egyptian and Aztec theatres on March 14, the former but a few doors from the Imperial and the latter adjoining the Crystal Market. Each of these houses seats 400. First-run pictures will be shown exclusively and these will be offered as long as patronage warrants. The theatres were built by Rousseau & Rousseau and are being operated under the direction of Max Graf, well known producer. Although but a block apart, the same picture will be shown in each house. The opening attraction is "The Last Man on Earth." Admission prices are 25 cents for matinees, 35 cents for evenings and 50 cents for loges.

A banquet, to which the 70 employes of the Wigwam, Verdi, Washington Square and Broadway theatres were invited, was held on the stage of the Wigwam Theatre on the evening of March 13 as a farewell to Morris Klein, manager of this house, who is starting on a six months' tour of Europe, accompanied by Mrs. Klein. The employes of the Wigwam presented the travelers with a pair of binoculars. During his absence the house will be conducted under the management of Cecil Grissell.

Meyer J. Cohen, for a time with the Hall Film Exchange, San Francisco, is now in charge of the Merced Theatre, Merced, Cal., operated by the T. & D. Jr. Enterprises, Inc.

The purchase of property for the erection of a new theatre for West Coast Theatres, Inc., at San Jose, Cal., has been completed and architects are now working on the plans. The entrance and foyer will be on First street, while the theatre proper will cover a lot 140 by 105 feet in size on Market street. This circuit already has the California Theatre at San Jose.

The T. & D. Jr. Enterprises, Inc., San Francisco, has arranged to remodel the Majestic Theatre at Reno, Nev. The present balcony will be removed and a new one installed. About $35,000 will be spent in the work. Frank Costello is manager of this circuit's Nevada interests.

George Roy, formerly of Burlingame, Cal., but who has been operating the Nevada Theatre at Reno, Nev., for some time, has met with such marked success with his latest venture that he has taken a lease on premises adjoining his house and will enlarge the theatre with the addition of about 200 seats.

Mooser and Bories, owners of a large store building at Sacramento, Cal., are preparing to remodel this and install a theatre seating 1,200.

Ackerman & Harris, Phelan Building, San Francisco, have completed arrangements for the erection of a picture theatre seating 1,500 in the suburban city of Oakland, the location being at East Fourteenth street and Thirty-first avenue.

Seattle

The Million Dollar Heilig, Seattle, which for a year has been operating on a straight picture policy, with novel and attractive musical numbers, has announced the acquisition of Junior Orpheum, the five-act shows booked by the Western Vaudeville Managers' Association, beginning March 27. This service consists of five acts which make the entire circuit tour of more than 500 houses, as a complete unit. The vaudeville will be an addition to the present picture policy and stage attractions, featuring McKee's Arcadian Band. Charles W. McKee is manager of the Heilig. He has announced a "three-a-day" policy.

M. H. Newman has opened his Grand Theatre, Bellingham, Wash., after remodeling and redraping the foyer completely. Orange and black is the new color scheme.

Merchants of the business district of South Tacoma united in a grand Dollar Day Sale which received city-wide advertising, with an eight-page pink section in a leading paper and an entire edition of a community paper devoted to its exploitation. The stunt pulled literally hundreds of people from all over town and the outlying small towns, resulting in a tremendous commercial day for the community. Manager R. R. Pratsch of the Realart Theatre and Manager George Sauriol of the Orpheum arranged special attractions and announced matinees. The matinees reaped excellent returns at the box offices of both houses.

John Danz and Harry Carey have plans for an extensive invasion of the suburban field in Seattle. Mr. Carey is just back from a trip through California and says he has looked over all the big houses. Ground will be broken probably within a fortnight for the first of these theatres. It will be at Nineteenth and Roy streets and will seat 500. Other sites are under consideration for further activities, but no definite announcement is ready at this time. Mr. Carey will manage the company's suburban houses.

Ned Edris, manager of the Tacoma Blue Mouse Theatre, has conceived and executed some clever new scenic effects which are used with lighting effects during concert and novelty numbers. Shadow boxes over the proscinium pillars and a scroll border concealing footlights, with a large ornamental scroll work back of the organ, which is set up for the musical number and is bordered with colored lights, create an attractive picture and brought the reward of spontaneous applause at the opening shows.

George Greenlund, manager of the Colonial, Tacoma, Wash., has arranged a neat tie-up with a leading department store which announced the presence of a McCall Fashion representative out of New York for a few days. Greenlund had booked Educational's special color novelty, "Paris Creations."

Omaha

The Hostettler Amusement Company of Omaha, with a string of theatres throughout the Middle West, has sold the Strand and Atlantic theatres at Atlantic, Ia. Swan and Pierce of Knoxville, Ia., bought the houses. This is the first sale of theatres made by the Hostettlers since disposing of their houses at Lincoln several weeks ago. It was rumored that the Hostettler Amusement Company had sold all of the remaining houses to one of the big producing companies, but they deny this.

Miles Robinson has sold the Lyric at North Bend, Neb., to A. Clay Robinson.

The Liberty at Davenport, Ia., has been sold by Belamy & Rapp to Peck & Peck.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors in Omaha recently were L. D. Hendricks, Strand Theatre, Mount Vernon, Ia.; C. E. Belford, Clay Center, Neb.; Frank Creeley of Falls City, Neb.; M. Biemond, Loup City, Neb.; Jack Tiller, McCook, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Van Tassell, Clarinda, Ia; Charles Prokop, Wahoo, Neb.; R. W. Small, Wymore, Neb.

J. W. Ratsford has sold the Royal at Ainsworth. Neb.

J. W. Trullinger has sold the Lyric at Clarks, Neb., to Frank Trullinger.

W. L. Smith has bought the Empress at Malvern from H. L. Benton.

W. T. Haycock has sold the Star at Calloway, Neb., to Scherringer & Son.

K. L. McKee has sold the Electric at Clear Lake, Ia., to Roy Stanfield.

F. P. Kamorec sold the Opera House at Bruning, Neb., to Park & Bruning.

C. W. Schmidt has sold the King at Ida Grove, Ia., to R. M. Bernau.

James Vnack has bought the Virginia at Virginia, Neb., from Ben Fisher.

Los Angeles

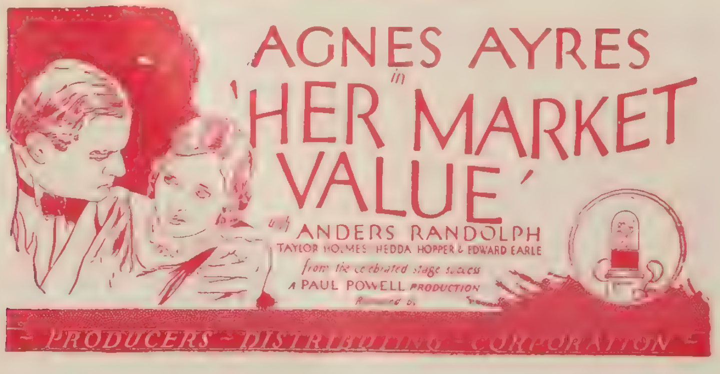
Julius K. Johnson has resigned from the management of the Forum Theatre where he also played the big pipe organ. He managed the new Garrick in Minneapolis and the Rialto in Omaha before coming to Los Angeles to take over the Forum. Johnson will be succeeded by John Goring, formerly manager of Loew's State Theatre. Goring has a host of friends here.

A new theatre on La Brea avenue is one of the many structures that are being built in Los Angeles this season. The theatre will be a class A structure with a fifty-foot stage. The capacity will be 1,200. The building will contain nine large store rooms. The cost will be $250,000. It is understood that the West Coast chain is figuring on taking it over.

George Russel, formerly associated with Harry Arthur of the West Coast chain at the general offices, has been selected by his chief to manage the new Carmel Theatre in Hollywood. Russel is featuring a male quartette in his program this week.

H. A. Weisman put on a fashion show at the Hollywood Bard Theatre this week. This is the first attempt to put over a big fashion show in one of the neighborhood theatres but it got over very big. Weisman used six young women as models.

Jeff Lazarus is being congratulated for the big way in which he put over "The Thundering Herd" at the Million Dollar Theatre.



Now Booking

AGNES AYRES
in
'HER MARKET VALUE'
with ANDERS RANDOLPH
TAYLOR HOLMES HEDDA HOPPER & EDWARD EARLE
from the celebrated stage success
A PAUL POWELL PRODUCTION
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

STRAIGHT from the SHOULDER REPORTS

A DEPARTMENT FOR THE INFORMATION OF EXHIBITORS

EDITED BY A. VAN BUREN POWELL

These dependable tips come from exhibitors who tell the truth about pictures to help you book your program intelligently. "It is my utmost desire to serve my fellow man," is their motto.

Use the tips; follow the advice of exhibitors who agree with your experience on pictures you both have run.

Send tips to help others. This is your department, run for you and maintained by your good-will.

Associated Exhibitors

(Includes Selznick)

COMMON LAW. (8 reels). Star cast. Very disappointing to those who had seen the first "Common Law." Good from production standpoint. Story not the fresh clean kind. Tone, no. Sunday, no. Special, no. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

GOING UP. (5,886 feet). Star, Douglas MacLean. This was a disappointment. Did not draw and patrons did not hesitate in giving their opinion and I want to say I did not stay in the foyer to meet my patrons coming out. The film broke at the splices five or six times a night. Ed. Malhiot, Monarch Theatre Co., Alberta, Canada.

MODERN MATRIMONY. Star cast. This picture absolutely fell flat with us. And the smallest crowd in a long time. It's a pleasing little comedy. At least that is what the manager thought. Nobody else saw it. Tone good. Special no. Cannon & Trescott, Orpheum Theatre, Elsberry, Missouri.

WOMAN TO WOMAN. (6,994 feet). Star, Betty Compson. Well produced, wonderful lighting effects but questionable story. We just don't need that kind. Tone, no. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

F. B. O.

AIR HAWK. Star, Al. Wilson. Here is a fine picture for thrills. It puts them on the edge of their seats. Don't fail to buy it. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety per-cent. Farm class town of 150. Admission 15-30. Robert W. Hines, Hines Theatre (130 seats), Loyalton, South Dakota.

BREED OF THE BORDER. (4,920 feet). Star, "Lefty" Flynn. Register another good western for F. B. O. Another star that is getting better all the time, boys if you are not doing business with F. B. O. you had better look over what they have, and you do not have to buy a block of pictures to get what you want either. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Audience appeal, good. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

BROKEN LAWS. (6,413 feet). Star, Mrs. Wallace Reid. A good program picture. I do not consider this a special, sorry I raised admission to forty cents. In my opinion the dream ending spoils it, to me is brought back that feeling "After all it is only a picture." Bad weather kept them away the first night, good business second night. Better class town of 5,000. Admission 10-30. C. W. Davis, Broadway Theatre, Reidsville, North Carolina.

CHEAP KISSES. (6,550 feet). Star cast. Here is a real picture with a great cast and plenty of good acting. Can't go wrong on this one. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

DIVORCE. Star cast. Business is so poor here that it's hard to judge a picture fairly. This is good program picture with old plot. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Not suitable for special. W. F. Loibl, Chimes Theatre, Cedarburg, Wisconsin.

GALLOPING GALLAGHER. (4,700 feet). Star, Fred Thomson. A good western that pleased the red-blood fans. Silver King good, as usual. Thomson's following gradually increasing and on strength of this have booked the second series. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, better than average. Rural class town of 500. Admission 10-30. Charles W. Lewis, I. O. O. F. Theatre (225 seats), Grand Gorge, New York.

IN FAST COMPANY. (Truart). Star, Richard Talmadge. Was very well liked especially by the children and young people and did a nice business. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

LAUGHING AT DANGER. (5,442 feet). Star, Richard Talmadge. One of Dick's best. A good story, even if improbable, with oodles of action. Played this one on Saturday night and pleased all patrons both high and low brow classes. Boys, if your fans are action hounds, go after this one. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Strong audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

LAUGHING AT DANGER. Star, Richard Talmadge. Fine comedy drama full of action and thrills. Talmadge always draws good here. Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, pleasing. Coal miners, town of 1,365. Admission 10-20. Vanzo & Kopuster, Eagle Theatre (300 seats), Livingston, Illinois.

MIDNIGHT MOLLY. (6,000 feet). Star, Evelyn Brent. This is a real good feature and will please the majority as it is a different photoplay. Buy it and boost it and you will not go wrong. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, fine. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

NO GUN MAN. (4,522 feet). Star, "Lefty" Flynn. Much better than "The Millionaire Cowboy." Flynn should be kept in this type of picture instead of being put in the kind F. B. O. have now mapped out for him. "No Gun Man" is a good western program picture. Suitable for Saturday night anywhere. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

ON THE STROKE OF THREE. (6,767 feet). Star, Kenneth Harlan. An honest to goodness feature. One of those "Box Office Smashes" that we always hear of but seldom see, went the limit on boosting this and was well repaid, as it made the old box office sing a little song entitled "Bringing Home the Bacon," nuf sed. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, extra fine. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

YOUTH AND ADVENTURE. (5,000 feet). Star, Richard Talmadge. All of Talmadge's pictures are good and always plenty of action. He makes them all step in his line and he is good enough for anybody. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

First National

BAD MAN. (6,404 feet). Star, Holbrook Blinn. This is a tiptop western. You can open up on the boosting and the picture will do the rest. Blinn is superb and so is the rest of the cast. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,500. Admission 10-25. T. W. Cannon, Majestic Theatre (315 seats), Greenfield, Tennessee.

BORN RICH. (7,511 feet). Star, Claire Windsor. Fair program picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 3,700. Admission 10-30. Krieghbaum Brothers, Char-Bell Theatre (800 seats), Rochester, Indiana.

FLIRTING WITH LOVE. (6,926 feet). Star, Colleen Moore. Colleen is popular here and brings them in. Second day better than first due to cold weather first night. I've yet to see Colleen in a sorry picture. You can't go wrong on this if your patrons like her. General class, town of 4,000. R. L. Nowell, Idlehour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

FLOWING GOLD. (8,005 feet). Star, Milton Sills. Here's a real one. Has everything

Now Booking
Florence Vidor
"The GIRL of GOLD"
With Malcolm MacGregor, Claire Du Brey, Alan Roscoe, Bessie Eyton and Charles French
Directed by . . . . John Ince
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

and a finish that is a wow! Good for a run. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal one hundred per cent. Family and student class, town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

FRIVOLOUS SAL. (7,307 feet). Star cast. Here's a good one and will suit your Saturday crowds fine. Wonderful scenery and plenty of action. A. Mitchell, Dixie Theatre, Russellville, Kentucky.

GIRL IN THE LIMOUSINE. (5,630 feet). Star, Larry Semon. Went over fine and drew well, considering the weather. Just one continuous laugh for six reels. Played it on a double bill with first showing in town of Charlie Chaplin in "The Pilgrim" and the Semon feature brought twice the laughs of the Chaplin film. Small town and rural class town of 2,245. Admission 10-25. W. J. Powell, Lonet Theatre, Wellington, Ohio.

IN EVERY WOMAN'S LIFE. (4,258 feet). Star, Virginia Valli. Good program picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, questionable. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 3,700. Admission 10-30. Krieghbaum Brothers, Char-Bell Theatre (800 seats), Rochester, Indiana.

IN EVERY WOMAN'S LIFE. Star, Lloyd Hughes. Very good picture. Plenty of action and handled in a big way. You won't hear anybody kick on this one; holds the crowd quiet from start to finish. Stuart Holmes extra good as heavy. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

INEZ FROM HOLLYWOOD. Star cast. Very good. Town of 9,237. Admission 10-25. Vine Theatre (600 seats), Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

IN HOLLYWOOD WITH POTASH AND PERLMUTTER. (6,750 feet). Star cast. Absolutely nothing to it, if you have to play it don't put much force behind it as it will not stand up. They panned this one good. A Mitchell, Dixie Theatre, Russellville, Kentucky.

LOVE MASTER. (6,779 feet). Star, Strongheart (dog). A wonderful dog picture, with some of the most beautiful scenery ever filmed. Strongheart is a beautiful dog and is almost human. The only fault I might find is that it is too long. Fine picture. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. Mixed class, town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

MADONNA OF THE STREETS. (7,507 feet). Star cast. They walked out on this one. Town of 9,237. Admission 10-25. Vine Theatre (600 seats), Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

MADONNA OF THE STREETS. (7,507 feet). Star, Nazimova. An excellent drama not a dull spot in the entire eight reels. All scenes very realistic and excellent photography. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

MAN OF ACTION. (5 reels). Star, Douglas MacLean. Far below most of Douglas MacLean's pictures and failed to prove more than mildly interesting. Agricultural class, town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. L. M. Zug, Rialto Theatre (380 seats), Jerome, Idaho.

PAINTED PEOPLE. (5,700 feet). Star, Colleen Moore. Many considered this one better than the "Perfect Flapper" and it pleased everyone who saw it. Colleen's acting unsurpassed and she was very ably supported by Ben Lyon. Can see no reason why this picture couldn't be shown in any theatre in the United States. It should be a good drawing card anywhere that Miss Moore is known and that covers a big chunk of ground. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

Between Ourselves

A get-together place where we can talk things over

"Hope the members of 'Our Gang' are in good spirits," says Carl Anglemire of the "Y" Theatre, Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

They are, Carl.

Being Independent exhibitors, they are considerably interested in the future, with all the news of chains and so on.

Being contributors to this dependable tip department, as well as Independent exhibitors, they are not losing their optimism, though—because they know that by following the booking information that their fellow exhibitors shoot in, they can strike a high average of audience pictures and thus offset present tendencies in this day of unrest.

The Independent exhibitor ought to follow this department and turn its unselfish help to good account.

Quite as much, he should help along the good work by volunteering his own experiences with pictures he has run.

With dependable tips to help him choose his pictures, the Independent exhibitor has a strong inducement to be an optimist.

VAN.

POTASH AND PERLMUTTER. (7,700 feet). Star cast. This is an old one but one that was better than anything we have used recently. Tone fair. Sunday, no. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Small town class, town of 1,312. Admission 10-20. M. J. Bradley, Airdome Theatre (300 seats), Thornton, Arkansas.

SECRETS. (8,345 feet). Star, Norma Talmadge. Her best picture for some time. Pleased almost everyone. Star no longer gets big money for us, however. Tone good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. High audience appeal. Better class, city of 14,000. Admission 10-35. E. W. Collins, Grand Theatre (700 seats), Jonesboro, Arkansas.

WANTERS. (6,871 feet). Star, Marie Prevost. Miss Prevost made many friends in this one which, although old, is well worth playing. The production brought forth many good comments and the direction and acting deserved this praise. Picture teaches the lesson that riches do not always bring happiness. Excellent comedy-drama. Play it. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

WOMAN ON THE JURY. (7,331 feet). Star cast. A fine dramatic picture with a genuine star cast. It went over big for us but drew lightly at box office. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. High audience appeal. Better class city of 14,000. Admission 10-35. E. W. Collins, Grand Theatre (700 seats), Jonesboro, Arkansas.

WOMAN ON THE JURY. (7,331 feet). Star cast. This one seemed to please quite well. Ran only one day to fair crowd. Good cast and good acting. Court scenes good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty-five per cent. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

Fox

ARIZONA ROMEO. (4,694 feet). Star, Buck Jones. This picture ought to please the smaller theatres and especially where Buck Jones is liked. A good program picture. Fill in with good short subjects. Went over okay in my town. Good tone. R. A. Preuss, Arvada, Theatre, Arvada, Colorado.

ARIZONA ROMEO. (4,604 feet). Star, Buck Jones. A good action picture that pleased a small crowd a whole lot. Tone, good. Maybe suitable for Sunday. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. Farming class town of 1,021. Admission 10-25-30. H. S. Stansel, Ruleville Theatre (240 seats), Ruleville, Mississippi.

CURLYTOP. Star, Shirley Mason. Fair program picture only. Nothing to look forward to only the star. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Coal miners, town of 1,365. Admission 10-20. Vanzo & Kopuster, Eagle Theatre (300 seats), Livingston, Illinois.

DAUGHTERS OF THE NIGHT. (5,470 feet). Star, Alice Mills. A fast moving, well directed melodrama. A picture offering a plot different from the usual run of films. It's the workings of the modern telephone system. Good audience appeal. New print. R. A. Preuss, Arvada Theatre, Arvada, Colorado.

DESERT OUTLAW. Star, Buck Jones. Good western in the program class a little above average for Jones. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Average audience appeal. Small town and rural class town of 2,245. Admission 10-25. W. J. Powell, Lonet Theatre, Wellington, Ohio.

GENTLE JULIA. (5,837 feet). Star, Bessie Love. Just a shade too gentle for the box office. Bought as a special but put on at program prices on a regular program night due to tips furnished by "Our Gang." Very weak picture. Tone good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Weak audience appeal. General class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

HELL'S HOLE. (6 reels). Star, Buck Jones. The action fans didn't take to this in fact comments were rather unfavorable as a consequence business was off. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

Greet a Good Scout from Canada

"After being road representative for Fox, then Manager of the Canadian National Film Corp. at Calgary and Winnipeg, I am now a full fledged exhibitor.

"This is not new to me, as I was at this end of the game before going on the road.

"One thing always struck me as strange, and that is that among the comments on different pictures one hardly ever sees any comment from the western Canada cities and towns.

"I think it is a mistake and exhibitors in this section are under a handicap for that very reason.

"It is all very well to read about what pictures did in Texas, New York or California, but that is not of fullest good to us here.

"I have taken over this theatre since the first of February and rearranged my bookings, with the result that, considering the times, I can not complain. I have also made several changes about the theatre.

"Starting March 11th, I am going to open my programs on Wednesdays and Saturdays instead of Sundays and Thursdays. This is the leading theatre here, a city of about 12,000. (At least, it is supposed to be about that, but I doubt it very much).

"I have put in a policy whereby I always charge the same admission—25 and 35 cents. And let me tell you that with this policy alone I have made a lot of friends and good patrons; and I do surely recommend it.

"To start the ball rolling, I am enclosing reports on a few pictures that I have shown here since I took the theatre.

"Trust that other exhibitors will fall in line."—Ed Malhiot, Monarch Theatre Company, Ltd., Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada.

(I have tried to get Canada's good scouts to come in, but they have not responded very strongly. Hope they will now. They sure will be made welcome, Van).

IF WINTER COMES. (12 reels). Star, Percy Marmont. We showed it Sunday. Made a wonderful Sunday offering that pleased well. Percy Marmont characterization is wonderful. Old but good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Very good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Louisiana.

LAST OF THE DUANES. (6,942 feet). Star, Tom Mix. As usual a good drawing card. This picture better than star's previous releases. Print good. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

LAST OF THE DUANES. (6,942 feet). Star, Tom Mix. From every angle this is the best Mix picture I've ever shown. It's the best story he has ever had and there is less hokum and more acting than is usually found in Mix productions. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,500. Admission 10-25. T. W. Cannon, Majestic Theatre (315 seats), Greenfield, Tennessee.

LONE STAR RANGER. (5,259 feet). Star, Tom Mix. Was considered a good picture and was well liked by western fans but didn't show up as well at the box office as it should. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

MAN WHO PLAYED SQUARE. (6,700 feet). Star, Buck Jones. If your patrons like westerns this will certainly please. Jones well liked here. Tone fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

ROUGHNECK. (7,619 feet). Star, George O'Brien. The title certainly brought them in. Every roughneck was Johnny on the spot and the better class too. Everyone had a good report on this. It will satisfy old and young. Print new. Good audience appeal. R. A. Preuss, Arvada Theatre, Arvada, Colorado.

SIX CYLINDER LOVE. (7 reels). Star, Ernest Truex. While this was accepted here as an enjoyable and entertaining picture it could hardly be classed as a special. Still the word "special" is used so carelessly today that it hardly means anything. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED. (5,082 feet). Star, William Russell. Fair program show was the verdict here. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

TROUBLE SHOOTER. (5,702 feet). Star, Tom Mix. You have got to give them this kind for Saturday. Good all through. Plenty of thrills. Mix acting good. Farmers eat it up. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Louisiana.

WARRENS OF VIRGINIA. (6,000 feet). Star cast. A pretty good sort of a picture more suitable for the older generation. The youngsters didn't care for it enough to come out. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

WARRENS OF VIRGINIA. (6,000 feet). Star cast. A real good Civil War story that held the interest all the way through. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Fair audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,500. Admission 10-25. T. W. Cannon, Majestic Theatre (315 seats), Greenfield, Tennessee.

WESTERN LUCK. (5,020 feet). Star cast. A real western. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. All classes town of 2,000. Admission 10-25. H. Lloyd, Colonial Theatre (400 seats), Post, Texas.

WINNER TAKE ALL. (5,949 feet). Star, Buck Jones. Okay if they keep Buck in westerns. He'll get the money. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Audience appeal, eighty percent. Masses city of 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre, (350 seats), Birmingham, Alabama.

Metro-Goldwyn

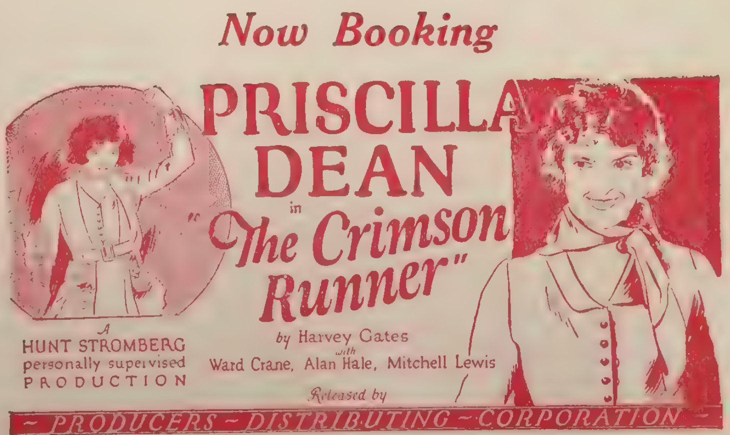
BOY OF FLANDERS. (7,018 feet). Star, Jackie Coogan. The boy seems to be slipping here. Does not draw anymore. It's a nice little picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Appeal to all classes. Admission 10-30. J. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

BOY OF FLANDERS. (7,018 feet). Star, Jackie Coogan. As always Jackie brings in the kiddies whereas the grown-ups do not respond as well. Whatever comments made were favorable. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

BREAD. (6,726 feet). Star, Mae Busch. I played this one on one of the worst nights of the year. On our best night, too, Sunday. Had a terrible storm. Pleased the few who came out to see it. Has an interesting story but not much action. Good print. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

BROKEN BARRIERS. (6,717 feet). Star, James Kirkwood. Just a little better than a program picture. Did fair business on this one. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Appeals to better class. Admission 10-30. J. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

CIRCE THE ENCHANTRESS. (6,882 feet). Star, Mae Murray. This might please, but I have my doubts. However, it did please a few; but not enough for me to want her again soon. Miss Murray not so popular here. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.



Right Spirit

"If you will send some more blanks we will fill them out later and return them." O. F. Allen, Pastime Enterprises, Chelsea, Vermont.

It is this unselfish spirit of helpfulness which exists among the readers of Straight From the Shoulder that makes it possible for the host of exhibitors who benefit from these dependable tips, to avoid the pitfalls of indiscriminate, hit-or-miss booking.

JOIN "OUR GANG" AND SEND TIPS.

EAGLE'S FEATHER. (6,500 feet). Star, James Kirkwood. Pretty fair offering. Better than the average shoot 'em up western. Pleases quite well, but why use it when there are so many honest-to-goodness real pictures. Tone, okay. Fine audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

GREAT DIVIDE. (7,811 feet). Star, Alice Terry. Here's a film full of clean romantic heart interest. Beautiful scenery and a good box office attraction. Tearle plays the male lead. One hundred per cent. audience appeal. Tone good. Special, yes. R. A. Preuss, Arvada Theatre, Arvada, Colorado.

GREAT WHITE WAY. (10 reels). Star cast. Boys, this is a knockout. A sure fire box office attraction. Go after this big. We didn't but we packed them in anyhow. We bought it right and made some jack on it. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Big special. All classes, audience appeal. Better class town of 4,000. Admission 10-30. Joseph Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

HALF A DOLLAR BILL. (5,700 feet). Star cast. Was liked here and did a fair business. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

HIS HOUR. (6,300 feet). Star, John Gilbert. A very good love story with scenes of Egypt and Russia. Gilbert portrays an arogant and tantalizing lover who plays with the woman he loves until she just can't resist him. Especially pleases the young folks. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

JANICE MEREDITH. (10,685 feet). Star, Marion Davies. One of the best, in our judgment, this season, but we could not get the business we expected, second night just half of the first. Rental satisfactory and print excellent. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Farming community town of 1,021. Admission 10-25-30. H. S. Stansel, Ruleville Theatre (240 seats), Ruleville, Mississippi.

LONG LIVE THE KING. (9,364 feet). Star, Jackie Coogan. The first "King" picture that ever pleased here. Jackie pulled in a favorable crowd and, as usual pleased them all. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Coal miners, town of 1,365. Admission 10-20. Vanzo & Kopuster, Eagle Theatre (300 seats), Livingston, Illinois.

MARRIED FLIRTS. (6,705 feet). Star, Conrad Nagel. Very good program picture. Pulled very good for us. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Appeals to all classes. Better class town of 4,000. Admission 10-30. Joseph Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

NAVIGATOR. (5,600 feet). Star, Buster Keaton. Buster's best comedy feature. Will please your patrons to a tee. Many new and novel tricks that produces shrieks of laughter. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Very good audience appeal. General class town of 3,700. Admission 10-30. Krieghbaum Brothers, Char-Bell Theatre (800 seats), Rochester, Indiana.

OUR HOSPITALITY. (6,220 feet). Star, Buster Keaton. The previous Keaton I ran, "The Three Ages," was very slow, this one, however, is quite entertaining and went over okay. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

ROUGED LIPS. (5,150 feet). Star, Viola Dana. Rather below the usual standard of Dana pictures and also weak at the box office. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

SILENT ACCUSER. (6 reels). Star, Peter the Great (dog). A fine dog picture which went over big. Used it as a special and got away with it fine. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Suitable for special in some localities. Appeals to all classes. Admission 10-30. J. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

SINNERS IN SILK. (5,750 feet). Star, Conrad Nagel. Real good program picture. Did fair business on this one. Admission 10-30. J. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

SO THIS IS MARRIAGE. (6,300 feet). Star cast. Business not so good but due to opposition. This is one of the best features to date from Metro-Goldwyn. Will please all if you can get them in. The colored photography is beautiful. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

SNOB. (6,513 feet). Star, John Gilbert. A good story with characters portrayed by splendid cast and a moral that teaches a lesson to conceited and bigoted husbands. It will please all but the snobs. William M. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Now Booking

LOIS WILSON

Beauty and ability in one personality: appearing in Paramount pictures

Paramount

GUILTY ONE. (5,635 feet). Star cast. A fair picture. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. All classes town of 2,000. Admission 10-25. H. Lloyd, Colonial Theatre (400 seats), Post, Texas.

GUILTY ONE. (5,635 feet). Star, Agnes Ayres. Not much to this picture. No interest, no story and done very cheaply. It don't please many. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, fifty per cent. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

HERITAGE OF THE DESERT. (5,785 feet). Star cast. Good western of the better type. All Zane Grey stories popular here. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,312. Admission 10-20. M. J. Bradley, Airdome Theatre (300 seats), Thornton, Arkansas.

LILY OF THE DUST. (6,811 feet). Star, Pola Negri. If you can mentally disinfect your patrons as they leave your theatre, it might be safe to run this. Otherwise, leave it alone. It is punk to the core. Another one of Paramount's missouts in the Famous Forty. W. J. Powell, Lonet Theatre, Wellington, Ohio.

MANHATTAN. (6,415 feet). Star, Richard Dix. This is a surprise from Paramount. An action picture and Richard Dix does some great stunt stuff. Fast moving and lots of action. Good for a Saturday or any day. Audience said okay and that's the correct answer. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

MISSING MILLIONS. Star, Alice Brady. Good crook picture. Old but in good shape and well acted if you overlook the inconsistency that crops out in places. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Small town class and farmers town of 600. Admission 10-20-30. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

MORAL SINNER. (5,455 feet). Star cast. Only a fair picture. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. All classes town of 2,000. Admission 10-25. H. Lloyd, Colonial Theatre (400 seats), Post, Texas.

ONLY 38. Star cast. I didn't even take in thirty-eight dollars on this. Too slow. Good for nice sleep. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. No audience appeal. W. F. Loibl, Chimes Theatre, Cedarburg, Wisconsin.

STEPHEN STEPS OUT. (5,152 feet). Star, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Nothing to this one. Would make a good two reel comedy drama. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. No audience appeal. W. F. Loibl, Chimes Theatre, Cedarburg, Wisconsin.

BUFFALO BILL, JR.

The Weiss Bros.' star of "On the Go" has been caught here in a striking pose.

STORY WITHOUT A NAME. (7,912 feet). Star, Agnes Ayres. A dandy radio story that appealed greatly to those who saw it. Agricultural class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. L. M. Zug, Rialto Theatre (380 seats), Jerome, Idaho.

SWAN. (5,889 feet). Star, Frances Howard. One of the weakest pictures I have ever had from Paramount. Not bad but not good. The star is a mistake. Daniels would have made something of the part, Menjou does well and the story does nothing. Sunday, no. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

TOMORROW'S LOVE. (5,802 feet). Star, Agnes Ayres. This is a better picture than any of this star's I have run for some time. I classify it as a good program picture. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

TONGUES OF FLAME. Star, Thomas Meighan. Fine star, good direction, and story okay. For a dependable performance picture, Meighan always delivers the goods and this picture was no exception with the rule. More power to him. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

TO THE LAST MAN. (6,965 feet). Star, Richard Dix. If they had tried to make a hundred feet more there had been no actors left. Wholesale slaughter for six reels. Good if they like that kind. Sunday, no. Special, no. Small town class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

UNGUARDED WOMEN. (6,051 feet). Star, Richard Dix. Just a program picture. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

WOMAN PROOF. (7,657 feet). Star, Thomas Meighan. This is another Meighan knockout. Everybody pleased with this clean fast moving comedy. Give us more like this one. Tone, good. Appeal, good. Cannon & Trescott, Orpheum Theatre, Elsberry, Missouri.

WORLDLY GOODS. Star, Agnes Ayres. Six reels of good program entertainment. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

WORLDLY GOODS. Star, Agnes Ayres. A weak and ineffectual effort that brought poor results at the box office and pleased a small percentage. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Poor audience appeal. Better class city of 14,000. Admission 10-35. E. W. Collins, Grand Theatre (700 seats), Jonesboro, Arkansas.

WORLDLY GOODS. (6,085 feet). Star, Agnes Ayres. This is a clean picture without frills or furebelows but just full of action, interesting plot, fine acting and well directed and the scenario worthy of June Mathis. Why cannot directors realize that the public want this kind of a production and not the salacious and sex stuff. When your patrons have seen this picture they will go away well pleased. Try it. City and country class town of 3,000. Admission 10-30. George W. Walther, Dixie Theatre (500 seats), Kerrville, Texas.

WORLDLY GOODS. Star, Agnes Ayres. A very good program picture. Was very interesting, very true to life at the present day. Audience well pleased and that's the answer. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

Pathe

HOT WATER. (5 reels). Star, Harold Lloyd. An amusing comedy but not as good as "Why Worry?" or "Safety Last." I made a mistake in showing a real comedy, "The Sea Squawk," with Harry Langdon on same program. "Hot Water" gets a few laughs. "The Sea Squawk" is a scream. Tone good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal seventy-five per cent. General class, city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

KING OF WILD HORSES. (5 reels). Star cast. You can't go wrong on this one. It's a good program picture but not a special, although better than most so-called specials. Ed. Malhiot, Monarch Theatre Company, Alberta, Canada.

Preferred

BROKEN WING. (6,216 feet). Star, Kenneth Harlan. People here liked this picture immensely and business held up fairly well throughout the circuit. In fact, we had very favorable comments from all classes of people. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvanai.

VIRGINIAN. (8,010 feet). Star, Kenneth Harlan. For some reason this did not draw, and I lost money on it, but no fault of the picture, as it is a real feature, the producer sure knew his stuff, as this is one of the best pictures I have run this year. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

Says Prescott—

"Am glad to be of service to my fellow men."

E. N. Prescott has three theatres in and near Union, Maine. He is a busy man, but he takes time—not only finds time but MAKES opportunity—to send tips on his shows.

I'm proud of the friends who, like Prescott, stick by this axiom of life and give proof of their sincerity by sending tips constantly.

Adopt Prescott's motto.

SERVE YOUR FELLOW EXHIBITORS.

Principal

GIRLS MEN FORGET. Star cast. Pretty fair. Little slow and bought right. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

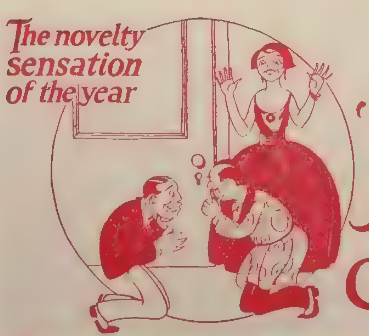
HELEN'S BABIES. Star, Baby Peggy. This pleased young and old on a Saturday night. I personally believe this to be the best Baby Peggy to date. I hope they make some more. Good tone. Family picture. Not suitable for special. Fine audience appeal. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth,

MINE WITH IRON DOOR. Star cast. This is a nice offering for Saturday. I was much disappointed as I looked for a better picture as it cost me quite a lot. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty per cent. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

Producers' Dist. Corp.

ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE. Star cast. Five reels of pretty well made melodrama. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

ANOTHER SCANDAL. (8 reels). Star, Lois Wilson. Fair program picture, which met no response at our box office. Tone, so, so. Sunday, no. Special, no. Average audience appeal. Farming class town of 1,021. Admission 10-25-30. H. S. Stansel, Ruleville Theatre (240 seats), Ruleville, Mississippi.



Now Booking

The novelty sensation of the year

GILBERT HEYFRON presents

A RENAUD HOFFMAN Picturization

"Private Affairs"

Released by

PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION

BARBARA FRIETCHIE. (7,179 feet). Star, Florence Vidor. Good picture but did not take with the public. Receipts not equal to film rental. Town of 9,237. Admission 10-25. Vine Theatre (600 seats), Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE. (7,179 feet). Star, Florence Vidor. Good Civil War story, but sincerity is off at times and staginess in evidence. Strenuous advertising failed to get extra business. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Not a special. Fair audience appeal. Farming community town of 1,021. Admission 10-25-30. H. S. Stansel, Ruleville Theatre (240 seats), Ruleville, Mississippi.

HER OWN FREE WILL. (6 reels). Star, Helene Chadwick. A fair program picture that did a fair business. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

HIS DARKER SELF. (5 reels). Star, Lloyd Hamilton. I did not see this personally, but what I heard from my patrons after its showing, led me to believe that it is absolutely unfit for showing to decent people. No tone. Sunday, no. Special, no. Repulsive audience appeal. Farming class town of 1,021. Admission 10-25-30. H. S. Stansel, Ruleville Theatre (240 seats), Ruleville, Mississippi.

NOT ONE TO SPARE. (5 reels). Star cast. A very nice program picture. It has enough pathos to touch the patrons' hearts. The home interest is there and so are the cute but devilish little children. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. General class town of 3,700. Admission 10-30. Krieghbaum Brothers, Char-Bell Theatre (800 seats), Rochester, Indiana.

RAMSHACKLE HOUSE. Star, Betty Compson. Good program picture. Betty Compson is another star who makes too many so has lost her pulling power here. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,- Pennsylvania.

ROARING RAILS. (5,753 feet). Star, Harry Carey. This is Harry Carey's best picture to date. A splendid supporting cast including little Frankie Darro and Edith Roberts with numerous thrills and heart interest scenes, a railroad wreck, villainy and heroism galore make a picture well worth looking at. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

United Artists

AMERICA. (14,000 feet). Star, Carol Dempster. Played three days to increased admissions and good business. The youngsters went wild over it. It pleased the old folks too. It should go over anywhere. Tone, good. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, Y Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

ALLENE RAY

Patheserial star appearing in "The Way of a Man," "The Fortieth Door" and "Galloping Hoofs."

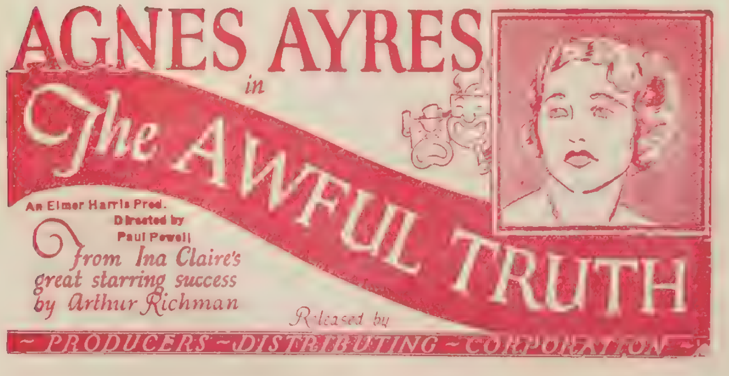
AMERICA. (14,000 feet). Star cast. Believe me boys, if you want to build mansions for D. W. Griffith, buy this one. I lost money and believe me no more. United Artists stuff for me. Cost too much. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

BIRTH OF A NATION. Star cast. Old as the hills but still a winner. Packed 'em in one night. Sorry I had another picture for next day. Should have played it two days. Print new. Tone, good. Special, yes. Audience appeal, very good. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

NUT. Star, Douglas Fairbanks. An aged United Artists release that our patrons thought about as nutty as it is aged. Good light entertainment. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Not a special. Audience appeal, sixty per cent. Town and rural class town of 1,178. Admission 10-25. W. C. Geer, Princess Theatre (175 seats), Vermont, Illinois.

Universal

DARLING OF NEW YORK. (6,260 feet). Star, Baby Peggy. The children of course flocked to see Peggy and the grown-ups even responded with a will. Not a big picture but an excellent one for the plain people. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.



Now Booking

AGNES AYRES in The AWFUL TRUTH

An Elmer Harris Prod.
Directed by Paul Powell

from Ina Claire's great starring success by Arthur Richman

Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

DEAD GAME. (4,819 feet). Star, Hoot Gibson. Picture was okay but not very much action in it. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Miners and farmers town of 600. Admission 10-25. John Russell, Russell Theatre (250 seats), Matherville, Illinois.

FAST WORKER. (6,500 feet). Star, Reginald Denny. Very good comedy drama. Should please most any audience. Regular "Keystone" comedy finish. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

FIGHTING FURY. (4,481 feet). Star, Jack Hoxie. Good program picture. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Farmers and merchants town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

FLYING HOOFS. Star, Jack Hoxie. A little better than the average Hoxie, but they don't spend much time in the making of Hoxie pictures. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. Masses city of 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre (350 seats), Birmingham, Alabama.

HOOK AND LADDER. (6 reels). Star, Hoot Gibson. A Gibson that gets away from the western and is certainly very good. You need not be afraid of it. Hoot seems to put over any kind. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

LOVE AND GLORY. Star cast. Good in spots but spoiled by too much weeping and sadness. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

RECKLESS AGE. (6,954 feet). Star, Reginald Denny. An excellent picture. Very entertaining and plenty of action, also abundance of wholesome comedy. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

ROSE OF PARIS. (6,362 feet). Star, Mary Philbin. Just a program picture. Rather slow and no puller. Mary Philbin more beautiful than ever in this which is its best point. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

SIGN OF THE CACTUS. Star, Jack Hoxie. Just another Hoxie with not much of anything. Universal will have to get him into something with action or the people will sour on him. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

SIGN OF THE CACTUS. Star, Jack Hoxie. Universal does not seem to get Hoxie in stuff with action. He is getting in stuff that drags along too much. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

SMOLDERING FIRES. Star, Laura La Plante. Good. Just enough comedy to relieve the dramatic situations. Will please most any audience. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (730 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

THUNDERING DAWN. (6,600 feet). Star, J. Warren Kerrigan. Was liked by patrons here and did a fair business. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

TORNADO. (6,576 feet). Star, House Peters. Very good production. Worth seeing. Very realistic tornado and torrent scenes couldn't be surpassed. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Farmers and merchants town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

Vitagraph

BEHOLD THIS WOMAN. (6,425 feet). Star, Irene Rich. Very good picture spoiled by a hundred feet of suggestive scenes that outraged anyone's sense of decency. Cut it, before showing and you will have good entertainment. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

BELOVED BRUTE. Star cast. A splendid picture which will especially please action loving audiences. W. C. T. U. people object to the dance hall scenes, and it is not a good plot for the kiddies. Tone, all right. Sunday, no. Special, questionable. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Residenital class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. John McGill, Liberty Theatre (250 seats), Port Orchard, Washington.

CLEAN HEART. Star cast. This is the worst Vitagraph picture that I have ever run. Don't see with the good actors they had in it that it could be so terrible. Nothing to it. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (180 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

CLEAN HEART. Star cast. Very good picture, which pleased all who saw it. Many prospective patrons took a walk when they saw "Cruelties of Life" tacked onto the title on the advertising material. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good appeal. Residential class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. John McGill, Liberty Theatre (250 seats), Port Orchard, Washington.

FEARBOUND. Star, Marjorie Daw. Not much. Too draggy and impossible. Small, cowardly youth after five reels of cowardice suddenly becomes a giant and whips four big men at once. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Railroad class and miners town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre, Gallup, New Mexico.

Warner Bros.

BABBITT. (8 reels). Star cast. Only a fair picture. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. All classes town of 2,000. Admission 10-25. H. Lloyd, Colonial Theatre (400 seats), Post, Texas.

CORNERED. (7,500 feet). Star, Marie Prevost. A very good crook story, with Miss Prevost doing a fine bit of acting in a double role. One of the best in the Warner group. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

CORNERED. (7,500 feet). Star, Marie Prevost. Good mystery play that didn't draw. I think Marie Prevost, also Monte Blue, are used too much by Warner Brothers. No draw. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

FIND YOUR MAN. Star, Rin-Tin-Tin (dog). Not as good as the first Rin-Tin-Tin picture. Poor story. Dog okay, but stunts are similar to the last one. Tone, fair. Probably suitable for Sunday. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

HER MARRIAGE VOW. (7,100 feet). Star, Monte Blue. Put this down as a pretty fair program picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES. (6 reels). Star, Johnny Hines. This was the best program show that we have had in a blue moon. The comedy stuff in this one is great. Everybody pleased with this on a Saturday. Tone, okay. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

MAIN STREET. Star, Florence Vidor. This one did not do very well here. We have a "Main Street" in our town and it did not suit them. This was not as good as the other Warner's we have had. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

PATSY RUTH MILLER

Who has just signed a contract to star in Warner Brothers pictures.

Comedies

BODY IN BAG. (Pathe). These cartoon comedies are okay. Amusing, well done and always pack a laugh. Makes a good break now and then from the other comedies. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Good audience appeal. General class town of 2,000. Admission 15-25. E. N. Prescott, Prescott Theatre (250 seats), Union, Maine.

BY STORK DELIVERY. (State Right). Star cast. A fair comedy, but photography seemed blurry. Would have been fairly good if clear. Tone, fair. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 2,200. Admission 15-25. E. N. Prescott, Prescott Theatre (250 seats), Union, Maine.

COMMENCEMENT DAYS. (Pathe). "Our Gang." We must hand it to the "Gang" as a clever bunch, also the director for carrying out details. The comments on "Joe" and "Mickey" are big all around. We feature "Gang" week, as our patrons are assured of great laughs and clean comedy. Silverman Brothers, Strand Theatre, Altoona, Pennsylvania.

CORNFED. (Educational). Star, Bobby Vernon. Bobby Vernon's comedies are so consistently good that we are planning on buying a rubber stamp with "This is a fine comedy. Well worth playing. Bobby kept 'em laughing to the finish," to stamp these reports when we play one of his productions. Town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

FIRST HUNDRED YEARS. (Pathe). Star, Harry Langdon. Good comedy and will please all. Langdon always good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

GUMP COMEDIES. (Universal). Star, Joe Murphy. These comedies are very good. We have played several and all have given satisfaction. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Town and rural class town of 1,178. Admission 10-25. W. C. Geer, Princess Theatre (175 seats), Vermont, Illinois.

HIS TRYSTING PLACE. (State Right). Star, Charles Chaplin. Came on two spools and the two wouldn't make one. Condition awful. Took it off after first show and put on a real comedy. Why will they dump their waste basket on us, now and then? I kicked. Company gave me credit for it. No tone. Special, no. No audience appeal. General class town of 2,200. Admission 15-25. E. N. Prescott, Prescott Theatre (250 seats), Union, Maine.

JONAH JONES. (Educational). Star, Lloyd Hamilton. Good; has several new gags. Silverman Brothers, Strand Theatre, Altoona, Pennsylvania.

KILLING TIME. (Educational). Star, Lloyd Hamilton. A fair comedy with a lot of Hamilton's old tricks revamped. He has made better ones, as this one was full of old gags. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

LOOKING DOWN. (Universal) Star, Wanda Wylie. This is my first Century comedy. If the others are like it I wish it were my last. All classes town of 3,000. Admission 10-30. M. W. Larmour, National Theatre (430 seats), Graham, Texas.

LONESOME. (Educational). Star, Lloyd Hamilton. Poor Lloyd. He really must have been lonesome on the day he made this one, as on one seemed to be present to help him out. The old gag with the two bits boarding house and another guy stealing the cover; a clam eating episode that brought one or two giggles. This is far below Hamilton's other comedies, according to knocks heard as audience passed out. Town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

MISFIT. (Educational). Star, Clyde Cook. Educational comedies are consistently one hundred per cent good. Tone, none. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

ROUGHING IT. (Pathe). The first part of this comedy is absolutely the silliest thing you have ever seen. Towards the last it picks up some, but as a whole just fair. No tone. Not suitable for any time. No audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

THERE HE GOES. (Educational). Star,

Now Booking

HARRY CAREY in "Silent Sanderson"

Directed by Scott R. Dunlap

A Hunt Stromberg personally supervised production

Released by

PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION

Lige Conley. Lige excellent in this one and had the patrons grabbing for air. That boy should be kept in action comedies, as he plays the speedy parts to perfection. More like this one, Lige, and we'll send you our tintype. Tone good. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. Town of 1,000. Admission 10-25-15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

Short Subjects

GO-GETTERS. (F. B. O.). Star, Alberta Vaughn. An excellent comedy. Seems to draw well. Can't go wrong on these comedies. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Farm and city class town of 150. Admission 15-30. Robert W. Hines, Hines Theatre (150 seats), Loyalton, South Dakota.

K. O. FOR CUPID. (Universal). Star, Jack Dempsey. The last of the Dempsey pictures has gone over for me. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

PATHE NEWS NO. 10. (Pathe). This was a fine news all through, entertaining, and all the events were good. Always a consistent subject for any house. Tone, good. Good audience appeal. General class town of 2,200. Admission 15-35. E. N. Prescott, Prescott Theatre (250 seats), Union, Maine.

SPORTLIGHTS. (Pathe). Grantland Rice Sportlights are fine. Consistently more entertainment for all classes of patrons than any other single reel ever used. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. Town and rural class of 1,178. Admission 10-25. W. C. Geer, Princess Theatre (175 seats), Vermont, Illinois.

WINNING HIS WAY. (Universal). Star, Jack Dempsey. This one is not worth very much. Is not what the people expected it to be. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Miners and farmers town of 600. Admission 10-25. John Russell, Russell Theatre (250 seats), Matherville, Illinois.

Independent

BARBED WIRE. (State Right). Star, Jack Hoxie. A fairly good western picture. Our print was in awful shape. Four breaks, misframes, short scenes. Audience wanted to know when we would show the whole of it. Tone, good. Special, no. General class town of 2,200. Admission 15-25. E. N. Prescott, Prescott Theatre (250 seats), Union, Maine.

BATTLING BUDDY. (Artclass). Star, Buddy Roosevelt. Rotten, terrible. I steer clear of Buddy. No tone. Not suitable for special. Audience appeal, fifty per cent Masses city of 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre (350 seats), Birmingham, Alabama.

BLACK LIGHTNING. (State Right). Star cast. A very good picture. The dog is wonderful. N. Russell, Russell Theatre (500 seats), Barnesboro, Pennsylvania.

Hedberg Hollers

"Van—Keep after the 'Gang.'

"Some of our regulars seem to be lagging.

"Give them a punch and tell 'em we miss 'em." H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

Biff!

Now—

SEND IN THE TIPS, FOLKS.

BLOOD AND STEEL. (State Right). Star, William Desmond. Not a special but a picture crammed with action and thrills. If your audience likes such stuff, give them this one. A very satisfactory program picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

DARING LOVE. (State Right). Star, Wallace Hammerstein. Pretty good picture. Seemed to please most all. Enough comedy in it to make it good. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty-five per cent. Farm and city class town of 150. Admission 15-30. Robert W. Hines, Hines Theatre (150 seats), Loyalton, South Dakota.

DESERTED AT THE ALTAR. (State Right). Star, Bessie Love. Good title and good drawing power. This is more like the old-time melodrama with a happy ending. Drew fairly well. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

FIRE PATROL. (Chadwick). Star cast. A well made melodrama, but failed to go with my crowd very well. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

GOLD MADNESS. (State Right). Star, Guy Bates Post. In my estimation a fine production from Curwood's story, "Man from Tenstrike." Good story, beautiful scenery, well acted. Has most everything to please the average fan. "Play it." Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. General class town of 2,200. Admission 15-25. E. N. Prescott, Prescott Theatre (250 seats), Union, Maine.

HEART O' THE WEST. (State Right). Star, Lester Cuneo. Just an ordinary western. Tone, okay. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. All classes town of 3,000. Admission 10-30. M. W. Larmour, National Theatre (430 seats), Graham, Texas.

LONE HAND TEX. (State Right). Star, Lester Cuneo. A fair western program picture that pleased only 75 per cent. Again the producer makes a fool of the star. This time the old gag of the hero playing the "bug hunter" in order to get evidence against a bad gang. Patrons want a western hero to be a heroic figure from foot one, reel one, to the last inch of reel five. Town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

MAN FROM RIO GRANDE. (State Right). Star, Art Mix. If this fellow is a western actor, why so am I. If he don't get any better they will have to tie him on his horse to keep him from falling off. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, good. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

ONE-EIGHTH APACHE. (Arrow). Star, Roy Stewart. Fair picture but dragged somewhat. The action is all in the last two reels. However, it got by for a day. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, fifty per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

PLAYING THE PONIES. (Arrow). Star cast. About the poorest horse race stories I have ever run. Cast of amateurs and picture cheaply put together. Lay off. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, fair. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

RACING FOR LIFE. (State Right). Star, William Fairbanks. An automobile racing story with plenty of action and all good actors. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (180 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

R'ARIN' TO GO. (State Right). Star, Buffalo Bill, Jr. A good enough western for anybody that likes westerns with plenty of everything. This boy is a comer. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

RIDING WEST. (State Right.) Star, Jack Perrin. Just another average western, if there is such a picture; not bad nor nothing extra either; no danger of your patrons hunting you up next day to tell you how good it is. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Not much audience appeal. Small town class town of 300. Admisison 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

SPEED SPOOK. (C. C. Burr). Star, Johnny Hines. A crackerjack picture, but struck a very cold night and I lost money on it. Should have been a clean up if weather was right. Print good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Very good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

THREE KEYS. (Banner). Star cast. This is a dandy. When you run features like this you can look your patrons in the eye as they pass out, and it sure is a "Grand and Glorious Feeling." Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

TIE THAT BINDS. Star cast. This one proved very weak for us. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Better class town of 4,000. Admission 10-30. Jos. Angros, Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg. Pennsylvania.

WOMEN FIRST. (State Right). Star, Eva Novak. Here is a nice little picture that will go over with any audience. Has some real comedy and thrills; winds up with a pip of a horse race. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Fine audience appeal. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

YANKEE SPEED. (Idependent). Star, Kenneth McDonald. Another very good action picture. Star does stunts equal to Richard Talmadge, and he is making a name for himself. Patrons ask for him. Print new. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Very good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Adission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

Now Booking

PRISCILLA DEAN in "The Crimson Runner"

by HARVEY GATES

Directed by TOM FORMAN

A HUNT STROMBERG personally supervised production

Released by

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Artclass Pictures Corp. Stars Finish No. 1 Series

ANNOUNCEMENT of the completion of both the Buffalo Bill, Jr. and Buddy Roosevelt series of five reel action-stunt features, produced by Lester F. Scott, Jr., and distributed by Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation, was made early this week by Louis Weiss, managing executive of Artclass.

The first print of "Double-Action Daniels," the eighth and last of the popular Buffalo Bill, Jr., series, which was made under the direction of Richard Thorpe, reached New York last week, while "Fast Fightin'," the final offering in the series of his companion star, Buddy Roosevelt, went to the cutting room a fortnight earlier. Both features will be ready to go to the exchanges about April 1.

According to Louis Weiss, both these young stunt stars have made records for themselves in their particular field during the season just past, by reason of their willingness to undertake almost any hazard in order to give their audiences an added thrill, and both have won high screen distinction as purveyors of the best kind of entertainment in this type of picture.

Both the Buffalo Bill, Jr. and the Buddy Roosevelt features have won wide popularity, according to Mr. Weiss, many theatres having rebooked pictures of both stars, after their initial showing, in compliance with the demands made by their patrons.

For the information of those interested, the complete list of features in the No. 1 Buffalo Bill, Jr., series, follows: "Rarin' to Go," "Fast and Fearless," "Hard Hittin' Hamilton," "Bringin' Home the Bacon," "Thundering Romance," "Full Speed," "On the Go," and "Double-Action Daniels."

The titles of the eight Buddy Roosevelt No. 1 series, now completed and ready for distribution, are: "Rough Ridin'," "Battling Buddy," "Biff-Bang Buddy," "Walloping Wallace," "Rip-Roarin' Roberts," "Cyclone Buddy," "Gold and Grit," and "Fast Fightin'."

Telegraph advices from Mr. Scott announced this week that camera work has been begun on the first of the new 1925-26 series of five-reel Buddy Roosevelt thrillers.

The new series, which it is announced will strike a new note in entertainment and box office qualitiy for this type of feature, will be directed by Tom Gibson. Mr. Scott, who came East during the holiday season to gather story material for this series, as well as for two additional series of five-reel stunt dramas planned for release by Artclass, is said to have secured some unusual and decidedly novel action plots that lend themselves especially to this type of picture, and which, it is forecast, will prove to be in the nature of screen sensations when filmed.

Simultaneously with the announcement that work had been begun on the new Buddy Roosevelt series, Weiss Brothers were also advised of the shipment of the first print on "Double-Action Daniels," eighth and last feature of the Buffalo Bill, Jr. No. 1 series, and the announcement that work on his new 1925-26 series would be begun about April 1.

"Double-Action Daniels" was produced by Mr. Scott, under the direction of Richard Thorpe, from a story by Elizabeth Burbridge, a well-known writer of Western fiction.

An exceptionally strong cast has been assembled to support Buffalo Bill, Jr., practically all of whom are favorites of established reputation in this form of screen drama. Among them may be mentioned Lorna Palmer, Edna Hall, J. P. Lockney, Edward Peil, D'Arcy Corrigan, N. E. (Shorty) Henfrix, Lafe McKee, Harry Belmore, Clyde McClary and William Ryno.

Of these, Miss Palmer, alone, is a comparative newcomer to the screen, having won the Los Angeles Examiner's "Extra Girl Contest," and a prize of $500 a few months ago, since which time she has played with Colleen Moore in a small part in "Sally," and with Jack Hoxie in some of his latest releases.

She is making her bow as an ingenue lead with Buffalo Bill, Jr., in "Double-Action Daniels," and her work is said to indicate a rapid rise for her on the silver sheet.

RALPH GRAVES
Starred in Mack Sennett comedies, released by Pathe.

Michigan Theatres Sign

Three more theatres in the State of Michigan have signed Metro-Goldwyn contracts and will play the entire Metro-Goldwyn product for 1924-25. These three theatres are the Orpheum, in Hancock; the Copper Theatre, also in Hancock, and the Laurium, in Calumet.

Columbia Signs Wampas Star, Miss Revier the Lucky Girl

THE Columbia Pictures Corporation has signed one of the twelve Wampas stars for 1925 on a long term contract. This is in accordance with a statement made some time ago by Harry Cohn that he had a long time contract ready for one of the stars selected by this organization when their final selections should be made.

Exhibitors have been constantly demanding that producers show new faces on the screen. The public are discontented with just a few stars who are sewed up in contracts with a certain few producers. It is in compliance with this demand that Columbia Pictures decided to acquire the services of a young star who should be selected by a jury in whom every one would rely.

Dorothy Revier is the fortunate young lady. She is well known to many directors and has played minor parts in a great number of big productions. Her selection by the Wampas and the contract which followed will place her in the ranks of featured stars.

The judgment of Columbia Pictures has been justified, for they have already received a number of offers from various of the larger West Coast producers to have her fill in some of her time playing in their productions. A number of special stories have been prepared for this young star, and after production on these has been started her time will be too fully occupied by Columbia for them to be able to loan her to other producers.

Fox Gets F. W. Murnau, Who Directed "The Last Laugh"

F. W. MURNAU, the youthful German director who attracted world-wide attention recently as the result of his successful effort in making a picture without titles, has been secured by Fox Film Corporation to direct a number of productions that company will release next season.

Murnau will report to the Fox Hollywood studios early in January, 1926, and will immediately start work. Some of the most ambitious productions on the Fox schedule will be awaiting his arrival. Murnau's delay in coming to the United States is caused by other contractural obligations that he is now bending every effort to complete.

Although one of the youngest men to wield a megaphone on a motion picture set, Mr. Murnau has a large following throughout the world and especially in the United States. His latest work to reach this country, "The Last Laugh," was the titleless picture that made him the cynosure of all eyes. It is one of the very few foreign-made pictures to attain any amount of popular success here.

A six-footer, red-headed, of fine physique and wonderful appeal, Mr. Murnau is noted for his earnestness and true German thoroughness. His lighting effects are considered the last word in motion picture photography and are the result of his own studies.

One of the outstanding characteristics of Mr. Murnau's pictures is their international appeal. Unlike most foreign directors and many of our American directors, he does not aim to satisfy any particular class or nationality. For this reason, with the limited equipment to be found in German studios, he has been able to make pictures that have received the approval of the most exacting audiences of the world and the super-critical American public.

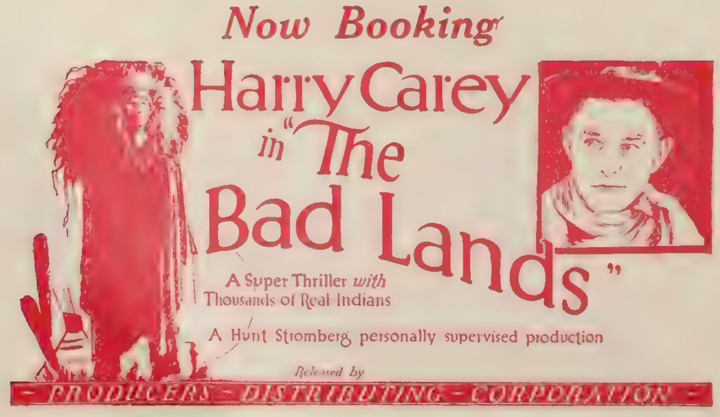
Century Comedy Production for Next Year Based on Big Budget

THE most pretentious schedule of comedy production ever projected by the Century Film Corporation is being planned for the coming season, word comes from Julius Stern, president of the Century Company, now in Los Angeles. A budget of $500,000 has been definitely decided upon. This sum will be devoted exclusively to the production of two-reel comedies.

Production will commence early next fall and continue through the following winter. All production will be made at the Hollywood studios of the Century company, with the exception of frequent trips to locations in Southern California, it is announced by the Century official.

"We inaugurated a new production policy this winter and the results we have obtained with it encourages us to an even greater effect in production," explained the Century president. "Instead of making just 52 comedies a year with assorted stars and players, we determined to make four series of twelve two-reelers each with four popular stars. These stars are Wanda Wiley, Edna Marian, Eddie Gordon and Al Alt. This new production and release policy met with instant accord on the part of exhibitors. We began to get sales reports showing a widespread interest in Wanda Wiley comedies, or Eddie Gordon comedies or Edna Marian comedies, etc., on the part of big first-run exhibitors who previously had used our product only at rare intervals. Sales jumped up; bookings began to establish new records.

"We realized that we were on the right track. Now, wiith a definite schedule of star comedies lined up, it only remains for us to put more into them. Century now has four directors at work. They are William Watson, Noel Smith, Edward I. Luddy and Charles Lamont. We are working on the theory that the comedy part of a program belongs in lights just as much as the feature."



Now Booking
Harry Carey
in "The Bad Lands"
A Super Thriller with Thousands of Real Indians
A Hunt Stromberg personally supervised production
Released by
- PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION -

HAROLD LLOYD
Pathe feature-comedy star.

Goebel Back from Chicago

Associated Arts Corporation Buys Approximately 100 Acres for Studio Purposes

O. E. Goebel, secretary and general manager of Associated Arts Corporation, 80 Fifth avenue, has just returned from a trip to Chicago, with the announcement that he has closed a deal for his company for the purchase of a large tract of land on Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles. The property is to be used for studio purposes and approximates about one hundred acres.

This property, while located in the city limits of Los Angeles, is on the boulevard that runs from that city to Santa Monica and in the neighborhood where several large producers have recently closed deals for studio property.

"The officials of Associated Arts Corporation are using foresight," said Mr. Goebel, speaking of the deal. "They recognize the fact that all big studio sites in this particular neighborhood are becoming very valuable and that the tract of land they have just purchased is an exceptionally desirable one. This purchase was made with the view to undertaking big studio operations in the future. At the present time Associated Arts Corporation is making its pictures in the F. B. O. studios, for which company it is now producing."

When Mr. Goebel was asked how soon his company contemplated the erection of buildings on the newly acquired property, he said that there were no definite plans at present and it would be some time before any would materialize.

To Film Porter Novels

A deal by which F. B. O. expects to obtain the rights to various other stories by the late Gene Stratton Porter is in the making following the signing of Leo Meehan, son-in-law of the famous novelist, to direct "Her Father's Daughter," one of the best known books of the authoress. Mr. Meehan, it will be remembered, directed "A Girl of the Limberlost," which was made for F. B. O. some time ago and which proved a big box office success as well as an artistic picture. Casting for "Her Father's Daughter" will begin as soon as Mr. Meehan completes his work on the script of the production.

(Continued from page 458)

Evelyn Brent gives a good performance of the role, although it is hardly plausible to believe that she could so dominate her rascally crew who seem to fear her. Robert Ellis capably portrays the hero and Boris Karloff is entirely satisfactory as an unusually cold-blooded villain.

There is the tang of adventure to the story. However inconsistencies and lack of logic weaken the force of some of the situations, and as a consequence its appeal is limited to its snappy action and melodramatic thrills.

Cast

Captain "Joe"	Evelyn Brent
Jerry Burke	Robert Ellis
Pietro	Boris Karloff

Story and scenario by F. K. Myton.
Directed by Tom Buckingham.
Length, 4,850 feet.

Story

Embittered because her father a captain in the navy has been disgraced, though innocent Captain "Joe" operates a rum-runner. Jerry Burke, sent to the Bahamas to trap liquor smugglers, meets Joe, but her first-mate Pietro, in love with her, discovers Jerry is a secret service agent, and is shanghaied aboard Joe's boat. Hi-jackers attack the boat and Joe is wounded, Jerry takes her aboard the hi-jackers' boat and they land on a lonesome island and send word to her father. Pietro gets the message and takes Joe and Jerry aboard the rum-runner and to make Joe marry him, prepares to torture Jerry by putting molten lead in his eyes. Joe sends an S. O. S. call to a U. S. warship. Pietro dynamites the rum-runner, but Joe and Jerry escape and are picked up. Through Jerry's influence, Joe's father is vindicated.

"Contraband"

Allan Crossland Makes Fine Melodramatic Production for Paramount From Kelland Story

Reviewed by Epes W. Sargent

Starting with an elaborate and somewhat labored establishment of the basis of the story, "Contraband," at first suggests a somewhat sluggish theme, but once the necessary explanation is disposed of the rest of the picture is a straight melodramatic story in which the crises come so close that only a succession of well-planned comedy interruptions make it possible to hold the pace to the end.

The scenarist steps on the gas about the middle of the first reel and after that the story mounts swiftly to a smashing climax. Taking only the highlights from the Clarence Buddington Kelland story about bootlegging from which this theme is derived, director, scenarist and players work with a will to a common end, and the result is a finely proportioned melodrama that grips and holds the imagination not alone through the pictured action but for the interest which the various players create for their picture personalities.

You are interested in the story because you become interested in its people, and the result is a better offering than is usually to be found under this classification. It should give practically universal audience satisfaction.

Lois Wilson is natural and appealing as the girl who inherits a moribund country weekly, and Raymond McKee, after his first overstressed scene, makes a capital opposite. Edwards Davis is a convincing villain and the remainder of the cast all hold the picture, though Noah Beery, apparently in an effort to be "different" from his usual roles, is not as good as usual as the crooked deputy. The direction is capital and the atmosphere of the small town is convincingly reproduced. Moreover there is a surprising amount of good comedy naturally introduced.

Cast

Carmel Lee	Lois Wilson
Deputy Jenney	Noah Beery
Launcelot Bangs	Raymond Hatton
Evan B. Pell	Raymond McKee
Sheriff Churchill	Charles Ogle
Tubal	Luke Cosgrave
Abner Fownes	Edwards Davis
Simmy	Johnny Fox
George Bogardus	Victor Potel
Jared Whitfield	Alphonse Ethier
Pee Wee Bangs	Caesare Gravina
Mrs. Churchill	Lillian Leighton

Story by Clarence Buddington Kelland.
Scenario by Jack Cunningham.
Directed by Allan Crossland.
Length, 6,773 feet.

Story

Carmel Lee inherits a country newspaper and comes to take charge. Soon after her arrival Sheriff Churchill disappears. His friend intimates that he knew too much about the lawless element. Carmel decides to play up the incident in spite of the warning of Jenney, Churchill's deputy, who is associated with Abner Fownes, the town's leading citizen, in the reception and forwarding of bootleg liquor. An effort is made to trap Carmel in the road house which is the headquarters of the gang, but instead they entrap Professor Pell, who after his dismissal from the Superintendency of the schools has been hired by the sympathetic Carmel. Pell is made a captive and the following night Carmel blunders into the trap after solving the mystery of the Sheriff's murder. She and Pell are locked into a room, with the intent of compromising them, but Pell aids her escape and in spite of a sprained ankle remains to hold the fort while she rushes into town for help, which arrives just in time to capture the entire outfit.

"Declasse"

Corinne Griffith Gives Fine Performance in Tense Society Drama Adapted from Stage Success

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Zoe Akin's "Declasse," which on the stage with Ethel Barrymore in the leading role was a big success, has been adapted to the screen and proves to be an excellent vehicle for Corinne Griffith.

This picture, which is being distributed through First National, has as its heroine an impetuous high-class English noblewoman who, unjustly accused of infidelity by her coarse and brutal husband because of an indiscreet letter, is divorced and disgraced and becomes "declasse." The story follows her career, and shows her forsaking London for New York, where, without friends and her money giving out, she at last comes to the point where she is willing to become the mistress of a man who has persistently sought her. Inherited nobility of character finally comes to the fore and she chooses to seek death rather than dishonor, and finally finds happiness.

The early part of the story, despite the heavy stressing of the society angle, with its adherence to and breaking of set social forms, introduces tense if not entirely convincing drama. One may question whether the heroine would under the circumstances have denounced the hero and his associates, but there is no gainsaying the fact that this situation is dramatic, especially in the turn of events where after championing the hero he turns out to be a cheater at cards and is openly denounced. This brings in a decided "punch" and a wholly unexpected one.

With the transfer of the locale to New York the story until the final climax deals entirely with the decline of the heroine's fortunes and the attempt of a persistent and unprincipled suitor to persuade her to give up the fight and accept his "protection." While there is a good psychological pull here and a strong sympathetic appeal, so much footage has been used in these scenes that the interest is not well sustained, and in bolstering up the lack of action and incident broad comedy has been introduced that, while at times amusing, seems out of keeping with the tempo of the story, as does the melodramatic touch at the end.

Nevertheless, due to smooth and effective direction that brings out the big points, and primarily to an excellent performance by Corinne Griffith, the picture is one that should prove good entertainment for the majority and appeal especially to the higher class patrons. We consider Miss Griffith's portrayal in this picture her best work. She is not only an ideal type for the role but her work is so convincing that she immediately gets your sympathy and holds it. When she gives way you pity rather than censure her. She certainly makes a lovely picture with gorgeous gowns that delight the eye, even in the scenes after her money is all gone.

Lloyd Hughes has not much to do as the hero but acquits himself creditably, and Clive Brook gives a thoroughly capable performance as the persistent suitor. Rockliffe Fellowes is convincing as the brutal husband. In fact the entire cast does high class work.

Cast

Lady Helen	Corinne Griffith
Ned Thayer	Lloyd Hughes
Rudolph Solomon	Clive Brook
Sir Bruce Haden	Rockcliffe Fellowes
Mrs. Leslie	Lilyan Tashman
Lady Wildering	Hedda Hopper
Sir Emmett	Bertram Johns
Timmins	Gale Henry
Mrs. Walton	Louise Fazenda
Mr. Walton	Eddie Lyons
Manager	Mario Carillo
Henri	Paul Weigel

Based on play by Zoe Akins.
Directed by Robert Vignola.
Length, 7,869 feet.

Story

Lady Helen last of the proud and impulsive Varicks of England is married to Sir Bruce Haden an uncouth brute who treats her shamefully. Among her friends is Mrs. Leslie whose American brother-in-law, Ned Thayer has come to persuade her to return to her husband. Ned falls in love with Lady Helen and his love is returned, but she persuades him to leave her and writes one letter declaring her love. Mrs. Leslie gets it and by threatening to reveal it, makes Ned aid her in cheating at cards. Lady Helen discovers this and notwithstanding Mrs. Leslie's threat exposes them. Mrs. Leslie gives Sir Bruce the letter. Ned unaware of this goes to Africa. Lady Helen is divorced and comes to America, Solomon, an art collector, keeps trying to win her, but she turns down his offer of protection and luxury without a wedding ring until her money is all gone. Ned reads of the sensational divorce and comes to America but cannot find Lady Helen. Ned finally meets Lady Helen's maid and learns she is going to a party given by Solomon, and follows her there. Solomon has bought up all of Lady Helen's treasurers and when she sees a portrait of one of her ancestors with the legend "death before dishonor" she rushes out and casts herself in front of an auto. Ned rushes to her rescue. Solomon, realizing he has lost, leaves them to their happiness.

"Confessions of a Queen"

Colorful Romance of Mythical Kingdom Handled With Eye to Comedy Values Should Prove Pleasing

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

With a mythical Balkan kingdom as the background, Metro-Goldwyn's "Confessions of a Queen" starts out as if it is going to be another romance of the Graustark type, but, as might be expected from the clever and celebrated French author, Alphonse Daudet, on whose "Kings in Exile" the story is based, the theme is treated from an entirely different angle.

There is the imperious queen and the dissolute king who marries her for reasons of state and the familiar disgust of the queen for her royal spouse who has other loves, but instead of a dashing foreigner appearing on the scene and winning the queen's love, the king turns out to be not so bad after all. A revolution sends the royal family into exile; they get to know each other better, and finally to love one another as they should.

It is a cleverly written story, and the unexpected twist that the plot takes quickens the interest. In the earlier reels some of the scenes such as the interview in the royal bed-chamber following the wedding, when the king accedes to the queen's wish and withdraws and also the conversation with the prime minister regarding the necessity for an heir to the throne, have a Continental flavor, the subtitles being quite frank.

The treatment of the theme is sophisticated and there is considerable clever comedy, some of it being subtle, in fact it is due more to the clever handling and the amusing comedy plus the always effective work of Lewis Stone than to the story itself which is not altogether convincing, that makes this an enjoyable picture.

Added to this is the fact that Victor Seastrom has given the story fine mounting and excellent direction, some of the scenes being especially fine. It will probably prove a pleasing attraction for the majority and its clever touches would appeal to the sophisticated.

The value of the appearance of Alice Terry in the title role should not be overlooked. Her beauty and regal bearing is finely suited to the portrayal of the queen. John Bowers does well with the rather thankless role of Alexei the Virtuous who turns out to be more like a villain, and the subordinate roles are satisfactorily handled.

Cast

Queen	Alice Terry
King	Lewis Stone
Prince Alexei	John Bowers
Eleanora	Eugenie Besserer
Sephora	Helena D'Algy
Prince Zara	Frankie Darro
Duke of Rosen	Joseph Dowling
Lewin	Andre DeBeranger

Based on Alphonse Daudet's novel "Kings in Exile."
Scenario by Agnes Christine Johnston.
Directed by Victor Seastrom.
Length, 5,809 feet.

Story

The king of Illyria, fond of wine and women, is persuaded to marry a neighboring princess who requests that he leave her on their wedding night. He consents and she sees him in the arms of Sephora, his favorite, and becomes disgusted with him. Later a child is born but the queen is unhappy, her only friend being Prince Alexei. A revolution occurs and the king is willing to abdicate, but the queen demands the crown as her son's brithright. The royal party escape to Paris and become more friendly, but the queen still distrusts his easy-going love. A delegation arrives to invite the king to return as the revolution has been overthrown. He disgusts them by appearing intoxicated and adbicates in favor of his son who becomes king. He informs the queen that he has always loved her and did this for her sake and will arrange for a divorce. Though warned that Sephora is in league with the revolutionists he goes to her and she tries to poison him. The queen learns of this and appears just in time, informing the revolutionists that the king has abdicated and that she will stick to him.

"One Way Street"

Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson in a Rather Involved High Society Story For First National.

Reviewed by Tom Waller

A conglomeration of monkey glands, including an interpretation of the seeming difficulty to predominate London society, is the "Black Oxen" theory First National's "One Way Street," attempts to convey to the screen.

The whole thing seems to hinge upon an insipid youth who, figuratively speaking, possesses the unaccounted for ability to twirl society dames and debutantes, both dignified and giddy, around on his tiniest finger. This role is essayed by Ben Lyon to perfection, if an unconvincing, insincere, unsophisticated dolt of a youth was what the director was striving to present.

In "One Way Street" Anna Q. Nilsson changes her dress for every scene and her coiffure as well. One has to pay the closest attention in order to identify her during the six reels. Finally she lapses into a wrinkled old hag when the animal transfusions fail to function after an emotional siege necessitated by the discovery that she "planted" duplicate cards in her boy friend's pocket and made him appear to the distinguished guests as a cheat.

Sub-titling is relied upon to explain most of the action and some of these sub-titles are unusually lengthy. The story is choppy and may impress the average audience as meaningless and decidedly weak. In book form the plot may have been quite strong and effective but as for screen material in its present form some patrons may question the reason.

Cast

Bobby Austin	Ben Lyon
Lady Sylvia Hutton	Anna Q. Nilsson
Elizabeth Stuart	Marjorie Daw
Lady Frances Thompson	Dorothy Cumming
Sir Edward Hutton	Lumsden Hare

From the story by Beale Davis.
Adapted by Earl Hudson.
Directed by John Francis Dillon.
Length, 5,600 feet.

Story

Lady Hutton's interest in Bobby, a young American, is causing tongues to wag and Lady Thompson to attempt to depose her from the seat of social supremacy. Elizabeth Stuart, nearer Bobby's age and daughter of his boss, secures proof that Lady Hutton "framed" Bobby in a poker party. Lady Hutton, who was in the midst of rehearsing for charity a favorite operatic role, in which part she is said to have closely resembled an impresario of a score of years ago, becomes hysterical when the evidence is presented. She suddenly loses her beauty and before all becomes an old hag. She then reveals that she is the ancient stage favorite and that the high tension of the moment caused the ruination of a surgical operation which had hitherto been successful.

"The Bridge of Sighs"

Warner Bros. Offer Sentimental Melodrama With Dorothy Mackaill and Creighton Hale.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

There is a breeziness and snap about the earlier situations in the Warner Brothers production "The Bridge of Sighs" which would indicate that in spite of its title it is going to be a light romantic comedy drama. The hero is shown as a young fellow always ready to bet on anything, and making persistent attempts to gain the heroine's friendship. His gambling leads to a situation where he takes a pile of bills from his father's desk, and from this point on, the picture is extremely sentimental melodrama.

Once this angle is established, it would seem that all of the devices to produce pathos, heart-interest and sympathy are utilized. There is the faithful old clerk who is accused of taking the money, sent to prison where he becomes ill and finally pardoned broken in health; the thoughtless and care-free hero who is eager to atone when he sees the havoc his "joke" has wrought; the father who, stern with his erring son, is the soul of gentleness with his invalid wife and who to save her from knowing her son's shame has the boy shanghaied aboard a vessel, and finally when everything seems about due to take a more cheerful turn, a situation is introduced where the girl, going to borrow money for her invalid father is attacked by the false friend and saved in the nick of time by the hero. The situations have been so developed that there is no real villain in the main part of the story, everyone being more or less the victim of circumstances and an attempt made to excuse their actions.

Dorothy Mackaill and Creighton Hale in the leading roles, and Alec Francis as the girl's father, Ralph Lewis as the boy's father and Richard Tucker as the false friend are satisfactorily cast, though their work somehow lacks spontaneity as if they realized the situations are being over-stressed.

Except for the early comedy touches, the appeal is entirely to the emotions and sentimental side for the story is artificial and never convincing or dramatic. In our opinion, this picture ranks considerably below the usual high average of Warner Brother's productions and is only a fair program offering.

Cast

Linda Harper	Dorothy Mackaill
Billy Craig	Creighton Hale
John Harper	Alec. B. Francis
Glenn Hayden	Richard Tucker
William Craig	Ralph Lewis
Smithers	Clifford Saum
Mrs. Craig	Fanny Midgeley

Based on story by Charles K. Harris.
Directed by Phil Rosen.
Length, 6,604 feet.

Story

Billy, son of William Craig president of a steamship company rushes to the rescue of Linda Harper when she comes near being hit by a taxi. Later he finds out she is the daughter of an old employee of his father and by persistence wins her friendship and love. Billy is a spendthrift and when his father refuses to give him more money to meet his gambling debts he thinks it a great joke to take the money from a pile on his father's desk. Harper, Linda's father is accused when the money is missing and sent to prison. Billy returning from a trip learns this and confesses his guilt, but to save his invalid wife the shame, Craig has Billy shanghaied aboard one of the company boats. Billy escapes and returns to find his mother is dead. He confesses his guilt to Harper who has been pardoned and is ill at home and offers to go to jail. Harper's only request is that he keep the truth from Linda. Billy learns that Linda has in desperation gone to Glenn Hayden to try and borrow money to help her father. He follows her and arrives in time to save her from Glenn's unwelcome attentions, and they decide to get married immediately.

Be sure to send in reports to "Straight from the Shoulder" on pictures you play. Give the other fellow the benefit of your experience.

THE PEP OF THE PROGRAM

NEWS AND REVIEWS OF SHORT SUBJECTS AND SERIALS

"Red Pepper"

(Educational—Comedy—Two Reels)

This is a whiz of an Al. St. John-Jack White-Mermaid comedy, filled to the last celluloid inch with more than ordinary good gags and extremely well put together and acted. Most of the fun revolves around Al's increase of the sale of itching salve in his drugstore by sprinkling itching powder on people. Previous to this there are some highly humorous scenes of Al riding a bicycle also encumbered by a two hundred and some pound beauty in love with him. At the end Al gets the itching powder on himself and retires behind a bush, over the top of which you see clothes flying. Aiding in making "Red Pepper" a very attractive subject are Babe London, Peg O'Neil, Judy King, John Rand, Philip Sleeman and, of course, Director Arvid Gillstrom, but it is mostly Al St. John. —S. S.

"The Butterfly Man"

(Fox—Comedy—Two Reels)

With Sid Smith as a chap who chases butterflies with a net and accidentally captures a notorious bandit and is acclaimed as a hero, and William Franey as a "major" who imbibes too freely of anti-Volstead stuff, this Sunshine comedy is a fast moving and amusing slapstick offering. Sid has an awful time at the hands of a heavyweight rival who proceeds to wallop him whenever no one is looking. A very laughable scene shows these two giving a burlesque version of an acrobatic dance, in which the rival literally uses Sid to wipe up the floor. There is plenty of material here to make it a satisfactory offering for the slapstick fans and it should get a lot of laughs.—C. S. S.

"Inside Out"

(Educational—Comedy—One Reel)

How a hotel's press agent draws the crowds and ruins the hotel with a story about it containing a lost treasure, is the theme of 'Inside Out," a Cameo comedy in which Cliff Bowes and Virginia Vance do most of the capering. It possesses a lot of slapstick stuff and does not lag for even a second. The fortune hunters with picks and shovels demolishing the hotel before the phoney story is announced by the management have their amusing incidents and make this one-reeler a woth while comedy.—T. W.

"Movie Morsels"

(Educational—Magazine—One Reel-

This issue of Lyman H. Howe's Hodge Podge presents a wide variety of travel pictures. First come the Rainbow Falls in Hawaii, a close-up of a Mexican peon and the reflection of Mt. Assiniaboine in Western Canada. Other subjects are harvesting in Saskatchewan, rowing practice on deck, fishing in British Guina, a Holland wedding, Korean natives, scenes of Peru and an illustration of the hydraulic method of getting gold from gravel in Oregon. As usual there are several amusing cartoon bits.—S. S.

"Shorts" Reviewed In This Issue

Breaking the Ice (Pathe)
Butterfly Man, The (Fox)
From Mars to Munich (Fox)
Housing Shortage, The (Pathe)
Inside Out (Educational)
Loaded Dice (Universal)
Love Bug, The (Pathe)
Mellow Quartette, The (Educational) Movie Morsels (Educational)
Pathe Review No. 14 (Pathe)
Red Pepper (Educational)

"From Mars to Munich"

(Fox—Varieties—One Reel)

This issue of William Fox's new "Varieties" is an interesting pictorial account of the beer industry in Munich, which has been given additional entertainment value by means of descriptive subtitles written as if an inhabitant of Mars was telling the story of the sights which seem so strange to him. The reel includes various processes of beer-making from the bringing of the hops and barley right through to the washing and filling of the kegs and bottles. There are also scenes of beer gardens and parades celebrating the making of new brands and a statement to the effect that beer was invented by King Gambrinus.—C. S. S.

Pathe Review No. 14

(Pathe—Magazine—One Reel)

Deep sea crabs occupy the center of the stage in the chapter of the "Secrets of Nature" series which is the principal subject in this Review. The camera reveals how they protect themselves by use of camouflage. Of equal interest is a novelty, "Magic Minnie," the Javanese love bird. Scenes of love birds performing their tricks have been seen before, but these show Minnie performing in duplicate and triplicate, yes, even in whatever the word for eight is, and the effects gained by clever photographic stunts are striking. The closing scenes of the Review are in Pathecolor of the City of Indianapolis.—S. S.

The House of FEATURETTES

ANNOUNCES THAT

"A DAY WITH THE GYPSIES," one of their "GEMS OF THE SCREEN," series, is playing the RIALTO, BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY, this week.

A beautiful reel, handled in a novel manner.

Edwin Miles Fadman, Pres.

1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

"Breaking the Ice"

(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

From first to last this comedy, featuring Ralph Graves, is a corker. With the support of an excellent cast headed by Marvin Lobach, Graves romps through two reels of as good fun as he has ever supplied film fans. Critics have united in declaring this one of the best since he went under the Pathe banner. Frank Capra and Jefferson Moffitt have written a clever story of a football star who trained on an ice wagon and fell in love with an heiress at a seashore resort. The girl's dog is the excuse for the meeting, then the means of risking Graves' life in a couple of ways and of interfering with his matchmaking. It is an exceptionally intelligent animal. Both Graves and Lobach show a fine appreciation of humor and they should keep audiences laughing throughout the run of the subject. The two constitute a great comedy team.—S. S.

"The Love Bug"

(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

The thoughts of Farina, Mickey, Joe and Jack lightly turn to love as spring comes. The gang overhear certain petite ladies discussing their physical shortcomings and, borrowing five dollars, hie them to a beauty parlor to overcome these same defects. But the proprietor has had a run-in with his staff and fired them, so during his absence the gang takes over the beauty parlor and begins experimenting with the various bits of apparatus and the cosmetics. The results are disastrous both to the experimenters and their surroundings. The proprietor and a policeman intervene, and the last seen of the gang is a rapid departure. This "Our Gang" comedy is fully up to the high standards of those which have preceded it, and possibly above the average. We don't see how anybody can fail to thoroughly enjoy it.—S. S.

"Mellow Quartette"

(Educational—Cartoon—One Reel-

In this bit of Pen and Ink Vaudeville by Earl Hurd, Props is sleeping in a dirigible and awakened and summoned to work by radio. One of the Mellow Quartette is ill and Props has to take his place. He has enough foreight to sing behind a screen door and escapes the audience's vegetables. A banquet in his honor is given that night. This subject is well sketched, averages well for humor and has some high-lights.—S. S.

"Housing Shortage"

(Pathe—Cartoon—One Reel)

This is one of the cleverest of the Paul Terry brain children that we've seen in a long time. The cat and the mouse run a hotel for hens desirous of laying eggs. It is full when a hen of particularly regal appearance shows up. Mrs. Hen waxes hysterical on learning the bad news and, in desperation, tries a man's hotel and the farmer's whiskers, finally settling down in peace in the farmer's hat.—S. S.

First National Selects Titles of New Pictures

SEVERAL of First National's forthcoming releases will appear on the screen under new titles.

Sawyer-Lubin's new Barbara La Marr-Conway Tearle starring vehicle from William Hurlbert's stage success, "Hail and Farewell," will be shown on the screen as "The Heart of a Siren," at one time called "Heart of a Temptress." It was directed by Phil Rosen, the man responsible for "Abraham Lincoln," which continues on its triumphant course.

Corinne Griffith's new production, on which she is now working, will bear the title of "Modern Madness" instead of the title which Hartley Manners, its author, gave to his play, "The National Anthem." Al Santell is directing "Modern Madness." In the supporting cast are Kenneth Harlan, Harrison Ford, E. J. Ratcliffe, Edgar Norton and Charles Lane.

John Stahl's new production for Louis B. Mayer will be known as "Fine Clothes." The title under which this Ferenc Molnar comedy was presented on the stage was "Fashions for Men." In the cast are Lewis Stone, Alma Rubens and Percy Marmont.

Edwin Carewe has changed the title of his next First National picture before beginning photography. It is called "The Lady Who Lied" and is from the Robert Hichens' novel "Snake-bite."

"The Necessary Evil" was selected as the title of Ben Lyon's picture recently completed and made from Stephen Vincent Benet's short story, "Uriah's Son," before it went into production. George Archainbaud directed, with Ben Lyon, Anna Q. Nilsson, Mona Kingsley, Marjorie Daw and Thomas Holding in the cast.

Two other productions nearly ready for release, which will bear titles different from those of the novels upon which they are based, are "I Want My Man," with Milton Silks and Doris Kenyon, from Struthers Burt's "The Interpreter's House," and the Samuel Goldwyn-George Fitzmaurice production, "His Supreme Moment," from May Edington's novel "World Without End." These changes were announced soon after production was started.

George O'Brien and Madge Bellamy, Fox stars, doing a step from the Continental Waltz, which they invented and which is now the rage of the Hollywood picture colony.

Ralph Spence Will Title New Harold Lloyd Comedy

HAROLD LLOYD has engaged Ralph Spence, one of the top-notchers of title wizards, to write the titles for the forthcoming Lloyd-Pathe picture, the name of which has not as yet been announced.

Spence recently completed a seven-year association with the Fox Film Corporation, during which time he won general applause for his titles for "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," the Mark Twain classic, besides writing the title for many of the Fox pictures starring Tom Mix, as well as other famous Fox stars.

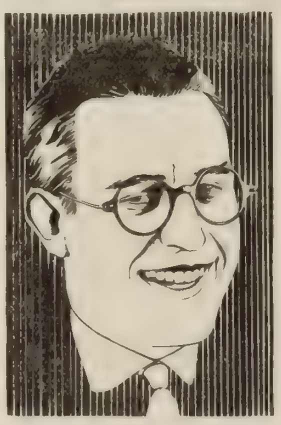
In addition to titling several thousand pictures in the last few years, Spence found time to write the book for the Ziegfeld Follies, edition of 1922, which won the distinction of achieving a full year's run on Broadway without change.

Since his arrival in Los Angeles during the recent Christmas holidays, Spence has disposed of one of his original stories, "Kings Up" to Universal, for Hoot Gibson.

Work began on Wednesday last on "American Pluck," a Spence story, starring George Walsh, for Chadwick Pictures Corporation.

"Janice Meredith" in Schools

Marion Davies in "Janice Meredith" is proving excessively popular with educational authorities. An engagement for a three day run of this Cosmopolitan feature was recently arranged for a public school in Perth Amboy, N. J., at the Ditmas Theatre. So historically valuable was the picture deemed that other schools prevailed upon the exhibitor to continue the picture for three days more, pledging co-operation and support.



Hal Roach
presents
HAROLD LLOYD
in
"NOW OR NEVER"
The first of the Popular Demand Series
(Re-issued)

Already proven by many big first run houses to be as big an attraction as the biggest new features on the market.

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS
Physical Distributors Pathe Exchange Inc Arthur S Kane President Foreign Representative Sidney Garrett

CLIVE BROOK
Noted English actor who has signed to star in Warner Brothers pictures.

Several New Signatures to Warner Bros. Contracts

WITH their 1925-26 season fairly well launched, Warner Bros. this week announced the engagement of several more persons who will be attached to their Hollywood studio.

One of the most important engagements is that of Gayne Whitman, for the last four years leading man at the Morosco Theatre, Los Angeles. Mr. Whitman was signed for a term of years.

Whitman is following the footsteps of Douglas McLean, David Butler, Richard Dix, Warner Baxter and a score of others who have graduated from the Los Angeles playhouse to the screen with much success. Some years ago Whitman was a member of the old Thos. H. Ince stock company, when they were making one, two and four-reel features. He was later with Vitagraph. Whitman begins work at the studio at the conclusion of "Sweet Sixteen," the current show at the Morosco.

All doubts about Louise Fazenda's future were settled this week when the Warners renewed her contract for a period of several years. Miss Fazenda is one of the most popular players on the screen and when not working at the Warner Bros. studio, is much sought after by other companies. She had thirteen pictures to her credit last year.

Alan Crosland, who directed "Enemies of Women," featuring Alma Rubens and Lionel Barrymore, for Cosmopolitan Pictures, has been engaged to direct "Why Girls Go Back Home," which will feature Marie Prevost. The scenario is by C. Gardiner Sullivan.

Further signatures to long term contracts this week were Director Roy Del Ruth and Scenarist Charles Logue. Mr. Del Ruth had been engaged to direct one picture, "Eve's Lover," featuring Irene Rich and Bert Lytell. He made such a good job of it, that the Warners have obtained his exclusive services for a number of years.

Charles Logue, formerly a New York World reporter, achieved instant success as a screen writer when he did Ex-Ambassador James W. Gerard's war-time narrative, "My Four Years in Germany." Logue was engaged to write "Below The Line," the next picture Warners will make with Rin-Tin-Tin, and did it so well, he was immediately signed.

Educational Players Do Their Stuff on the Air

JACK WHITE'S Mermaid Comedy Company, together with performers appearing in other units producing comedies for distribution through Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., last week staged a very successful exploitation tieup when stars of the various companies broadcast a program from the recently opened radio station KFWB at Los Angeles, operated by Warner Brothers.

The program was opened by Eddie Nelson, now starring in Mermaid Comedies, who delivered a monologue and some of the vaudeville chatter which he used on the Orpheum Circuit in the West, where he is known as "The Sunkist Kid." This was followed by the Mermaid Quartette which sang two numbers.

Following this came Clem Beauchamp, an assistant director and a promising lyric tenor, who delivered two songs. The O'Neal sisters, Zelma and Bernice, then sang two of their latest songs, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," a la 1925, and "Log Cabin." Zelma O'Neil sang a special comedy number, "I'm a Pickford That Nobody Picked," one of her successes from Harry Carroll's "Pickings," the show in which she was appearing when Jack White discovered her. Miss O'Neal is a Cameo star.

Lige Conley, Mermaid star, followed with a display of his versatility in rendering a piano, banjo and saxophone solo. At this point the entire radio program was tied up with the showing of two Mermaid Comedies in Los Angeles, when it was announced that Conley could be seen at Loew's State in "Fast and Furious" and in "What a Night" at the California.

Joseph Diskay, the tenor, a favorite with radio fans, contributed his services to the program and sang two numbers, and Miss Hilda Goldman, operatic soprano, also popular with radio fans on the West Coast, obliged with selections.

"The Talker" Being Edited

Last week saw the completion of photography on Sam Rork's next production for First National release, "The Talker," from the play by Marion Fairfax.

"This is Station KFWB, Warner Bros. Studios, Hollywood, California ——"

Yessir! This is all there is to it, when you glance down from an airplane to the giant masts of Station KFWB. A small section of the studios is shown here, to indicate the size of the first movie radio broadcast station in the Film Capital.

Paramount's Eastern Studio Is Scene of Great Activity

WITH two pictures finished and in the cutting rooms, and three more scheduled to finish the actual filming of scenes by the end of this week, the officials at the Paramount Long Island Studio have turned their attention to the new photoplays which will go into production at an early date.

The pictures now being cut and titled are "The Little French Girl" and "Madame Sans-Gene." Herbert Brenon, sitting in the cutting room with loops of the former film gracefully draped over his shoulders, is saving the best features of the work of his cast, which includes Alice Joyce, Esther Ralston, Mary Brian and Neil Hamilton. The exteriors were filmed in Bermuda.

"Madame Sans-Gene" is the picture which Gloria Swanson completed in France just before her marriage. Leonce Perret, who directed, is supervising the cutting and titling.

Allan Dwan is putting the finishing touches on his latest picture, "Night Life of New York," based on an original story of metropolitan jazz and romance by Edgar Selwyn, the playwright and producer. Rod La Rocque, Dorothy Gish, Ernest Torrence and George Hackathorne have the featured roles, with Helen Lee Worthing, Arthur Housman and Riley Hatch rounding out the cast.

Bebe Daniels will also complete her new picture, "The Manicure Girl," in a few days. Frank Tuttle is directing this comedy drama of the life of a manicurist in a New York beauty parlor. Edmund Burns and Hale Hamilton share the masculine honors. Others in the cast are Charlotte Walker, Victor Moore, Dorothy Cumming, Ann Brody, Marie Shotwell and Mary Foy. The picture is based on an original story by Frederic and Fanny Hatton.

"The Shock Punch" is the title of Richard Dix's new comedy. Paul Sloane is directing, and Frances Howard has the leading feminine role. The film is based on a story by John Monk Saunders.

Three new productions are in preparation, and work on them is expected to start soon after the big stages are cleared of the productions now being made. The new ones are:

"The Wild, Wild Girl," for Bebe Daniels, which Edward Sutherland will direct.

George Kibbe Turner's magazine story, "The Street of Forgotten Men," will be Herbert Brenon's next production. Mary Brian is the only player chosen so far.

Frank Tuttle will direct "California or Bust," an original story by Byron Morgan. This will be Richard Dix's next picture.

Sign Helen Lee Worthing

Helen Lee Worthing, who plays the role of Wanda in "The Swan," now showing on Broadway and who has just completed a role in Bebe Daniels' recent Paramount picture, "The Crowded Hour," has been signed by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, for an important part in Allan Dwan's production of "Night Life of New York." The cast for this picture now includes Dorothy Gish, Rod La Rocque, Ernest Torrence, George Hackathorne, and Miss Worthing.

GLORIA SWANSON, PARAMOUNT STAR, IN PARIS

"Madame Sans-Gene" is seen here with "Napoleon" (Emile Drain, of the Comedie Francaise) (left) and "Marshal Lefebvre" (Charles de Roche) in the historic gardens of the Palais Royal, in the French capital, during the production of the forthcoming Paramount super-special. The noted trio here stand in front of the great statue of the French revolutionary leader, Camille Desmoulins. M. De Roche stands in imitation of the noted character in French history.

JOCELYN LEE

"Ziegfeld's Queen of Beauty" appearing in "The Dressmaker from Paris," a Paramount Production

Courtesy Rewarded

Charles Eyton Gives Up Seat in Airplane and Saves His Life

Charles Eyton, general manager of the Paramount Hollywood studio, accompanied by Kathlyn Williams, his wife, returned last week from a tour of the world.

"Fourteen of us," he said, "left the Victoria Hotel, in London, to fly to Paris on planes of the Imperial Airways Co., Ltd. At Croydon field an Englishman managed to get my seat in the first plane and as it was only ten minutes before the next plane left, I yielded my place. The plane crashed and the seven occupants and the pilot were killed, within our sight. Nevertheless, the other seven, including myself, made the trip in the second plane."

Educationals Honored

Ten releases of the Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., are listed in the "Photoplay Guide to the Better Pictures," issued by the National Committee for Better Films which is affiliated with the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures. In the "Guide" covering pictures reviewed in February the following Educational pictures are listed: "Paris Creations in Color," "Have a Heart," Cameo Comedy, "His High Horse," a Mermaid Comedy, three releases of the Judge's Crossword Puzzle Series, the Lyman H. Howe Hodge-Podge, "Lots of Knots," "Our Six Legged Friends," one of the "Secrets of Life" series, "Two Cats and a Bird" from the Earl Hurd Comedy series and the Juvenile Comedy "Wildcat Willie."

Popular Music

According to officials of the Denton & Haskins Music Company, of 1595 Broadway, New York, exhibitors throughout the country are reporting favorably on several of their recent song hits. Among these are such popular numbers as "At the End of the Rainbow of Love," "Sweet Kalula Lou," "I Want You Back, Old Pal" and "Of All My Wife's Relations I Love Myself the Best."

WANDA WILEY

Century Comedy star who still believes, along with Napoleon and General Pershing, that Infantry is the Queen of Battle.

Three New Warners

"Rose of the World," "The Golden Cocoon" and "Below the Line" Go Into Work

Three pictures got under way this week at the Warner Bros. studio all of which are to hold important places in the Warner's 1925-26 program.

Harry Beaumont started work on "Rose of the World," the novel by Kathleen Norris. Patsy Ruth Miller, who has just signed a contract with the Warners, Rockliffe Fellowes and Allan Forest have the leading roles with a strong supporting company. This is a story of California and much of the action will be photographed on locations described in the novel.

"The Golden Cocoon," with Millard Webb directing, also went into work. This story, by Ruth Cross, tells of the Texas oil fields and of rural life before oil was discovered there, and has as its principals Helene Chadwick and Huntly Gordon. Supporting them are Richard Tucker, Frank Campeau, Margaret Seddon, Julia Swayne Gordon and Carrie Clark Ward. Hope Loring and Louis Lighton adapted the story for the screen.

Also facing the camera was Rin-Tin-Tin in "Below The Line," directed by Herman Raymaker, from the pen of Charles Logue, who also made the adaptation. Featured with the "wonder dog" are John Harron and June Marlow. The supporting cast includes Victor Potel, Edith Yorke, Charles Conklin, Taylor Duncan, Pat Hartigan and Gilbert Clayton.

"The Viennese Medley"

First National has arranged for Doris Kenyon, one of its featured players, to appear in its screen version of Edith O'Shaughnessy's story, "The Viennese Medley." Anna Q. Nilsson had previously been engaged for another leading role in the production. Active production of "The Viennese Medley" is expected to get under way, about the middle of April, following Miss Kenyon's completion of "The Half-Way Girl," work upon which was delayed for two or three weeks due to Miss Kenyon's illness.

Premiere of "Siegfried" Set For April 13 in Rochester, N.Y.

THE American premiere of "Siegfried," the UFA motion picture super-production based on the theme of Wagner's importal opera, from the Norse sagas, will take place Monday, April 13, in Rochester, N. Y., under the auspices of the University of Rochester, by arrangement with George Eastman.

"Siegfried," the second UFA production to reach this country ("The Last Laugh" preceded it), was widely acclaimed in Europe, and has been the subject of the most favorable comment by leading American motion picture producers and players who saw it abroad.

The Rochester showing will be in Kilbourn Hall, hitherto devoted exclusively to music. The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra will play the accompanying score to "Siegfried." Musical Director Victor Wagner has synchronized the picture, drawing entirely from Richard Wagner's opera. As a result, for the first time in the history of motion pictures, a great composer's music will be used exclusively to interpret emotionally the plastic version of his opera.

In agreeing to the Rochester premiere of "Siegfried," Frederick Wynne-Jones, managing-director of UFA-USA, distributing arm in America of the Berlin organization, stated that he felt that he will thus reach into one of the most important centers of musical as well as motion picture activity in this country.

"We feel that in no city could 'Siegfried' be given a more adequate premiere than in Rochester, unless indeed, the Metropolitan Opera House in New York was available," said Mr. Wynne-Jones.

Fritz Lang, Germany's greatest director, produced "Siegfried." He drew from the opera and the Norse sagas. For the role of Siegfried, Paul Richter, a young, handsome blonde, was cast. Other important characters are Kriemhild, his bride; Brunhilde, "Queen of Iceland"; Hagen, the dark villain; King Gunther, the King of the Gnomes; Mme. the Armorer; trolls, imps, courtiers, soldiers—and thedragon.

These, living against a background of sheer beauty, whether in cave or castle, tell the story. Siegfried's ride through the Mistland; his thrilling battle with the dragon; the subjugation of Brunhilde; the scene on the castle drawbridge—these and many other marvelous "shots" will amaze the public.

The "Manchester Gurdian," reviewing the London showing of "Siegfried," said, in part:

"'Siegfried' is the first film to challenge, definitely, the supremacy of older arts. It demands a serious viewing and a rigid criticism, because, for a rare once, the cinema has shown itself strong enough to bear them. Other films have played with materials of literature and music. We have had picturized novels and poetry 'adapted to the screen.' But in 'Siegfried,' for the first time, the matter and manner, both, have brought the cinema face to face with the acknowledged arts, stirring up thoughts of the master musicians, and the master poets, and expressing, at the same time, a very definite creed for the new art, this art of pictorial movement of which 'Siegfried' is a pioneer.

"Wagner's 'Siegfried' is purely an operatic subject; only the layers and depths of music can satisfy it. Passion and Romance call out for musical expression. Lang's 'Siegfried' goes beyond Wagner to the mediaeval lay of 'The Nibelungs'—a stark and primitive story, never enriched or adorned, yet, for all that, rather of the eye than of the ear.

"It is a simple treatment of an epic subject in which the fact that it is a film epic has never been forgotten. Everything has been directed to speak to the eye, and it speaks all the more clearly, because it speaks so simply. The movement of the players is direct and beautiful, individuals and masses alike moving as part of the whole composition. There is no irrelevant detail to distract the eye. Colors are massed blacks and massed whites, each with their pictorial and their symbolic meaning. Emotions are dignified, and expressed in real beauty of line; the characters are vaster than human."

Anne Cornwall Signed

Anne Cornwall has been signed to appear opposite Monty Banks in his second production for Associated Exhibitors. The title of the new Monty Banks picture will be "Keep Smiling," and in addition to Miss Cornwall the cast will be headed by Robert Edeson.

JESSE J. GOLDBURG
Announces
BILL CODY
IN A Second Series of Red-Fire Westerns
Ready for Release
August, 1925
1925-26 State Right Release
Independent Pictures Corporation
JESSE J. GOLDBURG, President
1540 Broadway New York City

Marin Predicts New Production Policy for the Coming Season

NED MARIN, sales director for Universal, has just returned from a six weeks' tour of the West Coast and the picture production center at Universal City with a glowing report of the picture outlook for the coming season. He predicts that next year's output will have a far greater percentage of audience pictures than ever before.

This prediction is based by Marin on a careful survey made by him of the current production policies of the various companies working around Los Angeles, and especially of the production plan and aims now in vogue at Universal City.

"The producers realize," explained Marin in a recent interview, "that the day of the mediocre picture is past. They are fully aware of the fact that the public will stand for nothing but the best. This means infinitely more care in production. It means the acquisition of more virile stories and a much greater care in direction. Selection of casts also has taken a much more important place in the industry.

"The public has become more demanding in many ways. This I found out by heart-to-heart talks witih exhibitors from Chicago to Seattle and from Des Moines to Los Angeles. The public is shopping more for its pictures. A greater variety of pictures and a great improvement in photoplays is a necessity if the industry is to hold its public. New personalities also are needed for the screen. The older ones can't go on. The public is tired of the same faces in picture after picture. The producer who develops new faces is going to win out. In this connection Carl Laemmle, our president, is developing two sure winners in those delightful stars, Mary Philbin and Laura La Plante.

"It used to be that stars built pictures. The industry is swinging away from that status. Now, pictures build stars. Take Reginald Denny, for instance. By putting him in three first-class stories, Universal has seen him develop in the course of twelve months to a position among the leading light comedy stars of the screen.

"Mr. Laemmle is letting no grass grow under his feet in regards to the coming season. We have five big pictures completed, or in the final stages of production, already. They are: "The Phantom of the Opera," a super-picture; "California Straight Ahead," "Siege," a powerful picture, starring Virginia Valli; "The Teaser," a great box-office comedy, starring Laura La Plante, and "Lorraine of the Lions," an adventure feature, starring Norman Kerry and Patsy Ruth Miller.

"I would like to add that Universal is planning bigger things in the Western picture field. Hoot Gibson has developed into a Western star the equal of any.

"Much of Universal's progressiveness in keeping abreast and ahead of the time, is due to Mr. Laemmle's keenness in keeping in close touch with the public. He corresponds with individual picture fans and with movie critics and, what is more, he takes their suggestions."

"Keep Smiling" Bank's Latest

Word has been received from the Coast that the new Monty Banks' comedy, now in the course of production for Associated Exhibitors, has been given the working title of "Keep Smiling."

Arnold Daly and Clifton Webb in one of the comedy scenes that are a feature of "Heart of a Temptress," recently completed by Sawyer-Lubin for First National release.

ZaSu Pitts in "Greed," the Metro-Goldwyn feature, reaches tragic heights.

"The Thundering Herd"

Los Angeles Critics Shower Praise on Newest Paramount "Western"

A dispatch from Los Angeles describing the opening of Paramount's "The Thundering Herd" at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre states that the production has taken the town by storm, and quotes from some of the reviewers, as follows:

L. B. Flower in The Daily News, "The Heralded Zane Grey film tale 'The Thundering Herd' was ushered into Los Angeles yesterday and presented to one of the largest motion picture matinee audiences that has ever crowded into Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre."

Florence Lawrence in the Examiner, "Laymen gasp and thrill as 'Thundering Herd' rolls on its cinematic way . . . on the silver-sheet this picture presents a hundred angles of interest. Action, hardihood, heroism and suffering are all depicted within a few hundred feet of celluloid; and the accomplishment of this tremendous climax is really a notable piece of technique."

Grace Kingsley in the Times: "'The Thundering Herd' is one of those pictures that after it has served its excellent purpose in the way of entertainment in this day, should be folded up and put away for colleges and high schools to look at fifty years from now. Perhaps never shall we again see another buffalo herd stampeding . . . never shall we again see a more interesting picture as regards an Indian pow-wow . . . certainly never shall we have so interesting an exhibition of universal Indian sign language as that in which these real braves of several tribes communicate with each other during their councils. These things are additionally interesting because they are vital part of absorbing story of 'The Thundering Herd.'"

Monroe Lathrop in Evening Express says, "Here is a feature that for furious nerve tingling realism rivals 'The Covered Wagon.' Its scope is almost as great and had it appeared before that memorable picture it would certainly have taken to itself much of the honor that went to the Cruze super film. It is not too much to say that in portions it excels in real punch the earlier work. It is made on the same big scale. There is the same sincerity in its record of actual pioneering. The same conspicuous ability of direction that marked the translation of the Emerson Hough tale."

Guy Price in the Evening Herald, "A production that will live long in the memory of everyone who sees it. For pure thrills based on actual fact, and not conceived in the mind of a writer of fiction, 'The Thundering Herd' has everything that this reviewer has seen for months far outclassed."

ALICE TERRY

Charming player scored a great success in Metro-Goldwyn's "The Great Divide."

Seventh Buffalo Bill Feature

"On The Go," A Western of Unusual Novelty, According to Weiss Brothers

"On The Go," the Seventh of the Buffalo Bill, Jr. series of action-stunt five reel features, released by Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation, which arrived from the coast last week, strikes an entirely new note in Western productions, according to Louis Weiss, the managing executive of the Artclass organization.

Besides having all the fast-moving situations and plot development, suspense and thrill, which are essential characteristics of this type of picture, "On The Go" also contains a big comedy element and a variety of trick photographic effects, double exposures and "phantom scenes, which take the picture entirely out of the ordinary "stunt" feature class and make it compare favorably with many of the most expensive feature attractions.

"On The Go," was directed by Richard Thorpe, under the supervision of Lester F. Scott, Jr., Western producer for Artclass.

Supporting Buffalo Bill, Jr. in "On The Go" is a cast of favorites in Western features, including: Charles Whitaker, Nelson McDowell, Helen Foster and H. Alfred Hewston, Lafe McKee, Rae Hampton, Louis Fitzroy, George Marion and Morgan Davis.

The story is from the pen of Frank L. Ingraham, a well known writer of Western dramas.

The Larry Evans Stories

Two Will Be Picturized by B. P. Schulberg Productions

Larry Evans, novelist, whose writings are known both to the reading and picture-going public, will contribute two stories to the output of B. P. Schulberg Productions next season.

These will be "The Aristocrat," originally published in Hearst's International, and "The Worst Woman," a story written directly for the screen.

Mr. Evans' former film successes include "Winner Take All," "Are You a Failure?" and "Money, Money, Money."

New York Reviewers Assert Screen "Sally" Is Splendid

FIRST NATIONAL'S new Colleen Moore picture, "Sally," from Guy Bolton's musical comedy which Florenz Ziegfeld produced, and which is still running after three years, had its premiere this week at the Strand Theatre, New York.

The metropolitan reviewers called it one of the most amusing film comedies ever screened and the little star came in for praise as gratifying as that she received for her work in "So Big."

First National's own estimate of "Sally," as one of its finest productions and biggest box-office attractions, is well on the way to fulfillment.

Harriette Underhill in the Herald Tribune wrote: "Colleen Moore's performance alone would make the picture a success."

Mildred Spain in the Daily News: "Sally has come back to us more irresistible than ever. The role of the little dishwasher with dancing feet fits Colleen as nothing has done before. And the musical comedy lends itself with surprising grace to the movies. Leon Errol's stuff is every bit as good in the movies as it was on the stage . . . The scenes are lavish and quite beautiful. Sprightly and enchanting—that's 'Sally.' "

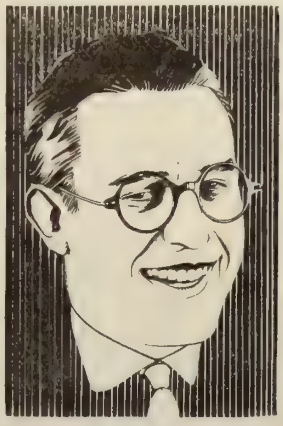
Dorothy Herzog, in the Daily Mirror: "Rare entertainment. A faithful and rollicking celluloid version of the musical comedy. Focus your eyes on Colleen Moore, who breezes through the role Marilyn Miller starred in on the stage. If you considered Leon Errol a riot on the stage in this comedy, you'll shriek at his antics in the picture. Simply a knock-out."

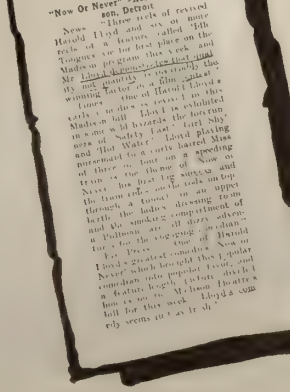
George Gerhard in the Evening World: "Fully as enjoyable as was the stage version, and that is saying something. The big treat is the portrayal of Miss Moore as 'Sally.' Everyone who has studied movies knows that this young lady is a witty comedienne, but she goes to lengths here that even she never equaled before. She displays a charm and simplicity that are most winning. Sally is doubtless one of the best things she has ever done."

Frank Vreeland, in the Telegram and Mail: "Miss Moore brings perhaps more sympathy to the role than Marilyn Miller did. Miss Moore's quiet but intelligent comedy takes full advantage of every wistfully humorous moment. Errol makes an emphatic success."

The Evening Post: "A real evening's entertainment from every angle. Colleen Moore, the young lady who has developed so rapidly as an actress these last few months, leaves the alley, now famous, for the footlights. Leon Errol makes a real role for himself . . ."

Quinn Martin, in the New York World: "'Sally' seems to me to be one of the most amusing film comedies of the season. They have captured the spirit of the original. By a free and pleasing interpretation in terms of moving pictures they have succeeded in retaining for it a light and buoyant pace. The figure of Sally, played by Colleen Moore, has much charm and simple beauty. Leon Errol comes out as a delightful screen comic."





Hal Roach
presents
HAROLD LLOYD
in

"Now Or Never" –Asst. Ex., Madison, Detroit

"NOW
OR NEVER"

The first of the Popular Demand
Series (Re-issued)

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

Physical Distributors Pathe Exchange Inc   Arthur S Kane President   Foreign Representative Sidney Garrett

Earl Hudson on Production Plans for First National

WITH a record of four plays in as many months and the task of perfecting a new organization completed, Earl Hudson yesterday disclosed the new schedule for the First National units under his supervision.

The misfortune of Doris Kenyon, who was stricken with appendicitis the day she was to start work on "The Half-Way Girl," made neccessary a complete revision of the schedule, details of which were forwarded by Hudson to Richard A. Rowland, general manager of First National Pictures.

It was definitely decided that Hudson's dramatization of the steel industry, "United States Flavor," and "Atlantis," a sequel to "The Lost World," will be started in active production early in the summer. Research on the latter "special" is already under way.

Included in the schedule are vehicles for Milton Sills, Doris Kenyon and Ben Lyon. Sills is now at work on his first starring picture, "The Making of O'Malley." This is from a popular magazine story by Gerald Beaumont, dealing with the romance of a New York policeman. Lamber Hillyer is directing, while Dorothy Mackaill has the feminine lead.

Following the Beaumont story, Sills will immediately begin the filming of "The Come-Back," a stirring story centered around a prize fighter from the novel by W. D. C. Crawford. The enthusiasm of the public for the vigorous action stories in which Sills has appeared of late has been made the warrant for a continuation of vehicles in this spirit.

Doris Kenyon, it is expected, will begin on "The Half-Way Girl" within the next two weeks. She will then be given the featured role in "The Lady Who Played Fidele," adapted from a Gerald Beaumont magazine story laid in New Orleans at Madi Gras time.

As soon as Ben Lyon returns to First National's Studios in New York from the Coast, where he is playing in Frank Lloyd's production, "The Winds of Chance," he will be featured in an automobile racing story. It will be called "The Pace That Thrills," and is from an original script by Byron Morgan.

Two pictures are passing through the final stages of filming this week. One is "Chickie," adapted from the serial novel which is being published in newspapers throughout the country, which John Francis Dillon is directing. The "Chickie" company has just completed filming scenes in Florida.

The second is "The Necessary Evil" on which George Archainbaud has been wielding the directorial megaphone. Ben Lyon and Viola Dana have the featured roles.

JAMES CRUZE
Who will direct "The Pony Express," for Paramount

Cruze's Next for Paramount Will Be "The Pony Express"

"THE PONY EXPRESS," which is expected to be a fitting successor to "The Covered Wagon," is in course of preparation as James Cruze's next big Paramount picture, it is announced by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of production. According to Mr. Lasky, this production will have the epic sweep and historic authenticity that the subject deserves, and every effort will be made to invest the picture with the atmosphere that surrounded Cruze's great success of last year.

Henry Miles Forman, co-author of the story with Walter Woods, conferred with Cruze and Woods on their recent trip east. Mr. Forman has since been doing research work on the subject at the Library of Congress in Washington, and left for Hollywood this week with the story to turn it over to Cruze for actual production.

"'The Pony Express,'" said Mr. Lasky, "is one of the group of pictures which we planned to make that would tell, in dramatic form, the absorbing story of this country's growth. 'The Covered Wagon' told the story of the pioneers' trek across the prairies. 'The Pony Express' will depict the hardships, the trials and the victories of the men who maintained communication with the outposts of civilization which those pioneers established in the Far West.

"James Cruze has been laying out arrangements for his production. Our agents have been going over the ground of some of the most historic pony express routes; we have arranged for the assembling of Indians and for the reconstruction of some of the old army posts.

"In the cast will be Betty Compson, Ernest Torrence, Wallace Beery, Ricardo Cortez and Raymond Hatton. These popular players already have been selected and we are making plans to supplement this list with other people whose names are box-office attractions."

Scene from "Daughters Who Pay," in which Banner production Marguerite de la Motte and John Bowers play featured roles.

Principal Picture Goes Big

Exchanges situated in all the key centers of the country are reporting splendid sales on "The Re-Creation of Brian Kent," according to Irving Lesser, vice-president of Principal Pictures Corporation, the company that produced this Harold Bell Wright novel

JOSEPH VON STERNBERG

Meteoric in his swift dash to fame, in his United Artists "Salvation Hunters": Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has secured his services to direct "Escape"

"Von Sternberg Is Not an Accident," Says Harry Rapf

HARRY RAPF, associate executive of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios at Culver City, believes he has in Josef von Sternberg one of the greatest directorial geniuses of many years.

Rapf has what might be termed a double-barrelled reputation. He has made an eminent success of his own career and at the same time discovered and developd more genius than any other man in the motion picture industry. Among those who owe a large measure of their present success to the almost uncanny intuition of Rapf are Director Monta Bell and Edmund Goulding, successful scenarist who is handling the megaphone for the first time on Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of "Sun-Up."

"While seeing Josef von Sternberg's 'The Salvation Hunters,'" says Rapf, "I recognized in his work not only technique but the imagination to create upon the screen scenes not only of animated figures but stories in themselves. In other words I saw in his method of progressive story-telling a visual painting.

"In his first selection of a story to be filmed for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer we permitted Director von Sternberg to make his own choice from a large number of first-class vehicles. He chose 'Escape,' a French novel from the pen of Alden Brooks, which will be released as 'The Exquisite Sinner.' This story requires treatment entirely opposite to 'The Salvation Hunters.'

"It is a tale of a young Frenchman who seeks to escape the conventions of society, the conventions of commercial life and the conventions of family ties. In fact it is a story of the breaking of chains which bind all of us to the things we do not wish to tolerate. Contrary to the treatment of 'The Salvation Hunters' this story calls for a humorous vein.

"'The Exquisite Sinner' will prove to the most critical that Josepf von Sternberg is not an 'accident.' It will show that his touch has nothing of the sordid."

"The Exquisite Sinner" is being produced on an elaborate scale. Conrad Nagel, Renee Adoree, Paulette Duval, Helena D'Algy, George K. Arthur, Frank Currier and others have leading roles.

Work Started on DeMille's Culver City Studio Plans

WORK on the construction of the first of several concrete fireproof buildings at the Cecil B. De Mille studios, at Culver City, Cal., was started this week as the first step in the plans for the enlargement and improvement of the equipment with which De Mille will work in creating his first releases through Producers Distributing Corp.

This initial unit will be a wardrobe building, 50 by 90 feet, two stories high. Its cost will run well into five figures. It will be on the Ince boulevard frontage of the studio and eventually will be the center of a solid row of concrete buildings replacing the old frame structures of the former Ince studio.

"There was an excuse for frame structures in the days when motion pictures were an experiment," stated Mr. De Mille. "There is no such excuse today when the business is on a permanent, stable basis. It is imperative that important papers, expensive gowns and valuable machinery of various sorts be adequately protected.

Work will be rushed on the new De Mille wardrobe structure by orders of Studio Manager Fred Kley, as it must be ready for Cecil B. De Mille's first independent production, a Leatrice Joy starring feature, to start the middle of April under the direction of Frank Urson and Paul Iribe.

"Lilies of the Streets"

F. B. O. Special, Starring Virginia Lee Corbin and Johnnie Walker, Ready

Cutting on "Lilies of the Streets," the F. B. O. underworld melodrama, was concluded this week and will be screened privately for the F. B. O. executives some time this week.

"Lilies of the Streets," listed as one of F. B. O.'s specials for 1925, was sponsored by Mary E. Hamilton, New York's first policewoman, and centers around the experiences of a young girl alone in a big city and the dangers of bad associations.

Virginia Lee Corbin and Johnnie Walker are co-starred, with Mary E. Hamilton, the policewoman; Elizabeth J. Monroe, her assistant; Wheeler Oakman, Peggy Kelly and Irma Harrison prominent in support. The story comes from the pen of Elizabeth J. Monroe. Joseph Levering directed.

Hunter with Associated Exhibitors

Tom Terris will start to work next week on the first of a series of feature-length pictures he has contracted to produce for Associated Exhibitors. The first production to be made will be "My Buddy's Wife," in which Glenn Hunter has been signed for the leading role.

Edna Murphy has been signed to work opposite Hunter as his leading lady.

While making "The Sporting Venus" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release, Director Marshall Neilan "plays" between working spells, his forte being the piano. Blanche Sweet is the soloist.

F. B. O. Production Activities at the West Coast Studios

MARCH came "in like a lion," speaking of the activity at the Film Booking Offices' Hollywood studios, with not the slightest indication of going "out like a lamb."

Four of F. B. O.'s own units are at work under the general supervision of B. P. Fineman. Others are making ready for immediate action. Bob Custer and Yakima Canutt, F. B. O.'s twin Western stars, also are busy on other lots.

Among the first of the F. B. O. stars to start work was Evelyn Brent, who this week launched the first production of her new series. It will be a crook melodrama, of the same general pattern as the highly successful "Silk Stocking Sal" and "Midnight Molly." The plot, of course, will be different. Miss Brent has established herself in the front rank of young stars and has become one of the outstanding attractions on the F. B. O. schedule. Her new production, the fifth for F. B. O., is "Alias Nora Flynn," by Edward J. Montague, F. B. O.'s west coast scenario editor, and Fred Kennedy Myton.

Fred Thomson this week completed "That Devil Quomado," in which he will portray a romantic character in the earlier days of Southern California. It will be full of the usual Thomson stunts and thrills. Del Andrews directed.

After completing interior scenes at the studio, Harry Garson took his big star, Lefty Flynn, and other members of the "Speed Wild" company, to Oceanside, Cal., where outdoor scenes are being filmed. "Speed Wild," by H. H. Van Loan, is the first of the new series of comedy dramas, starring the former Yale football star in the type of roles in which the late Wallie Reid won popularity. Mr. Garson is directing the Flynn productions.

Dick Talmadge, who recently signed a new contract with F. B. O., has begun work on "The American Eagle," a stunt melodrama of the type in which Dick excels. Art Rosson will direct.

Custer is filming "The Texas Bearcat" and Yakima Canutt is busy on "White Thunder."

"The Peacemakers" are progressing nicely under the direction of Wesley Ruggles. George O'Hara and Alberta Vaughn are being co-starred in these H. C. Witwer two-reel featurettes with Al Cooke and Kit Guard, the comics, featured in the cast.

Other stars and producers expect to start work shortly at F. B. O., including Emory Johnson and Director Leo Meehan, who will film Gene Stratton-Porter's "Her Father's Daughter" for F. B. O.

PEGGY KELLY
Who will be seen in F. B. O.'s "Lilies of the Street."

Eschmann Wires N. Y. Office Following Visit to Coast

FIRST NATIONAL has several unusually impressive pictures now in work on the Pacific Coast. Two or three of them have recently been completed, others are nearing the conclusion of photography. E. A. Eschmann, general manager of distribution for First National, who was recently in Hollywood and is now visiting the company's branches on the Coast preparatory to his return via the southern route, has wired the distribution department his impressions of some of the new product. His telegram reads:

"Saw the first material of 'The Talker' here yesterday and I consider it by far the best of Sam Rork's productions, not excluding 'Ponjola.' Mike Levee's 'Just a Woman' has all the earmarks of being his best box-office construction.

"That part of 'The Desert Flower' which we viewed here is undoubtedly one of Colleen Moore's most pleasing, humorous and characteristic vehicles. Her 'Sally' is deserving of the highest exhibition value ever placed on any picture distributed by our organization, and this as a minimum.

"Frank Lloyd returned from location yesterday and I have never seen him so enthusiastic over anything as he is over 'Winds of Chance.' He feels that it will be bigger than 'The Sea Hawk.'

"Quite obviously our product is continuing to show consistent improvement in box-office value, due to the remarkable selection of stories, with selling value casts and direction. This fact stands out to a greater extent because of the tremendously high standard set by our releases of last year and the pictures released by us so far this year.

"Our product already released, and forthcoming product, is sure to justify every favorable claim made by us for it—and then some."

Mr. Eschmann's judgment of the exhibition value of "Sally" has been borne out by that of home office executives for whom the new Colleen Moore picture was recently screened. Enthusiasm over this picture is running high at the First National offices. Its reception by the New York critics and the public, which is seeing it at the Mark Strand Theatre this week, has but served to increase that enthusiasm.

Colleen Moore and Leon Errol in "Sally," a First National picture

MacDonald in "Lightnin'"

J. Farrell MacDonald, whose work as Corporal Casey in "The Iron Horse," has won him universal praise, has been selected to play the role of Judge Lemuel Townsend in the Fox Film Corporation version of "Lightnin'." Production work probably will be commenced within the next week.

Clara Bow, B. P. Schulberg star, congratulates Donald Keith on his five-year contract with Schulberg Productions

"After Six Days" on Schine Chain

The Schine Theatrical Company, Inc., with headquarters in Gloversville, New York, which owns or controls a score of the leading motion picture houses in Northern New York and is interested in twice as many more, has booked "After Six Days," the Artclass ten reel Biblical spectacle, for all their theatres, according to an announcement made by Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation early this week.

The deal was closed by Jules Burnstein, traveling representative of Artclass, who has made many independent bookings of "After Six Days" in other up State cities, which have made notable records since the first of the year. The agreement made between Weiss Brothers and the Schine circuit calls for the exhibition of the attraction at all the Schine houses within a specified period and involves both rental and percentage bookings, with definite mutual guarantees from both parties.

Special exploitation campaigns will be conducted for each booking under the supervision and direction of Jules Burnstein, who will also arrange the play date schedules in co-operation with the Schine officials.

Three additional prints have been ordered from Weiss Brothers by Mr. Burnstein, as many of the Schine houses will play "After Six Days" day and date making six prints of this feature which will be kept working during the period of the intensive showings planned.

Among the theatres in the northern tier which will present "After Six Days" are the Rivoli, Fairport; Capitol, Oswego; Princess, Corning; Opera House, Newark; Winter Garden, Jamestown; Clinton Strand, Buffalo; Strand, Salamanca; and the Hippodrome, Gloversville.

"Give New Players a Chance," Schulberg Urges Producers

THE need of new featured players is emphasized by B. P. Schulberg, prominent independent producer, as one of the most pressing problems looming before picture makers today.

Mr. Schulberg, who is to make eighteen releases for next season, states that a threefold urgency is being voiced today by exhibitors, fans and producers which makes the development of new talent something not to be talked about but to be acted upon.

"The most casual survey of casting conditions on the Coast," the producer says, "is sufficient proof that it is incumbent upon the motion picture industry this year to bring forward fresh personalities. With about seven hundred and fifty features the prospective total of next season's releases, there are not more than fifty featured players, excluding stars, who are entitled to big billing or whose names mean anything at the box office.

"In the past it has been the rule of a producer seeking publicity to say something about the need of new screen faces when he could think of nothing else. Consequently, little or no attention has been paid to such statements. But now the dearth of players with any commercial value has become acute.

"In the course of a year, the same featured players are seen again and again. Many of the most popular sometimes work in three pictures at once. The result is that the fans are surfeited with one set of personalities and often the illusion of the story suffers. The quality of performances is also marred because no player can do justice to three characterizations at once. Our most successful stars have recognized the value of occasional appearances and have limited the number of their pictures.

"There are about thirty-five important producers on the Coast. If, during the coming year, each of them would supply the industry with one new worthwhile player the situation would be greatly relieved.

"At our own studio we are doing our utmost to discover and develop players of promise. Last year we brought Clara Bow forward, and today her name is an undoubted asset to a theatre. This year we have signed two others, namely Donald Keith and Alyce Mills. They are now practically unknown, but we are giving them real chances with real parts. Keith has one of the biggest roles in 'The Boomerang,' while Ayce Mills will be given a great opportunity with Gasnier in his production 'Faint Perfume.'

"We must have new acting talent. None but the producers can supply it."

Hal Roach presents

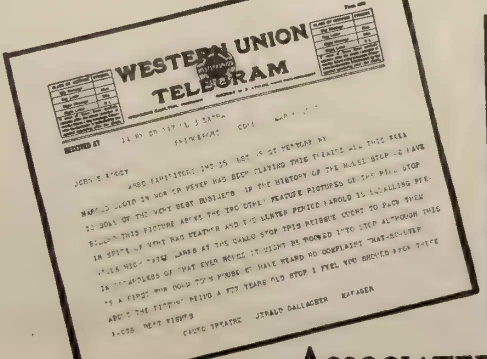
HAROLD LLOYD

in

"NOW OR NEVER"

The first of the Popular Demand Series

(Re-issued)



WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

Physical Distributors Pathe Exchange Inc. Arthur S. Kane, President Foreign Representative Sidney Garrett

Western Branches Capture All Five Vitagraph Prizes

Vitagraph Sales Drive Winners

BRANCH	MANAGER
1—San Francisco	W. C. Wheeler
2—Denver	Charles R. Gilmour
3—Seattle	H. A. Black
4—Salt Lake City	R. S. Stackhouse
5—Winnipeg	A. S. Clatworthy

LISTED above are the winners in Vitagraph's Anniversary Month Drive, held in February, with all the twenty-nine branch offices in the United States and Canada participating.

This competition, marking the twenty-eighth anniversary of the organization of Vitagraph, and the completion of John B. Rock's first year as general manager, was, for volume of contract writeups, collections and billings, figured with respect to the percentage expectancy of each branch.

The West, it will be seen, made a clean-up, capturing every one of the five prizes. The detailed reports to the home offices show, though, that the race was anything but a runaway affair. Not only did the San Francisco branch office just nose out the Denver office but the margin separating the winner from the office finishing in twenty-ninth place was extremely narrow.

At no time did any one entry have even a comfortable lead over the entire remaining field. Never was there any combination of contestants whose positions could be indicated by use of the descriptive term, "scattering."

A study of the reports reveals, indeed, the extraordinary fact that at the close of one or another of the four weeks in February, each of no fewer than eighteen of the twenty-nine branch offices was numbered among the first five in the standing.

In other words, only two offices in the entire list occupied places "within the money" as often as twice. From February 1 to February 28 the whole field was closely bunched, making this drive perhaps the most remarkable ever made by a motion picture distributing staff.

Besides the five offices which finally nosed out in advance of the twenty-four others, these thirteen were at one time or another in the charmed circle of five leaders: Detroit, Boston, Minneapolis, New Orleans, Chicago, Buffalo, Los Angeles, Kansas City, New York, Cleveland, Montreal, Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

With eleven of these thirteen situated east of the Mississippi river, and five of them on the sunrise side of the Adirondacks, additional confirmation is given the statement that there was anything even distantly approaching paralysis of competition, despite the final result, which showed all five prize awards going to the Rocky Mountain region, or "points West."

The inspiration for the drive came from the field workers and branch managers, who wished to celebrate Vitagraph's anniversary and to compliment Albert E. Smith, one of the founders of Vitagraph, and long its president, and Mr. Rock. The suggestion was accorded an enthusiastic reception at the home offices, and the offer of five prizes was made as a further spur to the enthusiasm of the branch managers and their staffs of salesmen.

Bookings, collections and billings were on all Vitagraph product now available to exhibitors, but the release of "Pampered Youth" and "The Redeeming Sin" while the drive was in progress, furnished an additional stimulus.

Charts in Mr. Rock's office in Brooklyn indicated the position of each of the twenty-nine contestants at every stage of the drive. Each of the branch managers was advised by wire of his standing, with relation to the positions of his competitors, at the close of each week, and the constant bunching, showing that at all times it was "anybody's race," caused repeated renewals of energy and effort everywhere.

Evelyn Brent's Next

"Alias Nora Flynn" will be Evelyn Brent's next vehicle for Film Booking Offices. It is a crook melodrama by Fred Kenneth Myton, the radio melodrama which Miss Brent was to have filmed, having been sidetracked for a few months. Miss Brent has made such an impression in her recent crook dramas, "Silk-Stocking Sal" and "Midnight Molly," that her producers determined to film still another story of this popular pattern.

BILLY SULLIVAN

Who has been signed by Rayart Pictures in a series of eight comedy dramas to be known as "Billy the Kid" series, all of which have a prizefight locale.

Five for Reginald Denny

"The Whole Town's Talking" Bought for Universal Player

Reginald Denny's popularity has been so greatly enhanced by his unusual success in "Oh, Doctor," that Universal has decided to make five Denny pictures for the next season's schedule instead of three as planned. Four pictures have been definitely decided upon with the purchase this week of "The Whole Town's Talking," by John Emerson and Anita Loos. One is to be selected.

"The Whole Town's Talking" was a very successful comedy-drama in which Grant Mitchell starred for a long run at the Bijou Theatre in New York.

The first Denny picture for release next year is "California Straight Ahead," an automobile comedy-drama by Byron Morgan, whose "Sporting Youth" virtually started the big vogue in this country for Reginald Denny. In "California Straight Ahead" the services of a $25,000 trailer and bungalow are utilized, said bungalow being constructed entirely in Universal City shops. The star is supported by Gertrude Olmstead, winner of a Universal beauty contest some years ago.

Two other productions are "Where Was I?" by Edgar Franklin, and "This Way Out," by Frederick F. Isham. These two productions are now being put into moving picture form at Universal City.

Begin on Golden Play

Actual Production on "Lightnin'" Started at Fox Hollywood Studios

Actual production work on Fox's screen version of the John Golden stage success "Lightnin'" has been started under the direction of John Ford.

Jay Hunt will have the title role made live by the late Frank Bacon; Madge Bellamy will portray the part of the daughter, Millie; J. Farrell MacDonald will be Judge Lemuel Townsend; Wallace MacDonald is the young lawyer, John Marvin; Ethel Clayton will enact the role of Margaret Davis, the widow; James Marcus is cast in the role of the sheriff, and Richard Travis will portray Raymond Thomas.

He who increases his wealth increases only his holdings, but he who increases his knowledge increases his all.
Old Chinese Proverb.

The Screen Book of Knowledge

Entertainment plus Education

The most novel short feature on the market.

1925-1926 Release

Independent Pictures Corporation

JESSE J. GOLDBURG, President

1540 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

BEAUTIFYING FARINA!

"Our Gang" in "The Love Bug"—a spring idyl—are at their best. This is a Pathe release

Serials Are Popular

So Says Thomas A. Curran, Rayart's Special Contract Man

Thomas A. Curran, Special Representative for Rayart Pictures Corporation, who returned this week from a six months trip throughout Southern and Western territories, reports that he was particularly impressed with the revival of the serial.

"I believe that the serial is again just as popular a form of picture entertainment as it ever was," said Mr. Curran. "Certainly it is, if the enthusiasm of the exchangeman is any criterion. Rayart's first serial, 'Battling Brewster,' has gone over the top with a bank. Exchangemen in all parts of the territory I visited, have booked 'Battling Brewster' and are enthusiastic over the support it is receiving from exhibitors. Everywhere I went I encountered inquiries as to when 'Secret Service Sanders,' Rayart's second serial, will be ready for release.

"Conditions among the Independent Exchanges are showing considerable improvement in every way, firstly, the class of product they are handling, which in turn has encouraged the exhibitor to book a greater number of State Right Productions, knowing that he can depend upon a class of service equal to that of the national organizations. This is particularly true of the Middle West and South Western territories, where the producer-exhibitor chain system of theatres and the circuit booking evil is not so great as in some other parts of the country.

"It is now possible in a great many cities in the Southwest to secure first run consideration for a picture of merit. This is, of course, very encouraging to the State Righter. We have found that the most popular type of picture is one with fast action, but it must also be well dressed, carefully staged and a story that remains within the bounds of reason.

"Summing up the situation, in my opinion business was never better in the State Right field."

"Our Gang" in "The Love Bug" on Pathe List for April 5th

PATHE'S releasing program for the week of April 5th contains a Mack Sennett comedy featuring Ralph Graves, entitled "Breaking the Ice" and a Hal Roach "Our Gang" comedy, "The Love Bug." In addition to these are a chapter of the Patheserial "Idaho," and a Grantland Rice "Sportlight," titled "Action."

The "Our Gang" comedy, titled "The Love Bug," is based on the well-known line: "In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." Farina, Mickey, Joe and Jack succumb to the seasonal attack and almost wreck a beauty parlor trying to fix up their appearances.

The Mack Sennett comedy, "Breaking the Ice," featuring Ralph Graves was declared by New York newspaper critics at a recent preview showing at the Piccadilly theatre to be one of the best productions this star has been featured in to date. The story based on a football star spending his training period working on an ice wagon was written by Frank Capra and Jefferson Moffitt.

In the sixth chapter of the Patheserial "Idaho," released this week, the natives of Carter's Creek take concerted action against the lawless element that are running the territory.

The Grantland Rice "Sportlight" release, "Action," covers such games as polo, "roller" polo and water boxing.

The principal subject in Pathe Review No. 14 is a chapter on the "Secret of Nature" series in which deep-sea crabs play the starring role.

Priscilla Dean Pleases N. Y. In Person and in Picture

THE New York premiere of the Hunt Stromberg production "A Cafe in Cairo" with Priscilla Dean and her company of players appearing with the picture, was staged at B. S. Moss' new Colony Theatre last week. Crowded houses all week testified to the public's approval of the offering and the critics gave general praise to the star's work on both stage and screen.

The following excerpts from the reviews evidence the opinion of the New York critics:

"Miss Dean may still de described as 'dynamic.' She has lost none of her personality, and her performance as Naida, the dancing girl, is excellent."—Telegraph.

"'A Cafe in Cairo' is a sure enough thriller. Quite enough and diversified are those chills to provide an hour of bloodcurdling delight, if you crave that sort of thing, and enough to insure the success of the picture. The fair Priscilla gives an excellent account of Naida."—Post.

"Let it be said right here—and we defy anyone to deny it—that 'A Cafe in Cairo' is the best picture, pictorially, the demon Miss Dean has done in a long while. The desert scenes are plentifully laden with sand, camels and Arabs, and the buildings along the Nile are more than picturesque. They're most inviting to a tired movie reviewer."—Daily News.

"GO!—GET OUT!—BEAT IT—AND DON'T COME BACK!"

The gang ("Our Gang," in "The Love Bug," a Pathe release) invades a beauty parlor, receiving a tumultuous reception

"Secret Service Sanders," a Rayart Pictures Serial

RAYART PICTURES CORPORATION last week announced the closing of a contract with Independent Exhibitor Pictures, Inc., headed by Thomas D. Van Osten, publisher of the Independent Exhibitor, a West Coast motion picture regional, for a new fifteen episode serial to be made on the coast and called "Secret Service Sanders." George Blaisdell, West Coast representative of Rayart Pictures, closed the negotiations.

W. Ray Johnston, president of Rayart, stated at the New York office that the serial will be made in fifteen episodes and will star Richard Holt, recently featured by Gerson Pictures in a series of speed pictures, and Ann Little, well-known serial favorite. The direction has been placed in the hands of Duke Worne, who has directed numerous serials for Ben Wilson and for Universal Pictures. The story is by Robert Dillon, author of many serial successes.

"Secret Service Sanders" revolves around the adventures of one Jack Sanders, a secret service operative. The action is laid along the Pacific Coast. The Pacific Ocean figures conspicuously with submarine chasers, hydroplanes, etc., in the opening episodes. Afterward, the company will go to the heights of the Sierra Mountains, 9,000 feet above sea level, where they are to work amidst heretofore unphotographed scenery.

The first episode is to be released May 1 and Mr. Johnston says that immediately after the announcement of the signing of the contracts the New York territory had been sold to Merit Film Corporation, Upper New York to First Graphic Exchanges, the New England States to Independent Films of Boston and Latin America and the Far East had been sold by Richmount Pictures, the Rayart, foreign distributors, to the foreign department of Universal Pictures.

Contracts are also pending for a half dozen other territories. The release of the picture will be simultaneous with the releasing of the final episodes of the Rayart serial, "Battling Brewster," which, according to Mr. Johnston, has proved very successful.

"The Denial" Registers Hit At Capitol, New York City

HOBART HENLEY'S production, "The Denial," for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, from the famous Lewis Beach play, "The Square Peg," has been acclaimed with enthusiasm at the Capitol Theatre in New York by the Manhattan critics. Claire Windsor, Bert Roach and William Haines are the featured players.

"A wholly interesting and at times an absorbing film is 'The Denial,'" comments the New York Evening Sun. "'The Denial' is none other than Lewis Beach's magnificent tragedy, 'The Square Peg.' You probably don't recall that 'The Square Peg' was a 'mother' play in which the mamma was the villain—indeed, she was a domineering, ruthless and efficient taskmaster for her husband and children, and was so good at the job that she broke the spirits of her offspring. Not a sweet, helpful mother was she, although she always said that she 'did everything for the best.' And she is superbly embodied in this photoplay at the Capitol by Emily Fitzroy. Besides Miss Fitzroy, Claire Windsor, as the daughter, and Edward Connelly, as the husband, distinguish themselves. 'The Denial,' it seems to this reviewer, represents a strikingly brilliant photographic adaptation and one that should prove popular with movie audiences everywhere. We heartily recommend 'The Denial' both as an entertainment and as a worthy film."

"Truly quite a charming picture," says Mildred Spain in the New York Daily News. "The scenes from the days when our mothers and fathers swanked about as the younger set are especially well done. Somehow Claire Windsor manages to look lovely in the horrible costumes they called stylish in those days. Emily Fitzroy and Vivian Ogden are fine in their roles of mother and auntie."

"Claire Windsor gives an exceptionally good performance," states the New York American, "first as the unhappy daughter of Rena Hucking and later as the middle aged mother of Dorothy. Her makeup was not exaggerated, as is the case many times when a young woman attempts to hide under a wrinkled make-up. Lucille Ricksen is very attractive as the determined daughter. The cast is good."

Norma Shearer and Malcolm McGregor, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's splendid production, "Lady of the Night."

Acquires "White Monkey"

Production Plans Moving Fast in Connection With New Barbara La Marr Pictures

Arthur H. Sawyer, of Associated Pictures Corporation, producers of Barbara La Marr starring vehicles, has announced the acquisition of "The White Monkey," by John Galsworthy, for Miss La Marr's next picture.

This novel, by the eminent English author, is now in its tenth printing in this country, and more than a hundred thousand copies have been issued, exclusive of its wide vogue on the other side of the water.

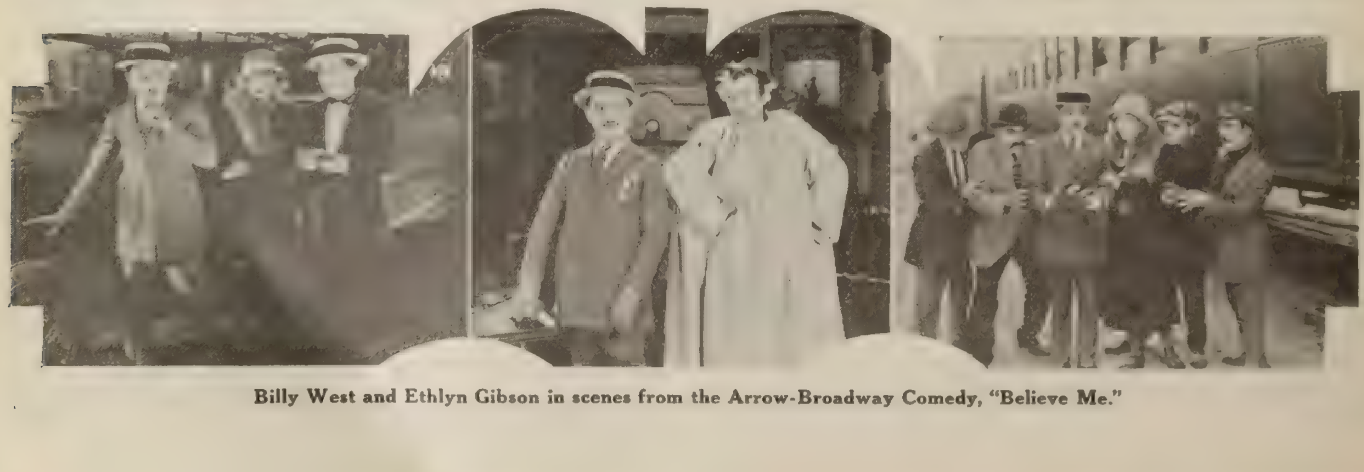
Arthur Hoerl, well-known scenarioist, has been engaged to adapt and write the continuity of "The White Monkey" for the screen, and Phil Rosen, director of "Abraham Lincoln" and responsible for "Heart of a Temptress," Miss La Marr's latest starring vehicle, will direct this production.

It will be made at Universal Studios, Fort Lee, N. J.

Rudolph Bergquist will photograph this production, Barney Lubin will act as studio manager, and the picture will be made under the supervision of Arthur H. Sawyer.

Beery Signs with Paramount

Noah Beery has been signed to appear exclusively in Paramount pictures for another year. Mr. Beery's original contract expires next month, but there was an option for another year which Mr. Lasky has renewed.



Billy West and Ethlyn Gibson in scenes from the Arrow-Broadway Comedy, "Believe Me."

HUBBY GREETS LITTLE WIFEY!

Kenneth Harlan last week dashed from the train in Los Angeles to the Warner Bros. studio to greet Mrs. Harlan (Marie Prevost) thus.

Lew Kennerly Engaged

Famous Artist Will Design "Paper" for Artclass Western Features

Louis Weiss, managing executive of Artclass Pictures, announces that Lew Kennerly, one of the ablest portrayers of Western life since the late Frederic Remington, has been engaged to design all the lithographs for the new series planned for Buffalo Bill, Jr. and Buddy Roosevelt, the popular young Artclass stars, and for the third series of high-powered action dramas, which Weiss Brothers will release in the independent market during the coming season featuring a new stunt-rider.

This will make a total of twenty-four five-reel features in all, for each of which Mr. Kennerly will design the 1, 3 and 6 sheets, together with a number of stock 24 sheet stands of novel and distinctive character.

Mr. Kennerly is known for the superiority of his technique in all matters pertaining to the equipment of horse and man, which vary considerably in different sections of the West, as well as his vivid sense of action. It was to make certain that these seemingly trifling, but important, details were absolutely correct, as well as to insure the maximum amount of pulling power in their lithographs, that Weiss Brothers determined to have him make the designs for all their Western series.

"Man on the Box" Stars Syd Chaplin, for Warners

A PLAY taken from a novel that has made almost the whole world laugh was bought by Warner Bros. this week as the first starring vehicle for "Syd" Chaplin, whose engagement under a contract for a period of years was announced by the Warners last week.

It is "The Man On The Box," adapted for the stage by Grace Livingston Furnis from Harold MacGrath's famous novel of more than two decades ago, of which more than 1,000,000 copies were sold, and which was translated into almost every language in Europe.

Written about 1903, it was first produced on the stage by Walter Lawrence at the old Madison Square Theatre, New York City, in 1905 with Henry ("Adonis") Dixey in the leading role. From the first it proved so successful that seevral additional companies were sent on the road with prominent players in Mr. Dixey's role, among them Max Figman.

Its fame having spread to Europe, it was produced by several companies there, and for years, both in this country and abroad, was a successful stage attraction. It is being played today by stock companies throughout the United States.

The deal by which the screen rights were obtained was made directly with Mr. MacGrath, and the Warners will give it an up-to-date adaptation.

The Bobbs-Merrill Company, who brought out the novel, plan to put out a new popular price edition of the book, illustrated with scenes from the picture.

At the time it was published, "The Man On the Box" was, perhaps, the best advertised book of its day, and the fact that it is still being read and played after more than twenty years is proof of its popularity.

Warner Bros. consider it an ideal vehicle with which to start off Mr. Chaplin in the big comedies they intend to make with him as the star.

Banner's Unique Position In Independent Market

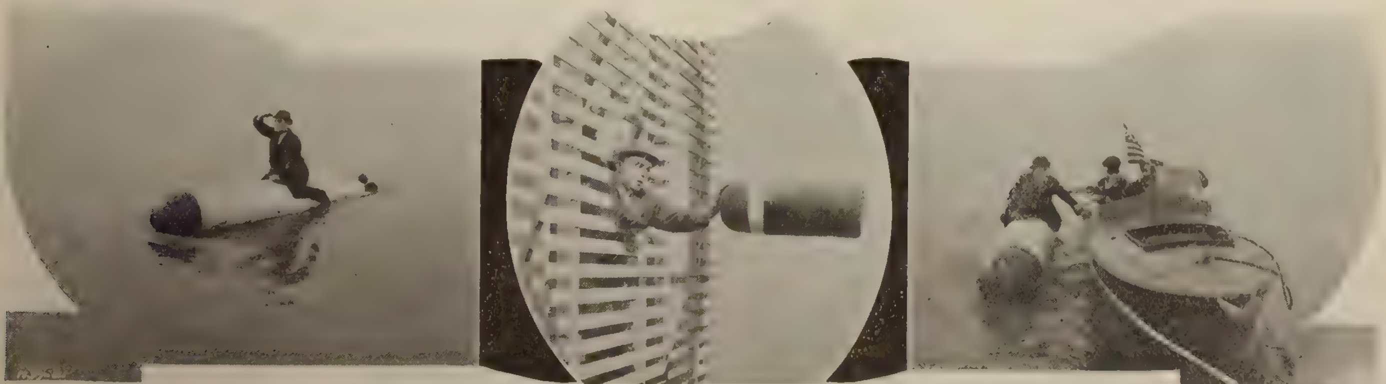
THROUGH their new plans, whereby they entirely divorce their producing activities from their distribution department, making separate units of these factors in their business, Banner Productions, Inc., has forced itself into a distinguished position in the independent field. That their distribution will be handled, not by an offshoot of their own company under another name, but by a company entirely independent of Banner, such as is Henry Ginsberg's Distributing Corporation, is the thing that makes this move on the part of Messrs. Samuel J. Briskin and George H. Davis unique in this field.

Banner Productions, Inc., will release twelve productions instead of seven. This is a pretentious move in itself and will call for tremendous studio efforts. It was because of this decision, to make twelve productions, that Messrs. Davis and Briskin decided that they must turn over this large distribution to a company that will specialize in this department of the business alone.

"Competition and specialization in the Independent field have become so intense," says Mr. Briskin, "that the producer who honestly intends to give his best to his productions cannot afford to have his attention diverted by the worries incident to production. It is a great big he-man's problem to finance a series of productions, to say nothing of the hundreds of details in securing stories, proper stars and actors to fit the parts, directors and what not, and men thus engaged cannot have time to give to the distribution of the same product, because this latter also entails its own peculiar conditions and incidental worries."

It is because of this new and added list of activities in adding to their annual output of production that George H. Davis, president of Banner Productions, is now on the Coast conferring with directors, stars, etc.

Of the twelve pictures to be made the coming season, six will be put out as Banner Productions and six as Royal.



Bobby Vernon in scenes from his Educational comedy, "Great Guns."

Prominent Educators Praise Fox's "As No Man Has Loved"

"AS NO MAN HAS LOVED," the new William Fox epic, originally titled "The Man Without a Country," is winning praise from prominent educators throughout the country, who have seen the picture.

Dr. Ernest L. Crandall, Director of Lectures and Visual Instruction of the Board of Education, New York City, has written to William Fox, complimenting the producer on his latest achievement. Dr. Crandall writes:

"This magnificent picture, based on the Edward Everett Hale classic 'The Man Without a Country,' constitutes one of the most sincere attempts I have ever witnessed to preserve both the spirit and the letter of a literary production upon the screen.

"It is an open secret that producers attempt to utilize the title of well-known literary production for screen purposes often do violence to the theme. In this instance, however, the genius of the immortal tale evolved by Dr. Hale has been religiously preserved.

"Throughout the piece the dramatic suspense is skillfully maintained, the heart interest is intense, the acting is superb, and the photography beautiful. The conclusion of the picture is an exquisite touch and extremely moving. Above all, the patriotic fervor aroused throughout without recourse to cheap tricks or artificial stimulation is sufficiently intense to make this as a great picture and especially as one which every young person in the land should see."

E. U. Graff, Superintendent of Public Schools at Indianapolis, Ind., who saw the picture at a preview sponsored by the National Indorsers of Photoplays, has written to Mr. Fox as follows:

"I consider the film highly commendable from a patriotic standpoint. It teaches the lesson of loyalty to country in an impressive way. The film follows closely the story as told in the book and helps to make real and vivid the theme so eloquently portrayed there."

Henry Ginsberg Announces Baby Peggy in New Series

NEGOTIATIONS pending for some time were brought to a successful conclusion this week when Henry Ginsberg became business manager and representative for Baby Peggy Montgomery.

An insistent demand on the part of prominent national distributors and exhibitors calling for a new series of two-reelers has been noted in letters received by Jack Montgomery father of Baby Peggy, who heretofore has looked after his talented daughter's interests. Owing to the personal appearance of Baby Peggy in the Keith vaudeville houses and leading motion picture theatres of the country, he has been unable to devote his time to other than her theatre appearances. With the new contract, all business matters have been turned over to Mr. Ginsberg.

Baby Peggy, it will be remembered, was "made" in a two-reel series released under the trade name of Century Comedies, and the new series will be specially written.

At the vaudeville premiere of Baby Peggy at the New York Hippodrome recently, receptions in her honor were held on the mammoth stage, and thousands of new fans were added to her legion of friends, who met the young star in person.

The same procedure of public receptions has been carried out in all theatres, with Baby Peggy occupying headline honors, and those "in the know" in vaudeville claim her to be one of the best cards of the season.

Under the theatre arrangement, four weeks of vaudeville in and around New York remain to be played, after which work will be immediately started on the new two-reelers, which will be a feature of the 1925-26 market.

Judy King Signs With Fox

As a result of her work in "She Wolves," a current Fox special production and numerous other recent pictures, Judy King, former vaudeville star, was signed to a long term contract by William Fox to appear exclusively in Fox photoplay. It is probable she will be given featured parts in a number of Fox attractions to be produced during the coming season.

HARRY CAREY
Starring in "Beyond the Border," released through Producers Distributing Corporation.

Rex in "Black Cyclone"

Equine Star of "King of Wild Horses" in New Pathe Release

While F. Richard Jones and Director Fred Jackman were still busily at work editing the latest Hal Roach feature-length production, which stars Rex, King of Wild Horses, members of both the Pathe and the Hal Roach producing staffs were discussing the showmanship merits of a large number of suggested titles. The final title selected, as announced this week by Pathe, is "Black Cyclone."

The production was made on the Nevada desert where Director Jackman and his company spent twelve weeks on the production. The principal role in the picture is enacted by Rex, the equine star, who proved such a big box-office success in the recent Hal Roach production, "The King of Wild Horses."

In "Black Cyclone" an entire herd of wild horses is used with a dramatic story woven around the lives of the animals. The principal members of the human cast of the picture are Guinn (Big Boy) Williams and Kathleen Collins. No release date for the production has been set as yet by the Pathe organization.

Laemmle Signs Alice Joyce

Alice Joyce has been signed by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, to play the leading role in "The Home Maker," Universal's forthcoming production of Dorothy Canfield Fischer's popular story. Miss Joyce left New York for Universal City late last week and will begin work as soon as she arrives on the West Coast. Her departure for California was delayed several days by the illness of her small daughter.

Scenes from Mack Sennett's Pathecomedy, "Bashful Jim" which stars Ralph Graves

GEORGE K. ARTHUR who appears in "Salvation Hunters" released by United Artists

Pick Prominent Players

Robert Edeson and Anne Cornwall Signed For Principal Supporting Roles in "Keep Smiling"

An announcement has reached the trade, through the office of Associated Exhibitors to the effect that Robert Edeson, one of the foremost members of the new Cecil B. De Mille organization has been loaned to the Monty Banks' company, to portray an important role in "Keep Smiling," the initial Banks' production for Associated Exhibitors release.

"Keep Smiling," which is to be the first of a series of comedy-dramas to be made by Monty Banks for Associated Exhibitors, has just been put into production at the Cecil B. De Mille Studios, in Hollywood, where the Banks' unit is at present headquartered. In addition to Robert Edeson, petite Anne Cornwall has been engaged for a prominent supporting part.

Signs Harry O. Hoyt

A further enlargement and strengthening of the producing forces behind the coming releases of Producers Distributing Corporation is disclosed in a statement from A. H. Sebastian, general manager of Belasco Productions announcing an increase in their producing activities and the signing of Harry O. Hoyt to supervise and direct all of the Belasco Productions which will follow Weber and Fields in "Friendly Enemies," just completed at the Hollywood Studio.

United Artists Begins Selling Chaplin's Comedy "Gold Rush"

HIRAM ABRAMS, president of United Artists Corporation, announced that his organization would immediately begin to sell the forthcoming Charlie Chaplin comedy, "The Gold Rush," and that contracts for the first runs for this big production were being arranged for in all key centers.

From the advice received from the Chaplin Studio by Mr. Abrams, this production is the greatest that has ever been produced by Chaplin and that words beggar description of the screamingly funny scenes that have been filmed. The comedian will again be seen in his famous character of old, the character that he alone made so marvelously famous the world over. It will be the Chaplin of the cane, the derby and the baggy pants.

The story of "The Gold Rush" is based on the stirring days of the Klondike and gold rush to Alaska—the hardships endured by the pioneers who journeyed to that icebound country—all of which he depicts with realism. The drama of the soul sufferings of the sourdough who braved mountains, ice and snow, starvation and death, in their mad rush for gold, is so dramatically pictured that the story besides being filled with thousands of laughs, will in many respects be revolutionary.

"Chilkoot Pass," the famous gateway to the great Klondike; the tortuous path, cut through the snows over a precipitous mountain side, the pass which struck terror in the hearts of the bravest, and where many faltered; all this, and more has been duplicated by the inimitable Chaplin, and the hardships endured have been re-enacted before the camera with terrific realism.

DeMille Signs Paul Sloan to Direct Rod LaRocque

AN example of the calibre and cleverness of the new talent being drafted into the new Cecil B. De Mille organization is contained in an official announcement from Mr. De Mille of the signing of Paul Sloan to direct the first Rod La Rocque starring picture to be released through Producers Distributing Corporation.

While Paul Sloan has directed only two pictures, "A Man Must Live" and "Too Many Kisses," both starring Richard Dix, the clever directorial technique in these productions attracted De Mille's especial attention with the result that Sloan is the first new director to be signed for one of the first and most important pictures that will come from the De Mille studio.

Although a new figure in directorial ranks, Sloan has been prominently identified with picture production for a number of years. He achieved success as a scenario writer with such scripts as "If Winter Comes," "The Town That Forgot God," "My Friend, the Devil," "The Confidence Man" and many other stories.

The story in which Sloan will direct Rod La Rocque has not yet been definitely decided upon, but according to present plans production will start early in May.

New Phil Goldstone Picture

In the filming of "The Verdict" Phil Goldstone has produced a picture for Truart that is said to be one of the best box-office attractions that has been made for the independent market for sometime. The cast includes Lou Tellegen, Elliott Dexter, Taylor Holmes, George Fawcett, Maude George, Louise Lorraine, William Collier, Jr., Gertrude Astor, Gaston Glass and Joseph Swickard. The story is a vital story of society life.

New Names on De Mille Roster

Announcement is made by Cecil B. DeMille of the engagement of Eve Unsell, Grant Carpenter and Charles Whittaker as members of the big scenario department being formed at the Cecil B. DeMille studios. All three of the new writers have been assigned stories by Production Editor Bertram Millhauser.

Scenes from the Schulberg-Preferred picture, "The Mansion of Aching Hearts."

Lila Lee in "The Midnight Girl," a Chadwick picture, in which Gareth Hughes looms large in the supporting cast.

Seventeen Productions for New Season Doubles Chadwick's Last Year's Output

WITH the signing of Charles Ray for four productions, two weeks ago, I. E. Chadwick, president of Chadwick Pictures Corporation, completed arrangements for 1925-26 program, which provides for 100 per cent increase over last season's product. The tentative plans for the new season provide for seventeen productions, and it is expected that several additional special pictures will be added to this list at a later date.

The first production of the new series, "The Wizard of Oz," which recently broke all records at its world premier at the Forum Theatre in Los Angeles, is the most pretentious picture that this independent organization has yet offered. It is expected that this fanastic spectacle, a screen version of the L. Frank Baum play and book, will be among the big productions of the year. Larry Semon is featured in a cast, which includes Bryant Washburn, Dorothy Dwan, Charles Murray, Joseph Swickard, Virginia Pearson, Mary Carr and Oliver Hardy. Another Semon special comedy, tentatively entitled "The Perfect Clown," will be included in the latter part of the season's program. Production on this picture will be started shortly.

Lionel Barrymore will continue with Chadwick for another year, making two special dramatic productions during that period. The first of these will be "The Bells," made famous the world over by Sir Henry Irving. This picture and the second, typical of other Barrymore productions for Chadwick, will be lavish in production and will be interpreted by supporting casts of well-known screen stars. The second Barrymore vehicle will be selected from a group of distinguished Broadway successes which are now under consideration. These two Barrymores will be made in the East.

The Chadwick 1925-26 program marks the return of George Walsh to the type of thrilling action stories that first won him recognition on the screen. Although Mr. Walsh has enjoyed unusual success in the type of production he has made recently, Mr. Chadwick has sensed the big demand for the kind of modern romances that gives Walsh an opportunity to display his extraordinary athletic ability. The first of the six Walsh pictures, "American Pluck," is an indication of the type of stories that will follow. Richard Stanton is directing, and the cast includes Wanda Hawley, Dan Mason, Frank Leigh and Wilfred North. Ralph Spence will write the titles for and edit all of the George Walsh productions.

What is expected to be one of the most sensational pictures on the new Chadwick schedule is "The Unchastened Woman," a film version of Louis K. Anspacher's great American drama, which will mark the return to the screen of Theda Bara. Preparations are now under way for this picture, which will be one of the most elaborate productions on the program. "The Unchastened Woman" will be released early in the Fall.

The success of "The Fire Patrol," a Hunt Stromberg production for Chadwick, has been so marked that two new Stromberg specials are included in the 1925-26 program. Both are based on well-known plays. The first of these, "Winning the Futurity," is, as its name implies, a racetrack story that will lend itself particularly to a typical Stromberg spectacular treatment. Another stage melodrama that Stromberg will produce for Chadwick is a railroad story, "The Transcontinental Limited," which is expected to be one of the outstanding productions of the last half of the Chadwick program.

Charles Ray will make his bow under the Chadwick banner with four new rural comedies in next year's program. The first of these will be "Some Pumpkins," an original story written especially for the star. It is the intention of Chadwick to have these Ray pictures follow closely the trend of the rural comedies in which Ray attained his greatest success. With this idea in view, they have arranged to have these productions directed by Jerome Storm, who has been responsible for most of the past Ray successes. Joseph De Grasse, another of Ray's former associates, will supervise the productions. The cast of "Some Pumpkins," which is now in production, includes Duane Thompson, one of the 1925 Wampas Baby stars; George Fawcett, Bert Woodruff, William Courtright and Mary Carr.

Barbara LaMarr, Conway Tearle and Harry Morey in scenes from "Heart of a Siren," a Sawyer-Lubin picture for First National release.

CURRENT and ADVANCE FILM RELEASES

Containing in compact, comprehensive form, the title, star, kind of picture, date of review in Moving Picture World, and footage on past, present and future releases

ALLIED PRODUCERS AND DISTRIBUTORS

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
End of the World (J. Pickford)	Comedy-drama		6.500

ARROW

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Come On, Cowboys (Hatton)	Western drama	May 24	4,700
Mysteries of Mah Jong	Novelty	May 24	2,000
Two After One (West)	Comedy	May 24	2,600
Lash of Pinto Pete (Dearholt)	Stunt drama		4.437
Two Fisted Sheriff (Canutt)	Western drama	Dec. 6	4,625
Sell 'em Cowboy (Hatton)	Western drama		4.821
Ridin' Mad (Canutt)	Western drama		4.927
Desert Hawk	Western drama		4,828
Horse Sense (Hatton)	Western drama		4.648
His Majesty the Outlaw (Wilson)	Western drama		4,069
Romance and Rustlers (Canutt)	Western drama	Nov. 15	4,939
Rip Snorter (Hatton)	Western	Nov. 22	4,998
The Fugitive (Ben Wilson)	Western dr.	Nov. 29	4.920
Lost Chord (Powell-Lake-Binney)	Heart interest dr.	Dec. 20	6,751
Lena Rivers (Earle Williams)	Drama		6,000

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Spitfire (all-star)	Modern drama	July 5	6,109
Racing Luck (Monty Banks)	Comedy-drama	July 26	6,000
Never Say Die (MacLean)	Comedy of thrills	Sep. 13	5,803
East of Broadway (O. Moore)	Police drama	Nov. 22	5,785
Price of a Party (H. Ford)	Modern drama	Oct. 18	5,315
Barriers Burned Away	Spectacle	Dec. 27	6,236
Is Love Everything?	Sex melo.	Nov. 15	6,000
Adventurous Sex (C. Bow)	Flapper drama
Children of the Whirlwind
Great Air Mail Robbery
Battling Bunyan (Barry)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27	4,718
Greatest Love of All (Beban)	Drama	Jan. 17	6,486
Bad Company (Tearle)	Society drama	Jan. 24	5.551
Introduce Me (Douglas MacLean)	Comedy thrills	Mar. 21	6,710
Sky Raider (Logan)	Drama
Back to Life (Patsy Ruth Miller)	Drama	Feb. 28	5,628

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Lost Chords	"Sing Them Again"	May 3	1,000
The Junior Partner	Juvenile comedy	May 10	2,000
The Bonehead	Tuxedo comedy	May 10	2,000
Flowers of Hate	Wilderness Tale	May 17	1,000
Nerve Tonic	Christie comedy	May 17	2,000
Tiny Tour of U. S. A.	Hodge-Podge	May 17	1,000
Air Pockets	Mermaid comedy	May 17	2.000
Lunch Brigade	Cliff Bowes	May 24	1,000
Dizzy Daisy	Mermaid comedy	May 24	2.000
Good Morning	Lloyd Hamilton	May 24	2,000
Tootsie-Wootsie	Christie comedy	May 31	2,000
Just Waiting	Robert Bruce series	May 31	1.000
Echoes of Youth	"Sing Them Again"	May 31	1.000
Hot Air	Lee Moran	June 7	2,000
In a Drop of Water	"Secrets of Life"	June 14	1,000
Grandpa's Girl	Kathleen Clifford	June 21	2,000
The Chase	Alps Novelty	June 21	2,000
Snapshots of the Universe	Hodge-Podge	June 21	1,000
The Farewell	Bruce Scenic	June 21	1,000
Wedding Showers	Jack White prod.	June 28	2,000
The Ex-Bartender Retires	Bruce scenic	June 28	1,000
Family Fits	Cameo comedy	June 28	1.000
His First Car	Tuxedo comedy	July 5	2.000
Pardon Us	Cameo comedy	July 5	1,000
Melodious Moments	"Sing Them Again"	July 5	1.000
Pigskin	Mermaid comedy	July 12	2.000
Heads On	Cliff Bowes	July 12	1.000
Jumble in the Jungle	Hodge-Podge	July 12	1,000
Never Again	Tuxedo comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
Turn About	Cameo comedy	Aug. 2	1,000
Frozen Water	Novelty	Aug. 9	2,000
Savage Love	Jimmie Adams	Aug. 9	1,000
Good News	Cliff Bowes	Aug. 23	2,000
Oh, Teacher	Juvenile comedy	Aug. 23	1,000
Boneyard Blues	Earl Hurd cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Drenched	Cliff Bowes	Aug. 30	2,000
Wild Game	Mermaid comedy	Aug. 30	1,000
Don't Fail	Cameo comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
Jonah Jones	Lloyd Hamilton	Sep. 6	1,000
Hazardous Hunting	Hodge-Podge	Sep. 13	2,000
Rough and Ready	Lige Conley	Sep. 13	1,000
Cheer Up	Cliff Bowes	Sep. 20	2,000
Stupid but Brave	Al St. John	Sep. 20	2,000
Dirty Hands	Juvenile comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Short Change	Hiers comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Bright Lights	Vernon comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Her Boy Friend	Larry Semon	Oct. 4	2,000
Court Plaster	Neal Burns	Oct. 4	1,000
The Hoboken Nightingale	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 4	1,000
Crazy-Quilt of Travel	Hodge Podge	Oct. 11	2,000
Fast and Furious (Conley)	Comedy	Oct. 11	1,000
No Foolin' (Bowes)	Comedy	Oct. 18	1,000
Sawmill Four	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 18	2,000
Why Hurry? (Adams)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Kid Speed (L. Semon)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Crushed (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Oct. 25	1,000
Empty Heads (Bowes)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
High Gear (Vernon)	Comedy	Nov. 1	1,000
The Mosquito	Instructive	Nov. 15	1,000
Artist's Model	Hurd cartoon	Nov. 15	2,000
Poor Butterfly	Mermaid comedy	Nov. 15	1,000
Watch Your Pep (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Easy Pickin's	Christie com.	Nov. 22	1,000
Cut Loose (Dynham-Vance)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
A Fat Chance (W. Hiers)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Go Easy (Bowes)	Cameo com.	Dec. 6	2,000
Low Tide (J. White prod.)	Comedy	Dec. 6	1,000
Little People of the Garden	Instructive	Dec. 13	1,000
Earth's Oddities	Hodge-Podge	Dec. 13	2,000
Goat Getters	Juvenile com.	Dec. 20	2,000
French Pastry (Vernon)	Christie com.	Dec. 20	1,000
Broadcasting	Hurd cartoon	Dec. 27	2,000
Lovemania (St. John)	Tuxedo comedy	Dec. 27	1,000
Mad Rush (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
Step Lightly (Lige Conley)	Mermaid com.	Jan. 3	1,000
Hi-Fliers	Hodge-Podge	Jan. 17	2,000
Hooked (Hamilton)	Comedy	Jan. 17	1,000
Weak Knees (Bowes)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 17	1,000
Have A Heart (Ruth Hiatt)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 24	2,000
Good Spirits	Christie com.	Jan. 24	1,000
Motor Mad	Mermaid com.	Jan. 31	2,000
Sea Legs (Neal Burns)	Christie com.	Jan. 31	1,000
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Jan. 31	1.000
Paris Creations	Fashions	Feb. 7	1,000
Topsy Turvy Travel	Hodge-Podge	Feb. 7	2,000
His High Horse (Lee Moran)	Mermaid com.	Feb. 7	1.000
He Who Gets Soaked	Hurd cartoon	Feb. 14	1,000
High Hopes (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Wild Cat Willie	Juvenile com.	Feb. 21	1,000
Our Six-Legged Friends	Secrets of Life	Feb. 21	2,000
Great Guns (Bobby Vernon)	Comedy	Feb. 21	1,000
Welcome Danger (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 28	1,000
Paris Creations in Color	Fashions	Feb. 28	2,000
Half a Hero (Lloyd Hamilton)	Comedy	Mar. 7	1,000
Two Cats and a Dog	Cartoon	Mar. 7	1,000
Lots of Knots	Hodge-Podge	Mar. 7	1,000
Little People of the Sea	Instructive	Aug. 9	1,000

How to Use This Chart

First—Booking! Get accurate footage and look up date review appeared in Moving Picture World. Then you can decide if the picture will suit your audience.

Second—Play date! When you set your play date, consult this Chart to set the picture on a date that will not conflict with preceding and following pictures; avoid a sequence of similar type of story; space out your specials.

Third—Laying Out Program! This chart shows star and kind of story as well as accurate length; you can lay out a balanced program easily, avoid over—and under-length program.

Fourth—Exploitation! Through this chart find the review in Moving Picture World; this will give a good synopsis, the all-important cast and a fine line on exploitation possibilities as well as the things you'll want to soft-pedal.

Always! Turn to this Chart when you want accurate information in simple form and easy to get at a glance. AND—

File Your Moving Picture World

$1 for Your Time

Many exhibitors tell us that Moving Picture World Guide to Releases is the most accurate available to them. We know it is the most complete in that it is the only chart containing names of stars, type of picture, and all necessary information to the exhibitor.

We want it to be absolutely accurate—Moving Picture World recognizes the importance of accurate footage information, etc.

If you notice an error in FEATURE footage, or any other major error, we will pay you $1 for the effort on your part of writing us a letter telling us the correct facts.

In many territories local censorship cuts alter the footage to a minor extent. Don't write to tell us of these unimportant variations. But in any case where you feel that our figures will work a real hardship on the exhibitor following them—shoot us the word and we will shoot the dollar for your trouble.

Moving Picture World is willing to back up its complete confidence in the accuracy of its chart with its money.

We can't do more. No one else does as much. We thank you.

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Voice of the Nightingale	Novelty	Mar. 14	1,000
Love Goofy (Adams)	Christie com.	Mar. 14	2,000
Hello, Hollywood (Conley)	Mermaid com.	Mar. 14	2.000
Dynamite Doggie (Al St. John)	Tuxedo com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Mar. 21	1,000
Merrymakers (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Mar. 21	1,000
Rarin' Romeo (Walter Hiers)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000

FILM BOOKING OFFICES OF AMERICA

Silent Stranger (Fred Thomson)	Western	Apr. 19	5,000
Beloved Vagabond (Blackwell)	Romantic drama	Apr. 26	6,217
Girl of the Limberlost (Grey)	Rural drama	May 10	6,000
Untamed Youth (Lewis)	Gypsy drama	May 10	5,000
Danger Line (Hayakawa)	Japan drama	May 24	5,000
Spirit of the U. S. A. (Johnson prod.)	Patriotic drama	May 31	8,312
Dangerous Coward (F. Thomson)	Western	May 31	6,000
Napoleon and Josephine (all-star)	Hist. romance	June 7	6,591
Fighting Sap (F. Thomson)	Western	June 14	5,138
There's Millions In It (all-star)	Romantic thriller	June 28	6,000
Swords and the Woman (DeCordoba)	Romantic drama	July 12	6,000
Fools in the Dark (Patsy R. Miller)	Melo. farce	July 26	7,002
Neglected Women (Seena Owen)	Society drama	Aug. 9	6,265
Messalina	Italian spectacle	Sep. 6	8,473
American Manners (R. Talmadge)	Thrill-com.-dr.	Sep. 6	5,200
Desert Sheik (Hawley)	Sheik picture	Sep. 20	5,044
Vanity's Price (A. Q. Nilsson)	Society drama	Sep. 20	6,124
Woman Who Sinned (Busch)	Society drama		6,102
Thundering Hoofs (F. Thomson)	Western	Dec. 6	5,033
Stepping Lively (R. Talmadge)	Comedy drama		5,317
Life's Greatest Game (J. Walker)	Baseball epic	Oct. 11	7,010
Millionaire Cowboy (M. B. Flynn)	Western		4,841
Broken Laws (Mrs. W. Reid)	Drama	Jan. 31	6,413
Quemado (F. Thomson)	Western
Cheap Kisses (all-star)	Jazz-drama	Nov. 15	6,538
Go-Getters Series	Thrill comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Dangerous Flirt (Evelyn Brent)	Drama	Dec. 6	5,297
Miss in the Dark (Vaughn)	Go-getters	Dec. 6	2,000
On The Stroke of Three (Harlan)	Drama	Dec. 13	6,767
Trigger Fingers (Bob Custer)	Tex. Ranger	Dec. 13	4,775
Going of Cumming	Go-Getters	Dec. 13	2,000
Laughing at Danger (R. Talmadge)	Thrill drama	Dec. 20	5,442
Air Hawk (Al Wilson)	Airplane dr.	Dec. 20	5,000
Who's Hooligan?	Go-getters	Dec. 20	2,000
Heebie Jeebies (Aubrey)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Silk Stocking Sal (Brent)	Underworld dr.	Jan. 3	5,367
West of Hot Dog (Stan Laurel)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
No-Gun Man (Lefty Flynn)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 17	4,522
Flashing Spurs (Bob Custer)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5,068
Youth and Adventure (R. Talmadge)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5,000
Sleeping Cutie	Go-Getters	Jan. 31	2,000
Midnight Molly (Evelyn Brent)	Crook drama	Feb. 7	6,000
Range Terror (Bob Custer)	Western	Feb. 14	4,7[illegible]
Cloud Rider (Al Wilson)	Airplane-thrill	Feb. 21	5,070
Jimmie's Millions (R. Talmadge)	Athletic-stunts	Feb. 28	5,167
Parisian Nights (Hammerstein-Tellegen)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,278
Welcome Granger (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 7	2,000
Helping Hand (Aubrey)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Breed of the Border (Lefty Flynn)	Western	Mar. 14	4.930
Love's Bargain (Marjorie Daw)	Drama	Mar. 21	6,000
Captain Kidd	Bray cartoon	Mar. 21	1.000
Scar Hanan (Yakima Canutt)	Western	Mar. 28	6,020
Galloping Vengeance (Bob Custer)	Texas Ranger dr.	Mar. 28	5,005
He Who Gets Rapped (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 28	2,000

FIRST NATIONAL

Painted People (C. Moore)	Comedy	Feb. 9	6,900
When a Man's a Man (J. Bowers)	Drama	Feb. 12	6,807
Flowing Gold (all-star)	Drama	Mar. 1	8,005
Lilies of the Field (C. Griffith)	Drama	Mar. 22	8,510
Galloping Fish (Ince prod.)	Comedy	Mar. 22	5,559
Secrets (N. Talmadge)	Drama	Apr. 5	8,446
Enchanted Cottage (R. Barthelmess)	Drama	Apr. 19	7,120
Abraham Lincoln (G. A. Billings)	Drama	Feb. 2	9,759
Cytherea (all-star)	Society drama	May 21	7,142
Why Men Leave Home (J. M. Stahl prod.)	Comedy-drama	May 3	8,002
Woman on the Jury (all-star)	Drama	May 17	7,408
Son of the Sahara (all-star)	Melodrama	May 24	7,603
Sea Hawk (all-star)	Romantic drama	June 14	11,527
Marriage Cheat (all-star)	Drama	June 21	6,622
Those Who Dance (Ince prod.)	Drama		7,512
White Moth (LaMarr)	Drama	June 21	6,571
Perfect Flapper (C. Moore)	Comedy	June 28	7,030
Self-Made Failure (B. Alexander)	Comedy	June 28	7,285
For Sale (all-star)	Drama	July 5	7,304
Born Rich (C. Windsor)	Society drama	Dec. 20	7,389
Single Wives (C. Griffith)	Society drama	Aug. 9	7,526
Girl in the Limousine (Semon)	Farce comedy	Aug. 30	5,260
Flirting With Love (C. Moore)	Comedy	Sep. 6	6,926
In Hollywood With Potash and Perlmutter (all-star)	Comedy	Sep. 20	6,685
Husbands and Lovers (all-star)	Dom. drama	Nov. 8	7,822
Madonna of the Streets (Nazimova)	Drama	Oct. 25	7,674
Tarnish (all-star)	Comedy-drama		6,907
Her Night of Romance (C. Talmadge)	Comedy	Dec. 6	7,211
In Every Woman's Life (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,258
Sandra (LaMarr)	Drama	Dec. 6	7,905
Classmates (R. Barthelmess)	Drama	Nov. 29	6,923
Christine of the Hungry Heart (Vidor)	Drama	Nov. 1	7,678
Silent Watcher (Glenn Hunter)	Drama	Oct. 18	7,530
Love's Wilderness (Griffith)	Drama	Dec. 20	7,037
So Big (C. Moore)	Drama	Jan. 17	8,562
If I Marry Again (Doris Kenyon)	Drama	Jan. 24	7,401
Idle Tongues (Marmont)	Comedy-drama	Dec. 27	5,447
Sundown (all-star)	Western epic	Oct. 25	8,641
The Only Woman (N. Tadmadge)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 8	6,770
Inez from Hollywood (Nilsson-Stone-Astor)	Heart interest	Dec. 13	6,967
Frivolous Sal (O'Brien-Busch-Alexander)	Western melo.	Jan. 17	7,307
A Thief in Paradise (Doris Kenyon)	Melodrama	Jan. 24	7,231
As Man Desires (Sills-Dana)	Melodrama	Jan. 31	7,649
Enticement (Mary Astor)	Drama	Feb. 7	6,224
The Lady (Norma Talmadge)	Emotional dr.	Feb. 14	7,357
Her Husband's Secret (Moreno-Miller)	Sentiment-dr.	Feb. 21	6,150
Quo Vadis (Emil Jennings)	Special	Feb. 28	8,745
Lost World (Conan Doyle story)	Special	Feb. 28	9,700
New Toys (Barthelmess)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 28	7,811
Playing With Souls (Jacqueline Logan)	Drama	Mar. 7	5,831
One Year to Live (Pringle)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,064
Learning to Love (C. Talmadge)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 7	6,099
Heart of a Siren (La Marr)	Drama	Mar. 21	6,700
Sally (C. Moore-Leon Errol)	Stage success	Mar. 28	8,636

FOX FILM CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Ladies to Board (Mix)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	6,112
Blizzard (all-star)	Northern drama	Mar. 1	5,800
Love Letters (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Mar. 8	4,749
Wolf Man (Gilbert)	Drama	Mar. 15	5,145
Vagabond Trail (Jones)	Drama	Mar. 22	4,562
Arizona Express (D. Butler)	Railroad drama	Mar. 29	6,316
Plunderer (Mayo)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,000
A Man's Mate (Gilbert)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,812
Circus Cowboy (Jones)	Western drama	May 3	6,400
Trouble Shooter (Mix)	Western drama	May 17	5,702
He's My Pal	Imperial comedy	May 17	2,000
Lone Chance (Gilbert)	Western drama	May 24	4,385
When Wise Ducks Meet	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Western Luck (Jones)	Comedy-drama	June 28	5,000
Magic Needle	"Etching"	June 28	1,000
Romance Ranch (Gilbert)	Comedy-drama	July 12	4,471
Heart Buster (Mix)	Comedy-drama	July 19	4,500
Beaten Gold	Educational	July 19	1,000
Against All Odds (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 9	4,899
Pain as You Enter (Moran)	Comedy	Aug. 9	2,000
That French Lady (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 16	5,470
Man Who Came Back (special)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,273
Desert Outlaw (Jones)	Drama
Wolves of the Night (W. Farnum)	Drama
It Is the Law (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,895
Dante's Inferno (special)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,480
Cyclone Rider (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,672
Last of the Duanes (Mix)	Drama	Aug. 30	6,942
Iron Horse (special)	Railway drama	Sep. 13	11,400
Conquerer (W. Farnum)	Reissue
The Fight (all-star)	Drama
Oh, You Tony (Mix and Tony)	Comedy-drama	Sep. 27	6,302
Winner Take All (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,949
Hearts of Oak (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,336
Great Diamond Mystery (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Nov. 1	5,096
Warrens of Virginia (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 1	6,535
End of the Trail (W. Farnum)	Drama
Rambles of a Raindrop	Instructive	Sep. 27	1,000
Daughters of the Night (all-star)	Modern drama	Dec. 13	5,701
Painted Lady (Mackaill)	Modern drama	Oct. 4	6,936
Jerusalem Today	Instructive	Oct. 4	1,000
Last Man on Earth	Novelty special	Dec. 27
Gold Heels	Race track dr.	Feb. 7	6,020
Flames of Desire	Love drama		5,438
The Dancers	Drama	Jan. 24	6,656
The Folly of Vanity	Dramatic fantasy	Feb. 14	5,250
Teeth (Mix-Tony Duke)	Western drama	Nov. 15	6,190
Tainted Souls	Modern drama
Darwin Was Right	Monkey novelty com.	Nov. 8	4,993
Everyman's Wife	Modern mystery-drama
In Love With Love	Comedy drama	Jan. 3	5,677
Hunting Wild Animals in Hollywood	Novelty
Honor Among Men (E. Lowe)	Romance-drama	Oct. 18	4,960
Unreal News 4	Novelty	Oct. 11	2,000
Van Bibber Series	Polite com.	Oct. 25	2,000
Age of Oil	Educational	Nov. 1	750
Deep Sea Panic (Parrott)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
Nickle Plated West	Sunshine comedy	Nov. 15	2,000
The Bull Fight	Educational	Nov. 15	1,000
My Husband's Wives (Mason-Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Nov. 22	4,509
Paul Jones, Jr.	Van Bibber com.	Nov. 23	2,000
Finger Lakes	Instructive	Nov. 23	1,000
Brass Bowl (Edmund Lowe)	Adventure dr.	Nov. 29	5,861
Stolen Sweeties (Monkeys)	Comedy	Nov. 29	2,000
Salt of the Earth	Educational	Nov. 29	1,000
Gerald Cranston's Lady (James Kirkwood)	Domestic dr.	Dec. 6	6,074
Masked Marvel (Parrott)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
The Roughneck (George O'Brien)	Melodrama	Dec. 13	7,619
The Burglar	Van Bibber	Dec. 13	2,000
Man Who Played Square (Jones)	Western drama	Dec. 20	6,700
Deadwood Coach (Mix)	Western drama	Jan. 10	6,346
Troubles of a Bride	Melodrama	Dec. 27	4,915
Dick Turpin (Mix)	English drama	Feb. 7	5,224
Hunted Woman	Melodrama
Arizona Romeo (Jones)	Western drama	Jan. 31	4,694
Curlytop (Mason)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	5,828
Stardust Trail (Mason)	Melodrama	Mar. 7	4,686
Scuttlers (W.Farnum)	Western drama		4,686
Movie-Mad Maid (Babe London)	Slapstick	Dec. 20	2,000
Roaring Lions at Home	Sunshine com.	Jan. 3	2,000
Uncommon Clay	Educational	Jan. 3	1,000
Up On the Farm (Lee Moran)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
The Violin Speaks	Educational	Jan. 10	1,000
Dangerous Curves	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Milk Bottle Bandits	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Ports of Call (E. Lowe)	Regeneration dr.	Jan. 24	5,500
Sleep Walker (Sid Smith)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Hell-Roaring Range	Educational	Jan. 24	1,000
Corsica the Beautiful	Educational	Jan. 31	1,000
Nobody Works But Father	Slapstick	Feb. 7	2,000
Trail Rider (Jones)	Western	Feb. 21	4,752
Man Without a Country (all-star)	Special	Feb. 28	10.000
Scarlet Honeymoon (Shirley Mason)	Romantic com.-dr.	Mar. 14	5,080
Mysterious Stranger	Comedy	Mar. 14	2.000
Riders of the Purple Sage (Mix)	Western	Mar. 21	5,578
House of Flickers	Imperial com.	Mar. 21	2 000
Gold and the Girl (Jones)	Western	Mar. 28	4,512
Amateur Detective	Van Bibber	Mar. 28	2,000

METRO-GOLDWYN

Nellie, Beautiful Cloak Model	Melodrama	Apr. 5	6,[illegible]
Three Weeks (Pringle-Nagel)	Romantic dr.	Apr. 12	7,[illegible]
Janice Meredith (Davies)	Romantic dr.	Aug. [illegible]	10,[illegible]
Rejected Woman (Rubens-Nagel)	Drama	May 3	7,[illegible]
Heart Bandit (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 19	4,[illegible]
Fool's Awakening (Ford)	Drama	Feb. 14	5,[illegible]
Man Life Passed By (Marmont)	Drama	Mar. 1	6,[illegible]
Thy Name Is Woman (LaMarr)	Drama	Mar. 1	9,[illegible]
Uninvited Guest (Tolley)	Drama	Mar. 8	6,146
Happiness (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 8	7,[illegible]

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Women Who Give (all-star)	Sea drama	Mar. 22	[illegible]
Boy of Flanders (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 5	[illegible]
Shooting of Dan McGrew (all-star)	Drama	Apr. 12	[illegible]
Sherlock, Jr. (Keaton)	Comedy	May 17	[illegible]
Arab (Novarro-Terry)	Drama	July 13	6,710
Bread (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 2	[illegible]
Tess of D'Urbervilles (Sweet)	Drama	Aug. 9	7,736
Little Robinson Crusoe (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 16	6,126
Broken Barriers (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 16	5,717
True As Steel (all-star)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,454
Revelation (Dana)	Drama	July 5	8,752
Recoil (Blythe-Hamilton)	Drama	July 12	7,089
Wine of Youth (all star)	Drama	July 26	6,805
Along Came Ruth (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 2	5,161
Red Lily (Bennett-Novarro)	Drama	Aug. 16	6,975
Sinners in Silk (Menjou-Boardman)	Drama	Aug. 30	5,750
Circe, The Enchantress (Murray)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,882
His Hour (Pringle)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,300
One Night in Rome (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Sep. 27	5,883
Navigator (Keaton)	Comedy	Sep. 13	5,558
Bandolero (all star)	Drama	Oct. 11	[illegible]
Great Divide (all star)	Drama	Feb. 21	7,811
The Snob (all star)	Drama	Nov. 8	6,513
He Who Gets Slapped (Chaney)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,613
Rag Man (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 14	5,908
Silent Accuser (Peter, the Great)	Dog drama	Nov. 22	5,883
So This Is Marriage (all star)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 3	6,300
Beauty Prize (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 11	5,750
Ben Hur (special cast)	Drama
Merry Widow (Murray)	Comedy-dr.
The Scandal (Novarro)	Drama
Seven Chances (Keaton)	Comedy
Sporting Venus (Sweet)	Drama
Married Flirts (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 25	6,765
Temptress (Cosmopolitan)
The Square Peg
Zander, the Great (Cosmopolitan)
Romola (Lillian Gish)	Famous novel	Dec. 13	12,974
Greed (Von Stroheim prod.)	Special	Dec. 20	10,067
Chu-Chin-Chow (B. Blythe)	Spectacle	Feb. 21	6,408
Wife of the Centaur	Drama	Jan. 17	6,586
Dixie Handicap (Windsor-Keenan)	Drama	Jan. 10	6,905
Cheaper to Marry (All Star)	Drama	Feb. 14	5,921
A Man's World (Joyce-Marmont)	Drama
Excuse Me (Shearer-Nagel)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 7	5,084
Monster (Chaney-Olmsted)	Weird com.-dr.	Mar. 7	6,435
Daddy's Gone a Hunting (Marmont)	Pathos drama	Mar. 7	5,851
Lady of the Night (Norma Shearer)	Underworld dr.	Mar. 14	5.441
Denial (Claire Windsor)	Drama	Mar. 21	4,791
Seven Chances (Keaton)	Comedy	Mar. 28	5,113

PARAMOUNT

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Ten Commandments (all star)	Spectacular dr.	Jan. 5	12,000
Dawn of a To-morrow (Logan)	Slum dr.	Apr. 5	6,084
Singer Jim McKee (W. S. Hart)	Western	Apr. 12	7,008
Breaking Point (all star)	West-Metropolitan	Apr. 19	6,664
Confidence Man (Meighan)	Romance dr.	Apr. 26	6,500
Moral Sinner (Dalton)	Crook melo.	Apr. 26	5,439
Triumph (C. DeMille prod.)	Theatrical dr.	May 3	8,292
Bluff (Ayres-Moreno)	Drama	May 10	6,504
Men (Negri)	Society dr.	May 17	6,700
Wanderer of Wasteland (Holt-Technicolor)	Western	May 31	6,086
Code of the Sea (LaRocque-Logan)	Sea melodr.	Jun. 7	6,550
Bedroom Window (W. DeMille prod.)	Mystery dr.	Jun. 21	6,550
Guilty One (Ayres)	Heavy mystery	Jun. 28	5,365
Tiger Love (Melford prod.)	Modern dr.	Jun. 28	5,325
Changing Husbands (Joy)	Dual role dr.	July 5	6,799
Unguarded Women (Daniels-Dix)	Society dr.	July 5	6,051
Enemy Sex (Compson)	Romantic dr.	July 12	7,861
Side Show of Life (Torrence)	Clown dr.	Aug. 2	7,511
Manhandled (Swanson)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 9	6,998
Man Who Fights Alone (W. Farnum)	Drama	Aug. 9	6,337
Monsieur Beaucaure (Valentino)	Spectacle melo.	Aug. 23	9,932
Empty Hands (Holt)	Forest Melo.	Aug. 30	6,976
Lily of the Dust (Negri)	Drama	Sep. 6	6,811
The Female (Compson)	Society dr.	Sep. 13	6,167
Merton of the Movies (Hunter)	Travesty	Sep. 20	7,655
Sinners in Heaven (Daniels-Dix)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,621
Open All Night (all star)	Demestic dr.	Sep. 20	6,881
Feet of Clay (C. DeMille prod.)	Drama	Oct. 4	9,741
Alaskan (Meighan)	Drama	Sep. 27	6,736
Her Love Story (Swanson)	Romance dr.	Oct. 11	6,736
Story Without a Name (Ayres-Moreno)	Prize title	Oct. 18	5,912
Dangerous Money (Daniels)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,864
Border Legion (Moreno)	Drama	Nov. 1	7,048
Worldly Goods (Ayres)	Drama	Nov. 15—	6,055
Fast Set (Compson-Menjou)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 29	6,574
Forbidden Paradise (Negri)	Drama	Nov. 29	7,000
Sainted Devil (Valentino)	Drama	Dec. 6	8,633
City That Never Sleeps (Cruze prod.)	Mother-love melo.	Oct. 11	6,097
Manhattan (Dix)	Romantic com.	Nov. 8	6,415
Garden of Weeds (Compson)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,230
Wages of Virtue (Swanson)	Drama	Dec. 6	7,093
Tongues of Flame (Meighan-Love)	Melodrama	Dec. 27	6,763
North of 36 (Torrence-Holt-Wilson)	Historic romance	Dec. 13	7,908
Argentine Love (Daniels-Cortez)	Spanish romance	Jan. 3	5,970
Peter Pan (Betty Bronson)	Barrie classic	Jan. 3	9,593
Locked Doors (Compson)	Original story	Jan. 24	6,221
Tomorrow's Love (Ayres)	Divorce com-dr.	Jan. 24	5,903
East of Suez (Negri)	Drama	Jan. 17	6,821
Miss Bluebeard (Daniels)	The stage success	Feb. 14	6,453
Golden Bed (LaRocque)	Drama of classes	Jan. 31	8,584
Man Must Live (Dix)	Newspaper romance	Feb. 7	6.116
Coming Through (Meighan)	New type Meighan story	Feb. 21	6,522
The Devil's Cargo (Starke)	Drama of Old California	Feb. 21	7,980
Top of the World (Nilsson-Kirkwood)	Africa and England	Feb. 28	7,167
The Swan (Menjou-Howard)	Stage success	Mar. 14	5,889
Contraband (Wilson-Noah Beery)	Bootleg drama		6,773
Madame Sans Gene (Swanson)	World Famous drama
Thundering Herd (Holt-Wilson)	Buffalo stampede	Mar. 7	7,187
Forty Winks (Dana-Roberts-Griffith)	Comedy	Feb. 14	6.293
Goose Hangs High (Cruze production)	Typical	Mar. 21	6,186
Code of the West	Western dr.		6,777
New Lives for Old (Compson)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,796
Salome of the Tenements (Jetta Goudal)	Drama	Mar. 7	7,017
Too Many Kisses (Richard Dix)	Comedy	Mar. 14	5,750
Dressmaker From Paris (Leatrice Joy)	Drama	Mar. 28	[illegible]
Air Mail (feature cast)	Melodrama	Mar. 28	[illegible]

PATHE

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Commencement Day	"Our Gang"	May 3	2,000
An Ideal Farm	Terry cartoon	May 3	1,000
Homeless Pups	Terry cartoon	May 3	1,000
Sporting Speed	"Sportlight"	May 3	1,000
Publicity Pays	Charles Chase	May 3	1,000
When Winter Comes	Terry cartoon	May 10	1,000
Near Dublin	Stan Laurel	May 10	2,000
North of 50-50	"Dippy Doo Dads"	May 10	1,000
The Fortieth Door	Allene Ray—serial	May 17
April Fool	Charles Chase	May 17	2,000
The Pilgrims	Chronicle series	May 17	3,000
Fishin' Fever	"Sportlight"	May 17	2,000
Black Oxfords	Sennett comedy	May 17	2,000
Bottle Babies	"Spat Family"	May 17	2,000
Going to Congress	Will Rogers	May 24	2,000
Position Wanted	Charles Chase	May 24	1,000
The Cat's Meow	Sennett comedy	May 24	2,000
Cradle Robbers	"Our Gang"	May 31	2,000
Building Winners	"Sportlight"	May 31	1,000
Before Taking	Earl Mohan	May 31	1,000
Rupert of Hee-Haw	Stan Laurel	June 7	2,000
Yukon Jake	Ben Turpin	June 7	2,000
Up and At 'Em	"Dippy Doo Dads"	June 7	1,000
The Flying Carpet	Terry cartoon	June 7	1,000
Declaration of Independence	"Chronicles"	June 14	3,000
Fast Black	Mohan-Engle	June 14	1,000
Lion and the Souse	Sennett comedy	June 14	2,000
On Guard	"Sportlight"	June 14	1,000
Suffering Shakespeare	"Spat Family"	June 14	2,000
Young Oldfield	Charles Chase	June 21	1,000
His New Mama	Sennett comedy	June 21	2,000
Don't Park There	Will Rogers	June 21	2,000
Her Memory	Will Nigh Miniature	June 21	1,000
Solitude and Fame	"Sportlight"	June 28	1,000
Stolen Goods	Charles Chase	June 28	1,000
Jubilo, Jr.	"Our Gang"	June 28	2,000
Jeffries, Jr.	Charles Chase	July 5	1,000
The Wide Open Spaces	Stan Laurel	July 5	2,000
The Body in the Bag	Terry cartoon	July 5	1,000
Yorktown	Chronicles of America	July 12	3,000
Why Husbands Go Mad	Charles Chase	July 12	1,000
Desert Sheiks	Terry cartoon	July 12	1,000
Radio Mad	"Spat Family"	July 12	2,000
Maud Miller	Special	July 19	2,000
Our Congressman	Will Rogers	July 19	2,000
A Woman's Hour	Terry cartoon	July 19	1,000
A Ten-Minute Egg	Charles Chase	July 19	1,000
It's a Bear	"Our Gang"	July 26	2,000
The Sport of Kings	Terry cartoon	July 26	1,000
Our Defenders	"Sportlight"	July 26	1,000
Seeing Nellie Home	Charles Chase	July 26	1,000
Into the Net	Mulhall-Murphy serial	Aug. 2
Romeo and Juliet	Sennett comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
Flying Fever	Terry cartoon	Aug. 2	1,000
Short Kilts	Hal Roach comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
A Hard Boiled Tenderfoot	"Spat Family"	Aug. 9	2,000
The Puritans	"Chronicles" series	Aug. 9	3,000
Amelia Comes Back	Terry cartoon	Aug. 9	1,000
The First Hundred Years	Sennett comedy	Aug. 16	2,000
A Truthful Liar	Will Rogers	Aug. 16	2,000
The Battling Orioles	Special	Aug. 23	5,000
East of the Water Plug	Sennett comedy	Aug. 23	2,000
High Society	"Our Gang"	Aug. 23	2,000
The Prodigal Pup	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Hoofbeats	"Sportlight"	Aug. 23	1,000
House Cleaning	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Alexander Hamilton	"Chronicles" series	Sep. 6	3,000
Lizzies of the Field	Sennett comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
Barnyard Olympics	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
South of the North Pole	"Spat Family"	Sep. 6	2,000
One Third Off	Cobb-Rice comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
The Happy Years	"Sportlight"	Sep. 6	1,000
Why Men Work	Charles Chase	Sep. 6	1,000
Message From the Sea	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
Luck of the Foolish	Harry Langdon	Sep. 13	2,000
Outdoor Pajamas	Charles Chase	Sep. 13	2,000
Three Foolish Weeks	Ben Turpin	Sep. 13	2,000
In Good Old Summertime	Terry cartoon	Sep. 13	1,000
Danger Lure	Sportlight	Oct. 11	1,000
Dixie	Chronicles	Oct. 11	3,000
Goofy Age (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
10 Scars Make a Man (Allene Ray)	Serial	Oct. 18
Black Magic	Terry cartoon	Oct. 18	1,000
Sporting Rhythm	Sportlight	Oct. 18	1,000
Riders of the Purple Cow	Sennett com.	Oct. 18	2,000
Every Man for Himself	Our Gang	Oct. 18	2,000
Hot Water (Harold Lloyd)	Feature com.	Oct. 18	5,000
On Leave of Absence	Detective	Oct. 25	2,000
Bungalow Boobs (Chase)	Comedy	Oct. 25	1,000
Sky Plumber (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Galloping Bungalows	Sennett com.	Nov. 1	2,000
Stunts	Sportlight	Nov. 1	1,000
Hot Stuff	Spat family	Nov. 1	2,000
Cat and the Magnet	Terry cartoon	Nov. 1	1,000
Fast Company	Our Gang	Nov. 15	2,000
She Knew Her Man	Terry cartoon	Nov. 15	1,000
Gridiron Glory	Sportlight	Nov. 15	1,000
Love's Sweet Piffle (R. Graves)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Are Blond Men Bashful? (Stone)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Out of the Storm	Detective	Nov. 22	2,000
Good Old Circus Days	Terry cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
All Wet (Chase)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Deaf, Dumb and Daffy	Spat Family	Nov. 29	2,000
Cannon-Ball Express	Sennett com.	Nov. 29	2.000
Champions	Sportlight	Nov. 29	1,000
Lumber Jacks	Terry cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
White Sheep (Glenn Tryon)	Special dr.	Dec. 6	6,091
Feet of Mud (Sennett cast)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
Meet the Missus (Tryon)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
Bucking the Bucket Shop	Detective series	Dec. 6	2,000
She's In Again	Terry cartoon	Dec. 6	1,000
Mysterious Mystery	Our Gang	Dec. 13	2,000
Off His Trolley (R. Graves)	Sennett com.	Dec. 13	2,000
Noah's Athletic Club	Terry cartoon	Dec. 13	1,000
Just a Good Guy (Stone)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2,000
Royal Razz (Chase)	Comedy	Dec. 20	1,000
Mysteries of Old Chinatown	Terry cartoon	Dec. 20	1,000

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Nature's Rouge	Sportlight	Dec. 20	1,000
Rubber Neck	Spat Family	Dec. 27	2,000
Bull and Sand	Sennett comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Invaders	Sportlight	Dec. 27	1,000
Down on the Farm	Terry cartoon	Dec. 27	1,000
The Sea Squawk	Sennett com.	Jan. 3	2,000
On the Ice	Terry cartoon	Jan. 3	1,000
Galloping Hoofs (Allene Ray)	Serial	Jan. 3
Wages of Tin (Tryon)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
Rat's Knuckles (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 10	1,000
Rough and Tumbling	Sportlight	Jan. 10	1,000
Our Game Pup	Terry cartoon	Jan. 10	1,000
The Big Town (Our Gang)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Plumber (Graves)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Wild Goose Chaser (Turpin)	Sennett Com.	Jan. 17	2,000
Hello Baby (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 17	1,000
Laugh That Off	Spat Family	Jan. 24	2,000
Honeymoon Hardships	Sennett comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Brain and Brawn	Sportlight	Jan. 24	1,000
Boobs in the Woods (Langdon)	Sennett comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Hold That Thought	Terry cartoon	Jan. 31	1,000
Fighting Fluid (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 31	1,000
Beloved Bozo (R. Graves)	Sennett comedy	Feb. 7	2,000
Circus Fever	Our Gang	Feb. 7	2,000
Biting the Dust	Terry cartoon	Feb. 7	1,000
Transatlantic Flight	Terry cartoon		1,000
Change the Needle (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Family Entrance (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 14	1,000
Bigger and Better Jails	Terry cartoon	Feb. 14	1,000
Fisherman's Luck	Terry cartoon	Feb. 21	1,000
A Fox Hunt	Spat Family	Feb. 21	2,000
Sporting Armor	Sportlight	Feb. 21	1,000
Idaho (Vivian Rich)	Serial	Feb. 21	10 ep.
Water Wagons	Sennett com.	Feb. 21	2,000
His Marriage Wow (Langdon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Plain and Fancy Girls (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 28	1,000
Clean-Up Week	Terry cartoon	Feb. 28	1,000
Haunted Honeymoon (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Raspberry Romance (Ben Turpin)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Neptune's Nieces	Sportlight	Mar. 7	1,000
Bashful Jim (Graves)	Mack Sennett com.	Mar. 7	2,000
In Dutch	Terry cartoon	Mar. 7	1,000
Dog Days	Our Gang	Mar. 7	2,000
Percy (Charles Ray)	Typical dr.	Mar. 14	6,000
Should Husbands Be Watched	Comedy	Mar. 14	1,000
Hard Boiled (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 14	2,000
Jungle Bike Riders	Terry cartoon	Mar. 14	1,000
Excuse My Glove	Spat Family	Mar. 21	2,000
Giddap (Billy Bevan)	Comedy	Mar. 21	2,000
Traps and Troubles	Sportlight	Mar. 21	1,000
Pie Man	Terry cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Zowie!	Stereoskopik	Mar. 21	1,000
At the Zoo	Terry cartoon	Mar. 28	1,000
Is Marriage the Bunk? (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000
Plain Clothes (Langdon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Sailor Papa (Tryon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000

PRINCIPAL PICTURES

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Listen Lester (all-star)	Comedy-drama	May 10	6,242
Daring Youth (Daniels)	Comedy-drama	May 17	5,975
Daughters of Pleasure (Prevost)	Drama	May 24	6,000
Masked Dancer (H. Chadwick)	Mystery drama	May 31	4,987
Good Bad Boy (Joe Butterworth)	Comedy-drama	June 7	5,198
Captain January (Baby Peggy)	Sea story	July 12	6,194
Helen's Babies (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-drama
Mine With Iron Door (all-star)	Adventure drama	Dec. 27	7,800
Re-Creation of Brian Kent	Drama	Mar. 14	6,878

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Love's Whirlpool (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	Mar. 22	6,605
Hoosier Schoolmaster (Hull)	Drama	Mar. 29	5,556
His Darker Self (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Apr. 5	5,000
Try and Get It (Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 12	5,600
Not One to Spare (all star)	Pathos dr.	Apr. 19	5,000
Wandering Husbands (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	May 10	6,300
Hold Your Breath (Devore)	Thrill com.	Jun. 7	5,900
Miami (Compson)	Drama	Jun. 14	6,317
Night Hawk (Carey)	Western	Jun. 14	5,115
Lightning Rider (Carey)	Western	Jun. 21	6,000
What Shall I Do? (Mackaill)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,000
Legend of Hollywood (Marmont)	Drama	Jan. 10	5,414
Wise Virgin (Miller)	Drama		5,951
Welcome Stranger (Vidor)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,618
Ramshackle House (Compson)	Comedy-dr.		6,257
Barbara Frietchie (Vidor)	Civ. War dr.	Oct. 11	7,179
Chalk Marks (M. Snow)	Drama
House of Youth (Logan)	Drama		6,669
Roaring Rails (Carey)	Railway dr.	Oct. 25	5,753
Another Scandal (Lois Wilson)	Sex theme	Nov. 1	7,000
Another Man's Wife (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama		5,015
Trouping With Ellen (H. Chadwick)	Comedy-dr.		6,452
Reckless Romance	Comedy feature	Nov. 22	5,530
Siren of Seville (Dean)	Drama	Nov. 29	6,724
Girl on the Stairs (Miller)	Comedy-dr.		6,214
Chorus Lady (Livingston)	Comedy-dr.	Feb. 21	6,020
Cafe in Cairo (Dean)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,656
Flaming Forties (Carey)	Western		5,770
The Mirage (Vidor)	Drama
Let Women Alone (O'Malley-Hawley)	Drama
Soft Shoes (Carey)	Western
Off the Highway (Logan)	Drama
Charley's Aunt (Syd Chaplin)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 21	7,243

B. P. SCHULBERG PROD.

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Breath of Scandal (Blythe)	Society drama		6,940
White Man (Joyce)	Jungle romance	Nov. 22	6,370
Triflers (Busch-Mayo)	Paris soc. dr.	Dec. 27	6,626
Capital Punishment (Clara Bow)	Prison dr.	Jan. 24	5,950
Boomerang (Clara Bow)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 21	6,714
Parasite (Bellamy-Moore-Washburn)	Drama	Jan. 31	5,140
Mansion of Aching Hearts (all-star)	Melodrama	Mar. 14	6,147

UNITED ARTISTS

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall (Pickford)	Romantic drama	May 17	9,351
America (Griffith prod.)	Historical drama	Mar. 8	11,442
Isn't Life Wonderful? (Dempster)	Realism	Dec. 13	8,000
Thief of Bagdad (D. Fairbanks)	Fantasy	Mar. 29	12,000
Salvation Hunters (Von Sternberg prod.)	Symbolical dr.	Feb. 14	5,900

UNIVERSAL

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Galloping Ace (Hoxie)	Western	Apr. 5	4,561
Hit Him Hard (Earle)	Comedy	Apr. 5	2,000
Marry When Young (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 5	1,000
Checking Out (Pal)	Century com.	Apr. 12	2,000
Spring of 1964 (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 12	1,000
Excitement (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 19	4,913
Storm Daughter (Dean)	Drama	Apr. 19	5,300
Racing Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Apr. 19	2,000
Forty Horse Hawkins (Gibson)	Western	Apr. 26	5,140
One Wet Night (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 26	1,000
Pretty Plungers (Follies Girls)	Century com.	Apr. 26	2,000
Riders Up (Hale)	Race drama	May 3	4,904
Politics (Summerville)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
Green Grocers (Dunn)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
A Lofty Marriage (Earle)	Comedy	May 3	2,000
Taxi, Taxi!	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Pigskin Hero (McCoy)	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Bulltosser (Lyons-Moran)	Reissue	May 10	1,000
Dangerous Blonde (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	May 17	4,919
Fast Steppers (New Series)	Race dr.	May 10	2,000
Ridgeway of Montana (Hoxie)	Western	May 17	4,843
My Little Brother (Summerville)	Comedy	May 17	1,000
The Lone Round-Up (Dougherty)	Short Western	May 17	2,000
The Signal Tower (Super-Jewel)	Drama	May 24	6,714
Tired Business Man (Alt-Follies Girls)	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Honor of Men (N. Hart re-issue)	Western	May 24	2,000
Reckless Age (Denny)	Drama	May 31	6,954
Fighting American (all star)	Drama	May 31	5,251
Case Dismissed (Summerville)	Comedy	May 31	1,000
Boss of the Bar-20 (Lawrence)	Western	May 31	2,000
Delivering the Goods (Pal)	Comedy	May 31	2,000
The Gaiety Girl (Philbin)	Drama	Jun. 7	7,419
High Speed (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 7	4,927
Fearless Fools (McCoy)	Century com.	Jun. 7	2,000
Rest in Pieces (Roach)	Comedy	Jun. 7	1,000
Powerful Eye (Morrison)	Short Western	Jun. 7	2,000
Sailor Maids (Follies Girls)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Winning a Bride (Ridgeway)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Family Secret (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-dr.	Jun. 21	5,076
Back Trail (Hoxie)	Western	Jun. 21	4,615
Fight and Win (Jack Dempsey)	Fight series	Jun. 21	...
Please Teacher (Messinger)	Comedy	Jun. 21	2,000
Miners Over 21 (Summerville)	Comedy	Jun. 21	1,000
Blue Wing's Revenge (Lawrence)	Western	Jun. 28	2,000
Dark Stairway (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 28	5,000
Iron Man (Albertini)	Serial	Jun. 28	...
Behind the Curtain (Bryson)	Drama	July 5	4,875
A Royal Pair	Century com.	July 5	2,000
Why Be Jealous? (Roach)	Comedy	July 5	1,000
Young Ideas (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	July 12	4,847
Her Fortunate Face	Century com.	July 12	2,000
Little Savage	Short Western	July 12	2,000
Sawdust Trail (Gibson)	Western	July 19	5,500
Cry Baby (Summerville)	Comedy	July 19	1,000
Starving Beauties (Wiley)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Flying Eagle (Lawrence)	Short Western	July 26	2,000
Patching Things Up (Roach)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Fighting Fury (Hoxie)	Western	Aug. 2	4,491
Kid Days (Snooky)	Comedy	Aug. 2	1,000
Her City Sport (Wiley)	Comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
The Gun Packer (Morrison)	Western	Aug. 2	2,000
Big Timber (Desmond)	Forest dr.	Aug. 9	4,650
Paging Money	Century com.	Aug. 9	2,000
King's Command (Lawrence)	Short Western	Aug. 9	2,000
Love and Glory (all star)	Drama	Aug. 16	7,084
Hit and Run (Gibson)	Baseball dr.	Aug. 16	5,504
Wolves of the North (Duncan)	Serial	Aug. 16	...
Wine (C. Bow)	Drama	Aug. 23	6,220
Hysterical History (Z Series)	Novelty	Aug. 23	1,000
Sagebush Vagabond	Western	Aug. 23	2,000
Butterfly (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 30	7,472
The Blow Out (Messinger)	Comedy	Aug. 30	2,000
K—The Unknown (Valli-Marmont)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,146
All's Swell on the Ocean (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
So This Is Paris (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
Scared Stiff	Century com.	Sep. 6	2,000
Mind the Baby (Pal)	Comdey	Sep. 13	2,000
College Cowboy	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
Traffic Jams (McCoy)	Comedy	Sep. 13	2,000
Tempest Cody Gets Her Man (Walcamp)	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
That's the Spirit (Roach)	Comedy	Sep. 13	1,000
Measure of a Man (Desmond)	Drama	Sep. 20	4,979
Fast Worker (Denny-LaPlante)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,506
Low Bridge (Messinger)	Comdey	Sep. 27	2,000
Game Hunter (Roach)	Comdey	Sep. 27	1,000
Between Fires	Western	Sep. 27	2,000
Rose of Paris (Philbin)	Drama	Oct. 4	6,362
Rip Van Winkle	Hysterical Hist.	Oct 4	1,000
Trouble Fixer	Century com.	Oct. 4	2,000
Western Wallop (Hoxie)	Ex-convict dr.	Oct. 11	4,611
Hello, Frisco (Summerville-Dunn)	Comedy	Oct. 11	1,000
Snappy Eyes (Wiley)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
An Eyeful (Sullivan)	Short drama	Oct. —	—
Pocahontas & John Smith	Hysterical hist.	Oct. 18	1,000
What an Eye	Comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Ridin' Kid From Powder River (Gibson)	Western	Oct. 25	5,727
Riddle Rider (Desmond-Sedgwick)	Serial	Nov. 1
Robinson Crusoe	Hysterical hist.	Nov. 1	1,000
Some Tomboy (Wiley)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
The Tornado (H. Peters)	Melodrama	Nov. 15	6,375
Sweet Dreams	Century comedy	Nov. 15	2,000
Antony and Cleopatra	Gysterical History	Nov. 15	1,000
Speed, Boys (Trimble, Bobbles)	Century (kid)	Nov. 22	2,000
Oh, Doctor (R. Denny)	Comedy	Nov. 29	6,587
Omar Khayyan (Hysterical history)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Double Cross (Sullivan)	Drama	Nov. 29	2,000
Smouldering Fires (Frederick-LaPlante)	Drama	Dec. 13	7,356
Hurricane Kid (Gibson)	Western	Jan. 3	5,296
Secrets of the Night (Kirkwood-Bellamy)	Drama	Dec. 20	6,138
Mad Whirl (May MacAvoy)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27	6,184
Price of Pleasure (Valli-Kerry)	Drama
Saddle Hawk (Gibson)	Western dr.	Mar. 7	4,419
Raffles (House Peters)	Drama
Eyes of Fools (Rubens-Marmont)	Society dr.	Jan. 24	6,381
Fifth Avenue Models (Mary Philbin)	Drama		5,922
Up The Ladder (Valli)	Drama	Jan. 31
Love Cargo (House Peters)	Drama
Let 'Er Buck (Gibson)	Western	Jan. 3	5,500

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Dangerous Innocence (LaPlante-O'Brien)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,759
Ridin' Thunder (Jack Hoxie)	Western
Man in Blue (Rawlinson-Bellamy)	Drama	Feb. 28	5,624
Meddler (Desmond)	Drama
Taming the West (Gibson)	Western	Feb. 28	5,304
Don Dare-Devil (Hoxie)	Western
Red Clay (Desmond)	Drama
Paul Revere	Hysterical histy.	Dec. 20	1,000
Border Maid (Ed Cobb)	Drama	Dec. 20	2,000
Family Row (Messinger)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2,000
Present Arms (Wiley)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Red Age (Sullivan)	Drama	Jan. 3	2,000
Ponce de Leon	Hysterical history	Jan. 3	1,000
Prehistoric Man	Hysterical history	Jan. 3	1,000
Sign of the Cactus (Hoxie)	Western	Jan. 10	4,938
Ridin' Pretty (Desmond-Forrest)	Western com.-dr.	Jan. 17	4,812
Looking Down (Wiley)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Aggravatin' Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Pistol Point Proposal (Eddie Polo)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Whip Hand (Billy Sullivan)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Rembrandt	Hysterical histy.	Jan. 31	1,000
Last Laugh (Emil Jannings)	Human drama	Feb. 7	6,500
Fighting Ranger (Sedgwick-Daugherty)	Serial	Feb. 7
Roaring Adventure (Jack Hoxie)	Western	Feb. 14	4,800
Sir Walter Raleigh	Hysterical Histy.	Feb. 14	1,000
Taming the East (Messinger)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Tempest Cody's Man Hunt (Walcamp)	Western series	Feb. 21	2,000
Seeing Red (Billy Sullivan)	Cowboy drama	Feb. 21	2,000
Lost Chord (Bert Roach)	Comedy	Feb. 21	1,000
Nobody's Sweetheart (Wanda Wiley)	Century comedy	Feb. 21	2,000
Itching for Revenge (Eddie Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Kicked About (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Puzzled by Crosswords (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Olympic Games	Hysterical histy.	Mar. 14	1,000
Dangerous Peach (Al Alt)	Century com.	Mar. 14	2,000
Don't Worry (Wanda Wiley)	Century com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Cowpuncher's Comeback	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Storm King	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Both Barrels	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Girl Problem	Sweet 16 com.	Mar. 21	1,000
Headwinds (H. Peters-Patsy R. Miller)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,486
Fighting Terror (Sullivan)	Mustang westn.	Mar. 28	2,000
Powdered Chickens (Edna Marian)	Century com.	Mar. 28	2,000
Tenting Out (Neely Edwards)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000

VITAGRAPH

Between Friends (Tellegen-Nilsson)	Society dr.	Apr. 26	6,936
Virtuous Liars (Allen-Powell)	Society dr.	Apr. 19	5,650
One Law For The Woman (Landis)	Mining camp		6,000
Code of the Wilderness (Bowers-Calhoun)	Modern west.	July 12	6,480
Behold This Woman (Rich)	Movie romance	Aug. 2	6,425
Captain Blood (Star Cast)	Sabatini romance	Sep. 20	10,680
Clean Heart or Cruelties of Life	Modern dr.	Sep. 27	7,950
Greater Than Marriage (Tellegen-Daw)	Theatre dr.
Beloved Brute (De La Motte)	Melodrama	Nov. 22	6,719
Two Shall Be Born (Novak-Harlan)	Drama
Pampered Youth (Landis-Calhoun)	Drama	Feb. 21	6,640
Redeeming Sin (Nazimova-Tellegen)	Apache dr.	Jan. 31	6,227
Barree, Son of Kazan	Special
Fearbound (Daw-Welch)	Melodrama	Feb. 14	5,700
Steele of Royal Mounted	Special
In the Garden of Charity	Special
Happy Warrior	Special
Alibi	Special
Road That Led Home	Special
Unknown Story	Special

WARNER BROTHERS

George Washington, Jr. (Barry)	Comedy-drama	Mar. 22	5,674
Daddies (Belasco)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,228
Conductor 1492 (Hines)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,080
Beau Brummel (J. Barrymore)	Romantic drama	Apr. 12	10,930
Broadway After Dark (Menjou)	Comedy-drama	May 31	7,019
Babbitt (all-star)	Character drama	July 1	7,900
Being Respectable (all-star)	Society drama	Aug. 16	6,040
How to Educate a Wife (star cast)	Society drama		6,000
Her Marriage Vow (all-star)	Society drama		7,100
Cornered (all-star)	Society drama		7,300
Lovers' Lane (all-star)	Character drama	Nov. 29	5,100
Tenth Woman (all-star)	Society drama		6,250
Find Your Man (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Oct. 4	7,300
This Woman (Rich)	Society drama	Nov. 1	7,100
Lover of Camille (all-star)	Romantic drama	Nov. 29	7,180
Dark Swan (Prevost-Blue-Chadwick)	Drama	Dec. 6	6,800
Narrow Street (D. Devore-Matt Moore)	Light comedy	Jan. 17	6,700
Lighthouse by the Sea (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	6,700
Lost Lady (Irene Rich)	Social drama	Feb. 7	6,700
Bridge of Sighs (all star)	Society drama		6,604
Broadway Butterfly (Devore-Landis)	Broadway dr.		7,705
On Thin Ice (Moore-Roberts)	Crook drama		7,298
Man Without a Conscience (Rich-Lewis)	Drama		6,850
Recompense (Prevost-Blue)	Society drama		7,480
My Wife and I (Irene Rich)	Domestic dr.		6,700
On Thin Ice (T. Moore-Edith Roberts)	Drama	Mar. 21	7,046

MISCELLANEOUS

ARTCLASS PICTURES CORP.

Rough Ridin' (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Apr. 26	4,670
Rarin' to Go (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Aug. 2	5,000
Battling Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 13	4,000
Biff Bang Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 20	4,500
Hutchison Series	Stunt dramas
Fast and Fearless (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 27	4,500
Walloping Wallace (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill western	Oct. 11	4,700
Hard Hittin' Hamilton (Buf. Bill, Jr.)	Thrill western	Oct. 18	5,000
Gold and Grit (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.		4,650
Bringing Home the Bacon (Buffalo Bill)	Thrill dr.		4,650
After Six Days	Biblical spec.		10,000
Woman Who Believed (Ann Luther)			5,700
Deerslayer (J. W. Kerrigan)			5,000

BANNER PRODUCTIONS

	Kind of Picture	Oct. 25	5,600
Truth About Women (Hampton)	Society drama	Review.	Feet
Man Without a Heart (Harlan)	Society drama		6,000
Those Who Judge (P. R. Miller)	Society melo.		5,700
Daughters Who Pay (all-star)	Society drama		5,800
Empty Hearts (all-star)	Society drama		5,860

C. B. C.

Battling Fool (R. Fairbanks)	Prize fight		4,975
Foolish Virgin (E. Hammerstein)	Social drama		5,900
Price She Paid (A. Rubens)	Marriage dr.		5,957
Fight for Honor (Fairbanks-Novak)	Railroad dr.		4,570
Midnight Express (Hammerstein)	Railroad melo.	Dec. 6	5,967

C. C. BURR

Speed Spook (J. Hines)	Thrill drama	Aug. 30	6,000
Average Woman (Pauline Garon)	Drama	Feb. 9	6,400
Lend Me Your Husband (Kenyon)	Drama		6,700
Youth for Sale (S. Holmquist)	Drama	Oct. 18	6,500
The Early Bird (Hines)	Comedy	Dec. 27	7,000
Cracker Jack (Johnny Hines)	Drama		6,500

CHADWICK PICTURES CORP.

Fire Patrol (all-star)	Melo. of Sea	May 24	6,600
Meddling Women (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Oct. 18	6,400
Painted Flapper (all-star)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,600
I Am the Man (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Nov. 1	7,600
Flattery (Bowers)	Political dr.	Nov. 8	6,000
Tomboy (Devore-Rawlinson)	Melodramatic com.	Jan. 3	6,000
Midnight Girl (Lila Lee)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,300

CRANFIELD & CLARKE

Lily of the Alley (Chrissie White)	Slum drama		6,289
Strangling Threads (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,410
A Soul's Awakening (LeBreton)	Slum drama		5,597
Speak No Evil (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,500
Comin' Thru The Rye (all-star)	Romantic dr.		6,500

DAVIS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Tales of 1,001 Nights (French Cast)	Arabian Nights	Feb. 14	6,800

J. J. FLEMING PROD.

Shackles of Fear (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Trail of Vengeance (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000
Phantom Shadows (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Scarlet and Gold (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000

FRENCH SUBJECT

(American Distributor not announced)

Miracle of the Wolves	Historical dr.	Mar. 7	10,246

GERSON PICTURES CORP.

Too Much Youth (Richard Holt)	Modern drama	Feb. 21	4,800

INDEPENDENT PICTURES CORP.

Border Justice (Bill Cody)	Western dr.	Nov. 8	5,452
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Bootlegging dr.	Nov. 29	4,960
Bill Cody series of eight	Stunt dramas
Baffled (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,940
Bandit Tamer (E. Farnum)	Comedy west.		5,240
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		4,980
Billy, The Kid (F. Farnum)	Western		4,790
Blood and Steel (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		5,000
Calibre 45 (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,950
Courage (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		5,020
In Spider's Web (Alice Dean)	Melodrama		6,000
Moonshine (B Cody)	Western		4,988
Drug-Store Cowboy (F. Farnum)	Western com.-dr.	Feb. 7	4,356

RAYART

Battling Brewster (Farnum)	Drama
Easy Money (All-Star)	Drama
Butterfly Comedies (Gloria Joy)
Super Speed (Reed Howes)	Automobile com.-dr.	Feb. 7	5,227

RED SEAL PICTURES CORP.

Peeps Into Puzzle-land (Gem of Screen)	Novelty	Nov. 1	780
Vacation (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
Should a Husband Tell (Gem of Screen)	Gems of screen	Nov. 22	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Nov. 22	2,000
League of Nations (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
The Cure (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Dec. 18	1,000
Zoo's Who's Who (Gem of Screen)	Novelty	Dec. 27	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Jan. 10	1,000
Marvels of Motion (Issue B)	Slow motion nov.	Jan. 17	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Jan. 24	300
Cartoon Factory	Cartoon nov.	Jan. 24	1,000
Mother Goose Land	Cartoon	Jan. 24	1,000
Storm (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Do You Remember	Scenic novelty	Mar. 21	1,000
Animated Hair (Issues R and UU)	Marcus cartoon	Mar. 28	300
Film Facts (Issue D)	Magazine	Mar. 28	1,000
Ko-Ko the Barber (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon novelty	Mar. 28	1,000

RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

Passing of Wolf MacLean (All-Star)	Western melo.	Nov. 29	4,712
Courageous Coward (Jack Meehan)	Western	Dec. 6	4,052

WM. STEINER PROD.

Poison (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 13	5,600
Turned Up (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 27	4,900
Riding Double (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,000
Tucker's Top Hand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,618
Rainbow Rangers (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,982
Perfect Alibi (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,108
Left Hand Brand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,884
Pot Luck Pards (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,907
Virtue's Revolt (Thornton)	Stage melodrama	Oct. 11	5,175
On Probation (Edith Thornton)	Drama	Dec. 13	5,000
Across the Dead Line	Western		5,000
Always Ridin' to Win	Western		5,000
Hidden Menace	Stunt dr.		5,000
Branded a Thief	Western		5,060
Verdict of the Desert	Western		4,746
Valley of Vanishing Men	Western		4,400
Trouble Buster (Leo Maloney)	Western	Feb. 21	5,000

PROJECTION

EDITED BY F. H. RICHARDSON

Why?

Recently, through the courtesy of First National Pictures, the editor and his friend daughter saw that very wonderful production "The Lost World." Of the production I have nothing but words of praise. It is a truly marvelous thing. Also of the work of projectionists Bert Frank and A. B. Myer I can only speak words of commendation. Except for the terrific projection angle, with its art-murdering distortion, the rendition of the production before the audience left little to be desired.

On the inside of the front cover of the "program" distributed to each individual of the audience I found the following:

Musical settings by Carl Edouarde; Orchestration and composition by Cecil Copping; Musical Director, Frederick Stahlberg; Settings designed by Henry Dreyfuss; Settings executed by Gates and Morange; Mechanical effects by J. H. Welch; Lighting effects by Display Lighting Company; Produced under the supervision of Earl Hudson; Director of Photography, Arthur Edeson; Director of settings and architecture, Milton Menasco; Film editor George McGuire; Chief technician Fred W. Jackson; Scenario and Editorial direction, Marion Fairfax; Dramatic direction, Harry O. Hoyt; Studio Janitor——No, I'm wrong there. That is not given.

This list of folk in whom I as one of the audience had, except possibly excepting the name of Hudson, absolutely NO interest of any sort whatsoever, and which I doubt if any one in the audience had any more interest in them than had I, was followed by the names of the players, which the audience really wants.

BUT THE NAMES OF THOSE DIRECTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE RENDITION OF THAT PHOTOPLAY BEFORE THE AUDIENCE, UPON WHOSE KNOWLEDGE, CARE AND SKILL WILL IN VERY LARGE DEGREE DEPEND THE EXCELLENCE OF WHAT THE AUDIENCE WILL SEE, WERE CONSPICUOUS BY THEIR TOTAL ABSENCE.

Yet that audience would, IN THE VERY NATURE OF THINGS, be far more interested in knowing who it was upon whose care, knowledge and skill it must perforce depend so largely for their enjoyment, than in knowing who did a lot of things they don't know anything about, and care less, and which was done and finished anyhow.

And this matter has a serious side, or a side which should be serious to the exhibitor. It never seems to occur to the average exhibitor that if the name of the projectionist be placed before the public, in the program certainly, but particularly upon the screen preceding projection, THE PROJECTIONIST IS GOING TO BE MIGHTY DARNED CAREFUL TO PLACE BEFORE THAT AUDIENCE THE VERY BEST GRADE OF WORK POSSIBLE, and certainly no one would be foolish enough to question the value of that sort of thing.

Not Carping Criticism

Now, mind you, all of this is NOT meant as a mere carping criticism. It is not intended as a criticism of either First National or the Astor Theatre management, because they have merely followed established practise, though just why so obviously unfair and foolish a proceeding should be "established practice" it is difficult to understand.

So far as I know, the B. S. Moss Colony Theatre, of which Mr. DeRosa is Managing Director, is the only one of all the Broadway theatres which gives even the name of the Chief Projectionist program recognition. I believe the Capitol Theatre did place the name of Mr. Smith, its Chief Projectionist, on its program, but unless I am in error it is no longer there.

Of course the theatres which employ two shifts of projectionists may object that it is impractical to place the names on the screen, but that does not prevent the placing of the names on the program, or the appointment of a Chief Projectionist, whose name, as the man responsible for projection in the theatre, may go on the screen.

Looked at from any viewpoint it spells neither rhyme, reason nor common sense to smear a great string of names of people the audience neither knows nor cares anything about out on the screen, and leave off the names of those the excellence of whose work the audience is most vitally interested in.

Bluebook School

Question No. 251—By a sketch show how you would connect wet or dry batteries to raise the voltage. By sketch show connection for raising the amperage. By sketch show how you would connect to raise both.

Question No. 252—Tell us what the term ampere means—what is represents. Explain what is meant by an "ampere hour." By a kilowatt hour.

Question No. 253—If a 50-watt lamp burns for ten hours, current 11 cts. per K. W. hour, how much current has that lamp consumed, as measured in money.

Question No. 254—What is an ammeter? A voltmeter? Show how each is connected.

Question No. 255—What is an arc? Explain to us exactly what it is, so far as you know, and how it operates. Room for the use of considerable language here.

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

Your own special Ticket, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon Tickets for Prize Drawings; 5,000 for $7.00. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated All tickets must conform to Government regulation and bear established price of admission and tax paid.

SPECIAL TICKET PRICES

Five Thousand	$3.50
Ten Thousand	6.00
Fifteen Thousand	7.00
Twenty-five Thousand	9.00
Fifty Thousand	12.50
One Hundred Thousand	18.00

National Ticket Co. Shamokin, Pa.

A Waxing Process

Out in Columbus, Ohio, a company is proposing to coat the emulsion side of the entire film with a very thin coating of liquefied wax. The process seems simple enough and practical enough, so far as I am able to judge from examination of samples of film thus coated, and listening to the description of how it is done.

The representative of the company with whom I talked doesn't leave much to imagination. His claims are plenty broad enough, in all conscience. However, after making due allowance for the enthusiasm of the salesman, it seems reasonable that the process has real merit; also I examined several original letter from those who claimed to have given it a thorough try-out, and they all spoke well or even highly of it. Also I like one paragraph of the circular they send to producers whom they solicit to apply the process to their new films. It reads:

> Give our process the acid test. Let us prove our claims. If you, the distributor, find the machine (They supply this on trial, as I understand it.—Ed.) and process is an expense, instead of an investment, the machine and balance of unused supplies may be returned without further obligation.

Surely they must have confidence in their own process, for that is as fair an offer as could possibly be made by any one. We shall see what we shall see.

Notice! Important

SOME YEARS AGO SOME ONE SENT ME PHOTOGRAPHS OF AN EDISON SPOOL BANK PROJECTOR. WILL WHOEVER IT WAS PLEASE COMMUNICATE WITH THE EDITOR OF THIS DEPARTMENT AT ONCE. ALSO I WOULD LIKE, AND MR. EDISON WOULD APPRECIATE ANY EXISTENT PHOTOGRAPHS OF EDISON PROJECTORS, ESPECIALLY THE OLDER ONES, WHICH MAY BE EXISTENT. SEND THEM TO ME. IF DESIRED I WILL RETURN THEM WHEN COPIES HAVE BEEN MADE.

Change-Over Signal?

Fred Allard, Salina, Kansas, says:

A few words concerning the change-over signal by Brother Allie Barron, Lodi, Calif., illustrated and described in January 31 issue of the department. I trust he will not feel hurt or offended when he sees this. Giving offense is furtherest from my thoughts, and the device is really very clever.

I, however, fail to see the necessity for any such device. Although I have been projecting motion pictures since 1915, I have yet to see a projection room in which the mind of the projectionist was so thoroughly and completely occupied that he had to have a buzzer alarm clock to notify him that change-over time had come.

To my way of thinking all such devices breed carelessness and help keep the man who should be a motion picture projectionist in the rut represented by the machine attendant, or operator.

A Projectionist's Place

With up-to-date equipment it is found that, in the projection room of today, a man has quite sufficient to do if he pays strict attention to his projection and projectors, and HIS PLACE IS BESIDE THE PROJECTOR and not off in some other part of the room doing something else. My contention is that if he IS beside his projector, WHERE HE BELONGS, he will have no need for a change-over signaling device.

Shake!

Shake, brother Allard. I'm both "wid ye an' agin' ye," if you know what I mean. Probably you don't, so I'll explain. What you have said represents even and exact truth all the way through. For years I have insisted that the projectionists' place is BESIDE HIS PROJECTOR, and nowhere else, when projection is in progress. I've insisted on that very thing until I finally got tired of 'harping' on it all the time, and of late have said little on that point. One reason is that since motors came into use I found that the average man just simply would NOT 'stay put' beside his projector, even though he had nothing else to do. I have even found them at a bench ten feet away, making radio sets. I even objected to the projector motor, because I forsaw the effect it would have. I have sympathized with the efforts of the Massachusetts officials to COMPEL the projectionist to stay where he belongs by obliging him to hold the projector table switch shut.

The Human Element

However, brother Allard, we must deal with conditions, and the condition is that whereas many men will stay beside their projectors and keep their mind on projection, and nothing else, many other men just simply WON'T do anything of the sort. They are too shiftless to make a cue sheet, and too utterly lazy even to watch for just one punch mark hole. They therefore, to relieve themselves of the frightful task of keeping their eyes on the screen constantly for even a half minute, punch long strings of holes in the film, on the theory that if they miss one they will see another. Or they grab their saw-tooth blade jack-knife and scratch holes in the emulsion, or affix a lot of "stickers."

Of course such men ought to be kicked out of projection rooms, BUT they are not, and they are there. They are a condition—not a theory, and for them a change-over signal is good.

Now don't get excited. I didn't at all mean that all men who use change-over signals are of the shiftless type. Barron, for instance, is not. He is an energetic, up-to-date projectionist, or so I believe. Personally I see nothing as against the change-over signal in the hands of a real projectionist. In the hands of the wants-to-shirk-all-he can, it of course offers the chance for additional philandering around the room, while the projector and its motor run the show.

Discouraging

Recently I visited the offices of a certain local union, had a pleasant talk with certain of its officials and went back down to the street. As I passed through the hall at the head of the stairway I saw two men, both of whom greeted me with apparent cordiality. Evidently they both knew me.

At the foot of the stair, three flights down, I found I had overlooked something, and started back up. At the bottom of the upper flight I heard the two men talking. Hearing my name, I paused a moment, as one naturally would under those conditions.

A "Richardson Guy"

One of the men, evidently replying to something the other man had said, made this remark: "Yah, you're one of dem Richardson guys, ain't yuh? I'll betcha got one of dem books o' his'n too; 'n that y' call yourself perjectunish, 'stead of an op-rater."

Said the second man: "Sure I've got a handbook. You ought t' have one too! Sure I call myself a Projectionist, 'n try t' be one too. I'd like t' see this local call itself the ——— Motion Picture Projectionists, I. A. T. S. E. & M. P. M. O., instead of that fool "Moving Picture Machine Operators."

First Man: "Yah! Stuck on yerself, ain't y'? Perjectionist! Say, who in H—ll d' y' think y' are anyhow? Op'ratin' 's good enough fer me!"

Probably the conversation would have continued, but I had heard plenty, so mounted the stair, whereupon one of the men—I'll let you guess which one—promptly, in fact I might even say hastily ducked through a convenient door.

I have repeated the conversation practically word for word, and have made it read as nearly as possible exactly as it sounded.

What's the Answer?

What, I ask you, are we to do with such men? I venture the flat assertion that this dissenter had nothing whatsoever against me, except that I stand for progress—a thing he is opposed to because he does not understand it, and has little or no conception ot what it means.

Doubtless he would, in his proper sphere, be a well meaning, very decent man, BUT the trouble is that his true sphere is NOT motion picture projection. He belongs in a field where muscles and what we may call roughneck ability is "the" thing. He has never been accustomed to using his brains for anything more strenuous than figuring out just how much he will be able to do with THAT week's wages, plus how much more the union will be able to get for him next year, WITHOUT ANY DEMAND FOR IMPROVEMENT IN HIS ABILITY.

To him Richardson is merely an infernal nuisance—a "guy" who actually has the crust to interfere, and try to force him to improve himself—as though that were possible.

"The Bunk"

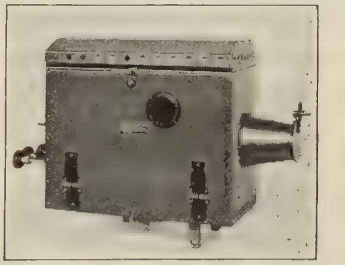
Handbooks! Huh! Wot th' 'Ell! That's th' bunk! Perjection Departments? Say, jah tink I'm goin' to waste time wit dad kind o' dope w'en I cud be shootin' craps 'n maybe winnin' a lotta kale?

"You want
Phelco!"

Smooth and quiet burning
Bright light
Steady arc
Slow burning rate
Long Condenser life

Charles W. Phellis & Co.
Incorporated
130 West 42nd Street New York
For Canada: Keystone Trading Co., Ltd.,
10 Ste. Sophie Lane, Montreal

SAVE TWO-THIRDS ON CURRENT, 25% ON CARBONS AND GET MUCH BETTER SCREEN ILLUMINATION WITH THE PREDDEY REFLECTOR ARCLAMP.



For any make of Machine. Automatic feed type, $300. Hand feed type, $200. Write for Bulletin. Two of these Lamps may be burned at one time on Rectifier or Small Generator.

Has many valuable features not found in other makes.

WALTER G. PREDDEY
187 Golden Gate Ave. San Francisco, Calif.

ROLL—Machine—Coupon
TICKETS

QUALITY—Second to none!
SERVICE Unexcelled—our
LOWEST PRICES will be mailed to you on request.

State your requirements by mail—Today!

TRIMOUNT PRESS
LARGEST AMUSEMENT TICKET PRINTERS IN NEW ENGLAND FOR 17 YEARS.
119 ALBANY ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Sometimes I get really discouraged, and become inclined to stop trying to help such men—to chuck the whole dad blamed business. But I never do, for really, after all, such men are not to be blamed too much. They are a condition and not a theory. We may deplore the type, but the type is with us and must be dealt with. It does no good to blame the type because it really thinks it is quite all right and that all this education and improvement is utter nonsense. Also thousands of worth-while men do value my work and look to it for help, and them I will never desert.

Our task is to keep plugging along trying, with what patience we can muster, to show the other men that they, and not education and improvement, are wrong. And each year we make progress, too, which will be more rapid as the years go by, because of many reasons, one of which is that very many unions are waking up to the fact that Richardson has been right in his contention, and thus education and improvement is given a tremendous impulse. Mr. That's-Good-Enough is year by year dropping back, and Mr. Up-to-Date is taking his place. Yes, I get a bit discouraged, then I look about me, buck up, forget it and get busy again!

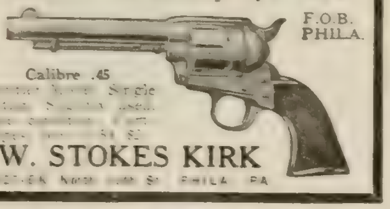
CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS
Help and Situations Wanted Only

3c per word per insertion
Minimum charge 60c
Terms, Strictly Cash with Order

Copy must reach us by Tuesday noon to insure publication in that week's issue

FIRST-CLASS EXPERIENCED ORGANIST desires immediate or future engagement. Accomplished musician. Picture player and soloist of exceptional ability. Union man. Magnificent library. Good instrument essential. Wire or write, Organist, Room [illegible] Princess Hotel, Atlantic City, New Jersey.

WELDED WIRE REELS
For Sale by
Howells Cine Equipment Co.
740 7th Ave., New York



Genuine COLT, $11.50
F.O.B. PHILA.
Calibre .45
Frontier Model Single Action [illegible]
[illegible]
W. STOKES KIRK
[illegible] PHILA. PA

WHY PAY MORE?
Roll Tickets
Your Own Special Wording
100,000 for $15.50
10,000 for $4.50, 20,000 for $7.50
50,000 for $10.00
Standard Rolls of 2,000
KEYSTONE TICKET CO.
Dept. W. SHAMOKIN, PA.
The Union Label if you want it
Have been printing Roll Tickets for 10 years and no better can be had at any price.

"Stick to Your Last"

If I were to attempt to run a department devoted to and supposed to teach the details of running a supply business it is naturally to be presumed that I would make one awful ass of myself, and pull some stem-winding boners.

When supply dealers undertake to conduct a projection department, and to teach projection—well I won't say what will happen, but leave it to your own judgment.

The supply dealers started a publication not so long ago, to which act no one could offer any legitimate objection, and so far as I know no one offered any objection at all. But they incorporated in its pages what purports to be a "projection department," since which time several indignant projectionists have sent clippings therefrom, usually with caustic criticisms, though once in a while one merely emits a haw! haw! haw!

A Sample

Just recently a clipping from this "projection department" was sent me by G. W. Bennewitz, Projectionist Strand Theatre, Sioux Falls, So. Dakota, accompanied by the following remarks:

Am inclosing the prize winning article from the ———— Directory for January. If it is worth $25.00 The paper, presumably in order to get correspondents for its wonderful "department" was offering a twenty-five dollar prize for the best article. —Note then some of the answers to the Bluebook School questions are worth at least a million dollars. THIS GIVES YOU A GOOD IDEA AS TO THE VALUE OF INFORMATION ON PROJECTION MATTERS GIVEN BY THE AVERAGE EQUIPMENT SALESMAN.

The clipping is sufficiently excellent, as comedy, to justify its reprinting here. It reads:

Mt. Vernon, Iowa. Technical Editor ———— ———— Directory. Dear Sir:—Last night I happened to pick up the latest issue of the ———— Directory and saw that you have started a section devoted to projectionists. I am surely going to enjoy this section of your magazine very much, for if the projectionists will take the right view of your good offer to carry a section for us and send in their ideas efficiency of projection will be an easy matter.

I note that Mr ———— tells of the blame we get for the mistakes of others such as torn sprocket holes, caused by bad spools, but that is human nature to pass the buck. I think that every operator tries to return the film in as good condition as possible.

A Suggestion

I am sending you my suggestion to the users of Arc lights that will eradicate ghosts, colored lights on the screen at the start of a new reel and assist them to keep a good true spot on the hole in the aperture plate.

Here it is: First, condense arc to desired size just a little larger than the hole in the aperture plate and be sure that the spot is directly on the hole. (Um, yes. I would think that must would be a bit important myself—F. H. R.) Make a very small hole in the side door of the lamphouse closest to the wall and at the same height as the point of the carbon when the points are together. The shadow on the wall caused by the small hole in the door will give you the exact location of your spot forward and back, or condensed or expanded.

Third

Third, start your light and trim spot to the desired size (Whoops, my dear.—F. H. R.) Take a piece of paper and paste on the wall just where the light shows. You will be surprised at the brightness of the shadow. (Close harmony, Fireman Save Me Child. —F. H. R.) and it will be very easy to trim your Arc before you start a new reel, and help keep points of your carbon while light is in use. If the wall is too far away, put the hole in the lamphouse door on the inside. This will bring the shadow on the other lamphouse instead of the wall. Try it boys. It is worth while.

I wish to thank the editor for printing a section for OPERATORS, it is a fine thing to do.

Out of charity I won't print the name of this chap, who (observe the "operator" just above) signs himself Projectionist Strand Theatre ————Iowa. And such drivel as this is solemnly printed as instructive to motion picture projectionists! Can you beat it?

Of course what he is trying to tell about is all right. It was published in this department something like ten or twelve years ago and many times since, BUT the man's hazy and exceedingly nebulous ideas as to names and terms is truly amusing. That the letter was printed as written, thus subjecting the poor chap to ridicule, is a bit shameful if the editor knew any better himself. If he did not, then he certainly is a hot sketch as editor of a projection department, even in a supply dealers' paper.

Not Jealous

By the way, don't be foolish enough to think I'm roasting this publication because I'm "jealous." This department and its editor will extend the welcoming hand of good fellowship to ANY paper or publication, such as the American Projectionist, for instance, which gives promise of being of some real benefit to the projectionist or to projection.

I have nothing against equipment dealers or salesmen AS dealers or salesmen. They of course fill a perfectly legitimate field. The trouble is that some of them refuse to confine themselves to their legitimate function, and insist upon their right to give what purports to be "expert" advice on motion picture projection and installation planning, and in so doing they have DONE A VERY GREAT DEAL OF HARM.

"Expert" Advice

One need not leave Broadway to find the evil results of "expert advice" proffered by, or secured from sellers of projection equipment. An amusing experience was had by myself in this connection not so long ago. A big Broadway picture palace was being erected. The man who was to be Managing Director asked me to look over the plans and offer such criticism and suggestion as I might think pertinent. I did this, purely as an accommodation to the man. The projection room was, OF COURSE, of the way-up, way-back type of location. I showed this Managing Director that there would be a certain amount of distortion. I marked it on the plans so he could see it with his own eyes. He asked me to see the architect, which I was very willing to do, not that I hoped for improvement at that late day, but in the hope that I might influence him for good on future installations, and to advise him how best to minimize the evil effect which will always be present as the thing was planned and then was being constructed.

What Happened

Before I had the time to interview the architect, THAT MANAGING DIRECTOR WENT TO A WELL KNOWN SUPPLY DEALER AND ASKED HIM IF WHAT

I HAD TOLD HIM WAS RIGHT, and if there would really be any bad effect. Of course the supply dealer, neither knowing or caring anything about such trifling projection problems, promptly advised him that I was merely a crank, and that everything was "jake," all of which promptly came to my ears, and I immediately dropped the whole thing.

In effect this Mis-Managing Director consulted a projection engineer, who has at least some reputation, and then CONSULTED A SUPPLY DEALER TO LEARN WHETHER OR NOT THE ENGINEER KNEW HIS BUSINESS! Can you beat it? I was good and mad at first, but when I cooled off the ridiculous side of it struck me, and I had a good laugh for myself.

Army Publication

I am in receipt of complimentary copies of The Theatre News, published at Kansas City, Mo., by and in the interests of the U. S. Army Motion Picture Service.

This little publication is edited by F. Bund, Jr., and ably edited too. It is unique in that its text is all typewritten, in neat columns, from which cuts are made for publication, just as was done by Moving Picture World some years ago for a short while when a strike tied up all typesetting, but the pressmen were on the job. It makes a neat, very legible page.

The Theatre News carries a "Projection Department," which was filled, in its second issue, with "operator" and "booth." I wrote Editor Bund a friendly letter, calling his attention to the fact that this is not up-to-date practice, and is at variance with the nomenclature of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. His reply was prompt. Here is one paragraph of it:

"I fully appreciate the stand you have taken, and you may rest assured that in future the Theatre News will not be guilty of using the words "operator" and "booth."

I accept this as evidence that the Theatre News is in the hands of a man who is progressive—a man who doesn't act like a little kid when he is criticized, but looks matters in the face fairly, frankly admitting error, if error there has been.

This department welcomes publications handled along those lines. It welcomes Theatre News, sincerely trusting that it may be of great and lasting benefit to the field it serves. Any aid this department or its editor can give Editor Bund or Theatre News will be in the nature of a pleasure. I am today writing Roger M. Hill, Army Motion Picture Service, Washington, D. C., suggesting that he get busy furthering the success of Theatre News, incidentally contributing to its pages himself.

Another Moses

Another Moses hath arisen, blown a two-page blare from his trumpet, and announced that he will forthwith proceed to take the poor, misguided, down-trodden, over-worked, under-paid and generally abused chap who projects motion pictures by the hand, and guide his faltering footsteps onward and upward to bigger and better things.

It is really amusing how often this particular stunt has been pulled—and how often the announced-with-a-blare-of-its-own-horn guide has utterly failed to find the path to those bigger and better things, sooner or later (usually sooner) relinquishing (WITHOUT any blaring of trumpets) his self-imposed guiding job.

This time it is a "cinematographers" journal which hath, according to its announcement, made the virgin discovery that the projection of motion pictures really is of importance, and ought to receive some attention from somebody, and, by right of this original discovery, it itself proposes to be that "somebody."

This paper with a French name is in its fifth year. From its announcement it is very evident that it has absolutely no knowledge that any other agency has ever did one single thing for projection. Certainly in all its five years of life IT has done nothing, but in future—oh bhoy! It is published regularly once each month. Oh well, in the language of the poet: "Wot th' 'Ell!"

A. P. S. Dines

At twelve midnight, St. Patrick's day, two hundred or more members of the American Projection Society and their friends disembarked from taxis, puddle jumpers, subways and Shanks Mares at the Hotel Astor, Broadway at 46th Street, in the City of New York, then and there to (A) Celebrate the Tenth Anniversary of the corporate life of the Society; (B) Dine, sup, breakfast, or whatever you may choose to call it; (C) Dance—for the brave men were accompanied by their ladyes fayre, even unto Your Scribe, whose friend

(Continued on page 505)

Get Maximum Screen Results

Send for the Brand New

LENS CHART

By JOHN GRIFFITHS

Here is an accurate chart which belongs in every projection room where carbon arcs are used. It will enable you to get maximum screen results with the equipment you are now using.

The new Lens Chart (size 15" x 20") printed on heavy Ledger Stock paper, suitable for framing, will be sent to you in a strong mailing tube, insuring proper protection. Get it NOW!

Price $1.00

Postpaid

Chalmers Publishing Co.

516 Fifth Avenue New York City

What will you do THIS summer?

Will you take it just as it comes? Will you again go through the long, hot summer with the usual short profits?

Or aren't you about ready to begin making money in hot weather?

There's no guessing about Typhoon Cooling. It pulls good summer business and makes money in 2,000 other houses—proof that it will do the same for you.

Get ready for the long, hot summer due this year. Write for Booklet W-4.

TYPHOON FAN COMPANY

345 West 39th Street New York, N. Y.

Philadelphia Jacksonville New Orleans Dallas

Bluebook School—Answers 221 to 225

Errata—W. C. Budge, Garden City, Long Island, made acceptable replies to Questions 216—220, but they were mislaid accidentally, hence not credited.

Question No. 221—What faulty adjustment of the projector will increase the tendency of emulsion to deposit on the tension shoes?

A. L. Fell, Collingswood, New Jersey; Charles Armentrout, Mason City, Iowa; W. C. Whitt, Red Bluff, California; R. H. Romans, Cuyohoga Falls, Ohio; C. H. Hanover, Burlington, Iowa; Allie Baron, Lodi, California, (?) Castle Rock, Washington, no name appended; Harold E. Hurlbutt, Oshkosh, Wis.; F. H. Moore, Taunton, Mass.; W. C. Budge, Garden City, Long Island; William A. Burnett, Newton, Iowa; Carlisle A. Anglemire, Nazareth, Pa., and L. C. Robinson, Jacksonville, Florida all made acceptable replies to this one.

NOTE: Always put your name and name of city on every sheet of your reply.

Hanover says:

An unnecessarily heavy aperture tension will, of course, have a direct tendency to cause such deposit, provided the emulsion be soft, as with new film. I might add that excess film cement smeared on the surface of the film also has a decided tendency to deposit on the tension shoes, especially if the aperture tension be heavy.

Fell says:

Too much tension at the projector gate increases the tendency of soft emulsion to deposit on the tension shoes. One of the chief factors in the composition of the emulsion used on film is genaline, a substance which absorbs and gives off moisture readily. In new film the emulsion contains a much greater percentage of moisture than does the emulsion of old film, in which condition heat has a tendency to make it soft and "tacky." The first point at which the film comes into contact with unusual temperature is at the projector aperture, hence with heavy tension there will be increased tendency of the soft emulsion to stick to the tension shoes, where it almost instantly hardens and remains, with results we all know very well, until it is removed by the projectionist.

Question No. 222—Explain, in detail, why it is impracticable to make a good film splice with the fingers alone—without register pins and pressure clamps?

All the above-named did fair to good on this one. Romans says:

Some projectionists claim they are able to make as good a splice with their unaided fingers as they can with register pins and a pressure clamp. With this I will agree, provided they take plenty of time and do their level best. It is possible to match the sprocket holes and apply even pressure while the cement is drying, but not one film splice in a hundred receives that amount of careful attention. The net result is mis-matched sprocket holes, which probably make the film crooked, and certainly make sprocket holes which will not fit the sprocket teeth and will stick to them more or less; splices which have uneven strength in their width, or quite possibly no strength at all in spots, or splices which cause the audience to think the picture will jump entirely off the screen, due to wide, stiff splices.

Romans says:

One cannot possibly make as good a splice with the fingers as one can with a good film splicing device, for the following reasons: It is impossible to be certain of getting the sprocket holes matched perfectly with the unaided eye. The holes are very small and it just can't be done, especially under artificial light. With rapid drying cement, NOT applied too lavishly (and too much cement is very bad) using the eye and hand method of matching sprocket holes, the cement is partially dry before one gets to the point of applying the pressure, and it is entirely impracticable to apply pressure evenly throughout the entire width of a splice using the thumbs and fingers. Another thing: while it is not impossible to use a straight edge and do the scraping correctly when making a hand made splice, still it is more often done wrongly than rightly. Who will attempt to dispute that statement. With the splicer I use there is an arrangement with which one may scrape the emulsion off evenly and exactly to the frame line. A POORLY MADE "FINGER MADE" SPLICE IS AN ABOMINATION TO YOUR BROTHER PROJECTIONIST, WHO MUST EITHER CUT IT OUT OR STAND FOR THE JUMP IN THE PICTURE WHICH YOU HAVE CAUSED.

Which same is an excellent answer, brother Romans. You may wipe your nose and toddle up to the head of the class.

Question No. 223—What, in your opinion, is the correct width of a splice? Give reasons for your conclusions.

Romans says:

The width of a splice should be the width of a sprocket hole, plus sufficient film on the side of the end sprocket hole in each film end to give the hole strength. When finished such a splice will be 1/8 of an inch wide, or a trifle less. If properly made it will pass through the projector without noise, and without disturbing the perfect register of the picture upon the screen.

Armentrout says:

From my study and experience with film I am of the opinion that a splice should be .114 of an inch wide, or from the edge of one sprocket hole to the edge of the next. Such a splice will lay between the sprocket teeth nicely, and will be wide enough to insure plenty of strength, if rightly made, of course. I do NOT believe in the "one-hole" splice, as it is necessary to leave a considerable amount of film stock on the "end" side of each sprocket hole to insure sufficient width, which gives the splice too great a width. Although I consider this as correct for a machine-made splice, I would not recommend any attempt to make such a splice with the unaided fingers, or even with the fingers aided by register pins and clamp, unless the frame line is on the sprocket hole.

As I understand brother Armentrout, he only suggests such a splice as a factory splice. He continues by saying: "My reason for recommending the one-hole splice, if it is to be made by hand, is that it can be done more accurately, and even if the emulsion on the line should be scraped into a wee bit it will not show on the screen. In making the one-hole splice it is understood that it is to be cut and scraped on the frame lines, of course, the lines being between the holes. Were the frame lines on the holes, as is very uncommon these days, I would then recommend the narrow splice, cutting and scraping the film on the line and trimming off the projecting ends at the sprocket hole on the end that is cut on the line.

Hanover says:

I would recomend that width of splice which reaches from the center of the film stock between two sprocket holes to the center of the film stock between the next two holes.

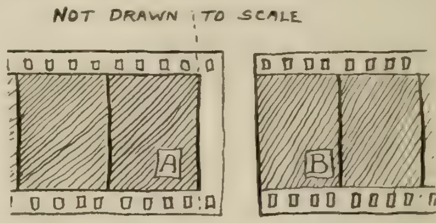
My reason for this is that such width provides for a whole sprocket hole on either side of each film end, which makes for perfect registry, with reinforced thickness of the sprocket hole sides at the splice. It also provides a width of splice which, while providing for ample strength, still if properly made, does not make for sufficient stiffness to cause any tendency to movement of the screen image as the splice passes under the tension shoes and over the intermittent sprocket.

Question No. 224—Explain how you would proceed to make a splice in film.

All those who made good on question No. 221 came through on this one also, though some much better than others. Also John C. Aldershot, St. Paul, Minnesota, and G. R. Burrows, San Antonio, Texas, made good replies.

Romans says:

To offer explanation to a motion picture projectionist as to how to made a splice in film would be little short of an insult to his intelligence. (Not correct, brother Romans, because while the projectionist may and will know how to make a good splice, else he would not be a real projectionist, still he may be advised of a still better way, or a change in his procedure which will make for improvement.—Ed.) To "Oscar, the Machine Attendant," or "Operator," such advice would be neither heeded or needed, because it is pretty well impossible to tell that bird anything. However, in the hope that the man who gets blamed for all the poor splices —poor little Jimmie-the-Usher—may see this and learning the correct way, decide to sin no more, I will describe the process of making a splice by hand.



In making a splice the film should be cut as illustrated in the accompanying drawing, which is not made to scale. End B should be cut on the frame line between two pictures, while the other end, end A, should be cut half way between two sprocket holes, as shown, so that one full sprocket hole will be left beyond the frame line, plus half the film stock between two sprocket holes. This "stub" will extend about 1/8 (.125) of an inch beyond the frame line. If it be a trifle less than this, the splice still will have ample strength, and less tendency to objectionable stiffness, BUT if the film stock be trimmed too close to the sprocket holes the splice will be weakened.

Next Step

The next step is to scrape the emulsion from stub end A, back as far as the frame line. A sharp knife or safety razor blade is best for scraping, and a straight edge must be employed so that the line of scraping will be sharp, straight and true. Every particle of emulsion must be removed, not overlooking that immediately around the sprocket holes, where the greatest strain will come. The back part of end B should be very lightly scraped, in order to roughen for celluloid and remove all dirt and grease.

Stub end A is now ready for the cement, which must be applied rapidly, thinly and evenly. End B should now be matched over stub end A, in such manner that the sprocket holes are in perfect register, whereupon pressure must be applied for a few seconds.

Hanover makes essentially the same reply, up to the point where the cement is applied. He then offers VERY important advice, as follows:

We are now ready to apply cement. Having placed the ends of the film on the splicer register pins, if one be used, as it ought to be, and clamped them into place, with the meulsion side of both film ends up and the scraped stub end underneath, we lift up the end on top, exposing the scraped surface of the stub end, to which we apply cement with one stroke of the brush, and if possible, ONE STROKE ONLY. Rubbing the brush back and forth will dissolve fragments or particles of the film into the cement, and these particles will operate to prevent a perfect welding of the splice. We must thoroughly moisten the scraped surface of the stub end with cement, but not apply anything in the nature of a surplus, because if there is too much it is squeezed out from under the splice onto the surface of the film, where it makes a nasty mess and may adhere to the projector tension shoes.

As soon as the cement is applied, pressure of ample amount, evenly distributed, must be applied INSTANTLY, and left applied for several seconds, or until the welding of the film ends is completed.

That is important advice. NEVER BRUSH THE FILM CEMENT BRUSH BACK AND FORTH. If you do you will do exactly what brother Hanover says you will, and weaken your splice; also don't apply more cement than is necessary to thoroughly moisten the scraped surface.

Question No. 225—What effect has the use of too much cement?

Every one seems to agree pretty well on this one. Romans says:

> Cement welds rather than glues the film ends together. Too much cement softens the celluloid, causing it to stretch in spots, thus warping the splice, so that it causes a jump in the picture when it goes through the projector. Also the surplus cement makes a stiff splice, which is bad; also it smears out over the film, and has a decided tendency to adhere to the tension shoes.

In closing his answers Anglemire says:

> I am only twenty three years of age, Mr. Richardson, and am young at the profession, but am trying to do my best in answering the Bluebook questions.

At twenty-three, son, you should be just entering the full vigor of your mentality and falling into your stride in the work of the world. The thing you lack is experience, and your weakness, as judged by the average young man, is believing firmly that you know about ten times as much as you really do.

Not until many more years have passed over your head will you realize how very little you, or any of the rest of us really do know, as compared with what there is to know.

The young man who realizes that he IS young in the work of the world; that experience IS a great teacher; that Dad really is a pretty wise old bird; that he still has VERY much to learn, and who is EAGER AND WILLING TO LEARN, has or ought to have a future before him in his chosen calling in life.

Back in 1883

I well remember when I was firing a locomotive, way back in 1883, how the men sneered and laughed at me when I bought books and studied boiler construction and fuel consumption. The sport they had with and about me was considerable, BUT when the job of "Traveling Fireman" came along, and I was selected to fill it, with authority over them all, easy work and twice the pay they got, somehow THEY STOPPED SNEERING and did not even laugh.

I well remember, too, when I went projecting pictures in Chicago. I had exactly as much knowledge of projection as the rest of them—which was just about none at all. Make a more-or-less punk splice, thread the dinky little projector, trim carbons and strike an arc—that was the sum and substance of it. There was nothing more to it, so far any of us knew. Lenses were a dense, dank, dark mystery to us, and the optical sharks seemed to lose no opportunity to make the mystery more dense—mostly, I now think, because we were totally unable to understand their highly optical language, and they were utterly unable to talk any other.

Got Busy

But as soon as I discovered how very little there was available for study, I got me busy dug in, worked like a galley slave, literally prying information and knowledge loose here and there through a long, slow and ofttimes painful process. Well, the result was that I got ahead, and—here I am. Nothing wonderful or very lofty about my position, true, but anyhow it's some satisfaction to know that I have not been a total failure, anyhow.

You just stick around, brother Anglemire. Don't let the jibes of the foolish—I almost said the silly—cause you to lessen your efforts in the accumulation of knowledge, and some day it will return you a thousand fold, provided you STICK, and have a definite purpose in view, with energy and fighting ability to carry it through.

A. P. S. Dines

(Continued from page 503)

daughter came along too, as it is suspected, to keep her Dad out of mischief.

There were the usual paper hats of weird design, noise-making instruments and rubber balloons of bright hues galore; also there was a very musical and industrious jazz band, of ebon hue, which by its melody quickly inoculated the assemblage with a strange malady called "danceitis," from which many did not fully recover until the light of morning gilded the tops of the tall buildings of Times Square.

Washington Visitors

Lester B. Isaac, President; Frank J. Storty, Financial Secretary of the Washington Chapter of the Society, and two members thereof, A. Dresden and N. Glasser, were present, having bubbled up from the National Capitol to be present.

No sooner was the dinner well under way than the aforesaid jazz noise makers got busily busy, and light feet were presently tapping the excellent dancing floor right merrily.

After dinner was finished, and after-dinner coffee—beg pawdon, it's not anything so plebianly common as that at the Astor, it's "Moka," by heck—was consumed, Toastmaster F. H. Richardson briefly outlined the growth of the Society from a small gathering of five men in the back room of a cafe on Forty-fourth Street in 1913, to its present high standing, with the legally incorporated parent body and a rapidly growing list of subordinate chapters in other cities, of which Washington Chapter, Lester B. Isaac, President; Pittsburgh Chapter, Chauncy F. Thomas, President, and Norfolk, Va., Chapter, Frank W. Sutton, President, forms the nucleus. Incidentally, there are four or five applications for chapter charters under consideration now, two of which are, as I remember, from New Orleans and Minneapolis.

Speakers Introduced

The Toastmaster then introduced the following, who spoke very briefly, being warned to "cut it short," lest the ladies—whose eyes, it was observed, were fixed on the silent band and the dance floor—wreak vengeance upon them.

Otto Kafka, President American Projection Society; Lester Isaac, President, and the other members of the Washington Chapter; Joseph Basson, President, and Alex Polin, Business Agent, Local Union No. 306, New York City Motion Picture Projectionists, I. A. T. S. E. & M. P. M. O. William Rabel, President Independent Movie Supply Company; Herbert Griffin and P. A. MacGuire, of the Nicholas Power Company; J. A. Scheick, of the Bausch & Lomb Company; George Edwards, Editor, and Thomas McDermott, Associate Editor, American Projectionist.

Barney Burman gave an exhibition and expose of stage mind reading, which was enlightening and most amusing. He was roundly applauded, though had one of the regular stage "mind readers" been there—I dunno. I'm afraid he would not have split his gloves clapping his hands.

The affair was a distinct success. The committee in charge was composed of Jessie Hopkins, Chairman; John S. Buchardt, Anthony De Mott and Hector McKinnon, all and sundry of whom deserve the thanks of the Society.

Haw! Haw! Haw!

Our old friend, Harry Dobson, Toronto, writes a good laugh, as follows:

> Well, here I am again—this time I hope to stay. (That remark refers to the Bluebook School.—Ed.) Had to go 'n get me a nice dose of Flu. In the feathers a week. On the job again! Here's the low-down on it all.
>
> Went to see those famous (?????) Boston Bruins play Pro Hockey against OUR Pats, and they were so slow (which ones?—Ed.) that I just know I caught cold there. Anyhow that's what I'm going to tell Gray, who wrote me a very insulting letter about how good HIS team was, and all because Red Stewart, a friend of mine, plays on the Boston team. Mention his name to Gray and see what he says!
>
> Gosh, What a Slam!
>
> That was some picture in February 21 issue—you 'n the gang down at Powers. I'm s'prised, though, to see Griffith, Gray and Bowen in a projection room with cigars draped on 'em. And you! No wonder you've a sore arm, draping it round a Powers that way. If it had been a Simplex—well, I might have found it in my heart to forgive you.

"Cuppla Nuts"

Anyhow I've me opinion of a cuppla nuts who waste time over hockey when there are good poker or baseball games to be found! As to the lame arm, I'm only glad there was only a Powers there. Had there been a Simplex to drape the other arm around I'd a had two sore ones, and, believe me, one Neuritis arm is ample, abundant and sufficient grief at one time. So that's that! As to the cigars, why, darn your near-sighted lookers, we were NOT in the projection room. It was behind us. Look again, old topper!

Why waste space on this nonsense, do some of you ask? Let me remind you of the true saying that: "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men!"

Hot Stuff

Richard Kuester, Brooklyn, N. Y., answered Bluebook School questions 206-210, but owing to the same being misplaced in a mass of mail, he was not given credit for some excellent answers. In replying to question 210 he said:

> The worst effect of glare spots is, I believe, eyestrain to the audience. Eyestrain is bound to make the individual tired and nervous, which in turn makes him or her leave the theatre in a dissatisfied frame of mind. Glare spots also have a tendency to reduce the brilliancy of the picture, and to make its apparent depth less. I have seen musicians' lights cut the apparent screen brilliancy in half, and that in a house charging 85 cents admission.
>
> Last, but not least, LET THE PROJECTIONIST SEE THAT HE HAS NO GLARE SPOTS IN HIS OWN PROJECTION ROOM. If he has, let him remove them and see how much more clearly he can see the results of his work—the picture on the screen.

Considerable Answer

I'll say that is some considerable answer—especially the last part of it. Last night I entered the projection room of a theatre in New York City to find a 16 c. p. globe about six inches from the front wall, maybe three inches to the right of the observation port of the projector then working, and about even with its rather low top. This globe was equipped with one of the metal shades like the half of a globe cut in two, white inside, with its open end turned squarely back toward the projectionist—the light burning. CAN PURE FOOLISHNESS GO FURTHER??? I said nothing! Of what use to talk to a man who knows no better than that?

American Seating Company
CHICAGO
Offices in All Principal Cities
Installation Everywhere

As Good As

In describing Eastman Positive Film you never have to say, "It's as good as such and such film."

There just isn't any question about the outstanding superior photographic quality of Eastman Film.

And you know when the print is on the genuine — the identification "Eastman" "Kodak" in black letters in the margin tells you.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

HAL ROACH

presents

OUR GANG COMEDIES

Two Reels

More exhibitors have reported, and are reporting, on the Our Gang Comedies than any brand of comedies that has ever been made.

They all say "these comedies are the best we can get." Don't take our word for it. Just watch the exhibitor report columns in the trade papers.

What so many exhibitors enthuse over MUST be good; MUST bring them business.

Pathécomedy

TRADE MARK

First in the Field!

Moving Picture WORLD

VOL. 73, No. 6 APRIL 11, 1925 PRICE 25 CENTS

C URNIA
ATE
L

Her first great American comedy role!

POLA NEGRI

IN A

SIDNEY OLCOTT

PRODUCTION

"The CHARMER"

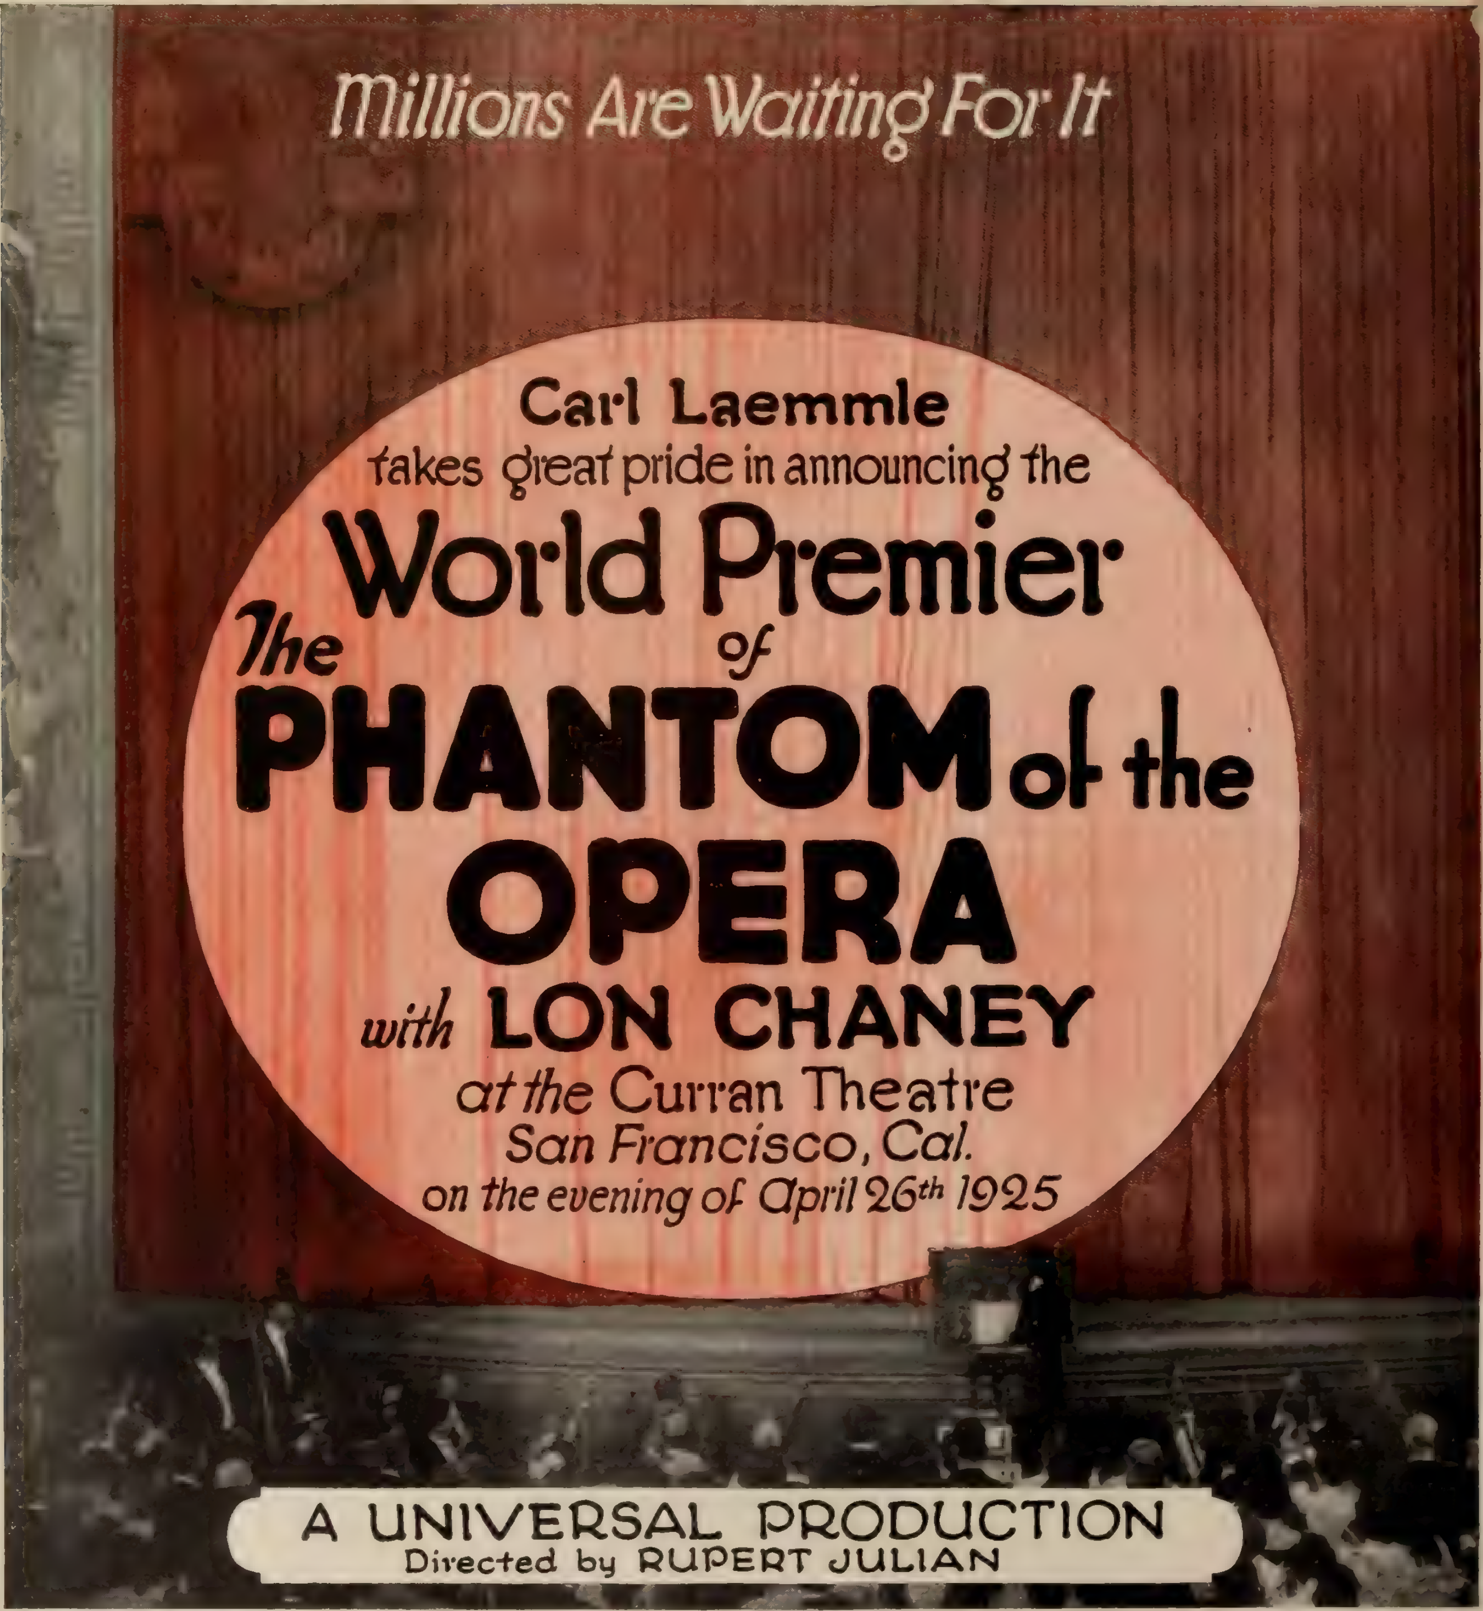
From the novel "Mariposa"
by Henry Baerlein
Screen play by Sada Cowan

PRESENTED BY ADOLPH ZUKOR AND JESSE L. LASKY

a
Paramount Picture

Published by CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY 516 FIFTH AVE. NEW YORK CITY

Entered as second class matter June 17, 1906, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Printed weekly. $3 a year.



Millions Are Waiting For It

Carl Laemmle
takes great pride in announcing the World Premier
of
The PHANTOM of the OPERA with LON CHANEY at the Curran Theatre
San Francisco, Cal.
on the evening of April 26th 1925

A UNIVERSAL PRODUCTION
Directed by RUPERT JULIAN

AT legitimate theatre prices Universal's fantastic masterpiece—wild, weird and wonderful—will now proceed to make good at the box office all the wonderful things that have been said of it! Get the spirit, watch for The Phantom!

play it
for profit

play it
for prestige

427 days on Broadway and it broke the house record on the very last day when · 104 ·

people paid $$1^{\underline{10}}$ each to stand in order not to miss

CECIL B.
DeMILLE'S

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

STORY BY JEANIE
MACPHERSON

Watch the stampede to your theatre

(as they stampeded to the Criterion daily)

when you play this one of
The Golden Forty Paramount Pictures

play it
for enter-tainment

play it
to
S.R.O.

Member Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.—Will H. Hays, President.

Three column ad from the Great Service book Drawn by John Held, Jr.

IS LOVE BLIND?

"I'll say it is" says

BUSTER KEATON

in

Seven Chances

AND you'll say this is the most comical love story ever invented to keep happy audiences howling with merriment. A fortune at stake unless he can get a bride by midnight! What a situation for a man who's just a beginner at Cupid's game. You won't stop laughing 'till the very end!

A Metro Goldwyn Picture

based on David Belasco's stage comedy by Roi Cooper Megrue presented by

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK

—and
CO

The Talk of

in the field of medy as well

Metro-Goldwyn

is

The Industry

Comedy! Romance! Drama!

Private

A Renaud Hoffman picturization

WHAT A CAST:

GLADYS HULETTE
ROBERT AGNEW
MILDRED HARRIS
DAVID BUTLER
ARTHUR HOYT
BETTY FRANCISCO
WILLIS MARKS
CHARLES SELLON
HARDEE KIRKLAND
J. FRANK GLENDON
FRANK COFFYN
CHARLES W. MACK

FOREIGN DISTRIBUTOR Wm VOGEL DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Jack Pickford

in

"Waking Up the Town"

By James Cruze and Frank Condon

featuring

NORMA SHEARER

and an ALL STAR CAST including

Alec B. Frances – Herbert Pryor – Claire Mc Dowell – Ann May

THIS is the type of picture that audiences have always wanted and have always supported. It is filled brimful with delightful action, heart interest and suspense, ending with that ultimate justification that sends your patrons away with pleasurable rememberances. It is a story of youth, with the two leading characters portrayed most admirably by JACK PICKFORD and charmingly delightful NORMA SHEARER. Everyone will be charmed by this production. It will bring you real box-office returns.

Now Booking

UNITED ARTISTS CORPORATION

Mary Pickford Charles Chaplin
Douglas Fairbanks D. W. Griffith
Hiram Abrams, President Joseph M Schenck, Chairman, Board of Directors

WILLIAM
FOX
PRESENTS/

A Picture that

"There isn't a doubt this picture will pile up box office receipts throughout the country"

NEW YORK WORLD

AS NO MAN HAS LOVED ROMANCE

FOX FILM CORPORATION

Will Live Forever

3rd MONTH
CENTRAL THEATRE
NEW YORK

Based on Edward Everett Hale's Story
"The Man Without a Country"
A
Rowland V. Lee PRODUCTION

FOX FILM CORPORATION

40

WARNER BROS.

Classics of the Screen

Profit Pictures

In a headline—at a glance—the biggest news of the Spring—Warner Bros., producers of profit pictures, will bring FORTY FEATURES to the screen during the coming season.

The Warner name—pledged to quality—is behind every picture. The stories, stars, directors and casts will be the greatest that experience and money can produce. They will be the biggest and finest array of high class profit pictures ever offered by any producer.

That's the headline— the detailed story is coming. And it's well worth waiting for!

W-B

Season of 1925-26

"ON THIN ICE"

By DARRYL FRANCIS ZANUCK
Adapted from---"The Dear Pretender"

Tom Moore
Edith Roberts
William Russell
Theodore Von Eltz
Wilfred North
Texas Kid

Directed by MAL ST. CLAIR

It's the Right Pictures that Write the Profits

BUILDING pictures is a matter of starting right and keeping right—all the way through production down to the final titling. The right kind of stories—box office stories; enacted by a cast of favorites who can do the job right; and made by directors who have the right slant on the exhibitor's box office.

The right way is more than Warner's aim — it is Warner's accomplishment. It is more than a yell—it is a fact. Prove it? Sure! It is proven every day on the right side of the ledgers of thousands of exhibitors in every part of the country. And nothing we, you, or the king of Siam could say can strengthen that kind of proof to the showmen who are in the business of making celluloid yield gold.

Here are three more Warner pictures — made right and waiting for the exhibitor who knows how to book right!

"Recompense"

by ROBERT KEABLE
with

MARIE PREVOST
MONTE BLUE

and a sterling Warner Cast Including-

JOHN PATRICK
JOHN ROCHE
ETTA LEE
Wm. C. DAVIDSON

Adapted to the Screen by-
DOROTHY FARNUM

Directed by
HARRY BEAUMONT

ON THIN ICE
THE BRIDGE OF SIGHS

Two supreme mystery melodramas packed with thrills from beginning to end.

RECOMPENSE

A tense love story that the women will go wild over.

"The BRIDGE of SIGHS"

From the Story by - Chas. K. Harris~
with

DOROTHY MACKAILL
CREIGHTON HALE
RICHARD TUCKER
ALEC B. FRANCIS
RALPH LEWIS

Directed by PHIL ROSEN

WARNER BROS.
Classics of the Screen

W-B

Announcing another wonderful, new WESTERN SERIES from F.B.O.

Directed by Ben Wilson

A Ben Wilson Production

Yakima Canutt

America's Champion Cowboy in

4

Whirlwind Westerns

Starting off with "SCAR HANAN"

—pronounced by Exhibitors who have pre-viewed it, to be one of the most sensational pictures of its kind ever produced.

You've never seen such wild riding, such amazing action, such speed nor such drama.

Watch for the other three. They will be world beaters.

Don't let your competitor beat you to this series, one of the biggest box office series ever filmed. This new CANUTT series distributed exclusively by—

FILM BOOKING OFFICES
723 Seventh Avenue, New York City, New York

Thematic music cue sheets available on all our features

We Congratulate You—Mr. Reed of the

STRAND THEATRE

Providence, R. I.

and you too

Messrs. McConville and Montague

of

INDEPENDENT FILMS, INC.

Boston, Mass.

for the intelligence and foresight used in booking

THE ENTIRE CHADWICK 1925-26 PROGRAM as the foundation for the season's booking schedule

at the

STRAND THEATRE, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

This important exhibition contract is a definite and concrete indication of the way wise showmen are conducting their affairs.

With the entire photoplay market at his disposal, Mr. Edward Reed chose the Foremost INDEPENDENT PROGRAM—

CHADWICK FIRST

The Best Possible Endorsement of the Slogan

"Each Production An Achievement"

CHADWICK PICTURES CORPORATION

729 Seventh Ave., New York City

I. E. CHADWICK,
President

TO An Exhibitor Who Knows

COLUMBIA PICTURES
1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

Mr. Edward Reed,
Strand Theatre,
Providence, R. I.
Dear Sir:

Permit us to congratulate you on having booked the entire eighteen pictures which we will produce during the season of 1925-26.

As the leading exhibitor in your territory you have shown other exhibitors that they can get an unlimited number of good pictures from producers who will protect the interests of independent exhibitors.

You bought the coming season's product on the basis of what independently produced pictures did for you last year.

Other exhibitors like yourself who must protect their investments can now be assured of a consistent supply of product which will in every way equal the best ever offered.

Yours very truly,

Columbia Pictures Corp.,

Joe Brandt, Pres.

18 GUARANTEED BOX-OFFICE HITS FOR 1925-26 18

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORPORATION
1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY

INDEPENDENT EXHIBITORS, PROTECT YOUR INTERESTS

ATTEND THE MILWAUKEE CONVENTION—MAY 12-13-14

"THE MIRACLE OF THE WOLVES"

ACCLAIMED BY EVERY CRITIC!

"It is a wonderful picture. Nothing like the scenes of the attack of the wolves has been seen on the screen—vivid and exciting."—Mordaunt Hall, N. Y. Times.

"'The Miracle of the Wolves' is really a stupendous production. The scene of the wolves is truly marvelous."—Regina Cannon, N. Y. Graphic.

"A stupendous piece of work. There is no reason why it should not be a great subject for all exhibitors. It's splendid, spectacular, and thrilling subject suitable for all houses." —N. Y. Telegraph.

"Grandeur—Charles Dullin is perfect. One is impressed with the sincerity and magnificent sweep of the production."—N. Y. Evening Journal.

"'The Miracle of the Wolves' is arresting, inspiring and exhilarating."—Harriette Underhill, N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

"Marvelously realistic, battles finely executed, excellently acted. All in all a magnificent film. A big achievement."—Laurence Reid, M. P. News.

"In our opinion Charles Dullin as Louis is far more subtle in his art than is Emil Jannings. The episode of the wolves is one of the most amazing things ever filmed. If you appreciate intelligent and often-inspired directing, you should not miss seeing 'The Miracle of the Wolves.'"—N. Y. Evening Post.

"It's a wallop—a knockout. We defy anyone to contradict the following statement—nothing like it has ever been seen in this country before."—Brooklyn Citizen.

"It is the earnest recommendation of this department that you see 'The Miracle.'"—Martin B. Dickstein, Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

"We have seen nothing greater of its kind than the battle of the wolves."—N. Y. Exhibitors Trade Review.

"France's bid for cinema consideration is brilliant, generously conceived and shrewdly executed. It challenges certainly the California championship." — George Gerhard, N. Y. World.

"Rises to unique and inimitable proportions compared to our own products."—N. Y. Zits.

"Majestic, colorful, and moves at an ever-accelerating tempo, reaching a superb climax and terminating quickly in a thoroughly satisfying manner." — Rowland Vance Lee, Tacoma Ledger (Wash.)

"It contains some of the most gorgeously beautiful and thrilling scenes that were ever caught by the roving eye of a motion picture camera."— The Sun.

"Urgently thrilling. Charles Dullin as Louis stands out splendidly."—Frank Vreeland, N. Y. Telegram.

"It's a remarkable production, superbly handled by the director, Raymond Bernard, against a background of history."—N. Y. Evening Journal.

FIVE CAPACITY WEEKS

CRITERION THEATRE

NEW YORK CITY

Director Raymond Bernard Produced by Guy De Vilmorin Managing Director Rene Batigne

Going Up!

There are Reasons!

During the first MOVING PICTURE WORLD paper showing a of advertising pages last year.

The Figures

(For the first Quarter: January, February and March)

Moving Picture World - - - -	45½ Pages GAIN
Motion Picture News - - - -	173¼ Pages LOSS
Exhibitors Herald - - - - - - - -	65½ Pages LOSS
Exhibitors Trade Review - - -	59¼ Pages LOSS quarter of 1925

is the only trade
GAIN in the number over the same period

There Are Reasons!

There Are Reasons

Undisputed First in Circulation!

First in Reader Interest!

First in All Around Service!

First in Reader Confidence!

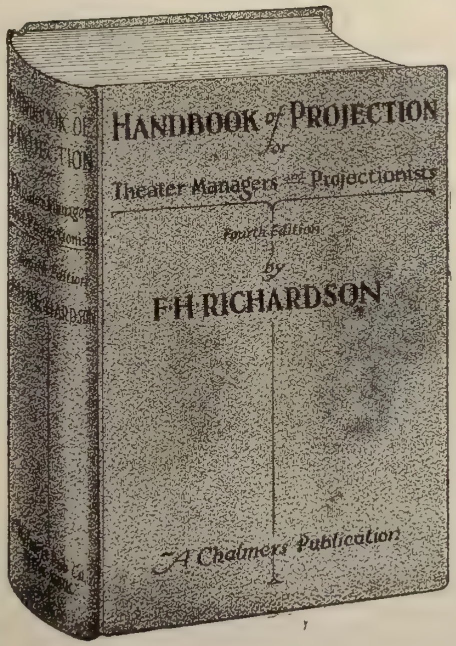
GOING UP!

The Steady Increase

IN SALES OF THE 4TH EDITION

HANDBOOK of PROJECTION

By F. H. Richardson



Now in its second printing, is your guarantee of the tremendous practical value of this book and proves the increased attention which wide-awake theatre managers are giving to the important matter of improving projection in their theatres.

This 976-page book, full of practical information and invaluable aid in helping to solve your problems, also asks and answers 842 appropriate projection questions.

Get it from your dealer, or order it sent C. O. D. Price, $6.00.

CHALMERS
Publishing Company
516 Fifth Avenue, New York

They knew what

—Here's just a few of the book COLLEEN MOORE'S

STRAND, Brooklyn, N. Y.
STRAND, Albany, N. Y.
METROPOLITAN, Atlanta, Ga.
OLYMPIA, Worcester, Mass.
GORDON'S OLYMPIA, Boston, Mass.
PANTHEON, Toledo, O.
TIVOLI, Jersey City, N. J.
GRAND, Pittsburg, Pa.
LIBERTY, Pittsburg, Pa.
PALACE, Muscatine, Ia.
CAPITOL, Davenport, Ia.
STRAND, Emporia, Kans.
VARSITY, Florence, Kans.
TROY, Troy, N. Y.
MARSHALL, Manhattan, Kans.
MAIN ST., Kansas City
CENTRAL, Jersey City, N. J.
OLYMPIA, New Bedford, Mass.
PASTIME, Union Hill, N. J.
LINCOLN, Union Hill, N. J.
DeWITT, Bayonne, N. J.
U. S., Hoboken, N. J.
VICTOR, McKeesport, Pa.
PENN, New Castle, Pa.

First National Pictures, Inc.
presents

COLLEEN MOORE

in

"SALLY"

The big "Silver Lining"

they wanted!

theatres who are flocking to greatest picture:

NEW GRAND CENTRAL, St. Louis
WEST END, St. Louis
LYRIC, St. Louis
CAPITOL, St. Louis
CHICAGO, Chicago, Ill.
CIRCLE, Indianapolis
WARFIELD, San Francisco
GARRICK, Duluth, Minn.
LOEW'S STATE, Los Angeles
ARSENAL, St. Louis
BROADWAY, Muskogee, Okla.
EMPRESS, Oklahoma City
ORPHEUM, Haskell, Okla.
MURRAY, Ponca City, Okla.
STRAND, Ottumwa, Ia.
STRAND, Clinton, Ia.
CAPITOL, Des Moines, Ia.
PALACE, South Bend, Ind.
LERNER, Elkhart, Ind.
CALIFORNIA, Stockton, Cal.
CAPITOL, Sacramento, Cal.
CALIFORNIA, San Jose, Cal.
STATE, Minneapolis
REGENT, Eveleth, Minn.
STRAND, Morris, Minn.
LIBERTY, Long Beach, Cal.
YOST, Santa Ana, Cal.
STRAND, Greensburg, Pa.
RIVOLI, Baltimore, Md.
STRAND, Syracuse, N. Y.
MAJESTIC, Bridgeport, Conn.
STRAND, New Orleans, La.
RIALTO, Omaha, Neb.
PRINCESS, Sioux City, Ia.
EMPRESS, Oklahoma City
LINCOLN, Belleville, Ill.
HIPPODROME, Alton, Ill.
WILDEY, Edwardsville, Ill.
SIGMA, Lima, O.
STRAND, St. Charles, Mo.
EMPRESS, Oklahoma City
STATE, Dayton, O.
POWHATTAN, Maplewood, Mo.
EAGLE, Pana, Ill.
CALIFORNIA, Bakersfield, Cal.
STRAND, Hartford, Conn.
CAPITOL, St. Paul, Minn.
GARDEN, Paterson, N. J.
PALACE, Nokomis, Ill.
MINER'S, Collinsville, Ill.
OLYMPIA, New Haven, Conn.
GARDEN, Charleston, S. C.
JEWEL, Helena, Ark.
STRAND, Robinson, Ill.
PALACE, Kenneth, Mo.
AUDITORIUM, Winston-Salem, N. C.
GARDEN, Charleston, S. C.
BALBOA, San Diego, Cal.
T. & D., Oakland, Cal.
PEOPLES, Superior, Wisc.
KINEMA, Fresno, Cal.
SOUTHERN, Columbus, O.

From FLORENZ ZIEGFELD'S musical comedy
By GUY BOLTON, author and JEROME KERN, composer with LLOYD HUGHES and LEON ERROL
Editorial Direction and Continuity by JUNE MATHIS
Directed by . . . . ALFRED E. GREEN
Art Director . . . . E. J. SHULTER
Photographer . . . . T. D. McCORD
Assistant Director . . . . JACK BOLAND

A First National Picture

Picture for all exhibitors

Members of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America Inc.—Will Hays President

Foreign Rights Controlled by
First National Pictures Inc.
383 Madison Avenue, New York

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Chicago–New York–Detroit–Cleveland–Indianapolis– proved that

First National Pictures Inc. presents

The New Gigantic

"QUO VADIS"

by Henryk Sienkiewicz

Produced by UNIONE CINEMATOGRAFICA ITALIANA

with

EMIL JANNINGS

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Foreign Rights Controlled by
First National Pictures Inc
383 Madison Avenue New York

is one of the biggest clean-up pictures available today.

A First National Picture

Members of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America Inc.—Will Hays President

The MOVING PICTURE
WORLD
Founded in 1907 by J. P. Chalmers

"Bread and Butter"

THE Man Who Has to Write the Editorials met an exhibitor who a few months ago purchased a house in what can be termed "a representative American community." The exhibitor was full to the bubbling point with a certain subject. He wrote the editorial—in conversation, and saved The Man Who Has to Write 'Em more or less effort.

We would like to give this exhibitor's name. Perhaps we will, after he has signed his Fall contracts. But if we do so now we know the story he has to tell will just cost him a straight increase in film rental.

He came to us a bit puzzled.

"See if you can figure this out for me," he said. "I am up against a situation that has me fretting and worrying, when I really ought to be tickled to death, I suppose.

"In the town where I recently bought this house my opposition had all the supposedly 'blue ribbon' service tied up solid. When he heard I was coming into the town he went out and bought, hook, line and sinker. If there is a picture playing the Broadway palaces that he hasn't got, I'd like to know it. He is shelving one for every one he plays.

"After I bought the house and looked over the situation I sure did acquire a case of the blues. I thought I was up against it—locked out."

* * *

"I HAVE been brought up in the exhibiting school that says 'buy the cream and let the other fellow have the milk.' You can imagine how I felt with all the supposedly choice service unavailable.

"Well, I did the best I could. I can't take any credit for brains in the matter—there was no other choice. I just selected the best of what was left.

"And the answer? I am outdrawing him four to one. The night he has one of the big ten stars in a picture that the New York critics have declared a masterpiece I probably have Fred Thompson in a rip-roaring Western. I turn them away—and he starves.

"I was going to say that all I was selling them is entertainment. But I must have more—there must be drawing power that I never did count on. How else can you explain my pulling them in against any of the supposedly sure-fire stars? We don't get transients in this town. They make up their minds at home from the newspaper ads. They pick the show they want and go direct to it—and they are dodging the supposed big ones and coming to me for entertainment.

"Universal's White List, Fred Thompson, Richard Talmadge—they are my bread and butter."

* * *

"HERE is where my worry comes in: I have the other fellow run so ragged that the situation is all mine now. I can get any service I want for next fall. I can have my pick.

"What will I do? All my training in the picture business has led me to follow big names and 'look for the Sterling mark.' I can't forget that training in a few months. I am itching to grab the service that the other fellow has monopolized.

"But I can't get away from the figures—from the box office. I may just turn around and give the other fellow the plums that I have been getting.

"There's the problem. Have we got to strike a new reckoning and figure that audiences are once more swinging back to the search for plain, old-fashioned entertainment—and passing up the pictures that are merely offering names?

"What would you do in my case? Stick to the type of show that is making money for you, or yield to the temptation to buy the services that you THINK should be the best bets? What's the answer?"

Can you beat that for a problem? The Man Who Has to Write the Editorials will give the page up any week to a showman with a problem as interesting as that.

Robert E. Welsh

Moving Picture WORLD

EDITOR - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - ROBERT E. WELSH

Published Weekly by CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY, 516 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Telephone: Murray Hill 1610-1-2-3. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. John F. Chalmers, president; James P. Chalmers, Sr., vice-president; Alfred J. Chalmers, vice-president; Eliza J. Chalmers, secretary and treasurer, and Ervin L. Hall, business manager.

Branch Offices: Joseph Esler, 5434 Glenwood Avenue, Chicago; W. E. Keefe, 1312 Stanley Avenue, Hollywood, Cal.

Managing Editor—John A. Archer. Advertising Manager—Ben H. Grimm. Circulation Manager—Dennis J. Shea.

Subscription price: United States and its possessions, Mexico and Cuba, $3.00 a year; Canada, $3.50; foreign countries (postpaid) $10.00 a year. Copyright, 1925, Chalmers Publishing Co. Copyright throughout Great Britain and Colonies, under the provisions of the Copyright Act of 1911. (All rights reserved.)

Other publications: Cine Mundial (Spanish). Technical books.

VOLUME 73 NUMBER 6

To Keep You Posted

Editorial 535
Speaking Freely 537
Strategist Stimulates Unity Among Film Men Abroad 538
Independence 539
Felix Feist Now General Manager of Metro 540
Paramount Incorporated School to Train Eligible Youth for Screen 541
Northwest Convention Hits Free Shows; Steffes Elected President 542
Same Evidence That Acquitted One Convicts Another in New Jersey 543
Colvin Brown Joins F. B. O; Assists Thomson and Schnitzer 543
Missouri Exhibitor Describes Climax When Last Reel Burns 544
Six More Theatres for Los Angeles and Environs 544
Here's New Angle in Casting; Company, Not Star, Represented 545
James R. Grainger Joins Fox as General Manager of Sales 545
Illinois Showmen Aid Tornado Victims with Funds 548
Theatres in Stricken Area Effecting Gradual Recovery 548
Independents to Hold Own Convention in Milwaukee in May 549
Exhibitors' News and Views 551
Projection 605

To Sell Your Seats

Harold Rice Finds Large Profit in Chronicles of America Series 572
Selling the Picture to the Public (Department) 572
Helped Students Who Assisted Him 574
Window Stunt Brought Crowd Back 575
Uses Cross-Word Puzzles for Hook-up Pages 576
Builds a Cutout Into a Three Sheet 577

To Aid Your Bookings

Straight from the Shoulder Reports 557
The First Run 567
Reviews 580
Pep of the Program 584
First National Announces 52 Pictures for New Season; Also 7 Specials 585
Vitagraph to Release Thirty Productions 587
F. B. O. Schedules Fourteen Pictures for Release During May 589
"Charley's Aunt" Making New Box Office Records 591
Harry M. Warner Urges Industry to Use Radio 592
Pearson Outlines New Pathe Schedule; Plans More Comedies Than Ever 593
Current and Advance Releases 600

First in the Field!

4 out of every 5 motion picture theatres in the United States are reached by a copy of MOVING PICTURE WORLD!

Speaking Freely

Gol ding it! Wot a week! If we start calling around the offices next week we don't expect to find any of the faces we know in the places we always have known them to be. Jimmie Grainger with Fox. Felix Feist holding the Metro-Goldwyn sales reins. Howard Dietz adding the word and the duties of publicity to his advertising title. Colvin Brown joining F. B. O. Jack Meador stepping into production. Harry Reichenbach leaving Famous Players. What next?

James R. Grainger, to be official about it, in joining Fox again gives another bit of concrete evidence bearing out the hints we have been giving you on these pages for many weeks—that William Fox and Winnie Sheehan have their sleeves rolled up and are ready for action this coming season.

Jimmie Grainger is shrewd, canny, hard-boiled. No one ever accused Jimmie of stepping around wildly. So back of his move to Fox you can see your own picture of the long consideration he must have given the act and of the EVIDENCE that was presented to him to sway the decision.

We'll wager that Jimmie had seen every picture of next year's line-up that was ready for showing before he moved up to Fifty-Fifth Street. For Jimmie, with all the confidence in the world in himself, is one of the sales managers who knows that while any good man can make a fine "once-over" sales record, it takes real PRODUCT to go back again. We'll also bet that Jimmie was given an inside slant on the future plans of Bill Fox.

After that he consented to move—from a spot where he was sitting very, very pretty. So write your own story.

We can tell you this: Bill Fox is determined that he isn't going to play second fiddle to anybody, or any organization in this game. When a fighter like Fox—with real cash, and proven ability to go the limit in any man's game—feels that way, it means something.

Wait—and watch!

Charlie Pettijohn writes: "In your very splendid statement on Arbitration in a recent issue your interviewer had me say, 'Exchange men make the best arbitrators.' I did say that 'Exhibitors make the best arbitrators, because they serve longer, are much more interested, and are not shifted and rotated as are the distributors.'" Charlie says we can correct the misstatement if we think it worth while. We'll say we do. Don't want any exhibitor arising to smite Charlie a year from now for something he did not say. Nosiree!

The celebration of a fifteenth anniversary on the part of any organization in this business is something worth more than passing thought. In the instance of Watterson Rothacker and his Rothacker Film Company it is the occasion to say a more than usually hearty word of congratulations.

That's going back some—to May, 1910. Fifteen years doesn't sound like much in connection with matters of history—but try to figure what your connection with the picture industry was in 1910. Huh? And then total up the number of other organizations that have had an uninterrupted existence since that date. Vitagraph, Universal, who else?

We'll say it is some celebration too, when a man can have a birthday cake studded with box-office reports on "The Lost World." Oh, boy! If they'll promise us one like that we'll be willing to wait till our fiftieth anniversary.

Ray Lewis, who has been putting up an admirable single-handed fight in Canada, comes to New York to start "The Spotlight." Free and untrammeled reviews and opinions. Arthur James is nearing his first press day. A welcome to all! Looks as though there is going to be room for everybody this coming year—provided he has something to say. Because there are going to be plenty of things to say it about.

We are cynics in this business. If a man announced the death of his first and favorite wife we'd probably hold the story from print until we had found what publicity man was behind the statement. And so it is that most of the industry is giving their first glance to the announcement of the Paramount School for Acting.

"Where's the catch?" is the feeling.

Well, if you go at the job the way we did, and read the prospectus slowly and carefully you'll be sold despite all the cynicism in the world.

There's a note of sincerity about every page and every detail of the plans. Adolph Zukor and Jesse Lasky are looking a long way ahead—and acting now.

Jesse Lasky has had unusual success in meeting the cry for new faces on the screen—witness Betty Bronson. Now he is going a step further. Instead of sitting back at ease and awaiting the stray prospects that come aknocking at the studio gates he is out looking for them. And helping to develop them.

It is a good move. Part of an organization policy of permanence and foresight that is daily getting further and further away from the helter-skelter that we are accustomed to consider established motion picture practice.

Just came across a C. B. C. broadside listing the coming year's line-up of the Brandt-Cohen organization. Paramount couldn't have done it better, or more effectively. If the pictures back up the advertising—and the manager of the Strand, Providence, is one of the many who tell us they did last year—just one more reason for certainty that this is going to be a great independent year.

Speaking of broadsides: Every time we have picked up a newspaper for the past few months we have seen "The White Monkey." Just one extra edition after another apparently on that novel. And now the letter carrier delivers a broadside from Bert Ennis reminding us that Sawyer-Lubin have the novel for Barbara La Marr. Haven't read the story, but if best seller records mean anything it sounds like a capture.

Ralph Pugh, First National's British representative, is responsible for a move that sounds interesting. He has just concluded contracts with Graham Wilcox by which the British unit of the organization will distribute that producer's next picture in England.

Reciprocity of the sort that will mean much to the First National in England and perhaps show a new road to American distributors abroad.

Graham Wilcox has sent pictures enough to these shores to show that he has the knack of making them. "The Only Way," the vehicle chosen for First National's British distributing experiment, is a well-known attraction. Who knows but that, by use of this entering wedge, we may find Graham Wilcox earning a place on First National's list for this country?

Elmer Pearson doesn't break into print often, and when he does it is usually for a definite business reason. Elsewhere in this issue he has an announcement of Pathe's line-up for the coming year—a line-up that will be given close consideration by exhibitors. Especially by those who are always wondering where they are to get their good comedies from. Comedy dominates the Pathe list—comedy stamped with the hallmark of Hal Roach and Mack Sennett.

"Smith, Rock and Blackton." Thus does history repeat itself. The mortgage on the homestead burned and forgotten. Starting out with a clean slate. A better start, in fact, than the original one by "Smith, Rock and Blackton" of the nineties. Watch 'em!—R. E. W.

Strategist Stimulates Unity Among Film Men Abroad

By
W. Stephen Bush

A WELL-KNOWN and well-seasoned American film strategist, for many years prominently connected with Pathe and now holding a responsible position in a great British producing company, has of late spent not a little of his valuable time on the Continent, visiting the centres and sources of production in the Scandinavian countries, in Germany, in France, in Austria and in Italy. His mission is a most interesting one. No faithful chronicler of the developments in the European motion picture field can afford to ignore this mission. The gentleman I have endeavored to describe proposes to accomplish in the world of motion pictures what all the idealists of Europe have vainly tried to achieve in the world of politics. He wants to establish the United States of Europe as a definite entity in motion pictures.

"The United States of Europe"

I discovered Mr. Hoagland in Rome while he was on his way from Vienna to Paris. He did not speak of his mission freely, certainly not with any "abandon" or desire to be quoted, but he had no objection to letting things be inferred. As the plan reveals a new direction in the efforts of European producers and as it seems practical enough, it may interest the readers of Moving Picture World to learn of some of its more essential features.

The fundamental idea of the project is an existing community of interest between all European motion picture producers. To some extent this common interest has been recognized and attested in a practical way by certain alliances of film producers representing different countries, such, for instance, as the Westi-Pathe combination. Mr. Hoagland's plan, however, goes very much further. His idea contemplates a more intimate and more widely extended combination of the leading producers. Each producer is to be an independent unit, subject, however, to the government of a central organization which is to control both production and distribution.

No Central Clearing House

Hence the appositeness of the description "United States of Europe." However much the Czecho-Slovak may dislike the Austrian and however much the Frenchman may detest the German, etc. (many etceteras are required by present conditions in Europe), as far as motion picture production and distribution are concerned there are to be no national animosities or sectional prejudices. At present there is no such thing as a central clearing house for distribution in any country of Europe. Marseilles, for example, has no idea of what is doing in Strasbourg even where the product of the same company is concerned.

Mr. Hoagland wants to change all this completely. He wants to create a highly centralized and sensitive system such as existed, say, in the days of the late General Film Company. Europe is to be divided into zones for distributing all the productions of all the existing companies with any claim to quality. As far as possible national boundaries will be respected in the creation of the zones, but that is by no means considered essential to the success of the plan. Facilities are the determining factor. Under a system such as this the returns on each picture would naturally be increased, which of course would mean a corresponding encouragement in the quantity and quality of production.

The scheme has not matured far enough to allow of a discussion of details, but it seems a rather reasonable assumption that the British interests would have a good deal to say about the arrangements. It seems to be the British plan to encourage even with financial aid any promising producing unit on the Continent. Thus, one Vienna concern, which in the past has turned out an occasional film of merit, has received substantial support from a large British firm. This firm and companies in similar positions will of course welcome this kind of support, and if the central bureau of distribution ever gets to working it is natural to believe that they will favor the British views and plans whatever they may be.

Europe for Europeans

The plan here hastily sketched is of course open to objections, some of which are obvious enough. The principal platform of such an organization will in all probability be: "Europe for Europeans." There cannot be any immediate sharp hostility to American pictures, but if with the undoubted upward swing of motion picture interests in Europe this or some similar combination succeeds in making more and better pictures, the dangers to the continued supremacy of the American film are easily seen.

There is a very great difference between the European and the American taste in motion pictures. An intelligent and strong appeal to the European taste is bound to create patronage and attract new classes of the population, which today more than ever before seem on the point of looking upon the motion picture entertainment with more interest. I am speaking of the so-called "better classes" which heretofore have pretty unanimously viewed the motion picture show as an inferior sort of amusement.

As to the difficulties in the way of a successful carrying out of the new combination, the principal one will be the unbridgeable difference in national sentiment. The German film, it is true, exports itself easily into Austria, now and then into Switzerland or Italy, or even into the Balkan states. The distribution of French films in Germany needs heroic efforts and remains a rather precarious affair in spite of these efforts. The British film has a very tough time of it outside of the British Isles. In the Latin countries one sees a British film very rarely indeed. If there is a demand or even a place for British films anywhere else in Europe it has escaped my attention. Where, then, one might be tempted to ask, will we find the film supply to make "The United States of Europe" a triumphant reality?

Even if the project is beset with difficulties, the very idea of Europe concentrating primarily on the needs of its own markets is a good sign. The conviction is growing among European producers that the American market still wears an extremely forbidding look as far as European pictures are concerned. The idea that European and American pictures can be exchanged on a basis of reciprocity, like other articles of merchandise, is beginning to

(Continued on page 542)

Independence!

That's the F. B. O. Platform as Told by Joseph Schnitzer to

Robert E. Welsh

"WE have our feet on the ground—or, rather, on a solid, unwavering platform. That platform is absolute INDEPENDENCE. We own no theatres—we have no desire to own theatres; we have no agreements, written or unwritten, with groups or combines of any sort—we have no desire to work out such agreements.

"In a nutshell, we have no desire to compete, directly or indirectly, with individual, independent exhibitors—with the men who must, in the end, make up the bulk of any film company's customers.

"We are in the business of making picture entertainment and selling it—and we ask nothing but a free and open market to present the merits of our wares, and the clean-cut lines of our selling methods.

"We know we must provide entertainment that not only satisfies, but must back it with exploitation that draws people to box offices. But, most important, we aim to provide it at a price that will leave a legitimate profit for all concerned.

J. I. SCHNITZER

"There you have the F. B. O. policy. Our feet are on the ground. No panic—no running around in circles. No wondering 'what it is all about.' We know our job—we are out to fill it. That's all.

"If that policy doesn't win out then it can only be because the day will have arrived when there is no room in this business for square-shooting, straight-thinking INDEPENDENCE, nor for sound and legitimate merchandising."

Joseph I. Schnitzer, vice-president of F. B. O., is doing the talking. "Joe" Schnitzer it is to the thousands in the picture industry who have had contact with the F. B. O. executive on his upward climb to the important post he now holds.

But despite the tone of his words, don't think that Joe Schnitzer is declaiming, or ranting. There is a certain calm deliberation and cool self-possession about this fellow Joe Schnitzer that puts the stamp of sincerity behind the things he says to you.

Picture interviews are too often a monotonous affair. Too often there is the feeling that the other chap is posing, that he is going through with the talk as a matter of unfortunate routine duty—as you are also—and that he is merely rolling off pat phrases because he knows they are the catchwords you expect him to use.

There is none of that about a talk with Joe Schnitzer. On the contrary, before many minutes, you feel that he is letting you in on a confidential view of his own mental processes, and the aims of his organization. And even before he has put it into words you have told yourself that Major Thomson, Joe Schnitzer, Harry Berman, Nat Rothstein, and their fellow workers have their feet on the ground. They haven't even heard the chap who is running around yelling "Fire!"—or, if they have, they are perfectly willing to let him do the frantic shouting while they proceed along more practical lines.

"Where is all this theatre buying and theatre grouping going to end?" you ask him, and to your surprise you don't get an hour of theoretical analysis that leaves the question just where it started.

"I don't know," Joe Schnitzer replies, bluntly. "And while I can't go on to say 'I don't care'—I can say that we are not allowing any panicky worries or vain speculations to keep our thoughts away from the main job—that of making and selling good pictures.

"Of course the situation is serious. There are first run conditions that are intolerable, places where the matter of quality plays no part in the question of bookings. There are entire sections where single control is working a hardship on the independent distributor. Each day you hear of another new theatre purchase or link-up on the part of one of the leading distributors.

"How it is going to end—I don't know. But this thought I have firmly fixed in my mind—you can never absolutely control or dominate this business. So long as genius, personality, and money cannot be completely monopolized—just so long will it be impossible for any group to corner this industry. They may not believe that now—but experience is going to teach it to them. Over-ambition in an industry such as this is going to defeat its own ends.

"Don't forget this—there are large numbers of independent theatre owners who are finally arousing to the fact that the independent distributor's battles are also their battles. When all free theatre owners—the ones who make this business because they live of, by, and for it—realize this fact, the issues will be joined. Then you'll see the first step in the working out of the solution.

"Wait until all the independent exhibitors thought realizes the strength of the battle cry, 'Don't buy from the man who will use your money to build a theatre across the street or to buy you out.'

"Meanwhile F. B. O. isn't worrying. We may have to work a lot harder—on product, advertising, and selling—then the fellow who can fall back on his own theatres for a life-saver, but hard work never hurt any organization. And it does produce results."

Joe Schnitzer climbed the rungs of the picture ladder in the sales end. His thoughts are those of the sales executive. But this past year has found Joseph Schnitzer, vice-president of F. B. O. spending six months or more at the Los Angeles studio of the company. He brings the viewpoint of exhibitor and distributor to the studio. The results are already being felt.

"For the first time in our history," he says, "we are now able to announce and sell a year's output in advance. In a few weeks when our official announcement is made exhibitors will be able to give consideration to some fifty pictures, and twelve specials of the F. B. O. box-office type with which exhibitors are so familiar. And exhibitors

(Continued on page 549)

Coming and Going

Marcus Jacobowsky, president of Associated Pictures Corporation, has returned to New York after visiting California and Chicago.

Arthur A. Lee, president of the Lee-Bradford Corporation, sails on the White Star liner S.S. Baltic on April 4. He will remain abroad for about six weeks and will visit London, Paris, Berlin and the other important European capitals.

Watterson R. Rothacker is in New York for a week.

E. W. Hammons, president of Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., sailed last week on the Olympic for a six weeks' business trip to Europe. He was accompanied by Jack White, producer of Educational-Mermaid Comedies.

Ike Blumenthal, special representative of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in Europe, has arrived in New York to spend several weeks conferring with E. E. Shauer, director of the foreign department.

E. A. Eschmann is expected back at First National's home office next week after his trip to the West Coast.

Jerry Wilson, well known to Eastern exhibitors, is back with Renown's New York exchange.

Julius Bernheim is in New York from the Coast and expects to sail shortly for Europe.

N. L. Nathanson of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, is in New York.

Abe Stern arrived in New York this week from Hollywood.

April Conventions to Bring Prosperity to Dallas Showmen

Dallas motion picture exhibitors believe they see a glimpse of real prosperity ahead. The convention season will be on in full swing by Thursday, April 9, and visitors and delegates galore will be attracted to the city. One convention alone, that of the Confederate Veterans and Sons of Confederate veterans, is expected to draw 20,000 new faces into Dallas.

Moving Picture World's correspondent, in co-operation with the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, has prepared the following list of conventions, all of which will be held within the period of from April 9 to May 29:

State cotton ginners, April 9-10, estimated attendance, 1,500; Texas surgeons, April 13-14, 100; Scottish Rite Reunion, 20th-24th, 250; plumbers, 20th-22d, 500; Rexall druggists, 21st-22d, 300; national hardware retailers and Southern hardware jobbers, 21st-24th, 600; clothiers and furnishers and apparel men, 27th-30th, 450; Overland dealers, date not set, 300; architects, 25th-26th, 100; jewelers, 20th-21st, 300; optometrists, 22d-24th, 150; Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Texas, May 5-6, 100; furniture dealers, 12th-14th, 100; United Confederate Veterans, Sons Confederate Veterans, 20,000, 19th-22d; state manufacturers, 25th-26th, 200; accountants, 300; Vacuum Oil Company's salesmen, date not set, 50; National Oil Mill Superintendents, 27th-29th, 300.

FELIX FEIST

Chicago Is Building Two More Theatres

During the past week more new theatres for Chicago were announced. The first is to go up at the northwest corner of Kedzie Avenue and 59th Street to seat 2,500 and to be built by a syndicate headed by C. M. Wasson, Frank Jamison and Edward Qualkinbush. The new house will cost in excess of $800,000. A Spanish type of architecture will be followed and several stores and apartments will be included in the structure, work upon which will start at once.

The other house is planned for Cicero Avenue near Belmont by Louis Golson, owner of the Plaza Theatre on West North Avenue. He has purchased a lot 125 by 180 feet on the east side of Cicero Avenue, 175 feet north of the corner, for a reported cost of $50,000, and the work will start at an early date.

In addition to these houses there are several other theatre projects that are brewing and will be announced at an early date according to the promoters.

Kill Freiberg Bill; Mrs. Colbert Gets Job

The big feature of the closing hours of the Legislature in so far as motion picture circles in New York State were concerned was in the final confirmation by the Senate of Governor Smith's appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth V. Colbert, of Albany, to a place on the New York State Motion Picture Commission, at a salary of $7,500 a year. Mrs. Colbert had been named by Governor Smith nearly two months before to succeed Mrs. Helen M. Hosmer, of Buffalo, a Republican leader, who has been with the commission since its organization in 1921, and whose term of office expired last January.

The Freiberg bill, relating to the admission of unaccompanied children to motion picture theatres, could not muster sufficient strength to even pass the Assembly.

HEARST CUTS DEEP INTO SUPER

Recently pre-viewing one of his Cosmopolitan productions, "Never the Twain Shall Meet," made by Maurice Tourneur, William Randolph Hearst, according to newspaper advices from Los Angeles, ordered that 140,000 feet of this feature be scrapped.

Feist Is Now General Sales Manager of Metro

Nicholas M. Schenck announces the appointment of Felix Feist as general sales manager of the Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corporation.

E. M. Saunders, who has been joint sales manager with J. R. Grainger, who has this week resigned, will continue in his present capacity, with Mr. Feist now in complete charge of the Metro-Goldwyn sales force.

Mr. Feist is one of the most prominent executives in the sales branch of the motion picture industry, with a long experience that especially adapts him to the difficult post as head of this department of Metro-Goldwyn.

For three years Mr. Feist was general manager of distribution for the Goldwyn company, and for four years was in charge of the Joseph M. Schenck Enterprises, handling the Norma Talmadge and Constance Talmadge productions and the Buster Keaton pictures.

Mr. Feist also handles Inspiration Pictures, which include the productions of Lillian Gish and Dorothy Gish and Richard Barthelmess. "The White Sister" and "Romola" are among the former.

Well acquainted with every branch of the motion picture business, Mr. Feist was felt by Metro-Goldwyn executives to be an ideal choice for the position created with his appointment.

Paramount Begins Big National Advertising Drive

Beginning this week, Paramount will supplement its national advertising program, now conducted mainly through the media of The Saturday Evening Post, Pictorial Review, Ladies' Home Journal, Liberty Magazine, and all of the "fan" magazines with national circulation, by the addition of twenty-four farm papers with a combined weekly circulation of 5,250,456, bringing the total weekly circulation of Paramount advertising to approximately 60,000,000 people in America.

Cleveland Audience Unaware of Tragedy

Concurrently with the final fadeout of the feature film at Loew's Park Theatre, Cleveland, Ohio, recently, Homer Waters, former orchestra leader at Loew's, whipped out a revolver and fired four shots at his companion, Miss Lillian Tyler, relief organist, who was seated beside him in the first row, killing her instantly. Waters then turned the weapon on himself and died a few minutes later.

Scores of persons were filing out of the theatre at the time, and this commotion considerably deadened the noise of the shooting, so that many in the audience were not aware of the tragedy for some few minutes later, and this, it is believed, prevented a panic.

Paramount Incorporates School to Train Eligible Youth for Screen

All Persons Between 18-30 May Apply—Testing Stations Throughout U. S.; 20 Students Comprise Yearly Class

ESTABLISHMENT of the Paramount Pictures School, Inc., designed to train young men and women for screen acting, was announced this week by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. To solve one of the most acute problems facing the picture business, that of finding new faces for the screen, the entire country will be combed, it was stated by Lasky.

The school will be housed in the Paramount Long Island Studio at Astoria. Long Island. The school term will be six months, and twenty students, ten young men and ten young women, will compose the class for each term. These students will be drawn from all sections of the United States.

The board of directors of the Paramount School, Inc., has as its chairman Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and includes Jesse L. Lasky; Joseph Hergesheimer, author; Daniel Frohman, president of the Actors' Fund of America; Gilbert Miller, general manager for Charles Frohman, Inc.; John Emerson, president of the Actors' Equity Association; Thomas Meighan and D. W. Griffith. The actual operation of the school will be in the hands of an executive council of which Mr. Lasky is chairman. The other members are Walter Wanger, Claud H. Mitchell, John W. Butler, Edwin C. King, Tom Terriss, Bijou Fernandez and Charles E. McCarthy.

The general plan of admission has been carefully prepared. Thirty representatives have been appointed in different parts of the United States. They are as follows:

Bijou Fernandez, Famous Players-Lesky Studio, Sixth and Pierce avenues, Astoria, L. I.; John F. McConville, 8 Shawmut street, Boston, Mass.; John A. Callahan, 134 Meadow street, New Haven, Conn.; George E. Williams, 254 Franklin street, Buffalo, N. Y.; Leslie F. Whelan, 1219 Vine street, Philadelphia, Pa.; Irwin Zeltner, 62 North State street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Edward J. Wall, 1101 North Capitol avenue, Washington, D. C.; Ernest Geyer, 51 Luckie street, Atlanta, Ga.; George Eshenfelder, 110 North Lee street, Jacksonville, Fla.; William Danziger, Pioneer and Broadway, Cincinnati, O.; William H. Wright, 251 North Fifth street, Columbus, O.; William N. Robson, 1018 Forbes street, Pittsburgh, Pa.; William Mendelssohn, 1563 East 21st street, Cleveland, O.; Kenneth O. Renaud, 2949 Cass avenue, Detroit, Mich.; Irvin A. Waterstreet, 38 South Capitol avenue, Indianapolis, Ind.; Puzant K. Thomajan, 118 South Monroe street, Peoria, Ill.; Russell S. Moon, 1327 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.; Edward F. Corcoran, 119 Seventh street, Milwaukee, Wis.; Jack Hellman, 1100 First avenue north, Minneapolis, Minn.; James M. Wiest, 1610 Davenport street, Omaha, Neb.; Earl Cunningham, 110 West 18th street, Kansas City, Mo.; George Gambrill, 3721 Washington boulevard, St. Louis, Mo.; H. F. Wilkes, 944 Perdido street, New Orleans, La.; William A. Taylor, 514 W. Grand Avenue, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Curtis Dunham, 300 South Jefferson street, Dallas, Texas; Al. G. Birch, 1625 Court place, Denver, Col.; Harold W. Pickering, 133 East Second street, Salt Lake City, Utah; Harry C. Eagles, 2017 Third avenue, Seattle, Wash.; Jay A. Haas, 444 Glisan street, Portland, Ore.; Oscar Kantner, 201 Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco, Cal.; Casting Director, Paramount Studio, Vine street, Hollywood, Cal.

Any young man from eighteen to thirty years old or any girl from sixteen to twenty-five may send an application to the representative nearest his or her home, sending also three photographs—front view, side view and full length figure. These applications will be weeded out until five from each district, or 150 in all, are left. The 150 applications and the accompanying photographs will be sent to the Paramount School where the weeding out process will continue until 75 remain.

Each of these 75 will be notified by telegraph to report at one of the branch offices of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. At these offices will be stationed cameramen who will make film tests of the candidates. The cost of making these tests will be borne by the Paramount Pictures School, but the candidates will be expected to defray their own expenses from and to their homes. These film tests will be submitted to the school authorities, who will select fifty as being worthy of personal interviews by Mr. Lasky or his representatives. Fifteen candidates from the East will report at the Paramount Long Island studio. Fifteen from the West will go to the Famous Players-Lasky Hollywood studio and twenty from the middle section of the country will report in Chicago.

Technical instruction will be given by the director of the school, assisted by the school photographer, a number of special instructors and the usual executive staff. The chief subdivisions of this group will be loss of self-consciousness; graceful carriage and poise; etiquette and polite deportment; the selection and correct wearing of modern clothes and period costumes; the complete art of motion picture make-up; pantomime and the playing of parts; proper use of the hands; emotional control and character study.

After the elements of acting have been taught, the students will be given parts to play in simple, easy scenes improvised to suit various standing sets about the studio or at nearby exterior locations. Later, short sequences from former Paramount productions will be produced to enable the students to compare their own efforts with those of noted players. The routine work of the class will be varied and will be supplemented by

(Continued on next page)

HOWARD DIETZ

Dietz Heads Metro's Advertising and Publicity

Howard Dietz, who since the merger of Metro and Goldwyn has been advertising manager of the combined companies, now assumes the position of director of publicity and advertising. The publicity duties supervised by J. E. D. Meador, until his resignation last week, will be taken over by Mr. Dietz following a complete reorganization of the two departments affected and made official by Major Edward Bowes, vice-president of the Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corporation.

Howard Dietz has been in the motion picture business for seven years and prior to that was in the newspaper and advertising business for six years. He was on many newspapers before coming to the New York American, where he served in reportorial and other capacities for a period of five years.

In the advertising agency business Mr. Dietz enjoyed a reputation as one of the keenest promotion brains in his field, handling important national accounts such as Renault Cars, Scribner's Magazine, Runkel's Chocolate and many others. His merchandizing campaign for Bloomingdale's Department Store was accredited in the trade as one of the most ingenious and effective advertising drives ever undertaken in New York City.

Mr. Dietz has been responsible for many important developments in motion picture advertising. He was a pioneer in the move to bring well-known illustrators into the industry, with a resultant increase in the selling power of posters and other advertising accessories.

In addition to his advertising activities, Mr. Dietz has been a contributor for many years to important national publications.

Eddie Bonns will remain in charge of exploitation as heretofore.

Northwest Convention Hits Free Shows; Steffes Picked

EXACTLY 150 Northwest exhibitors in convention here this week re-elected W. A. Steffes as president of the organization and voted to fight the free show evil by staging free shows themselves. The free show situation was the main topic of discussion and exhibitors from Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin told of the growth of the movement there.

G. Ralph Branton, Educational, speaking on behalf of the exchange men, said that the Film Board of Trade is "100 per cent. opposed" to the free show movement. He explained that a "free show committee" has been organized by the board and is at present functioning in co-operation with the Exhibitors' organization. "In fact, we have refused to serve persons with films who have sought to stage shows in opposition to the legitimate exhibitors. We are for the exhibitors to a man."

Joe Nelson, pioneer Milbank, S. D., exhibitor, told the convention of the free show movement in little towns near there. He also spoke of the town of Milbank staging shows in a community auditorium. Others who discussed the free show movement included Joseph Friedman, owner of Tower Theatre, St. Paul, and C. J. Nichols, Fairmont, Minn., exhibitor.

During the course of the free show discussion, Steffes estimated that at least 600 Northwest Theatre men will be forced to close down this summer because of the free shows staged in the streets.

The exhibitors also voted in favor of the uniform contract and also that the three exhibitor members of the board of arbitration be instructed to arbitrate on nothing else but uniform contracts. At a meeting of the arbitration board on the first night of the convention a tie vote of 3—3 was recorded in three cases which came before the board for arbitration.

The Allied Theatres, Inc., plan was not discussed on the convention floor, but a meeting was held outside the convention at which steps were taken by W. A. Steffes and Thomas Burke, his assistant, to line up the exhibitors for the new plan. Under terms of the contract, according to reports, the Allied Theatres, Inc., is entitled to 15 per cent. of rental prices on films and 10 per cent. if the films are paid for with cash. The organization, through the contract, gets control of the house for two years and makes all its film contracts.

Steffes forecasts success of the plan despite the fact that some skeptical exhibitors declined to join the organization. Steffes believes that ultimately 200 exhibitors will join the chain of theatres. This is a sequel to the original booking combine plan.

Paramount School

(Continued from preceding page)

allowing students, who show marked proficiency, to appear as extras in current Paramount productions.

As the term draws to its end, the abilities of each student will be well understood by the school authorities and the students will be graded accordingly. To conclude the term a motion picture production will be made by the class as a whole. Physical training will be given throughout the term in dancing, gymnastics, fencing, swimming, riding and driving automobiles.

Every student in the class will have a chance to earn a Famous Players-Lasky Corporation contract, if in the opinion of the executive council sufficient merit is shown. These contracts will be for one year at a reasonable salary and will give options on the players' services for four additional years, with adequate advance in salary for each of the four years that the options may be exercised. In addition all pupils who complete the course of instruction to the satisfaction of the board of directors will receive a personal letter of endorsement from Mr. Lasky, together with selected film cuttings and still pictures which will serve as a recommendation for employment by other companies.

The fee for tuition will be $500 for the term. In addition, however, students must be prepared to pay their living expenses at the rate of $25 a week. Since the school term will be approximately 23 weeks, $575 will be necessary for living expenses, making a total requirement for each student of $1,075. The board of directors of the Paramount School, Inc., realize, however that some young men and women, possessing unusually fine qualifications, might be unable to meet these expenses. Limited financial circumstances, however, need not be considered as prohibiting admission. This information should be frankly given in filling out the questionnaire which will be forwarded to the applicants, because the Paramount School might find ways and means to overcome temporary difficulties.

G. B. Seitz to Direct Features; Resigns from Pathe

George B. Seitz has resigned from Pathe Pictures, where he built up one of the most successful serial organizations in the industr, to engage in the direction of feature pictures. Seitz will announce his decision on several offers of important producing companies following the completion of "Sunken Silver," his latest serial for Pathe in Florida.

Seitz's record for turning out consistently successful chapter plays gained him the attention of leading feature producers many times during the ten years in which he made the Pathe serial trade mark significant in this field.

Seitz brings to his work in features an understanding of audience values in portraying action, and a skill in story-telling on the screen that are the result of years of intensive production of nation-wide box-office successes.

BANDITS KILL DETROIT OWNER

J. J. Myers, proprietor and operator of the Fleur De Lys Theatre, situated in River Rouge, along the Detroit River, was shot and killed by bandits who attempted to rob him of the house receipts one night last week.

Strategist Stimulates Unity Among Film Men Abroad

(Continued from page 538)

lose its hold on the optimism of the European producer. He has become a convert to the belief that he ought to face the foreign competition in his own country before he tries to invade the foreign market.

An increase in good European pictures, as a result of concentration on the European market, may in the end be the best way of attaining high quality. There is but one password to the American market and that is "high quality." One hears a good deal now in European capitals of how the public here is getting tired of the American picture for this reason and that reason. This kind of talk is generally heard from the lips of European producers and distributors or their employes.

May Get Tired of American Films

Europe may eventually get tired of the American picture but at present there is no sign of it. American pictures are more than holding their own.

Let me cite a concrete example. Last week the population of Rome was startled by the sight of a blaze of huge American flags on all the billboards of the city. Beneath the flag were but two words "America" and "D. W. Griffith." At first blush one would not imagine that the story of the American struggle for independence could be of great interest to Romans. The posters naturally showed a good deal of war and fighting, and Italy, like the rest of Europe, is morbidly tired of war scenes. In spite of weather conditions which rarely occur in Rome except when they are least wanted, in spite of rain and miserable streets, in spite of powerful opposition, the picture "went over big." It grew from day to day and here and there it was applauded just as if the audience had been American.

TAYLOR JOINS WARNER BROTHERS

In preparation for the big advertising campaign planned in connection with their 1925-26 product, Warner Brothers have made an addition to their advertising department. Matt A. Taylor, formerly of First National Pictures, Inc., has joined Watt Parker's staff at Warner's and hereafter will be engaged in assisting in the preparation of trade and exhibitors' "ads."

GEORGE B. SEITZ

Kansas Law Kills Non-Theatricals

As a crowning issue to one of the most beneficial sessions of the Kansas Legislature to Kansas exhibitors, Governor Ben S. Paulen last week, with the closing of the Legislature, signed House Bill No. 306, which sounded the death knell to non-theatrical competition.

The law, which establishes strict provisions for the exhibition of motion picture films, prohibits make-shift exhibitions, such as are staged by schools and other non-theatrical enterprises, in that the expense of meeting the requirements of the law make it impractical for anything other than a theatre to exhibit pictures.

Same Evidence That Acquitted One Convicts Another in N. J.

By TOM WALLER

IF operating a theatre on Sunday in Elizabeth, N. J., is to be classified as a "disorderly house" then the deposition of trolley cars, barber shops, bootblack stands and the miscellaneous, etc., and etc., will probably be taken before very long.

This movement, Moving Picture World learns from a most authentic source, may be projected by a citizens' committee since, it is vouchsafed, public sentiment in Elizabeth is for Sunday "movies."

Just a few weeks ago this publication told of five Elizabeth exhibitors being indicted under a very antiquated law and under very surprising and sudden circumstances. William Stein, the first of these showmen to go to trial, was acquitted. It then seemed like easy sailing for the others in that many took it for granted that this verdict affirmed the law, in such respect, as decidedly obsolete. But the Judge was careful to make known quite emphatically that the statute will remain on the books until revised or erased by the legislature.

This week the state law makers adjourned for the term without leaving any record of any action referring to or touching upon the alleged peculiarities of this indigo law. The legislature does not convene again until next January and thus the theatrical, mercantile and industrial citizenry of New Jersey may be prosecuted for violation of any of its many rigid details pertaining to what may not be done on Sunday in the Mosquito State.

This week the second of the five exhibitors under indictment went to trial in the Union County Court. He is Raymond Connor of the Fox-Liberty. He was convicted and sentence is scheduled to be imposed upon him by Judge Stern on April 3.

The same evidence, the same charge and the same prosecution which resulted in the exoneration of Stein terminated for Connor in conviction. The only thing which differed in the trials of the two defendants, we are advised, were the panels of jurors.

Now things in Elizabeth have assumed another complexion. We are further advised that for several Sundays at least not a single Elizabeth motion picture theatre will be in operation. As long as there is a question at issue they promise to be persistent. They are for living up to the law as long as that is the attitude of the law but they want it carried out to the letter—not to have the quietude of their place disrupted by a whistling newsboy or gossiping barber next door.

Colvin W. Brown Joins F. B. O.; Assists Thomson and Schnitzer

COLVIN W. BROWN, for many years prominently identified with the motion picture industry, and for the last several years vice-president and manager of distribution of the Thomas H. Ince Corporation, has joined Film Booking Offices of America, Inc., as a member of the Executive Committee, and will assist in the work that is now being handled by Major H. C. S. Thomson, president of the company, and J. I. Schnitzer, vice-president, according to an official announcement by Major Thomson. Mr. Brown assumes his position this week. He will make his headquarters in the home office of the company.

Mr. Brown's connection with the Ince corporation and his association with the late Thomas H. Ince, together with his long previous experience in the motion picture business, have given him a broad background for the general administrative responsibilities which he will assume with F. B. O.

As manager of distribution for the Ince Corporation and Mr. Ince's New York representative he handled the multitude of important problems connected with the distribution of the wide variety of product produced by the Ince company and its subsidiaries, including the negotiation of distribution contracts and the general supervision of their execution.

COLVIN W. BROWN

Mr. Brown's experience before his affiliation with Thomas H. Ince dated back to the days of the old Mutual Film Corporation with which he entered the motion picture business in 1916 as a member of the publicity department after a long and severe training as a newspaper reporter and editor. He left the newspaper business to join the New York Evening Mail Syndicate as sales manager, and from that connection went with Mutual. He was advertising manager and later director of publicity and advertising of that company for several years, leaving to become affiliated with David P. Howells in the export field.

He was a member of the executive staff of the Associated Producers, Inc., of which Thomas H. Ince was chairman and principal producer up to the time of the discontinuance of that company's operations and the consummation of independent distribution contracts by the individual producers.

He transferred from Associated Producers to the Thomas H. Ince Corporation, becoming personal representative of that producer. He was later appointed general representative in the East and subsequently appointed manager of distribution and elected vice-president of the corporation.

Mr. Brown has just returned from Los Angeles where he conferred with Mrs. Ince and the other executors of the Ince estate, and, in addition to his duties with F. B. O. will generally supervise the Ince interests in New York during the period of liquidation.

In view of the fact that rumors have been circulating in the industry to the effect that both Major Thomson and Mr. Schnitzer are resigning, F. B. O. wishes to emphatically emphasize that these rumors are untrue and that Mr. Brown is an addition to the administrative staff and not a substitution.

"The tremendous growth of F. B. O. in the last three years, both at home and abroad, the increased activity in production and the fact that our program is assuming such enlarged proportions, both as to quality and quantity of output, makes it necessary for us to increase our executive staff, for man power is the greatest asset in the film trade," said Major Thomson. "In Colvin Brown we feel we have one of the keenest showmen in the industry, a man who has been in the motion picture business for years and knows every angle of it. We feel that Mr. Brown will make his energy and vast experience and ideas felt in F. B. O. His contact with the exhibitors and the public and his knowledge of box-office values will make him a great asset to the company."

M. P. T. O. A. DIRECTORS' SESSION

A meeting of the National Officers and Board of Directors of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America has been called for 11 A. M., Tuesday, April 7th, at national headquarters, 25 West 43rd Street, New York, to discuss the final convention arrangements and program.

$400,000 HOUSE FOR MALDEN

Advices from Malden, Mass., are that a new 3,000-seat vaudeville and picture theatre costing about $400,000 will be erected in that town shortly. It is said to represent the combined interests of Ramsdell Brothers, proprietors of the Orpheum, and Harris Eilenberg and Fred Green, owners of the Mystic.

Missouri Exhibitor Describes Climax When Last Reel Burns

THE strangest "picture" in the annals of the industry in Missouri or Kansas was presented by H. A. Jones, manager of the Sedalia Theatre, Sedalia, Mo., on the night of March 28. Jones, in addition to being a popular exhibitor, is president of the Kiwanis Club of Sedalia and active in other civic affairs of his city.

At the conclusion of the matinee performance the last reel of the feature picture burned. It was too late to get in touch by telephone with any Kansas City exchange. Sedalia is about 150 miles from Kansas City and no automobile could hope to travel fast enough to obtain film for the night's performance. What could any ordinary good showman have done?

Jones, with the music which accompanied the last reel, recited the happenings of the last reel in their regular order, putting equally as much sentiment and human interest into it as the reel could have done. When he had finished the audience roared and applauded its approval.

MONTREAL POSTER CENSORS CHARGED WITH DISCRIMINATING

The exhibitors of Montreal, Quebec, have found that the civic system of poster censorship is an added trouble for the operation of moving picture theatres in Montreal. The poster censor bureau was established only a few months ago but already complaints and protests have been placed with Jules Crepeau, director of public service, regarding poster matters.

The exhibitors charge that they are the subject of discrimination in that poster and window card advertising by other trades or business is not passed upon by the Montreal censor. They ask that the censor use his "Accepted" or "Rejected" stamp on all poster advertising used in Montreal, theatrical or otherwise.

GLENS FALLS THEATRE FIRE

The Rialto Theatre in Glens Falls, N. Y., was badly damaged in a $200,000 fire in that city on Sunday, March 22, which for a time threatened the entire business district. In addition to the Glens Falls department, firemen were also present from Hudson Falls, Fort Edward and South Glens Falls. Four persons were overcome, but none seriously.

ALBANY'S FILM ROW TO MOVE

A building costing $250,000 and of fireproof construction throughout is to be erected in Albany, N. Y., this summer to house film exchanges located there. The building will be erected in Broadway, the site having been purchased last week by the Elder Realty Company, with Arthur S. Abeles of New York representing the purchasers. A structure now occupying the site will be torn down at once for the new Film Building, which will have a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 125 feet. It is said that ten exchanges have already signified their intentions of locating in the building. At the present time there are thirteen exchanges in Albany, twelve of the number being grouped in one section, generally known to the trade as Film Row.

WESTERN PA. PLANS PROGRAM

Fred Herrington, secretary of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Western Pennsylvania, was in Washington, Pa., recently, making some preliminary arrangements for the convention to be held by the organization in that city in April. So far the following social events have been arranged: Tuesday afternoon, an automobile drive to Wheeling over the National Pike; this will be for the ladies and guests at the convention. Tuesday evening there will be a theatre party at the State Theatre, Keith vaudeville and motion pictures to provide the entertainment. This will be for delegates and guests. Wednesday afternoon the guests will be entertained at a card party at the Washington Country Club.

Incorporations

Ten companies incorporated in the motion picture business in New York State during the past week, this number being somewhat above the average of such companies receiving the necessary charters. All will maintain their principal office in the metropolis. The companies, with the names of the directors and the amount of capitalization, when stated in the papers filed, were: Mayfair Copyrights, Incorporated, $50,000, with Richard T. Lingley, John T. Williams, George F. Sampson, of New York City. Allforbest Corporation, $2,000, William Meltzer, Samuel Davis, New York; Benjamin Sidransky, Brooklyn, the same persons forming the Ganzlatow Corporation, $2,000. F. and J. Holding Company, Inc., $10,000, Frank and Bertha Silverman, Ruth Klunk, New York City. Woodrich Amusement Corporation, $5,000, Eugene Newman, Brooklyn; Albert Levine, Fannie Schwertiner, New York City. 981 Eighth Avenue, Inc., $10,000, Charles Segal, H. A. Shapiro, Nancy Lesser, New York. Edmund Goulding, Inc., with F. E. Holtzmann, R. H. Reed, New York; E. Goulding, Hollywood, Cal. Arksaben Theatre Enterprises, Inc., with A. Radeloff, L. Mehl, Brooklyn; E. M. Barnes, New York. Picture House Corporation, Susan E. Mecca, Walter McDuffy, Solomon Goodman, New York.

Six More Picture Theatres for Los Angeles and Environs

FRED MILLER, former owner and operator of the California, the Miller and other downtown houses, has just signed a long-term lease for a new 2,000-seat theatre to be erected immediately by the Hellman bank interests in Carthay centre in the west Welshire district of Los Angeles. The theatre will be known as the Carthway Center Circle Theatre because of its location and also because it is to be unique in that it is to be constructed in a complete circle.

Miller has just left for an extended tour of the East for the purpose of consulting with producers and also to secure talent for the staging of prologues and musical comedies, for it is the intention to make it a show spot for Southern California. While in the East, Miller expects to purchase the finest pipe organs on the market as well as other equipment.

In addition to the above-mentioned theatre, Miller has also let contracts for the erection of another building which will embrace a 2,000-seat theatre, seven stores and a score of offices at the corner of Figueroa and Santa Barbara Streets.

Charles Hubbard, a San Francisco capitalist, is building a new house at South Gate in the center of the city on Victoria Avenue. The structure is being built by the capitalist's son, L. R. Hubbard. When completed the house will occupy a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 150 feet. It will be directly opposite the new city hall and have a seating capacity of 1,400.

A general contract to construct the new Lyric Theatre in Monrovia for the "National Theatres, Inc." has just been awarded to J. P. Daniel, of Monrovia. The architects are Wilson, Merril and Wilson.

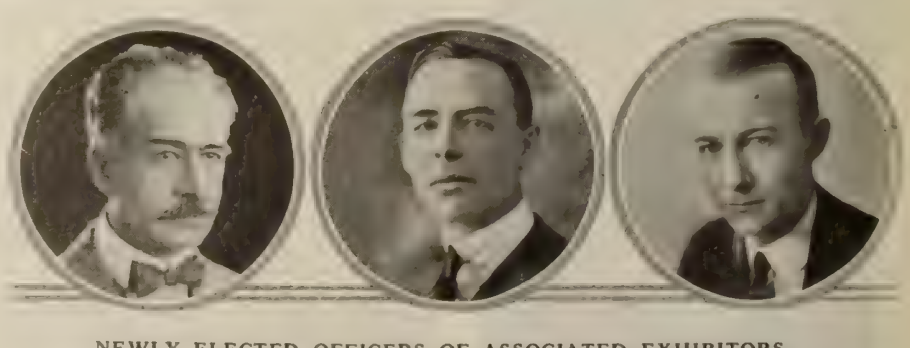
The theatre structure will have 100 feet frontage on White Oak Avenue and 160 feet on Ivy Avenue. It will include nine new storerooms. The theatre structure is to cost $175,000 and will be completed by July 1.

In Pasadena announcements will soon be made of a new half-million-dollar theatre that will go up on Colorado Avenue and Mission.

A new house will also be built at Lomita to cost $100,000.

NEW MASSACHUSETTS FIRM

The Waldorf Theatre Company of Lynn, Mass., of which Allen B. Newhall is president has been formed to operate the Waldorf Theatre in that city. The new house has a seating capacity of 1500. Mr. Newhall is a director of the Mark Strand Theatre Company of Lynn and has been associated with the firm for the past twenty years. Maurice A. Silver is treasurer of the Waldorf company.



NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS OF ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

Left to right: G. Bardet, Assistant Treasurer; Jay A. Gove, Secretary and Sales Manager; Arthur Hoerl, who will act in an editorial capacity to President Woody in story selection and continuity writing.

EDWARD SILTON

Here's New Angle in Casting; Company, Not Star, Represented

By SUMNER SMITH

HERE'S a different angle to this business of casting players for motion pictures. Where most casting agencies represent the players' interests in their dealings with Will Hays' charges, the firm of Rebecca & Silton, Inc., New York, espouses the cause of the producers. Quoting "Eddie" Silton, "We know that the producer represents a more permanent commodity than the player, and we know that we can supply him with high class players at salaries advantageous to himself in these days of costly pay checks." This policy makes Rebecca & Silton unique in its field.

The logic is self-evident: That no one can represent two business factions to the complete satisfaction of each, no more than a man can be on both banks of a river at the same time. And paddling a middle course becomes fatiguing, if not disastrous, in the long run. The water's bound to get rough some day.

When an enterprising fellow markets a new patent—something simple like a window fastener or jigging doll on a phonograph—the world rises to wonder, "Why, I could have done that." Eddie Silton's idea is simple in the extreme, yet he is the first to put it to practical purposes, because he has enterprise and imagination as well as sober common sense.

Representing producers rather than players in casting work. The producer is the permanent commodity. That's sense.

Think it over.

Where are the stars of yesteryear? Like Mira they shine brightly for a time, then pass out of sight. Terry Ramseye, George Kleine, Percy L. Waters and many others can reminisce until that point is clearly made. Our own Epes Winthrop Sargent is another historian who would agree.

Where is Florence Turner, "the Vitagraph girl?" And where are R. Henderson Bland and Mabel Trunnelle? But Vitagraph still prospers, and the officials of other producing companies now defunct may be found running the affairs of existing companies. The executives have a far longer term of service than the stars.

Rebecca & Silton has been consistently rejecting offers to represent outstanding star personalities. The firm doesn't stand sponsor for a single one. It does represent several big directors, however. Its main, avowed purpose in supplying valuable players for pictures is to save the producer money. Thus far it has succeeded in its purpose while itself prospering materially. "Eddie" Silton tells a few friends the sum total of the last year's business, and while it isn't for publication, it can be characterized with the superlative, "great."

Another reason for the existence of Rebecca & Silton also is in keeping with its desire to serve producers. It has established powerful financial connections and stands prepared to obtain loans for producers. This feature of its activities should commend it to independents who have the stories, the casts, the director and cameraman, but require funds before starting actual production.

Miss Rebecca and Mr. Silton are topnotchers in their work. Both have the happy faculty of making and keeping friends. Until about a year ago they were associated with Edward Small's casting office. According to "Eddie" Silton, "Miss Rebecca is a wonder and I'm lucky to be associated with her." Ben Rothwell is the firm's representative on the West Coast.

Silton started in the theatrical business ten years ago as a stage director for Morris Gest. He served in this capacity with the road show, "Experience." About five years ago, in Chicago, he began representing players, including such stars as George Beban. The association with Small followed, and then, about a year ago, the firm of Rebecca & Silton, at 723 Seventh avenue.

"Jimmy" Grainger Joins Fox as General Manager of Sales

JAMES R. GRAINGER has joined Fox Film Corporation in the capacity of general sales manager and is now actively in charge of the company's business in the United States and Canada with office headquarters in New York City.

To Mr. Grainger falls the enviable task of taking to the exhibitors the fine product the Fox Company has in the making for next season, headed by the already completed successes, "The Iron Horse," "As No Man Has Lived" and "The Fool."

The move in acquiring Mr. Grainger to head its sales force by the Fox organization is in line with its other big plans for the coming season, as evidenced by the announcements emanating, with convincing frequency, from the home office of the organization.

"If the boys in the field only knew what I know about Fox for the coming year," said Mr. Grainger, "they would understand how glad I am to be associated with a house that holds such a sales wallop in its mitt."

Mr. Grainger comes to the Fox Company from the Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corporation. He has been associated with the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan and Metro-Goldwyn for the last three years as sales manager. Previous to this he organized the Marshall Neilan Company and placed the product with First National, handled the sales on Charlie Chaplin's "The Kid" and exercised supervision over the sales of the Cosmopolitan product.

When F. J. Godsol assumed charge of the old Goldwyn Company Grainger was made general manager of sales and distribution. When Goldwyn merged with Metro he was elected to the board of directors and given the post he held until he resigned to join the Fox organization.

Grainger is acknowledged to be one of the leading sales executives in the country. His lively personality, his keen sense of fair play and his personal acquaintance with thousands of exhibitors the country over, make him an asset of exceedingly high value to any company producing motion pictures.

JAMES R. GRAINGER

Tornado Relief

The theatre owners of Chicago and vicinity went over the top when their contributions to the tornado fund exceeded the $10,000 asked of them by the Mayor's Committee. Jack Miller, business manager of the exhibitors' association, appointed the following exhibitors on the committee: Harry Burnhill, A. Saperstein, J. Goodman, Norman Field, Nathan Joseph, J. Miller, Jimmy Plodna, Ludwig Seigel, Jimmy Coston, A. Schaack, Robert Gumbiner and Sam Abrahams.

I. W. Rodgers, head of the Southern Illinois exhibitors, was on the job personally and offered every aid possible from his organization for the stricken people.

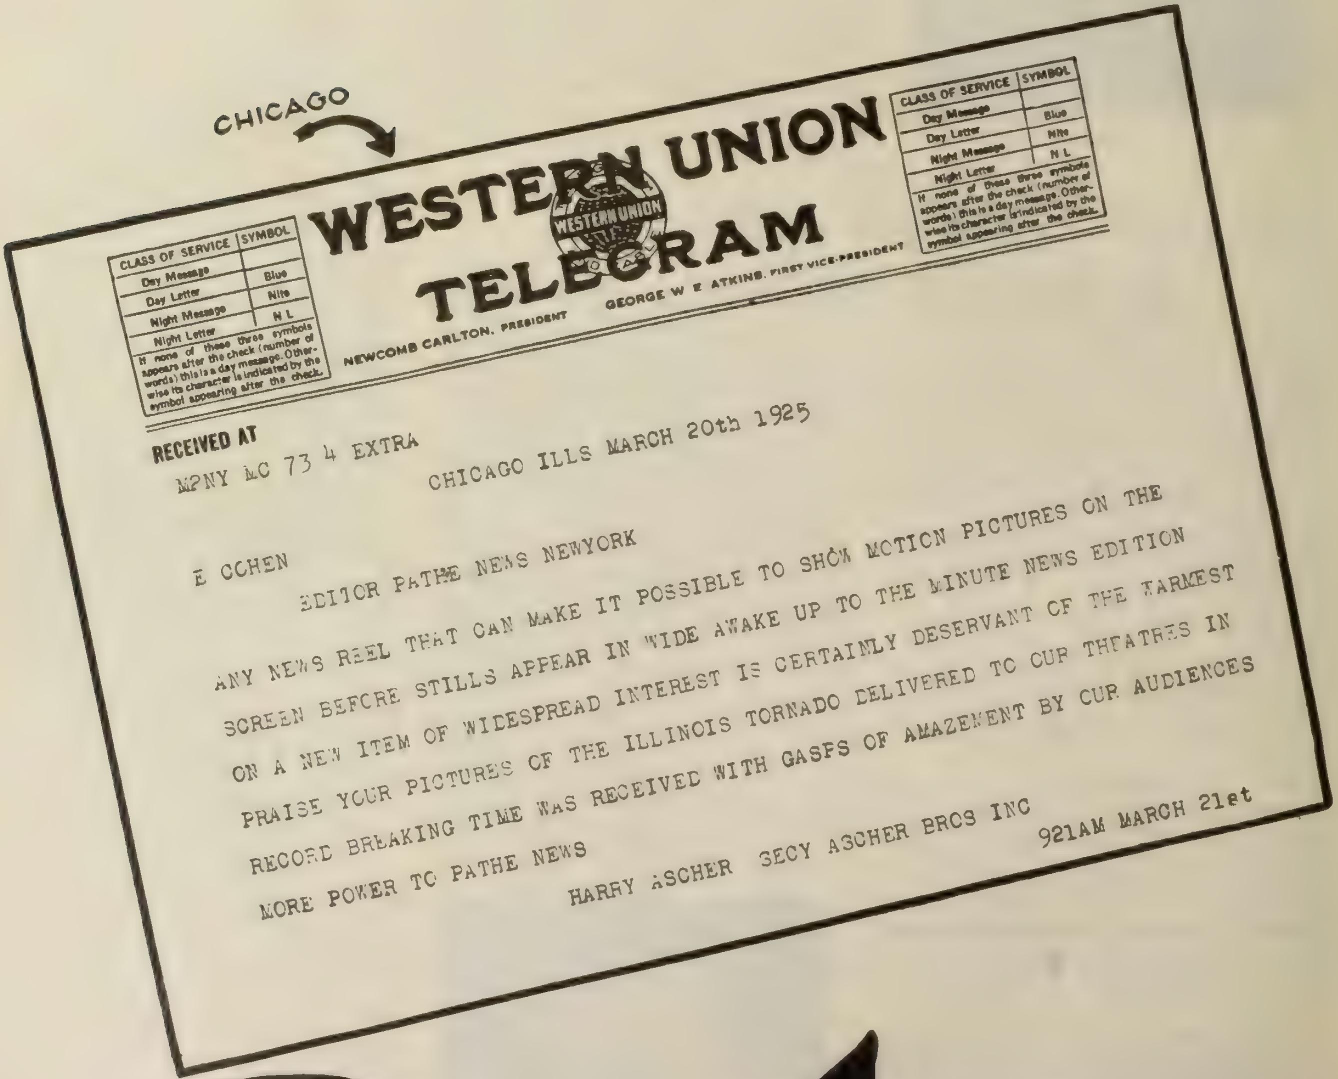
FRAUNER APPOINTED TREASURER

Saul Frauner, Vitagraph salesman, succeeds Matty Cohan as treasurer of the Motion Picture Salesmen, Inc. Cohan resigned.

Service, Not merely for whole country!

Read these proofs, and then consider the claims of "first" made by others.

CHICAGO



CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
Day Message
Day Letter	Blue
Night Message	Nite
Night Letter	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a day message. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT GEORGE W E ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
Day Message
Day Letter	Blue
Night Message	Nite
Night Letter	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a day message. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

RECEIVED AT

MPNY MC 73 4 EXTRA

CHICAGO ILLS MARCH 20th 1925

E COHEN

EDITOR PATHE NEWS NEWYORK

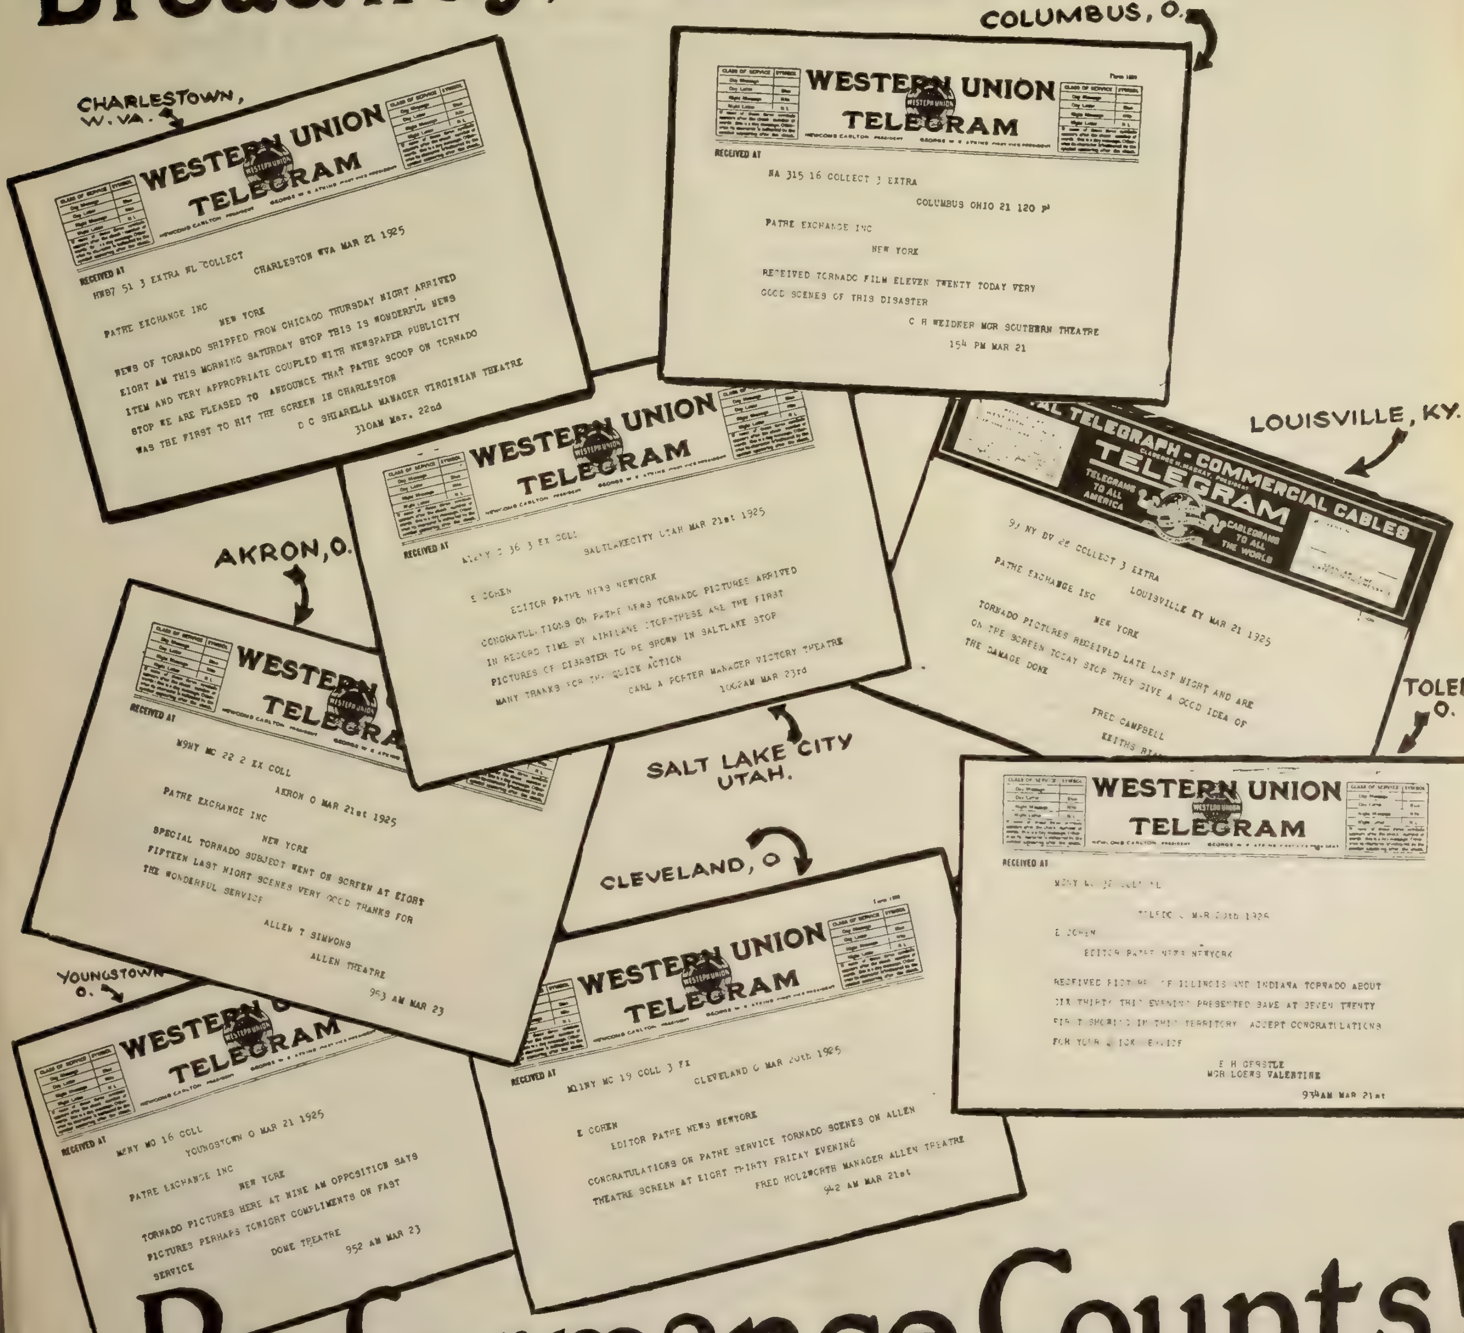
ANY NEWS REEL THAT CAN MAKE IT POSSIBLE TO SHOW MOTION PICTURES ON THE SCREEN BEFORE STILLS APPEAR IN WIDE AWAKE UP TO THE MINUTE NEWS EDITION ON A NEW ITEM OF WIDESPREAD INTEREST IS CERTAINLY DESERVANT OF THE WARMEST PRAISE YOUR PICTURES OF THE ILLINOIS TORNADO DELIVERED TO OUR THEATRES IN RECORD BREAKING TIME WAS RECEIVED WITH GASPS OF AMAZEMENT BY OUR AUDIENCES MORE POWER TO PATHE NEWS

HARRY ASCHER SECY ASCHER BROS INC

921AM MARCH 21st

Pathé

Broadway, but for the



CHARLESTOWN, W. VA.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM
NEWCOMB CARLTON PRESIDENT
RECEIVED AT
HWB7 51 3 EXTRA NL COLLECT
CHARLESTON WVA MAR 21 1925
PATHE EXCHANGE INC
NEW YORK
NEWS OF TORNADO SHIPPED FROM CHICAGO THURSDAY NIGHT ARRIVED EIGHT AM THIS MORNING SATURDAY STOP THIS IS WONDERFUL NEWS ITEM AND VERY APPROPRIATE COUPLED WITH NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY STOP WE ARE PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE THAT PATHE SCOOP ON TORNADO WAS THE FIRST TO HIT THE SCREEN IN CHARLESTON
D C SHIARELLA MANAGER VIRGINIAN THEATRE
310AM Mar. 22nd

COLUMBUS, O.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM
RECEIVED AT
NA 315 16 COLLECT 3 EXTRA
COLUMBUS OHIO 21 120 P
PATHE EXCHANGE INC
NEW YORK
RECEIVED TORNADO FILM ELEVEN TWENTY TODAY VERY GOOD SCENES OF THIS DISASTER
C H WEIDNER MGR SOUTHERN THEATRE
154 PM MAR 21

SALT LAKE CITY UTAH.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM
RECEIVED AT
[illegible] C 36 3 EX COLL
SALTLAKECITY UTAH MAR 21st 1925
E COHEN
EDITOR PATHE NEWS NEWYORK
CONGRATULATIONS ON PATHE NEWS TORNADO PICTURES ARRIVED IN RECORD TIME BY AIRPLANE STOP THESE ARE THE FIRST PICTURES OF DISASTER TO BE SHOWN IN SALTLAKE STOP MANY THANKS FOR THE QUICK ACTION
CARL A PORTER MANAGER VICTORY THEATRE
1002AM MAR 23rd

LOUISVILLE, KY.

AL TELEGRAPH - COMMERCIAL CABLES
CLARENCE H. MACKAY, PRESIDENT
TELEGRAM
TELEGRAMS TO ALL AMERICA
CABLEGRAMS TO ALL THE WORLD
9J NY DV 26 COLLECT 3 EXTRA
LOUISVILLE KY MAR 21 1925
PATHE EXCHANGE INC
NEW YORK
TORNADO PICTURES RECEIVED LATE LAST NIGHT AND ARE ON THE SCREEN TODAY STOP THEY GIVE A GOOD IDEA OF THE DAMAGE DONE
FRED CAMPBELL
KEITHS RIA

AKRON, O.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM
RECEIVED AT
M9NY MC 22 2 EX COLL
AKRON O MAR 21st 1925
PATHE EXCHANGE INC
NEW YORK
SPECIAL TORNADO SUBJECT WENT ON SCREEN AT EIGHT FIFTEEN LAST NIGHT SCENES VERY GOOD THANKS FOR THE WONDERFUL SERVICE
ALLEN T SIMMONS
ALLEN THEATRE
953 AM MAR 23

TOLEDO O.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM
NEWCOMB CARLTON PRESIDENT
RECEIVED AT
M9NY [illegible] COLL [illegible]
TOLEDO O MAR 20th 1925
E COHEN
EDITOR PATHE NEWS NEWYORK
RECEIVED PICTURES OF ILLINOIS AND INDIANA TORNADO ABOUT SIX THIRTY THIS EVENING PRESENTED SAME AT SEVEN TWENTY FIRST SHOWING IN THIS TERRITORY ACCEPT CONGRATULATIONS FOR YOUR QUICK SERVICE
E H GERSTLE
MGR LOEWS VALENTINE
934AM MAR 21st

CLEVELAND, O

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM
RECEIVED AT
M21NY MC 19 COLL 3 EX
CLEVELAND O MAR 20th 1925
E COHEN
EDITOR PATHE NEWS NEWYORK
CONGRATULATIONS ON PATHE SERVICE TORNADO SCENES ON ALLEN THEATRE SCREEN AT EIGHT THIRTY FRIDAY EVENING
FRED HOLZWORTH MANAGER ALLEN THEATRE
942 AM MAR 21st

YOUNGSTOWN O.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM
RECEIVED AT
M2NY MO 16 COLL
YOUNGSTOWN O MAR 21 1925
PATHE EXCHANGE INC
NEW YORK
TORNADO PICTURES HERE AT NINE AM OPPOSITION SAYS PICTURES PERHAPS TONIGHT COMPLIMENTS ON FAST SERVICE
DOME THEATRE
952 AM MAR 23

Performance Counts!

News

Objection and Reproof

Dear Mr. Welsh:—I protest against, and resent as wholly unfair, your editorial expression on "THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY," which appeared in Moving Picture World, March 28, 1925.

I am the owner of the original picture, a six-reel subject made—and very excellently made—by Thanhauser eight years ago. It is a successful subject, marketed through Universal, and yielding a revenue up to the completion of the marketing contract which expired a year ago. It then came back to me as one of the two purchasers of the Thanhauser assets. The price of these assets I may mention, was a very considerable sum, running into many thousands of dollars.

"THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY" has had two imitators on the screen; the first was "MY OWN UNITED STATES" a pretentious subject which was given a special showing in Washington, at which time Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, then the first lady of the land, described it as "the greatest motion picture she had ever seen." The second imitator is the Fox product, which you describe in your editorial. In my opinion, and, in the opinion of others who have seen all three pictures, the original production is the best. The fact that it was made eight years ago has not affected its entertainment value, nor its faithful adherence to the original story by Edward Everett Hale.

I made no move toward selling this picture to the Fox Company at any time, but was approached by their representative after their General Manager had suggested that I withdraw my original picture from circulation. I declined to do this for the reason that the picture still had exhibition value and because negotiations were in progress for its sale in the non-theatrical field, and I regarded the incident as closed. Subsequently, a representative of the Fox Company, on his own initiative, discussed the possible purchase of the picture over the luncheon table, and I set a price. I was advised later that there would be no purchase because two negatives of "MY OWN UNITED STATES" were owned separately by the American Legion and by Mr. Jawitz, and that the Fox Company did not desire to purchase all three negatives. The general counsel of the Fox Company cordially thanked me for my courtesy and helpfulness in the entire transaction and the whole matter, at all times, was friendly and without any suggestion of a hold-up or of "blackmail" (I quote this word from your editorial.)

It seems to me that if a man, or a company, produced a picture, and another man or company subsequently desire to make the same subject, that the pioneer has rights which should properly be respected. This is particularly true when a second or third company is fully aware of the existence of the original subject, and in the motion picture business, or in any other business, the rights of an original certainly have a prior claim if the subject is legitimate, if it is a real feature, and if it is a well-made product.

In your position as editor, you are capable of great good and of great harm. In characterizing those interested in the original "MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY" as "blackmailers" and "counterfeiters" you are definitely harmful.

From what I know of you and your magazine, I feel sure that you will be glad to correct the effect of the publication of your mainfestly careless, ill-advised and unfair editorial utterance.

Yours very truly,
W. E. SHALLENBERGER,
President,
Arrow Pictures Corporation.

[Doc, you are perfectly right in r'aring up on your sturdy legs and slamming me hard! So is anyone else who may have inferred from my editorial that I was applying the harsh words to a gentleman of the calibre of W. E. Shallenberger. It is no defense to say that I wrote in too general terms and should have been more specific. It is merely stating the fact. You have a legitimate property right in your negative. My ire is aroused by the lone wolf individuals who pop up all over the country in the wake of a big new success with single prints, duped negatives, re-hashed conglomerations of all sorts, and stock paper to badger the man whose production definitely registers the advancement the industry has made.—R. E. W.]

Illinois Showmen Aid Tornado Victims with Funds

The East St. Louis, Ill., theatreowners and their employees co-operated in a big minstrel show given at the Avenue Theatre on the night of March 30 for the benefit of the Southern Illinois storm sufferers. An admission fee of $1 per person was charged. Everyone participating, including the ticket takers, ushers, stage hands, operators, etc., donated their services. Several of the St. Louis theatres also conducted storm benefit shows, while exhibitors and exchange managers and employees were among the contributors to the Red Cross and other funds raised for the victims of the tornado.

John Marlowe, of Herrin, Ill., is very proud of the showing made by that community on behalf of the storm sufferers. A community of about 20,000 inhabitants, many of whom have suffered from unemployment in recent months because coal mines were shut down, Herrin raised almost $100,000 in cash (about half the sum contributed by Greater St. Louis with its million residents), while thousands of men and women from Herrin voluntarily went into the stricken district and toiled from morning to night assisting in rescuing dead and injured and repairing the damage done by the storm.

The ministers and reformers of Kirkwood, Mo., have created a miniature storm because the local motion picture theatre arranged a benefit show for the Southern Illinois storm sufferers to be given on Sunday, March 29. Dan H. Mullen, one of the owners of the theatre, said: "All some of the people in Kirkwood want to do is sleep."

T. O. C. C. Holds Its Annual Election

The Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce, New York, at its meeting this week elected officers for the ensuing year. Practically all of the leading executives, with the exception of the first vice-presidency, were re-elected. They are: Charles O'Reilly, chairman; Sol Raives, first vice-president; Joe Hame, second vice-president; Samuel Moross, secretary; Samuel Schwartz, treasurer; Al Friedlander, sergeant-at-arms.

The new board of directors is headed by Sydney S. Cohen and includes: A H. Eisenstadt, Hy Gainsboro, Ben Noble, William A. Landeau, John Manheimer, Charles Moses, Lee A. Ochs, Hyman Rachmil, Rudolph Sanders, Benjamin Sherman, William Small and Charles Steiner.

Sydney S. Cohen of the M. P. T. O. A. addressed the meeting. He praised the independents and recommended the establishment of a Department of Conciliation and Adjustment to function as a medium to keep harmony among independent producers and distributors and theatre owners.

Theatres in Stricken Area Effecting Gradual Recovery

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS, used to calamities and disasters, has again demonstrated its remarkable recuperative powers, and latest reports from the district, swept by the fearful tornado of March 18, are that the damaged zone is fast returning to normalcy.

During the past week the theatres at West Frankforst, Hurst, Carbondale, Royalton, Benton, and other towns in the district in the path of or adjacent to the storm, resumed their regular programs and have been enjoying fair business.

Latest available reports from the storm district indicate that the Dunn Theatre, Annapolis, Mo.; Liberty Theatre, Murphysboro, Ill.; Gem Theatre, De Soto, Ill.; Little Egypt Theatre, Gorham, Ill., and the house at Bush, Ill., were destroyed or badly damaged.

Reports from Indiana indicate that the Stratton Theatre at Griffin, Ind., and the Noble Theatre, Princeton, Ind., were damaged, but the extent could not be ascertained definitely. One report out of Princeton was that every home and business house in that community had been destroyed or badly damaged. It was also reported in St. Louis film circles that Stratton, owner of the Stratton Theatre, Griffin, Ind., and his wife were injured while their fourteen-year-old child was killed. Griffin was not only hit by the tornado but later was cut off from the outside world by a flood. This double disaster has made it most difficult to obtain correct data on storm damage and deaths and injuries sustained in that community.

Aside from H. Boulton, of Boulton & Wallace, owners of the Little Egypt Theatre, Gorham, Ill., and Stratton, no other motion picture theatre men were injured by the storm so far as could be learned.

There is every possibility of a mistake in identity because of the confusion due to the terrible havoc wrought by the storm. In the past few days several instances have come to light where parents buried children they thought were their own only to later learn that their offspring had escaped and been moved to some other community for medical attention.

W. R. Clarke has advised St. Louis that his two houses in Hurst, Ill., escaped damage, and the Hurst is again operating. It was closed a few days after the storm.

From the standpoint of the exhibitors of the storm zone and adjoining community, the biggest handicap that has resulted from the storm is the fear of storms instilled into the hearts of the residents. For instance, on Friday night, March 27, a thunderstorm came up accompanied by minor winds. Exhibitors from many Southern Illinois towns reported many patrons left their theatres while others remained at home.

No Affiliation

In a wire this week from the West Coast, Joseph M. Schenck said: "There is absolutely no truth in the unfounded rumor of affiliations with the Producers Distributing Corporation, and I wish that it would be made as strong as possible in the trade and daily press. Moreover, I cannot make it too strong at this time that there will be absolutely no affiliations with any organization or organizations whatsoever. I want the industry to know that we stand alone."

N. Y. Mark Strand Observes 11th Year Week of April 12

The first million-dollar motion picture theatre in the world and the originator of the present day programs with symphony orchestra, ballet and concert artists, the Mark Strand at Broadway & Forty-Seventh street will observe its eleventh anniversary the week of April 12, it was announced today.

The eleventh anniversary will also be an anniversary for Joseph Plunkett, the managing director. It will be his sixth year as the chief of the organization, numbering more than 180 persons. It will be Carl Edouarde's eleventh year as the musical conductor and originator of the scoring of feature photoplays to music.

Incidentally, Moe Mark, president and general manager of the Mitchel H. Mark Realty Corporation, and his deceased brother, Mitchel H. Mark, opened what is claimed to be the first motion picture theatre in the world at Ellicott Square, Buffalo, twenty-four years ago.

KANSAS MEET DATES CHANGED

The annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Kansas and Western Missouri which was scheduled to be held on May 4 and 5 will take place in Kansas City on April 27 and 28, R. R. Biechele, the president of the organization, announces.

Independence

(Continued from page 539)

will find that they are not offered a collection of mere titles, or 'maybe' pictures, but instead—known values. Stars whom they know, stories they know, themes of readily recognized box-office value. Being set so soundly far in advance is naturally an advance to F. B. O. as a producing and selling organization, but it is of even greater interest to independent exhibitors who will be able to weigh product of known standard in the balance against their booking time. And do it without any fear of indirectly aiding theater competition or any feeling that they are hastening the day of monopoly—with all the evils that monopoly means in any industry."

New England Showman Signs For Eighteen from Columbia

EDWARD REED, of the Strand Theatre, Providence, R. I., has signed Joe Brandt and Columbia Pictures Corporation for the eighteen pictures which will be produced this year—six Columbians, six Waldorfs and six Perfections. Back of the contract lies an interesting story.

All last season Joe Brandt shouted from the housetops that there was no need for exhibitors to book themselves up to the eyes on the productions of the big producing companies in order to get enough satisfactory feature pictures. He stated that if the Independent exhibitor would only keep some open dates to play the good independent productions, he would find his box-office talking pleasant words to him in the form of big receipts from good pictures bought at a live-and-let-live price.

Independent exhibitors here and there listened to him and acted accordingly. Reed, one of the biggest independent exhibitors in the New England states, whose interests are spread all over the territory, thought that he would try this plan and, accordingly, he booked among other independent productions the series of eight Columbia Pictures. He played the pictures as they were released and then watched the results.

Recently, when Messrs. McConville and Montague, of the Independent Film Exchange of Boston and New Haven, went in to see this exhibitor, they soon came out with the contract. Mr. Reed has for ten years played only the pictures made by certain large producer-distributor interests, and he booked this year's Columbia Pictures because of what independent pictures had done for him.

Independents to Hold Own Convention in Milwaukee in May

The first national convention of Independents will be held in Milwaukee on May 10-11-12 under the auspices of the Independent Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association, that organization announces.

Invitations are now being sent by the association to 900 independent producers, distributors and exchangemen throughout the United States and Canada. The plan for such a general session culminated at the meeting this week in New York city of the I. M. P. P. D. A. All matters relating to the state right field will be discussed at this session, it is said.

Those attending this gathering will also be able to witness the M. P. T. O. A. convention which is scheduled to be held in the same city on May 11-12-13.

H. M. WARNER'S NEW AID

Harry M. Warner announced this week that Sam E. Morris, who for a long time has been sales manager for the company, would leave the distribution end of the business and hereafter would devote his time as assistant to Mr. Warner in the Warners' theatre program now developing fast. Harry M. Warner stated that Abe Warner, who has been looking after the company's inside business, would also take over the distribution of the firm's product. He further states that the company had decided not to move their present New York office at the present time.

DINNER TO POLA NEGRI

Pola Negri, who sailed Saturday, March 21, on the Leviathan, was guest of honor Friday evening at a festive bon voyage dinner, given by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Pola's party took the form of a dinner dance. Present were a large number of folks pre-eminent in the stage and motion picture ranks, in high society circles, and in the literary and artistic worlds.

At the close of the dinner Adolph Zukor, who returned from Europe just in time to attend, and Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in charge of production, made short talks and Miss Negri made a gracious response.

CLEARY LEAVES UNITED ARTISTS

Maurice C. Cleary, treasurer of the United Artists Corporation, has tendered his resignation to the Board of Directors to take effect on April 8, when the annual meeting of the directorate will be held.

Mr. Cleary came to United Artists Corporation from the Merrill Lynch Company, bankers of Wall Street, three years ago as the personal representative and business manager for Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks., Fifteen months ago he was named treasurer of the United Artists Corporation and placed upon the Board of Directors, which positions he has held since. But thirty years of age, Mr. Cleary is one of the youngest men in the industry to have held so responsible a position.

RABBI RAPS CENSORSHIP

"Censorship only stultifies man in the exercise of his moral life," declared Rabbi Samuel Thurman of the United Hebrew Temple, St. Louis, Mo., in a sermon on "Sense or Censorship" given on March 27.

Referring to the recently widely voiced demand for censorship, particularly of New York plays, Rabbi Thurman admitted that there might be some need for restraint, but asserted emphatically that censorship was not the proper instrument for exercising such reform. Reason should replace it he said.

Selling Your Seats

How one man makes a real profit on Chronicles of America.

Kadow has a slogan for family trade.

H. M. Addison books Chautauqua lecturers.

Machine guns shoot up receipts on Love and Glory.

House employees talked up 40 Winks.

How Hyman surrounded Sally.

Live sailors help roof banner on The Sea Hawk.

Earlier opening helps sell house.

Relayed the laughter on Miss Bluebeard.

L. W. Carroll helps college boys who help him.

Cross word puzzles sell co-operative pages to merchants.

Keeping Charley's Aunt in Los Angeles.

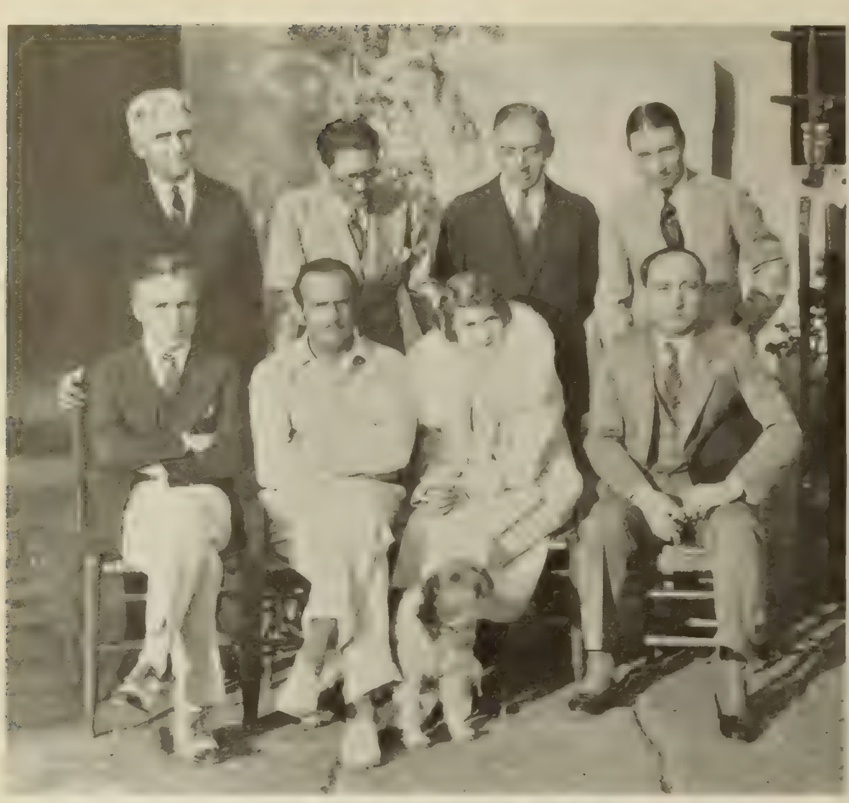
Capsule herald is revived.

Making three sheets out of ones.

Perambulating the Golden Bed.

Good advertising examples on The Roughneck, He, Butterfly, Circe, East of Suez, The Only Woman and Smouldering Fires.

(Here's a wealth of advertising suggestions in the Selling the Pictures to the Public department.)



THE UNITED ARTISTS' GROUP
Left to right (seated), Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Joseph M. Schenck. (Standing) Dennis F. O'Brien, Robert Fairbanks, Hiram Abrams and Syd Chaplin. This picture was taken during the recent conference in Hollywood.

JOE WEIL LOSES FATHER

Joe Weil, exploiteer for the Big "U" Exchange and one of the best known publicity men in the industry, lost his father, Martin Weil, recently. The elder Weil was a retired New York business man and was 72 years old. He had been an invalid for many months. There was an unusually strong bond of affection between Joe and his father, so much so that the young man has been prostrated ever since his loss.

FAMOUS PLAYERS DECLARES DIVIDEND

At a meeting held recently the Board of Directors of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.00 per share on the preferred stock, payable May 1st, 1925, to stockholders of record at the close of business on April 15th, 1925. The books will not close.

Negatives Wanted

The Roosevelt Memorial Association seeks the co-operation of all producers, distributors, independent camera men and owners of old vaults in its effort to collect all film, negative and positive, showing the late President Roosevelt and important events connected with his home life, travels, public service and presidential administration. Address all communications, which should contain a description of the matter and the price, to the Motion Picture Liberty, Roosevelt House, 28 East 20th Street, N Y. C.

DECISION ON RE-TITLING

The Federal Trade Commission has just ruled that the release of films under new titles without clearly showing that they are re-issues and giving them the titles under which originally distributed, not only on the film but in all advertising, is prohibited.

This decision was found by the Government in favor of Douglas Fairbanks, that the old film "D'Artagnon" had been re-titled "The Three Musketeers," which was the title of a later picture made by Fairbanks.

M. P. T. O. OF MO. CONVENTION

The second annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois was held at the Elks Club, St. Louis, Mo., on Tuesday, March 31, and about 100 out-of-town exhibitors were among those in attendance. A feature of the gathering was a banquet served in the Elks Club rathskeller at noon which was addressed by prominent city officials and leading exhibitors and exchange managers.

LAWTON, OKLA., FACES CLOSING

A popular vote which may close motion picture shows at Lawton, Okla., will be taken at Lawton in the near future, as a petition has been circulated, asking the city authorities to call the election. It is stated that many of the signers to the petition are colored people who are not admitted to the theatres in Lawton.

RIFT IN OKLAHOMA POLITICS

The board of directors of the M. P. T. O. of Oklahoma at its last meeting declared that there no longer existed a Joint Board of Arbitration in Oklahoma between the M. P. T. O. and Film Board of Trade, alleging that the Film Board of Trade had failed to pay its share of expenses incurred.

FAVOR TAX FREE MUSIC CUES

The Motion Picture Exhibitors League of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois has gone on record as favoring pictures that are supplemented with tax free music scores, and a letter is being sent to all producers informing them that the exhibitors will give preference to pictures that have tax free music cue sheets.

LOEW'S TORONTO STARTS HIGH

The prosperity of the theatrical situation in Toronto, Ontario, is reflected in a statement by Toronto Loew's Theatres, Ltd., regarding the financial position of the company locally. Incidentally, the announcement was made on March 26 when both the common and preferred shares of the Toronto Loew company made their first appearance on the curb of the Toronto Stock Exchange, preferred being quoted 90 bid at close and the common 31½ bid.

TOM McKEAN MARRIES

Tom McKean, manager of the St. Louis office for F. B. O., has joined the ranks of the benedicts. On March 2 he claimed Miss Georgia Brehaut of Hannibal, Mo., for his bride. The ceremony was performed at the Union Avenue Christian Church, St. Louis, in the presence of the families of the bride and groom. Following the marriage the couple left for a short trip. Miss Brehaut is a Boston girl.

GRAND, ONTARIO, TO F. P.-L.

Following up its purchase of the Grand Theatre at London, Ontario, Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Ltd., Toronto, has completed arrangements for the securing of the control of the Grand Theatre at Kingston, Ontario, this having also been included in the former chain of houses in Ontario operated by the defunct Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., Montreal.

SCHULBERG IN LARGER QUARTERS

J. G. Bachman, vice-president and general manager of distribution for B. P. Schulberg Productions, announced this week that owing to a greatly increased schedule for next year his organization's New York office will move on May 1 from 1650 Broadway to larger quarters in the new building just completed at 115 West 45th street. In their new quarters Schulberg Productions will occupy the entire ninth floor.

$6,000,000 HOUSE FOR PHILA.

Philadelphia is slated for a $6,000,000, 2,000-seat theatre, according to reports which credit a real estate concern of that city with negotiating the finances. It is said that such theatre property will be leased to the Stanley interests and A. L. Erlanger. The location is at the northwest corner of Broad and Locust streets.

FOX IS GRANDFATHER

William Fox, president of the Fox Film Corporation, presents William Fox Tauszig! He is the bouncing baby son of Mrs. Douglas N. Tauszig, Fox's eldest daughter, and the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. William Fox. The baby was born on Sunday, March 15, while Fox was at the West Coast studios of the Fox Film Corporation.

State Rights Sales

Rayart Pictures Corporation this week announce the sale of territorial rights on its new serial, "Secret Service Sanders," to Exclusive Film Company of Detroit, for the territory of Michigan; and to Anthony Luchese for the territory of Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey and Delaware; Rayart also announces the sale of the "Batling Brewster" serial by Richmount Pictures for the territory of Porto Rico. The Jack Perrin series have been sold to First Graphic Pictures of Buffalo.

Louis Weiss, managing director of Artclass Pictures, announces the sale of the Michigan territory on both series of five reel action-stunt features, starring respectively, Buffalo Bill, Jr., and Buddy Roosevelt, to W. D. Ward, 159 Elizabeth Street, East, Detroit, Michigan.

EXHIBITORS' NEWS AND VIEWS

EDITED BY SUMNER SMITH

Schine Regulates Smoke Habit By Borrowing His Cigarettes

Meyer Schine of Gloversville, N. Y., has taken to cigarettes. Not that he has become an addict by any means. He regulates his smoking by the number of cigarettes offered him. Mr. Schine modestly admits that he prefers not to smoke and curbs that desire by not buying them by the package. There is an interesting story in the fact that Mr. Schine has once more taken up smoking. There has been an interval of many years since his indulgence in his first—and last—three cigars. As Mr. Schine tells the story, he was on a train between Jamestown and Buffalo and concluded that he had reached the age of manhood and that cigars would naturally be coupled with that fact. Feeling a bit flushed in those days, he bought three for a dime, entered the smoking car, tilted back the seat in front of him and puffed away for dear life. First one and then another, but by the time he had reached the third, cold beads of perspiration moistened his forehead and that is the end of the story as Mr. Schine tells it. So if you happen to meet him it will be perfectly permissible these days to offer him a cigarette, but not a cigar.

L. J. Shearer, head of the Cohoes Amusement Company, is an enthusiastic member of the Elks Lodge in that city. So what would be more natural than for Mr. Shearer to have one of the sail fish he recently hooked off the coast of Miami, mounted and presented to the lodge? Mr. Shearer is back home and the members of the Elks in Cohoes are looking forward to seeing a sample of his fishing ability.

Herman Vineberg of the Mark Strand, Albany, returned last week from a trip to New York and disclosed the fact that he didn't see even so much as a single picture show. The fact that he sees shows in Albany six days a week may have had a little something to do with it.

LILLIAN GISH AS "ROMOLA"

Star of the Inspiration-Henry King production, made in Rome, now being released by Metro-Goldwyn, following a protracted run at the George M. Cohan Theatre, New York City

Billy Smalley of Cooperstown, with fourteen houses, isn't worrying much about daylight saving this summer. With the exception of three places, his houses are located in villages in which old time will continue to prevail, and in the three others he is allowed to run on Sunday.

Mrs. A. E. Milligan of Schuylerville is a hustler. With her husband, who is the busy president of the Board of Education, she not only runs the theatre but is on the look out to help the other fellow along. For instance, last week she donated the house and a couple of shows to the French church in Schuylerville, and is going a bit further with a lawn party this summer, at which she hopes to have Governor Alfred E. Smith among those present.

Here's to Pop Linton, with all the success in the world, for his new theatre opened last week in Utica. Pop deserted the movies for a time to engage in the automobile business but has now returned with a house all his own and one of the nicest in Utica. Many of his fellow exhibitors were on hand the other night and all in all it was a great occasion for the veteran.

M. E. Silberstein of the Community Theatre, Catskill, showed up along Film Row the other day with a silk shirt that made Bob Wagner of the Gateway in Little Falls a bit envious. It was a beautiful shirt of a blue mixture, and when somebody commented upon it, Mr. Silberstein, with a smile, admitted that it was a Christmas gift.

Dave Seymour of Saranac Lake traveled 400 miles last week to visit Albany, and is once more back in the mountains. When asked whether or not other interests would erect a new house in his town this summer, he replied that they were building theatres up there every Thursday night and that he wasn't in the least bit frightened.

If there are any tricks in the contracts this year, Carolyn Goodman, secretary of the Albany Zone Committee, intends to notify all exhibitors in this part of the state. It's to become a part of her work and she will be assisted by Uly S. Hill and Louis Buettner.

Charles Moyer of Herkimer is one of the exhibitors who believe in calling a spade a spade. He is still running vaudeville and amateur nights with much success along with his pictures, but when one refers to the coming of daylight saving, Mr. Moyer is inclined to grumble a bit.

MARCELINE DAY

One of the galaxy of beautiful stars in Universal's growing list

Well, there will be one exhibitor in Albany who will be glad when the Lenten season is over. He is C. L. Gardner of the Pine Hills Theatre, who remarked the other day that there were at present fifty persons who were regular patrons and whom he hadn't seen since Lent started. Mr. Gardner's house is rather close by to the Vincentian Institute.

Louis Buettner of Cohoes, who lost one of his theatres in Mechanicville by fire, has decided to rebuild. Now that the decision has been made, watch out for the sound of the hammers and saws, for Mr. Buettner will hustle the work along in the hopes of having the new theatre ready for opening in the fall.

L. L. Connors of the Star in Salem has a couple of dogs that visit his house every night. One of the canines belongs to William McQueen and the other to Thomas Lord.

(Continued on next page)

Now Booking
Florence Vidor
in
"The GIRL of GOLD"
With Malcolm MacGregor, Claire Du Brey, Alan Roscoe, Bessie Eyton and Charles French
Directed by . . . . : . . . John Ince
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

MARY STEALS A RIDE ON JACK PICKFORD'S CAR

Miss Pickford just climbed on the running board while Mother Pickford beamed her approval of the conduct of the famous little United Artists' star from the rear seat

Buffalo, N. Y.

Henry Pullman, 86 years old, pioneer circusman and who for the entire career of the Buffalo Mark-Strand acted as ticket taker there, serving through the regimes of the late Harold Edel, Earl L. Crabb, E. O. Weinberg and Eugene A. Pfeil, died in the Buffalo City Hospital the other day. Mr. Pullman traveled up and down the old Erie Canal with a circus which operated before the Civil War. At one time he employed in one of his shows F. F. Proctor, later the partner of Keith & Proctor, vaudeville magnates. Mr. Pullman was born in Herkimer, N. Y., in 1839. After a long circus career he became ticket taker at the old Strand in 1913 and remained there ten years until the house was torn down. He also served for a time at the old Criterion when that house was operated for a time by the Mark-Strand interests.

The experiment of bringing noted men to Binghamton to speak in connection with a regular theatrical program is to be tried out by the Binghamton Theatre Company. The idea was conceived by Manager H. M. Addison. The speakers soon to appear are Josephus Daniels, Thomas Mott Osborne, Herman "Dusty" Miller, Edmund Vance Cook, Henry Collins Spillman and others. The speaker will merely be an added attraction.

John J. Burnes, manager of the B. F. Keith Theatre and Building in Syracuse, will resign from the Keith service within a short time, according to reports. Mr. Burnes, who has been at the Keith for more than two years, will enter business, it is said.

Mrs. Wallace Reid appeared in person the past week at the Lumberg Theatre in Niagara Falls in connection with the showing of "Broken Laws" by Manager Allan S. Moritz.

Ben Kaiser, French horn virtuoso, who has played in Shea's Hippodrome orchestra as well as every other theatre ensemble in Buffalo, and who resides in East Aurora, is reported to be the manager of the new Aurora Theatre which will open about May 1 in Roycroft town.

Double feature programs seem to be the vogue in downtown houses in Buffalo at present. The Olympic started the style. Recently the Academy has been trying it and now it is reported the Palace is to switch to two features.

D. B. Conklin, manager of the Laurel Theatre, Binghamton, reported to the police that the house had been broken into and signs were shown that those responsible had stayed for some time. Nothing of value was taken, according to Mr. Conklin, although the theatre was thoroughly ransacked.

Canada

Jack MacKay of MacKay Brothers, Hamilton, Ontario, has announced that his firm is building an attractive suburban picture theatre on Main street east, Hamilton, at a cost of $45,000. The theatre will be owned and operated by the MacKay brothers and it will be ready for business in June.

R. J. Farbe has remodeled a large corner building at Truro, N. S., into a neighborhood picture theatre with a capacity of 600 persons, and the new house is already doing good business. Lewis Werner, formerly with the Fox Film Corporation and the Canadian Educational at St. John, N. B., has been appointed manager. A name has not yet been selected for the theatre and a cash prize has been offered for the best suggestion.

The Besler Brothers, Rudolph, Henry and John, have concluded a deal for the purchase of the Princess Theatre at Yorkton, Sask., from Harry Bronfman, the price being $30,000. The Beslers opened up in the picture business in Yorkton about nine years ago, since which time they have rented either one or the other of the two local theatres. They now own the Princess outright.

Albany, N. Y.

(Continued from preceding page)

The dogs show up regularly night after night and appear to take as much pleasure in the pictures and the music as the men and women.

Harry Lazarus, who is building a 1,700-seat house in Kingston and also runs the Auditorium there, remarked the other day that he wished he had ten houses like the Auditorium. It may be that he will continue to run both houses after the new one has been opened, and will run some road shows at the new theatre.

Sam Wood, who runs the Strand in Canajoharie, tells a pretty good one on himself. It appears that Mr. Wood dropped over to one of the neighboring towns the other night to visit a fellow exhibitor who asked him how business was. Mr. Wood summed up matters by saying that in times past he used to pick up more money on the floor after the shows were over than he now takes in at his ticket window.

Probably Mrs. Elizabeth Walton, who runs the Happy Hour in Lake Placid, a 623-seat house, charging 15 and 25 cents admission, has a bigger free list than any picture theatre in all New York State. Back in the days when the "flu" was claiming people right and left, Mrs. Walton, big hearted, placed many children who had lost one or both of their parents on the free list. Not having the heart to take them off, they are still coming and will probably continue to do so. Mrs. Walton's house enjoys its biggest season from July 15 until Labor Day, on account of the summer visitors.

Fast work on the part of the management of the Rialto in Glens Falls, which was badly damaged by fire last week, transferred the regular Rialto program to the Park Theatre a day after the blaze. The theatre will be repaired and again running within three months. Harry Kuh, assistant manager of the Rialto, had a narrow escape during the fire while leading a detail of firemen to the balcony, when the roof fell in. Mr. Kuh jumped but sustained injuries about the hips and was taken to the Glens Falls hospital, where it was found that he was not seriously hurt.

Knowing the desire of womankind to see the latest creations in fashion, William Smalley of Cooperstown is running fashion shows over his circuit of fourteen houses these days, boosting the admission by 5 cents to take care of the extra expense. Mr. Smalley engages high school girls as models and then generally tenders them a dinner, with the result that everyone is satisfied.

E. J. Wolfe, who runs the Bijou in Lowville, is planning to spend a chunk of money in that village this summer, enlarging and remodeling the theatre. Work will get under way at once. The house is to be widened by ten feet and lengthened by forty. A stage will be erected and other improvements will be made. The exterior is to be finished in stucco. The theatre was built by Mr. Wolfe in 1914.

Marie McGraw, daughter of Mrs. McGraw, who runs the Gem in Little Falls, is proving a big asset to that house. She has organized her own orchestra, of which she is the leader, and the music is attracting fully as much attention as the pictures.

Peter Gordon has just purchased the picture theatre in Keeseville formerly owned by H. D. Nicolls.

Harry McNamara, who runs the theatre in Valatie, has been playing to big business all this winter, three nights a week, by the simple procedure of sending out about 500 letters just before each picture is shown to residents in that village. He uses a two cent stamp, believing that such mail is given more personal attention, and that the extra penny comes back a hundred times over. Mr. McNamara is building a new house which will open in the fall.

Now Booking
PRISCILLA DEAN
in
"The Crimson Runner"
by Harvey Gates
with
Ward Crane, Alan Hale, Mitchell Lewis
A HUNT STROMBERG personally supervised PRODUCTION
Released by
~ PRODUCERS ~ DISTRIBUTING ~ CORPORATION ~

Chicago Sees Many Changes In Ascher Cha in Personnel

Several changes were made during the past week in the personnel of the Ascher Circuit. Roy McMullen was transferred from the direction of the Oakland Square Theatre to the management of the Metropolitan. Harry Crawford went from the Metropolitan to the Oakland Square. Max Ascher is managing director of the house and Harry Ascher is looking after the Vista Theatre, with Edward Wurtzburg as house manager. The Al Copeland singing orchestra has left the Pantheon and will be featured at the Metropolitan. Eddie Carrier has resigned as head of the publicity department and Harry Ascher is at present in charge. The Merrill Theatre at Milwaukee has been sold to the Saxe Circuit of that city, and "Happy" Meininger will continue with the new owners for the present as managing director. Louis Newhafer and Max Ascher made the trip to Milwaukee to handle the deal.

The new Terminal Theatre of the Ascher Circuit is now under construction at Spaulding and Lawrence avenue and it is to be ready for opening late this fall. The Cosmopolitan on South Halsted street has been sold to the National Theatres Corporation, of which Cooney Brothers are the head, and they will feature popular prices at the house, as the big, new Capital Theatre of the Cooney Circuit is right across the street and is playing first runs and presentations, with Al Short and his big orchestra giving the South Side patrons high-class music.

Andrew Karzas will soon have a radio station of his own, as the twin towers, 185 feet in height, have been completed. J. B. Lampe has been made managing director of the new station, whose wave length and call letters will be announced as soon as the radio supervisor approves them.

Al Bachman, house manager at the Randolph, is wondering if the highwayman he helped to chase away from the box office of the house recently got revenge on him by holding him up one night last week as he was going home. The lone wolf got the Bachman money as well as his good watch and chain, and now Al is sporting an Ingersoll.

Frank Reinhart, owner of the Apollo at Belvidere, Ill., ran a two-day show for the tornado victims and gave half the proceeds to the relief fund.

Alberta Vaughn and George O'Hara in "He Who Gets Rapped," second in the series of "The Pacemakers," for F. B. O. release

The staff of the new Capital Theatre of the National Theatre Corporation is as follows: H. A. Turrell, house manager; Francis Mangan, manager of production; C. E. Hogan, assistant manager; Albert Short, musical director; Edouard Perrigo, assistant; Ambrose Larsen and Ruth Farley, organists, and C. C. Hood, publicity director.

Herb Benton has sold the Empress at Malvern, Iowa, to W. L. Smith.

James B. Connolly has been made manager of the Rialto at Waterloo, Iowa, where the Frank Amusement Company also operates the Plaza.

Logan Woods has taken over the Triangle at Joppa, Ill., formerly under the management of Charles Rickard. He has renamed the house the Logan and will show pictures exclusively.

J. W. Nay has sold the Grand at Shawneetown, Ill., to George Pankey.

The boys along Film Row extend their sympathy to Alderman Powers, owner of the Iris Theatre on West Chicago avenue, on the loss of his wife, who died after a short illness. They also were sorry to hear of the death of the infant son of Arthur Dolan, manager of the Savoy.

Simon Simansky of Simansky & Miller has returned from a trip to Hot Springs. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter. The circuit has just completed the organization of the Lucille Theatre Company, with a capital stock of 200 shares of non-par value and offices at 752 South Wabash avenue.

Louis P. Haller, Harry N. Weinberg and Alfred C. Johnson have organized the B. K. Building Corporation, with offices at 63rd and Halstead and a capital stock of $20,000.

Jack Miller, Verne Langdon and Vincent Lynch are back from their two weeks' sojourn at Miami with plenty of fish stories for the visitors at the exhibitor headquarters on South Wabash avenue.

Emil Stern of Lubliner & Trinz is back from an extended business trip to New York City. The Senate Theatre of the chain booked Josef Rosenblatt, the cantor, for the leading attraction last week and he broke the house attendance record.

Several of the managers here are using the cross-word puzzle craze to boost business, tying up with the neighborhood newspapers to bring them in. Ned Rafalski, manager of the Rogers Theatre on Fullerton avenue, stimulated interest among his patrons by getting the local merchants to offer merchandise prizes for the correct answers to the puzzlers.

Van's Straight from the Shoulder Reports —they're fair and square and helpful.

"SYD" CHAPLIN
Who is under a long contract to make super-comedies for Warner Bros.

Ohio

The Arcade Theatre, Winchester, Ind., just across the Ohio line, has been closed, according to Manager Brenner. The building will be used for other business purposes. Brenner, however, will continue to operate the Cozy Theatre.

Tom Powers has acquired possession of the Majestic Theatre, Findlay, Ohio, from Walter Richards. H. Montgomery will manage the house.

The Allen Theatre, Cleveland, has adopted a new policy with respect to its musical programs. A new fifty-piece symphony orchestra, under supervision of Philip Spitalny, has been installed and will offer operatic and symphonic numbers three times a day. Special music will be provided for short screen subjects.

Safe robbers recently took another "crack" at the safe in the office of the Lincoln Theatre, Massillon, Ohio, but secured only $15. They were unable to reach the main strong box which contained $1,800. This is the fifth time the theatre safe has been robbed.

MIX A MEMBER OF ANTLERS CLUB

Tom Mix, Fox western star, when in Yosemite National Park shooting scenes for "The Everlasting Whisper," which he completed before leaving Hollywood for his world tour, was made a life member in the Antlers Club of Yosemite National Park. This is a very exclusive organization and membership only through invitation.

The life membership was given to Mr. Mix in recognition of his work in helping to save several buildings of the Sentinel Hotel which caught fire during his last visit to the park.

In the newest of the "Our Gang" comedies produced by Hal Roach, for Pathe release, titled "The Love Bug," "Fatty" Joe Cobb is seen trying out a waist-reducing contraption that he doesn't seem to relish

Michigan Exhibitor Briefs

The new Kunsky-Balaban & Katz theatre to be erected on Bagley avenue and Park boulevard will be known as the Michigan Theatre instead of the Chicago, as originally planned. This announcement coming from the Chicago firm follows a number of protests filed against the original name as being disloyal to the city.

The contractors who have the work in charge announce that the theatre will be ready for occupancy by July 1, 1926. Tenants will be rented space in the building three months earlier. The entire building, including the theatre, will be known as the Michigan.

The Detroit Metropolitan Corporation, organized to handle the bond issue, will offer $4,000,000 worth of first mortgage 15-year sinking fund bonds, bearing 6½ per cent. interest. In their announcement the appraised value of the lands and the building to be erected is $6,152,000, with the building cost listed as slightly over four million.

The rental for the Michigan Theatre will be $250,000 annually, making it by far the highest rental price for a theatre in the Detroit territory.

Henry S. Koppin, owner of twenty neighborhood theatres in Detroit, writes from Southern California that he will return to the city on April 1. He has been spending the winter in the South and West.

Edward C. Beatty, general manager of the Butterfield Theatrical Enterprises, spent a week in New York City on business. Mr. Butterfield is expected to return from his Oriental tour on April 15.

Although the Capitol Theatre is only three years old, John H. Kunsky is installing a brand new organ in the house. He is doing this to make it conform with the other houses which have been using a special make of organ.

Pittsburgh

S. A. Nesbitt, Sr., for twenty years in the picture theatre business, most of which he has conducted the Home Theatre at Rochester, has disposed of his house to A. M. Rosenbloom, the change in ownership having taken place on March 19. Mr. Nesbitt states that he will retire from the theatre business for all time. The new owner of the Home Theatre states that he will shortly enlarge and entirely redecorate the house.

J. H. Wiseman, formerly owner of the Iris Theatre at Vandergrift, has taken over Harry Seitz's Opera House at Freeport. Seitz will probably forsake the theatre business, as he is interested in other lines in Freeport.

Louis J. Lieb has sold his Diamond Theatre at Cresson to George Wilson, owner of the Wilson Theatre at Tyrone.

M. F. Ross of the Ross Theatre, Carmichael, was seen on Film Row the past week, feeling fit after a long spell of sickness. Ross has had his house closed since last November but will reopen it on April 4.

Vance Minton, O. A. Potter and Mr. Newton of the Columbia Amusement Company, Erie, drove to Cleveland on March 29 to see "Charley's Aunt" at the Stillman there.

The Regent, Washington, has been closed temporarily because of poor business. It is probable that Nat Walken, owner of the Palace in the same town, will take over the Regent.

Harry Browarsky, manager of the Rex in East Liberty, is all smiles again, the police having recovered his Hudson coach three days after it was stolen.

Looks like there will be a big house warming when the M. P. T. O. of W. Pa. move the quarters to the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Henry, Pittsburgh, May 1. Keep your ear to the ground. This is going to be a treat that no exhibitor will want to miss.

A. J. Rakowski, a newcomer to the theatre business, has taken over John Schweitzer's Keystone Theatre at Natrona.

Among the out-of-towners seen on the Row the past week were: Carl Becker and F. L. Farman, Butler; Theodore Mikalowsky, Masontown; Alfred Gottesman, Washington; Mike Manos, Greensburg, and Walter Silverberg, Greenville.

Barbara La Marr is lovelier than ever in her newest Sawyer-Lubin production "Heart of a Siren" adapted from the former stage success "Hail and Farewell," directed by Phil Rosen and to be released by First National

Now Booking

AGNES AYRES
in
'HER MARKET VALUE'
with ANDERS RANDOLPH
TAYLOR HOLMES - HEDDA HOPPER - EDWARD EARLE
A PAUL POWELL
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Missouri Unseats Goodnight; He Displays Sportsmanship

Missouri exhibitors lost a representative in the State Legislature last week. The Republicans in the house finally mustered a constitutional majority and unseated Charles G. Goodnight, manager of the Star Theatre, Warrensburg, Mo., seating in his stead Dr. J. W. Sargent. Mr. Goodnight, on the face of official returns, was shown to have been elected by one vote. The house election committee, dominated by Republicans, found Dr. Sargent had been elected by a majority of 21 votes. Mr. Goodnight arose after he had been unseated and said:

"To show this house that I am a good loser I ask the privilege of escorting Dr. Sargent to the bar to be sworn in."

Mr. Goodnight was accorded the privilege and a resolution was adopted granting both men full pay for the session.

Several theatres in the Kansas City territory changed hands last week. The Cozy, City and Columbia theatres of Junction City, Kans., were purchased by Glenn W. Dickinson, who operates the Bowersock and Varsity theatres, Lawrence, Kans., from M. B. Shanberg of the Midland Circuit of Theatres. The Vine Street Theatre, Kansas City, was purchased by George Bellini from D. Costa, while the Zim and Grand theatres, Winfield, Kans., operated by Barbour and Campbell, have been taken over by O. K. Mason of the Miller interests. The Phototorium Theatre, Kansas City, Kans., has been purchased by W. D. Fite from the Meyn estate. The Gladstone Theatre, suburban house of Kansas City, was sold to Capitol Enterprises by H. Awl.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors in the Kansas City market last week were: Stanley Chambers, Miller interests, Wichita, Kans.; Harry McClure, Strand, Emporia, Kans.; H. Harvey, Colonial, Pittsburg, Kans.; H. Newcomb, Newk's Theatre, Burlington, Kans.; W. Turner, Burlingame, Kans.; W. D. Fite, Iris, El Dorado, Kans.; H. Best, Independence, Kans.; George Koch, Star, Holten, Kans.; Laurence Brenninger, Topeka, Kans.; Jack Moore, Olive, St. Joseph, Mo.; Edward Peskay, Penn, St. Joseph, Mo.; Barney Dubinsky, Tootle, St. Joseph, Mo.; C. L. Rugg, City Hall Theatre, Robinson, Kans.; John Hostettler, Hostettler Amusement Company, Omaha, Neb.; Roy Gardner, Neosho, Mo.

J. B. Tackett, exhibitor of Coffeyville, Kans., who outsmarted reformers by building his New Tackett Theatre just across the state line and evading the Kansas Sunday closing law, which is enforced in Coffeyville, has announced the opening date of his theatre as April 4.

Announcement of additional expansion on the part of Glenn Dickinson, owner of a chain of theatres in Kansas, is expected soon, Mr. Dickinson having purchased an option on a downtown site in Coffeyville last week, 100x440 feet, the price stipulated in the option being $100,000.

Each week a large square blackboard bulletin in the headquarters of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri contains different "sermons" by "Doc" Cook, business manager of the organization. This week it reads: "Some fellers don't need organization until they get in a 'jam.' Don't wait for the 'jam.'"

Samuel Carver, manager of the Liberty Theatre, Kansas City, spent a busy day at home last Sunday following the insertion of an advertisement in the personal columns of newspapers concerning a "lost lady," in conjunction with the showing of "The Lost Lady," Warner Brothers picture, at the Liberty. Mr. Carver inserted his residence telephone number in the advertisement.

"Peck" Baker, the ever active manager of the Electric Theatre, Kansas City, Kans., is busy completing arrangements for a style show at his theatre next week.

W. P. Cuff of the Strand Theatre, Chillicothe, Mo., not being able to obtain a tie-up with local bakeries in a "pulling" contest in conjunction with the showing of "Bread," came to Kansas City and arranged a tie-up with the Smith Bakery Company, then proceeded to do some newspaper advertising and the stunt went over great.

Oklahoma

J. W. Walker is erecting a new theatre at Merrimac, Okla.

C. D. Hughes will build a new theatre at Heavener, Okla.

Sam Finger is building a new theatre at Mangum, Okla.

G. Carey is erecting a new theatre at Parkin, Ark.

Hoyt Kirkpatrick opened his new Hoyt's Theatre at Fort Smith, Ark., last week.

Thompson Brothers will build a $20,000 theatre at Wilson, Okla., in the near future to replace their theatre which was burned recently. A $6,000 pipe organ will be a part of the equipment.

Texas

Fred Chavey is dead. He was a victim at Cleburne, Texas, of appendicitis. Fred was a popular lad along Film Row in Dallas. He will be missed. For several years he had owned a house at Cleburne. Prior to that he had houses at Wolfe City and at Greenville, both in Texas. The body was sent to the latter city for burial.

E. J. Callahan, formerly of Dallas, has incorporated the Palestine (Texas) Theatre Company, with a capital stock of $10,000. S. D. Ray and Mrs. Francis Ray also are incorporators.

J. H. Simon of Brenham, Texas, has awarded a contract to R. F. Ball for the construction of the Simon Theatre here, to play pictures and vaudeville. Green Morgan will manage.

W. J. Lytle has accepted plans for a new $1,500,000 theatre at San Antonio, Texas. The building will be four stories high, fireproof and modern. It will be located at Houston, River and Travis streets.

Giesecke & Harris, architects, are erecting a new theatre at New Braunsfels, Texas, seating 600.

W. H. Hall and J. A. Pickens have purchased the Rialto at Harrington, Texas.

W. F. Carnes has purchased a lot 40x150 at Farmersville, Texas, and will erect a new theatre on the site in the near future.

PATSY RUTH MILLER
Featured in Universal's "Lorraine of the Lions"

Louis Gerlts and associates are erecting a new $250,000 theatre at McAllen, Texas, to be named the Palace. Roy E. Kints will be the manager.

Don Patricio is erecting a new theatre at Hebbronville, Texas.

W. M. Shields will open his Queen Theatre at Tyler, Texas, soon.

J. C. Chatmas is erecting a new theatre, the Majestic, at Marlin, Texas.

T. B. Noble, Jr., has resigned the managership of Corsicana Theatres, Inc., at Corsicana, Texas, to accept the managership of the Arcadia Amusement Company at Tyler, Texas.

R. J. Cooper will commence the erection of his new Palace Theatre at Kirbyville, Texas, in the near future.

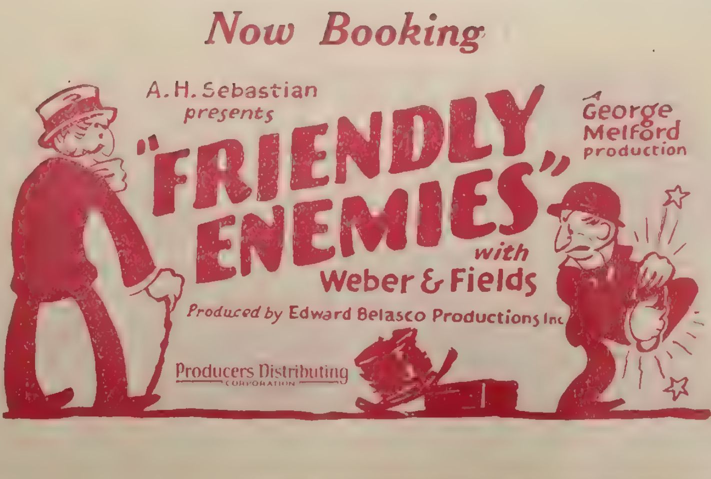
Roy Kentz will open his new Palace Theatre at Kirbyville, Texas, May 1. The playhouse will cost about $125,000.

E. Jones is building a new theatre at Brownfield, Texas. It will seat about 400.

J. H. Gray is erecting a new theatre at Harwood, Texas, to be opened soon.

George K. Slents is erecting a new theatre at Fort Worth, Texas. The new organ will cost about $7,000.

The Colonial Theatre, destroyed by fire at Greenville, Texas, some time ago, has been rebuilt and opened for business. Jack Lilly is manager.



Now Booking
A. H. Sebastian presents
"FRIENDLY ENEMIES"
George Melford production
with Weber & Fields
Produced by Edward Belasco Productions Inc
Producers Distributing Corporation

California Poppies

First impressions count a lot and Manager Nat Holt of the California Theatre, San Francisco, insists that patrons of this house get an eyeful of grace and beauty before they get a glimpse of the silver screen.

Spring is the colorful season of the year, when all nature takes on a new dress, and with the appearance of blossoms in profusion the staff of usherettes of the California Theatre made their appearance in distinctive costumes that have been widely admired. These are in the color of the poppy, the California State flower, and make a brilliant showing, with their trimmings of green. The name "California" is embroidered on each costume, which was designed by a prominent style authority.

St. Louis

Joe Green, manager of the Lafayette Theatre, Jefferson avenue near Lafayette, owned by the St. Louis Amusement Company, pulled a good stunt to exploit "The Mystery of the Circus" which opened at his house on March 28. He tied up with a leading cigarette manufacturing concern and had a large circus tent erected in front of his theatre with 100 young men dressed as clowns to put over the circus angle. It went across big. And best of all, from the box office standpoint, the exploitation feature did not cost Joe a cent of the theatre's money.

Visitors of the week were C. W. Shuckert, Opera House, Chester, Ill.; William Talley, Apple Blossom Theatre, Hardin, Ill., and Jim Reilly, Alton, Ill.

A St. Louis syndicate has had plans drawn for a $65,000 picture theatre and store building in Sycamore, Ill. The building will be one story and basement, 52 by 160 feet, and of brick and concrete construction.

T. P. Barnett & Company, Arcade Building, St. Louis, has prepared plans for an addition to the Grand Theatre at Harrisburg, Ill., of which Oscar Turner is manager. The addition will include a main floor and balcony and measure 46 by 130 feet.

Harry Greenman, formerly manager of the William Fox Liberty Theatre in St. Louis, has been appointed resident manager of Loew's State Theatre, Eighth and Washington avenue. Greenman left St. Louis a year ago to manage one of the leading theatres in New York. He is very well liked here and is a very competent showman.

Seattle

With the recent visit to Seattle of two of the Warner Brothers, rumors are rife. No definite announcement of locations has yet been made, but it is quite evident that something will be forthcoming from the many conferences and trips between Seattle and Portland. An interesting item appeared in a recent Spokane paper that the Warners would take over or build a house in that city, and it is understood that definite arrangements have been made to take over a large house now building in Astoria, Ore. L. K. Brin, local manager, has no statement to make at this time.

W. H. Storey, formerly with the D. & R. Theatres Company of Aberdeen and Hoquiam, and with the Moore Amusement Company of Tacoma, will be the new house manager of the Columbia Theatre, Longview, Wash., which is to open April 4.

F. Girtanner, partner of Walter Flint of Colville, Wash., was in Seattle this week. He reports Mr. Flint quite recovered from his recent accident, and states that he will be paying us a visit himself shortly.

J. A. McGill of Port Orchard, Wash., is busy arranging airplane transportation between Seattle and Port Orchard for the opening night of his new house, April 18. We will fly over and see you, John!

The latest current gossip seriously contemplates the erection of three big downtown theatres within a twelvemonth in Seattle. Ostensibly these would be the proposed Warner house, a big deal involving the Jensen & Von Herberg interests, and a dark horse, said to be at least a 1,200-seater.

Manager Bender offered "Zowie," first of the Pathe novelty fifth dimension movies, at the Columbia this week and created a sensation at each showing.

Fred Mercy of Yakima Theatres, Inc., Eastern Washington Jensen & Von Herberg unit, is reported to be taking over the Colonial Theatre, Ellensburg, Wash.

Manager Leroy V. Johnson of the Liberty Theatre, Seattle, is a regular Chesterfield for politeness. He is playing "Excuse Me" this week and has the whole town bowing and scraping as a result of his "Courtesy Week."

The Strand Amusement Company, of which Leo Keiler is the dominant figure, has taken over the Orpheum and Grand theatres in Fulton, Ky. The Orpheum formerly was owned by W. L. Chisholm and the Grand by George Snow.

J. A. Langhran has sold his interests in the Lannae Theatre, Worden, Ill., to Rudolph Scheller.

The Wilson Theatre, Wilson, Ark., will hold its grand opening early in April.

"Charley's Aunt" opened at the Missouri on March 28.

Now Booking
A FRANK WOODS SPECIAL PRODUCTION
"BEAUTY and the BAD MAN"
By FETER B. KYNE
Directed by WILLIAM WORTHINGTON
Released by
PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION

San Francisco

The Strand Theatre property on Market street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, San Francisco, has been purchased from Rudolph Spreckels by the Alexander Boyd estate at a price said to be about $2,000,000. The property has a frontage of 137 feet 6 inches on Market street, with a depth of 170 feet to Stevenson street. It is improved with a two-story building on Market street, with a foyer to the theatre which covers the rear of the lot. The theatre seats 1,670 and the entire structure is under lease for six years to the New York and San Francisco Amusement Company, of which M. L. Markowitz is president. The property is within one block of the hot spot of San Francisco foot traffic.

Manager R. R. Boomer of the Cameo Theatre, San Francisco, finds it advisable to put on a good stage attraction occasionally to supplement the screen offerings. He recently put on "The Wampus Revue of 1925," with a bevy of pretty girls, the offering forming a desirable contrast to the screen attraction, which was "Let 'Er Buck," with Hoot Gibson. Music was furnished by the California Melody Boys.

After having played a week at the Granada Theatre, San Francisco, "Charley's Aunt" packed her grip and moved to the California Theatre, the first time this house has ever accepted a picture previously shown elsewhere in the city. Manager Nat Holt declares that from the attendance it could not have been told that the picture had been shown in another theatre.

Mrs. M. Gore and son, Charles Gore, of Los Angeles, were recent visitors at San Francisco, and the young man sailed from this city on a trip around the world. His father is one of the officials of West Coast Theatres, Inc.

Eugene Karlin, for some time connected with the U. C. Theatre at Berkeley, has been made house manager of the Variety Theatre at Davis, Cal., a 700-seat house located in the home of the Agricultural School of the University of California.

Charles Wescott opened the New Fortuna Theatre at Fortuna, Cal., on St. Patrick's Day with "A Dixie Handicap" and an Our Gang comedy. The new house seats 500.

Among the recent visitors on San Francisco's Film Row have been Jules Smith, Butler Theatre, Tonopah, Nev.; James McInery, Solano Theatre, Fairfield, Cal.; Gus Johnson, Star Theatre, Newman, Cal.; L. Hables, Reel Joy Theatre, Kings City, Cal.; C. F. McCauley, Virginia Theatre, Vallejo, Cal.; Herbert Phelps, Jose Theatre, San Jose, Cal.; E. V. Clover, National Theatre, Marysville, Cal.; S. Enea, California and Palace theatres, Pittsburg, Cal.; Mrs. T. H. Dixon, Woodland, Cal.; J. J. Wood, New Redding Theatre, Redding, Cal.; Nick Turner, California Theatre, Stockton, Cal.; Ed Stark, Opal Theatre, Hollister, Cal.

A. Sifuentes, formerly of Atwater, has opened a theatre at Madera, Cal.

Stanley & Malm, who operate the Crockett Theatre at Crockett, Cal., as well as the Valoney Theatre, are having their share of ill fortune, having recently had their third fire in eighteen months.

The Kinema Theatre will be opened at Calitola, Cal., about the middle of June by W. E. Thomas.

West Coast Theatres, Inc., has taken out a building permit for the erection of a 1,600-seat theatre at Grand, Lake Park and Walker avenues, Oakland, Cal.

An airdome will be opened shortly at North Sacramento, Cal., by Ray Shirley.

Sam Y. Edwards, for years with the Turner & Dahnken Circuit, but who has made his home in London, Eng., of late, has returned to San Francisco.

STRAIGHT from the SHOULDER REPORTS

A DEPARTMENT FOR THE INFORMATION OF EXHIBITORS

EDITED BY A. VAN BUREN POWELL

Associated Exhibitors

(Includes Selznick)

RIGHT OF STRONGEST. Star cast. A real thriller. Great for a small town. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. All classes town of 2,000. Admission 10-25. H. L. Lloyd, Colonial Theatre, Post, Texas.

F. B. O.

DANGEROUS COWARD. (6 reels). Star, Fred Thomson. My first Thomson and it pleased. First real western I have had so far. Believe Thomson and Silver King good as Mix and Tony. Don't be afraid of this one. General class town of 4,000. Admission 10-20, 15-25. R. L. Nowell, Idle-hour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

FAIR CHEAT. (6,800 feet). Star, Dorothy Mackaill. Very good. Heard no kicks and had a fair second night crowd. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Hardly a special. Good audience appeal. Small town class and farmers town of 600. Admission 10-20, 10-30. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

FAIR CHEAT. (6,800 feet). Star, Dorothy Mackaill. A very pleasing story of stage life and mistaken identity. Filled with tense situations all the way and with an original twist to the plot that went good. Fair appeal. General class city of 16,000. Admission 20-40. Ben L. Morris, Temple and Olympic Theatre, Bellaire, Ohio.

NO GUN MAN. (4,522 feet). Star, Lefty Flynn. Out of door picture that will please a not too critical crowd. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-35. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

NORTH OF NEVADA. (5,000 feet). Star, Fred Thomson. A one hundred per cent. better picture than "Mask of Lopez" which is also a Thomson western. Mixed class town of 800. Admission 15-25. Jerry Wertin, Winter Theatre (250 seats), Albany, Minnesota.

RANGE TERROR. (4,738 feet). Star, Bob Custer. These westerns from this star are getting better all the time. This one went over fine and had lots of good comments on this one, keep it up Bob. Tone, yes. Sunday, no. Audience appeal, good. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

SILK STOCKING SAL. (5,367 feet). Star, Evelyn Brent. A very good startling melodrama that will hold audience throughout. Pleased a good sized house on a Saturday along with short subjects. Tone, good. Special, no. Sunday questionable. R. A. Preuss, Arvada Theatre, Arvada, Colorado.

SILK STOCKING SAL. (5,267 feet). Star, Evelyn Brent. A good crook picture and drew a nice business with the "Go Getters." Pleased pretty well in our house. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Good audience appeal. General class town of 3,600. Admission 10-20. William A. Clark Sr., Castle Theatre (400 seats), Havana, Illinois.

STEPPING LIVELY. (5,317 feet). Star, Richard Talmadge. Not up to standard, is my opinion of this one. The only action came at the very end. This may disappoint Talmadge fans, as most of his stories are full of action from start to finish. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

These dependable tips come from exhibitors who tell the truth about pictures to help you book your program intelligently. "It is my utmost desire to serve my fellow man," is their motto.

Use the tips; follow the advice of exhibitors who agree with your experience on pictures you both have run.

Send tips to help others. This is your department, run for you and maintained by your good-will.

THUNDERING HOOFS. (6,915 feet). Star, Fred Thomson. A fine western and I find my people like Thomson very much. He will soon be as popular as Mix and Gibson. Good comedy in this one also. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Small industrial city. Admission 10-30. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (700 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

First National

ABRAHAM LINCOLN. (9,759 feet). Star, George Billings. A very good interesting feature from start to finish. Should be played in all theatres. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. Mixed class town of 800. Admission 15-25. Jerry Wertin, Winter Theatre (250 seats), Albany, Minnesota.

BORN RICH. (7,511 feet). Star, Bert Lytell. Booked me two days for a special. Nothing to the story. Fair acting, but don't consider it a fair program picture. Not much business first day, none the second day. A shame to take the money. Tone, not much. Sunday, no. Special, no. Appeals to none. All classes. Admission 10-25-30. W. H. Odom, Pastime Theatre (250 seats), Sandersville, Georgia.

CLASSMATES. (6,983 feet). Star, Richard Barthelmess. Good drawing title and a very fine picture. It stood them up for us, and everyone was satisfied. Lots of good comments on this one. Box office good, and that is the answer. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, eighty per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

FLIRTING WITH LOVE. (6,926 feet). Star, Colleen Moore. Consider this good. Colleen always popular here. Played two days to nice crowds and many favorable comments. R. L. Nowell, Jr., Idlehour Theatre, Monroe, Georgia.

MASQUERADER. Star cast. Very good acting. Story good. Will please where they like good drama. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five percent. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-35. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

OLD SWIMMIN' HOLE. Star, Charles Ray. Revived this old one to see how it would go, and I found out. Throughout the entire picture you are always waiting for something to happen and it never happens. No good at all for my audience. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, forty per cent. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre, Fresno, California.

SANDRA. (7,794 feet). Star, Barbara La Marr. A non-convincing story of a woman of dual personality. Georgeous gowns and scenic effects surround plantonic love for just what it will buy ending by showing that the arms of the steady going husband is the safest harbor after all. Tone, not so good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

SEA HAWK. (11,527 feet). Star, Milton Sills. Stupendous, describes this awe inspiring film masterpiece of the days of the galley slaves. A picture that will live in memory. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

SEA HAWK. 12,045 feet). Star, Milton Sills. Good in spots and in spots too rough. Even if "it is history" it shouldn't all be pictured. Good opening and fell off bad last two days. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

SEA HAWK. 12,045 feet). Star, Milton Sills. Good picture, finely produced and well acted. Played percentage but did not go over the guarantee. Tone, okay. Maybe suitable for Sunday. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Farming class town of 1,021. Admission 10-25-30. H. S. Stansel, Ruleville Theatre (240 seats), Ruleville, Mississippi.

SONG OF LOVE. (8,000 feet). Star, Norma Talmadge. Very good. Will please all of

Now Booking

HARRY CAREY

in

"The Texas Trail"

HUNT STROMBERG

PRODUCERS ~ DISTRIBUTING ~ CORPORATION

Norma's fans. Better than some of her later so called "specials." As usual, Norma does a fine bit of acting. If your audience likes action, give them this one. Fine picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

SUNDOWN. (9,000 feet). Star cast. Although I read discouraging reports on this picture, after viewing same I think it should be classed as a super production and on a par with "The Covered Wagon." Reports complained of too many cattle, well the story describes the biggest cattle drive in history and all the romance, humor and thrills centers around the drive so the cattle just had to be there. It is entertaining and instructive and should be boosted and shown by every exhibitor. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

THOSE WHO DANCE. (7,500 feet). Star cast. A very exciting melodrama that keys suspense up to the ninth power. People went out talking and although the first night was light, the second made up for it. Teaches a good lesson. Fine tone. Small town and rural class town of 2,245. Admission 10-25. W. J. Powell, Lonet Theatre, Wellington, Ohio.

WHY MEN LEAVE HOME. (8 reels). Star cast. Clever picture. Pleased well. Attractive title pulls them in. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Coal miners, town of 1,365. Admission 10-20. Vanzo-Kopuster, Eagle Theatre (300 seats), Livingston, Illinois.

Fox

CAMEO KIRBY. (6,921 feet). Star, John Gilbert. This is very interesting picture, story of the early day Mississippi river gamblers. Will go most any place as program picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family class city of 65,000. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

ELEVENTH HOUR. (6,819 feet). Stars, Buck Jones, Shirley Mason. Impossible melodrama that chiefly appealed to children and the very young people. Other people considered it just a passable program picture. Draw all classes, city 10,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

HEART BUSTER. (4,500 feet). Star, Tom Mix. A rapid moving, farcial western which I thought a little below Tom's average, chiefly because farce and drama were mixed so indiscriminately. It drew rather poorly, considering it was a Mix, but those who did come seemed to get lots of fun out of it. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Rural class town of 400. Admission 15-30. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

IDLE TONGUES. (5,447 feet). Star, Doris Kenyon. Very nice picture. Should please majority. Didn't expect much after reading reports and was surprised. Business fair. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty per cent. General class town of 4,000. Admission 10-20, 16-25. R. L. Nowell, Idlehour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

LAST OF THE DUANES. (6,942 feet). Star, Tom Mix. This is the best Mix has ever made. Good tone. Appeal 90 per cent. Yes for Sunday and as special. Draw masses, city of 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre (350 seats), Birmingham, Alabama.

LAST OF THE DUANES. (6,942 feet). Star, Tom Mix. Best Tom Mix' special to date. Pleased all. In seven reels and will go as a special. All classes. Admission 10-25-30. W. H. Odom, Pastime Theatre (250 seats), Sandersville, Georgia.

MAN WHO CAME BACK. (8,272 feet). Star, Dorothy Mackaill. This picture is a real special and one of the best of the year and will please all classes of movie fans. The scenes and sets are wonderful and the acting of the whole cast is excellent. Good tone. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, A-1. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (720 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

Between Ourselves

A get-together place where we can talk things over

Oh, boy! What a grand and glorious feeling, as Briggs, the cartoonist has said it.

To get a letter like the one on the next page!

You can't get away from "Our Gang"—and stay away! You'll come back, because if you've ever contributed reports you're the sort who enjoys doing something to help the other fellow.

I got a letter from Al. Hamilton, in the same mail with the one referred to just now from Ken Thompson.

Al. has been "laying down on us" for some time, just as Ken did.

And now they're both coming back.

"Welcome home!" says Our Gang to Al. and Kenneth.

"How about the rest of the old-timers who have dropped out lately?" VAN.

MAN WHO PLAYED SQUARE. (6,700 feet). Star, Buck Jones. As fine a western picture as I ever saw. Everybody highly pleased and didn't hesitate to say so. You can't go wrong on this. Plenty of action and thrills. Tone, okay. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. General class town of 4,000. Admission 10-20. 15-25. R. L. Nowell, Idlehour Theatre, 210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

MONNA VANNA. (9 reels). Star cast. Not worth a d - - -. Bad print. Lay off of it. Sorry. Tone, no. Sunday, no. Special, no. No audience appeal. Best class town of 875. Admission 10-25. Hal James, Wanoca Theatre (300 seats), Wallace, North Carolina.

WINNER TAKE ALL. (5,949 feet). Star, Buck Jones. With a few touches this one would come in the special class. I'll call it a mighty good Jones picture. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Average audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,500. Admission 10-25. T. W. Cannon, Majestic Theatre (315 seats), Greenfield, Tennessee.

WOLVES OF THE NIGHT. Star, William Farnum. A great picture but too old. Photography blurry and very dark in spots. I dare Fox to reissue the Tom Mix pictures. Would like to have some of them. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

Metro-Goldwyn

BREAD. (6,726 feet). Star, Mae Busch. A dandy. Pleased them all. A story that will hit everybody. You can't go wrong on this one. It is not a special, but one of the kind that makes 'em say "Good picture" on the way out. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

ETERNAL THREE. (6,845 feet). Star, Bessie Love. Good entertainment, comedy drama with just enough comedy to make it interesting. Ray Griffith again shows he can act. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

FRENCH DOLL. (7,028 feet). Star, Mae Murray. While Mae Murray has a certain following, they didn't turn out in any great numbers to see this. The majority would class it as a fair program picture; an hour's passable entertainment. All classes, city 10,000. Admission, 10-20. Al C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK. (10,000 feet). Star, Marion Davies. A fine picture. Book it and boost it. It is a costume picture but is good just the same. It has a good historical value and at the same time is a fine story. As usual I got a fine print of the subject from Metro-Goldwyn. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Family and student class city of 100,000. Admission 10-20. George W. Pettingill, Jr., Mirror Lake Theatre (850 seats), St. Petersburg, Florida.

LITTLE ROBINSON CRUSOE. (6,216 feet). Star, Jackie Coogan. A very nice little picture just the right length and a fine picture for the older people as well as the children. The school children were behind me so I put the picture over in good shape. Had to put out the S. R. O. sign twice. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, yes Fine audience appeal. Family and student class city of 100,000 Admission 10-20. George W. Pettingill Jr., Mirror Lake Theatre (850 seats), St. Petersburg, Florida.

MAN LIFE PASSED BY. (6,208 feet). Star cast. Seven reels of out-of-date stuff, but the fine acting of Percy Marmont helped the people to stay through the picture. Good tone. Appeal none. Suitable for Sunday but not special. Draw all classes, town 2,800. Admission 15-25. D. W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

NAVIGATOR. (5,600 feet). Star, Buster Keaton. Played four days to big business. Ex-

Now Booking
The novelty sensation of the year
GILBERT HEYFRON presents
A RENAUD HOFFMAN picturization
"Private Affairs"
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Prodigal Returns to "Our Gang"

"Did you think I had deserted the ranks of "The Gang" never to return? It's been a long time since I have contributed to your valuable department, but pressure of other business has kept me from making out reports.

"However, I saw the nice little notice in one of the February issues, inspired by a question asked by another Badger exhibitor, William Meeks, of the Murray Theatre, Milwaukee, and have been preparing since to have a grand revival—a sort of a returning of the prodigal son.

"'The Gang' has surely been faithful to the cause as is evidenced by the number of reports contributed regularly every week. So I feel that it is about time I chipped in with a few tips to help increase the usefulness of the department.

"It would be hard to say which department of Moving Picture World is of most benefit to the exhibitor in general, but in my past experience I found the Straight From the Shoulder Department to attract my first attention and to hold it for some time. Then comes Richardson's Projection Department, which I consider the best work relative to projection in existence, as is also the Handbook of Projection by the same author. Next in order comes the reviews written by individual reviewers, then the selling the picture to the public department and last, but not least, the editorials by Robert Welsh. While I do not agree with all that he says, I must admit that he is more than ordinarily acquainted with the subjects he discusses.

"As you will note by the report blanks the population of this town is but slightly over 400. Perhaps the following description of our projection equipment will surprise you a bit. We have a new Da-lite screen, two Powers 6A variable speed motor-driven projectors, equipped with General Electric Mazda Equipment with automatic dowser change-over device, set of projection reels, film cabinet, film splicing machine and other devices that are usually not found in places several times larger.

"Hoping I have not imposed upon your valuable time too greatly."—Kenneth D. Thompson, M. W. A Theatre, Hancock, Wisconsin.

cellent comedy. Some said better than Lloyd. C. D. Buss, Strand Theatre, Easton, Pennsylvania.

PLEASURE MAD. (7,457 feet). Star cast. Good picture. Patrons well pleased. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Best class town of 875. Admission 10-25. Hal James, Wanoca Theatre, (300 seats), Wallace, North Carolina.

SINNERS IN SILK. (5,750 feet). Star, Adolphe Menjou. A very interesting story of regeneration, with Menjou, as usual, doing a splendid bit of work. Miss Boardman is very easy to look at. Would class as better than average program picture. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Mixed class, town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

UNDER THE RED ROBE. (12,000 feet). Star cast. The more intelligent people were highly pleased with this production and were lavish in their praises of it. However, it didn't show up well at the box office. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

WILD ORANGES. (7 reels). Star, Frank Mayo. Here's a real honest picture. Action, thrills, plenty. The best fight I ever saw. Cast A-1. Everyone liked it. Tone, okay. Very good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

WINE OF YOUTH. (6,600 feet). Star, Eleanor Boardman. A very good program picture. Did a nice business on this one. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Appeals to better class. Admission 10-30. J. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

Paramount

ALASKAN. (6,738 feet). Star, Thomas Meighan. Did not please here. I played it immediately after "North of 36" and the contrast was more noticed. This is over-rated and you should be careful in buying this. Meighan was good but the story poor. Ed. Malhiot, Monarch Theatre Co., Alberta, Canada.

ALASKAN. (6,758 feet). Star, Thomas Meighan. This is an entertaining picture but does not please Tom's friends like most of his pictures. It is a good box office picture though and except that it is different than this star's usual productions it is very satisfactory. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. High class town of 3,200. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

ARGENTINE LOVE. (5,970 feet). Star, Bebe Daniels. Very good special. Fine acting. Pretty sets. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Farmers and merchants town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

ARGENTINE LOVE. (5,970 feet). Star, Bebe Daniels. This is an entertaining picture with a nice bunch of names to draw. The author of the "Four Horsemen" wrote the story and the director of "Robin Hood" made the picture with Daniels and Cortez leading the cast. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

BACK HOME AND BROKE. (7,814 feet). Star, Thomas Meighan. This is worth going back after. I think it is Meighan's best picture and it certainly is a dandy. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

BREAKING POINT. (5,788 feet). Star cast. Fair picture. Improbable story but good entertainment. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Not a special. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

CONFIDENCE MAN. (6,500 feet). Star, Thomas Meighan. Reports on this have seemed to me to be somewhat lukewarm, but I can say that the only objection to the picture was its excess footage. It drew slightly better than usual patronage, and gave satisfaction. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. General audience appeal. Rural class town of 500. Admission 10-30. Charles W. Lewis, I. O. O. F. Theatre (225 seats), Grand Gorge, New York.

DANGEROUS MONEY. (6,864 feet). Star, Bebe Daniels. This is above the average of this star's stuff. Tom Moore in the cast helps it draw and it has clever direction and a nice plot. It pleased the crowd. Tone, good. Maybe suitable for Sunday. Special, no. High class town of 3,200. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

DAWN OF A TOMORROW. (6,084 feet). Star, Jacqueline Logan. A fair program picture that seemed to please the majority. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

FAST SET. (6,965 feet). Star, Betty Compson. Eight reels of bunk. I've had a mess of Paramount lately that surely needs censoring. They are getting awfully rotten or I'm an awful prude. No tone. Sunday, no. Special, no. No audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

FAST SET. (6,965 feet). Star cast. The majority agreed that this was a very good picture and it went over fairly well. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

FEET OF CLAY. (9,746 feet). Star cast. There were all shades of opinions passed on this De Mille production from the warmest Congrats!

"Van, will forward some reports as soon as my chest gets back to its normal size again. The cause of my chest getting so inflated is Miss Jaunita Evangeline, born Feb. 9th, at United Hospital, Port Chester, N. Y., weight 8 pounds. Mother and Daughter doing splendid and Dad just getting sober.

"With best regards to yourself and all THE GANG."—Al. Hamilton, Rialto Theatre, South Norwalk, Connecticut.

praise to a classification of fair. Unquestionably it pleased the great majority and did a nice business. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

FEMALE. (6,176 feet). Star, Betty Compson. All right for one day but very ordinary entertainment and no puller. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

FEMALE. (6,176 feet). Star, Betty Compson. Taken from the book, "Della the Lion's Cub." This is one of Betty's best. She is a great card at our house usually finding the family home when she calls. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, very good. General class town of 3,700. Admission 10-30. Kreighbaum Brothers, Char-Bell Theatre (800 seats), Rochester, Indiana.

FEMALE. (6,167 feet). Star, Betty Compson. This picture starts in an interesting manner in first two reels, but the rest of film shows the heroine as vicious and selfish. It comprises, love, hate, and intrigue with no moral. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, sixty percent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

FLAMING BARRIERS. (5,821 feet). Star, Jacqueline Logan. Not quite as thrilling as the press sheet would have you believe, but, nevertheless, good program picture. Many favorable comments. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, general. Rural class town of 500. Admission 10-30. Charles W. Lewis, I. O. O. F. Theatre (225 seats), Grand Gorge, New York.

FOOL'S PARADISE. Star cast. This is worth digging up out of the past and using the second time. I did it and it went over nicely. It has a real story and is very interesting picture. Print was in good shape as all prints from Paramount Sioux Falls office have been. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

FORTY WINKS. (6,293 feet). Star, Viola Dana. This is not a big picture. Just a good program with good comedy situations. Griffith takes his part very well. The detail in the fight scene in the motor boat is very poor. Poor ending. Did fair business for me in the face of two championship hockey matches. Ed. Malhiot, Monarch Theatre Co., Alberta, Canada.

GARDEN OF WEEDS. (6,250 feet). Star, Betty Compson. This is not as good a picture as I expected. It is what I would call a highbrow comedy drama. It will go over the heads of a lot. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. High class town of 3,200. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

GOLDEN BED. (8,584 feet). Star cast. Here's a mighty fine picture and is typical DeMille in production and settings. If "Feet of Clay" made you money this one will too. It pleased my patrons and made me a little money. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (700 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

GUILTY ONE. (5,625 feet). Star, Agnes Ayres. Not much to this. Very cheaply made. No story, no nothing. Will not do anything at the box office. Tone okay. Sunday, no. No audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Louisiana.

MERTON OF THE MOVIES. (7,655 feet). Star, Glenn Hunter. Just an ordinary program picture. Will please about two-thirds. By no means a big picture. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal seventy per cent. Small industrial city. Admission 10-30. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (700 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

MERTON OF THE MOVIES. (7,655 feet). Star, Glenn Hunter. Everyone raved over this one. A different kind of picture from the average. Different comedy. Glenn Hunter very good. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. Town and country class, town of 1,200. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

MISS BLUEBEARD. (6,653 feet). Star, Bebe Daniels. Here is the best picture in the whole first forty of Paramount. Get you a bunch of circus style heralds from the Exhibitors Printing Service, at 845 South Wabash street, Chicago, Ill., and raise your prices and go after this one. It will stand up and please everybody that will come. It's a knockout and Miss Daniels will sure come to the front if they will put her in some more of this type. A. Mitchell, Dixie Theatre, Russellville, Kentucky.

NORTH OF 36. (7,908 feet). Star, Ernest Torrence. This is a fine picture and one that will please any crowd in the country. I believe that it is the eaual of "The Covered Wagon" as a picture. It did a nice business for me and is worth about as much to me as "Wanderer of the Wasteland," though a much better pleasing picture. Sunday, yes. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

Now Booking
HARRY CAREY
in
"Silent Sanderson"
Directed by Scott R. Dunlap
A Hunt Stromberg
personally supervised production
- PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION -

VILMA BANKY

Famous European actress who will make her American screen debut in a picture version of "The Dark Angel," the play which Samuel Goldwyn purchased for George Fitzmaurice production to be released by First National OPEN ALL NIGHT. (6,867 feet). Star, Viola Dana. And Paramount continues to say, "If you want 'The Covered Wagon,' 'Peter Pan' and the other decent, respectable pictures, you must insult your patrons with 'The Garden of Weeds,' 'Lily of the Dust' and pictures like this one." Small town and rural class, town of 2,245. Admission 10-25. W. J. Powell, Lonet Theatre, Wellington, Ohio.

PETER PAN. (9,593 feet). Star, Betty Bronson. This is a picture that has the exhibitor beaten again. They charged me more for it than my receipts, which were fifty-two dollars. There were no stars in the picture, no expensive settings, directors, or anything to justify the rental charged on it. It will draw where they have seen the stage play, and to my knowledge New York City is the only place in America that it was given. It pleased the children from eight years down one hundred per cent. However, that represents the small part of my patronage. Just a fairy tale, that proved equally as great a fairy tale at my box office in comparison to what the salesman told me. If you buy it, buy it at a program price and run as a program for the children. College class, town of 2,000. Admission 25-35. R. X. Williams, Jr., Lyric Theatre (345 seats), Oxford, Mississippi.

PETER PAN. (9,593 feet). Star, Betty Bronson. One sweet little picture. It is one hundred per cent in everything except length. It is too long to hold the attention of those who will like it best. Of course the children do not mean big money to us, but this picture is primarily "their" picture and I would sacrifice some of this footage to make it shorter running time. This is a picture that should be shown in every theatre in every town in the world and I only wish I could have it back again to give the children a free matinee. I would classify this as a picture you could afford to buy at the price you found you could pay for "Monsieur Beaucaire" or "America." Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, Sauth Dakota.

SILENT PARTNER. (5,866 feet). Star, Leatrice Joy. While our patrons as a rule prefer the melodramatic and action type of picture, this one went over well, and all comments that have come to my attention have been favorable. Tone okay. Special, no. General audience appeal. Rural class, town of 500. Admission 10-30. Charles W. Lewis, I. O. O. F. Theatre (225 seats), Grand Gorge, New York.

SINNERS IN HEAVEN. (6,881 feet). Star, Bebe Daniels. Seventy-five per cent of it was objectionable to decent people. The other twenty-five was scenic, which was okay. Tone,

NORMA SHEARER
The brilliant Metro-Goldwyn star has a dual role in "Lady of the Night" none. Sunday, no. Not a special. No audience appeal. Small town class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

SOCIETY SCANDAL. (6,433 feet). Star, Gloria Swanson. Good picture. Rental right on this one. Pleased the patrons. Tone good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Farmers and merchants, town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

TOP OF THE WORLD. (7,167 feet). Star, James Kirkwood. This is above the average program picture. It has an old plot but a good one and is well directed and presented. I think this will prove pleasing to ninety-five per cent of most any audience. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

TO THE LAST MAN. (6,965 feet). Star cast. Very good. All lovers of westerns will like this one. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,312. Admission 10-20. M. J. Bradley, Airdome (300 seats), Thornton, Arkansas.

WAGES OF VIRTUE. (7,083 feet). Star, Gloria Swanson. Very good picture. Ben Lyons made a fine support to Swanson. Tone okay. Sunday, okay. Special, no. Good audience appeal. General class, town of 3,700. Admission 10-30. Krieghbaum Brothers Char-Bell Theatre (800 seats), Rochester, Indiana.

WOMAN PROOF. (7,657 feet). Star, Thomas Meighan. Well liked by the ladies, but didn't appeal especially to the men. Very good for program use, however. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Average audience appeal. Rural class, town of 500. Admission 10-30. Charles W. Lewis, I. O. O. F. Theatre (225 seats), Grand Gorge, New York.

Pathe

DIXIE. (3 reels). Star cast. This is one of the American History Chronicles and it proved a nice added attraction. These are entertaining and worth while as tie-ups with the schools and such but cannot be used as the headliner of a program. It is merely a novelty filler. Should be bought on that basis. Tone fine. Sunday, fine. High class, town of 3,200. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

GIRL SHY. (7,457 feet). Star, Harold Lloyd. This is one of Lloyd's best and of course it is a box office knockout. Every exhibitor knows what Lloyd will do for him, so this one will measure up to your expectations. Small industrial city, town of 5,000. Admission 10-30. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (700 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

Principal

MASKER DANCED. Star, Helene Chadwick. Very ordinary, with a very thin story. The best thing about this show was the fact that we had a good print and could show it decently to our audience. Tone O. K., but not a family picture. Not suitable for special. Fair appeal. Draw better class, town 4,500. Admission 10-15. Carl A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

MASKED DANCER. (Principal). Star, Helene Chadwick. Fair picture. Some said good, rather slow moving except the dance nothing slow about that. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Small town classes and farmers town of 600. Admission 10-20, 10-30. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

Producers' Dist. Corp.

DRIVIN' FOOL. (5,800 feet). Star, Wally Van. Was disappointed in this one. Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, sixty per cent. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allin & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

HOLD YOUR BREATH. (5 reels). Star, Dorothy Devore. An extra good comedy that pleased everybody. We need more such pictures and less sex stuff. Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allin & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

RAMSHACKLE HOUSE. (6,287 feet). Star, Betty Compson. A good picture with some beautiful scenery. Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allin & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

RECKLESS ROMANCE. (5,530 feet). Star, Wanda Hawley. A good comedy but not so good as "Hold Your Breath." Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allin & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

ROARING RAILS. (5,753 feet). Star, Harry Carey. The best Carey we have used, and the others were very good. Exhibitors, especially in the small towns should get in on this series. Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. here. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allin & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

SOFT SHOES. Star, Harry Carey. This is a little different than usual Carey's. It starts in the West and ends in the West but the drama proper which is a crook picture takes place in San Francisco. Good entertainment, especially for the action lovers. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

TIGER THOMPSON. (5,700 feet). Star, Harry Carey. An extra good western. Plenty of action. Carey is getting some stories now and is a winner. Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. here. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allin & Underhill, Pastime Enterprise, Chelsea, Vermont.

"Always glad to help do my little bit," says our consistently good friend and reporter, of the Park Theatre, Lebanon, New Hampshire.

It is the unselfish aid of men who are sincere which makes it possible to keep this dependable tip department at the highest point of exhibitor service.

DO YOUR BIT!

WANDERING HUSBANDS. (6 reels). Star cast. All right for program although nothing to get excited over but would call it a good picture of society drama class. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

WANDERING HUSBANDS. (6 reels). Star, James Kirkwood. Good picture of its kind, but not so popular with country audiences. Tone, good. Special, no. Audience appeal, sixty per cent. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allin & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

WELCOME STRANGER. (6,618 feet). Star cast. A good picture well produced. Doré Davidson splendid as well as balance of the cast. It is a high class comedy drama. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Not a special. Good audience appeal. General class town of 3,600. Admission 10-20. William A. Clark Sr., Castle Theatre (400 seats), Havana, Illinois.

United Artists

AMERICA. (10,000 feet). Star cast. Very good; should go best where one has good schools to draw from. Moral tone O. K.—also for Sunday. Yes as special. Draw small town class, town 3,300. Admission 15-20. P. L. Vann, Opera House (650 seats), Greenville, Alabama.

BIRTH OF A NATION. Star cast. As old as it is it sure pulled 'em in but as usual they held me up on the price and I lost money. Print new. Lots of new titles in this. Good tone. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Very good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

THIEF OF BAGDAD. Star, Douglas Fairbanks. Too much cannot be said in favor of this production. Broke all previous records for receipts in my theatre. Tone O. K. Fine audience appeal. Suitable for Sunday and as Anybody who reads these pages and gets good from them is certainly willing to send as good as he gets.

Sometimes you don't come back at the other fellow with your tips because you just don't seem to get around to it.

But you are willing to do it.

All right!

Get action while it's on your mind.

SEND TIPS NOW!

special. Draw all classes, city 91,000. Guy A. Kinemer, Arcade Theatre (1,151 seats), Jacksonville, Florida.

Universal

BIG TIMBER. (4,650 feet). Star, William Desmond. A fairly good picture. Business good and audience pleased as whole. Nothing extra to it as western. Tone, okay. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. General class town of 4,000. Admission 10-20, 15-25. R. L. Nowell, Idle-hour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

BUTTERFLY. (7,472 feet). Star, Laura La Plante. The women raved over this one: it's all good stuff. Tone O. K. Yes for Sunday and as special some places. Draw small town class, town 3,300. Admission 15-20. P. L. Vann, Opera House (650 seats), Greenville, Alabama.

DARLING OF NEW YORK. (6,260 feet). Star, Baby Peggy. Just a good picture. A little above program schedule but not a special, however, it is worth seeing. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Farmers and merchants town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

GAIETY GIRL. (7,419 feet). Star, Mary Philbin. This didn't draw, but pleased all who came. Tone O. K. Yes for Sunday but no as special. Draw all classes of small town, 3,300. Admission 15-20. P. L. Vann, Opera House (650 seats), Greenville, Alabama.

HIT AND RUN. (5,508 feet). Star, Hoot Gibson. Nothing better for program picture; good comedy, good print. Book if possible. Tone and appeal O. K. No for Sunday but some places yes as special. Draw best class, town 875. Admission 10-25. Hal James, Wanoca Theatre (300 seats), Wallace, North Carolina.

HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME. (11,000 feet). Star, Lon Chaney. A wonderful picture. You can't go wrong with it. Pleased everybody. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, good. Best class town of 875. Admission 10-25. Hal James, Wanoca Theatre (300 seats), Wallace, North Carolina.

JACK O' CLUBS. (4,717 feet). Star, Herbert Rawlinson. Very good crook story. Rawlinson carries the Irish cop part in good style. Well done and entertaining. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

LOVE AND GLORY. (7,084 feet). Star cast. All star cast which means nobody particular and all pretty good. Reports on this mostly all bad and took it easy. However, had several patrons to hunt us up and say what a dandy story it was. Of early French days costume, with elaborate special settings. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. General class city of 16,000. Admission 20-40. Ben L. Morris, Temple and Olympic Theatre, Bellaire, Ohio.

RIDERS UP. (4,904 feet). Star, Creighton Hale. Race track story that seemed to be okay although not a big picture. Had some compliments and several knocks. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, fifty per cent. Family class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

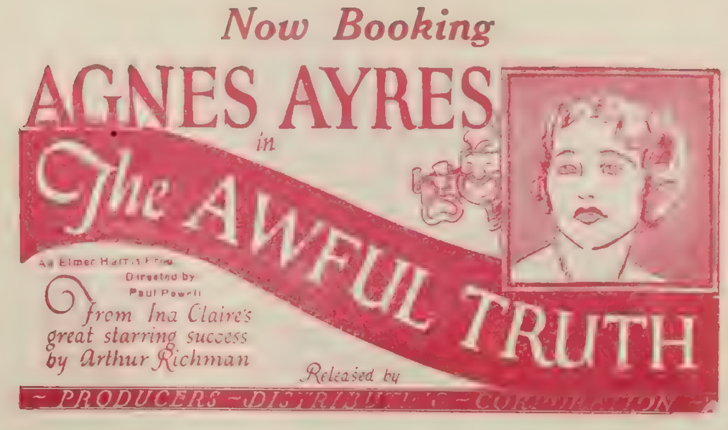
RIDIN' KID FROM POWDER RIVER. (5,727 feet). Star, Hoot Gibson. Picture drew fairly well but picture not satisfactory on account of direction. Didn't follow story. Sedgwick should turn Hoot loose if he ever expects to get anywhere. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 3,600. Admission 10-20. William A. Clark Sr., Castle Theatre (400 seats), Havana, Illinois.

SLANDERERS. Star, Johnnie Walker. Good program picture. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Farmers and merchants of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

SPORTING YOUTH. (6,712 feet). Star, Reginald Denny. Excellent picture that has everything. Very entertaining. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

STORM DAUGHTER. (5,302 feet). Star, Priscilla Dean. An excellent story of the sea, very fine photography and very realistic shipwreck. Priscilla Dean's acting is great. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

STOLEN SECRETS. (4,742 feet). Star, Herbert Rawlinson. This is as good a Rawlinson picture that I have ever had in my house. All were pleased who saw it. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. Farmers town of 806. W. C. Herndon, Liberty Theatre (250 seats), Valliant, Oklahoma.



Ralph Graves in "The Beloved Bozo," which Mack Sennett made for Pathe.

SUNSET TRAIL. Star, William Desmond. Had to duck as they were coming out. One fellow told me I should be put in jail for such a picture. Played it for a western and it is, perhaps, but tame is putting it mildly. Aboslutely no action. R. L. Nowell, Jr., Idlehour Theatre, Monroe, Georgia.

TORNADO. (6,576 feet). Star cast. Fine special, but cannot get the people to come out on Universal pictures here. This picture deserves a big house and will please them all. Tone, okay. Sunday, possible. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. All classes. Admission 10-25-30. W. H. Odom, Pastime Theatre (250 seats), Sandersville, Georgia.

WESTERN WALLOP. Star, Jack Hoxie. Average western drama, just lukewarm. Leading girl not so good. Too much of a flapper for the owner of a big ranch. Hoxie always good. Ladies like him. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, fifty per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

WESTERN WALLOP. Star, Jack Hoxie. Hoxie always draws them on Saturday, but was disappointed in the picture. My patrons like a western that is full of action, but somehow I can't get hold of one. R. L. Nowell, Jr., Idlehour Theatre, Monroe, Georgia.

Vitagraph

BETWEEN FRIENDS. (6,900 feet). Star, Anna Q. Nilsson. People here were enthusiastic in their praises of this production and it went over nicely. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

BETWEEN FRIENDS. (6,900 feet). Star, Alice Calhoun. Some of the sub-titles decided "off color" otherwise all right. Why spoil an otherwise good picture by one short rotten scene or title. Special, no. Audience appeal, hard to tell. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

BORROWED HUSBANDS. (7,000 feet). Star, Florence Vidor. Poor vehicle for Florence Vidor. Fair picture. Very light. Special, no. Vanzo & Kopuster, Eagle Theatre, Livingston, Illinois.

CAPTAIN BLOOD. (10,680 feet). Star, J. Warren Kerrigan. A wonderful production intensely interesting from start to finish. A story of a freebooter's spectacular adventures on land and sea in the seventeenth century. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

CLEAN HEART. (7,950 feet). Star, Percy Marmont. Filled with strong human interest and self sacrifice. It should appeal to all for its humorous, emotional and dramatic action.

A very good picture for all classes in any locality. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

CLEAN HEART. (7,950 feet). Star cast. "The Clean Heart" is in a class by itself. It's different and they all say it is fine. Marmont is at his best. Book it and boost it. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Average audience appeal. Small town class town of 1,500. Admission 10-25. T. W. Cannon, Majestic Theatre (315 seats), Greenfield, Tennessee.

CODE OF THE WILDERNESS. (7,000 feet). Star cast. My patrons told me it was the best out-door picture they had seen in months. Evidently everybody was pleased and so was I. Business was okay. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

GREATER THAN MARRIAGE. Star, Lou Tellegen. A very satisfactory picture and pleased generally. Direction very good. It is simply up to the director to make a good story and, my, how some of them misjudge the public. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. General class town of 3,600. Admission 10-20. William A. Clark Sr., Castle Theatre (400 seats), Havana, Illinois.

MIDNIGHT ALARM. (6,000 feet). Star cast. Benefit Fire Company, very good picture. Everyone well satisfied. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special for firemen's benefit. Audience appeal, eighty per cent. All classes town of 2,800. Admission 10-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

MY MAN. (6,800 feet). Star, Dustin Farnum. A very good picture. Miller and Farnum at their best. Sunday, yes. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre, Buena Vista, Virginia.

TWO SHALL BE BORN. (6 reels). Star cast. The title is the only bad thing about this picture. It's lots better than the average program—and the price is right. Tone O. K. Yes for Sunday but no for special. Draw small town class, town of 3,300. Admission 15-20. P. L. Vann, Opera House (650 seats), Greenville, Alabama.

ONE LAW FOR THE WOMAN. (6 reels). Star cast. Out of door picture that got by. Not so sexy and trashy as a great many recent ones. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. Small town class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

Warner Bros

CONDUCTOR 1492. (6,500 feet). Star, Johnny Hines. Good comedy feature. Pleased one hundred per cent. and brought them out. Good, about the best Hines has done to date ought to be good in any house. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Better class town of 4,000. Admission 10-30. Jos. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

CORNERED. (7,500 feet). Star, Marie Prevost. Warners never fail. A picture that we received many good comments on. Drew fair crowd. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Coal miners town of 1,365. Admission 10-20. Vanzo & Kopuster, Eagle Theatre (300 seats), Livingston, Illinois.

COUNTRY KID. (6,300 feet). Star, Wesley Barry. Good program picture satisfied almost one hundred per cent. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Appeals to better class. Admission 10-30. J. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

DADDIES. (6,800 feet). Star cast. Pleased the majority but being over-sold lost money on it. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

DADDIES. (6,800 feet). Star cast. Good program picture. Pleased almost one hundred per cent. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Appeals to all classes. Better class town of 4,000. Admission 10-30. Jos. Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

VIRGINIA VANCE
Is one of the mirthmakers in Educational's Cameo comedies

MARRIAGE CIRCLE. (8,500 feet). Star, Monte Blue. Hand it to Lubitsch. He sure did produce a real one in this. It's great. Go the limit on this one. It will stand up. Some great stuff in this one boys. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, by all means. Appeals to all classes. Better class town of 4,000. Admission 10-30. Joseph Angros Jr., Palace Theatre, Leechburg, Pennsylvania.

MARRIAGE CIRCLE. (8,500 feet). Star, Monte Blue. Unquestionably one of the best pictures of its kind ever made and the more intelligent people were especially enthusiastic in their praise. Buy it and don't be afraid to tell your people how good it is. The picture will fully back you up. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

WHERE THE NORTH BEBINS. (6,000 feet). Star, Rin-Tin-Tin (dog). Very fine dog picture. Everybody pleased. The dog seems to be almost human. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

Comedies

BARNUM JR. (Educational). Star, John Fox. Pleased all the kids. Dunno how the adults liked it as heard no comments from them. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

BUSHER. (Educational). One of the best two reel comedies I have seen in a long time. Taken from the famous "You Know Me, Al" baseball letters, written by Ring Lardner. The baseball game is a riot. Real funny. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

CAKE EATER. (Pathe). Star, Will Rogers. The best Rogers comedy we have ever had. His others have been very poor. Tone, none. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

ELECTRICAL ELOPEMENT. (Fox). A good comedy with some good laugh provoking material in it. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedburg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

FLICKERING YOUTH. (Pathe). Star, Harry Langdon. Very good comedy. Langdon is one of the best and his stuff is all new. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Great audience appeal. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Giles Master, Strand Theatre, Gallup, New Mexico.

HIGH BROW STUFF. (Pathe). Star, Will Rogers. Two reels of agony not a laugh in it. Why do they make such stuff. Will Rogers does not draw for me. Print good. Sunday, yes. No audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

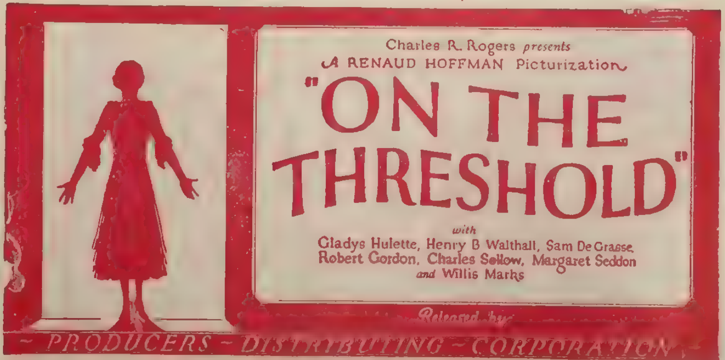
HOT DOG. (C. B. C.) This comedy is acted entirely by small animals. If you are looking for something to please the people, give them this. It will go over one hundred per cent. Tone, none. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Neighborhood class town of 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

MIDNIGHT BLUES. (Educational). Star, Lige Conley. An especially good comedy that would be appropriate at the Halloween season. Whenever we see the names of "Jack White" and "Lige Conley" on a 1-sheet, we know there's a good laugh coming. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. General audience appeal. Rural class town of 500. Admission 10-30. Charles W. Lewis, I. O. O. F. Theatre (225 seats), Grand Gorge, New York.

MIDNIGHT WATCH. (Asher Comedies). Another good for nothing comedy. Don't play it. Print new. No audience appeal. All classes in big city. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

NEW SHERIFF. (Educational). Here is a humdinger of a two reel comedy, they laugh and then they laugh some more. Two reels. Educational sure has the comedies and it takes real comedies to get over with the fans. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, yes. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

VAN BIBBER SERIES. (Fox). Real laugh-getting two reelers. Pleased most any audience. Better than any two reel comedy. Don't draw much but pleased those who came. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Coal miners town of



Now Booking

Charles R. Rogers presents
A RENAUD HOFFMAN Picturization
"ON THE THRESHOLD"
with
Gladys Hulette, Henry B. Walthall, Sam De Grasse, Robert Gordon, Charles Sellow, Margaret Seddon and Willis Marks
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

1,365. Admission 10-20. Vanzo & Kopuster, Eagle Theatre (300 seats), Livingston, Illinois.

WHY HURRY. (Educational). This is a very pleasing comedy. Has lots of laughs and new gags. All classes town of 3,000. Admission 10-30. M. W. Larmour, National Theatre (430 seats), Graham, Texas.

Serials

INTO THE NET. (Pathe). Star cast. Feature edition. Looked like the features of eight years ago. Melodrama, possibly suitable for a night run. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

IRON MAN. (Universal). One of the best stunt serials we have shown for a long time. Have just finished the 15th episode. We played it for the kids and it got them every Saturday for packed houses. Family class city of 600,000. E. Barker, College Playhouse, Toronto, Canada.

Short Subjects

GETTING GOING. (F. B. O.) First episode of the "Go-Getters" and it is a corker. Am praying that all the other eleven will be as good as this one. Truly a little gem (as F. B. O. calls it) and it should go over with a bang anywhere. Have played "Fighting Blood" and "Telephone Girls." The fact that we have booked "Go-Getters" is ample proof that the first two series must have delivered the goods. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Very strong audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

PATHE NEWS. This is as good as any news but doubt its value to the small town program where it has to be used so old that it has no news value and is merely a pictorial magazine of forgotten events. High class town of 3,200. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

SPORTLIGHTS. (Pathe). These entertain and fill in the place of a comedy with more appeal to lots of people. However, I do not think they should come more than one every two weeks. Tone, yes. Sunday, yes. Special, no. High class town of 3,200. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

TELEPHONE GIRL SERIES. (F. B. O.) Star cast. Have just finished this series and wish to advise everyone of Our Gang who have not played this one to do so before the prints wear out. While not better, this series is every bit as good as the "Fighting Blood" series and will satisfy your fans from beginning to end. This type of picture is far superior to serials and is a good business stimulator. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Strong audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

"Our Gang" is the finest group of exhibitors you can find anywhere.

Their contributions come from all over the United States—and other countries.

The service they do touches and brightens the exhibitor's lot in every corner of the globe.

ARE YOU SENDING TIPS?

UNREAL NEWS REEL NO. 4. (Fox). A bum excuse for a two reel comedy. Lay off. They are about the worst you can buy. Prints good. Sunday, no. No audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

Independent

ACROSS THE DEAD LINE. (William Steiner). Star, Leo Maloney. A very good picture. Pleased a Saturday night crowd nearly one hundred per cent. The dog "Bullett" registered with the "fans" as usual. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Fine audience appeal. Small town class town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

BAREFOOT BOY. (State Right). Star cast. Very good for program. Sufficient action to hold interest. Juvenile parts exceedingly well done. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

BLOOD AND STEEL. (State Right). Star, Helen Holmes. A cut and dried railroad drama with the exception that Helen Holmes fails to do her stuff. Usual runaway engine about to collide with special, Helen and horse swim river, pulls switch in nick of time and ditches runaway engine. Usual clinch and fade away. Tone good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, 50 per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

CALIBRE 45. (State Right). Star, Franklyn Farnum. This is about the worst Farnum that I have run, but he is not bad in any of his pictures. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

CALIBRE 45. (State Right). Star, Franklyn Farnum. Not so good. Ordinary western that doesn't set well, not much to it. Wouldn't advise playing. Not suitable for Sunday. Tone, okay. Special, no. No audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

FAST AND FEARLESS. (Artclass). Star, Buffalo Bill, Jr. A promising star, and a pleasing western. Tone okay. Appeal 75 per cent. Yes for Sunday but no as special. Draw masses, city 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre (350 seats), Birmingham, Alabama.

THE FLASH. Star, George Larkin. Fair program picture that seemed to please generally. Draw all classes, city 10,000. Admission 10-20. Al C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

JACQUELINE. (Arrow). Star, Lew Cody. A Curwood story and a very good picture bought right, and made some money. Print good. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

MADEMOISELLE MIDNIGHT. (6,775 feet). Star, Mae Murray. Did not take here. Don't like Mae Murray here, but picture was very good. She doesn't wear any gowns in this, a Mexican picture with action. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. All classes town of 2,800. Admission 10-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

MIDNIGHT SECRETS. (State Right). Star, George Larkin. Good drama with plenty of action. This boy Larkin is always good. Also a pretty fair cast. Sunday, yes Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

PAINTED FLAPPER. (Chadwick). Star, Pauline Garon. Pretty fair little picture. Full of pep first four reels. A little slow to finish. Camera work and photography very fine. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

PASSION PLAY. (Bland Bros.) Star cast A very good religious story and goes good this time of the year. Played to S. R. O. on every showing. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, 100 per cent. Mixed class town of 800. Admission 15-25. Jerry Wertin, Winter Theatre (250 seats), Albany, Minnesota.

RAINBOW RANGERS. (Progress). Star, Pete Morrison. A jam up. Good western full of comedy. The negro is good. The Progress Pictures Co. select a pretty good bunch of pictures. Tone okay. Sunday, yes. Not a special. Good audience appeal. General class town of 3,600. Admission 10-20. William A. Clark, Sr., Castle Theatre (400 seats), Havana, Illinois.

RIP SNORTER. (Arrow). Star, Dick Hatton. A zippy western with a popular star and his two horses, "Star" and "Beverly." Tone okay. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family class city of 300,000. Admission 10-20. Ed Dubinsky, Regent Theatre (680 seats), Kansas City, Missouri.

SELL 'EM COWBOY. (Arrow). Star, Yakima Canutt. Very good picture. Very funny. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre, Buena Vista, Virginia.

SPEED KING. (Phil Goldstone). Star, Dick Talmadge. Comedy drama, popular theme and a picture. Make good anywhere. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Program picture. Family class city of 300,000. Admission 10-20. Ed Dubinsky, Regent Theatre (680 seats), Kansas City, Missouri.

SPEED KING. (Phil Goldstone). Star, Richard Talmadge. A fast moving drama-comic. Please any audience. Tone, okay. Sunday, good. Good program picture. Family audience appeal. City of 30,000. Admission 10-20. Ed Dubinsky, Regent Theatre (600 seats), Kansas City, Missouri.

THREE DAYS TO LIVE. Star, Ora Carewe. Despite the fact that this is simply serial stuff, the picture "took" and went over very nicely. All classes, city 10,000. Admission 10-20. Al C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

Over 500 Newspapers Printing Serialization of Vitagraph Film

FIVE hundred and five newspapers in the United States and Canada, having a combined circulation of approximately twenty-one millions, are now printing James Oliver Curwood's famous novel, "Baree, Son of Kazan," in serial form.

They are taking advantage of a free service offer made by Vitagraph. Actually, the number of those that have accepted is considerably in excess of 505, the total which had been reached up to Wednesday of this week.

John B. Rock, general manager of Vitagraph, called attention to the fact that the previous high water mark reached in the publication of a novel, through facilities extended by a motion picture distributing organization, was attained last year, when 474 newspapers published serializations of Rafael Sabatini's "Captain Blood."

It is worthy of remark, too, that a very large number of the papers which used Vitagraph's "Captain Blood" service were prompt to take advantage of the offer for "Baree, Son of Kazan," thus giving evidence of their enthusiasm over such a fictionization arrangement as a booster of circulation.

Mr. Rock also pointed out that, although David Smith is now finishing the production of "Baree, Son of Kazan," for Vitagraph, and the photoplay special has been set for release April 19, the fictionization service is being given without any obligation whatsoever on the part of the newspapers. There are no strings to the offer. The distribution is handled by a special staff at the Vitagraph offices, working entirely independently of the booking department. Newspapers in communities in which the picture has not been contracted for are treated on precisely the same basis as those at centers where arrangements have been made for early showings.

Dempsey Starts Work on "Manhattan Madness"

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, and his wife, Estelle Taylor, will start to work this week on the Coast in the production of their first picture for Associated Exhibitors.

According to J. S. Woody, general manager of the Associated Exhibitors, Dempsey's contract with the Associated Exhibitors calls for a very large stipulated salary in addition to a share in the profits of the picture.

It is the plan of the Associated Exhibitors to heavily exploit the Dempsey picture. A nationwide billboard campaign will be waged months in advance of the release of the picture.

Arrangements were completed last week at Los Angeles for the rental of a studio, and the work of production has started. The picture, "Manhattan Madness," will be made under the supervision of Oscar Price.

This is the first feature-length picture in which the prominent fighter has taken the star role. The story of "Manhattan Madness" was originally produced in pictures by Triangle with Douglas Fairbanks in the starring role.

Start Special Campaign on Columbia's "Fighting the Flames"

COLUMBIA PICTURES have started a special publicity and exploitation campaign on their latest release, "Fighting The Flames." Jack Cohn showed the picture to officials of the California Fire Department before he brought the first print to the East with him. He had the use of their apparatus and they played a big part in many of the scenes making sure that many phases of the fireman's life would be authentically represented.

The studio organization received many congratulations and the unqualified endorsement of the officials who saw the picture, stating that the story depicted accurately the life of the fireman in its proper light.

There are many excellent exploitation possibilities in this picture and with such enthusiastic approval they decided to get behind the picture with an extra hard push.

A special supplement to the press book has been sent giving in detail a number of possible money making tie-ups which the exhibitor can use to great advantage.

Another supplement is now in work which will give much extra advertising material in addition to that which is already in the press book.

Exchanges in all territories will have prints on this picture in their hands this week and many are arranging special showings to which the fire-officials will be urgently invited.

The previews already given promise a smashing success for this picture.

Circuits Close for "Charley's Aunt"

Paul C. Mooney, vice president of Producers Distributing Corporation, reports the closing of contracts with five of the biggest circuits for the presentation of Al. Christie's big feature "Charley's Aunt" immediately following its current long runs in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Among the chains closed are Famous Players for the entire Southern circuit; the A. H. Blank circuit for the entire Des Moines territory; the West Coast Theatre Circuit for its entire chain; Jensen and Von Herberg; and the U. B. O. circuit in New York.

Fox News Scores Beat

Fox News scored a beat on the disastrous fire at Palm Beach, Fla., being the only newsreel to release motion pictures of the conflagration that completely destroyed the Breakers and Palm Beach hotels, two of the fashionable hostelries of the popular southern resort, with a damage loss of over $7,000,000.

Every one of the big Broadway motion picture theatres utilized the exclusive subject in their news magazines.

Ray Starts "Some Pumpkins"

Charles Ray, the newest star of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation, started work this week on "Some Pumpkins," the first of a series of four specials which he will make for that company this year. This production will be typical of the kind of unsophisticated comedy-drama that first established Ray among the leading male stars of the screen.

Ray's leading woman will be Duane Thompson, whose interpretation of country girl roles in Christie comedies is responsible for the prediction that she will be an ideal foil for the star. Mary Carr will play Ray's mother. The general supervision of "Some Pumpkins" is in the hands of Joseph De Grasse. Jerome Storm will direct.

Sternbach Enters New Field

Bert Sternbach, for several years the Assistant Manager of the Hollywood Studios of the Century Film Corporation, producers of Century Comedies, has resigned to enter the theatrical costuming business in Hollywood.

Now Booking
Harry Carey in "The Bad Lands"
A Super Thriller with Thousands of Real Indians
A Hunt Stromberg personally supervised production
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

"The White Monkey" Started; Barbara La Marr is Starred

FOLLOWING several weeks of careful preparation, Associated Pictures Corporation began filming "The White Monkey," the next Sawyer-Lubin production on March 25.

The scenes for the picturization of John Galsworthy's novel, which will present Barbara La Marr, will be made at Universal Studios, Fort Lee, N. J., under the direction of Phil Rosen.

In addition to Barbara La Marr, the cast includes at the present moment, Charles Mack, Thomas Holding, Flora Le Breton, famous English actress and stage beauty; George Marion, celebrated for his characterization of the old sea captain in "Anne Christie," and Tammany Young, the well known character player.

The photography will be in charge of Rudolph Bergquist, assisted by Charles Levine. Production details will be under the management of Barney Lubin, while Al Hall will assist Phil Rosen.

San Diego Studios Scheduled for Uninterrupted Activity

"THE Grossmont Studios will now go ahead full speed. Contracts signed with independent producers assure a spring and summer of uninterrupted activity. Our long and careful preparation in fully equipping the studio and engaging an expert technical force, was made in full anticipation of such an eventual condition."

Such is the message Harry M. Owens, president of the San Diego Cinema Corp., brought back after a visit to Hollywood during which he closed contracts for the making of 23 pictures in addition to those already arranged for production at the Grossmont Studios, just outside of San Diego.

Clifford S. Elfeld, after a visit to the studios, is planning a heavy production schedule at the Southland studio. He will make in the near future 6 James Oliver Curwood productions; 8 Western whirlwind speed dramas from stories by Frank Howard Clark; 8 features starring Ken Maynard, world's champion trick rider, with his famous equine, "Tarzan, King of Horses." and in which 6 famous Pacific Coast bathing beauties, each a winner in coastwise beauty contests, will appear; and one special production, "The Courage of Captain Plum," by James Oliver Curwood.

Eight months have been spent by Mr. Owens and his associates in preparing the big Grossmont studio for production. Surprisingly moderate rentals are offered independent concerns, as well as financial backing in production.

Books All Vitagraph Films

100 Per Cent Booking by Salt Lake City Ward Houses Transforms Deficit Into a Profit

By the simple expedient of booking every Vitagraph release as it becomes available, authorities in charge of more than forty entertainment halls in Salt Like City have transformed a deficit into a consistent profit.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints maintains one of these halls in each of the ecclesiastical wards of the city, and in each there is a weekly picture presentation, for which a nominal admission price is charged. The purpose is to provide recreation and entertainment for young people and those in charge insist that only photoplays that are scrupulously clean shall be shown.

For years the hall in Wasatch ward failed to meet expenses and the committee in charge was faced with a serious problem. In seeking a way out the committee called at the Vitagraph branch office and stated the situation. The branch manager suggested the filming of Vitagraph's "My Wild Irish Rose" and that attraction was screened at the next weekly entertainment.

That evening marked a turning point. It was found that after the payment of expenses a sum remained to be added to the ward's recreational fund.

Schulberg Buys "Plastic Age"; Will Be Next Season's Release

"THE PLASTIC AGE," by Percy Marks, one of the biggest fiction sellers of 1924, will be included in the program to be filmed next season by B. P. Schulberg Productions, according to a statement just made by the producer.

Published by the Century Company, "The Plastic Age" took an immediate bound into the fiction hits and for eight consecutive months headed the Best Sellers List compiled by the Publishers Association. It has already reached the phenomenal sale of approximately one hundred thousand copies, with the demand still mounting.

By no means of secondary importance is the circulation "The Plastic Age" is obtaining through its syndication to big city newspapers. It has recently been published in the New York Evening Journal and arrangements for its appearance have been concluded with papers in Albany, Rochester, Syracuse, Washington, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston, Atlanta, Detroit and Baltimore. The reading public it will reach in these cities totals close to three million.

Commenting upon this significant purchase, Mr. Schulberg said: "Our organization has consistently pursued a policy of big stories, but I feel that we have never had one that approached 'The Plastic Age' in importance. Like 'Black Oxen,' 'So Big,' 'Flaming Youth' and the other tremendous sellers it is known by practically every person in the United States. Its exploitation possibilities surpass any story that will be filmed next year."

Tom McNamara Signed

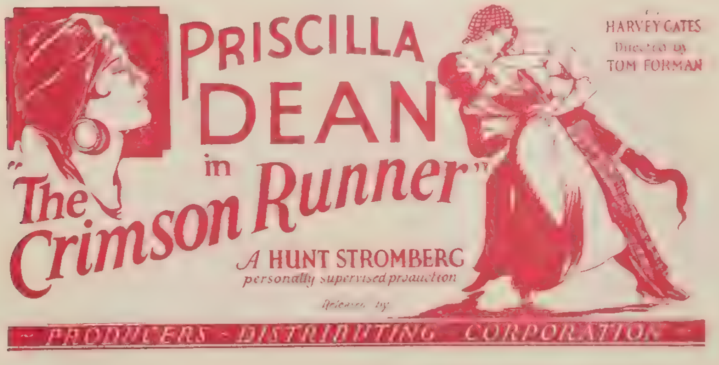
Tom McNamara, the famous creator of children's comic pictures, will provide the same brand of infectious humor for Mary Pickford's forthcoming production, "Little Annie Rooney" that he puts in his comics.

McNamara has been signed to assist in the story that Miss Pickford is to do. It deals with a gang of dirty-faced youngsters in the slums of New York. Of course Mary is the leader of the gang, and the picture marks her return to the role of a saucy young imp, always in trouble and just as regularly getting out of it.

Release Date Changed

Due to a recent revision of its feature release program, Associated Exhibitors announced that "The Sky Raider," which was previously announced for release on March 8, was finally made available on April 5.

Now Booking



THE FIRST RUN

PRESENTATIONS — PROLOGUES — MUSIC

Developing Presentations

By

Colby Harriman

"FOR as Nature rewardeth the bee with honey, so Art recompenseth the painful student with riches, praise and honor."

These words have been expressed in many different ways since the days of 1599 A. D. when Gulielmus Fulbeckus uttered them.

Presentations were unknown in his time; the visionary mortal who even dared to prophesy that pictures would some day move was in danger of the Inquisitional Chamber; Drama, such as it was, led a hectic existence. So frustrated was the development of Art by the rulings of Church and State, that the enforced limitations surrounding the composition of the subject made it imperative for students of the Arts to master the rudiments prescribed for them by governmental agencies. In the small category of Arts which embraced Painting, Music and Book-writing, it was necessary for the fine-artisans, in order to meet the edicts of the Powers, to so concentrate on the rudiments of the chosen task, that the conclusion would win approval to continue unmolested.

Perhaps this accounts for the small number of men whose achievements are recorded. It was a survival of the fittest; the weaker and less ambitious artisan was counted out. Those students who surmounted the many obstacles, who endured hardships for Art's sake, lived through the days fraught with tedious and laborious activities in the preparation and development of their subjects ultimately achieved their objective. They survived their present status, met the test, and attained "riches, praise and honor."

History doesn't repeat itself, rather continues; the basic principles of an art from its inception through its achievements to ultimate recognition are the same today as in past centuries. It is absolutely impossible for a man to attain a well-rounded success in any branch of the Arts unless he is willing to concentrate on its development to the minutest degree.

The reward of recognition comes only to the man who performs his work every day in the very best way he knows, constantly striving toward the improvement of his methods. There is a direct application to the producer of presentations and prologues. Only by regarding this form of production work in the sense that it is an individual art, to be pursued in the same manner as is used in achieving expression in other arts, will he find that his successes are more numerous.

So many producers create real interest in a presentation one week, and the following week's effort shows evidences of a reaction due to the previous week's inspiration. To stage a comeback, which is nothing more than re-creating interest, the effort required is of greater proportions than if an even balance had been maintained. Good productions should not be "occasional" as patrons favor houses where dependability rules in weekly programs.

I can hear some of my readers say that it is a physical impossibility for a producer to strike "ten" every week as it would be for Babe Ruth to stage a "homer" every time he goes to the bat. However, this business is not a matter of averages—but one of standards.

Being irregular in one's production work can be interpreted only as being careless, for the producer who creates one attractive feature and then lapses into mediocrity, shows a lack of consistent planning, the absence of a fixed routine and a hackneyed method in achieving subject matter.

It is not my purpose to preach nor censure, and the constant hammering which I am doing relative to the maintenance of a better program is rather a plea. When producers generally become awakened to the idea that they are trail-blazers, men whose work is being minutely recorded and upon whose production efforts will rise the framework of the presentation art of the future, a new meaning will be given their endeavors.

The only agency we have to contend with today in the development of our art, is the public. Through our own efforts we have taught it to demand certain things of us, and we must not show irritation when the public insists upon that which it has a right to expect.

In developing this art, giving it a personality and an individualism we must see that it is, withal, popular. Otherwise we will not have any work to do—we will not have any art.

Genuine enjoyment is derived in producing the type of things the public like. It is better for one to do the sort of thing that can be understood and enjoyed by the majority of people, than the so-called "high-brow stuff" which only a few privileged individuals may comprehend.

One of the real factors of success in this work, is the ability to see the artistic side of life from the angle which pleases the majority of people. It is necessary for one to live intimately with the ideas during the formative period. In this way the producer can put his artistic idea across because he feels the particular emotion which he wishes to express to a far greater degree than does the public. Just as a musician is able to stir the emotional enthusiasm of his audience only through the greater magnitude of his own feeling, so it is with the producer, whose medium is scenery, light, and artists.

After all, the measure of greatness in art which will "recompense the painful student with riches, praise and honor," is the power to stir the imagination. The art which fails to do this, however technically correct, falls short.

Pioneers in Presentations
Hugo Riesenfeld

Managing Director, Rivoli, Rialto and Criterion Theatres, New York City

A Series in Which Mr. Harriman Chats About Recognized Leaders

TO begin an article about Dr. Riesenfeld by telling who he is would be quite unnecessary to all those who keep in touch with the best in motion picture presentations. But for those who are not intimately familiar with the particular kind of work he does, Hugo Riesenfeld is best identified as not only one of the best composers of motion picture scores, but a single individual who has done more to elevate the standard of music in the motion picture theatre and the impresario of musical presentations and prologues.

The Doctor has recently celebrated his sixth anniversary on Broadway. It would be impossible to estimate the influence his many artistic programs have had in the cause of music. In temperament and personality he is a musician, an artist, but he has a highly developed business ability and is basically a clever showman.

Riesenfeld pioneered in this particular form of music. He had a definite program which he believed would become popular, and surrounding himself with a selected group of artists he proceeded to make his dreams come true. His various presentations became known for their exquisite musical settings, and it is safe to say that there is a huge majority of the people who attend his theatres principally because of the excellent music which is offered.

The purport of the chat with the Doctor was to get his idea, secret, plan or system for the application of music to presentations. His eyes twinkled as he regarded the expectant expression of his caller, who was determined to get a definite answer to this oft-proffered question.

"Experimenting," he said, "and watching the public while you are doing it." That wasn't exactly the answer we expected, but it was a stepping stone.

"In arranging the presentations for our theatres, we have found that those that get over best are the ones in which well-known music is used, be it dance, song or instrumental number. In the case of the dance numbers we have been particularly successful with the "Serenade" by Drigo, "The Glow Worm," "Valse Bluette" and "The Swan." "Air de Ballet" by Chaminade; "Dance of the Hours" from "La Giaconda" by Ponchielli; "Bacchanale" from "Samson and Delilah" by Massenet; "Egyptian Ballet" by Luigini; "Persian March," by Strauss, and "Naila" by Delibes.

"Ballet dancing has of late returned to the stage victorious, resuming the place it so rightly deserves. For many years it was an exile. With its revived popularity, the so-called Greek dancing which was introduced by Isadora Duncan and which reigned supreme on every stage, had to be satisfied with a minor part.

HUGO RIESENFELD

"Dances involving team work on the part of two or more performers get over better than any other kind. By experimenting we have found that even mediocre dancers, with their movements rhythmical and precisely alike, have aroused spectators to admiring applause.

"Apropos of this, we at one time engaged an excellent dancer to perform to a certain piece of music. It was not a success. We then employed the same piece of music for a dance by two young girls—I might call them the chorus girl type. They did their job neatly and crisply, with perfect synchronization and were a great success.

"It is by this utilization of team work that successes are achieved."

As the conversation drifted along the musical route, Dr. Riesenfeld said that he had discovered the constantly growing preference for songs in the language of the country.

"They want to be able to understand what is being sung, when a vocalist appears in a presentation or prologue. For this reason every conductor and producer should insist that the artist he engages has a distinct pronunciation. In winning appreciation for a vocal number, clear pronunciation is half the battle."

One feature of presentation toward which Riesenfeld has given particular study is the development of "atmospheric prologues" with a musical background. Primarily a prologue so devised should aim to create atmosphere for the feature picture. This phase of the chat reached an interesting climax. Here was a subject that was full of potentialities, was the big problem—creating an atmospheric act that was truly atmospheric.

"Multitudes of sins are committed in the name of atmosphere acts," the Doctor stated. "There seems to be a tendency among some producers to extract a scene from the picture and try to duplicate it in an act. This I consider very poor showmanship. It shows absolute deficiency of imagination—an inability to invent something original.

"May I give another reason why I consider this poor showmanship? If the act is performed better than the film scene we do harm to the picture. After all, our chief mission so long as we are connected with the motion picture theatre is to present the picture in the best light possible. If the act is not as well performed as the scene from which it is taken there is no excuse for staging it. Why show something second rate when a first-rate rendition of the same thing is to be seen later on? Is it reasonable to suppose that the latter situation will occur? We are pitting the limited material we have available against the highest paid and most talented artists and against wonderful stage-settings, the best of technical experts and everything that money can produce in a motion picture studio.

"If you will permit me to give advice out of my own experience I should say that one should use prologues of this character only where there is definite local color in a picture; that is, when there is an atmospheric background which adapts itself to good music and settings. This occurs most frequently in the case of films which have a foreign setting, particularly those depicting life in Russia, Italy, Holland or the Slavic and Balkan countries, Spain and South America. The picturesque costumes and the native songs and dances of these countries can be reproduced with great success. A prologue of this sort supplements the picture. It creates an atmosphere without arousing odious comparison.

"As in the case of all other units of a motion picture program, music is the most important factor to consider in preparing an atmospheric act. There is available a large enough assortment of music by native composers to make it possible to represent nearly every country claiming the individual composer."

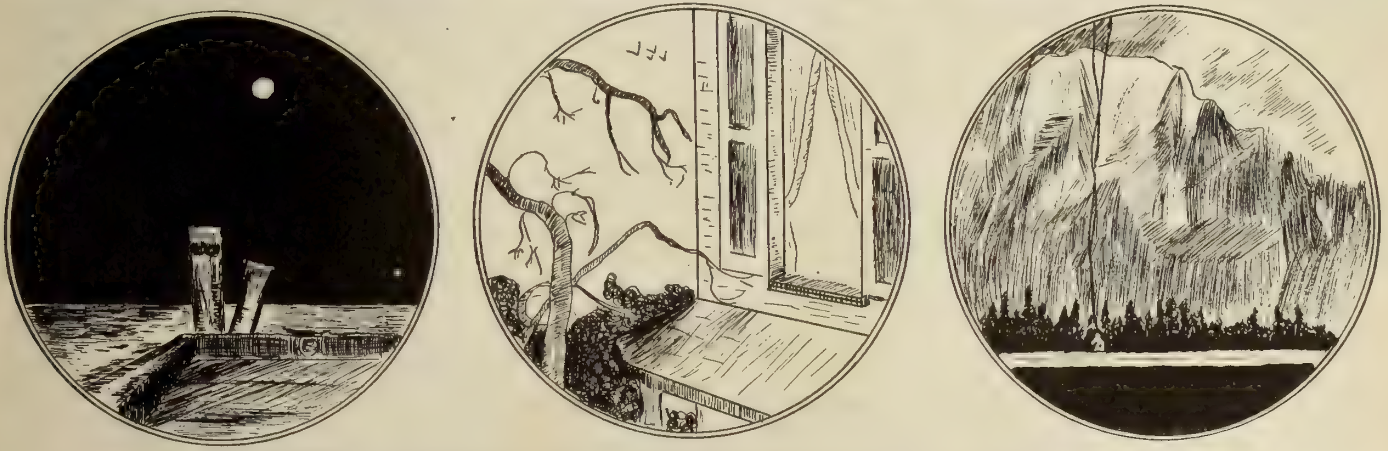
As a courtesy, Riesenfeld gave me a list which contained suggestions of a few composers whose compositions might prove helpful in arranging the musical setting for a regional prologue.

(Continued on next page.)

A Moving Picture World Presentation

Complete subject matter for a novel prologue or presentation will appear weekly in this department. Any producer engaged in this type of production work in motion picture theatres is entitled to use th esuggestion in its entiret yor make his own adaptation.

Working plans, complete in every detail, are available on the presentation suggested herewith. Blueprints have been prepared with view to aiding showmen who may desire to avail themselves of the Colby Harriman suggestions. Music cue sheets, color diagrams and costume plates are included. Same may be secured without charge by requesting same of the editor.



THREE SUGGESTIONS FOR CAMEO SETTINGS, SUITABLE FOR ANY STAGE

Three Suggestions
for
CAMEO SETTINGS
Moving Picture World Presentations
Devised by Colby Harriman

The suggestions offered this week especially relate to that form of presentation which is not of sufficient magnitude to invest with a full stage set, but of sufficient importance to demand a scenic background. In this category come such numbers as "prologue songs," singers, violinists, and other artists of similar classification.

Such numbers on the program demand simplicity in scenic construction to permit easy adjustment to the stage.

Each of the suggestions herewith are arranged to be used with a circular opening in the masking drop.

The drop which can be hung in about one can be tied taut on the batten or a drapery effect achieved with black velvet or plush framed around the opening. The opening should be between ten to twelve feet in diameter according to the size of the stage and the depth to operate in.

The first plate is suitable for a sea song, ballad or sonata arrangement. A scrim should be hung directly over the opening. The pier is the corner of a platform, boxed on the upper and right sides to give a beam effect. Two spiles made of profile can be placed at the upper right hand corner. The back drop is a combination sky and water. The moon can be stationary or a moon-box used. A yellow-blue moon, in a deep purple sky, with a purple-green water treatment highlighted with a water ripple toned with canary will render a picturesque scene. The artist stands on the platform and highlighted from the sides.

The second plate is an ideal setting for a Spring song or love ballad emphasizing Nature. A flat piece with a window and a flap roof occupies the opening left of center. A light green foliage row is painted on the base of the back drop which is done in mottled light blue. A cloud effect toned with a rose and canary medium plays on the back drop. A set tree, the scraggy branches of which are visible at right. The singer appears at the window, the shutters can be practical and permit them to open for the song and closed at finale.

The third plate is a colorful suggestion for a Spring song, or a western aria. The foreground is an indefinable row upon which the artist stands or reclines. A thin strip of white, which is gradually toned canary, light amber, green and deep blue marks the dividing line between the front row or platform and the back drop. The back drop suggests snow-laden mountains which slowly take on the green tones of summer as the snow is centralized at the top. Clouds are seen moving at the crest of the mountain and can be set to shroud the top of the mountain outline. A deep foliage line is at the base of the rocks. A small hut is visible and two narrow gray-blue ribbons may be used to stream out the tracery of smoke.

Starting With Next Issue

Purchasing Guide and Production Supplies Report

Reliable information relative to new materials and equipment suitable for production work, also new devices, special effects and recent experiments.

National Music Week

We are interested to know details relative to forthcoming plans for National Music Week. This department would appreciate programs suggested for motion picture theatre houses permitting a tie-up with local musical organizations. The programs will be printed with full credit.

HUGO RIESENFELD

(Continued from previous page)

FRENCH—Massenet, Bizet, Gounod, Ganne, Delibes, Lacombe, Godard, Boisdeffre.

RUSSIAN-POLISH—Rubinstein, Tschaikowsky, Glinka, Moslowski, Moussorgshy, Ippolitow-Ivanow.

SPANISH-MEXICAN—Sarasete's "Spanish Dances," Bizet, Gomez, Chabrier, Albeniz, Granados, Yradier, Moskowski's "Spanish Dances", Massenet's "Le Cid Suite."

AMERICAN—Hosmer, Herbert, Hadley, Wilson, Nevin, MacDowell.

AMERICAN-INDIAN—Herbert, Cadman, Skilton, Dvorak.

SOUTH AMERICAN—Any kind of Tango.

CHINESE-JAPANESE—Yamada, Baroh, Fay Foster, Debussy, Rebikow.

ENGLISH-SCOTCH-IRISH—Elgar, Grainger, Lauder, Coates, Shannon, Middleton, Herbert.

NORWEGIAN—Jarnefelt, Greig, Jensen, Svendsen.

HUNGARIAN—Liszt, Brahms, Hubay, Sarasate, Nachez, Kela-Bela.

VIENNESE—Lanner, Kreisler, Johan Strauss, Haydn.

GERMAN—Mozart, Wagner, Brahms.

HAWAIIAN—Kailimai and Cunha, Kawelo, Tyers, Marple.

EAST INDIAN—Amy Woodford Finden.

ALGERIAN—Saint-Saens "Suite Algerienne."

AFRICAN-ARABIAN—Ring's "African Dances," "Arabian Dances."

As his last word, the Doctor said he wished to emphasize "that whatever the presentation, the prologue, or act, it is the music which in most cases puts it over."

Capitol Theatre

New York City

Dance Hindoo

Miss Doris Niles is presented by Mr. Rothafel in a very novel setting of simple construction. A drop hangs in two upon which is painted delicate traceries of palm leaves. The leaves cluster at the extreme sides of the drop and form a scant border outline. Two thin, twisting, vine-like trunks of palm trees rise from the right and left center of the drop. The leaves and thin trunks are in black. The entire drop is flooded from the back with orange amber. A water ripple, highlighted with canary, is down in the lower right center of the drop. Miss Niles, garbed in the flowing diaphanous robes of a temple girl, does an exotic dance, her body being silhouetted against the rose-tinted drop. No lights are in front of the drop.

Roxy's Gang

The group of popular radio entertainers who broadcast directly from the Capitol Theatre Studio every Sunday evening are given an attractive introduction. No special full stage settings are used, practically all of the numbers being zoned to set groupings. The background and other areas dark outside of zone used. The curtains draw open to the strains of "That Old Gang of Mine." Scrim is hung down at the curtain line. Black-out to open. Lights dim slowly revealing set pieces, then back to a black-out.

(a) "To a Wild Irish Rose" (McDowell) is sung by Betsy Ayres. She is discovered left center seated beneath a green-topped birch tree with a pink-flowered bush at her right. She is dressed in modern ensemble costume. Amber spot from stage right is on singer. Green from left covers the tree-top.

(b) "Ma' Little Sunflower, Good Night" (Vanderpool) is sung by Marjorie Harcum. She is dressed in the costume of an old "darky mammy" with the gingham dress, bandana head scarf, and seated right center beside a small canopied cradle. Canary from left lights her face and the edges of the cradle. Orange amber from right is used for backlighting.

(c) "Dear Old Pal of Mine" (Gitz Rice), sung by William Robyn (Wee Willie), is discovered at left center seated on a green park bench, with a set bush in green directly back of it, and a lighted lamp on an indistinguishable post at the up-stage end of the bench. A light amber from right covers the singer, with green from left on the bush, and also used to backlight the singer. The lamp on the post is in a dark amber, brought down about half.

(d) "I've Got a Pain In My Sawdust" (H. A. Wade), sung by Gladys Rice. She is discovered at right center clad in a blue smock, standing back of a small toy counter upon which are displayed dolls, etc. Back of her is a section of shelves upon which are displayed dolls in boxes. A white spot from left floods the set pieces and the singer. Amber from right backlights.

(e) "The Old Refrain" (Kreisler), sung by Douglas Stanbury (Doug). The flashes are eliminated from the routine with this number, a picturesque setting consisting of a large cut tree drop which is hung in two. A large tree trunk is at the center of the drop and spreads majestically, covering the full opening. Pink flowers cover the tree in profusion. The singer is seen seated on a bench at center in front of the tree. He is dressed in a uniform, a dark blouse, white breeches, black leggins, and an honour-sash. The drop is flooded from the back with blue, and soft cloud outlines are scattered over the vacant sky areas. Green from right white from left are thrown on the singer.

At the conclusion of the song Mlle. Gambarelli, dressed in a shell-pink dancing frock of ruffled net, and renders (f) "Schon Rosmarin" (Kreisler) in an effective dance interpretation. White floods her from left and right. Following the dance number, "Gamby" and "Doug" sing "Just Like a Doll" (Romberg). At the end of the number comes a black-out. The concluding number is given by Messrs. Moulan, John Wetzel, Ava Bombarger, Pierre Harrower, Snedden Weir, and James Parker Coomb. This excellent sextette, garbed in Friars robes, sing the rollicking "Pilgrims of Love" from Herbert's "Sweethearts." They appear in line formation backed by the black drop. White from right and left flood them.

Strand Theatre

New York City

Prologue to "Quo Vadis"

The elaborate prologue which Joseph Plunkett designed and produced at the Apollo Theatre in connection with the premier of the picture "Quo Vadis," has been transferred intact to the stage of the Mark Strand Theatre and it has not lost one whit of its effectiveness in the change. This prologue has been reviewed in previous issues, but perhaps generalities concerning it would not be amiss. The curtains slowly open, revealing two massive bronze panelled doors painted on a scrim which is hung down in one. The scrim is floodlighted in amber from the front. The floodlights dim slowly, as the black backing to the scrim is taken away. The lights back of the scrim come in gradually, revealing a highly colorful garden setting, suggestive of a section of the gardens of a Roman Emperor. A blue cyc is hung back, and in front of it is a set-piece—the Acropolis, and other buildings of the ancient capital. The foreground is enclosed with a low wall, with an opening at center leading towards a stairway to the lower gardens. Some set elder trees are at left behind the wall, with shrubbery at right to dress. Miss Kitty McLaughlin, soprano, dressed in a costume of a Roman lady, stands at right center and sings the theme song by Nougoes. A character made up as Nero is seated in a semi-circular chair at left of center, playing on a small harp. A soldier of the Legion is up left. The sky drop or cyc is toned in rose at the top to a canary-green at the base, merging into a blue at the sides. Two smouldering braziers on the newels right and left of the opening at center gradually take on a red tone as the smoke rises from them. Orange-amber is toned for the characters of Nero and the soldier at left, with a canary spot for the singer. After the song, the lights dim to blue and into picture.

Rivoli Theatre

New York City

Dancing Through the Ages

Here is a real presentation offering novelty. It is extremely well mounted, artistically produced, and generally well-done. The theme is developed around the evolution of the dance through various periods in Time. A screen hung down at the curtain line is raised and lowered between each movement and upon it are thrown titles written in verse announcing the type of dance to follow. The various scenes which comprise the presentation are:

(a) Prehistoric Days.

Wood drop hung back. Fantastic, weather-swept trees against a gray-green sky. Two dancers, a woman and a bewiskered man, clad in animal skins, do a wild dance of primitive type.

(b) Egyptian Days.

An interior. Black velvet legs are hung right and left of center, where a high arch reveals a blue-green sky, with a distant ground row in silhouette. Two burning braziers are left and right in front of the black draperies. Two characters are seen up-stage facing left from center. The first, holding a lyre, kneels, and back of her stands a character in a similar costume of early Egypt. A dancer dressed in a jeweled outfit present an attractive number. Blue floods are used with orange amber from the sides to highlight.

(c) Arabian Days.

The voice of a singer is heard during the title, and when curtain rises, a lady dressed in flowing garments of the Asian country is reclining on a low pillowed couch right of center. At the extreme right of the couch stands a male singer garbed in characteristic costume of the Arabs. At left center the scantily attired body of a dancing girl is seen kneeling. Black plush drop comprises the body of the setting. A hanging lamp of Turkestan design is hung center, the red glow at top and green glow at the bottom of the lamp vividly contrasting. The highlighting on the characters is accomplished with orange-ambers and greens from the sides. At the conclusion of the song, the dancer at left rises and renders a fascinating Oriental dance. A black lace skirt falls from a beaded belt.

(d) Knighthood Days.

A large tapestry hangs over the black plush drop at center.

Two large armored figures stand up-stage, right and left. The dance is given by two ladies garbed in medieval court costume with the long pointed hats and flowing scarfs. Blue-green and orange-amber are thrown from the sides, with light amber flood.

(e) Colonial Days.

Two set-pieces are right and left, backed by the black velvet drop. At right is a garden statue of Pan on a marble pedestal flanked on either side with small box-trees. At left is a small garden bench backed with a pink flowered plaque, with the top of a flowered bush appearing extreme left. Orange-amber highlights, the dancers in Colonial costume. Blue foots tone the ensemble.

Music in Broadway Theatres

Week Beginning March 30th

CAPITOL THEATRE

The Capitol Grand Orchestra, conducted by David Mendoza, gave a brilliant interpretation of "Capriccio Espagnole," by Rimsky-Korsakoff, for the overture. The interlude was a selection from "Prince of Pilsen," by Luders. Dr. Melchiorre Mauro-Cottone was at the console of the Capitol Grand Organ.

MARK STRAND THEATRE

The orchestral prelude to "Quo Vadis" was a Gasco composition, "Buffalmacco," played by the Mark Strand Symphony Orchestra, with Carl Edouarde conducting. The same musical score to the picture which was arranged by the musical staff of the theatre for the premier of the picture at the Apollo Theatre, is being used during this special run of the feature.

RIVOLI THEATRE

The overture was a selection from "La Boheme," by Giacomo Puccini, played by the Rivoli Concert Orchestra, with Irvin Talbot and Emanuel Baer conducting.

RIALTO THEATRE

"Sakuntala," by Karl Goldmark, is being played by the Rialto Orchestra as the overture selection, Hugo Riesenfeld and Willy Stahl conducting. The ever popular Riesenfeld Classical Jazz is developed around the hit-song of "Rose Marie." The Rialto Jazz Band, eleven clever artists, play popular selections during the showing of the comedy.

COLONY THEATRE

Overture for the week is "La Boheme," by Puccini, played by the Colony Concert Orchestra, with Dr. Edward Kilenyi conducting. John Priest at the console.

PICCADILLY THEATRE

"Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," by Franz Von Suppe, is the overture selection played by the Piccadilly Concert Orchestra, with Frederic Fradkin conducting. Mr. Fradkin is featured in two violin renditions, "Liebesfreud," by Fritz Kreisler, and "Song of India" ("Chanson Indoue"), from the legend of "Sadko," by Nikolas Rimsky-Korsakoff. Miss Ethel Sweet, lyric soprano, sings "Away From You," by Davis-Ager. John Hammond, S. T. O., renders an effective interpretation on the organ of the "Marche Slave," by Tschaikowsky.

(f) Waltz Days.

A singer renders a verse of "Long, Long Ago," as the curtain rises and reveals a group of five—three girls clad in the dresses of the eighties, and a lady and gentleman in clothes of that same period. A small white spindle fence is right and left of a garden bench at center. A green-topped birch tree is back of the fence at right, and the flowering bush back of the fence at left. The tree top is highlighted with green, the bush at left in rose, and the characters during the song and dance with orange-amber and blue from the sides.

(g) Jazz Age.

The presentation is given an excellent finish. The setting is a white drapery upon which are three large designed panels in fantastic, colorful figures. The center panel is in blue and pink, with greens, rose and yellows dominating in the other two. Six musicians in tuxedos, are up-stage near drop. After the introductory strains of their orchestra, two dancers enter, the girl dressed in an abbreviated costume, and execute a novelty dance. Four girls dressed in white costume, with pink flowered wreathes on their heads, enter, and join the specialty dances in a whirlwind finish.

Rialto Theatre

New York City

August Werner, baritone

"Where My Caravan Has Rested," by Herman Lohr, is given an artistic background for the rendition of the composition. A drop in blue with palm trees in relief. The trees in the foreground on the drop are in maroon, the distant trees in umbre. A desert waste is suggested at the base of the drop, maroon streaked with light blue. Mr. Werner, garbed in an Arabian costume, a white turban, and striped garments, stands at extreme right. White spot on singer, canary and red in foots and borders for drop. House drapes mask drop.

Colony

New York City

Divertissements

Three well-arranged numbers constitute the presentation offerings.

(a) Musical Prelude: "Minuetto" by Beethoven.

Edward Turk, 'cellist, and Lucille Smyser, dancer.

A cameo setting is given this number. A black drop with a circular opening, back of which is a four-foot platform upon which is seated the 'cellist at upper left, and the dancer down right. The dancer, dressed in a yellow and orange-figured gown, dances as the 'cellist plays. Concluding the dance, she sits on a small stool, and with the conclusion of the composition the lights dim out to curtain. Blue from right is thrown on the 'cellist, and a canary spot is kept on the girl, with pink to highlight.

(b) Colony Ballet Corps.

Six dancers in ballet costumes, gold bodice and metaline dresses with black lace over the skirt, present a charming ballet number. The setting is composed of black plush drop, split in center with a sky background visible through a gilded arch at top of the opening. At the base is a small balustrade. The background through the panel at center is given a deep blue tone. Canary is thrown from the sides, and whites from the bridges.

(c) Paul Specht and His Band.

Present a "Melodic Sunstorm of Brilliant Rhythm and Exotic Harmonies." The setting is simple, a black plush cyc comprising the set. A crystal chandelier with orange-amber lamps is hung center. Grand piano at right, seven members of the band grouped on a double tiered platform at left center. Large, high-backed carved chairs are used. Orange-amber, canary and blues are thrown on the members of the band from the sides. Blue foots on.

Question Box

Inquiries Answered

H. S.—Boston, Mass.: "What information can you give me relative to patent leather drops?"

The novelty of patent leather drops is still alive but it is not advisable to purchase any vivid colors in the materials as the combinations are limited. A good stock selection would be a set in black and another set in gray or white. The latter set can be given a variety of color treatments with the lighting equipment and will be less expensive than the purchase of red, blue or green drops. The material to buy is a medium weight oilcloth. In ordering, first get the exact width of the opening and add a third of the measurement to be taken up in folds. It is best that the drop remain hanging in the flies when not in use as it will wrinkle and crack. Patent leather takes light in highly reflective manner, and is very effective when a net or transparency is placed in front of it. Will be very glad to forward some lighting schemes to be used in connection with base.

L. G.—Milwaukee, Wis.: "Are there any artificial flowers treated for lighting changes?"

A New York firm manufactures a variety of foliage and flowers which have a white base, treated with a chemical, that results in beautiful colors when various flood lights are played upon them. The cost is small in comparison with the ability to use these decorative bases in many combinations without the necessity of getting flowers and foliage of a particular color.

G. D. C.—Chicago, Ill.: "Where can I purchase crystals for a chandelier I am going to use in a set?"

Crystals can be usually purchased through the agency of an electrical fixture store, but to save you some money I am suggesting that you purchase some large gelatine capsules—the kind used by veterinarians—string them on waxed thread or thin twine and adjust them to your metal frame. The capsules will be as effective as the crystals, will take a good lighting treatment, are highly reflective, less expensive than glass and the danger in handling is diminished.

SELLING the PICTURE to the PUBLIC

EDITED BY EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Harold E. Rice Finds a Large Profit in The Chronicles of America Series

PROBABLY no serial production ever has had the vicissitudes of The Chronicles of America series prepared by the Yale University Press. It would seem that this carefully considered succession of incidents in American history should prove one of the largest box office winners ever brought out, and yet a large number of managers have reported almost flat failure in their campaigns.

The reason is not altogether far to seek. Too much emphasis have been given the educational value in the wrong sections and not enough in the right direction. On the other hand, those who had bookings have been tempted to cut down the length until the picture no longer interested because of its emasculation.

Between these two reasons may be found the cause of most, if not all of the failures.

The Right Approach

Harold E. Rice is the manager of the New Majestic Theatre, Pueblo, Colorado, and his name already is familiar to readers of this department in connection with a variety of original stunts he has reported from time to time. Now he comes forward to tell his success with the Chronicles series. He writes:

"We are enjoying good success with our showings of the Chronicles of America series of historical subjects released by Pathe, which we feel is due to the wonderful co-operation we are receiving from the Pueblo Parent-Teachers' Association and to the Chieftain-New Majestic Chronicles Essay Contest arranged with one of the local papers for the purpose of exploiting this series.

"On Chronicles play dates we choose a feature picture and arrange a program which is approved by the Parent-Teachers, which Association then gives us all possible support. They place our advertising in all the public schools and other public buildings not otherwise accessible to us, and have the play dates announced to all of the school children. Our attendance of school children was so large that we tried as an experiment having the Parent-Teachers sell tickets in the schools, a plan which we discarded because it brought no real benefit.

A Newspaper Contest

"In addition to the boosting we receive from the Parent-Teachers, we have arranged a contest tie-up with one of the local papers which is getting us front page stories with red headlines that money can't buy. Under the terms of this contract each contestant must write an essay which includes each Chronicles shown. Essays are turned in to the teachers of the schools, and will be judged by a committee of out-of-town teachers selected by the Parent-Teachers. A great many contestants bring pencils and papers and take notes during the showing of the picture.

"There are two large districts composing the Pueblo schools, and separate but identical prizes are offered in each district. Prizes are offered to High—and Junior High School students collectively, and separate prizes go to the grade schools. Many of these prizes are passes good for various lengths of time, so that the actual cost of the contest and its front page red type publicity is about $30.

"We believe that because of the nature of the Chronicles subjects such a tie-up can easily be arranged with the Parent-Teachers' Association in any city. With a contest to give additional publicity, the scheme is a real money maker. We have found, however, that regardless of the efforts expended in plugging and exploiting a picture, the title is still the thing that brings the money to the box office."

This last is the weak point in the Chronicles. The titles are a trifle bald. Of course such a series cannot carry titles like "Passionate Pochahontas" or "Washington Wins His Way," but a title rather than a label could materially help the sale.

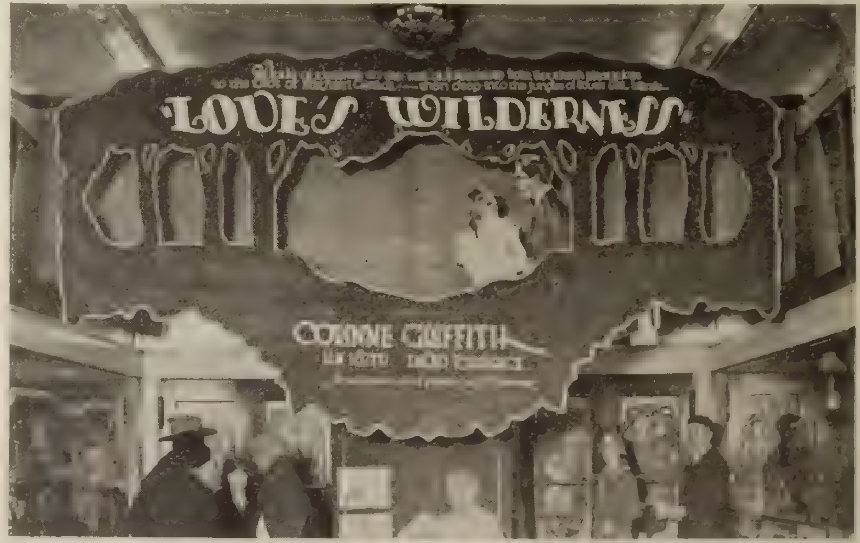
The main point, however, is that Mr. Rice is getting the money and that any other manager can get the same money with the same co-operation, which requires only a little care in booking in suitable long length features. In more than one instance we have seen the Chronicles linked in the booking with titles that, to say the least, were ill advised. The Declaration of Independence and the 1925 flapper may offer strong contrast, but "She Chased Her Chastity" is not precisely the sort of title that will sell the Parent-Teachers' Associations. Use a little judgment and the money is there for you.

Adopts a Slogan for Family Trade

Francis M. Kadow has another good idea. He has adopted a slogan that will be used on all pictures to which he invites the entire family. The idea is best conveyed in this clipping from the Mikadow Reel-News, the very efficient little house organ of the Mikadow Theatre, Manitowoc, Wis. He writes:

There are times and plays that we show that have no particular appeal to children. We want to be frank in saying so. However, there are times and plays, while they are not children's entertainment, they are interesting and wholesome enough. To bring the entire family—we want the family business, and if you will place faith in this little line which we will insert into our advertisement—"As clean as a whistle"—you will know that the attraction is the kind you can take the kiddies to, and enjoy it with them. As a whole the Mikadow's entertainment is on a very high plane, but this is a new departure to serve the public of Manitowac even better than we have done before. Watch for the line "As clean as a whistle."

Some years ago a German theatrical manager adopted a color scheme for his posters. If they were white, the play was clean, you used your own discretion on pink plays and left the youngsters home on his yellow billed attractions. This is a more generally useful idea.



A First National Release

ANOTHER OF RUSSELL BROWN'S ROSIN PAPER BANNERS

This time it is on Love's Wilderness and depicts Miss Griffith and Keith perambulating a conventionalized forest. The ground is black with spatter and the backing orange and yellow green. It was effective and very inexpensive.

Addison's Novelty

H. M. Addison, of the Binghamton (N. Y.) Theatre Company, is arranging to tread upon the heels of the Chautauquas.

Arguing that if a group of people will pay around five dollars a plate for a dinner at which some prominent person will speak, he can get a larger crowd to the theatre, he has booked a number of prominent speakers to appear for one night only.

He has booked Hon. Josephus Daniels, Thomas Mott Osborne, Herman ("Dusty") Miller, Henry Collins Spillman and others of equal note, to make brief addresses.

The initial event was the appearance of Dr. Bernard C. Clauson, of the First Baptist Church, Syracuse, who is minister to the "Syracuse Wireless Congregations," broadcasting a weekly sermon. He is well known as a lecturer and author, and one of the best known speakers in the up-state section.

Got a Gun

Arthur Pinkham, of the Park Theatre, Bangor, Maine, did an extra nice business on Love and Glory through hooking a machine gun company to the stunt.

The National Guard needed men and were glad to be able to tie in on this attraction to help recruiting. They got a boy scout to bugle a ballyhoo and the recruiting went so well that Mr. Pinkham will have no difficulty in selling the guard on his next stunt. Probably he will try to for it gave him a fine extra business at no cost whatever.

That Grey circuit seems to be able to pick the live wires, witness Benson, Carroll and Hart as well as Pinkham, all resident on this string.

Production Hints from Edward L. Hyman

Managing Director, Mark-Strand Theatre, Brooklyn

TWO scenes in "Sally," the Colleen Moore-First National production, served as the inspiration of an atmospheric prologue, which formed the principal musical feature of the supporting show. The other stage incidents were an overture populaire, an operatic soprano solo, and a tenor solo. The Topical Review, as usual, filled out the show, running it to 2 hours and 1 minute. Of this time, the feature photoplay took up 1 hour and 35 minutes, with the prologue requiring 13 minutes. The two solos were 4 minutes each and the overture was 7 minutes long, leaving 8 minutes for the Topical Review.

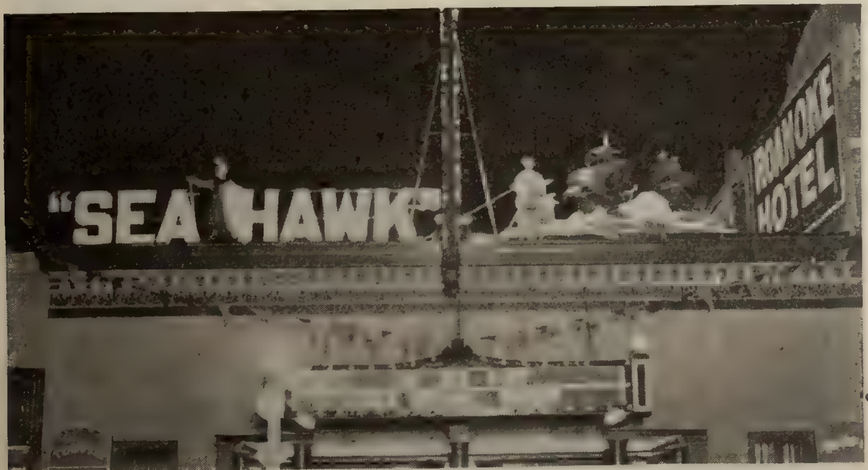
Each deluxe performance was opened by the "Overture Populaire," a special arrangement for this theatre by M. L. Lake. It was programmed as a symphonic synchronization of melodies in vogue, introducing "Tea for Two," "O Katharina," and "My Best Girl." In keeping with the new policy here, a film trailer was run preceding the overture, announcing the incident. This is done, not only to add tone, but because of the fact in the darkened theatre it is difficult for patrons to refer to their programs. During the running of the trailer the orchestra played an introduction and open box lamps of blue from the side were thrown on the screen to give it a tint. At the conclusion of the trailer, the gold draw curtains were closed across the production stage and the following lights were dimmed up: Two orange Mestrum floods on the orchestra from the dome; two orange arch spots of deep blue hitting the gold draw curtains. The transparent windows on either side of the stage were lighted a light blue by open box lamps from behind. A feature of this overture was the arrangement through which "O Katharina" and "The Blue Danube" waltz were played simultaneously by opposite sections of the orchestra. This same stunt was worked also with "My Best Girl," the counter melody being "Indian Love Call." Seven minutes for the overture.

The second stage incident was Jean Bennett, soprano, who appeared in front of the gold draw-curtains of the production stage, in the "Bird Song" from "Pagliacci." The singer was lighted by two magenta spots from one side and two green spots from the other. On the orchestra was a lemon flood from the dome. Side drapes and ceiling drapes were lighted by light green floods from the booth. Magenta foots and borders on small stage.

Following the Topical Review Redferne Hollinshead sang "Little Mother O'Mine" (Burleigh) on the apron of the orchestra stage. Metalline draw curtains were closed across the production stage and were lighted by two orange floods from the booth, which also took in the musicians. The large stage had blue foots and borders.

The atmospheric prologue to "Sally" had a trailer to serve as an introduction. At the opening an alley street scene was disclosed, consisting of painted back drop used as a transparency. Open box lamps from behind the drop flooded the windows of the buildings with light, giving the appearance of evening. Four members of the ballet, wearing the blue and white gingham dresses associated with Sally as a dishwasher, did a dance to the accompaniment of a Ziegfeld selection. Next, a tenor and soprano, who had been standing to one side, came centre stage and sang "You're Just a Flower from an Old Bouquet." At the finish of this the gold draw curtains closed over the street drop and a baritone came on for "I Wonder What's Become of Sally." On the second chorus the four dancers who had changed into party dresses in the meantime, came on and helped him finish the number. With the closing note the gold draw curtains opened, disclosing the cabaret scene of "Sally" with the premiere danseuse of the ballet corps in Russian costume worn by Sally in this scene in the picture. Following the Russian dance by the dancer, the ensemble, headed by a mezzo soprano, sang "Sally Won't You Come Back?" This closed the prologue.

Get Ready For Memorial Day



A First National Release

SOMETHING DIFFERENT IN SKY SIGNS FOR THE HAWK

This is the cornice of the Temple Theatre, San Bernardino, Cal., dressed by George Caldares for the eight-day showing of The Sea Hawk. The figures are not cutouts but costumed men walking around to attract attention. They assuredly did.

Talk Campaign is Help to 40 Winks

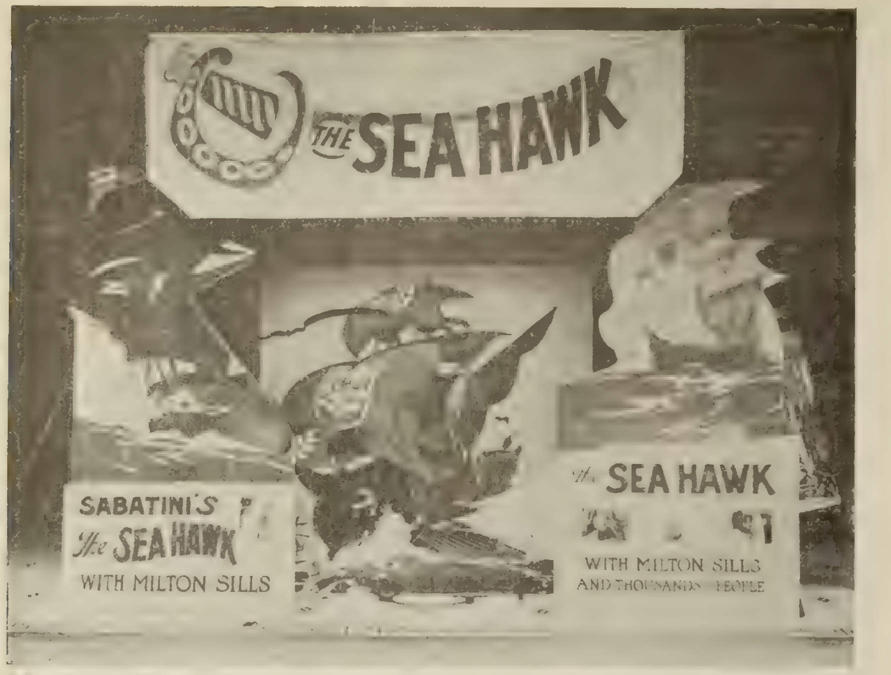
For two weeks ahead of the showing of 40 Winks at the Hippodrome Theatre, Fort Worth, Texas, a verbal drive was made on the picture. Mr. Roberts felt that the story would please everyone, so he planned to tell them all.

The patron was given his tickets with the advice to note the play dates of 40 Winks. When the doorman took the tickets up he gave the same urge and the ushers repeated the suggestion to departing patrons.

In addition, Mr. Gould called up all pass holders and urged them to come the opening day that they might be able to tell their friends what a wow the picture was.

By the time the picture was due even the man in the street was telling his friends that this must be a real picture, and the resultant business kinked all three-day records.

This was backed by a good screen, newspaper and billboard campaign, with a nice lobby display, but the verbal advertising was what put the picture over the top.



A First National Release

A CLEVER USE OF CUTOUTS FROM FIRST NATIONAL PAPER

J. Wright Brown, of the Grand Theatre, Columbus, Ga., did very little brush work on his lobby for The Sea Hawk, and yet brought in a particularly good business on the presentation. He backed this with a huge marquise banner.

Helped Students Who Assisted Him

L. W. Carroll, of the Majestic Theatre, Burlington, Vt., sends in a recent stunt that may be of assistance to others who live in college towns. It can be switched to other than college organizations, for that matter.

Each year the students of the University of Vermont give an entertainment under the title of an Annual Kake Walk. Last year they had a film made of the features.

This old film was loaned to Mr. Carroll, who ran it for two days, just ahead of the 1925 version, as a "special feature." In spite of the fact that it was a year old, the film still held interest and drew some business that the dramatic feature would not have been brought in.

The students also supplied heralds announcing the showing with the line: "If you like it see the real thing February 20-21, University of Vermont Gym," with details as to where tickets could be procured.

Mr. Carroll had this distributed at his own expense and repeated the copy on a slide following the picture. The distribution and the slide were his only costs, and in addition to his direct cash return he will profit from the good will.

Plenty of Pupils

In addition to the public schools, the Troy (N. Y.) Theatre had the students of the Renssalaer Polytechnic Institute, the Emma Willard School for Girls and the Russell Sage College to appeal to on Abraham Lincoln, and the student attendance was usually large.

In addition the William Floyd Chapter, Sons of the Revolution, arranged an essay contest with tickets to Lincoln as the prizes to the winners, the topic being "The Event of the Revolution."

Early Opening Crowded House

A good one-timer was worked by J. H. McLaughlin, of the Franklin Theatre, Tampa, on The Deadwood Coach.

The entire week prior to the Sunday opening, he ran a slide which announced that to accommodate the crowds the house would open at noon on Sunday instead of the customary one o'clock.

The patrons figured that it must be an exceptional picture to call for this provision and they came early, giving the house a standout from one o'clock until half past nine that evening. Just a touch of psychology that was worth a basket of dollars to the box office.

The Franklin, by the way, is over its first anniversary with the usual one-candle cake.

For Fashion Shows

Universal's Fifth Avenue Models might have been specially made for use with fashion shows. At any rate that is the way the Kings Theatre, St. Louis looked at it, and it staged a 25 girl show that knocked business over the top bar in a stretch of bad theatre weather.

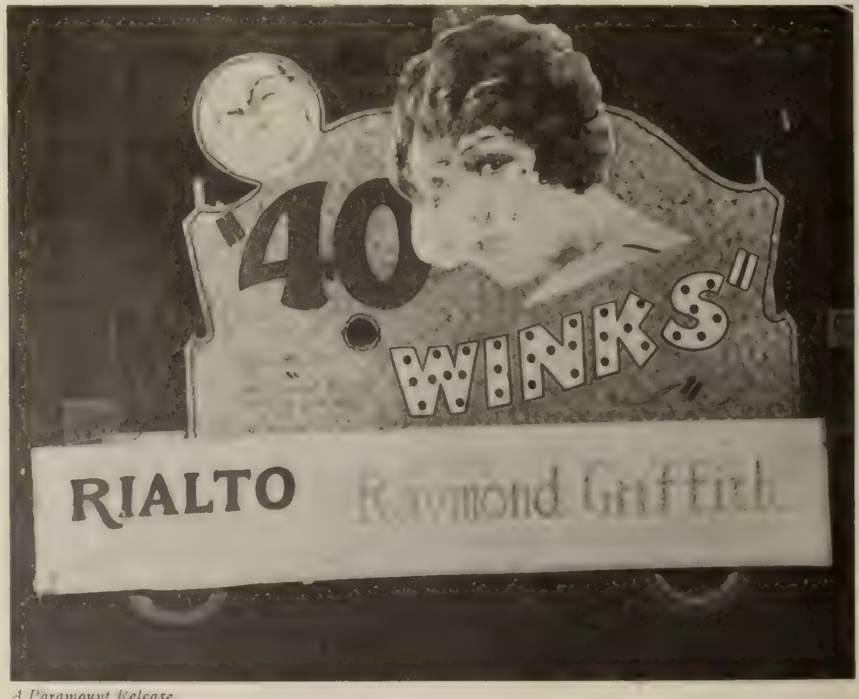
Maurice Davis, of the Universal staff, landed a local concern for the costumes and models, so the extra receipts were mostly all velvet.

You are losing money if you do not use a fashion show with this story of the New York dress shops.

A whole fleet of galleons, each carrying one letter of the title of The Sea Hawk, sailed on a wire across the lobby of the Liberty Theatre, Greenwood, S. C., which was Harry Hardy's way of improving on the cutout letters.

They Laughed

Because the audience at the Garing Theatre, Greenville, S. C., laughed so much at Miss Bluebeard, H. B. Clarke hustled to rig up the loud speaker device he had used on Harold Lloyd, and this helped to persuade the undecided on the second day of the showing. We'll tip Clark off to get it ready for Forty Winks, too.



A Paramount Release

AN ELECTRICALLY LIGHTED TITLE ON A PERAMBULATOR

Planned by the Rialto Theatre, Atlanta, Ga., on Forty Winks. The black spots on the "winks" indicate electric bulbs on a flasher, for night use. The car was run around town for five days and drew an unusual volume of business to the theatre.

This Window Stunt Brought Crowd Back

A window stunt that will bring the people back every little while to look at it again is something of a novelty, even in these days, but that is what J. A. Callahan rigged up for Rossi Cabol, of the Palace Theatre, Torrington, Conn.

He did it with Pola Brown, who originally appeared as a window worker in a bathing suit stunt. This time she was supposed to be the star of The Golden Bed, and there was the bed to prove it.

Every little while she would reach behind the couch and bring up a sales card to show the crowd, and in between times she played with a stuffed cloth monkey that won a lot of laughs.

But the big drag was the fact that every half hour she appeared in a new costume, and all who could came back to se her ring the changes. This gave the store a sort of window fashion show while at the same time it gave much more of a kick to the advertisement for the theatre. This picture had to be made late at night as there was no chance at the window during the day.

The store which provided the window was glad to supply the dresses, as well, the theatre paying the cost of the model. It's a fine stunt for a novelty and worth a try. It can be worked on other titles; almost anything in the line of a society story, though The Golden Bed provided a sumptuous prop.

A Paramount Release

THIS WINDOW PLAYED TO HUNDREDS OF REPEATS

The model wore a new dress every half hour and all who could came back to see the new costumes. Planned by L. A. Callahan for Rossi Cabol, of the Palace Theatre, Torrington, Conn., on The Golden Bed. The model is Pola Brown again.

A Candy Kid

Frank Panoplos, of the Lyric Theatre, McKeesport, Pa., who seldom lets a good bet get past him, hooked the Euclid Candy Company, of Cleveland, to the fact that The Golden Bed is written about candy.

The company was trying to introduce Love Nest bars, and four girls and a man sampled the Pittsburgh suburb in the interest of The Golden Bed, in the lobby of the Lyric.

In addition there was a prize criticism with candy prizes, and a special Saturday morning matinee with a Love Nest bar to each child attending.

And Mr. Panoplos thanked the Euclid's local manager and the latter thanked Mr. Panoplos, for both had profited.

Got Patrons Back With Mail Heralds

George J. Schade has not been using his mailing list much of late, and he has been handing the heralds on attractions to patrons as they left the theatre.

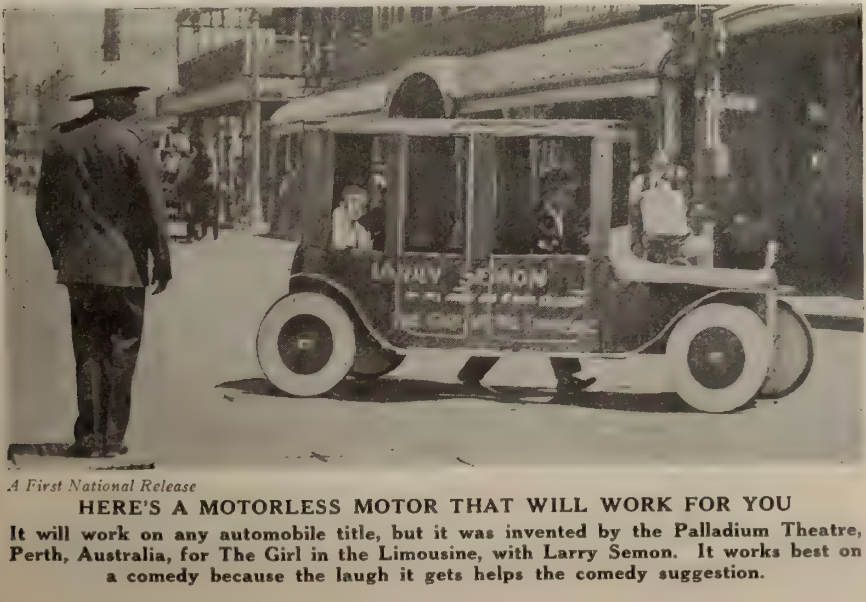
When he booked in Inez from Hollywood he decided to try mailing out heralds, and he brought back a great deal more than the $50 invested in the stunt. The cash return was larger than this, but in addition he noticed a great many patrons who had not been around lately, and he figures that many of these will keep on coming, now he has them started.

I was for this reason he put out the heralds under a two cent stamp. He figured that he would get more attention, since the two cent stamp suggests a letter where the unsealed one cent piece is frankly a circular. That extra $20 spent on the 2,000 heralds was the most profitable portion of the investment.

Auto Stuff

Here's another way to gain auto cooperation. H. C. Farley borrowed a Hudson car for three days to advertise The Fast Worker. In return he gave the agent twenty-five passes to be given the first twenty-five persons who handed in the name of a prospective purchaser. The advertising the agency did on these passes would have more than paid for the tickets, with the car thrown in free.

For another swatch of velvet he gave a local photographer some pictures of Laura La Plante to color and place in his window to advertise his hand colored photographs, of course with a few remarks about The Fast Worker.



A First National Release

HERE'S A MOTORLESS MOTOR THAT WILL WORK FOR YOU

It will work on any automobile title, but it was invented by the Palladium Theatre, Perth, Australia, for The Girl in the Limousine, with Larry Semon. It works best on a comedy because the laugh it gets helps the comedy suggestion.

Unusual and Distinctive

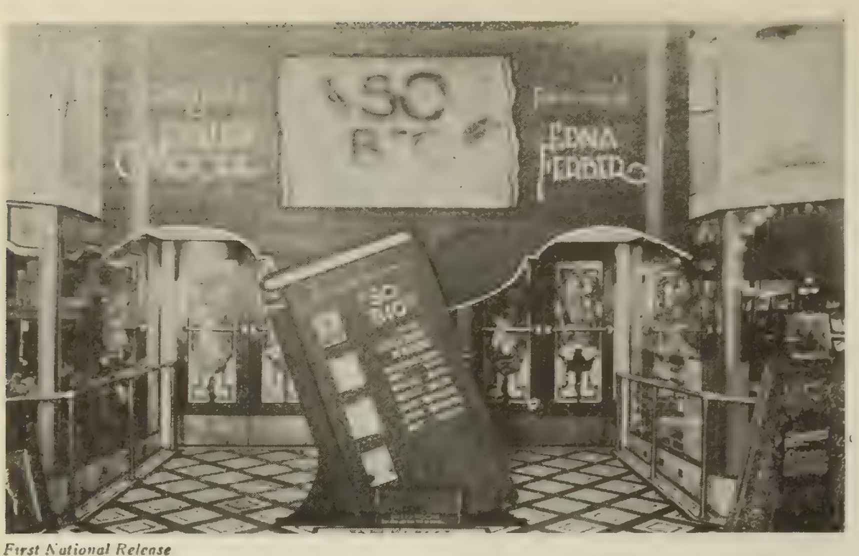
LOBBY DISPLAYS

The Art Guild

250 West 54th Street

N. Y. CITY COLUMBUS 5780

Pathe selected our APLAKAY product for all their displays on Capt. Nungesser's personal appearance tour with "The Air Raider."



A First National Release

ANOTHER ROSIN PAPER DISPLAY FROM RUSSELL F. BROWN

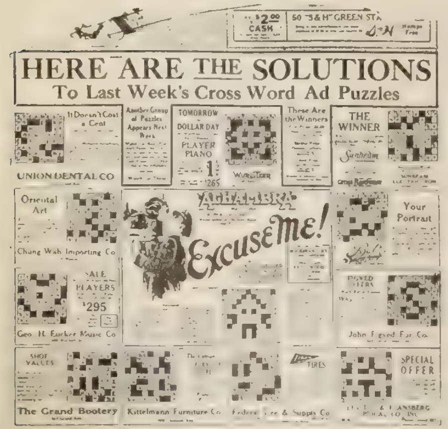
This is on So Big and shows the book as a basis for the still display. The opening in the upper part is covered with green tarletan, with the cutout behind the gauze and the title lettered on. The ground is a green spatter effect.

Uses X-word Puzzles for Hook-up Pages

It had to come. The Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee, runs a part page of co-operative ads every week. One week there is printed in each space one of a set of 9-square cross word puzzles. Prizes are offered for the best solutions of the set. The following week the same advertisers print the replies and the paper announces the winners. The third week a new set is started with these answers the fourth week and so on.

If you can get your advertisers to agree to stay in this will beat the sectional cut and all similar devices—at least until the interest in the puzzles runs out, and they seem to be still going strong.

The Alhambra takes only three fourths of a page, but this is sufficient, and where the advertising rates are high it is better than to try to run up to the full page.



$2.00 CASH

50 "S&H" GREEN STA

HERE ARE THE SOLUTIONS
To Last Week's Cross Word Ad Puzzles

It Doesn't Cost a Cent

UNION DENTAL CO

Another Group of Puzzles Appears Next Week

TOMORROW
DOLLAR DAY
PLAYER PIANO
1

These Are the Winners

THE WINNER

Oriental Art

Chang Wah Importing Co

ALHAMBRA

Excuse Me!

Your Portrait

SALE PLAYERS
$295

Geo. H. Eucker Music Co

SHOE VALUES

TIRES

SPECIAL OFFER

The Grand Bootery

Kittelmann Furniture Co

A Metro-Goldwyn Release

HOW THE SECTION LOOKS

The cut shows the layout for Excuse Me, the space being a little more than eleven inches deep. This is a good idea and you will notice that you do not have to be particularly careful about the "pattern." The puzzles are made the easiest way instead of in conformity with the rules, but the "not more than ten per cent. black squares" rule should be adhered to.

Back Again

It has been some time since the capsuled throwaway was reported, but it's back. One of the stunts on Oh, Doctor! at the Olympic Theatre, Altoona, Pa., was a capsuled bill.

This was an extra size; large enough to let a big red "dope" be seen through the gelatine. The other side of the slip started off with "Straight dope for a good, hearty laugh, see Oh, Doctor!" etc. Almost everyone who received a capsule took the trouble to read it, and having taken the trouble to get at it, they read it with care.

Another good stunt was a motorcyclist, all bandaged up, with a banner on his back. The bandages were touched up with red, to make him more interesting.

Nick Notopolous, the manager, and Jack Hays, of Universal collaborated on the stunts.

Charley's Aunt Was Los Angeles Sticker

Charley's Aunt did not need much help in Los Angeles, but the press department felt that it ought to go through the motions, and did it very effectually. One of the best stunts was the generous use of the twenty-four sheets which shows the figure of Syd Chaplin in Skirts and the legend "Still Running." Along about the end of the third week it began to seep in that there was a real meaning to that line, for it still was running at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre.

To offset the almost excessive display of 24-sheets, the house also got out a number of block 24-sheets with varied copy such as "Syd Chaplin is Charley's Aunt—that's funny," "Funnier than a jaywalker—Charley's Aunt," "From Brazil, where the nuts come from—Charley's Aunt." You can make them into teasers if you cannot afford the stands.

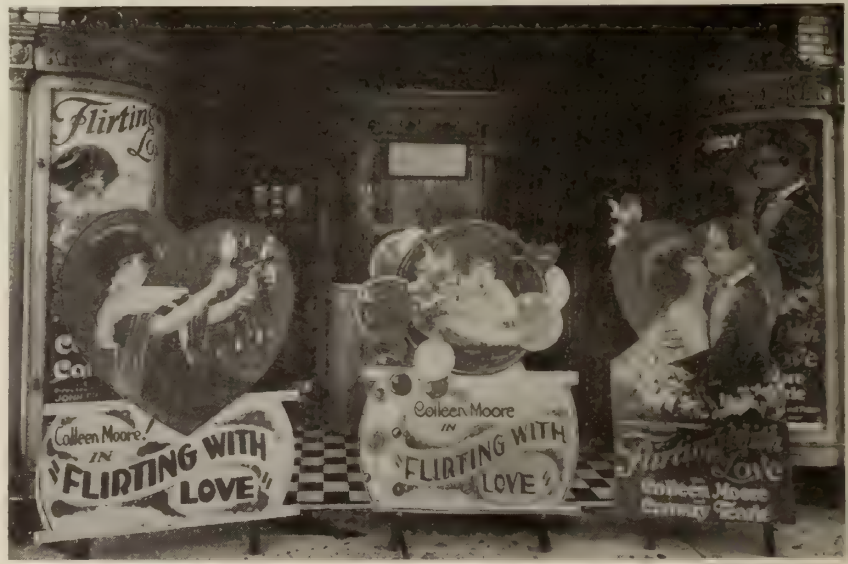
The nut gag was put over with a distribution of 25,000 brazil nuts, each in its own paper bag printed "The Perfect Nut. Charley's Aunt." These were put out in stores and office buildings.

Made the House Laugh

But one of the best stunts was plastering the front of the theatre with cards lettered "Ha! Ha!" "Ho! Ho!" "Haw-haw!" and other forms of verbal laughs. It's a good idea only if you use enough of them to be noticeable. A dozen or so won't count. Use fifty or a hundred.

A stunt that is beyond the reach of most exhibitors was the use of funny horses with laughing masks, planted at parking stations and other populous places. A more useful idea was a simple cloth sign with a stenciled face and the caption "Laughing at Charley's Aunt" which was put on Ford car-hoods where the drivers were amenable to reason. Windshield sticklers were passed out at filling stations instead of being stuck on the cars. This is much better than unlicensed pasting.

It all helped to prolong the run.



Flirting with Love
Colleen Moore in Flirting with Love
Colleen Moore in Flirting with Love

A First National Release

THREE NICE LOBBY CUTOUTS FROM DEWEY MOUSSON

Of course you could get into the Knickerbocker Theatre, Nashville, at showing times. He just set them up to get them all together. The house has two lobbies and he wanted only one photograph. These cutouts look so much better they are worth while.

Wins a Watch on a Fine Campaign

Just before the picture was released last October, Harold B. Franklin, of the Paramount theatres, offered a watch to the manager on Southern Enterprises who should make the best campaign on The Story Without a Name. Because of the time required to play the dates over the circuit, the decision was not announced until March.

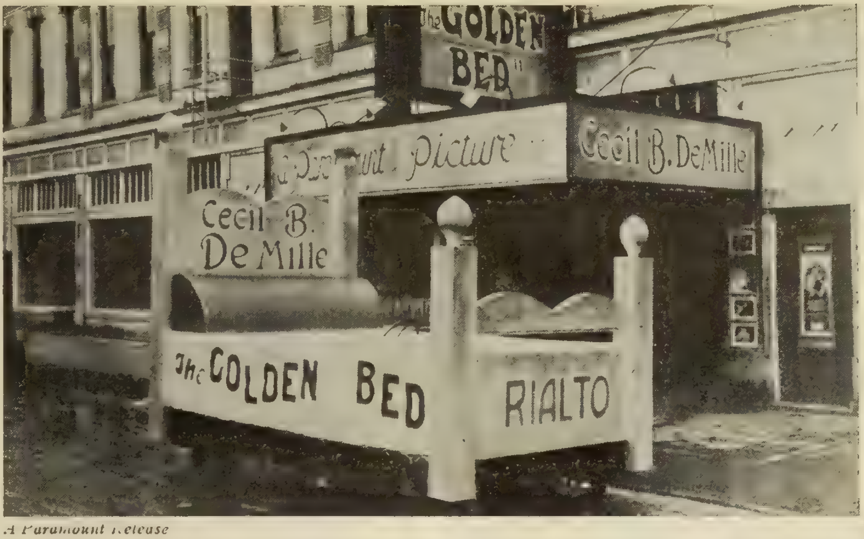
The award was made to J. F. Stelling, of the Rex Theatre, Spartanburg, S. C. The Princess Theatre, San Antonio; Hippodrome, Fort Worth; Old Mill, Dallas; Strand, Asheville; Capitol, Oklahoma City, and Queen, Austin, Tex., are given honorable mention in that order.

The winning items of Mr. Stelling's campaign are two, though there were nine items in the contest. These were the check off and the booster clubs. Either can be used on any good picture.

The check-off is the familiar "—— days to wait" worked for twenty days, always with snappy copy. This was done on the screen and in the newspapers. An example runs: "2,400 years ago Aesop said 'What's in a name?' 'The Story Without a Name' has everything but a name. 18 more days." At the start of the last week the days of the week were tabulated and each day a check was placed opposite the day just gone and the days to wait was reduced by one until the "to-morrow" was arrived at.

Two booster clubs were formed. First, the employees were shown the picture ten days in advance, and they were given badges of white satin printed in red which read: "I've seen 'The Story Without a Name'—ask me." The reply to questions was always "It's great." Care was taken not to oversell. A week in advance 150 high school pupils were shown the picture and given the badges.

With good newspaper and billboard campaigns, the picture was sent over at a cost of 7 per cent. of the receipts.



A Paramount Release

A GOLDEN BED PERAMBULATOR FROM MISSOULA, MONT.

This is a structure on a Ford chassis and we gather that the driver apparently sat up in bed to direct the car, though this does not show clearly in the photograph. However, you can see the steering wheel. From Guy D. Hasselton, of the Rialto.

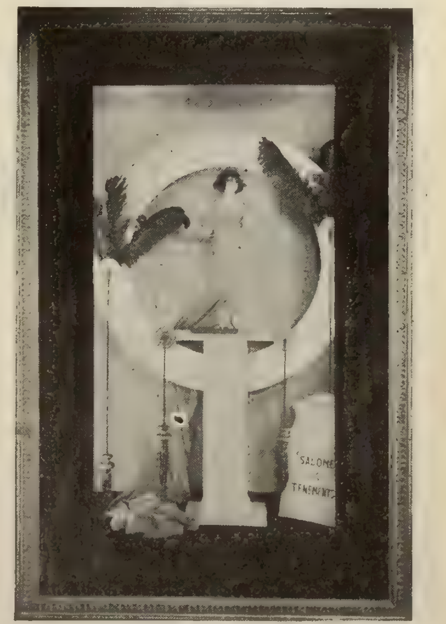
DX Broadcasting

The Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs of North Platte, Neb., recently put a program on the air through W. O. A. W., Omaha. The program was taken to Omaha over the wire and there put on the air, and the novelty of the idea brought all of the local fans to their sets at the appointed time, which had been widely advertised by both clubs.

This would not be of particular interest were it not that the program was sent out from the Keith Theatre, and the bulk of it supplied by the theatre orchestra, a fact not stated in the advance notices, but announced during the program. It made a fine advertising for the Keith house, perhaps better because it was not advertised in advance, and so did not look like an advertising stunt.

Builds a Cutout Into Three-sheet

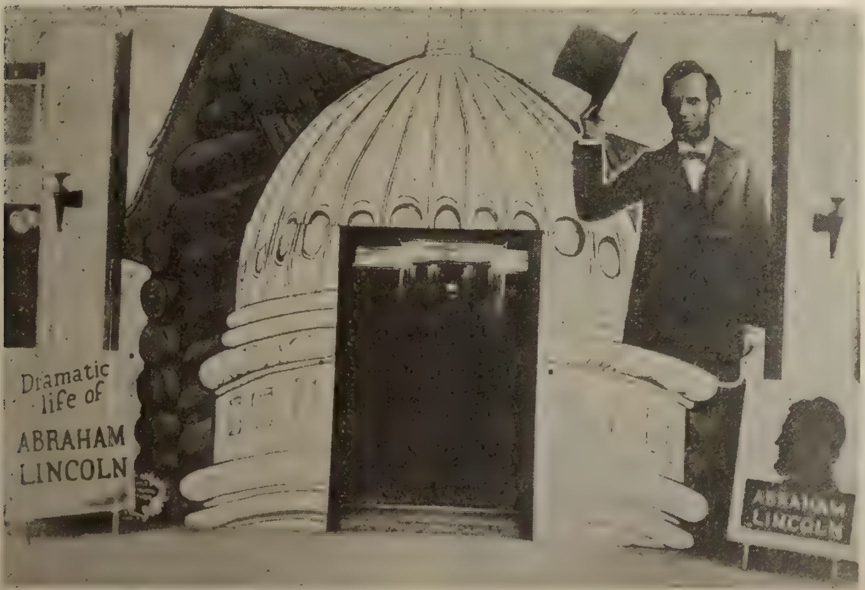
C. B. Stiff, of the Tivoli Theatre, Chattanooga, sends in a very nice lobby display in which a small cutout is developed into three sheet size with a frame and decorations.



A Paramount Release

FOR SALOME OF THE TENEMENTS

The cut is self-explanatory. Evidently a cutout from the one-sheet has been draped with real fabric, which falls to the floor of the shadow box. The plumes, tassels, pedestal and circle merely serve to throw the figure into relief while the card at the right gives the title. It is simple, effective and cheap if you have the material or can borrow it from some store. Generally a credit card or a slide will take care of this detail.



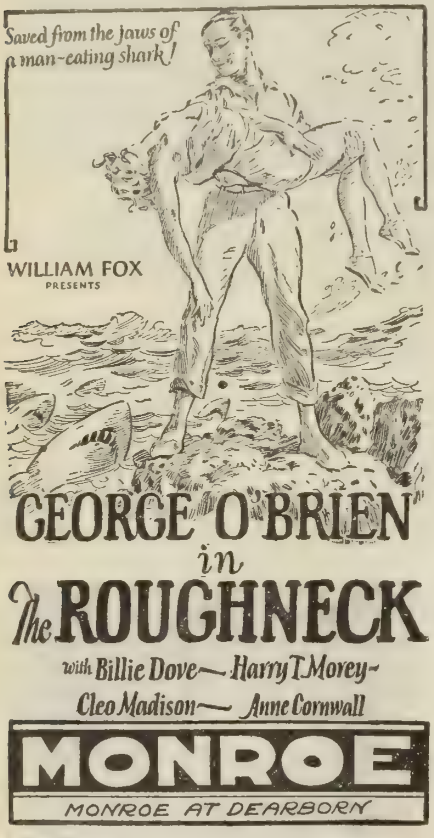
A First National Release

SOMETHING DIFFERENT ON A LOBBY FRONT FOR LINCOLN

This was made by the Empress Theatre, Owensboro, Ky., and clearly conveys the idea of his life. It helped to get interest and hold up a three-day run with a big last day, many of the early visitors paying a repeat trip or bringing friends.

The Light Drawing Gives Nice Effect

Sometimes a light line is better than a heavy one, and often the attention value is greater. This is 105 lines by 2 from the Chicago papers on The Roughneck. The drawing is very light and yet this stood on a page of strongly black cuts and got the first attention. You simply had to look at that space because it was different. "Stronger" drawing, with black masses and heavy lines, would have been like all the other displays on the page and would have had to take a chance with the rest. As it stands this drawing fairly clamored for attention—and got it. We think it sold more extra tickets than any space the Monroe has had for a long time. Newspaper advertising in the large cities is more an announcement than an advertisement. This is an advertisement in that it persuades sales and does not merely direct the reader. It does not merely tell that The Roughneck is to be seen at the Monroe. It suggests that the play is well worth seeing. If we wanted to be hypocritical we would suggest that the pleased smirk on O'Brien's face as he gazes upon the rather liberal display of feminine charm is not altogether polite, but that would be too critical. The general effect is so good that the ensemble will sell. Of course a page of all light advertisements would not give the same effect. It is because this is the only light display on the page that it gets the attention, but the selling is done because the cut not only attracts attention but arouses interest after attention has been gained.



Saved from the jaws of a man-eating shark!

WILLIAM FOX PRESENTS

GEORGE O'BRIEN in The ROUGHNECK

with Billie Dove—Harry T. Morey—Cleo Madison—Anne Cornwall

MONROE

MONROE AT DEARBORN

A Fox Release

LIGHTNESS AND STRENGTH

Try the effect of a light line some time. You'll like it.

Offers a Good Angle on Unfamiliar Title

This is the upper portion of an interesting advertisement of the Sun Theatre, Omaha, on He Who Gets Slapped. It is a capital idea for any play with an odd or misleading title.

DON'T BUY A PICTURE ON ITS TITLE

Coming to the Sun Theater

TOMORROW

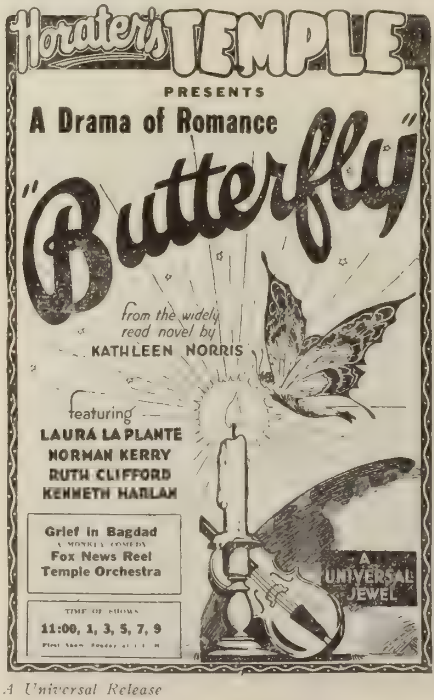
is a photoplay with a title that may not sound interesting to you, but the picture is 100% entertainment. You may not understand why a photoplay should be titled "He Who Gets Slapped," but after seeing the production you will realize the reason for it.

A Metro-Goldwyn Release

A GOOD INTRODUCTION

Minimum of Talk Sells Butterfly

Horater's Temple Theatre, Toledo, puts over Butterfly with very few words. It takes it for granted that people know of the Norris romance, so it simply notches the plan book cut to let in the extra announcements, adds that it "presents a drama of romance" and gets a better display than would be the result of more intensive selling. This is a three tens, yet it has only 23 words in addition to the boxes. Presumably the selling has been done through the advance notices, but whatever the idea, the fact remains that this makes a very sightly display and we question whether a single additional ticket could be sold through the addition of a hundred more words. The Temple does not always use this form. It can talk when it feels that talk is needed, but it has the good sense to let an attractive cut sell a well known story without trying to bark like a sideshow ballyhoo at an amusement park. Note the display value the title gets because it has so little interference. We like this layout exceedingly well.



Horater's TEMPLE

PRESENTS

A Drama of Romance

"Butterfly"

from the widely read novel by KATHLEEN NORRIS

featuring

LAURA LA PLANTE

NORMAN KERRY

RUTH CLIFFORD

KENNETH HARLAN

Grief in Bagdad

A MONKEY COMEDY

Fox News Reel

Temple Orchestra

TIME OF SHOWS

11:00, 1, 3, 5, 7, 9

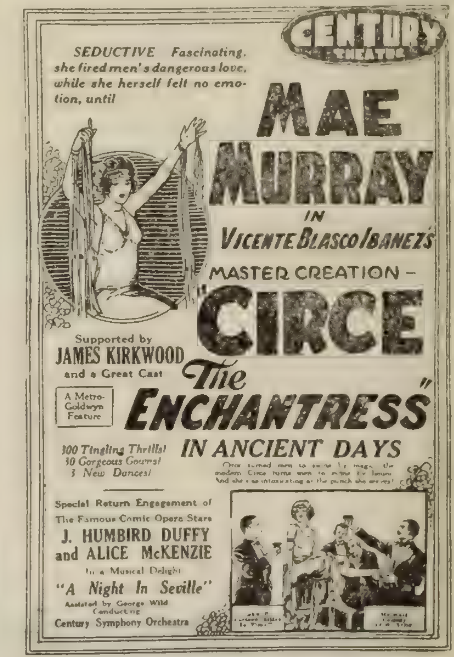
A UNIVERSAL JEWEL

A Universal Release

ECONOMICAL OF WORDS

Nice Display Is in Baltimore Ad

This space from the Century Theatre, Baltimore, does not differ materially from the Century's usual layout, but it manages to achieve an unusually good balance. Much of this is hand lettering and seems to be plan book stuff, but whether it is from Metro-Goldwyn or home made, there is not a single confliction. Miss Murray, Ibanez, the play, the soloists and the musical production in which they appear are all given prominence in a space about a three nines—130 lines to be exact—and they do not interfere with each other. The only slight lack in valuation is in that "In ancient days" just above the lower cut. The prominence given this not only interferes a little with the "Enchantress" just above, but it seems to ride with the title instead of with the eight point to which it properly belongs. It gives the title as "Circe the Enchantress in Ancient Days" instead of showing that "In ancient days Circe turned men into swine, etc." Cutting the offending line to a twelve point bold would have given a better connection to the following lines and at the same time would have aided the display of the title. Apart from this the advertisement stands a pretty example of line valuation. The cuts are well set in and work better than would half tones. By and large this is a very pretty example of thoughtful work. Ofter a display with ten cuts will split the interest and lose it. But these help each other.



CENTURY THEATRE

SEDUCTIVE Fascinating, she fired men's dangerous love, while she herself felt no emotion, until

MAE MURRAY

IN

VICENTE BLASCO IBANEZ'S

MASTER CREATION—

"CIRCE The ENCHANTRESS"

Supported by

JAMES KIRKWOOD

and a Great Cast

A Metro-Goldwyn Feature

300 Tingling Thrills! 30 Gorgeous Gowns! 3 New Dances!

IN ANCIENT DAYS

Special Return Engagement of

The Famous Comic Opera Stars

J. HUMBIRD DUFFY and ALICE McKENZIE

In a Musical Delight

"A Night In Seville"

Assisted by George Wild Conducting

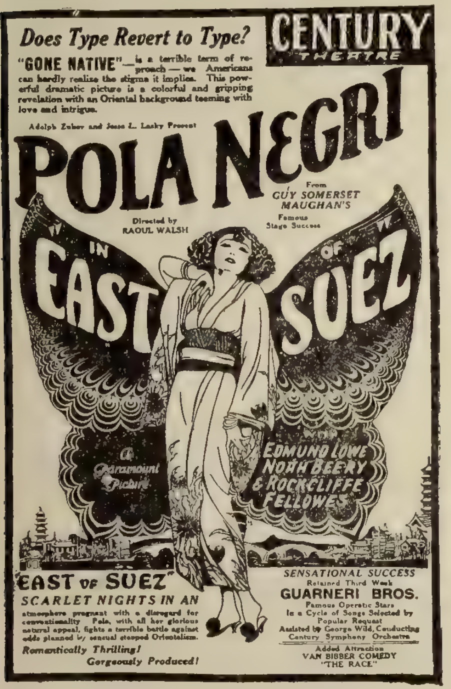
Century Symphony Orchestra

A Metro-Goldwyn Release

NICELY BALANCED

Plenty of Type Is Possible in This

The attention of managers and publicity men who feel that they simply must use hand lettering to gain the display they desire is called to this display from the Century Theatre, Baltimore. Here the only hand lettering is found on the wings of the butterfly, if we except the star name. There are two banks of sales talk and one for the other features, all set in type, mostly six and eight point, and all getting a strong and legible display. If any artist can get one-tenth of the display with hand lettering that this house achieves with type, we would very greatly like to see the example. The upper bank sells the idea of the slump into native habits that is the bane of the Orient. It is told in such a manner as to suggest that a story dealing with this phase simply has to be interesting. The bottom section sells the play from a more general angle, the two combine to give you the idea that it is the sort of photoplay that will yield colorful entertainment. In many instances the amount of type used might be too much, but it takes a little argument to sell Negri after some of her earlier pictures and we think there is not a line too many. And note, too, that here is a display almost free from all capital lines, and yet the type faces are tasteful, almost elegant, and far from inartistic. The Paramount cut has been notched to let in the type. It can be done, because it is being done, as witness this example.



Does Type Revert to Type?

CENTURY THEATRE

"GONE NATIVE"—is a terrible term of reproach — we Americans can hardly realize the stigma it implies. This powerful dramatic picture is a colorful and gripping revelation with an Oriental background teeming with love and intrigue.

Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky Present

POLA NEGRI IN EAST OF SUEZ

From GUY SOMERSET MAUGHAN'S Famous Stage Success

Directed by RAOUL WALSH

A Paramount Picture

WITH EDMUND LOWE NOAH BEERY & ROCKCLIFFE FELLOWES

"EAST OF SUEZ"

SCARLET NIGHTS IN AN atmosphere pregnant with a disregard for conventionality Pola, with all her glorious natural appeal, fights a terrible battle against odds planned by sensual steeped Orientalism.

Romantically Thrilling!

Gorgeously Produced!

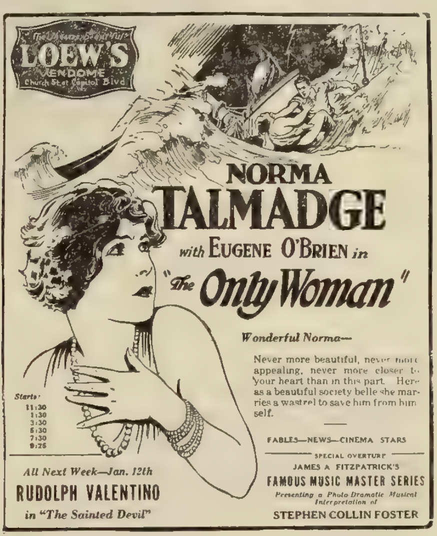
SENSATIONAL SUCCESS
Retained Third Week
GUARNERI BROS.
Famous Operatic Stars
In a Cycle of Songs Selected by Popular Request
Assisted by George Wild, Conducting Century Symphony Orchestra

Added Attraction
VAN BIBBER COMEDY
"THE RACE"

A Paramount Release
PLENTY OF GOOD TYPE

A Four Column Cut Fits Space Nicely

This four column cut makes a nice layout for Loew's Vendome Theatre, Nashville, Tenn. It is planned to leave room for a sales talk and yet to fill most of the space with a scene cut and a portrait, the latter rather better than some of the recent drawings of this star. Notching gives room for the house plate without taking extra space, and the entire design is as good as though it had been drawn by the house office instead of coming from New York in mat form.



LOEW'S VENDOME
Church St. at Capitol Blvd

NORMA TALMADGE with EUGENE O'BRIEN in "The Only Woman"

Wonderful Norma—

Never more beautiful, never more appealing, never more closer to your heart than in this part. Here as a beautiful society belle she marries a wastrel to save him from him self.

FABLES—NEWS—CINEMA STARS

SPECIAL OVERTURE
JAMES A FITZPATRICK'S
FAMOUS MUSIC MASTER SERIES
Presenting a Photo-Dramatic Musical Interpretation of STEPHEN COLLIN FOSTER

Starts:
11:30
1:30
3:30
5:30
7:30
9:25

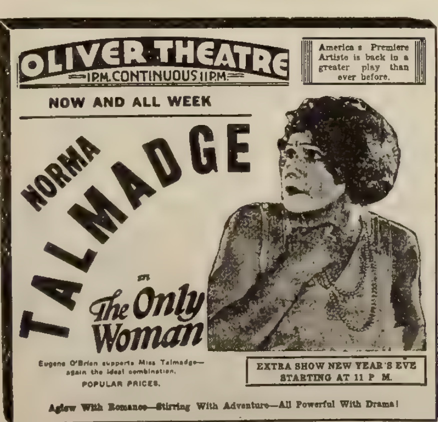
All Next Week—Jan. 12th
RUDOLPH VALENTINO
in "The Sainted Devil"

A First National Release
A VERY GOOD DESIGN

This gives a very much better result than the average small-city house artist can give and yet at a small fraction of the cost. Most house artists would not get the contrast between the detail sketch and the open lines of the portrait. They would not understand the trick of holding the two portions of the design apart to gain the effect of contrast. It is unusually good work.

Arches the Line to Get a Larger Type

In order to get a large face for the name of the star, the Oliver Theatre, South Bend, Ind., sets the first name at an angle and arches the Talmadge. We think that a smaller letter, letter spaced, and set straight across, above the level of the shoulder, would have given a better display, but since there is nothing else in the space to interfere with the title, this gets over very nicely and there may be some attention-value in the unusual placement. Evidently the cut has been made from a solid background, the routing being done by the house. This gives a much better effect and probably saved the cut situation, for the cut does not come out very well as it is and with a tint background it would have been worth little or nothing. It does not take very long to outline the cut, it should not cost very much, and the increased printing value of a treated cut will be worth much more than the cost. The Oliver has done a very good construction job on this space without having very much to work with.



OLIVER THEATRE
1 P.M. CONTINUOUS 11 P.M.

America's Premiere Artiste is back in a greater play than ever before.

NOW AND ALL WEEK

NORMA TALMADGE in The Only Woman

Eugene O'Brien supports Miss Talmadge—again the ideal combination.

POPULAR PRICES.

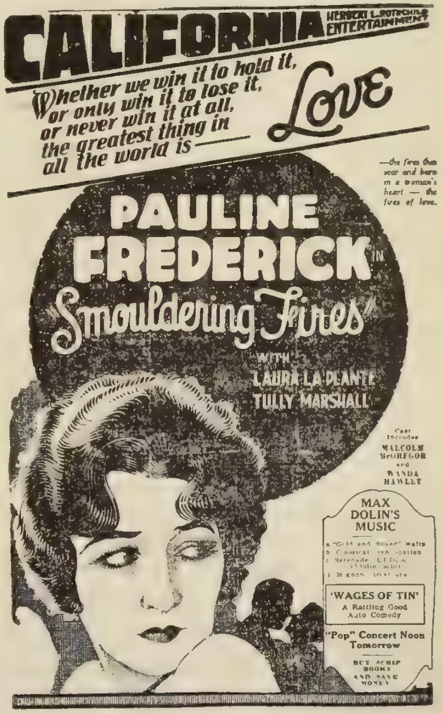
EXTRA SHOW NEW YEAR'S EVE STARTING AT 11 P. M.

Aglow With Romance—Stirring With Adventure—All Powerful With Drama!

A First National Release
BENDING NORMA

Well Planned Space Strong Attraction

Combining the attraction value of a well drawn portrait with the appeal of a good reverse gives the California Theatre, San Francisco, a very good three tens on Smouldering Fires. Using benday for shadows on Miss Frederick's face gives emphasis without over coloring, and is better than pen hatching. Another benday sheet is used for a part of the background. The use of the reverse circle is good where there is reasonable assurance that it will come through, but it is a risky venture unless the local papers give uniformly good blacks. This came out all right, so it is good, but it might have lost much of the display value with poor presswork. We do not like that hand lettered five line space at the top. It seems to get attraction and yet we believe that a clean boldface would have been better, with the single work, "love," in script. The excellence of the drawnig suggests that Jewett Bubar is still on the job, though we have not seen much of his work since the California passed to the Rothchild management.



CALIFORNIA
HERBERT L. ROTHCHILD ENTERTAINMENT

Whether we win it to hold it, or only win it to lose it,
or never win it at all,
the greatest thing in all the world is— Love

—the fires that sear and burn in a woman's heart — the fires of love.

PAULINE FREDERICK IN "Smouldering Fires"

WITH LAURA LA PLANTE
TULLY MARSHALL

Cast Includes
MALCOLM McGREGOR
and
WANDA HAWLEY

MAX DOLIN'S MUSIC

'WAGES OF TIN'
A Rattling Good Auto Comedy

"Pop" Concert Noon Tomorrow

BUY SCRIP BOOKS AND SAVE MONEY

A Universal Release
A GOOD COMBINATION

Send in your good all-type ads, please. They are hard to get.

NEWEST REVIEWS and COMMENTS

EDITED BY CHARLES S. SEWELL

Features Reviewed In This Issue

Burning Trail, The (Universal)
Grass (Paramount)
Gold and Grit (Artclass)
Marriage in Transit (Fox)
Men and Women (Paramount)
O. U. West! (F. B. O.)
Sackcloth and Scarlet (Paramount)
School for Wives (Vitagraph)
Waking Up the Town (United Artists)
Way of a Girl (Metro-Goldwyn)

"The Way of a Girl"

Absolutely Novel Handling of Peppy Action, Comedy and Thrills Make this Corking Entertainment

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Whoever is responsible for the manner in which the Katherine Newlin Burt story "The Summons" has been adapted has hit upon a mighty clever idea of presenting it and as a result, in its screen form this Metro-Goldwyn production "The Way of a Girl," is corking good entertainment that should go over big with any audience.

This story is developed as if the spectators were getting a peep behind the scenes; it is not the familiar "inside the studio" stuff but the troubles of the scenarist in preparing the script that is utilized and is played up from a comedy angle with extremely effective results that registers with a bang.

The opening represents Mr. LeVino, the scenarist faced with the rejection of four versions and the necessity of turning out another in a hurry. From a bunch of stills he picks Eleanor Boardman as the star and in miniature she walks out of the picture onto the desk and leans up against his typewriter, where a clever and amusing dialogue ensues ending by her picking Matt Moore to play opposite and telling LeVino just what kind of action she wants—thrills and an opportunity to tame Matt.

A typewritten subtitle fades into the action proper and then follows about as fast moving a story as we have ever seen, filled with thrills, good comedy, witty subtitles, action and more action. It is all worked out on the line that Matt believes a woman should be trained the same as you would a horse, and Eleanor resenting this proceeds to lead him a merry chase. She takes him to a prize fight, gets arrested for speeding while returning home, decides to serve a jail sentence rather than be paroled in his custody, relents after having a fight with a woman in the cell. On being released she again jumps the traces and goes to an artists ball. The place is raided, Matt manages to get her away and deciding he has had enough starts to take her to her father in the mountains.

Up to this point, snappy action and comedy predominate. On the mountain road she manages to get him out of the car, and the thrills start when she begins a wild drive down the mountain. The car runs off a curve, rolls down the hill; thrown out, she grabs a tree which breaks and drops her into a river and she is rescued by a rough-looking man. Here heavy melodrama commences for this man and his companion prove to be murderers and fight over her. Matt comes to her aid, an avalanche buries the cave, one of the villains is about to attack her. Right here is another clever touch that breaks the spell of the tense drama and brings about a peach of a situation with a good laugh. Eleanor, just at this crucial moment, appears on the scenarist's desk for help; disgustedly he tells her to shoot the villain. She does. Then she comes back and says she is going to finish the story. The scenarist tells her to go ahead but be quick about it. She gets Matt, they climb on the typewriter for the final close-up, the scenarist sneezes and they disappear.

Director Vignola and Scenarist LeVino have done their work well and deserve praise for something absolutely novel and highly entertaining. The trick photography showing the characters in miniature with the scenarist and his typewriter full size is excellent and will mystify the spectators.

The cast is entirely satisfactory. William Russell and Matthew Betz as the murderers are featured with Matt Moore and Eleanor Boardman. Another valuable member of the cast is Hank Mann, whose efforts to extract a cherry from a tall glass is a scream.

Although there is plenty of peppy action, comedy and thrills galore, it is the exceedingly novel handling that puts this picture in a class by itself. It is the something different you have been looking for and your patrons should enjoy it immensely.

Cast

Rosamond	Eleanor Boardman
George	Matt Moore
Brand	William Russell
Matt	Matthew Betts
Judge	Charles K. French
Pugilist	Jack Herrick
Traffic Cop	Leo Willis
Woman in Jail	Kate Price

Based on story, "The Summons," by Katherine Newlin Burt.
Scenario by Albert Shelby LeVino.
Directed by Robert G. Vignola.
Length, 5,000 feet.

Story

Having written several scripts that were turned down, the scenarist has to turn out a story in two days and can pick his own star. He chooses Eleanor Boardman, and she consents if she can select her leading man. She names Matt Moore, saying she wants a story where she can tame him, and the story commences. Matt proposes; her father says he will need nerve. Matt says to treat women like horses; Eleanor overhears and proceeds to teach him a lesson. They go to a prize fight. Returning home she is arrested and jailed for speeding. After a fight in the jail with another woman she is glad to be paroled in Matt's custody. His troubles continue with a raid on a ball they attend and he starts to take her to her father in the mountains. Through a ruse she gets him out of the car and speeds down the mountain. The car runs away and she falls into a stream and is rescued by two murderers who fight over her. Matt finds her and an avalanche closes the mouth of the cave. One of the murderers starts to attack her and she goes to the scenarist for help. He tells her to shoot him and she does. She then tells him she is going to finish the story and he says go ahead. She summons Matt and they climb on the scenarist's typewriter for the final close-up so the audience can go home.

"Grass"

Paramount Offers Deeply Stirring Record of Struggles of a People for Mere Existence

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Fact not fiction, with the drama supplied by the goad of necessity urging on thousands of human beings, rather than by the imagination of an author, is unfolded in the Paramount production "Grass."

A recital of events, this picture has no plot like the studio-made feature and is narrative in form; dealing with the struggles of a mass of human beings, there is no cast of players, in fact, with the exception of the adventurous Marguerite E. Harrison who journeyed with these people, only two of the number are identified, the chief Haidah Kahn and his nine-year-old son Lufta.

"Grass" is the pictorial record of the migration of a tribe of people said to be 50,000 in number with a half-million cattle from one section of Persia to another in search of this food which is needed to keep their stock alive, without which the tribe itself would perish.

To obtain this film, Miss Harrison and her companions, Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, who operated the cameras, started from Angora, in Asia Minor, in wagons, and after journeying for days and days through a large section of Arabia, over deserts and mountains, finally reached the section of Persia inhabited by this tribe known as "The Forgotten People."

This preliminary journey is pictured at considerable length and resembles the ordinary travelogue film of a strange country, with views of the landscape and scenes of its few inhabitants, and is lightened by shots of the playful antics of a very small puppy. A snappy bit shows the activities of the desert police force with their camel mounts, and there are views of wild hunters bagging their game.

With the arrival of the travelers at their goal, the Baktiari tribe of nomads are shown to be a primitive people living as they did thousands of years ago, subsisting by means of their flocks, although some contact with civilization is indicated by their having modern picks and shovels and saddles.

The drama begins in earnest with the start of the actual migration which occurs twice a year and this time took forty-six days. There is a decided punch in witnessing the tremendous hardships they undergo and the apparently insuperable difficulties they overcome in the struggle for mere existence, and documentary evidence is furnished that this is the first time a foreigner has accompanied them on one of these migrations.

The first big thrill comes when they reach a river with a swift and treacherous current, and nothing daunted we see them construct rafts supported by inflated goat-skins, and driving the horses, sheep, cows—every animal but the goats which just won't swim and were taken on the rafts—in to the swirling waters with which they battle for life to reach the other side. With its vast number of human beings and animals, this is tremendously gripping and makes the crossing in "The Covered Wagon" pale into insignificance.

But this is only one of the obstacles. An almost perpendicular mountain blocks their path, and it seems impossible that they can climb it with their cattle, etc., but they do, so we are prepared to see them unhesitatingly cross an icy-cold mountain stream.

Their next obstruction is another steep mountain, the crossing of which is made more hazardous because it is pathless and covered with deep snow. Discarding their thin cotton shoes, the men in bare feet clear a pathway, and assisting the weaker animals, in some instances carrying them on their backs, they reach the summit and then begins the slippery downward trail to their goal in a valley filled with grass.

Some of the earlier scenes might be omitted and some of the later ones shortened for they are held after the full effect has been produced, but in any event "Grass" is an amazing and deeply stirring epic of the fight of thousands for existence. In addition there are several bits of human interest and comedy; and the "shots" of the multitudes toiling up the mountain are as beautiful pictorially and dramatically effective as anything we have seen.

"Grass" is different from other films; the only one we can recall that at all resembles it is "Nanook" which dealt with the struggle of one Eskimo family for existence while "Grass" deals with a whole people and a multitude of domestic animals as well.

"The Burning Trail"

William Desmond in Universal Western of Strife Between Cattlemen and Sheep Herders

Reviewed by Sumner Smith

"The Burning Trail," a Blue Streak Universal Western, deals with a double romance in western cattle country and with ill feeling, culminating in open warfare, between cattlemen and sheep herders. The story possesses rising interest, despite minor faults in its presentation, and should find public favor, the backgrounds are very fine, some of them exceptionally striking, and the acting of the cast headed by William Desmond wholly satisfactory. Furthermore, the scenes of fast riding and then of fighting toward the end of the picture are well directed and impressive.

The many points of interest in the story evidently made flowing continuity a difficult problem. There was a double romance to be brought out, the enmity of cattleman toward sheep herder, a revenge incident and the characterization of Desmond as the man who, having once killed a man in a boxing bout, inclined toward leniency in his dealings with the villains. To include all this within the allotted footage required much thought, and that the director, or editor, failed to provide smooth continuity in some sections is not surprising. But, anyway, western fans want action and "The Burning Trail" supplies it along with fascinating of cattle and sheep ranches. Only one incident, the hero's rescue of two women from a fire, is not well handled and is unconvincing.

Desmond performs satisfactorily as the carefree chap, and Albert J. Smith has a good villainous role. Mary McIvor, James Corey, Jack Dougherty and Edmund Cobb also fill the bill.

Cast

"Smiling Bill" Flannigan	William Desmond
"Texas"	Albert J. Smith
Nell Loring	Mary McIvor
"Black" Loring	James Corey
John Corliss	Jack Dougherty
Tommy Corliss	Edmund Cobb

Adapted by Isadore Bernstein.
Directed by Arthur Rossan.
Photographed by Gilbert Warrenton.
Length, 4,783 feet.

Story

"Smiling Bill" Flannigan wanders west to forget that he has killed a man in the boxing ring. As cook at a bog ranch he gets into a dispute with "Texas," a bad man, and both are discharged. Texas gets a job with John Corliss, cattleman, and offers to show Tommy, John's young brother, how to get his stock across a sheepman's land. Bill wanders into the desert. John loves the sheepman's daughter and opposes the stirring up of strife by Texas and his brother. Bill arrives at the Corliss ranch. Circumstances bring Bill to the sheepman's ranch just as the Corlisses attack. He goes for a sheriff. Tommy is killed. The sheriff ends strife. Bill rescues the sheepman's daughter and John's cousin from the burning ranch. The ending finds a double romance.

"Marriage in Transit"

Edmund Lowe Again Has Dual Role as Secret Service Man and Spy in Fast-Moving Fox Feature

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Edmund Lowe, the Fox star, seems to be going in for dual roles. In "The Brass Bowl" he appeared as an adventurous young chap who is mistaken for a noted crook, and now in "Marriage in Transit" he is cast as a secret service agent who impersonates an international spy.

There is always an air of mystery and intrigue surrounding the activities of the secret service in the pursuit of spies that makes good picture material. In this instance the action involves the recovery of a stolen code, and the hero makes good in the early reels. Then follows considerable rapid-fire adventures involving the marriage of the secret service agent to the girl while posing as the crook.

The greater part of the footage deals with the "honeymoon" of the young couple aboard swiftly moving trains which are followed by the real crook in a fast auto, and the attempts of the hero to elude him and his henchmen.

There is plenty of action and excitement, so that the story does not have time to lag, and though not as strong a vehicle as "The Brass Bowl," it will probably prove pleasing to patrons who like stories of this type, for there is something doing every minute, with a continual battle of wits and several hand-to-hand encounters. Its main weakness lies in the fact that the story is not at all times consistent and the developments not entirely logical. It all, however, makes for fast-moving entertainment in which good suspense is maintained.

Edmund Lowe is entirely satisfactory in both roles and although his makeup is so similar as to be confusing at times, his acting helps to differentiate the two characters. The picture also has the advantage of a good supporting cast, headed by an attractive and capable young woman, Carole Lombard, who appears to be a newcomer.

Cast

Cyril Gordon Harry Holden	Edmund Lowe
Celia Hathaway	Carole Lombard
Haynes	Adolph Miller
Burnham	Frank Beal
Aide	Harvey Clark
Valet	Fred Walton
Conspirator	Byron Douglas

Story by Grace Lutz.
Directed by R. William Neill.
Length, 4,800 feet.

Story

Cyril Gordon, fond of adventure joins the Secret Service and his first assignment is to impersonate a noted crook Holden, and secure from a gang of conspirators the key to a secret code which it is believed will be sold to Holden. Gordon succeeds in securing the letter and making a getaway. Still impersonating Holden he rushes to the Hathaway home and finds that Holden is scheduled to marry Miss Hathaway immediately. Learning that she is sacrificing herself, and to save her from marrying the crook, Gordon goes through the ceremony and they leave immediately for Chicago. Holden, who has appeared follows the train in an auto. At first opportunity, Gordon discloses his identity and the pair return to Washington, where he reports to his superior. In the meantime, Holden has invaded Gordon's apartment and lays in wait for him. Gordon appears and finally overcomes him and the gang is landed in jail. Miss Hathaway decided she is perfectly willing to remain as Gordon's wife.

"O. U. West"

Lefty Flynn is Pleasing Personality in F. O. B. Western Production.

Reviewed by Sumner Smith

F. B. O.'s "O. U. West," featuring Lefty Flynn, might be termed "the picture with the three 'R's'" because of the three angles of the story written by Helen Broneau—romance, rustling and reformation. This is the typical pattern and, with a couple of minor exceptions, done with sufficient skill to interest western audiences. Again the jazzy eastern youth is sent west by a father whose patience is exhausted, to gain a new idea of life on a ranch.

The love interest is hinted at almost at the start, after good comedy scenes between Flynn and Raymond Turner. The heroine, however, is obviously enamored of the easterner that the suspense threatens to lag. Just then cattle rustlers are introduced and the interest is heightened along another angle. The reformation idea is dwelt upon only at the beginning. At the end a misunderstanding between man and girl holds up the plot.

Flynn makes an ideal western star. He has looks, a pleasing personality and skill with horses. He was quite the best part of the picture, excelling not only in the drama but in the comedy, which is well done. Ann May is unimpressive as the heroine, while the other players give average performances except in the case of Turner, whose efforts ought to make 'em laugh.

This picture was splendidly scened, some of the "shots" of western backgrounds being as fine as any we have seen in months.

Cast

O. U. West	Lefty Flynn
Tina Jones	Ann May
Cass Jones, Her Father	Milton Ross
Sally Walker	Evelyn Francisco
Ranch Foreman	Bill Donovan
Porter	Raymond Turner
Luke Crawley	Ed Burns
Jazebel Crawley	Fred Burns

Story and adaptation by Helen Broneau.
Directed by Harry Garson.
Photographed by Billy Ivers.
Length, 5,000 feet.

Story

Dad sends irresponsible Oliver U. West to his friend's ranch to sober up and learn sense. On the train he gets drunk with the Pullman porter, who accompanies him to the ranch. Cass, Jones, cattleman, and his daughter Tina take Oliver in hand and he willingly does chores until one day he proves his horsemanship. The Crawley brothers, rustlers, make away with the Jones herd, but Oliver, almost single-handed, makes them prisoners. He falls in love with Tina after a brief period of anger over his father's frame-up with Jones, and she accepts him.

'Sackcloth and Scarlet'

Alice Terry Scores in Paramount Production With Daring Theme Finely Directed by Henry King.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

A story dealing with the contrasting natures of two sisters, one selfish the other self-sacrificing, is presented in the Henry King production for Paramount "Sackcloth and Scarlet" adapted from a novel by George Gibbs and featuring Alice Terry.

A striking feature of this production is the fine directorial work of Henry King. Without any preliminaries he plunges right into the situation which gives rise to the story wherein the younger sister seeking adventure deliberately lures the hero into a situation which brings about her undoing. Daring from its sex angle, it has been handled with such finesse that the full purport will only dawn on many of the spectators as the action unfolds. With the exception of a too great use of close-ups, one especially of the star that is held much too long, the same skill is exhibited throughout the picture, and in addition he has introduced some strikingly beautiful scenic backgrounds of the Sierras and fine interior lighting effects.

The picture's greatest appeal, however, will come from the fine work of Miss Terry as the self-sacrificing sister. While her bearing the brunt of her sister's shame and refusing to reveal the child's paternity does not accord with everyday human nature, it gives her opportunities that reveal real depth and sincerity and emotional ability, and result in establishing intense sympathy.

The story is rather sad throughout, the role of the heroine having a deep note of pathos and suffering right up to the ending which brings her happiness. The interest is well sustained in the earlier reels but lags somewhat in the middle of the picture with the introduction of situations that are somewhat conventional and in which coincidence plays too large a part. The ending, too, seems rather forced for effect but there is good drama, suspense and sustained interest in the scenes immediately preceding.

Dorothy Sebastian, a newcomer, gives a strikingly effective performance of the selfish sister and Orville Caldwell is an unusually convincing type for the leading male role, while an exceptionally clever little fellow, Jack Huff, takes the role of the boy.

From every standpoint, this is a high-class production and we believe that it will furnish average entertainment for the majority of spectators.

Cast

Joan Freeman	Alice Terry
Stephen Edwards	Orville Caldwell
Polly Freeman	Dorothy Sebastian
Beatrice Selignac	Kathleen Kirkham
Samuel Curtis	John Miljan
Miss Curtis	Clarissa Selwynne
Jack	Jack Huff

Based on novel by George Gibbs.
Scenario by Tom Geraghty, Jules Furthman and Julie Herne.
Directed by Henry King.
Length, 6,732 feet.

Story

In search of adventure, Polly Freeman under an assumed name goes west and persists in flirting with her big mountain guide Stephen until he falls madly in love with her. Stephen wishes to marry Polly but she runs away and returns home where she confesses the truth to her sister Joan. The two sisters go to France, Joan postponing her wedding to Samuel Curtis. Curtis follows and discovers Joan at a small inn, with the baby who has been born to Polly and misunderstands. Selfish, and fearing discovery, Polly leaves. Joan, her mother love awakened takes charge of the boy and refuses to tell the truth. Finally she comes to Washington as the guest of the Countess Selignac who has remained faithful to her. Here she meets Stephen who has been sent to Congress as a reward for putting through a big irrigation project. Stephen finally wins Joan's love but refuses to listen to anything about his past. Polly reappears after her money is gone and she is broken in health and discloses that Stephen is the father of her boy. Joan insists that they be married, but Polly dies soon after and Joan and Stephen are left to find happiness together.

"Waking Up the Town"

Variety of Entertainment in United Artists Film Co-Starring Jack Pickford and Norma Shearer

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Having created an excellent impression by her work in recent productions, Norma Shearer shares with Jack Pickford the starring honors in the United Artists' production, "Waking Up the Town."

This picture starts out as a peppy comedy involving the chase of the heroine in an auto "borrowed" from a bootlegger, settles down into a typical small town romance with the hero as an inventor who finally succeeds in making good his dream of establishing a power company to harness a local waterfall, and then introduces sequences in which the hero, dreaming of his elderly partner's prophecy of the end of the world, sees the destruction of the earth by fire and flood.

The early part is bright and snappy, but the story slows down somewhat with the beginning of the hero's fight for his water-power scheme, which follows along somewhat familiar lines. The scenes of devastation and destruction, with towns flooded, mountains slipping into the sea, volcanos in eruption and cities being destroyed, are well handled and include a clever bit of trick photography in which New York is seen gradually sinking into the ocean. This comes as a surprise and adds to the interest.

Jack Pickford has a congenial role and handles it capably. Norma Shearer's work is entirely satisfactory and marked by strong sincerity. She is handicapped, however, by not having many opportunities and the fact that her role in the later reels is not entirely in keeping with the pep she displays at the opening. There is a good supporting cast, although Herbert Pryor is inclined to overact in the character of the small-town banker.

The human interest angle is good, the romance pleasing and the sympathy properly placed; the story angle is of the type that has proved its appeal, and with the variety of entertainment offered by the different parts of this production it should prove a pleasing attraction.

Cast

Jim Joyce	Jack Pickford
Mrs. Joyce	Claire McDowell
Abner Hope	Alec B. Francis
Mary Ellen Hope	Norma Shearer
Curt Horndyke	Herbert Pryor
Helen Horndyke	Ann May
Joe Lakin	George Dromgold

Story by James Cruze and Frank Condon.
Length, 4,802 feet.

Story

Mary Ellen Hope comes to spend her vacation with her grandfather, Abner, who with young Joyce runs a garage. Joyce, who is an inventor, dreams of harnessing nearby waterfalls but is unsuccessful in interesting the town banker, Horndyke. Abner, an amateur astronomer, predicts the end of the world and gives all his money to Jim, who buys a car and a house and, to impress Mary Ellen, writes a letter to Horndyke saying he has outside capital. Mary mails it. Horndyke, hearing of Jim's prosperity, agrees to raise capital and tries to interest Jim in his daughter, Helen. The plant is opened and Horndyke broadcasts Jim's engagement to Helen. Jim assures Mary Ellen it is unwarranted. A severe storm comes and damages the house and Jim is hurt. In his dream he sees the end of the world, everything being devastated by fire and water. Awakening, he finds Mary Ellen at his side, and the future shows them happily married.

"Gold and Grit"

Buddy Roosevelt's Newest for Artclass is Entertaining Western With Plenty of Action and Stunts

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Characteristic of the series of westerns starring Buddy Roosevelt distributed by Artclass Pictures Corporation on the independent market, "Gold and Grit" the seventh of the lot moves along at a good fast tempo with plenty of action.

The story concerns a chap who makes a daring stop of runaway horses attached to a stage when the driver is killed, and is himself given the job. It develops he has left his home town accused of robbery and fate gives him the opportunity not only to win the girl but to vindicate himself and save the girl's father from being cheated out of his mine by the real thief who loses his life in a mine explosion.

It will be seen that the plot follows along conventional lines, but sufficient stunts, melodramatic situations, fights, fine horseback riding and other marks of the usual western have been injected to sustain the interest, gives the story good snap and plenty of action and as a result it should prove a satisfactory attraction of its type.

Buddy is of a vigorous type and gives a good account of himself in the role of the hero, with Ann McKay attractive as the girl. Nelson McDowell is inclined to overdo his role of a stranded actor as his make-up is exaggerated and theatric; however it is good for some laughs.

One of Buddy's best stunts shows him hanging by his legs and grabbing the villains from the backs of their horses as they ride beneath him, this is followed by the thrilling though familiar situation of the fight at the top of a cliff, with the hero of course victorious.

While there is nothing really new in "Gold and Grit," it has a likeable star with a sufficiency of stunts and action to make it an entertaining western.

Cast

Buddy	Buddy Roosevelt
Helen	Ann McKay
Bill Mason	W. H. Turner
Jim Crawford	L. J. O'Connor
Jack Crawford	Wilbur Mack
Horatio Blaabs	Nelson McDowell
Sheriff	Hank Bell

Story by Ned Nye.
Directed by Richard Thorpe.
Length, 4,712 feet.

Story

Buddy stops a runaway stage coach which has been attacked by bandits and gets the job as stage driver. He is recognized by Blaabs a stranded actor as a chap who has run away on account of being accused of robbery and who is in reality the nephew of Crawford, part owner of a nearby gold mine. Crawford's son takes Helen Mason for ride, a storm occurs and they seek refuge in Buddy's cabin, where young Crawford tricks Helen into a promise of marriage by cheating in cutting the cards. Buddy takes a hand and Crawford denounced him. The elder Crawford fires Buddy. Helen takes his part and it develops that Crawford has tricked Helen's father out of his share of the mine. Blaabs, who is aiding Buddy, learns that Crawford has instructed his henchmen to secure the gold and make a getaway. He notifies Buddy who fights them but is overpowered and tied. Blaabs frees him, and Buddy, hanging from a tree manages to get two of them. He fights the third one who finally falls over the cliff. Crawford in attempting to blow up the mine, trips and is himself killed. Buddy and Helen declare their love for each other.

"School for Wives"

Vitagraph Offers Adaptation of Leonard Merrick Story with Conway Tearle and Sigrid Holmquist

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Adapted from Leonard Merrick's story "The House of Lynch," the Vitagraph production "School for Wives" belongs to the familiar and formerly much used type of story in which the evils of great wealth in the hands of an unscrupulous man are exploited as responsible for the wrecking of many lives and much suffering.

The bid for audience sympathy is made in the character of a young artist whose chum commits suicide as the result of Lynch's doings. This artist marries Lynch's daughter but refuses to touch his tainted money and finally his wife, no longer able to bear poverty, leaves him. She finally learns the truth about her father's wealth and in seeking to become the right kind of a wife for a poor man, she, too, gives up her wealth and works as a drudge in a farm house. This episode gives the picture its title.

The leading players, Conway Tearle and Sigrid Holmquist do good work, but the characters they portray do not command a great amount of sympathy as their actions are not in accordance with real life. In fact the story itself is over-stressed emotional melodrama; in which every device has been employed to heighten the audience interest. It is peopled with the regular lot of familiar types including the woman who scrubs the floors to support her sick husband, the old farmer and his wife whose home is to be sold over their heads, etc., the vamping woman who seeks to win the artist. But at no time does it ring true or arouse more than mild interest. In addition to the story weakness, the continuity is jumpy due to the taking up of many different threads and switching from one to the other.

This picture has been given an elaborate production, and one of its features is a scene in which the entire chorus of Earl Carroll's Vanities appear in a dance number. Belonging to the old-school melodrama "School for Wives" has little to recommend it for the discriminating patron although it may prove fairly entertaining for those who like diatribes against great wealth crushing the laboring man and who are willing to overlook the illogical situations and scenes.

Cast

Richard Keith	Conway Tearle
Betty Lynch	Sigrid Holmquist
Lady Atherton	Peggy Kelly
Jordan B. Lynch	Arhtur Donaldson
Howard Lynch	Allan Simpson
Ralph	Brian Dunlevy
Tomlinson	Dick Lee
Muggins	Dorothy Allen
Ronald Van Stuyvesant	Gerald Oliver Smith
Kitty Dawson	Emily Chichester
Mary Wilson	Alyce Mills

Story by Leonard Merrick.
Produced by Victor Hugo Halperin.
Length, 6,182 feet.

Story

Jordan B. Lynch is a super capitalist, seizing with relentless grasp international industries from banks to steamboats. He is indirectly responsible for the suicide of a friend of Richard Keith, an artist, in that he has absorbed the mill formerly owned by this friend. Keith, who lives in London, accepts a commission to paint a New York society woman and meets and loves Betty, Lynch's only daughter, but explains that he cannot marry her because her father's money is tainted. He returns to London and the enterprising Betty goes on the same ship and before they land has consented to marry him and share his respectable poverty. She sticks to her promise until the illness of her child necessitates an operation her husband cannot afford, and cables for money. The operation is not required, but Betty goes home to take up the old life. In time she meets two women who have suffered from her father's ruthless ways. She returns to England, but not to her husband, living on ten dollars a week to train herself for the comparative affluence of Keith's earnings. Her father dies, leaving his fortune to her, and she promptly turns the money over to charity and Keith, learning for the first time of her presence in England, rejoins her.

"Men and Women"

William De Mille Gives Convincing Presentation of Old Belasco-De Mille Drama for Paramount

Reviewed by Epes W. Sargent

Written in the days when David Belasco owed much of his success to the technique of Henry De Mille, this play still is a story of today, thanks in part to the excellent direction of William De Mille and in part to the excellence of the scenario, but chiefly to the inherent soundness of the plot. But the plot is a tricky one and in less careful hands the protagonist might be pictured as too supine to win and hold interest.

It is a tribute to both William De Mille and Richard Dix that the character of Prescott holds the sympathy of the spectator. It is not the best character Dix has had, but it is one of his best bits of acting. The basis of the plot is the time-worn triangle, but here is a three cornered situation in which the intentions of the antagonist are entirely honorable. He does not seek the seduction of the wife, but aims to undermine her love for her husband through a greater liberality than the latter can afford. It is a distinct relief from the usual situation, and makes for greater interest.

Claire Adams plays sincerely as the pleasure-loving wife and Neil Hamilton, as the technical villain is always within the picture. Robert Edeson is seen for once outside the role of the elderly and unloved husband. Here he is the good genius of the play and does much for the picture. Harry Stephenson is thoroughly convincing as the stockbroker and Flora Finch makes much of a small but important bit.

The acting ensemble is unusually good and the direction blends the individual efforts into an unusually good whole. There is nothing sensational to the production, but it is thoroughly good entertainment and will appeal to all who like really good drama.

Cast

Will Prescott	Richard Dix
Agnes Prescott	Claire Adams
Ned Seabury	Neil Hamilton
Marco Culman	Robert Edeson
Arnold Kirke	Henry Stephenson
Kate	Flora Finch

From a play by David Belasco and Henry De Mille.
Scenario by Clara Beranger.
Directed by William De Mille.
Length, 6,223 feet.

Story

Prescott is cashier in a bank in which Ned, his assistant, plays the stock market. Will and Agnes, his wife, accept Ned's hospitality, but when Ned offers Agnes a dress "for a valentine" she tells that it is a gift from her worldly wise-cousin, Kate. The first acceptance leads to others and when Will remonstrates with Ned, the latter tells him that he does not aspire to be "the other man" but plans to win Agnes for his wife by giving her the luxuries Will cannot afford. Desperate, Will falls into the net of Kirke, Ned's broker, depositing some of the bank s securities as margin. Kirke and Will are wiped out and Kirke kills himself. Culman, president of the bank, discovers the theft and blames Ned. Will momentarily avails himself of the opportunity to throw the blame on his friend and dispose of his own guilt and a rival, but his better nature prevails, he confesses and is taken to jail, but the repentant Agnes persuades Culman to save Will and the final scene shows them headed for South America to take charge of Culman's coffee plantation.

"Loaded Dice"

(Universal—Western—Two Reels)

With Edmund Cobb as the star, this Universal Western released under the Mustang brand belongs to type of stories popularized by William S. Hart. The hero appears as a square-playing gambler who falls in love with a girl whose father gambles away their ranch. He uses his skill at cards to win back the money, but is robbed and beaten and suspected by the girl. Finally learning the truth she goes to the hero for help and he enters his own horse in a race and wins enough money to save the ranch. There is considerable action of the familiar type and the average amount of human interest and sympathy for the girl, and it offers fair entertainment for the western fan.—C. S. S.

"Papa's Pet"

(Universal—Comedy—One Reel)

This Universal Comedy released under the Bulls-Eye brand with the familiar trio Bert Roach, Neely Edwards and Alice Howell in the leading roles, is built around the oft-used idea of the parent who goes away for a trip and leaves his spoiled and mischievous offspring in the care of friends. They take the kid to an amusement park, he gets lost and manages to become involved in all sorts of mischief to the despair of his guardians, and to cap the climax, the father is so pleased with their report of the child's good behavior that he decides to leave him for six months. The child's antics will amuse children and provide a few smiles for the grownups.—C. S. S.

THE PEP OF THE PROGRAM

NEWS AND REVIEWS OF SHORT SUBJECTS AND SERIALS

"The Marriage Circus"

(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

For a two-reeler, Mack Sennett has a knock-out in "The Marriage Circus." Ben Turpin heads the cast of established screen comedians among whom are Madeline Hurlock, Sunshine Hart, Louise Carver and William C. Lawrence. Louise Carver as the aggressive mother and Ben as the dutiful and lovelorn son form a couple in this comedy that should weaken almost any audience with laughter. Madeline, the "Pathe vamp," "busts" Ben's heart when she turns him down at the church for another beau. Ben in order to blot out the blighty past does a "Ben Hur" with a couple of horses. The wedding party pursues him in several cars during the course of which the bride is stolen by another admirer. It so happens that Ben's horses collide with the taxicab in which reposes the abducted damsel and he unconsciously effects her rescue. In our estimation Turpin is at his best in "The Marriage Circus."—T. W.

"Bad Boy"

(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

The familiar story of a wealthy college graduate working from the ground up in order to be infallibly fit for Pa's job is the theme of "Bad Boy." Charlie Chase gives a highly amusing performance as the "grad." In overalls of many stripes he joins the motly gang in his father's iron foundry. Between times he plays the nymph in a lawn fete being given by his mother. In search of his lunchroom waitress he masquerades with success as a hard guy but the crowd in a rough dancehall mobs him when he is identified as the dancer. He then seeks the aid of bricklayers in the street below and their bricks soon restore quietude. On the whole this is a mighty good offering.—T. W.

"A Day with the Gypsies"

(Red Seal—Screen Gem—One Reel)

There are two distinct angles of interest in this single reel Red Seal subject. First, as implied by the title, this little picture depicts the activities of an average day in the life of a gypsy tribe, how they start out in the morning and after traveling across country stop for lunch and as night approaches pick a suitable place for camp and then dance and sing around the camp fire. Their familiar aptitude for fortune-telling by reading the palm is of course included. In the instance filmed, their wanderlust takes them over a part of England and the backgrounds are attractive.—C. S. S.

"Why Hesitate"

(Educational—Comedy—Two Reels)

Neal Burns in this Christie Comedy for Educational plays the familiar role of a bashful beau whose triumph is accomplished through actionful circumstances. The comedy is replete with slapstick and of a vein that has proved itself successful entertainment. In "Why Hesitate" someone is always stumbling, running, leaping and crashing. It's two reels, as far as the speed and laughs are concerned, are best likened to a hundred-yard dash with professional sprinters as the competitors. This beau is welcomed by daughter and father but his reticence gives a rival the opportunity to complicate things. Father hires a detective to beat-up the obnoxious one but circumstances provide that Neal gets the pummeling. The comedy winds up with the police raiding a gambling house and the bashful beau outpointing the "nervy" rival.—T. W.

"Shorts" Reviewed In This Issue

Are Husbands Human? (Pathe)
Bad Boy (Pathe)
Day with the Gypsies, A (Red Seal)
Hair Cartoon (Red Seal)
Loaded Dice (Universal)
In the Spider's Grip (Educational)
Marriage Circus (Pathe)
Papa's Pet (Universal)
Putting on Airs (Universal)
Smoked Out (Universal)
Why Hesitate? (Educational)

"In the Spider's Grip"

(Educational—Novelty—One Reel)

Educational in "In the Spider's Grip" introduces an interesting and entertaining novelty. The film has various mechanical devices representing a spider, grasshopper and beetle. The grasshopper is the unsophisticated dame, the spider is the villain and the beetle essays the role of the true lover. How the dame is lured by the bright lights and the spider's promises of splendor to the web den is cleverly unfolded. A battle between the spider and the beetle with knife and axe and the rescue of the grasshopper at the sacrifice of the contestants' lives is quite peppy. The sub-titles are very appropriate and in rhythmic form. They are the work of Morris Ryskind.—T. W.

The House of FEATURETTES

ANNOUNCES THAT

Max Fleischer's "KO-KO SONG CAR-TUNES" are one of the most extraordinary releases ever made. A combination of CARTOONING and well-known SONGS which has taken FIRST-RUN houses by storm.

Watch for their pre-release run on BROADWAY.

RED SEAL PICTURES CORP.

Edwin Miles Fadman, Pres.

1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

"Putting On Airs"

(Universal—Comedy—Two Reels)

In this Century Comedy distributed through Universal the fun is supplied by this company's newest star Edna Marian and Arthur Lake. Edna appears as a poor girl who doll's herself up and meets a rich chap and pretends she lives in a swell home. To keep up the bluff she invades the house when the owners are not around and the youth stages a jazzy party in the midst of which the owners return and it develops that they are the boy's parents. There is considerable pep to this subject which gives a chance for Edna Marian to appear in classy clothes and shows her to be a very pretty blonde; her previous roles have been in character. Arthur Lake is a clever juvenile. Several of the situations are amusing though they follow familiar lines, and it should prove a comedy of average entertainment value.—C. S. S.

"Are Husbands Human?"

(Pathe—Comedy—One Reel)

Jim Finlayson in "Are Husbands Human?" sets up a new record for screen fundom. He plays the part of one of those measely, obnoxiously timid hubbies. The boss is late for the firm's dinner and the temporary toastmaster's job is up to Jim. The moth balls roll out of his dress suit, the electric fan fans off his wig and blows away the patent leather speech, and his burley wife kicks him in the shins. Jim puts it all over in the form of convulsive laughter and that's what this comedy should register in any house at any time.—T. W.

"Hair Cartoon"

(Red Seal—Cartoon—300 Feet)

In accordance with the policy of issuing subjects especially suitable for certain occasions, Red Seal is offering Hair Cartoon "P" which is appropriate for the opening of the baseball season. This number contains animated cartoons drawn by Marcus in his characteristic style, showing John J. McGraw and Christy Matheson, also one of the celebrated author Bernard Shaw that is deftly changed into the high mogul of organized baseball, Judge Landis.—C. S. S.

"Smoked Out"

(Universal—Comedy—One Reel)

This single reel Universal Comedy under the Bulls Eye brand is built around one situation. A father catches his budding son smoking cigarettes and instead of chastising him, treats him as an equal and insists that he smoke a big cigar. The expected happens and the boy gets sick and swears off smoking. The excellent work of young Arthur Lake, especially his facial expressions, are good for a number of chuckles, although the subject may not appeal to all patrons.—C. S. S.

(Additional "Shorts" on page 583)

First National Announces 52 Pictures For New Season; Also Seven Specials

ANNOUNCEMENT of its product for an entire year, beginning September 1, 1925, and ending August 31, 1926, has just been made by First National Pictures.

The company's branch managers have received notification from E. A. Eschmann, general manager of distribution, that booklets descriptive of the product to be made for the new season will be forwarded to them for their information within a short time. The booklet will contain 75 pages, magazine size. It is to be mailed to every exhibitor in the United States.

Mr. Eschmann and his staff are working out the details of the selling plans for the new season's product, which has been designated as the Winner Group of pictures.

There will be fifty-two pictures in the Winner Group, with seven specials.

The seven specials follow:

Three Frank Lloyd productions—"Winds of Chance," from Rex Beach's popular novel of the gold-rush days in Alaska; "Rainbow's End," from Rex Beach's novel of Cuba's struggle for independence from Spanish rule; and "The Splendid Road," from Vingie E. Roe's new novel of California in the period between 1850 and 1854.

Colleen Moore in "Irene," from James Montgomery's successful musical comedy libretto, which will be produced under supervision of June Mathis.

Joseph M. Schenck's new Norma Talmadge picture, "Graustark," from George Barr McCutcheon's novel of a mythical Balkan principality.

"Men of Steel," from R. G. Kirk's story of the steel industry, "United States Flavor," published in the Saturday Evening Post, to be made under the supervision of Earl Hudson.

"Viennese Medley," from Edith O'Shaughnessy's brilliant novel of Vienna before, after and during the war. June Mathis will supervise this production.

The pictures in the Winner Group of releases which can be designated at the present time are:

"The Comeback," a stellar vehicle for Milton Sills, from the novel of the prize-ring and the lumber camp by M. D. Crawford. There will be at least two other productions starring Sills which have not yet been decided upon.

Three vehicles have been selected for Colleen Moore in addition to "Irene." These are "Joseph Greer and His Daughter," from Henry Kitchell Webster's new novel; "Clarissa and the Post Road," from Grace Sartwell Mason's recent Saturday Evening Post story, and "Don Juan's Three Nights," from the novel by Ludwig Biro.

Four productions will be made for First National by Robert Kane, for four years general manager of production for Famous Players-Lasky, who is now producing independently. The first of these will be "Invisible Wounds," from the new novel by Frederick Palmer, famous war correspondent and novelist.

Two stories have been purchased for Corinne Griffith Productions, Inc. E. M. Asher, president of that producing unit, will supervise the two pictures for Miss Griffith. One of them is "Forever After," the Owen Davis play in which Alice Brady starred on the stage. The other is "Ashes," the play by Reginald Goode in which Florence Reed starred on the stage.

Doris Kenyon will be featured in two productions, "The Lady Who Played Fidele," from Gerald Beaumont's short story, and "Bed and Board," by Lenore J. Coffee.

Signs Famous Pair

Harry Cohn, of Columbia Pictures Corporation, has signed Kalmar and Ruby, the well-known pair of skit writers, to apply their talents to the interests of the Columbia. The two writers have already gone to Hollywood to take up the business of turning out clever ideas. Their first step will be to take complete charge of the scenario department. This will involve going over such plays and books as have already been purchased for next season's production.

Frank Lloyd will produce one Winner Group release, "The Rose of Monterey," a story of California at the time it became a possession of the United States. It was written by Minna Smith and Eugenie Woodward.

Another production for this group will be "The Boss of Little Arcady," from Harry Leon Wilson's novel.

Samuel Goldwyn and George Fitzmaurice will contribute to Winner releases. The first production will be "The Dark Angel," from the play which is one of the season's biggest hits on Broadway, the rights to which have just been purchased by Mr. Goldwyn for that director.

An Edna Ferber story, "Classified," will be done by First National with a prominent feminine star in the lead.

Philip Gibbs' short story, "Out of the Ruins," published in the Cosmopolitan Magazine for December, 1924, is listed.

Two Constance Talmadge pictures will be included, "The Twin Sister," from an original by Hans Kraeli, who wrote "Her Night of Romance" for that star, and George Barr McCutcheon's new novel, "East of the Setting Sun."

Four Richard Barthelmess-Inspiration pictures are listed, only one of which can be announced at the time of writing. This is "Shore Leave," from Hubert Osborne's play which David Belasco produced.

June Mathis will prepare the continuity and supervise the production of "Paradise," from Cosmo Hamilton's new novel.

A screen version of Margaretta Tuttle's new novel, "The Unguarded Hour," will be made with Mary Astor in the leading feminine role.

Among the Winner releases will be "Careers," from Alfred Schirokauer and Paul Rosenhayn's play, "Karriere."

"A Husband for George-Anne," Hazel Christie Macdonald's recent Saturday Evening Post story, the screen rights to which were recently acquired by the company.

Sawyer-Lubin will make two productions starring Barbara LaMarr for First National release as Winner product. The titles of these cannot be announced at present.

M. C. Levee will also be represented by two productions, as yet unnamed.

Jacqueline Logan, Clive Brook, "Buster" Collier and Mary Astor in First National's "Playing with Souls"

"Madame Sans-Gene" Viewed By Paramount's Executives

GLORIA SWANSON
The Paramount star of "Madame Sans-Gene"

LEONCE PERRET
Who directed Gloria Swanson in the Paramount Super-special, "Madame Sans-Gene"

At last "Madame Sans-Gene," which has been in the making in France since last August, has been seen in America.

A distinguished company of stars, directors and officials of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, viewed the picture in rough form last week in the projection room at the Paramount Long Island studio, and the entire Paramount organization is buzzing with the wonders of the picture.

"It is the climax of the triumphant career of Gloria Swanson," said Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. "The plaudits given her on her return this week to America will be redoubled by the American people when this picture is shown publicly. It is a new Gloria, a great Gloria with all the artistry, charm and power foreshadowed by her performances in 'Zaza' and 'The Humming Bird.' It is the greatest picture Gloria has made; it is one of the greatest picture ever made.

"I have seen Mme. Simone, Rejane and other great artists of the stage play the role of the laundress who became the Duchess of Danzig. Gloria's performance in this part will live with the greatest of these.

"Not only is this picture a triumph in acting and beauty, but it also has a great value in its historic authenticity. The American people can never be grateful enough to the French Ministry of Fine Arts for allowing us to make this picture in the actual scenes that saw the rise and fall of Napoleon. Not only did the French Government permit us to use all of these historical places, but it also gave us every assistance in the way of supplying us with the articles used by Napoleon and the Court of the First Empire.

"Thus, we see Napoleon's coach, Napoleon's bed, the costumes of the First Empire, the bed of Marie Antoinette, the palaces and grounds of Fontainebleau, Malmaison, Compiegne. Never before have these been shown on the screen; in 'Madame Sans-Gene' they are the background against which we tell a historic story.

"All of these things give 'Madame Gans-Gene' a special interest that enhances its value. I daresay that for years to come colleges, schools and museums will look upon this picture as their authority for the settings of Napoleon's Court, because in this picture we have Napoleon's Court as if a magic wand brought it back to life again amid the scenes of its old-time splendor.

"Naturally we are happy that the effort, the worry and the thought of six months have resulted in this wonderful picture. But to me 'Madame Sans-Gene' has a deeper significance. To me it shows the motion picture coming into its own. It shows how the motion picture can take a great story, a great actress and historic settings and can tell, better than anything else, one of the most absorbing stories of what is certainly the most glamorous period of the world's history. 'Madame Sans-Gene' is the motion picture at its best, and we of Paramount are proud that we have made it."

GLORIA SWANSON IN "MADAME SANS-GENE"

Here we have one of the first reproductions of a photograph showing Gloria as the laundress—before she became the Duchess, of course. Sarah Bernhardt created this role on the stage. The French Government cooperated with Paramount in the filming of this moving story of Napoleon and his fascinating charmer.

Marmont and Hamilton Signed

Screen Favorites to Have Roles in "Street of Forgotten Men"

Percy Marmont and Neil Hamilton have been signed for important roles in Herbert Brenon's Paramount production, "The Street of Forgotten Men," scheduled to go into production April 6, at the Long Island studio.

Mr. Marmont will have the role of "Easy Money Charlie," and Neil Hamilton, who has just finished work in "The Little French Girl," will play the young son of the lawyer.

Mary Brian, who was "Wendy" in "Peter Pan" and featured in "The Little French Girl," is the only other member of the cast chosen thus far.

Will Produce "Rugged Waters"

Irvin Willat will produce "Rugged Waters" for Paramount. Production will begin in about a week. "Rugged Waters" was written by Joseph C. Lincoln and describes the storms and the dangers of the life saving service of the New England coast. Wallace Beery, Lois Wilson and Warner Baxter have been assigned to featured parts.

Vitagraph to Release 30 Productions, President Albert E. Smith Announces

ALBERT E. SMITH

President of Vitagraph this week announces the plans of the company for the season of 1925-26, which lists thirty feature productions.

ALBERT E. SMITH, president of Vitagraph, returned to New York from Hollywood last week bringing with him production plans for Vitagraph's 1925-1926 season. While Mr. Smith declined to give out the names of the productions to be made by his company at the present he let it be known that Vitagraph would produce twenty pictures and would release ten other productions, all of the caliber of those that marked the 1924-1925 season which Mr. Smith named as the biggest in the history of Vitagraph.

Mr. Smith warmly endorsed the recent admonishment of Sidney S. Cohen to the exhibitors of the country when he called on them to "Mobilize their play dates." Mr. Smith said:

"From my observation of production activities by independents on the West coast and from what Mr. J. B. Rock, our general manager, has told me of the situation in the East, exhibitors can depend upon it that there will be plenty of independent pictures for the coming season. There is no reason why the independent who properly mobilizes his play dates cannot be assured of excellent box-office productions for his theatre. There is no need of the exhibitor clutching wildly at the program pictures offered by the producer-distributor-theatre-owning combines to keep his theatre open. There will be independent pictures of magnitude and of exploitation values which never before have been offered for bookings.

"Vitagraph will contribute from its own producing units twenty productions, each by a well known author, from books and plays which already have won an audience throughout the country. Vitagraph will also distribute ten productions by independents whose pictures rate up to the same standard as those of Vitagraph's own units.

"For Vitagraph itself, I can only say that I am grateful, beyond measure, that at a recent election by the stockholders a new directorate was elected and new officers selected for both Vitagraph Company of America and Vitagraph Inc., which restores the company once more to its own. We are once more our own Vitagraph family. Within the year that Mr. Rock and A. Victor Smith have been at the head of our sales organization, we have made tremendous advances and have gained marvelous progress. This has been due, I think, to the selection of stories for our pictures. We have hewed straight to the line in our policy of producing clean and wholesome pictures with plenty of action and the proof is in the eating of it.

"Our rentals have increased in number on every production that we have released on our 1924-1925 schedule and the bookings already in on 'Tides of Passion' and 'Baree, Son of Kazan' prove that fine stories by well known authors have met with the approval of exhibitors and public alike. The former is by Basil King and the latter by James Oliver Curwood.

"The success of our production as box-office attractions in no little measure has been due to the admirable direction by David Smith and J. Stuart Blackton. I saw Mr. Blackton's last picture 'Tides of Passion' before leaving for the East and I consider it a marvelous story. Mae Marsh has the leading role. 'Baree, Son of Kazan' with Anita Stewart, I predict will be one of the greatest box-office attractions of the year. Miss Stewart has brought to the screen in this a youthful beauty that is even more appealing than when she began her career in Vitagraph.

"When I left Hollywood, Mr. Blackton was beginning to shoot 'The Happy Warrior' by A. S. M. Hutchinson, the author of 'The Clean Heart,' a picture which was last year claimed by exhibitors, critics, and public as one of the finest pictures ever screened. Mr. David Smith began shooting last week 'Steele of the Royal Mounted,' another James Curwood story, as intriguing and attraction compelling as it 'Baree, Son of Kazan.'"

"Have you anything to say regarding the M. P. T. O. A. National Convention which has been called to meet in Milwaukee, May 12, 13 and 14?" Mr. Smith was asked by the representative of MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

"I can only repeat what I have been urging on the exhibitors for many years, that if they would protect themselves against unfair theatre competition, they must make themselves truly independent and support the independent producer who is not a competitor and who owns no theatres. If the independent exhibitor supports the independent producer, the latter can give him pictures at live-and-let-live prices and the dollars exhibitors spend in rental will not be used to build theatres opposite him. I sincerely hope that this convention will bring together the great body of exhibitors throughout the country and that they will take such steps as will protect not only themselves but the entire industry against injustice and unethical business methods."

JOHN B. ROCK

General Manager of Vitagraph has assisted in whipping into shape a production program of which Vitagraph is proud.

Finishes "Tides of Passion"

Vitagraph officials and executives at the general offices in Brooklyn expect to have a view of the new J. Stuart Blackton special, "Tides of Passion," within a few days. Word from Hollywood is to the effect that the first print of this photoplay, in which Mae Marsh is starred, is now bound eastward.

Held for Second Week

So great were the crowds that sought admittance to the Arcadia Theatre, in Philadelphia, to see Nazimova in Vitagraph's "The Redeeming Sin," in the opening week of what was scheduled originally as a one-week run, that the feature was held over for a second week. Even this extension resulted in no abatement of interest, and but little diminution in attendance. The Arcadia is one of the Stanley chain.

On to Milwaukee
M. P. T. O. A. It is Independents' Day
May 12th, 13th and 14th
VITAGRAPH
ALBERT E. SMITH PRESIDENT

"Lights!"

George Folsey of First National Camera Staff Forecasts Developments

A RADICAL change in the art of lighting moving picture sets has been forecast as an early screen development.

The change was predicted by George Folsey, of the First National camera staff, now photographing Ben Lydon and Viola Dana in Earl Hudson's production, "The Necessary Evil," which George Archainbaud is directing.

Coming changes will bring into the processes of set lighting the principles evolved by Rembrandt, Corot and other old masters of the painting art, according to Folsey. Lighting then, he holds, will become less a medium of illumination for photography than of expression.

"Of no less importance than the furthering of the photographic art of the film drama is the saving in volume of light, and the elimination of much of the delay in what we call 'lining up' sets," Folsey says.

"Film photography has been passing through a fascinating state of experiment, out of which the fundamental and enduring principles are just being evolved. Camera work began to be an art with the discovery that electrical illumination could supplant natural light.

"After that camera men began working toward heavier and heavier concentration of lights, flooding their sets from all angles. The secret of filming is in the illumination, which is one of the most elaborate and expensive processes. Powerful lights have been devised which can turn night outdoors into day.

"But the more powerful and profuse the volume of light the further from the basic possibilities of art camera work moved. The trend now, however, is toward reduction, and it will not be long before cameramen will be using half the earlier volume of light.

"As a result of the new trend new lighting apparatus is being perfected which will revolutionize set illumination. The present lights are too big, powerful and cumbersome. The present manner of barrage lighting often uses up an entire half day in getting a set ready for a single scene, with highly paid players waiting around indolently, straining their nerves and patience.

"The new type of spots will give a more compact light with lower intensity. Less equipment and man-power will be necessary which, aside from the cutting down of current, will bring a great saving in time, which means money in the film industry.

"With softer and less glaring lighting the effects of contrast and emphasis—the light and shadow effects—are easier to get. Furthermore, the reduced strain on the eyes of the players minimizes the danger of 'Klieg eye.'

"Lights heighten and accentuate dramatic effects, depending upon the way they are used. Film lighting is a form of sketching, using beams of light for lines. It is harder to bring up impressions when the lights are spread on thick and heavy."

Folsey is one of the younger leaders in camera work. He has evolved an individuality of style which has won admiring comment. He filmed "The Bright Shawl," starring Richard Barthelmess, which ranked high as an artistic achievement. He handled the camera on several subsequent Barthelmess pictures before Hudson engaged him to film "The Necessary Evil."

De Mille Starts Building

First of Contemplated Improvements Now Under Way

Work on the first of several new concrete fireproof buildings at the Cecil B. DeMille studios was started last week as the first step in the plans for the enlargement and improvement of the equipment with which DeMille will work in creating his first releases through Producers Distributing Corporation.

This initial concrete unit will be a wardrobe building, 50 by 90 feet, two stories high. Its cost will run well into five figures. It will be on the Ince boulevard frontage of the studio and eventually will be the center of a solid row of concrete buildings replacing the old frame structures of the former Ince studio.

Work will be rushed on the new DeMille wardrobe structure by orders of Studio Manager Fred Kley, as it must be ready for Cecil B. DeMille's first independent production, a Leatrice Joy starring feature to start the middle of April under the direction of Frank Urson and Paul Iribe.

Circuit "Color" Bookings

Largest Chains Playing Sering D. Wilson & Co.'s Short Subjects

Balaban and Katz, of Chicago; Gordon, of Boston; Kunsky, of Detroit; Finklestein and Rubin, of Minneapolis; Stanley, of Philadelphia, and Ascher Bros. and Lubliner and Trenz, two of Chicago's circuits, are playing the color short subjects produced and distributed by Sering D. Wilson & Co. These bookings include "The New Redhead Satires," "Color Shots," "Karlo Kolor Komics," "Ebenezer Ebony" and "The Wonder Book."

The Piccadilly, in New York, played one of "The Color Shots," "A Cottage Garden," and featured it two weeks. The Criterion, Los Angeles, featured a "New Redhead Satire" when it opened its doors, and when Chicago's new Capitol opened with a packed house and had to cut the program, "The World in Colors," a Sering D. Wilson short, was held on the program.

"Stop Flirting" Completed

Latest Christie Feature-Length Comedy Is Now Being Edited

"Stop Flirting," the latest Al Christie feature-length comedy, directed by Scott Sidney, has been completed and is now being cut and titled. The production will be previewed with several different types of neighborhood audiences in Los Angeles, as is the custom at the Christie studios while editing all new pictures, and will then be shipped to Producers Distributing Corporation for early release.

John T. Murray and Wanda Hawley head the cast of featured players, playing the same roles which Fred and Adele Astair played while the musical comedy from which the picture was filmed was having its two years' successful run on the stage.

Hallam Cooley and Ethel Shannon are another prominent pair of players in "Stop Flirting," while the balance of the cast includes Vera Stedman, Jack Duffy, James Harrison, Jimmie Adams, David James and Natalie Joyce.

Flinn Speaks Volumes In Seven Words

John C. Flinn, vice-president of Producers Distributing Corporation, attended a try-out preview of the forthcoming Weber and Fields picture, "Friendly Enemies," before a regular audience in a Glendale, Cal., theatre last week and after the screening he summed up the reaction of the audience and the big possibilities of the production in a telegram to Paul C. Mooney that speaks volumes in just seven words.

Mr. Flinn's wire reads: "Don't worry about this one. It's great."

Pathe News-Radio Tie-Up

Distributes 23,450 Radio Maps in Tieup With Twenty-four Broadcasting Stations

One important result of the tie-up between the Pathe News and radio broadcasting stations throughout the country came to light this week with the announcement that to date over 23,450 of the maps have been distributed and that the number of broadcasting stations using the semi-weekly Pathe News letter has now reached twenty-four.

The idea of distributing radio maps free over the country was started by the Pathe organization on February 6. On that date it was announced (via the radio) that anyone desiring a map of the United States, listing the broadcasting stations, could have one free on request. The idea met with the instant approval of the public. An additional twenty-five thousand is now being printed to fill the ever growing demand.

"Wizard of Oz" on Broadway

Chadwick's "The Wizard of Oz," has been booked for the new Colony Theatre for an indefinite engagement starting April 12. A special prologue is being prepared for this New York showing that will be in keeping with the fantastic theme of the play.

World premier showing of this new Larry Semon feature established several new records at the Forum Theatre in Los Angeles.

Further pre-release bookings of "The Wizard of Oz" are now being arranged in every other key city. The picture has already been scheduled for an early engagement in Chicago.

New Managers for Pro-Dis-Co.

Two new members of the executive sales force of Producers Distributing Corporation are announced by Paul C. Mooney who has appointed Louis Reichert as branch manager at Kansas City and Robert Mochrie as branch manager at Albany, N. Y.

F. B. O. Sets Eight Features and Six Short Subjects on May List

DUE to the increased activity on the F. B. O. lot in Hollywood during February, March and April, the May release chart of the distributing company boasts fourteen releases, eight of which are features, among them two specials; and the remaining six short subjects.

The release chart for May is headed by "Alias Mary Flynn" a crook melodrama by Frederick Kennedy Myton, starring Evelyn Brent. Ralph Ince directed, and the cast which has been assembled to support Miss Brent include Malcolm McGregor, William V. Mong and John Gough. "Alias Mary Flynn" will be released on May 3.

One of the specials for the month, also scheduled for May 3 release, is "Lilies of the Streets," F. B. O.'s police picture, supervised by Mary E. Hamilton, New York's first policewoman. The story was written by Elizabeth J. Monroe, Mrs. Hamilton's assistant in police work, with the continuity by Harry Chandlee and direction by Joseph Levering. The cast is headed by Johnnie Walker and Virginia Lee Corbin, with Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Monroe, Wheeler Oakman, Irma Harrison, Peggy Kelly and Dorothy Cummings prominent in support.

"Speed Wild," the first of the new series starring Maurice B. (Lefty) Flynn, will be shown on May 10. "Speed Wild" is a comedy drama concerning the adventures of a motor cycle cop with a romantic turn of mind, and has been developed along the lines of the comedy dramas which made the late Wallace Reid famous. The story was written by H. H. Van Loan, adapted by Frank S. Beresford, and directed by Harry Garson. Prominent in Mr. Flynn's support are Ann May, Frank Elliott, Ralph McCullough, Raymond Turner and Fred Burns.

"The Bandit's Baby," is the third of the new series which Fred Thomson is making for F. B. O. distribution. This is an original yarn by Leete Renick Brown, and is a story of the open spaces with plenty of action and comedy for the intrepid Fred and his big white horse "Silver King." James P. Hogan directed. "The Bandit's Baby" is scheduled for May 17th.

"Sporting Grit" is the title of the third Richard Talmadge production, which the stunt star is producing under his own banner. This is a swift moving comedy drama, in which Talmadge performs an unusual number of death-defying stunts. Prominent in his support are Peggy Shaw, Lorraine Eason, Herber Prior, Stanton Heck and Dave Morris. Arthur Rosson directed. "Sporting Grit" will be shown on May 24.

May 24 will also see the release of "White Thunder" Yakima Canutt's third Western melodrama for F. B. O. under the supervision of Ben Wilson. "White Thunder" gives the famous horseman plenty of opportunity to put forth his riding and roping skill. The story comes from the pen of Kingsley Benedict, was directed by Ben Wilson and photographed by Al Ziegler. In Canutt's support are William H. Turner, Lew Meehan, George Lassey, Nell Brantley and Kingsley Benedict.

"White Fang," starring the wonder dog Strongheart, is listed as another F. B. O. special, and is also scheduled for May 24 release. "White Fang" is based on the celebrated novel by Jack London, and was produced by Laurence Trimble and Jane Murrin, and directed by Laurence Trimble, with the adaptation and scenario by Jane Murfin. Louis Weadock is responsible for the titles, and John Leezer, King Gray and Glen Gano were behind the cameras. George Berthelon acted as assistant to Laurence Trimble and Viola Lawrence was film editor. In support of Strongheart, are Theodore Von Eltz, Ruth Dwyer, Mathew Betz, Walter Berry, Charles Murray, Tom O'Brien, Steve Murphy, John Burch, Margaret McWade and Silver, a real timber wolf. In "White-Fang" Strongheart plays the part of a wolf-dog, a savage animal that grows up with a wolf pack in the Northland wilds, and becomes the property of an Indian trapper. He is taken away from the Indian and made to fight other animals and eventually is rescued and taken to civilized California where even more dramatic adventures await him.

May 31 will see the release of "The Texas Bearcat," the fifth Texas Ranger production which Independent Pictures Corporation is making for F. B. O. distribution, starring Bob Custer. The story was written by F. J. Rhetore, with the adaptation by George Plympton and direction by Reeves (Breezy) Eason. Prominent in Custer's support are Harry Von Metier, Sally Rand, Jack Richardson, Carleton King and Lee Shumway.

Included in the six short subject releases scheduled for distribution next month are:

"The Covered Flagon," No. 6 of "The Pacemakers," co-starring Alberta Vaughn and George O'Hara, based on the stories by H. C. Witwer, and adapted by Paul Gangelin. Wesley Ruggles is directing the entire series. "The Covered Flagon" will be released on May 10.

Sceen Almanac No. 11, as yet untitled, will also be shown on May 10. This is a one reel novelty made by Standard Cinema Corporation, and includes interesting off stage shots of stage and screen celebrities. The reel was edited by E. V. Durling.

"Meet the Ambassador," eighth comedy which Jimmy Aubrey is making for Standard Cinema Corporation, will be released on May 17th.

"Barbara Snitches," No. 7 of "The Pacemakers," co-starring Alberta Vaughn and George O'Hara, will be distributed on May 24th. The series are based on stories by H. C. Witwer, and adapted by Paul Gangelin, with the direction by Wesley Ruggles.

Dinky Doodle No. 9, as yet untitled, will also be shown on May 24th. This is a one reel novelty cartoon directed by Walter Lanz, in which Dinky Doodle gets himself into the usual difficulties.

Write Theme Piece

John Steele is responsible with Pierre Connor for the composition which will be used as theme piece for the Peggy Hopkins Joyce picture. The composition, as yet unnamed, is described as a waltz theme with lilting melody and is expected to rival in popularity any of the long line of successes that these popular authors have produced. P. A. Powers, who is presenting the Joyce picture, is surrounding the new star with a host of the biggest names in amusements. The engaging of Steele and Connor to supply the keynote of the score is indicative of his purpose to send the Joyce picture to the screen with every possible adjunct in its favor. Steele is well known as the famous tenor of the Music Box Review, now on tour. He served long with the Follies and is also a noted contributor to the Victor records. Connor is equally distinguished for the melodies he has created.

Scenes from "O. U. West," an F. B. O. western picture starring "Lefty" Flynn.

Co-operation with Europe Urged by Guy de Vilmorin

GUY DE VILMORIN, producer of the big French picture, "The Miracle of the Wolves," which this week closed a protracted run at the Criterion Theatre in New York City, in an interview with a representative of MOVING PICTURE WORLD, discussed conditions governing the making of pictures in Europe, and said he hopes for closer contact with American producers in the future. In part, M. de Vilmorin said:

"Certainly the newest and most important factor on the European market is that moving picture men over there have come to realize that big and expensive pictures pay; also, that between two big pictures of equal value, one being European and the other American, it is the European who will get the largest box-office returns.

"It is interesting to know that our picture, 'The Miracle of the Wolves,' made by the Societe Francaise Des Romans Filmes, has grossed for the first run in Paris, nearly twice as much as 'The Thief of Bagdad' during the same period and in the same theatre, though Douglas Fairbanks is certainly the American star who has the greatest pulling power in Europe.

"Having more expensive pictures to sell meant for the European producer the need of a larger market. The natural consequence has been that French and German producers (who are by far the most active and prosperous in Europe) have come to an understanding by which they have agreed to exchange a certain number of their super-productions.

"The working out of such agreements have proven very successful as it is now possible to amortize the cost of a big production on the continent without expecting any returns from America. This has given to the European producers a stronger and more independent position. Of course, we do not mean to say that the European producers have lost all interest in the American market, but they can live without it and realize that if they had not consolidated their position in Europe they would have remained at a disadvantage when compared with America. Now, France and Germany represent 7,000 theatres, with the number increasing at a rapid rate. The independence of the European producer has also been increased by the fact that in certain countries, like Germany, for instance, they are protecting their own market. On the French market, the increase of national productions better adapted to the French taste, has cut down the proportion of American film shown in France from 85% to about 55%.

"American producers have made interesting efforts to keep their trade and increase their sales through different forms of publicity. However, each country responds differently to the power of publicity, and we know of many instances where American methods, which, no doubt, are very effective in America, have not given the best results in Europe.

"If we take, for example, the idea of Americans making a production in France for the publicity reason of pleasing French people and helping the French producers, we find that the American methods of production and th egreat amount of money that must be unnecessarily spent when an organization is working in a foreign country, results in upsetting a market instead of helping it. There is no doubt that if an American company produces in France, and brings with them the high rate salaries prevailing in America, the French producers are obliged to increase also the salaries of their employees. This works against the interests of the film industry over there where production cost is extremely low but entirely in keeping with the cost of living.

"Many other examples of good intentions and friendly efforts could be given showing that large amounts of money and work has not only been wasted but sometimes interpreted in the wrong way and caused regrettable misunderstanding.

"If American companies are interested in the settings of Europe, and can imagine the enormous savings they can make on spectacular productions when working in Europe, they will come to realize that their only way to take full advantage of the difference of cost between the two countries is to co-operate with the local producers. In this way they will not only have the benefit of the low cost of production, but at the same time create ties of friendship which will be felt in the box-office returns of their American pictures over there.

"On both sides of the Atlantic this situation has come to be understood, and the American people realize that the war conditions are now over, and that they have to reckon with the local industry of Europe. French producers know that to reach the American market they have to meet certain requirements. This exchange of work and talent which is found so normal and even indispensable in all lines of art, in literature, theatre, music, vaudeville, etc., is bound to develop also in the moving picture industry. For in these other lines, it is not only appreciated but demanded by the public who finds more entertainment through the novelty and diversity of imported material.

"Your trade papers echo continuous complaints of American exhibitors in regard to the similarity of a production exclusively American. Therefore it is evidently to the advantage of the American producer to show greater interest in European productions and to co-operate with the European producer, not only to satisfy the demand of the American public, but also to create good-will and protect the American moving picture industry in the markets of the world.

"It is true that French newspapers have at different times taken up the question of the distribution of American films in France, and have urged the French exhibitors and the French public to concentrate their interest on French or European productions, because French films are shut out of the American market. These campaigns, which have hurt the American trade, would be easily met if more normal business relations existed between the two countries.

"The publicity efforts of American firms would be much more effective if, instead of trying to organize expensive and far-fetched drives, personal exhibition, etc., which are methods detrimental to the interest of the local industry, a co-operation and exchange of material would take place. This has proven the natural solution."

Scene from "Miracle of the Wolves" produced by Guy de Vilmorin.

Directs One for Rayart

Dell Henderson has started work for Rayart Pictures on "Quick Change" a short stories magazine novel by A. E. Ullman. George Larkin is to be featured. The production is being made at the California studios in Hollywood. Following this picture Henderson will likely start shooting on "Rough Stuff" another Ullman novel from the same magazine. George Blaisdell, West Coast Supervisor for Rayart, reports that an unusual cast will be employed in the former production. The continuity is by Robert Dillon, author-director of many serials.

"Charley's Aunt" Sets Granada Precedent; Milwaukee's Alhambra Records Shattered

FOR the first time in the history of picture presentation in San Francisco, the Rothschild Amusement Corporation has extended the run of a feature after playing it a full week in The Granada.

The honor of establishing this precedent goes to Al. Christie's feature, "Charley's Aunt," which turned so many people away during its run at The Granada that the Rothschild interests immediately re-booked the feature.

The Granada has a fixed one week policy and to avoid conflicting with this rule "Charley's Aunt" was moved to Rothschild's California Theatre for the continuation of its San Francisco run.

As a record breaker "Charley's Aunt" is the Nurmi of the screen. This Al. Christie feature is breaking records daily with the nonchalance of the great Finnish runner.

After setting new records at the Colony, New York City, and Grauman's $1,000,000 Theatre, Los Angeles, "Charley's Aunt" opened at the Strand Theatre in Hartford, Conn., with the largest Sunday night crowd in over five months, and at the end of the week all attendance records were broken for all features ever played at this theatre.

The box office receipts totaled the largest ever received for any feature with the exception of "The Sea Hawk," which played to advanced prices. "Charley's Aunt" was played at regular prices.

A report just in from Cedar Rapids credits "Charley's Aunt" with a record long run for that town when it was held over for two days at the Isis Theatre, after being shown for a full week to packed houses.

This feature began an indefinite run at The Stillman, Cleveland, on March 29, and local theatre managers predict that it will smash another record.

Milwaukee Records Smashed

All office reports for the last year at the Alhambra, Milwaukee, were shattered during the week of March 22, when "Charley's Aunt" held a line-up at the box office both day and night.

In a telegram to Paul C. Mooney, vice-president of Producers Distributing Corporation, sent after the second day of the run, O. J. Wooden, manager of the Alhambra, said:

"'Charley's Aunt' opening at the Alhambra was a riot. Held them out all day and night. The first two days' business on this great comedy is the biggest for the past year with the exception of Gilda Gray in person. Congratulations on a real box office winner."

Charlie Chaplin and his brother Syd do a character pose for the camera man at the Hollywood Studios. Charlie is in his famous make-up while Syd is in the character of "Charley's Aunt" in which he is now registering a pronounced hit at the big long run motion picture theatres in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles

Reports from theatres in the North, South, East and West have now come in on this production telling substantially the same story conveyed in Mr. Wooden's telegram. This gives "Charley's Aunt" the distinction of being a universal success and a hit with people of all classes and temperaments.

Praise From Raymond Hitchcock

Raymond Hitchcock, world famous comedian, was a guest of Milton Crandall, of Pittsburgh, at the private screening of "Charley's Aunt," given by Producers Distributing Corporation, and his expert opinion of Al. Christie's farce is expressed in a letter to Mr. Crandall in which Mr. Hitchcock said:

"Dear Mr. Crandall: I want to thank you for a most enjoyable afternoon. I consider this picture far better than the play, which is most unusual. It is the most wholesome and refreshing comedy I have seen in many years and there is nothing so uplifting to all classes of people as good, healthy amusement. 'Charley's Aunt' is the comedy picture of the year.

"Sincerely,

(Signed) "RAYMOND HITCHCOCK."

Grauman Extends Run

Syd Grauman, now playing "Charley's Aunt" for the fifth week at the Million Dollar Theatre in Los Angeles, has decided to hold the big Al. Christie feature for at least another week.

It was originally intended to move the picture to the Alhambra Theatre after the fifth week of its run in the Million Dollar Theatre but business had held up to such gratifying figures that the run has been extended and the production is now in its sixth week at the Los Angeles picture palace with every prospect of remaining there for several more weeks.

"Charley's Aunt" in 6th Week

Keeping steady pace with its New York and Los Angeles runs, "Charley's Aunt" is now in its sixth week at the Orpheum in Chicago, with business holding right up to record figures.

Henry P. Zapp Appointed

Paul C. Mooney, vice-president of Producers Distributing Corporation, made another addition to his sales staff this week in the appointment of Henry P. Zapp as special home office representative in the central division, now under the management of Robert Cotton. Mr. Zapp is a well known figure in central division film circles through his associations with the John H. Kunsky Film Company, the Fox Film Company, Goldwyn, and First National from which organization he resigned to accept his present appointment.

Davidson Back from Coast

G. M. Davidson, comptroller of Producers Distributing Corporation, returned to New York this week from Culver City after supervising the reorganization and enlargement of the accounting departments of the De Mille studio.

Scenes from the Warner Bros. production, "How Baxter Butted In," with Dorothy Devore and Matt Moore featured

Harry M. Warner Urges Industry to Use Radio

WHEN Harry M. Warner, of Warner Bros., returned from the West Coast last week, he was just as enthusiastic about the broadcasting station recently established at the Warner's Hollywood studio as he was about the company's next year's program of pictures.

He volunteered the information that when KFWB went on the air, March 4, he believed it was as progressive a step for the interest of the motion picture industry as ever has been taken.

Asked to give his views concerning the radio situation relative to motion pictures, Mr. Warner said:

"My attention has been directed for a long time to a general tendency within the amusement field to fight radio. The identical arguments used only a few years ago in an effort to minimize the popularity of motion pictures are being dragged out and pointed at an entertainment which now, roughly, has 20,000,000 supporters in the United States.

"Radio Here To Stay"

"The radio is here to stay, just as the pictures and the theatres are here to stay. They all have their followers. Just as the picture audience is a theatre audience, so is the radio audience largely a picture audience.

"To my mind, any effort to fight an entertainment that has the backing of 20,000,000 people is sadly misdirected and will react harmfully on the entire industry. If radio has cut in on pictures, as is no doubt the case (on the word of exhibitors who know what they are talking about), my idea is not to wage a useless fight against it, but to use it.

"There is no argument in the statement that the man hurt directly by the new form of entertainment is the exhibitor. This is a fact. It seems to me, then, it is up to the producers to direct their efforts toward helping the exhibitor meet a new situation which he cannot do individually, except in certain specific cases.

"Does anyone suggest that the Capitol Theatre in New York has been hurt by the broadcasting of 'Roxy and His Gang,' or the Mark Strand by 'The Plunketeers,' or the Rialto and Piccadilly by the radio entertainment of those theatres?

Small Town Showmen Affected

"In answer to this will naturally come the question: 'But how about the small town exhibitor; he has not the facilities nor can he afford a broadcasting program, even if it would boost his house?'

"My contention is that the producers can do for the whole industry, including the exhibitor, what Rothafel, Plunkett, Reisenfeld, Ochs and other Big Town exhibitors are now doing for their respective theatres; what we are attempting to do for the West Coast with our new broadcasting station, KFWB, at our Hollywood studio, and what Balaban and Katz and other big booking combines, wh ocontrol chains of theatres, are about to do, according to their announcements.

"To my mind, this is a matter that should be taken up seriously by The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., of which Warner Bros. is a member. Radio, properly handled by this body, can be made to work for the benefit of the whole industry. I am in favor of the motion picture industry, after the wave-length situation has been adjusted (as it will be)—building and maintaining its own broadcasting stations in New York and Los Angeles, and possibly in the Middle West. Through these sources the producers could advance motion pictures in a way that would result in unfailing benefit to everyone connected with them and particularly to the exhibitor.

"The M. P. P. D. A. is engaged all the time in prosecuting various plans for the benefit of the industry as a whole. If the radio program was added, there would be a decided, and practically sure, direct benefit on the sale of seats at the box-office, providing a comprehensive plan was formulated with this end in view.

Suggested Programs

"Space will not permit details, but programs could be devised to be broadcast before and after show hours, tending to create interest in all meritorious pictures being released or playing at that time. Nights could be assigned to various companies, calling attention to their releases and advising where they were playing in that particular locality. Artists could talk into the microphone and reach directly millions of people who have seen them on the screen but never came in contact with them personally or heard their voices. Such programs would serve to whet the appetites of the radio audience and make it want to see the persons they have heard and the pictures they are appearing in.

"One of the principal tasks undertaken by the M. P. P. D. A. is informing the public of the harm lurking in general and specific legislation favoring drastic censorship of pictures. In my opinion, the radio could be made a powerful weapon to further the campaign aimed at this real and severe menace which, happily, thanks to Will H. Hays, is not so severe a menace as it was.

"The radio is here. It is up to the industry to recognize it and provide some way to make the best use of it."

ERNST LUBITSCH
Warner Bros. director, is now planning for his forthcoming trip to Europe

"HOW BAXTER BUTTED IN" (Warner Bros.)
Here we have Ward Crane (left), Dorothy Devore and Matt Moore in a scene in the current Warner Bros. comedy drama

---

Will Direct "Syd" Chaplin

It has been definitely decided by Warner Brothers that "The Man on the Box" will be the first starring vehicle for "Syd" Chaplin and that Fred Newmeyer will direct the picture. Newmeyer's services were obtained by a special arrangement with Harold Lloyd, to whom this director is now under contract.

Pearson Outlines New Pathe Schedule; Plans More Comedies Than Ever Before

ELMER PEARSON, vice-president and general manager of Pathe Exchanges, Inc., in a statement issued this week from the Pathe home office, outlined Pathe's production schedule for the coming season. By the terms of the agreements closed by Mr. Pearson with the Hal Roach and the Mack Sennett Studios during his recent sojourn on the West Coast, Pathe is in line to acquire for distribution, during the 1925-1926 season, a volume of short-subject comedies in excess of its comedy production schedules up to date.

Mr. Pearson's statement leaves no doubt that Pathe, by virtue of its continued alliance with two of the foremost comedy producers, will continue to maintain its place in the comedy field. In addition to the minimum of fifty-two comedies from the Mack Sennett Studios, Pathe is scheduled to receive from the Hal Roach plant during the new season a minimum of 48 and a maximum of 52 two-reel comedies. This represents by far the most formidable lineup of two-reel comedy product ever planned by Pathe, the production costs alone aggregating over $4,000,000.

Mr. Pearson declares that the negotiations closed with Mack Sennett provide for the continued appearance on the Pathe program of Harry Langdon, Alice Day, Ben Turpin, Mack Sennett Comedies and Ralph Graves, and in addition call for a series of Sennett comedies in which various other members of the Mack Sennett stock company will be featured. Prominent among these latter are Madeline Hurlock, Raymond McKee, Natalie Kingston, Billy Bevan and Thelma Parr.

The marvelous progress, both in point of popularity and box-office power, made by Langdon during the past season is to be taken advantage of by Mr. Sennett, who has already laid plans for this star that will solidify the gains made, declares Mr. Pearson. Langdon's rapid development during the past twelve months is a phenomenon without parallel. That Pathe will continue during the new season to release this comedian under Mack Sennett's auspices is a source of special gratification, states Mr. Pearson. Langdon has come to represent a definite value at the box-office, and Pathe is happy to assure its great body of exhibitor patrons that Langdon will continue to appear on its program at frequent intervals during the coming year.

Alice Day has likewise been assigned a definite place on the Pathe program of two-reel comedies during the coming year, according to Mr. Pearson's statement. This young lady, the first woman to be signed for featured roles by Mack Sennett since Mabel Normand, will be starred in a separate series of comedies for Pathe distribution during the 1925-26 term. Ralph Graves, Mr. Pearson points out, is another Mack Sennett comedian who has been developed during the past season into a definite box-office attraction, and he will be featured in a series of two-reel comedies during the forthcoming season.

The contracts closed with the Hal Roach Studios are of greater magnitude than ever before attempted by this remarkable producer, Mr. Pearson declares, and cover six separate series of two-reel comedies: namely, the Clyde Cook comedies, Glenn Tryon series, the "Our Gang" group, Charley Chase pictures, Frank Butler comedies and Hal Roach Star series. The contract covering the Hal Roach comedy product for Pathe distribution was signed two weeks ago and assures for the Pathe program a steady output of the popular Hal Roach comedy brands during the next two years, over which period the contracts extend.

In addition to the two-reel comedy output just described, Pathe will receive from the Hal Roach Studios a number of feature-length productions for release during the new season. The first of these has been completed and is being edited at the Culver City plant. This picture is titled "Black Cyclone" and presents the equine star, Rex, in the title role. Mr. Pearson describes the new production as being even more spectacular than the previous Rex vehicle. "The King of Wild Horses," which has met with remarkable success since its release last April and has been acclaimed by both trade and newspaper critics as one of the best ten motion pictures of the past season. "Black Cyclone" was staged principally in the Nevada desert under the direction of Fred Jackman. The story embodies the romance of a thoroughbred and his struggle for leadership of the herd. The human cast in the picture is headed by Guinn (Big Boy) Williams and Kathleen Collins.

The Hal Roach production schedule for Pathe also provides for a series of single-reel comedies to be released at the rate of one every two weeks. The details of the casting for the new single-reel series have not as yet been perfected, but Mr. Pearson states that Hal Roach is planning to feature a player of established box-office reputation in this group of single-reel comedies.

In the statement just issued Mr. Pearson commented as follows on the negotiations just closed with the Hal Roach Studios:

"The contract just closed marks, moreover, the beginning of the eleventh year of most pleasant business associations between Pathe and Hal Roach. During that entire period Pathe has been the exclusive distributor for the Hal Roach output, and we point to it as a record of unbroken and continuous relations maintained between an independent producer and an independent distributor. It stands as a unique achievement in the history of this business of changing alliances.

"The new contract means an increase in the value of the studio product of approximately 30 per cent. as compared with the previous contract, which was re-drawn about a year ago. However, this increase is well justified in the present cost of high-class comedy productions. I might point out again in discussing the relations between Pathe and the Hal Roach organization that the Pathe Exchange has absolutely no connection financially with the Hal Roach Studios other than that involved in any contract made between producer and distributor. We have no interlocking directorates or similar controlling devices. Pathe pursues a policy to act as distributor for independents, and the contracts just closed with both the Mack Sennett and the Hal Roach Studios are exactly on this basis."

While the major portion of Mr. Pearson's efforts were devoted to the comedy schedule for the new season, he also attended to the matter of Pathe's West Coast serial affiliations with the C. W. Patton Studios. In this connection, Mr. Pearson took an active part in the launching of the wild-west-show serial, which Mr. Patton is now producing at Ponca City, Oklahoma, with the co-operation of the famous Miller Brothers Wild West Show, which is in winter quarters at the 101 Ranch. Mr. Pearson declares this new serial, which features Helen Ferguson and Jack Mulhall, will set a new mark for production standards in the serial field, and at the same time combine real story values and thrilling action with unusual showmanship angles.

Actors Turning from Drama to Comedy, Stern Believes

AN EVER increasing number of the screen's best-known character actors are turning from drama to comedy, is the assertion of Julius Stern, president of the Century Film Corporation, producers of Century Comedies released by Universal. He bases his statement on the large number of popular screen players who now are seeking connection with comedy producing companies.

Century has taken on quite a few of these change-overs, some of them for one or two pictures and others as regular players. Among the most recent additions to the Century lot are Charles King, a featured character actor in many Universal pictures, and Jack Singleton, one-time favorite and more recently a leading man in screen drama.

These two actors have been added to the stock company of the Century Comedies studio. They will be seen in important roles in forthcoming comedies. Singleton as leading man for Wanda Wiley and Edna Marian, Century Comedy stars, and King as character man in various two-reelers.

The almost interrupted output of a comedy studio and the resulting lack of layoffs and between picture periods is said by Stern to be partly responsible for the present tendency from drama to comedy. Also, he says, there is a family spirit about a comedy company that is not to be found in other types of screen production.

Metro-Goldwyn Schedules Four Big Pictures for April Release

ONE important production a week will be released in April by Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, William E. Atkinson, general manager, has announced.

Robert G. Vignola's "The Way of a Girl," which has Eleanor Boardman in the featured role, heads the list, with the release set for April 6. Marshall Neilan's "The Sporting Venus" follows on April 13, and Elinor Glyn's "Man and Maid" comes after it on April 20. King Vidor's greatly heralded production of "Proud Flesh," with Eleanor Boardman, will be the last release of the month, set for April 27.

The Elinor Glyn picture, which Victor Schertzinger directed from Madame Glyn's popular novel, is looked upon as a sure box office attraction.

The Neilan production of "The Sporting Venus," partly made abroad in locales in England and on the continent, has been the longest in production of any of Neilan's big pictures. It is based on Gerald Beaumont's story and has Blanche Sweet, Lew Cody and Ronald Colman in leads.

The King Vidor production of "Proud Flesh" is regarded as one of the company's best pictures of the season, not alone from a box office standpoint, but from every critical consideration. Vidor has made an unusual departure from the conventional "triangle" idea, and treated the sex angle of the Lawrence Rising novel so cleverly in an original way that the picture stands as one of the smartest comedies brought to the screen.

"The Way of a Girl" gives Miss Boardman two Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer appearances in April. Matt Moore and William Russell are in the cast of this Vignola film, which Albert Shelby Le Vino adapted from Katherine Newlin Burt's "The Summons."

Landslide in Northwest for "Thief of Bagdad"

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS' "The Thief of Bagdad" has just made a series of record-breaking first runs in the Pacific Northwest and under unique conditions. In Oregon and Washington this big United Artists Corporation special reached its public directly by way of the motion picture houses, since the road show dates for that territory had all been set for January, February and March and were cancelled because of the general release of the film, beginning January 1. In this way "The Thief of Bagdad" had its premiere in these two states without the advance stimulation of road show engagements, and regardless of this condition went over in whirlwind style. As far as the big cities went it was a landslide for the picture, and now the smaller cities are following suit with dates closely clustered throughout March.

In Washington and Oregon the first runs were under Jensen and Von Herberg auspices. In British Columbia "The Thief of Bagdad" got its first general release in the Canadian Famous Players Corporation, Ltd. houses. The big runs in the Pacific Northwest were at the Liberty, Seattle, three weeks; the Majestic, Portland, four weeks; the Rialto, Tacoma, the Capitol, Vancouver and the Dominion, Victoria. In Vancouver additional weeks were billed into the Dominion and the Broadway.

Gasnier to Direct "Plastic Age"

B. P. Schulberg has awarded to Gasnier the task of transferring to the screen Percy Marks' novel, "The Plastic Age." This sensational novel of modern youth will be the first production on the Schulberg program for next year to be directed by Gasnier.

DAVID LOEW
Son of Marcus Loew, and assistant Treasurer of Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corp. and a member of the Board of Directors

Plays to Capacity Business

"Greed" is Smash Hit at Stanton Theatre, Philadelphia, and Breaks House Records at Palace Theatre, Calgary

Further reports on the business being done by Erich von Stroheim's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "Greed" throughout the country, substantiates the indication that "Greed" gave when it was recently released, of being one of the biggest box-office hits ever known in the industry.

The Stanton Theatre, Philadelphia, has reported tremendous business for "Greed." The von Stroheim picture would have broken the house record there if the footage had been shorter.

At the Palace Theatre in Calgary, however, "Greed" did the biggest business in the history of that theatre. The following wire was received from J. B. Barron of the Palace:

"Opened 'Greed' today breaking house records for attendance at regular prices. Hundreds turned away. This picture with proper exploitation is bound to be a record-breaker and we appreciate the opportunity of playing it. This further demonstrates to us that a real attraction such as 'Greed' at comparatively high price is much cheaper than ordinary pictures at very cheap rental."

Norma Shearer, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, is seen here in her dual roles in "Lady of the Night," and with Malcolm McGregor, at the right. Miss Shearer's artistry in this production is one of the film sensations of 1925

Jill Lynn, as Dardy Waldehast, in Vitagraph's "School for Wives," produced by Victor Hugo Halperin. The generosity of Bonwit, Teller & Co., of Fifth Avenue, New York, in lending her four gowns, enabled her to play this part and launch upon a career in motion pictures

Hough Novel Filmed

Associated Exhibitors Announces Prominent Players Engaged for "The Ship of Souls"

Associated Exhibitors announces the completed cast for the forthcoming Stereoscopic Productions feature picture, "The Ship of Souls," now in production on the West Coast.

"The Ship of Souls" is a screen adaptation from the popular novel of the same name, written by the famous author, Emerson Hugh, which enjoyed a large circulation.

The plot of the story is laid in the snow country. Charles Miller engaged to direct the picture, has lined up a cast for the principal roles that reads like the "Who's Who in Filmdom." The players already cast include the names of such important screen personages as Bert Lytell, Cyril Chadwick, Lillian Rich, Earl Metcalf, Russell Simpson, Tom Santschi, Gertrude Astor, Lillian Leighton and Ynez Seabury.

Tom Mix and "Tony" Ready For Long European Tour

TOM MIX, the Fox "Western" Star, who will shortly begin his first real vacation in ten years, is ready for his tour of Europe with his family. Tom will take his famous horse, "Tony," with him. He is expected to arrive at Southampton on April 14 in the Aquitania.

In Tom's party, sailing April 8, will be: Mrs. Mix; baby Thomasina Mix; Mrs. Mix's mother, Mrs. Ford; Pat Chrisman, Tom's cow-boy chum; Joe Lee, publicist and Albert Brick, cameraman.

Tom will visit England, France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, Holland, Belgium and Italy.

A bon-voyage banquet will be tendered the Fox star at the Hotel Astor, New York City, on April 6.

A statement issued by the Fox offices in New York contains the following:

"This spectacular Old World pilgrimage by the intrepid star of the Fox Film Corporation will be a strenuous tour rather than a restful vacation. There will be but little rest for Tom, as his mission is to carry the spirit of our own wild Western reaches to the people of countries that were venerable before the foot of a white man ever pressed our soil. He goes in response to a demand that has grown so strong it could no longer be resisted.

"The tour is to be made in response to thousands of letters and uncounted columns of newspaper requests. For months these letters (written in every language that can be put on paper) have poured into the Mix home in California and into the offices of the Fox Film Corporation in floods. They made it plain that a plainsman from the Western part of the United States is the most interesting and romantic character the people of the Old World can vision and that Mix leads all western men in the strength of personal appeal.

"Mix realizes that the world has drafted him for a purpose. He is to make friends—not for Mix; not for William Fox, but for the American people. He is to represent the United States, not as an official but as a type of the popular American of that virile daring type that all admire."

The statement continues:

"Five busy days will be spent in London. On April 19 the party will arrive at Paris and go at once to the Hotel Crillin. In the brilliant French Capital tremendous enthusiasm is looked for. Mix is enormously popular with the French people. The bare announcement that one of his pictures is to be given at one of the cinema theatres ensures a crowded house and the warm hearted French race do not fear to cheer the daring rider loudly. He will make but one appearance at a theatre on the tour. That will be at the Trocadero in Paris and the entire receipts will be given to the poor children of France.

"From Paris hasty trips will be taken to Brussels and Amsterdam. But one day will be spent in each of these cities and on April 27 the party will reach Berlin and quarter at the Adlon Hotel."

Mix and his party arrived in New York last Wednesday and registered at the Hotel Biltmore. Tom said he would look New York over for a few days.

One Girl in Cast

Much has been said of "The Last Man on Earth," a picture with a thousand girls and one man, made by Fox Film Corporation this year. The cast of "The Best Man," recently completed at the Fox West Coast Studios, under the direction of R. William Neil, has just one girl in it and a dozen men.

The girl is Carol Lombard, who plays opposite Edmund Lowe. Among the men in the cast, besides the star, are Frank Beal, Harvey Clark, Adolph Milar, Fred Walton, Byron Douglas, Fred Butler, Wade Boeteler, Fred Becker and Edward Chandler. It is Lowe's enviable job to protect Miss Lombard from no less than six villains.

Playing tennis to the tune of an orchestra is the latest development in motion picture circles. Herbert Brenon (center with racquet) and the Paramount company on location in Bermuda, where tennis and other exterior scenes were filmed for his latest production, "The Little French Girl." The actor being "shot" is Paul Ducet (at right with racquet)

Gunnar Kasson and "Balto" in an Educational Special

IMMEDIATELY following the arrival in Seattle of Gunnar Kasson, and his dog-team, headed by Balto, the canine hero of the historic dash to Nome with the antitoxin to save the diphtheria stricken city, E. W. Hammons, president of Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., announces that Educational will release a two-reel special featuring this heroic pair. The picture is now in the course of production and will be offered to exhibitors as soon as it is completed. The picture is being produced by Sol Lesser and the re-enactment of the actual race has already been filmed in Alaska in the same localities in which the desperate struggle with death transpired.

No dream of fiction or stage has ever gripped the world's imagination as did the story of the desperate plight of plague-ridden Nome and the super-human efforts to rush the life-saving antitoxin to the isolated town through the barren wastes of Alaska in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties, rendered doubly dangerous by a killing blizzard.

The elements of human interest were multiplied by the dramatic climax of the story when human endurance failed and the instinct of Balto, leader of the dog team, kept him and his precious freight on the trail through the Arctic darkness and the blinding blizzard until Kasson could again see the trail.

"Balto's Race to Nome" will be the title of this great two-reel Special which is designed to show on the screen the story of the heroic race which was described and written about to the extent of thousands of columns in newspapers everywhere, and which made such an impression on the American public that the men and dogs that risked their lives have become the greatest heroes of the decade. At the present time there is a movement on foot to have a statue to the heroic dog erected in a prominent place in Central Park, New York, and prominent leaders of society are backing the movement.

"Exhibitors throughout America will find this Educational Special a ready-made attraction," said Mr. Hammons in making this announcement. "More publicity has already been given Balto and Gunnar Kasson that has been accorded to any personage in private life in years. The element of hero-worship and the fact that the characters of the picture are portrayed by the actual heroes of the race will make this an attraction that will be second to none that has ever been offered in Short Subject form.

"So great is the interest in the picture that contracts have already been closed for its showing in several of the big first run houses of the country."

Leatrice Joy Released

Paramount Courtesy Makes Possible Start of Work for Producers Distributing Corporation April 13

Because of delays in starring the Paramount picture she was scheduled to do at the Lasky studio, Hollywood, Leatrice Joy has made arrangements to be relieved from the part and will start at once on preparations for her first Cecil B. De Mille picture.

The courtesy of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in releasing her makes certain that Directors Frank Urson and Paul Iribe will be able to start precisely on the day scheduled, namely April 13th (De Mille's lucky number). This would have been impossible had Miss Joy continued with the Paramount picture and the new releasing arrangements with Producers Distributing would have been correspondingly disturbed.

ROOSEVELT
NEGATIVES WANTED

Producers, Distributors, Independent cameramen and owners of old vaults.

The Roosevelt Memorial Association asks your co-operation in collecting film, negative and positive, showing Pres. Roosevelt and important events connected with his home life, travels, public service and presidential administration.

Please write giving description and price to

MOTION PICTURE LIBRARY
Roosevelt House, 28 E. 20th St., New York
Phone STUyvesant 1700
CAROLINE GENTRY Director of Films

Laska Winters as "Hagar" in the J. Stuart Blackton production, "In the Garden of Charity," for Vitagraph

'Bad Boy' and 'Marriage Circus' Head Pathe Program for Apr. 12

THE week of April 12 marks the start of the series of two-reel Charley Chase comedies on the Pathe program. The title of the first of this series is entitled "Bad Boy." Ben Turpin in a Mack Sennett comedy, "The Marriage Circus" is also one of the highlights of the Pathe releasing program for the week. Added to these are a chapter of the Patheserial "Idaho" and a Hal Roach one-reel comedy, featuring James Finlayson.

In "Bad Boy" Hal Roach has managed to start his new two-reel comedy star off in a fast moving vehicle with an ideal supporting cast of comedy players. Leo McCarey is responsible for the direction under the supervision of F. Richard Jones with Martha Sleeper, Evelyn Burns, Hardee Kirkland, Noah Young and Eddie Borden heading the splendid supporting cast.

Reggie Morris and Ed Kennedy co-directed Ben Turpin in the Mack Sennett comedy "The Marriage Circus." The story was written by Frank Capra and Vernon Smith and carries a supporting cast headed by Louise Carver, Madeline Hurlock, Sunshine Hart, William C. Lawrence and Christian J. Frank.

"The Trap" is the title of this week's exciting chapter of the Patheserial "Idaho," featuring Mahlon Hamilton and Vivian Rich.

James Finlayson is the featured comedy player in the one-reel Hal Roach production "Are Husbands Human?" F. Richard Jones supervised the production of this picture which was directed by Nick Barrows and carries a cast consisting of John Prince, Marjorie Whities, Martha Sleeper and Fay Holderness.

A chapter of the series "Origin of Man" is the principal subject in the Pathe Review No. 15.

"S-O-S" is the title of the Aesop's Film Fable for the week. "Topics of the Day" and Pathe News Nos. 32 and 33 complete the Pathe program for the week.

Emporia Editor on "Chronicles"

The Yale University Press has received a letter from William Allen White, owner and editor of the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette, in which he praises highly the "Chronicles of America," released by Pathe, as an invaluable aid in setting high patriotic standards for the people of the United States.

Editor White said, in part: "I have seen with delight some of the 'Chronicles of America Photoplays.' It seems to me that the idea behind these pictures is invaluable. America needs now, more than books, more than statesmen, more than any one piece of legislation, broad tolerant exalted patriotic motion pictures. Your picture will help. They will set high standards and will supply the need of people who still hold high standards."

JANE JENNINGS

The "Cameo Mother of the Screen" has just completed one of the important roles in "The Little French Girl," the Herbert Brenon production for Paramount

First National's "Summer Booking" Drive Under Way

AN Advance Booking Drive for summer play dates on First National pictures was inaugurated April 5. The arrangements were laid out by E. A. Eschmann, before his departure for the West Coast, and his staff in the distribution department, Messrs. Chas. M. Steele, Stanley Hatch, A. W. Smith, W. and W. J. Morgan. The contest will close on Saturday, May 30th, covering a period of eight weeks.

The purpose of the contest is to set in dates to play during the summer months of June, July and August. Each branch will keep its own records and send to the home office a carbon copy of each week's results. These reports, at the close of the playing period, August 29th, when dates actually played will have been checked off, will form the basis for determining the three winning branches.

Each branch will compete against its own record of net billings for the thirteen weeks ending August 29th, 1924, disregarding the usual territorial percentage figures and the weekly quotas.

Standings will be gauged and prizes awarded on the basis of business played and paid during the summer which shall have been set in between April 5th and May 30th.

Prizes will be awarded as follows:

First Prize—To the manager of the branch which sets in and plays the greatest amount of dates in proportion to its 1924 performance, a trip will be given, with all expenses paid for himself and wife, from his branch to either New York City or Hollywood, as the manager shall choose. To all other employees in the branch, winning first place, will be awarded a bonus of one week's salary.

Second Prize—To the manager of the branch finishing in second place, a platinum watch, duly inscribed, will be awarded. To each salesman will be given a pair of cuff links or a cigarette case.

Third Prize—A gold watch will be presented to the manager of the branch winning third place, and to each salesman a pair of cuff links or cigarette case.

In case of ties, the full amount of prize money will be expended for each trying contestant.

Mr. Eschmann and his associates are confident that with the excellent quality of the First National product available, the field force will roll up an amount of summer business that will far surpass their best previous record for the period of the year.

Chas. Ray's Latest Pathe Picture "Percy" a Big Hit, Says Critics

FOR the first time in many weeks motion picture critics of the New York daily newspapers are in harmony on a picture, and without a single exception all of them declared "Percy," the Pathe picture starring Charles Ray at the Colony Theatre, one of the motion picture hits of the year.

The Mirror: "Charles Ray scored a real comeback in a corking good picture. Charles Murray gives a rollicking performance as 'Holy Joe,' card trickster and Biblical student extraordinaire. And Barbara Bedford is very lovely to gaze upon as the heroine."

The American: "Those of us who shook our heads and bemoaned the fact that Charlie Ray had foresaken his teacher, Thomas Ince, and started out on a producing spree of his own can cease lamenting. Charlie is himself again. In 'Percy' he is starred in the best comedy drama on Broadway and one of the most amusing films of his career."

The Morning Telegraph: "Charles Ray returns to the screen at the new Colony Theatre this week in an interesting picture. The story which was taken from the Hamby novel 'The Desert Fiddler,' is well done and Ray is as charming as ever."

The World: "Charles Ray has returned to the fold. After turning out a long line of indifferent pictures, the star returned to the banner of the late Thomas H. Ince and the first result of that new arrangement is at the B. S. Moss Colony this week in a film called 'Percy.'

"This is undoubtedly the best feature that Ray has turned out in years. In it he is his old bashful self and most of his compromising predicaments are sidesplitting."

The New York Evening Post: "Charles Ray is back again as the simple but lovable lad in a typical Ray comedy. It is called quite simply 'Percy' and the program says it is adapted from the story 'The Desert Fiddler.' Percy is the boy's name in this particular picture and he is just what he sounds like. Ray is undoubtedly perfectly at home in this typical sort of a part."

Paramount Signs Arlen

Michael Arlen, author of "The Green Hat," "These Charming People" and other stories of smart life in London, has signed a contract with Paramount to write original screen stories for Pola Negri.

Announcement of this was made yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of Famous Players-Lasky in charge of production, and coming simultaneously with the departure of Miss Negri on a two months vacation in Europe, it reassured her of suitable vehicles upon her return.

"Sunken Silver"

The Patheserial company, headed by Director George B. Seitz, making "Sunken Silver," in Florida, completed camera work on the closing scenes of this ten-chapter photoplay this week and will return to New York early next week.

Loew Books Pathe Serial

Latest Chapter Photoplay, "Sunken Silver," Contracted for New York Theatres

For the first time in eight years the Loew Circuit of theatres will play a serial picture.

The honor of being the first serial to play this circuit of picture houses falls to "Sunken Silver," Pathe's latest chapter photoplay, featuring Allene Ray and Walter Miller.

A little over eight years ago with the advent of a double featured bill daily, the Loew Circuit allowed their contracts on serial pictures to expire and instituted a policy of "no serials." This policy was strictly enforced and for the first time since then they are considering serials as box office attractions.

"Midnight Express" Breaks Records

"The Midnight Express," the third of the Columbia Pictures, broke all attendance records at the Strand Theatre in Altoona, Pa., during its run of a week in January.

Altoona being a railroad town the exhibitor had an unusual tie-up gotten in conjunction with the railroad officials there. They erected a regulation signal tower in front of the theatre and this with the locomotive bell which was attached and kept ringing at intervals made a great showing.

On to Milwaukee

M. P. T. O. A. It is Independents' Day

May 12th, 13th and 14th

Gloria Swanson to Make Next Picture in the West

GLORIA SWANSON will make her next picture for Paramount, "The Coast of Folly," in Hollywood. Announcement to this effect was made by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Forrest Halsey, who is making the adaptation of Conigsby Dawson's novel, and Allan Dwan, who will produce the picture, will leave for the coast early in April to make the advance arrangements. In the meantime, Miss Swanson is making daily visits to the Paramount Long Island Studio, where she is taking an active part in the cutting and editing of "Madame Sans-Gene," which she saw in assembled form for the first time this week.

At present the picture is in about 13,000 feet and has about 2,000 feet of titles to come. When released it will probably be about eight reels in length.

As soon as the cutting has been completed, Miss Swanson and her husband, the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray, will spend a few weeks at her farm near Croton-on-the Hudson. Following this next trip to the Coast Miss Swanson expects to make her home permanently in the East. Production work in Hollywood will begin about May 11.

Leeper, of Richmount, Goes to Coast; Plans Fall Films

DWIGHT C. LEEPER, vice-president of Richmount Pictures, Inc., and associated with Harry J. Brown in various Rayart producing units, left late last week for New Orleans, Dallas, and Los Angeles.

While in California, Leeper and Brown plan to pass on stories and casts for the fall series of eight Reed Howes productions to be released by Rayart Pictures. Also on a series of twelve productions to be known as "Billy the Kid" series, for Rayart release. These latter will star "Billy" Sullivan.

Leeper and Brown have also acquired the rights to the Harold Titus novel, "The Beloved Pawn," published by Doubleday, Page & Co., and will produce this for fall release on the Rayart program.

Before leaving, Mr. Leeper stated that the Brown units will produce twenty-four productions, all of feature length, as its contribution to the independent program for 1925-26. He also announced that Al Rogell had been re-signed to direct the Howes unit.

Laemmle Jubilee Celebrates Universal's 13th Birthday

THIS is Universal's lucky year, officials and executives of the Universal Pictures Corporation unite in asserting. It marks the thirteenth anniversary of the formation of that company, which came into being on May 10, 1912, when Carl Laemmle, Charles Bauman, David Horseley, P. A. Powers and W. H. Swanson, all independent producers, combined their interests and opened offices at 1 Union Square, New York City.

In commemoration of this combine, destined to result in the vast Universal organization with its branches in almost every civilized country of the globe, Universal has declared a Laemmle Jubilee period of one month, beginning April 12 and ending May 9 inclusive. Marking the thirteenth birthday of Universal and coming as a welcome post-lenten celebration, it is expected to be one of the most widely observed anniversaries ever held by the Universal organization.

Following closely upon the heels of the ten-year birthday party of Universal City, the big Universal studio plant near Los Angeles, which was opened March 15, 1915, the Laemmle Jubilee will be marked by enthusiasm and "harmony and co-operation" gatherings and dinners in the Universal home office and in the many Universal exchanges, not only in the United States and Canada but also in the foreign offices.

The Sales Department especially will celebrate the Jubilee. As a testimonial to Carl Laemmle and his genius in guiding the Universal organization to its present high standing, an effort is being made to place Universal Pictures in every theatre in the land during the Jubilee period. Not only is the drive to get 100 per cent representation, but also to get Universal Pictures shown on as many days during the Jubilee as possible.

Ned Depinet, Jules Levy and Ned Marin, the three sales directors of the Universal sales organization, report that Universal's exhibitor friends are exceptionally responsive to this move. Few exhibitors have denied extra play-dates to Universal during the April 12-May 9 period. Many have given all their open dates to Universal out of their respect and friendship to the Universal chief.

One of the most striking testimonials to Carl Laemmle is the solid Laemmle Jubilee booking of the Stanley Company of Philadelphia. The booking is for the entire month of April and the first week in May.

Gloria Swanson greeting Adolph Zukor, president of Famous Players-Lasky, on his visit to the studio at Joinville, France, during the filming of "Madame Sans-Gene."

Buys Tuttle Novel

First National announces the purchase of the screen rights to the new novel by Margaretta Tuttle, "The Unguarded Hour," which will be published serially by the Curtis Publishing Company in one of its big magazines in the near future. It will later be brought out in book form by Little, Brown & Company.

"The Unguarded Hour" will probably serve as a vehicle for Doris Kenyon, whose next picture for First National will be "The Half-Way Girl."

"The Lost World" In Philadelphia

After breaking all previous house attendance records for a single performance as well as for the entire week in the first week of the engagement of "The Lost World" at the Aldine Theatre, Philadelphia, this spectacular film of Sir Conan Doyle's story added another record to its clean-up on Saturday of the third week, when the daily attendance was a complete sell-out for both performances, eclipsing any record heretofore set up by big attractions previously shown at the Aldine.

The largest painted sign devoted entirely to a motion picture being shown in Philadelphia is that which covers the two sides of the Aldine Theatre, where "The Lost World" is being presented by First National Pictures, Inc. The two signs take up 2,240 square feet of space, each one being 80 feet long and 14 feet high.

John Golden, producer of the stage play, "Lightnin'," isn't as desperate as he looks. See how Alma Rubens, Fox star, is laughing. This picture was taken at the Fox West Coast Studios where the producer is supervising the filming of his stage success.

Stromberg Signs Trilby Clark

Hunt Stromberg has placed Trilby Clark, leading lady for Harry Carey in "Silent Sanderson," under a three-year contract, thus definitely establishing his faith in the future possibilities of this newly featured screen player whom he has hailed as the latest film "find." Miss Clark hails from Australia. She is an auburn haired, dark-eyed beauty, with unusually clear-cut features, with a suggestion of Gloria Swanson about her.

De Mille Signs Stock Players

The first of the embryo stars to be signed for the stock company that Cecil B. DeMille is now organizing at the Culver City studio are Majel Coleman and Sally Rand two particularly promising young players who attracted attention in productions made for Famous Players Lasky. Mr. DeMille has not announced the first story in which his newest finds will appear.

Norma Talmadge In "Graustark"

Norma Talmadge last week began actual work on her next Joseph M. Schenck production for First National, "Graustark," from George Barr McCutcheon's novel. This will be released as a special next season.

Supporting the star are many well known players. Eugene O'Brien will again be her leading man, as he was in "Secrets" and "The Only Woman." Other players are Marc McDermott, Roy Darcy, Albert Gran, Madame D'Aumery and Michael Vavitch.

Dmitri Buchowetski is directing. He started photography on March 25th.

Fox's "The Fool" to Have World Premiere on Easter Sunday Night

THE announcement this week from Fox Film Corporation that the world premiere of their screen version of Channing Pollock's great miracle melodrama, "The Fool," is scheduled for Easter Sunday night at the Central Theatre on Broadway should be of particular interest and importance to the trade. With an entire year spent in filming, cutting and editing this great stage masterpiece, the Fox company rates the production along with their other big, outstanding screen successes of the past—"The Iron Horse," "If Winter Comes" and "Over the Hill." It will therefore be given an unusually pretentious presentation, with a "two performances a day" policy governing its run at the Central.

Harry Millarde was selected to direct the production and Edmund Lowe was chosen to play the title role of the minister-hero, Rev. Daniel Gilchrist.

The rest of the supporting cast was carefully picked and includes many screen and stage players well known and favored by the fans. Ray Bloomer plays Jerry, a part which made Lowell Sherman famous on the stage. Brenda Bond, a new and pretty face in motion pictures but well known on the stage, has the leading feminine role as Clare. Paul Panzer, veteran character actor of the screen, plays Umanski. Others among the leading members of the supporting cast are Anne Dale, Riley Hatch, George Lessey, George Clarke, A. J. Herbert and Henry Sedley.

Ministers Recommend Highly Fox's "As No Man Has Loved"

THE willingness of clergy and church organizations to co-operate with picture producers in popularizing "clean" pictures is evidenced by the assistance which William Fox has received in bringing "As No Man Has Loved" to the attention of the church-going people of America.

"As No Man Has Loved" has been praised by representatives of all the larger religious denominations. It is based on the Edward Everett Hale story, "The Man Without a Country." Hale himself was a Unitarian minister and served several terms as chaplain of the United States Senate.

The new Fox epic has not only been endorsed by ministers and church organizations but the latter are actively co-operating by asking church people to see this great film. As an instance, Dr. Thomas Edward Potterton, pastor of the Church of Our Redeemer, Brooklyn, who is nationally known in church circles as a lecturer, is giving a series of lectures on the new film. The first of these was delivered by Dr. Potterton in his church Sunday night, March 26.

LILA LEE IN "THE MIDNIGHT GIRL"

No, indeed! Lila is not dancing on the wine glasses. She is dancing on the floor. The glasses are on the table. So we won't deceive you. This is a scene from the Wilfred Noy production for Chadwick Corporation. Gareth Hughes is in this cast

CURRENT and ADVANCE FILM RELEASES

Containing in compact, comprehensive form, the title, star, kind of picture, date of review in Moving Picture World, and footage on past, present and future releases

ALLIED PRODUCERS AND DISTRIBUTORS

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
End of the World (J. Pickford)	Comedy-drama		6.500

ARROW

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Come On, Cowboys (Hatton)	Western drama	May 24	4,700
Mysteries of Mah Jong	Novelty	May 24	2,000
Two After One (West)	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Lash of Pinto Pete (Dearholt)	Stunt drama		4.437
Two Fisted Sheriff (Canutt)	Western drama	Dec. 6	4,625
Sell 'em Cowboy (Hatton)	Western drama		4.821
Ridin' Mad (Canutt)	Western drama		4.927
Desert Hawk	Western drama		4,828
Horse Sense (Hatton)	Western drama		4.648
His Majesty the Outlaw (Wilson)	Western drama		4,069
Romance and Rustlers (Canutt)	Western drama	Nov. 15	4,939
Rip Snorter (Hatton)	Western	Nov. 22	4,998
The Fugitive (Ben Wilson)	Western dr.	Nov. 29	4 920
Lost Chord (Powell-Lake Binney)	Heart interest dr.	Dec. 20	6.751
Lena Rivers (Earle Williams)	Drama		6,000

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Spitfire (all-star)	Modern drama	July 5	6,109
Racing Luck (Monty Banks)	Comedy-drama	July 26	6.000
Never Say Die (MacLean)	Comedy of thrills	Sep. 13	5.803
East of Broadway (O. Moore)	Police drama	Nov. 22	5,785
Price of a Party (H. Ford)	Modern drama	Oct. 18	5,315
Barriers Burned Away	Spectacle	Dec. 27	6,236
Is Love Everything?	Sex melo.	Nov. 15	6,000
Adventurous Sex (C. Bow)	Flapper drama
Children of the Whirlwind
Great Air Mail Robbery
Battling Bunyan (Barry)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27	4,718
Greatest Love of All (Beban)	Drama	Jan. 17	6,486
Bad Company (Tearle)	Society drama	Jan. 24	5,551
Introduce Me (Douglas MacLean)	Comedy thrills	Mar. 21	6,710
Sky Raider (Logan)	Drama
Back to Life (Patsy Ruth Miller)	Drama	Feb. 28	5,628

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Nerve Tonic	Christie comedy	May 17	2.000
Tiny Tour of U. S. A.	Hodge-Podge	May 17	1.000
Air Pockets	Mermaid comedy	May 17	2.000
Lunch Brigade	Cliff Bowes	May 24	1.000
Dizzy Daisy	Mermaid comedy	May 24	2.000
Good Morning	Lloyd Hamilton	May 24	2.000
Tootsie Wootsie	Christie comedy	May 31	2.000
Just Waiting	Robert Bruce series	May 31	1.000
Echoes of Youth	"Sing Them Again"	May 31	1.000
Hot Air	Lee Moran	June 7	2 000
In a Drop of Water	"Secrets of Life"	June 14	1.000
Grandpa's Girl	Kathleen Clifford	June 21	2.000
The Chase	Alps Novelty	June 21	2,000
Snapshots of the Universe	Hodge Podge	June 21	1.000
The Farewell	Bruce Scenic	June 21	1 000
Wedding Showers	Jack White prod.	June 28	2 000
The Ex Bartender Retires	Bruce scenic	June 28	1.000
Family Fits	Cameo comedy	June 28	1.000
His First Car	Tuxedo comedy	July 5	2.000
Pardon Us	Cameo comedy	July 5	1.000
Melodious Moments	"Sing Them Again"	July 5	1 000
Pigskin	Mermaid comedy	July 12	2 000
Heads On	Cliff Bowes	July 12	1 000
Jumble in the Jungle	Hodge Podge	July 12	1.000
Never Again	Tuxedo comedy	Aug 2	2 000
Turn About	Cameo comedy	Aug 2	1.000
Frozen Water	Novelty	Aug. 9	2 000
Savage Love	Jimmie Adams	Aug 9	1.000
Good News	Cliff Bowes	Aug 23	2,000
Oh, Teacher	Juvenile comedy	Aug. 23	1,000
Boneyard Blues	Earl Hurd cartoon	Aug 23	1,000
Drenched	Cliff Bowes	Aug. 30	2,000
Wild Game	Mermaid comedy	Aug. 30	1,000
Don't Fail	Cameo comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
Jonah Jones	Lloyd Hamilton	Sep. 6	1,000
Hazardous Hunting	Hodge Podge	Sep. 13	2,000
Rough and Ready	Lige Conley	Sep. 13	1,000
Cheer Up	Cliff Bowes	Sep. 20	2,000
Stupid but Brave	Al St John	Sep. 20	2,000
Dirty Hands	Juvenile comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Short Change	Hiers comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Bright Lights	Vernon comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Her Boy Friend	Larry Semon	Oct. 4	2,000
Court Plaster	Neal Burns	Oct. 4	1,000
The Hoboken Nightingale	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 4	1,000
Crazy Quilt of Travel	Hodge Podge	Oct. 11	2,000
Fast and Furious (Conley)	Comedy	Oct. 11	1,000
No Foolin' (Bowes)	Comedy	Oct. 18	1,000
Sawmill Four	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 18	2,000
Why Hurry? (Adams)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Kid Speed (L. Semon)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Crushed (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Oct. 25	1,000
Empty Heads (Bowes)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
High Gear (Vernon)	Comedy	Nov. 1	1,000
The Mosquito	Instructive	Nov. 15	1,000
Artist's Model	Hurd cartoon	Nov. 15	2,000
Poor Butterfly	Mermaid comedy	Nov. 15	1,000
Watch Your Pep (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Easy Pickin's	Christie com.	Nov. 22	1.000
Cut Loose (Dynham-Vance)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
A Fat Chance (W. Hiers)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Go Easy (Bowes)	Cameo com.	Dec. 6	2,000
Low Tide (J White prod.)	Comedy	Dec. 6	1,000
Little People of the Garden	Instructive	Dec. 13	1,000
Earth's Oddities	Hodge Podge	Dec. 13	2.000
Goat Getters	Juvenile com.	Dec. 20	2,000
French Pastry (Vernon)	Christie com.	Dec. 20	1,000
Broadcasting	Hurd cartoon	Dec. 27	2,000
Lovemania (St John)	Tuxedo comedy	Dec. 27	1,000
Mad Rush (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
Step Lightly (Lige Conley)	Mermaid com.	Jan. 3	1,000
Hi Fliers	Hodge-Podge	Jan. 17	2,000
Hooked (Hamilton)	Comedy	Jan. 17	1,000
Weak Knees (Bowes)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 17	1,000
Have A Heart (Ruth Hiatt)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 24	2,000
Good Spirits	Christie com.	Jan. 24	1,000
Motor Mad	Mermaid com.	Jan. 31	2,000
Sea Legs (Neal Burns)	Christie com.	Jan. 31	1,000
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Jan. 31	1.000
Paris Creations	Fashions	Feb. 7	1,000
Topsy Turvy Travel	Hodge-Podge	Feb. 7	2,000
His High Horse (Lee Moran)	Mermaid com.	Feb. 7	1.000
He Who Gets Soaked	Hurd cartoon	Feb. 14	1,000
High Hopes (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Wild Cat Willie	Juvenile com.	Feb. 21	1,000
Our Six Legged Friends	Secrets of Life	Feb. 21	2.000
Great Guns (Bobby Vernon)	Comedy	Feb. 21	1,000
Welcome Danger (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 28	1.000
Paris Creations in Color	Fashions	Feb. 28	2,000
Half a Hero (Lloyd Hamilton)	Comedy	Mar. 7	1.000
Two Cats and a Dog	Cartoon	Mar. 7	1,000
Lots of Knots	Hodge-Podge	Mar. 7	1,000
Little People of the Sea	Instructive	Aug. 9	1 000
Voice of the Nightingale	Novelty	Mar. 14	1,000
Love Goofy (Adams)	Christie com.	Mar. 14	2.000
Hello, Hollywood (Conley)	Mermaid com.	Mar. 14	2.000
Dynamite Doggie (Al St. John)	Tuxedo com.	Mar. 21	2,000

$1 for Your Time

Many exhibitors tell us that Moving Picture World Guide to Releases is the most accurate available to them. We know it is the most complete in that it is the only chart containing names of stars, type of picture, and all necessary information to the exhibitor.

We want it to be absolutely accurate—Moving Picture World recognizes the importance of accurate footage information, etc.

If you notice an error in FEATURE footage, or any other major error, we will pay you $1 for the effort on your part of writing us a letter telling us the correct facts.

In many territories local censorship cuts alter the footage to a minor extent. Don't write to tell us of these unimportant variations. But in any case where you feel that our figures will work a real hardship on the exhibitor following them—shoot us the word and we will shoot the dollar for your trouble.

Moving Picture World is willing to back up its complete confidence in the accuracy of its chart with its money.

We can't do more. No one else does as much. We thank you.

How to Use This Chart

First—Booking! Get accurate footage and look up date review appeared in Moving Picture World. Then you can decide if the picture will suit your audience.

Second—Play date! When you set your play date, consult this Chart to set the picture on a date that will not conflict with preceding and following pictures; avoid a sequence of similar type of story; space out your specials.

Third—Laying Out Program! This chart shows star and kind of story as well as accurate length; you can lay out a balanced program easily, avoid over—and under-length program.

Fourth—Exploitation! Through this chart find the review in Moving Picture World; this will give a good synopsis, the all-important cast and a fine line on exploitation possibilities as well as the things you'll want to soft-pedal.

Always! Turn to this Chart when you want accurate information in simple form and easy to get at a glance. AND—

File Your Moving Picture World

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Mar. 21	1,000
Merrymakers (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Mar. 21	1,000
Rarin' Romeo (Walter Hiers)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Red Pepper (St. John)	White-Mermaid	Apr. 4	2,000
Inside Out (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Apr. 4	1,000
Movie Morsels	Howe Magazine	Apr. 4	1,000
Mellow Quartette	Hurd cartoon	Apr. 4	1,000

FILM BOOKING OFFICES OF AMERICA

Beloved Vagabond (Blackwell)	Romantic drama	Apr. 26	6,217
Girl of the Limberlost (Grey)	Rural drama	May 10	6,000
Untamed Youth (Lewis)	Gypsy drama	May 10	5,000
Danger Line (Hayakawa)	Japan drama	May 24	5,000
Spirit of the U. S. A. (Johnson prod.)	Patriotic drama	May 31	8,312
Dangerous Coward (F. Thomson)	Western	May 31	6,000
Napoleon and Josephine (all-star)	Hist. romance	June 7	6,591
Fighting Sap (F. Thomson)	Western	June 14	5,138
There's Millions In It (all-star)	Romantic thriller	June 28	6,000
Swords and the Woman (DeCordoba)	Romantic drama	July 12	6,000
Fools in the Dark (Patsy R. Miller)	Melo. farce	July 26	7,002
Neglected Women (Seena Owen)	Society drama	Aug. 9	6,265
Messalina	Italian spectacle	Sep. 6	8,473
American Manners (R. Talmadge)	Thrill-com.-dr.	Sep. 6	5,200
Desert Sheik (Hawley)	Sheik picture	Sep. 20	5,044
Vanity's Price (A. Q. Nilsson)	Society drama	Sep. 20	6,124
Woman Who Sinned (Busch)	Society drama		6.102
Thundering Hoofs (F. Thomson)	Western	Dec. 6	5,033
Stepping Lively (R. Talmadge)	Comedy drama		5,317
Life's Greatest Game (J. Walker)	Baseball epic	Oct. 11	7.010
Millionaire Cowboy (M. B. Flynn)	Western		4,841
Broken Laws (Mrs. W. Reid)	Drama	Jan. 31	6,413
Quemado (F. Thomson)	Western
Cheap Kisses (all-star)	Jazz-drama	Nov. 15	6,538
Go-Getters Series	Thrill comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Dangerous Flirt (Evelyn Brent)	Drama	Dec. 6	5.297
Miss in the Dark (Vaughn)	Go-getters	Dec. 6	2,000
On The Stroke of Three (Harlan)	Drama	Dec. 13	6.767
Trigger Fingers (Bob Custer)	Tex. Ranger	Dec. 13	4.775
Going of Cumming	Go-Getters	Dec. 13	2,000
Laughing at Danger (R. Talmadge)	Thrill drama	Dec. 20	5.442
Air Hawk (Al Wilson)	Airplane dr.	Dec. 20	5.000
Who's Hooligan?	Go-getters	Dec. 20	2,000
Heebie Jeebies (Aubrey)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Silk Stocking Sal (Brent)	Underworld dr.	Jan. 3	5.367
West of Hot Dog (Stan Laurel)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2.000
No-Gun Man (Lefty Flynn)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 17	4,522
Flashing Spurs (Bob Custer)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5.068
Youth and Adventure (R. Talmadge)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5.000
Sleeping Cutie	Go-Getters	Jan. 31	2,000
Midnight Molly (Evelyn Brent)	Crook drama	Feb. 7	6 000
Range Terror (Bob Custer)	Western	Feb. 14	4,758
Cloud Rider (Al Wilson)	Airplane-thrill	Feb. 21	5.070
Jimmie's Millions (R. Talmadge)	Athletic-stunts	Feb. 28	5,167
Parisian Nights (Hammerstein-Tellegen)	Drama	Mar. 7	6.278
Welcome Granger (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 7	2.000
Helping Hand (Aubrey)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2.000
Breed of the Border (Lefty Flynn)	Western	Mar. 14	4.930
Love's Bargain (Marjorie Daw)	Drama	Mar. 21	[illegible]
Captain Kidd	Bray cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Scar Hanan (Yakima Canutt)	Western	Mar. 28	6.020
Galloping Vengeance (Bob Custer)	Texas Ranger dr.	Mar. 28	5.005
He Who Gets Rapped (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 28	2.000
Forbidden Cargo (Evelyn Brent)	Melodrama	Apr. 4	4,850

FIRST NATIONAL

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Flowing Gold (all-star)	Drama	Mar. 1	8,005
Lilies of the Field (C. Griffith)	Drama	Mar. 22	8.510
Galloping Fish (Ince prod.)	Comedy	Mar. 22	5.559
Secrets (N. Talmadge)	Drama	Apr. 5	8,446
Enchanted Cottage (R. Barthelmess)	Drama	Apr 19	7,120
Abraham Lincoln (G. A. Billings)	Drama	Feb. 2	9,759
Cytherea (all-star)	Society drama	May 21	7.142
Why Men Leave Home (J. M. Stahl prod.)	Comedy-drama	May 3	8.002
Woman on the Jury (all star)	Drama	May 17	7.408
Son of the Sahara (all-star)	Melodrama	May 24	7.603
Sea Hawk (all-star)	Romantic drama	June 14	11.527
Marriage Cheat (all-star)	Drama	June 21	6.622
Those Who Dance (Ince prod.)	Drama		7,512
White Moth (LaMarr)	Drama	June 21	6.571
Perfect Flapper (C. Moore)	Comedy	June 28	7.030
Self-Made Failure (B. Alexander)	Comedy	June 28	7.285
For Sale (all-star)	Drama	July 5	7.304
Born Rich (C. Windsor)	Society drama	Dec. 20	7,389
Single Wives (C. Griffith)	Society drama	Aug. 9	[illegible]
Girl in the Limousine (Semon)	Farce comedy	Aug. 30	5.260
Flirting With Love (C. Moore)	Comedy	Sep. 6	6.926
In Hollywood With Potash and Perlmutter (all-star)	Comedy	Sep. 20	6.685
Husbands and Lovers (all-star)	Dom. drama	Nov. 8	7.822
Madonna of the Streets (Nazimova)	Drama	Oct. 25	7,674
Tarnish (all-star)	Comedy-drama		6.907
Her Night of Romance (C. Talmadge)	Comedy	Dec. 6	7,211
In Every Woman's Life (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 15	6.298
Sandra (LaMarr)	Drama	Dec. 6	7 905
Classmates (R Barthelmess)	Drama	Nov. 29	6.923
Christine of the Hungry Heart (Vidor)	Drama	Nov. 1	7,678
Silent Watcher (Glenn Hunter)	Drama	Oct. 18	7.530
Love's Wilderness (Griffith)	Drama	Dec. 20	7.037
So Big (C. Moore)	Drama	Jan. 17	8,562
If I Marry Again (Doris Kenyon)	Drama	Jan. 24	7.401
Idle Tongues (Marmont)	Comedy-drama	Dec. 27	5 447
Sundown (all-star)	Western epic	Oct. 25	8.641
The Only Woman (N. Tadmadge)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 8	6.770
Inez from Hollywood (Nilsson-Stone-Astor)	Heart interest	Dec. 13	6,967
Frivolous Sal (O'Brien-Busch-Alexander)	Western melo.	Jan. 17	7,307
A Thief in Paradise (Doris Kenyon)	Melodrama	Jan. 24	7.231
As Man Desires (Sills-Dana)	Melodrama	Jan. 31	7.649
Enticement (Mary Astor)	Drama	Feb. 7	6.224
The Lady (Norma Talmadge)	Emotional dr.	Feb. 14	7,357
Her Husband's Secret (Moreno-Miller)	Sentiment-dr.	Feb. 21	6.150
Quo Vadis (Emil Jennings)	Special	Feb. 28	8.745
Lost World (Conan Doyle story)	Special	Feb. 28	9.700
New Toys (Barthelmess)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 28	7,811
Playing With Souls (Jacqueline Logan)	Drama	Mar. 7	5,831
One Year to Live (Pringle)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,064
Learning to Love (C. Talmadge)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 7	6.099
Heart of a Siren (La Marr)	Drama	Mar. 21	6,700
Sally (C. Moore-Leon Errol)	Stage success	Mar. 28	8,636
Declasse (Corinne Griffith)	Society dr.	Apr. 4	7.869
One Way Street (Lyon-Nilsson)	Society dr.	Apr. 4	5,600

FOX FILM CORP.

Vagabond Trail (Jones)	Drama	Mar. 22	4,562
Arizona Express (D. Butler)	Railroad drama	Mar. 29	6,316
Plunderer (Mayo)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,000
A Man's Mate (Gilbert)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,812
Circus Cowboy (Jones)	Western drama	May 3	6.400
Trouble Shooter (Mix)	Western drama	May 17	5,702
He's My Pal	Imperial comedy	May 17	2,000
Lone Chance (Gilbert)	Western drama	May 24	4,385
When Wise Ducks Meet	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Western Luck (Jones)	Comedy-drama	June 28	5,000
Magic Needle	"Etching"	June 28	1,000
Romance Ranch (Gilbert)	Comedy-drama	July 12	4,471
Heart Buster (Mix)	Comedy-drama	July 19	4,500
Beaten Gold	Educational	July 19	1,000
Against All Odds (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 9	4,899
Pain as You Enter (Moran)	Comedy	Aug. 9	2,000
That French Lady (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 16	5,470
Man Who Came Back (special)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,273
Desert Outlaw (Jones)	Drama
Wolves of the Night (W. Farnum)	Drama
It Is the Law (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,895
Dante's Inferno (special)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,480
Cyclone Rider (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,672
Last of the Duanes (Mix)	Drama	Aug. 30	6,942
Iron Horse (special)	Railway drama	Sep. 13	11,400
Conquerer (W. Farnum)	Reissue
The Fight (all-star)	Drama
Oh, You Tony (Mix and Tony)	Comedy-drama	Sep. 27	6,302
Winner Take All (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,949
Hearts of Oak (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,336
Great Diamond Mystery (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Nov. 1	5,096
Warrens of Virginia (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 1	6,535
End of the Trail (W. Farnum)	Drama
Rambles of a Raindrop	Instructive	Sep. 27	1 000
Daughters of the Night (all-star)	Modern drama	Dec. 13	5,701
Painted Lady (Mackaill)	Modern drama	Oct. 4	6,936
Jerusalem Today	Instructive	Oct. 4	1,000
Last Man on Earth	Novelty special	Dec. 27
Gold Heels	Race track dr	Feb. 7	6.020
Flames of Desire	Love drama		5,438
The Dancers	Drama	Jan. 24	6.656
The Folly of Vanity	Dramatic fantasy	Feb. 14	5,250
Teeth (Mix-Tony Duke)	Western drama	Nov. 15	6,190
Tainted Souls	Modern drama
Darwin Was Right	Monkey novelty com	Nov. 8	4,992
Everyman's Wife	Modern mystery-drama
In Love With Love	Comedy drama	Jan. 3	5,677
Hunting Wild Animals in Hollywood	Novelty
Honor Among Men (E. Lowe)	Romance-drama	Oct. 18	4,960
Unreal News 4	Novelty	Oct. 11	2,000
Van Bibber Series	Polite com.	Oct. 25	2.000
Age of Oil	Educational	Nov. 1	750
Deep Sea Panic (Parrott)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
Nickle Plated West	Sunshine comedy	Nov. 15	2.000
The Bull Fight	Educational	Nov. 15	1,000
My Husband's Wives (Mason-Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Nov. 22	4.509
Paul Jones, Jr.	Van Bibber com.	Nov. 22	2.000
Finger Lakes	Instructive	Nov. 22	1.000
Brass Bowl (Edmund Lowe)	Adventure dr.	Nov. 29	5.861
Stolen Sweeties (Monkeys)	Comedy	Nov. 29	2.000
Salt of the Earth	Educational	Nov. 29	1.000
Gerald Cranston's Lady (James Kirkwood)	Domestic dr.	Dec. 6	6,074
Masked Marvel (Parrott)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
The Roughneck (George O'Brien)	Melodrama	Dec. 13	7,619
The Burglar	Van Bibber	Dec. 13	2.000
Man Who Played Square (Jones)	Western drama	Dec. 20	6.700
Deadwood Coach (Mix)	Western drama	Jan. 10	6.346
Troubles of a Bride	Melodrama	Dec. 27	4,915
Dick Turpin (Mix)	English drama	Feb. 7	5,224
Hunted Woman	Melodrama
Arizona Romeo (Jones)	Western drama	Jan. 31	4,694
Curlytop (Mason)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	5.828
Stardust Trail (Mason)	Melodrama	Mar. 7	4.686
Scuttlers (W Farnum)	Western drama		4,686
Movie-Mad Maid (Babe London)	Slapstick	Dec. 20	2,000
Roaring Lions at Home	Sunshine com.	Jan. 3	2,000
Uncommon Clay	Educational	Jan. 3	1,000
Up On the Farm (Lee Moran)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2.000
The Violin Speaks	Educational	Jan. 10	1.000
Dangerous Curves	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Milk Bottle Bandits	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Ports of Call (E. Lowe)	Regeneration dr.	Jan. 24	5.500
Sleep Walker (Sid Smith)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Hell Roaring Range	Educational	Jan. 24	1.000
Corsica the Beautiful	Educational	Jan. 31	1 000
Nobody Works But Father	Slapstick	Feb. 7	2.000
Trail Rider (Jones)	Western	Feb. 21	4.752
Man Without a Country (all-star)	Special	Feb. 28	10.000
Scarlet Honeymoon (Shirley Mason)	Romantic com.-dr.	Mar. 14	5.080
Mysterious Stranger	Comedy	Mar. 14	2 000
Riders of the Purple Sage (Mix)	Western	Mar. 21	5.578
House of Flickers	Imperial com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Gold and the Girl (Jones)	Western	Mar. 28	4,512
Amateur Detective	Van Bibber	Mar. 28	2.000
Hunted Woman (Seena Owen-Earl Schenck)	Curwood dr.	Apr. 4	4,954
Butterfly Man (Sid Smith)	Comedy	Apr. 4	2,000
From Mars to Munich	"arieties"	Apr. 4	1,000

METRO-GOLDWYN

Three Weeks (Pringle-Nagel)	Romantic dr.	Apr. 12	7,483
Janice Meredith (Davies)	Romantic dr.	Aug. 23	10,655
Rejected Woman (Rubens-Nagel)	Drama	May 3	7.761
Heart Bandit (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 19	4,909
Fool's Awakening (Ford)	Drama	Feb. 16	5.763
Man Life Passed By (Marmont)	Drama	Mar. 1	6.459
Thy Name Is Woman (LaMarr)	Drama	Mar. 1	9,087
Uninvited Guest (Tolley)	Drama	Mar. 8	6,145
Happiness (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 8	7,414

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Women Who Give (all-star)	Sea drama	Mar. 22	7,590
Boy of Flanders (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 5	[illegible]
Shooting of Dan McGrew (all-star)	Drama	Apr. 12	[illegible]
Sherlock, Jr. (Keaton)	Comedy	May 17	4,065
Arab (Novarro-Terry)	Drama	July 14	6,710
Bread (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 2	[illegible]
Tess of D'Urbervilles (Sweet)	Drama	Aug. 9	7,736
Little Robinson Crusoe (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 16	6,126
Broken Barriers (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 16	5,717
True As Steel (all-star)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,454
Revelation (Dana)	Drama	July 5	8,752
Recoil (Blythe-Hamilton)	Drama	July 12	7,089
Wine of Youth (all star)	Drama	July 26	6,805
Along Came Ruth (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 2	5,161
Red Lily (Bennett-Novarro)	Drama	Aug. 16	6,975
Sinners in Silk (Menjou-Boardman)	Drama	Aug. 30	5,750
Circe, The Enchantress (Murray)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,882
His Hour (Pringle)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,300
One Night in Rome (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Sep. 27	5,883
Navigator (Keaton)	Comedy	Sep. 13	[illegible]
Bandolero (all star)	Drama	Oct. 11	[illegible]
Great Divide (all star)	Drama	Feb. 21	7,811
The Snob (all star)	Drama	Nov. 8	6,513
He Who Gets Slapped (Chaney)	Drama	Nov. 15	6.613
Rag Man (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 14	5,908
Silent Accuser (Peter, the Great)	Dog drama	Nov. 22	5,883
So This Is Marriage (all star)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 3	6,300
Beauty Prize (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 11	5,750
Ben Hur (special cast)	Drama
Merry Widow (Murray)	Comedy-dr.
The Scandal (Novarro)	Drama
Sporting Venus (Sweet)	Drama
Married Flirts (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 25	6,765
Temptress (Cosmopolitan)
The Square Peg
Zander, the Great (Cosmopolitan)
Romola (Lillian Gish)	Famous novel	Dec. 13	12,974
Greed (Von Stroheim prod.)	Special	Dec. 20	10,067
Chu-Chin-Chow (B. Blythe)	Spectacle	Feb. 21	6,408
Wife of the Centaur	Drama	Jan. 17	6,586
Dixie Handicap (Windsor-Keenan)	Drama	Jan. 10	6,905
Cheaper to Marry (All Star)	Drama	Feb. 14	5,921
A Man's World (Joyce-Marmont)	Drama
Excuse Me (Shearer-Nagel)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 7	5,084
Monster (Chaney-Olmsted)	Weird com.-dr.	Mar. 7	6,435
Daddy's Gone a Hunting (Marmont)	Pathos drama	Mar. 7	5,851
Lady of the Night (Norma Shearer)	Underworld dr.	Mar. 14	5.441
Denial (Claire Windsor)	Drama	Mar. 21	4,791
Seven Chances (Keaton)	Comedy	Mar. 28	5,113
Confessions of a Queen (Terry-Stone)	Mythical romance	Apr. 4	5,809

PARAMOUNT

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Ten Commandments (all star)	Spectacular dr.	Jan. 5	12,000
Dawn of a To-morrow (Logan)	Slum dr.	Apr. 5	6,084
Singer Jim McKee (W. S. Hart)	Western	Apr. 12	7,008
Breaking Point (all star)	West-Metropolitan	Apr. 19	6,664
Confidence Man (Meighan)	Romance dr.	Apr. 26	6,500
Moral Sinner (Dalton)	Crook melo.	Apr. 26	5,439
Triumph (C. DeMille prod.)	Theatrical dr.	May 3	8,292
Bluff (Ayres-Moreno)	Drama	May 10	6,504
Men (Negri)	Society dr.	May 17	6,700
Wanderer of Wasteland (Holt-Technicolor)	Western	May 31	6,086
Code of the Sea (LaRocque-Logan)	Sea melodr.	Jun. 7	6,550
Bedroom Window (W. DeMille prod.)	Mystery dr.	Jun. 21	6,550
Guilty One (Ayres)	Heavy mystery	Jun. 28	5,365
Tiger Love (Melford prod.)	Modern dr.	Jun. 28	5,325
Changing Husbands (Joy)	Dual role dr.	July 5	6,799
Unguarded Women (Daniels-Dix)	Society dr.	July 5	6,051
Enemy Sex (Compson)	Romantic dr.	July 12	7,861
Side Show of Life (Torrence)	Clown dr.	Aug. 2	7,511
Manhandled (Swanson)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 9	6,908
Man Who Fights Alone (W. Farnum)	Drama	Aug. 9	6,337
Monsieur Beaucaure (Valentino)	Spectacle melo.	Aug. 23	9,932
Empty Hands (Holt)	Forest Melo.	Aug. 30	6,976
Lily of the Dust (Negri)	Drama	Sep. 6	6,811
The Female (Compson)	Society dr.	Sep. 13	6,167
Merton of the Movies (Hunter)	Travesty	Sep. 20	7.655
Sinners in Heaven (Daniels-Dix)	Drama	Sep. 20	6.621
Open All Night (all star)	Demestic dr.	Sep. 20	6.881
Feet of Clay (C. DeMille prod.)	Drama	Oct. 4	9.741
Alaskan (Meighan)	Drama	Sep. 27	6,736
Her Love Story (Swanson)	Romance dr.	Oct. 11	6,736
Story Without a Name (Ayres-Moreno)	Prize title	Oct. 18	5,912
Dangerous Money (Daniels)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,864
Border Legion (Moreno)	Drama	Nov. 1	7.048
Worldly Goods (Ayres)	Drama	Nov. 15—	6.055
Fast Set (Compson-Menjou)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 29	6.574
Forbidden Paradise (Negri)	Drama	Nov. 29	7.000
Sainted Devil (Valentino)	Drama	Dec. 6	8,633
City That Never Sleeps (Cruze prod.)	Mother-love melo.	Oct. 11	6,097
Manhattan (Dix)	Romantic com.	Nov. 8	6.415
Garden of Weeds (Compson)	Drama	Nov. 15	6.230
Wages of Virtue (Swanson)	Drama	Dec. 6	7,093
Tongues of Flame (Meighan-Love)	Melodrama	Dec. 27	6,763
North of 36 (Torrence-Holt-Wilson)	Historic romance	Dec. 13	7.908
Argentine Love (Daniels-Cortez)	Spanish romance	Jan. 3	5,570
Peter Pan (Betty Bronson)	Barrie classic	Jan. 3	9,593
Locked Doors (Compson)	Original story	Jan. 24	6.221
Tomorrow's Love (Ayres)	Divorce com-dr.	Jan. 24	5,903
East of Suez (Negri)	Drama	Jan. 17	6.821
Miss Bluebeard (Daniels)	The stage success	Feb. 14	6,453
Golden Bed (LaRocque)	Drama of classes	Jan. 31	8,584
Man Must Live (Dix)	Newspaper romance	Feb. 7	6.116
Coming Through (Meighan)	New type Meighan story	Feb. 21	6.522
The Devil's Cargo (Starke)	Drama of Old California	Feb. 21	7,980
Top of the World (Nilsson-Kirkwood)	Africa and England	Feb. 28	7.167
The Swan (Menjou-Howard)	Stage success	Mar. 14	5.889
Contraband (Wilson-Noah Beery)	Bootleg drama	Apr. 4	6,773
Madame Sans Gene (Swanson)	World Famous drama
Thundering Herd (Holt-Wilson)	Buffalo stampede	Mar. 7	7,187
Forty Winks (Dana-Roberts-Griffith)	Comedy	Feb. 14	6.293
Goose Hangs High (Cruze production)	Typical	Mar. 21	6,186
Code of the West	Western dr.		6,777
New Lives for Old (Compson)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,796
Salome of the Tenements (Jetta Goudal)	Drama	Mar. 7	7.017
Too Many Kisses (Richard Dix)	Comedy	Mar. 14	5,750
Dressmaker From Paris (Leatrice Joy)	Drama	Mar. 28	7,080
Air Mail (feature cast)	Melodrama	Mar. 28	[illegible]

PATHE

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
The Pilgrims	Chronicle series	May 17	3,000
Fishin' Fever	"Sportlight"	May 17	2,000
Black Oxfords	Sennett comedy	May 17	2,000
Bottle Babies	"Spat Family"	May 17	2,000
Going to Congress	Will Rogers	May 24	2,000
Position Wanted	Charles Chase	May 24	1,000
The Cat's Meow	Sennett comedy	May 24	2,000
Cradle Robbers	"Our Gang"	May 31	2,000
Building Winners	"Sportlight"	May 31	1,000
Before Taking	Earl Mohan	May 31	1,000
Rupert of Hee-Haw	Stan Laurel	June 7	2,000
Yukon Jake	Ben Turpin	June 7	2,000
Up and At 'Em	"Dippy Doo Dads"	June 7	1,000
The Flying Carpet	Terry cartoon	June 7	1,000
Declaration of Independence	"Chronicles"	June 14	3,000
Fast Black	Mohan-Engle	June 14	1,000
Lion and the Souse	Sennett comedy	June 14	2,000
On Guard	"Sportlight"	June 14	1,000
Suffering Shakespeare	"Spat Family"	June 14	2,000
Young Oldfield	Charles Chase	June 21	1,000
His New Mama	Sennett comedy	June 21	2,000
Don't Park There	Will Rogers	June 21	2,000
Her Memory	Will Nigh Miniature	June 21	1,000
Solitude and Fame	"Sportlight"	June 28	1,000
Stolen Goods	Charles Chase	June 28	1,000
Jubilo, Jr.	"Our Gang"	June 28	2,000
Jeffries, Jr.	Charles Chase	July 5	1,000
The Wide Open Spaces	Stan Laurel	July 5	2,000
The Body in the Bag	Terry cartoon	July 5	1,000
Yorktown	Chronicles of America	July 12	3,000
Why Husbands Go Mad	Charles Chase	July 12	1,000
Desert Sheiks	Terry cartoon	July 12	1,000
Radio Mad	"Spat Family"	July 12	2,000
Maud Miller	Special	July 19	2,000
Our Congressman	Will Rogers	July 19	2,000
A Woman's Hour	Terry cartoon	July 19	1,000
A Ten-Minute Egg	Charles Chase	July 19	1,000
It's a Bear	"Our Gang"	July 26	2,000
The Sport of Kings	Terry cartoon	July 26	1,000
Our Defenders	"Sportlight"	July 26	1,000
Seeing Nellie Home	Charles Chase	July 26	1,000
Into the Net	Mulhall-Murphy serial	Aug. 2
Romeo and Juliet	Sennett comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
Flying Fever	Terry cartoon	Aug. 2	1,000
Short Kilts	Hal Roach comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
A Hard Boiled Tenderfoot	"Spat Family"	Aug. 9	2,000
The Puritans	"Chronicles" series	Aug. 9	3,000
Amelia Comes Back	Terry cartoon	Aug. 9	1,000
The First Hundred Years	Sennett comedy	Aug. 16	2,000
A Truthful Liar	Will Rogers	Aug. 16	2,000
The Battling Orioles	Special	Aug. 23	5,000
East of the Water Plug	Sennett comedy	Aug. 23	2,000
High Society	"Our Gang"	Aug. 23	2,000
The Prodigal Pup	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Hoofbeats	"Sportlight"	Aug. 23	1,000
House Cleaning	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Alexander Hamilton	"Chronicles" series	Sep. 6	3,000
Lizzies of the Field	Sennett comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
Barnyard Olympics	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
South of the North Pole	"Spat Family"	Sep. 6	2,000
One Third Off	Cobb-Rice comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
The Happy Years	"Sportlight"	Sep. 6	1,000
Why Men Work	Charles Chase	Sep. 6	1,000
Message From the Sea	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
Luck of the Foolish	Harry Langdon	Sep. 13	2,000
Outdoor Pajamas	Charles Chase	Sep. 13	2,000
Three Foolish Weeks	Ben Turpin	Sep. 13	2,000
In Good Old Summertime	Terry cartoon	Sep. 13	1,000
Danger Lure	Sportlight	Oct. 11	1,000
Dixie	Chronicles	Oct. 11	3,000
Goofy Age (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
10 Scars Make a Man (Allene Ray)	Serial	Oct. 18
Black Magic	Terry cartoon	Oct. 18	1,000
Sporting Rhythm	Sportlight	Oct. 18	1,000
Riders of the Purple Cow	Sennett com.	Oct. 18	2,000
Every Man for Himself	Our Gang	Oct. 18	2,000
Hot Water (Harold Lloyd)	Feature com.	Oct. 18	5,000
On Leave of Absence	Detective	Oct. 25	2,000
Bungalow Boobs (Chase)	Comedy	Oct. 25	1,000
Sky Plumber (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Galloping Bungalows	Sennett com.	Nov. 1	2,000
Stunts	Sportlight	Nov. 1	1,000
Hot Stuff	Spat family	Nov. 1	2,000
Cat and the Magnet	Terry cartoon	Nov. 1	1,000
Fast Company	Our Gang	Nov. 15	2,000
She Knew Her Man	Terry cartoon	Nov. 15	1,000
Gridiron Glory	Sportlight	Nov. 15	1,000
Love's Sweet Piffle (R. Graves)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Are Blond Men Bashful? (Stone)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Out of the Storm	Detective	Nov. 22	2,000
Good Old Circus Days	Terry cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
All Wet (Chase)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Deaf, Dumb and Daffy	Spat Family	Nov. 29	2,000
Cannon-Ball Express	Sennett com.	Nov. 29	2.000
Champions	Sportlight	Nov. 29	1,000
Lumber Jacks	Terry cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
White Sheep (Glenn Tryon)	Special dr.	Dec. 6	6,091
Feet of Mud (Sennett cast)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
Meet the Missus (Tryon)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
Bucking the Bucket Shop	Detective series	Dec. 6	2,000
She's In Again	Terry cartoon	Dec. 6	1.000
Mysterious Mystery	Our Gang	Dec. 13	2.000
Off His Trolley (R. Graves)	Sennett com.	Dec. 13	2.000
Noah's Athletic Club	Terry cartoon	Dec. 13	1,000
Just a Good Guy (Stone)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2.000
Royal Razz (Chase)	Comedy	Dec. 20	1,000
Mysteries of Old Chinatown	Terry cartoon	Dec. 20	1,000
Nature's Rouge	Sportlight	Dec. 20	1.000
Rubber Neck	Spat Family	Dec. 27	2,000
Bull and Sand	Sennett comedy	Dec. 27	2.000
Invaders	Sportlight	Dec. 27	1,000
Down on the Farm	Terry cartoon	Dec. 27	1,000
The Sea Squawk	Sennett com.	Jan. 3	2.000
On the Ice	Terry cartoon	Jan. 3	1,000
Galloping Hoofs (Allene Ray)	Serial	Jan. 3
Wages of Tin (Tryon)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2.000
Rat's Knuckles (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 10	1,000

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Rough and Tumbling	Sportlight	Jan. 10	1,000
Our Game Pup	Terry cartoon	Jan. 10	1,000
The Big Town (Our Gang)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Plumber (Graves)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Wild Goose Chaser (Turpin)	Sennett Com.	Jan. 17	2,000
Hello Baby (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 17	1,000
Laugh That Off	Spat Family	Jan. 24	2,000
Honeymoon Hardships	Sennett comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Brain and Brawn	Sportlight	Jan. 24	1,000
Boobs in the Woods (Langdon)	Sennett comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Hold That Thought	Terry cartoon	Jan. 31	1,000
Fighting Fluid (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 31	1,000
Beloved Bozo (R. Graves)	Sennett comedy	Feb. 7	2,000
Circus Fever	Our Gang	Feb. 7	2,000
Biting the Dust	Terry cartoon	Feb. 7	1,000
Transatlantic Flight	Terry cartoon		1,000
Change the Needle (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Family Entrance (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 14	1,000
Bigger and Better Jails	Terry cartoon	Feb. 14	1,000
Fisherman's Luck	Terry cartoon	Feb. 21	1,000
A Fox Hunt	Spat Family	Feb. 21	2,000
Sporting Armor	Sportlight	Feb. 21	1,000
Idaho (Vivian Rich)	Serial	Feb. 21	10 ep.
Water Wagons	Sennett com.	Feb. 21	2,000
His Marriage Wow (Langdon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Plain and Fancy Girls (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 28	1,000
Clean-Up Week	Terry cartoon	Feb. 28	1,000
Haunted Honeymoon (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Raspberry Romance (Ben Turpin)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Neptune's Nieces	Sportlight	Mar. 7	1,000
Bashful Jim (Graves)	Mack Sennett com.	Mar. 7	2,000
In Dutch	Terry cartoon	Mar. 7	1,000
Dog Days	Our Gang	Mar. 7	2,000
Percy (Charles Ray)	Typical dr.	Mar. 14	6,000
Should Husbands Be Watched	Comedy	Mar. 14	1,000
Hard Boiled (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 14	2,000
Jungle Bike Riders	Terry cartoon	Mar. 14	1,000
Excuse My Glove	Spat Family	Mar. 21	2,000
Giddap (Billy Bevan)	Comedy	Mar. 21	2,000
Traps and Troubles	Sportlight	Mar. 21	1,000
Pie Man	Terry cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Zowie!	Stereoskopik	Mar. 21	1,000
At the Zoo	Terry cartoon	Mar. 28	1,000
Is Marriage the Bunk? (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000
Plain Clothes (Langdon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Sailor Papa (Tryon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Breaking the Ice (Graves)	Comedy	Apr. 4	2,000
Love Bug	Our Gang	Apr. 4	2,000
Housing Shortage	Terry cartoon	Apr. 4	1,000

PRINCIPAL PICTURES

Listen Lester (all-star)	Comedy-drama	May 10	6,242
Daring Youth (Daniels)	Comedy drama	May 17	5,975
Daughters of Pleasure (Prevost)	Drama	May 24	6,000
Masked Dancer (H. Chadwick)	Mystery drama	May 31	4,987
Good Bad Boy (Joe Butterworth)	Comedy-drama	June 7	5,198
Captain January (Baby Peggy)	Sea story	July 12	6,194
Helen's Babies (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-drama
Mine With Iron Door (all-star)	Adventure drama	Dec. 27	7,800
Re-Creation of Brian Kent	Drama	Mar. 14	6,878

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Love's Whirlpool (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	Mar. 22	6,605
Hoosier Schoolmaster (Hull)	Drama	Mar. 29	5,556
His Darker Self (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Apr. 5	5,000
Try and Get It (Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 12	5,607
Not One to Spare (all star)	Pathos dr.	Apr. 19	5,000
Wandering Husbands (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	May 10	6,300
Hold Your Breath (Devore)	Thrill com	Jun. 7	5,900
Miami (Compson)	Drama	Jun. 14	6,317
Night Hawk (Carey)	Western	Jun. 14	5,115
Lightning Rider (Carey)	Western	Jun. 21	6,000
What Shall I Do? (Mackaill)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,000
Legend of Hollywood (Marmont)	Drama	Jan. 10	5,414
Wise Virgin (Miller)	Drama		5,951
Welcome Stranger (Vidor)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,618
Ramshackle House (Compson)	Comedy-dr.		6,257
Barbara Frietchie (Vidor)	Civ. War dr.	Oct. 11	7,179
Chalk Marks (M. Snow)	Drama
House of Youth (Logan)	Drama		6,669
Roaring Rails (Carey)	Railway dr.	Oct. 25	5,753
Another Scandal (Lois Wilson)	Sex theme	Nov. 1	7,000
Another Man's Wife (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama		5,015
Trouping With Ellen (H. Chadwick)	Comedy-dr.		6,452
Reckless Romance	Comedy feature	Nov. 22	5,530
Siren of Seville (Dean)	Drama	Nov. 29	6,724
Girl on the Stairs (Miller)	Comedy-dr.		6,214
Chorus Lady (Livingston)	Comedy-dr.	Feb. 21	6,020
Cafe in Cairo (Dean)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,656
Flaming Forties (Carey)	Western		5,770
The Mirage (Vidor)	Drama
Let Women Alone (O'Malley-Hawley)	Drama
Soft Shoes (Carey)	Western
Off the Highway (Logan)	Drama
Charley's Aunt (Syd Chaplin)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 21	7,243

B. P. SCHULBERG PROD.

Breath of Scandal (Blythe)	Society drama		6,940
White Man (Joyce)	Jungle romance	Nov. 22	6,370
Triflers (Busch Mayo)	Paris soc. dr.	Dec. 27	6,626
Capital Punishment (Clara Bow)	Prison dr.	Jan. 24	5,950
Boomerang (Clara Bow)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 21	6,714
Parasite (Bellamy-Moore-Washburn)	Drama	Jan. 31	5,140
Mansion of Aching Hearts (all-star)	Melodrama	Mar. 14	6,147

UNITED ARTISTS

Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall (Pickford)	Romantic drama	May 17	9,351
America (Griffith prod.)	Historical drama	Mar. 8	11,442
Isn't Life Wonderful? (Dempster)	Realism	Dec. 13	8,000
Thief of Bagdad (D. Fairbanks)	Fantasy	Mar. 29	12,000
Salvation Hunters (Von Sternberg prod.)	Symbolical dr.	Feb. 14	[illegible]

UNIVERSAL

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Galloping Ace (Hoxie)	Western	Apr. 5	4,561
Hit Him Hard (Earle)	Comedy	Apr. 5	2,000
Marry When Young (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 5	1,000
Checking Out (Pal)	Century com	Apr. 12	2,000
Spring of 1964 (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 12	1,000
Excitement (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 19	4,913
Storm Daughter (Dean)	Drama	Apr. 19	5,203
Racing Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Apr. 19	2,000
Forty Horse Hawkins (Gibson)	Western	Apr. 26	5,140
One Wet Night (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 26	1,000
Pretty Plungers (Follies Girls)	Century com	Apr. 26	2,000
Riders Up (Hale)	Race drama	May 3	4,904
Politics (Summerville)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
Green Grocers (Dunn)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
A Lofty Marriage (Earle)	Comedy	May 3	2,000
Taxi, Taxi!	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Pigskin Hero (McCoy)	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Bulltosser (Lyons-Moran)	Reissue	May 10	1,000
Dangerous Blonde (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	May 17	4,919
Fast Steppers (New Series)	Race dr	May 10	2,000
Ridgeway of Montana (Hoxie)	Western	May 17	4,843
My Little Brother (Summerville)	Comedy	May 17	1,000
The Lone Round-Up (Dougherty)	Short Western	May 17	2,000
The Signal Tower (Super-Jewel)	Drama	May 24	6,714
Tired Business Man (Alt-Follies Girls)	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Honor of Men (N. Hart re-issue)	Western	May 24	2,000
Reckless Age (Denny)	Drama	May 31	6,954
Fighting American (all star)	Drama	May 31	5,251
Case Dismissed (Summerville)	Comedy	May 31	1,000
Boss of the Bar-20 (Lawrence)	Western	May 31	2,000
Delivering the Goods (Pal)	Comedy	May 31	2,000
The Gaiety Girl (Philbin)	Drama	Jun. 7	7,419
High Speed (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 7	4,927
Fearless Fools (McCoy)	Century com	Jun. 7	2,000
Rest in Pieces (Roach)	Comedy	Jun. 7	1,000
Powerful Eye (Morrison)	Short Western	Jun. 7	2,000
Sailor Maids (Follies Girls)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Winning a Bride (Ridgeway)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Family Secret (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-dr.	Jun. 21	5,076
Back Trail (Hoxie)	Western	Jun. 21	4,615
Fight and Win (Jack Dempsey)	Fight series	Jun. 21	...
Please Teacher (Messinger)	Comedy	Jun. 21	2,000
Miners Over 21 (Summerville)	Comedy	Jun. 21	1,000
Blue Wing's Revenge (Lawrence)	Western	Jun. 28	2,000
Dark Stairway (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 28	5,000
Iron Man (Albertini)	Serial	Jun. 28	...
Behind the Curtain (Bryson)	Drama	July 5	4,875
A Royal Pair	Century com	July 5	2,000
Why Be Jealous? (Roach)	Comedy	July 5	1,000
Young Ideas (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	July 12	4,847
Her Fortunate Face	Century com	July 12	2,000
Little Savage	Short Western	July 12	2,000
Sawdust Trail (Gibson)	Western	July 19	5,500
Cry Baby (Summerville)	Comedy	July 19	1,000
Starving Beauties (Wiley)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Flying Eagle (Lawrence)	Short Western	July 26	2,000
Patching Things Up (Roach)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Fighting Fury (Hoxie)	Western	Aug. 2	4,491
Kid Days (Snooky)	Comedy	Aug. 2	1,000
Her City Sport (Wiley)	Comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
The Gun Packer (Morrison)	Western	Aug. 2	2,000
Big Timber (Desmond)	Forest dr.	Aug. 9	4,650
Paging Money	Century com	Aug. 9	2,000
King's Command (Lawrence)	Short Western	Aug. 9	2,000
Love and Glory (all star)	Drama	Aug. 16	7,084
Hit and Run (Gibson)	Baseball dr.	Aug. 16	5,504
Wolves of the North (Duncan)	Serial	Aug. 16	...
Wine (C. Bow)	Drama	Aug. 23	6,220
Hysterical History (Z Series)	Novelty	Aug. 23	1,000
Sagebush Vagabond	Western	Aug. 23	2,000
Butterfly (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 30	7,472
The Blow Out (Messinger)	Comedy	Aug. 30	2,000
K—The Unknown (Valli-Marmont)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,146
All's Swell on the Ocean (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
So This Is Paris (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
Scared Stiff	Century com	Sep. 6	2,000
Mind the Baby (Pal)	Comdey	Sep. 13	2,000
College Cowboy	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
Traffic Jams (McCoy)	Comedy	Sep. 13	2,000
Tempest Cody Gets Her Man (Walcamp)	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
That's the Spirit (Roach)	Comedy	Sep. 13	1,000
Measure of a Man (Desmond)	Drama	Sep. 20	4,979
Fast Worker (Denny-LaPlante)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,506
Low Bridge (Messinger)	Comdey	Sep. 27	2,000
Game Hunter (Roach)	Comdey	Sep. 27	1,000
Between Fires	Western	Sep. 27	2,000
Rose of Paris (Philbin)	Drama	Oct. 4	6,362
Rip Van Winkle	Hysterical Hist	Oct 4	1,000
Trouble Fixer	Century com	Oct. 4	2,000
Western Wallop (Hoxie)	Ex-convict dr.	Oct. 11	4,611
Hello, Frisco (Summerville-Dunn)	Comedy	Oct. 11	1,000
Snappy Eyes (Wiley)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
An Eyeful (Sullivan)	Short drama	Oct —	[illegible]
Pocahontas & John Smith	Hysterical hist.	Oct. 18	1,000
What an Eye	Comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Ridin' Kid From Powder River (Gibson)	Western	Oct. 25	5,727
Riddle Rider (Desmond-Sedgwick)	Serial	Nov. 1
Robinson Crusoe	Hysterical hist.	Nov. 1	1,000
Some Tomboy (Wiley)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
The Tornado (H. Peters)	Melodrama	Nov. 15	6,375
Sweet Dreams	Century comedy	Nov. 15	2,000
Antony and Cleopatra	Gysterical History	Nov. 15	1,000
Speed, Boys (Trimble, Bobbles)	Century (kid)	Nov. 22	2,000
Oh, Doctor (R. Denny)	Comedy	Nov. 29	6,587
Omar Khayyan (Hysterical history)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Double Cross (Sullivan)	Drama	Nov. 29	2,000
Smouldering Fires (Frederick-LaPlante)	Drama	Dec. 13	7,356
Hurricane Kid (Gibson)	Western	Jan. 3	5,296
Secrets of the Night (Kirkwood-Bellamy)	Drama	Dec. 20	6,138
Mad Whirl (May MacAvoy)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27	6,184
Saddle Hawk (Gibson)	Western dr.	Mar. 7	4,419
Eyes of Fools (Rubens-Marmont)	Society dr.	Jan. 24	6,581
Fifth Avenue Models (Mary Philbin)	Drama		5,922
Up The Ladder (Valli)	Drama	Jan. 31
Let 'Er Back (Gibson)	Western	Jan. 3	5,900
Dangerous Innocence (LaPlante-O'Brien)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,759
Man in Blue (Rawlinson-Bellamy)	Drama	Feb. 28	5,624
Taming the West (Gibson)	Western	Feb. 28	5,304
Paul Revere	Hysterical histy	Dec. 20	1,000
Border Maid (Ed Cobb)	Drama	Dec. 20	2,000

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Family Row (Messinger)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2,000
Present Arms (Wiley)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Red Age (Sullivan)	Drama	Jan. 3	2,000
Ponce de Leon	Hysterical history	Jan. 3	1,000
Prehistoric Man	Hysterical history	Jan. 3	1,000
Sign of the Cactus (Hoxie)	Western	Jan. 10	4,938
Ridin' Pretty (Desmond-Forrest)	Western com.-dr.	Jan. 17	4,812
Looking Down (Wiley)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Aggravatin' Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Pistol Point Proposal (Eddie Polo)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Whip Hand (Billy Sullivan)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Rembrandt	Hysterical histy.	Jan. 31	1,000
Last Laugh (Emil Jannings)	Human drama	Feb. 7	6,500
Fighting Ranger (Sedgwick-Daugherty)	Serial	Feb. 7
Roaring Adventure (Jack Hoxie)	Western	Feb 14	4,800
Sir Walter Raleigh	Hysterical Histy.	Feb. 14	1,000
Taming the East (Messinger)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Tempest Cody's Man Hunt (Walcamp)	Western series	Feb. 21	2,000
Seeing Red (Billy Sullivan)	Cowboy drama	Feb. 21	2,000
Lost Chord (Bert Roach)	Comedy	Feb. 21	1,000
Nobody's Sweetheart (Wanda Wiley)	Century comedy	Feb. 21	2,000
Itching for Revenge (Eddie Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Kicked About (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Puzzled by Crosswords (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Olympic Games	Hysterical histy.	Mar. 14	1,000
Dangerous Peach (Al Alt)	Century com.	Mar. 14	2,000
Don't Worry (Wanda Wiley)	Century com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Cowpuncher's Comeback	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Storm King	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Both Barrels	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Girl Problem	Sweet 16 com.	Mar. 21	1,000
Headwinds (H. Peters-Patsy R. Miller)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,486
Fighting Terror (Sullivan)	Mustang westn.	Mar. 28	2,000
Powdered Chickens (Edna Marian)	Century com.	Mar. 28	2,000
Tenting Out (Neely Edwards)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000

VITAGRAPH

Between Friends (Tellegen-Nilsson)	Society dr.	Apr. 26	6,936
Virtuous Liars (Allen-Powell)	Society dr.	Apr. 19	5,650
One Law For The Woman (Landis)	Mining camp		6,000
Code of the Wilderness (Bowers Calhoun)	Modern west.	July 12	6,480
Behold This Woman (Rich)	Movie romance	Aug. 2	6,425
Captain Blood (Star Cast)	Sabatini romance	Sep. 20	10,680
Clean Heart or Cruelties of Life	Modern dr.	Sep. 27	7,950
Greater Than Marriage (Tellegen Daw)	Theatre dr.
Beloved Brute (De La Motte)	Melodrama	Nov. 22	6,719
Two Shall Be Born (Novak Harlan)	Drama
Pampered Youth (Landis Calhoun)	Drama	Feb. 21	6,640
Redeeming Sin (Nazimova-Tellegen)	Apache dr.	Jan. 31	6,227
Barree, Son of Kazan	Special
Fearbound (Daw-Welch)	Melodrama	Feb. 14	5,700
Steele of Royal Mounted	Special
In the Garden of Charity	Special
Happy Warrior	Special
Alibi	Special
Road That Led Home	Special
Unknown Story	Special

WARNER BROTHERS

George Washington, Jr. (Barry)	Comedy-drama	Mar. 22	5,674
Daddies (Belasco)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,228
Conductor 1492 (Hines)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,080
Beau Brummel (J. Barrymore)	Romantic drama	Apr. 12	10,930
Broadway After Dark (Menjou)	Comedy-drama	May 31	7,019
Babbitt (all star)	Character drama	July 1	7,900
Being Respectable (all star)	Society drama	Aug. 16	6,040
How to Educate a Wife (star cast)	Society drama		6,000
Her Marriage Vow (all-star)	Society drama		7,100
Cornered (all-star)	Society drama		7,300
Lovers' Lane (all star)	Character drama	Nov. 29	5,100
Tenth Woman (all-star)	Society drama		6,250
Find Your Man (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Oct. 4	7,300
This Woman (Rich)	Society drama	Nov. 1	7,100
Lover of Camille (all-star)	Romantic drama	Nov. 29	7,180
Dark Swan (Prevost Blue-Chadwick)	Drama	Dec. 6	6,800
Narrow Street (D. Devore-Matt Moore)	Light comedy	Jan. 17	6,700
Lighthouse by the Sea (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	6,700
Lost Lady (Irene Rich)	Social drama	Feb. 7	6,700
Broadway Butterfly (Devore-Landis)	Broadway dr.		7,705
On Thin Ice (Moore-Roberts)	Crook drama		7,298
Man Without a Conscience (Rich-Lewis)	Drama		6,850
Recompense (Prevost-Blue)	Society drama		7,480
My Wife and I (Irene Rich)	Domestic dr.		6,700
On Thin Ice (T. Moore-Edith Roberts)	Drama	Mar. 21	7,046
Bridge of Sighs (Dorothy MacKaill)	Pathos dr.	Apr. 4	6,694

MISCELLANEOUS

ARTCLASS PICTURES CORP.

Rough Ridin' (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Apr. 26	4,670
Rarin' to Go (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Aug. 2	5,000
Battling Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 13	4,000
Biff Bang Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 20	4,500
Fast and Fearless (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 27	4,500
Walloping Wallace (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill western	Oct. 11	4,700
Hard Hittin' Hamilton (Buf. Bill, Jr.)	Thrill western	Oct. 18	5,000
Gold and Grit (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.		4,650
Bringing Home the Bacon (Buffalo Bill)	Thrill dr.		4,650
After Six Days	Biblical spec.		10,000
Woman Who Believed (Ann Luther)			5,700
Deerslayer (J. W. Kerrigan)			5,000
On the Go (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Western	Apr. 4	4,825

BANNER PRODUCTIONS

Truth About Women (Hampton)	Society drama	Review.	Feet
Man Without a Heart (Harlan)	Society drama		6,000
Those Who Judge (P. R. Miller)	Society melo.		5,700
Daughters Who Pay (all-star)	Society drama		5,800
Empty Hearts (all-star)	Society drama		5,860

Kind of Picture Oct. 25.. 5,600

C. B. C.

Battling Fool (R. Fairbanks)	Prize fight		4,975
Foolish Virgin (E. Hammerstein)	Social drama		5,900
Price She Paid (A. Rubens)	Marriage dr.		5,957
Fight for Honor (Fairbanks-Novak)	Railroad dr.		4,570
Midnight Express (Hammerstein)	Railroad melo.	Dec. 6	5,967

C. C. BURR

Speed Spook (J. Hines)	Thrill drama	Aug. 30	6,000
Average Woman (Pauline Garon)	Drama	Feb. 9	6,400
Lend Me Your Husband (Kenyon)	Drama		6,700
Youth for Sale (S. Holmquist)	Drama	Oct. 18	6,500
The Early Bird (Hines)	Comedy	Dec. 27	7,000
Cracker Jack (Johnny Hines)	Drama		6,500

CHADWICK PICTURES CORP.

Fire Patrol (all-star)	Melo. of Sea	May 24	6,600
Meddling Women (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Oct. 18	6,400
Painted Flapper (all-star)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,600
I Am the Man (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Nov. 1	7,600
Flattery (Bowers)	Political dr.	Nov. 8	6,000
Tomboy (Devore-Rawlinson)	Melodramatic com.	Jan. 3	6,000
Midnight Girl (Lila Lee)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,300

CRANFIELD & CLARKE

Lily of the Alley (Chrissie White)	Slum drama		6,289
Strangling Threads (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,410
A Soul's Awakening (LeBreton)	Slum drama		5,597
Speak No Evil (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,500
Comin' Thru The Rye (all-star)	Romantic dr.		6,500

DAVIS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Tales of 1,001 Nights (French Cast)	Arabian Nights	Feb. 14	6,800

J. J. FLEMING PROD.

Shackles of Fear (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Trail of Vengeance (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000
Phantom Shadows (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Scarlet and Gold (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000

FRENCH SUBJECT

(American Distributor not announced)

Miracle of the Wolves	Historical dr.	Mar. 7	10,246

GERSON PICTURES CORP.

Too Much Youth (Richard Holt)	Modern drama	Feb. 21	4,800

INDEPENDENT PICTURES CORP.

Border Justice (Bill Cody)	Western dr.	Nov. 8	5,452
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Bootlegging dr.	Nov. 29	4,960
Bill Cody series of eight	Stunt dramas
Baffled (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,940
Bandit Tamer (F. Farnum)	Comedy west.		5,240
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		4,980
Billy, The Kid (F. Farnum)	Western		4,790
Blood and Steel (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		5,000
Calibre 45 (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,950
Courage (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		5,020
In Spider's Web (Alice Dean)	Melodrama		6,000
Moonshine (B. Cody)	Western		4,980
Drug-Store Cowboy (F. Farnum)	Western com.-dr.	Feb. 7	4,356

RAYART

Battling Brewster (Farnum)	15 ep. ser.		6,067
Easy Money (All-Star)	Drama
Butterfly Comedies (Gloria Joy)
Super Speed (Reed Howes)	Automobile com.-dr.	Feb. 7	5,227
Geared to Go (Howes)	Drama		5,117
Right Man (Larkin)	Drama		4,571
Winning a Woman (Perrin-Hill)	Drama		4,865
Getting 'Em Right (Larkin)	Drama		4,669
Snob Buster (Howes)	Drama
Quick Change (Larkin)	Drama
Youths Gambie (Howes)	Drama
Double Fister (Perrin)	Drama

RED SEAL PICTURES CORP.

Peeps Into Puzzle-land (Gem of Screen)	Novelty	Nov. 1	750
Vacation (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
Should a Husband Tell (Gem of Screen)	Gems of screen	Nov. 22	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Nov. 22	2,000
League of Nations (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
The Cure (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Dec. 13	1,000
Zoo's Who's Who (Gem of Screen)	Novelty	Dec. 27	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Jan. 10	1,000
Marvels of Motion (Issue B)	Slow motion nov.	Jan. 17	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Jan. 24	300
Cartoon Factory	Cartoon nov.	Jan. 24	1,000
Mother Goose Land	Cartoon	Jan. 24	1,000
Storm (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Do You Remember	Scenic novelty	Mar. 21	1,000
Animated Hair (Issues R and UU)	Marcus cartoon	Mar. 28	300
Film Facts (Issue D)	Magazine	Mar. 28	1,000
Ko-Ko the Barber (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon novelty	Mar. 28	1,000

RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

Passing of Wolf MacLean (All-Star)	Western melo.	Nov. 29	4,712
Courageous Coward (Jack Meehan)	Western	Dec. 6	4,052

WM. STEINER PROD.

Poison (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 13	5,000
Turned Up (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 27	4,900
Riding Double (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,008
Tucker's Top Hand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,618
Rainbow Rangers (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,982
Perfect Alibi (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,108
Left Hand Brand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,884
Pot Luck Pards (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,927
Virtue's Revolt (Thornton)	Stage melodrama	Oct. 11	5,179
On Probation (Edith Thornton)	Drama	Dec. 13	5,000
Across the Dead Line	Western		5,000
Always Ridin' to Win	Western		5,000
Hidden Menace	Stunt dr.		5,000
Branded a Thief	Western		5,060
Verdict of the Desert	Western		4,745
Valley of Vanishing Men	Western		4,652
Trouble Buster (Leo Maloney)	Western	Feb. 21	5,000

PROJECTION

EDITED BY F. H. RICHARDSON

Foolish Procedure

Recently the editor and friend daughter attended a presentation of a very costly, spectacular photoplay, now running in one of the Forty Second Street theatres, New York City.

This particular photoplay was produced at literally enormous expense. It contains huge mob scenes which leave one gasping in the effort to guess how many thousands of people took part. The photoplay was widely heralded and its sponsors confidently expect it to be a great "hit."

They start it out on Broadway smashing it on the head with an axe.

To my amazement I found this photoplay they had been so very, very careful in producing, projected to the screen from a room actually and literally above the theatre auditorium ceiling——and the projection distance was NOT long either. The angle was so fierce that the front legs had been entirely removed from the Power projector, the cast base front resting directly on the floor of the projection room. The top third of the screen cannot be seen at all from the projection room. The picture was, I think, a bit higher than it was wide. Of course, in order to get even a decent sharpness of focus all over the screen under such a ridiculously absurd projection condition, it was necessary to stop down the projection lens diameter until the screen brilliancy is nothing to brag about.

The distortion of the picture was, of course, terrible, though its sides had been made parallel. The theatre was less than half filled. True, the production is one which has no very powerful appeal, being mostly huge mob scenes (of which we are perhaps a bit tired) and unexciting ancient scenes which are, while quite interesting, still not very amusing. Still, the thing would have had far higher amusement value had it been put on the screen without such huge distortion, with accompanying faults which cannot be overcome where such distortion is present.

Film Break

Another thing. Right smack in the middle of the first half a film broke, and the show stopped for pretty close to half a minute. I was inclined to censure the projectionist until an examination of the program showed them to have been completely snubbed—to have been given no recognition or encouragement to do high class work, except what they might find in the pay envelope—and that was not intended as recognition, for it was exactly the scale the union forced the house to pay, and not one cent more.

On the second page of the program I found the names of almost everybody connected with the picture and the theatre. The names of the projectionists were conspicuous by their absence.

In the name of COMMON DECENCY, why is this done? Every one except the very men responsible for the excellence of the entire reproduction is named. There is nothing right or fair about it. If I were projectionist and such a thing were pulled on me, right then and there the thing would be changed or they would get another man to screen the production, and get him as our good friend the Spaniard says, "muy pronto," too. I am strongly in favor of unions DEMANDING, in their contracts, that where a theatre program is issued, and any portion of the theatre staff except the manager himself be given recognition therein, the projectionists or the Chief Projectionist shall also have his name carried thereon, in an appropriate place, and by "appropriate place" I do NOT mean among the electricians, ushers, etc.

Bluebook School

Question No. 256—Explain exactly what is meant by "arc voltage drop." What does it represent?

Question No. 257—What is meant by "carrying capacity" as applied to an electrical conductor? Just what does it represent? Look out, or you'll stub your toe here.

Question No. 258—Tell us just why it is essential that the motion picture projectionists understand electrical action thoroughly.

Question No. 259—What is necessary to a competent understanding of electrical action.

Question No. 260—Give us your idea as to what electricity is. Here is a chance to display a little originality, and your ability to give rein to constructive imagination.

Screen or Lighting

R. C. McCreery, New Rochelle, New York, buys tickets to a theatre in that city and asks a pertinent question—a most pertinent one indeed from the theatre patron's viewpoint. He says:

"When we (my wife and I) visit — theatre here, we have noticed that when we sit pretty well back in the orchestra it is more difficult to see the picture plainly than when we sit in the balcony and at a greater distance.

"When we sit downstairs, and back, the picture seems blurred, as though seen from a great distance. Upstairs and farther back it is clear, as it should be, and we are able to discern every expression of the actors' faces, much of which latter is lost to us down below. Will you kindly explain to us just why this is?"

The fault might be due to either one of two causes, or to a combination of both. It might be caused by a screen which is not suited to the conditions obtaining in that theatre, or it might be due to wrong procedure in the theatre lighting. I think likely it is that latter.

May Be Lighting

If there are lights in or on the ceiling of the balcony, and they are kept burning during projection, and you only get the effect when seated back of them, then that is surely the answer, without looking further. It may also be that side lights affect the vision when you are seated back far enough. That may be determined by holding something on either side of the face for a moment, so as to cut them off from your vision. If the trouble clears itself, that then is the answer. It may be the orchestra lights, which are more nearly on the line of vision when you are in the orchestra, though I hardly think this is it. Again you may determine the point by eliminating them with a newspaper held about a foot in front of your eyes, at a height just sufficient to cut them off. IT MIGHT BE A COMBINATION OF ALL THESE VARIOUS THINGS.

Someone Remiss

But what, may I ask, is the New Rochelle projectionist doing that he has not discovered this condition, and its cause, and reported it to the manager, with recommendations for the necessary changes to eliminate it? Or if he has, then why has not the manager cleared the trouble up?

If the projectionist has not found the fault, its cause and its remedy, then he is sadly remiss in his duty to the theatre—unless he merely poses as a "machine operator," in which case nothing can, of course, be expected of him beyond merely acting as attendant to the "machine."

Trouble May be With Theatre Lighting

On the whole, I am inclined to think the trouble lies in the theatre lighting, though it is not at all impossible that the screen may also be in some measure at fault. In any event, however, the theatre is a large, fine theatre, and I would certainly suggest that it should have a projectionist who will not overlook such a box office setback as this, or if it has one and his recommendations have been unheeded by the manager, then it should have a manager who will not tolerate such a condition.

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

Your own special Ticket, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon Tickets for Prize Drawings; 5,000 for $7.00. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. All tickets must conform to Government regulation and bear established price of admission and tax paid.

SPECIAL TICKET PRICES

Five Thousand	$3.50
Ten Thousand	6.00
Fifteen Thousand	7.00
Twenty-five Thousand	9.00
Fifty Thousand	12.50
One Hundred Thousand	18.00

National Ticket Co. Shamokin, Pa.

Flicker Chart

John Griffith, in replying to one of the Bluebook School questions, handed us the following on the synchronism of the projector rotating shutter with the alternations of A. C.:

When using a 60 cycle A. C. arc there are 120 light periods and 120 somewhat darker periods in the light source. Each revolution of the rotating shutter means one frame of the film picture projected, hence it would require a projection speed of 225 feet of film per minute to bring a 2-wing shutter into perfect synchronism with the alternations whereas a 3-winger would have to make forty revolution per second to get into perfect synchronism, or a projection speed of 150 feet of film per minute.

We thus see there is no danger of getting the shutter into perfect synchronism with the alternations, but at one half the speed necessary for perfect synchronism we may get it into synchronism with every other alternation, which is in itself bad.

Table Prepared

For the benefit of the men who use A C at the arc I have prepared a table which will show what projection speed to avoid. Believing that a bit of explanation as to exactly what does happen when the shutter gets into synchronism with the alternations may put added meaning into the figures of the tables, I will try to give it.

Let us assume that we are projecting 3 3/4 feet of film per second, and that at that speed the shutter keeps perfect time with the pulsations of the current—one side of the alternations. Of course the result upon the screen would depend entirely upon whether the lens be open at the maximum or the minimum of crater illumination. If the former the screen illumination will be excellent—if the latter it will be poor. But were the shutter to retard speed so as to lose one half a revolution per second, then the screen would have maximum illumination for half a second and the next half it would be very poor. We would thus have two flickers on the screen, one of them invisible because the shutter is rotating too fast and the other, the very slow one, every second.

Nearer Normal Speed

When we get nearer normal speed—20 frames p. s. with two-wing and 30 frames with two-wing—and get into synchronism with every other alternation we get sixty flickers—sixty current and sixty shutter, both together. The other sixty current flickers are cut off by the shutter master blade which is over the lens when they occur. A variation of projection speed either way will produce a slow flicker, or waving effect of the light.

Owing to the fact that the current flicker has less contrast than has the shutter flicker, will disappear at a slower rate than will the shutter flicker, but since the shutter has to travel more slowly to make the current flicker quicker, it is hard to eliminate one without introducing the other. For this reason the man using A. C. at the arc has a very limited projection speed available.

Dope That One Out!

Gosh all hemlock! Dope that out if you can. My headgear is removed with respect. Don't often get a letter that stumps me, but that combination has me woozy. Anyhow the table is submitted for your inspection and comment. If it were submitted by some one in whom my faith was not pretty strong I'd ditch it, but I've always found John's notions, ideas, etc., to be based on fact in things optical, so here goes.

NOTE.—I submitted the following to Griffith, who replied: The table is O. K. It is not the result of an impulse. I studied the problem many times and gave it up, but finally I got the solution which harmonizes with actual practice.

The chart follows: With a 3-wing shutter rotating at the speeds in column No. 1 or a 2-wing shutter rotating at the speeds in Column No. 2, there would be the number of shutter flickers per second shown in Column No. 3, and the number of current flickers shown in Column No. 4.

Col. 1	Col. 2	Col. 3	Col. 4
40	60	120	0
	59	118	2
	58	116	4
38	57	114	6
	56	112	8
	55	110	10
36	54	108	12
	53	106	14
	52	104	16
34	51	102	18
	50	100	20
	49	98	22
32	48	96	24
	47	94	26
	46	92	28
30	45	90	30
	44	88	32
	43	86	34
28	42	84	36
	41	82	38
	40	80	40
26	39	78	36
	38	76	32
	37	74	28
24	36	72	24	A. C. users should avoid these speeds
	36	70	20
	34	68	16
22	33	66	12
	32	64	8
	31	62	4
20	30	60	0
	29	58	4
	28	56	8
18	27	54	12
	26	52	16
	25	50	20
16	24	48	24
	23	46	28
	22	46	32
14	21	42	36
	20	40	40

NOTE—Both flickers are on the screen at the same time.

For example: if the shutter was making 54 flickers per second there would be a slow flicker of 12 per second superimposed upon the other flicker, the slow one would give a waving appearance to the light on the screen.

In view of the fact that projectionists judge speed by revolutions of the projector crank shaft, the following is appended. It means that when the crank shafe revolves at the speed per minute shown in left hand column, the shutter rotates at the SPEED PER SECOND indicated in the right hand column.

60	16	93¾	25
63¾	17	97½	26
67½	18	101¼	27
71¼	19	105	28
75	20	108¾	29
78¾	21	112½	30
82½	22	116¼	31
86¼	23	120	32
90	24

Flicker Problem Serious

This flicker problem is a very serious one to users of A. C. current, especially when they are expected to keep up the speed demanded by the exhibitor who is in competition with other exhibitors using D. C. current. You cannot blame the exhibitor for not understanding a projection problem that not even expert projectionists understood themselves. The solution of this problem has baffled me for a long time. Of course I knew it was due to synchronism, but to explain the effect of synchronism on the screen at different speeds —well, that was something else again.

I would suggest that you read Anglemire's letter again on Page 736, Feb. 14th issue, and your own comments thereon. You say the eye is unable to detect flicker when it is as rapid as 120 per second, which is perfectly true. But if the shutter was only making 119 flickers per second, the light on the screen would pass through two phases of the crater illumination; or, in other words, the current flicker would gain ½ a cycle, equally one dark period and one light period each second. Assuming the start is made when the minimum crater illumination is open to the screen the end of the first half second would find the screen with maximum illumination. At the end of the second half second the screen illumination would be at minimum again, so that we would actually see the one flicker per second instead of 120 flickers per second.

If On the Job

Jessie Lawrence, Projectionist, Lake Placid, New York, says:

Friend Richardson: Have noticed articles in the department on change-over signals. I don't understand why any projectionist should need a change-over signal of any kind. I have two Powers projectors. They have wired glass in the upper magazine doors. Use welded wire reels for projection, and can look right in and see exactly how much film there is at all times. Why, therefore, should I need a change-over signal?

It makes me very angry to find several feet of film utterly ruined by some thoughtless or don't-give-a-hoot MACHINE OPERATOR, as is very often the case when the film reaches me from another theatre. The First National had an excellent plan. It places an opaque trailer at the end of each reel.

Why a Trailer?

And will you tell me of what use this opaque trailer is, insofar as has to do with change-over? Certainly no real projectionist is going to allow it ever to reach his projector aperture while the light is on the screen. It is of value ONLY when through some accident the film runs out before the change-over is made, and I'd hate to be present and hear what Roxy would say to the projectionist who allowed so crude a piece of work to be pulled in the Capitol Theatre, New York City. Of course on a Powers it is possible to watch for the trailer and change when it comes out of the magazine, but few will do that.

You are quite right, insofar as has to do with the man who STAYS PUT where he belongs, beside the projector every second it is working. But the trouble is that very many of them don't and WON'T do that little thing, though it must be noted that in some cases the theatre management requires the projectionist to do rewinding and other things which make it impracticable for the projectionist to thus "stay put." On the whole I don't believe a change-over, such as the one I published a drawing of recently, will do any harm, and it will operate to at least save Mr. Careless from making many a bad break on the screen. Some think it will tend to encourage carelessness. Well, perhaps that is to some extent true, but I have found it best, in projection, as in everything else, not to condemn the thing which has a general good effect—the effect of which is good more times than it is bad, and that is, I think, the situation in this signal matter.

The stays-put man doesn't need it. The man who won't stay put is a condition, not a theory, in projection, as also is the man who can't "stay put" because conditions will not permit of it. My own observation, however, is that for every man who stays constantly beside his projector, attending to his projection 100 per cent, there is at least ten who either can't or WON'T.

Clearance Sale of PEERLESS
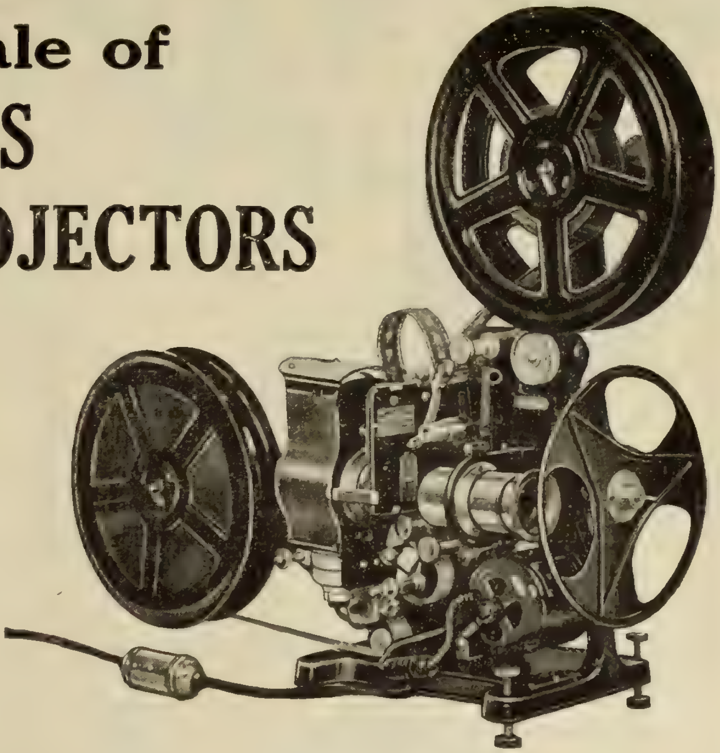
STANDARD PROJECTORS
For Only $100 Each

Formerly sold for $300



In order to devote our entire attention to the narrow width film industry, we shall sell, while they last, Peerless Standard Projectors for one-third of their regular price.

These machines are all new, equipped with our famous eccentric star intermittent movement, having a 60 degree pull-down and balanced shutter—giving flickerless projection at less than normal speed.

Ideally adapted to studio cutting and editing on account of ease in threading, and flickerless projection at low speed.

Folds into smaller space and carrying case, than any other portable projector.

Universal motor, speed control, oil-less bearings, motor rewind and rheostat with ammeter.

Framing mask of one perforation spacing.

IN SUIT CASE
Size 16x13½x8 inches
Weight, 30 lbs.

Pathescope Co. of America, Inc.

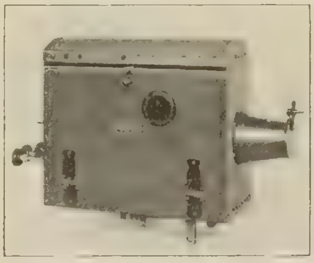
Suite 1838
35 West 42d Street New York, N. Y.

"You want
Phelco!"

Smooth and quiet burning
Bright light
Steady arc
Slow burning rate
Long Condenser life

Charles W. Phellis & Co.
Incorporated
130 West 42nd Street New York
For Canada: Keystone Trading Co., Ltd.,
10 Ste. Sophie Lane, Montreal

SAVE TWO-THIRDS ON CURRENT, 25% ON CARBONS AND GET MUCH BETTER SCREEN ILLUMINATION WITH THE PREDDEY REFLECTOR ARCLAMP.



For any make of Machine. Automatic feed type, $300. Hand feed type, $200. Write for Bulletin. Two of these Lamps may be burned at one time on Rectifier or Small Generator.

Has many valuable features not found in other makes.

WALTER G. PREDDEY
187 Golden Gate Ave. San Francisco, Calif.

Sixteen hundred opera chairs made to sell at $4.00. Company being bankrupt will offer them arranged to fit at $2.75. Also booth asbestos curtain and about 500 yards of government standard battleship linoleum, and complete set of stage scenery and fittings. Get our price on this and save half.

Redington & Co., Scranton, Pa.

WELDED WIRE REELS
For Sale by
Howells Cine Equipment Co.,
740 7th Ave., New York

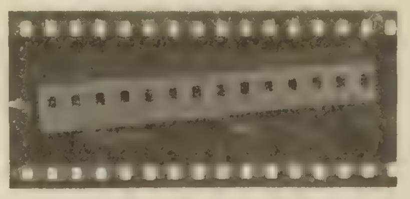
Don't Think So

From Oakland, California, comes the following letter. I am not publishing the name of its writer, because possibly it might not make him any large number of friends. Telling too much cold truth very often does not, you know, please the man whose toes the truth pinches. My own penchant for telling unpleasant TRUTH about individuals who sin against projection, and about organized bodies when they do the same, has "got the goat" of many who object to that sort of procedure, demanding the privilege of keeping their own sins hidden more or less carefully under their own personal bushel. They fail, utterly, to understand the fact that when they commit a sin against projection it is NOT their own individual sin, because it injures other men, as well as the industry we all serve.

Mr. Oakland says:

> Some time ago you said: "What's the matter with the West Coast men that they do not join in on the Bluebook School?"
>
> It is possible the messed samples of change-over signals may be at least a part of the reason for West Coast silence. For myself I know it keeps me pretty busy cutting them out, so that I have that much less time left for study.
>
> Another fault in the proceedings out here is when the OPERATORS double up their programs. If it be an odd number of reels, say a seven-reel feature, the next machine opêrator or Projectionist doesn't know whether to run reel one or seven single, and most of the time it happens that the man does exactly opposite to what the last man did. The trouble is that they cut the film off just behind a sub-title, and when I got them I have to make a new ending, because before the title comes the "end part 2," or whatever it may be shows up.
>
> Just received one of the Eastman books on care of film. Enjoy it just fine. Best regards to the Department and yourself.

Brother Oakland is not very good at expressing his ideas on paper, but I think I have made him out all right. He sends in twenty-five change-over samples, ranging from punch marks to a strip of opaque film three inches long by three eights wide pasted to the film, lengthwise of course, which same it has buckled badly for fully four inches.



Now I don't believe any considerable number of West Coast men perpetrate such crude outrages. As a class, I believe West Coast men are fully up to the average in excellence, and I know West Coast cities have many high class projectionists. True, I have been surprised that such men as Vancouver, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and many other West Coast cities can show have done nothing at all to help in the Bluebook School work, but even so the work is going on, and if they can square their silence with their own conscience, why that is their affair. My remark merely was intended to express my surprise.

Doubling Up

As to the doubling up and wrong separation—for that must be what Brother Oakland means—I think it mostly represents the urgent desire of the man to "get away" at the earliest possible moment—to get the reels separated into their single shipping elements, packed and on their way, for it is late at night, and perhaps "Maizie" awaits His Joblots, or perhaps it is a wife and some kiddies he wants to kiss nighty night.

However, it is very CRUDE work, and work which nothing CAN excuse. It is unfair to every one concerned. The guilty one has no right to presume the exchange will straighten things out, for he should know from experience that the average exchange won't do anything of the sort. I show you the change-over signal I described. The man who did that has absolutely NO business to be in a projection room at all. His methods, if that be a fair sample, are something very much worse than crude.

Good Work

I am in receipt of a letter from Harry E. Reynolds, Projectionist Liberty Theatre, Redlands, California, attached to which is a clipping from the Editorial section of the Redlands daily paper, edited by an ex-California senator.

Reynolds says, in part:

> With regard to the fire at the high school, mentioned in the clipping, the "machine operator" I mention is a lad of fifteen, or maybe sixteen years of age. He was trying to project with an antiquated Edison (Antiquated all right, I'll say.—Ed.) using A. C. at the arc, through a rheostat located immediately below the lower magazine. The fire occurred when, using his own words: "The rewind didn't take up the film."
>
> Just a word about the Bluebook School. Each week I clip out the answers, paste them in a scrap book, and in my spare moments read them over and over. It sure is doing me a world of good. I most earnestly hope you will continue the school. Have both the third and fourth editions of the handbook, and would not be without them. AM TRYING TO EARN THE RIGHT TO CALL MYSELF A PROJECTIONIST.

Projection a Profession

That last sentence is indicative of what the term "Projectionist" has done, and IS doing for a very great number of men. They realize that operating a machine is nothing, but that PROJECTIONIST really stands for something.

As to the clipping, it is in reply to an editorial statement that a law was offered at "this session" of the California legislature providing that no person of less age than 21 years be permitted to project motion pictures in any theatre, church or school. The editor of the paper took exception to the latter, and brother Reynolds answered him in a well written, well argued article. One paragraph reads: "In addition to the fire hazard, there is the ever-present danger to the eyes of the children from lack of expert knowledge of the optics of projection. To be well versed in motion picture projection requires years of study and practical experience, together with good equipment. The mere fact that a youthful "operator" can thread the film into a mechanism, and with good luck, project a picture, offers neither adequate protection as against fire, nor to the eyes of those in the audience."

My compliments to brother Reynolds. Were all the men able and willing to thus jump in and do battle for the profession of motion picture projection there soon would be a different tale to tell.

Stay East

Stay East, young man, stay East! The west coast is at this time over supplied with men. If you go there you probably will NOT obtain employment. Be warned and avoid the probability of a long loaf by avoiding the west coast at the present time.

It's just a matter of comfort

In winter, people can stay home and be comfortable.

But in summer you can cool them—make them far more comfortable with Typhoons than they could be at home.

Doesn't it seem as though summer cooling ought to pay you at least as well as winter heating?—especially since it costs less than heating.

Our Booklet W-5 tells you more.

TYPHOON FAN COMPANY
345 West 39th Street New York
Philadelphia Jacksonville New Orleans Dallas

Dixie Cup Service Also Pays a Profit

If DIXIE Cups and vendors really were an expense the laws prohibiting the common drinking glasses might be a matter of some concern to motion picture theatres.

But since they actually pay a profit there is an added incentive for making available to your audiences this service which they use so constantly and appreciate so much.

The DIXIE penny vendor operates silently — another advantage appreciated by the theatre owner.

Complete information upon request.

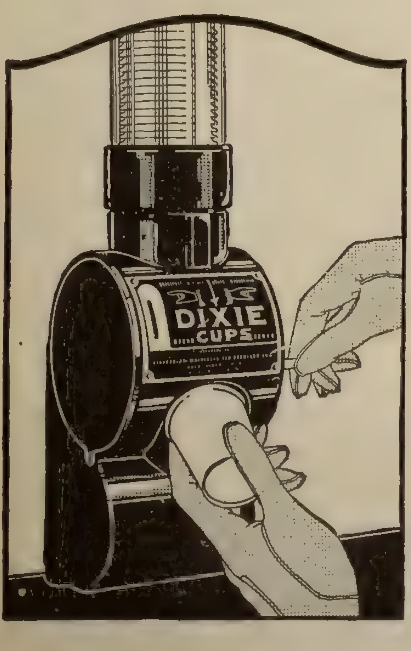
A fresh cup with every drink.

Individual Drinking Cup Co., Inc.

Original Makers of the Paper Cup

EASTON, PA.
NEW YORK, N. Y.

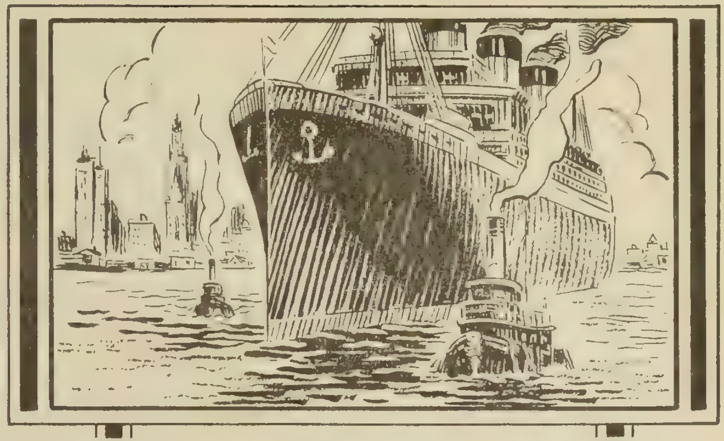
With Branches at Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore, Los Angeles, New York



Nowadays— they drink from

DIXIE INDIVIDUAL CUPS

'SAFETY FIRST'



Certified prints

SAFETY FIRST!

Wise owners take no chances with their investments. Be it a great steamship or valuable negatives, they want expert supervision and the absolute safety of their property.

"CERTIFIED PRINTS" are safe. Every reel is guaranteed to be "the best that can be made!"

The Consolidated Film Industries, Inc.
New York Los Angeles

CONSOLIDATED CERTIFIED PRINTS

Bluebook School—Answers 226 to 230

Question No. 226—Explain the various troubles a stiff splice is apt to cause.

A. L. Fell, Collingswood, New Jersey; C. H. Hanover, Burlington, Iowa; W. C. Budge, Garden City, Long Island; Harold E. Hurlbutt, Oskosh, Wisconsin, Walter Johnson, Champaign, Illinois; G. W. Bennewitz, Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Allie Baron, Lodi, California; F. H. Moore, Taunton, Mass. and W. C. Allbright, Pittsburgh, Pa., all made more or less complete replies to this one. Hanover unquestionably has the best of it. He says:

Stiff splices are apt to cause trouble of several sorts. Of course such a splice will inevitably cause a jump in the screen image, because it is unable to conform to the curvature of the intermittent sprocket perfectly, which has the effect of pulling the individual picture down past the correct aperture register point a distance which will vary according to the width and inflexibilities of the splice. This is because the lifting of the film away from the fact of the sprocket as the splice passes around it has the effect, insofar as the film is concerned, of increasing the sprocket diameter.

Stiff splices, having themselves no flexibility, but having flexible film on either side, cause the film to bend sharply at either edge of the splice, thus setting up tendency to crack and break at these points, especially if the film is rather brittle, as it usually is after considerable use. This sets up a secondary possibility for trouble in that very often there is a break, such as is just described, at the edge of the film, extending in along the edge of the stiff splice for from a quarter to half an inch. This edge may and often does catch on a sprocket idler, with possibility of several feet of film split along its length.

Cause of Marks

Stiff splices are a prolific cause of heavy scratch marks in the film when a film containing such splices is "pulled down" in the process of rewinding. I have myself found heavy longitudinal scratches, from three inches to a foot long, the longer ones almost always near the "front" end of the film. I have nearly always found a stiff splice near the seat of damage, which I have found, upon rewinding the film, to lie directly against the point of damage.

Stiff splices very often cause the film to "jump the sprocket," thus causing the loss of one of the loops—usually the lower because of the pull of the takeup, which aggravates the tendency to do this.

Stiff splices often cause the film to "jump the sprocket" and ride the sprocket teeth for some distance, thus indenting, or even puncturing the film, causing those 'cute' little wriggling things we see apparently crawling up the screen in endless procession.

Stiff splices have cut the fingers of projectionists, machine attendants and girl exchange inspectors badly many times, when they were rewinding and holding the film edges between their fingers. I know of one girl exchange inspector who lost a hand that way. Held film between fingers while rewinding. Stiff splice came along at high speed. Fingers badly cut. Blood poisoning. Cripple for life.

Question No. 227—Tell us just what the effect of scraping a splice too much is apt to be.

All the before named, plus George Thompson, Chillicothe, Missouri, made good, or fairly so, on this one. Bennewitz says:

Scraping a splice too much weakens the film stock in proportion to the amount of celluloid unnecessarily removed, thus inducing tendency to break along the edge of the splice. Excessive scraping also has a tendency to induce buckling in the splice. This is because the scraping is seldom uniform, hence it leaves some parts of the film stock thicker than other parts. The action of the cement upon the thinner parts causes them to shrink more than the thicker parts. This is emphasized by the heat at the projector aperture, so that the net result will, sooner or later, probably be a more or less badly buckled splice.

Question No. 228—Tell us your idea as to scraping the back of the "other end"—the celluloid side—of the film when making a splice.

Bennewitz, Hanover, Fell, Johnson, Hurlbutt, Baron and Thompson all had the right idea as to this matter.

Fell says:

No matter how new the film may be when received by the projectionist, it has passed through the hands of the film exchange inspectors and packers who, according to my own observation, are not half careful enough in handling the films. I have seen new film, in the process of being mounted on reels in exchanges, dragged across a dirty cement floor. It follows that oil or dirt with which it might come into contact would adhere to its new, more or less soft, receptive surface. Naturally some would adhere to the celludoil side also—especially grease or oil.

Film also is handled time after time by men with none too clean hands, and is apt to have oil thrown on its celluloid side in passing through the projector. Cement and dirt or oil do not mix well, therefore it is advisable to scrape the celluloid side LIGHTLY making a splice—just enough to remove all oil and dirt, and to slightly roughen the film stock, but not hard enough to remove any appreciable amount of celluloid.

Question No. 229—Tell us what mis-matched sprocket holes are likely to cause in the way of trouble.

All those I have named seem to have done more or less well on this one. When I say "more or less well," or words to that effect, I do not mean it in the way of criticism, but merely to say that some have done better than others, but that all have replied at least in a fairly satisfactory way.

Hanover says:

Exactly what will happen may depend upon just how the mismatching is done. If it is so done that the film as a whole is left in a straight line, then the sprocket holes will be reduced in size exactly the same amount on both sides, hence the inevitable jump of the screen image will be straight up and down. If the holes be so mismatched that the film as a whole is left crooked, then the jump of the screen image will be a combination of up and down and sidewise. In either event there is sure to be a movement of the picture, as a whole, upon the screen when the mismatched splice passes over the aperture, and probably there will be a slight sidewise movement as the splice passes down through the projector gate and over the aperture.

Other Trouble

Mismatched sprocket holes, aside from the trouble before named, cause, or may cause other trouble. The size of the sprocket holes are, in the very nature of things, reduced, hence they may, and probably will fit tightly on the sprocket teeth. This wedging of the tooth or teeth into the sprocket holes may be so tight that the film cannot "let go" and will be dragged around and wind up on the sprocket, tearing the film in two in the process, of course.

Mismatched sprocket holes very often cause the film to "ride the teeth" of a sprocket, and since this is done under pressure of the sprocket idler spring, a row of indentations are made in the film emulsion, which forever after will show on the screen. When such climbing takes place it is altogether possible that the film will run off the sprocket entirely, the amount of resultant damage depending upon whether the projectionist is "on the job" or not. It not infrequently happens that when this occurs at the upper sprocket, with the upper magazine reel running freely, that the film will ride the sprocket in such way that the teeth hit the film between the sprocket holes, thus straining the holes themselves and setting up a condition under which the picture on the screen will thereafter have movement which that bit of film is being projected.

Mismatched sprocket holes not infrequently cause the loosing of one of the loops, usually the lower one, with ripped sprocket holes and possibly a torn film and the stoppage of the show as a result.

Question No. 230—Name the various important points in making a film splice.

Fell, Bennewitz, Hanover, Moore, Johnson, Hurlbutt and Thompson came through on this question. Bennewitz answers thus:

All points in making a film splice are important they are (1) Cut the film exactly on one frame line and .114 (about 1/8 of an inch) beyond the frame line on the other end if an "in-between-sprocket-holes" splice is being made, or .150 of an inch if an overlapping hole splice is used; (2) scrape the emulsion off the entire surface of the "stub end," without removing an appreciable amount of the film stock; (3) scrape the celluloid side of the other end lightly to remove dirt and grease. (4) use a straighted edge for scraping the stub end, and scrape to a perfectly straight line; (5) apply cement with tip of brush, using one stroke only, since more than that rubs particles of disolved cement up into the cement, which prevents a perfect weld; (6) perfect matching of sprocket holes and the application of even pressure of considerable amount is imperative; (7) leave pressure on splice until welding is completed; (8) wipe splice off with a bit of clean cloth and inspect carefully to be sure it is perfect.

Richardson's
Blue Book of Projection
Is the projectionist's dictionary, a competent guide in time of trouble
Order now from the Chalmers Publishing Co., 516 Fifth Ave., New York.
$6.00 Postage Prepaid.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS
Help and Situations Wanted Only
3c per word per insertion
Minimum charge 60c
Terms, Strictly Cash with Order
Copy must reach us by Tuesday noon to insure publication in that week's issue.

SITUATIONS WANTED

FIRST-CLASS EXPERIENCED ORGANIST desires immediate or future engagement. Accomplished musician. Picture player and soloist of exceptional ability. Union man. Magnificent library. Good instrument essential. Wire or write Arthur Edward Jones, Princess Hotel, Atlantic City, N. J.

PROJECTIONIST and electrician thoroughly experienced on Simplex and Power with any electrical equipment. A-1 reference. Finkel, 5225 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MANAGER - PROJECTIONIST desires permanent position first-class picture house. Age 25; college education, reference as to character, personality, appearance, ability; 12 years' active experience; also card writer. Box 367, M. P. World, N. Y. City.

Genuine COLT, $11.50

F.O.B. PHILA.
Calibre .45
Frontier Model. Single Action. Slightly used. Fine condition. Cartridges, box of 50, $2.
W. STOKES KIRK
1627-GK North 10th St., PHILA., PA.

As Good As

In describing Eastman Positive Film you never have to say, "It's as good as such and such film."

There just isn't any question about the outstanding superior photographic quality of Eastman Film.

And you know when the print is on the genuine — the identification "Eastman" "Kodak" in black letters in the margin tells you.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Colony Installation

It is my purpose to present to you both a verbal and a photographic description of one of the very best, if not, in fact, the best projection installation it has been my privilege to examine up to this time. That statement is made strictly from the viewpoint of an installation which is so designed that it can be made to give pretty close to one hundred per cent. results in effectiveness in motion picture projection, except in the one item —that of projection angle.

True, I have seen larger projection rooms, but this one is large enough. I have seen projection rooms furnished with entirely unnecessary upholstered arm chairs, of which this has none. I have seen projection rooms with a higher ceiling. The ceiling of this one is high enough.

I speak of the projection room and installation of the new Colony Theatre recently erected by B. S. Moss. Its location is on Broadway at Fifty-third street, New York. It is the newest "baby" of the Broadway flock of picture palaces, and certainly it is a beautiful and a healthy "infant."

Charming House

Its interior decorations and furnishings are a rich golden brown, called "Rusk," I believe. I only speak plain truth when I say that the Colony interior is nothing short of charming in its quiet elegance and restful color tone. Its mezzanine promenade reminds one of the well-appointed drawing rooms found in homes of refinement.

The theatre as a whole is, I believe, typical of the gentleman who built it—B. S. Moss. I have only met Mr. Moss personally once, but on that occasion I received the impression that he was the type of man and exhibitor upon which the motion picture industry must depend for its final success.

B. S. MOSS

Projection Installation

But it is of the projection installation I propose to tell you, and that I will now proceed to do, after just a few words concerning Mr. J. DeRosa, Managing Director of the Colony.

Mr. DeRosa is a real theatre MANAGER, in the highest sense of that term. Unless I am in error, his name will be set high up in the column of really successful motion picture theatre managers before the whole story is told. And, mind you, that is no mere "bouquet," either, but a plain statement of what I believe to be plain truth. He "graduated" from the little Cameo Theatre, on Forty-second street, into the Colony, taking the position of Managing Director upon its opening some weeks ago. I feel that I cannot speak too strongly in commendation of either Mr. DeRosa personally, or of the type of theatre manager he represents.

In speaking of the projection installation, first I will voice the only two criticisms I have to make, viz: the projection room location, which is very poor, and unnecessarily so, though that is not the fault of Mr. DeRosa, nor, I think, of Mr. Moss. The room could have been lowered from eight to nine feet, without any material sacrifice in any important item, which would have very greatly improved matters from the projection viewpoint. My other criticism is that the entire projection room is painted a light cream color, which, especially as regards the front wall, is projectionally bad. If it were up to me I would at least have the front wall painted a dark shade of brown or green, with an observation port border of dead, non-gloss black at least one foot wide. Not quite so pretty, true, but much better from the projection viewpoint.

Many Good Points

There, that is out of the way, and now I will tell you about the many good points. To start with, the projection room is reached from the promenade at the top of the balcony, by means of a narrow iron balustraded stair, at the foot of which, inset into the wall, is a neat transparency reading "Projection Room."

Mounting the stairs we enter a small hallway and pass through a doorway into the rewinding room, with its rewinder table and film storage receptacles, with fifteen separately fireproof, gravity closing individual reel compartments, each of which connects directly with a metal flue leading directly to the open air above the roof of the theatre. Any one reel may burn in the film safe, without in the least affecting any other reel, and all the resultant smoke will pass through the flue to the open air, which is a combination hard to beat. The film safe looks exactly like a high class office file, such as is seen in many high grade offices.

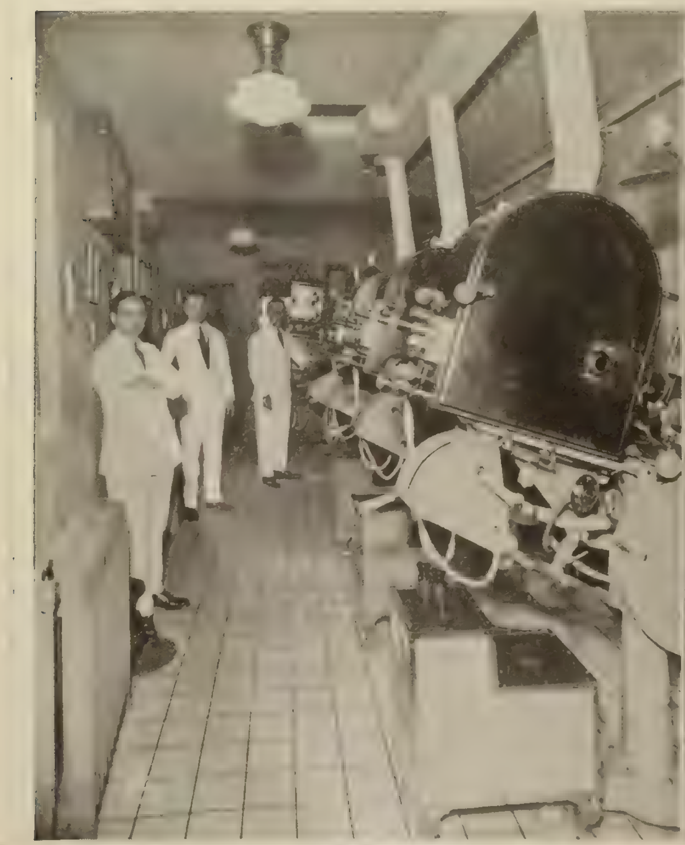

Figure 1

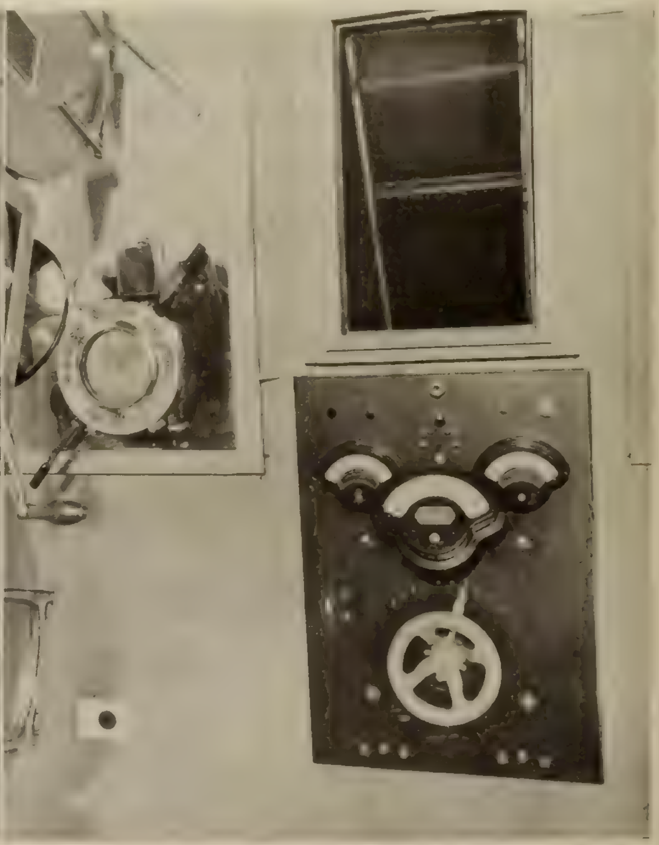

Figure 4

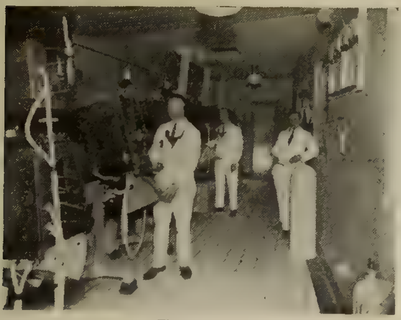

Figure 2

At the right hand end of the rewinder room, as we enter, is the door of the toilet room, in which is the toilet, a basin with running water, a wall cabinet and a towel rack containing towels which are renewed daily by a towel contracting company.

Passing through the rewind room we enter the main projection room through the door seen in Figure 1. Through this door you will see the door of the before-mentioned toilet room.

In figure 1, Chief Projectionist Abe Lang stands next the radiator. Next to him is Projectionist Morris Wolheim, and just under the dimmers is Projectionist Louis Epstein. The two other projectionists, not present when the photograph was taken, are Paul Keisel and John Hilbert.

In figures 1 and 2 (taken from opposite ends of the room) you will take note of the ample vent pipes which connect the three Simplex projector lamphouses with the projection room vent flue, which latter ends in a metal hood above the roof. The under side of the roof forms the projection room ceiling.

Direct Current

The circuits which supply light and power to this section of New York City carry direct current. Six huge multiple coil rheostats, one for each of the three projectors, the two spot lamps and the dissolver (six in all) are located on a platform out under the main auditorium roof in front of the front wall of the projection room, where they are readily accessible for examination or repairs, but where their heat passes out through the main theatre ventilator, and is harmless.

Just over Chief Projectionist Lang's head note the projection room eight-day clock, and beside his face one of the three fire extinguishers hung from the wall.

Over Projectionist Epstein's head you will see a bank of six dimmers. These handle twelve spotlamps, located around the back half of the main auditorium dome. These lamps are readily accessible from the projection room. Each is equipped with a 2,000 watt Mazda. They are used to produce color effects on the stage and in the orchestra pit —all but two of them located at the extreme end of the bank. These two are used to throw colored effects on the huge, elaborate crystal chandelier suspended over the center of the auditorium. And you may take it from me, when two carefully selected colors are projected to this chandelier, each from about fifty or sixty degrees from opposite sides of the center line, it is SOME effect.

Across the ceiling, in the background of figure 1 and the foreground of figure 2, you will see a great number of cords, each of which is marked with a color tag and controlled by one of the handles seen, though rather fuzzily, near the top, in figure 2. Each cord controls the color its tag indicates, so that by pulling down on the handle that color is brought up in front of one of the dome spotlamps, or by releasing the handle it is dropped back, out of the way. By this means the projectionist controls the color effects in the theatre, and runs them in accordance with a carefully prepared cue sheet.

In figure 2 you will note the massive construction of the stereopticon (dissolving) and the two projection room spotlamps. These latter have lenses with an eight-inch free opening. They have a magazine of six colors each, controlled by the cords you see at the back of the lamphouse. Each cord is tagged with the color it controls, and by releasing any one of them the color is dropped in front of the lens. Both the dissolver and the spotlamps are of high grade design and construction. Note the headphones in figure 2. Their use will be explained a bit further along, and you wander - around - the - projection - room-while-the-motor-runs-the-show chaps may be prepared for a shock.

Observation Ports

Figure 3 shows Chief Projectionist Lang seated at one of the observation ports, his hand on the iris which is used to gauge the size of the lens port, or to close it entirely when desired. It also gives you a close-up view of the headphone set, with which I imagine a goodly number of you may, in the not distant future, become quite familiar. I have, times almost without number, warned you to stay beside your projector, WHERE YOU BELONG, while projection is in progress. Now they have found a way of making you do it, and it is a way to which you will be unable to offer any really legitimate objection.

The Big New Stunt

The idea was evolved by Mr. DeRosa, Directing Manager of the Colony. It is his own invention and whether or not you feel friendly toward him for having found a way to compel you to "stay put" where you belong, you cannot but give Mr. DeRosa credit for the cleverness of the idea. It is this:

During the time he is in charge of projection, the projectionist must wear the head phone, one of which is at each projector. When the installation is finished the phone will cover ONLY the right ear of the projectionist, leaving the other free, so that the sound of the projector mechanism may be heard freely, which of course is essential to safety and good projection practice. There is no phone bell attached—no bell or other signal which may be rung to summon the man to the phone. When the manager calls up he has the right to expect an immediate reply to his hello, because the man in immediate charge of projection is expected to wear the head phone CONSTANTLY while on active duty. The manager may call up from any one of several house phones scattered throughout the theatre. If the response to his "Hello" is not immediate, he is going to want to know why—and where the projectionist was, since to wear the phone you have GOT to be and remain beside the projector which is working. The phones connect to a plug in the panel board underneath the observation port of each projector, with a cord of ample length to permit of all movement necessary about the projector, but not to move away from it.

Strong For It

This plan is, of course, for use ONLY where there are two projectionists on duty, in which case each man is off active projection duty half the time. Under that condition I AM STRONG FOR IT. It involves no real hardship because it does nothing more than compel the projectionist to stay where he rightly belongs. Only the man in actual charge of projection is required to wear a phone, I repeat, hence each man is free from it half the time. It means that an iron motor will NOT be left to run the show, but that while projection is in progress one man will be and REMAIN beside the projector.

I am sorry to say that experience has much more than amply proven that many men just simply will NOT remain at the observation port, beside the projector, unless compelled to do it. I am truly sorry to have to say that, but the truth is the truth.

Only yesterday I was in the projection room of a large, high class Broadway theatre where two otherwise really high grade projectionists were on duty. I stood talking to them. I was in front of an observation port where I was able to myself watch the picture. I watched the picture and the projection room clock. Both men talked with me FOR TWO SOLID MINUTES WITHOUT EVEN GLANCING AT THE SCREEN. When I called them down for not themselves watching the screen (we were discussing the head phone stunt, by the way) they, or one of them, at least, defended the practice. Can you beat that?

You cannot raise the objection that the projectionist cannot hear his projector, because it is only necessary to wear a receiver (the left preferably) over one ear.

The Iris

In figure 4 the lens port iris is closed. Such an iris represents up-to-date practice. Just above the iris is a small box containing a part of the electrical equipment of an arrangement which automatically gives the orchestra leader cues for change in music, co-incident with any change in the photoplay action. It is connected directly with the projector. It is a mighty clever invention, but to describe it intelligently would require too much space.

On the wall below the lens port is the connection originally designed for projector motor circuit connection. That was discarded, and it now is used for a trouble lamp connection when such a thing is desired.

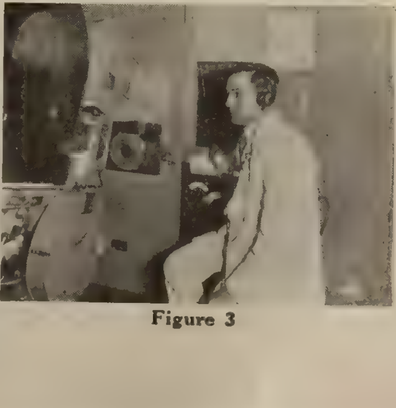

Figure 3

Instrument Panel

Take note of the angled plate glass over the observation port, It is held in a removable iron frame. As to the wall instrument panel, there is one for each projector, of course. Each carries a voltmeter, an ammeter and a speedometer for the projector. The hand wheel under the instruments is the rheostat control, by means of which additional coils may be added, and thus the current value raised (multiple coil rheostats), or coils eliminated, and thus the amperage lowered.

Over the ammeter is a tiny lamp which flashes when a button is pressed on the stage. This is for signaling purposes. Opposite it is a button by means of which the projectionist may flash an answer, or himself signal the stage. The hole in the upper left corner is, as I said, for the head phone connection. Taken as a whole, this is, as I said before, one of the most complete, compact, business-like projection installations I have yet examined.

The entire orchestra of the Colony Theatre—and it is not a small one—is, together with its lights, entirely out of sight of the audience while projection is in progress. When a musical number, either by the orchestra or organ, or by both combined, is on, the platform on which they are seated is raised by hydraulic pressure for a distance of several feet. When the number is finished and projection begins, the platform is dropped down again, thus eliminating the almost universally objectionable orchestra lights.

Graeper's Egyptian Theatre in Portland a House of Beauty

OF all the "type" theatres which are daily becoming more popular, there is none more interesting than the Egyptian style. This was again demonstrated by the recent opening of W. A. Graeper's new Egyptian theatre, at tthe corner of Union Avenue and Russell Street, Portland, Oregon. Mr. Graeper has come very close to perfection in the correctness of detail, coloring and atmosphere of his new house, and the public, quick to recognize its beauty, went forth to spread the word, with the immediate result that people came from all parts of town in their cars, to see the new theatre. There was a lineup night after night, and the parking space was taxed to the uttermost. So much for the accomplishment.

To describe an Egyptian house in detail would be endless. From its outer portals, throughout the entire building however, everything is correct. The building front with its full marquee, attracts attention through its very simplicity. It has a cornice curving outward, richly ornamented with Egyptian symbols and emblems, and atop the gently sloping wall, three large ornamental urns on standards. Above the marquee, which is held up by four massive chains, are three broad windows. The marquee top is ornamented by ten little peaks simulating tiny pyramids. At either end of it is fixed a large electric sign naming the attraction.

Two ornamental poster boards are at either side of the lobby, and three double doors give entrance to the broad foyer, with its gorgeous hexagonal pillars set in double rows, elaborately decorated with bright symbols in great variety of coloring. Tall, lotus like candlesticks in groups of three, furnish an attractive lighting effect, augmented by Egyptian lanterns of intricate design.

Within the auditorium, which is divided by two side aisles, is an air of breadth, given by the slightly curved ceiling, supported by more Eyptian pilasters and a deep border in cove effect, of ornamental plastering painted in a frieze of characteristic design. Aisles are straight as is the balcony front, set well back. Four flood lights in the balcony front are used for additional stage lighting effects for special presentations, etc. The proscenium arch is also square and straight, supported by two more wonderful columns, the stage opening slightly curved at the upper corners. Two deep organ grilles, set off by three pilasters have been effectively decorated to harmonize with the whole.

A large organ is separated from the seats by plush drapes. The ceiling is unbroken even by a lighting fixture and is finished in a stippled effect in soft tones, enhancing the richness of the colorful decorations beneath. Three rows of handsome loge chairs are across the back of the main auditorium. The balcony is also divided into two sections by a cross aisle and plush drapes. At right and left of the concert projection room, are additional balcony seats, which have been framed at the ceiling by short bordered ruffled curtains, and are separated into paneled effect by three brass rods.

Mezzanine rest rooms and general lounge, are severely simple in architecture, with slightly rounded arches, beamed effect, with here and there a rich torchiere, and heavy plain hangings with rich Egyptian borders at the doorways. A few well chosen Egyptian paintings adorn the walls, and here and there a rich pottery vase or jug is placed in complete harmony. Restrooms, stairways, foyer and all aisles, even in the balcony are carpeted with heavily padded rich carpetings in pleasing design. All furniture in rest rooms is reed, upholstered in Egyptian cretonnes. Interior lighting, carpets, drapes, specially designed Heywood-Wakefield theatre chairs throughout, and furniture, were supplied by B. F. Shearer of Portland and Seattle.

Insofar as possible the house is thoroughly fireproof, and has been provided with ample exits as an extra precaution. Mr. Greaper's new Egyptian is one of the Multnomah Theatre houses, and in spite of the fact that it had been opened several months, is still considered the most beautiful surburban Portland theatre. Its fame has spread alike among film folk and fans. The house cost approximately $200,000 and seats 1,100 persons. It is a distinct accomplishment in suburban theatre construction. This ambitious company has about completed a beautiful "Venetian" type house in another suburban district.

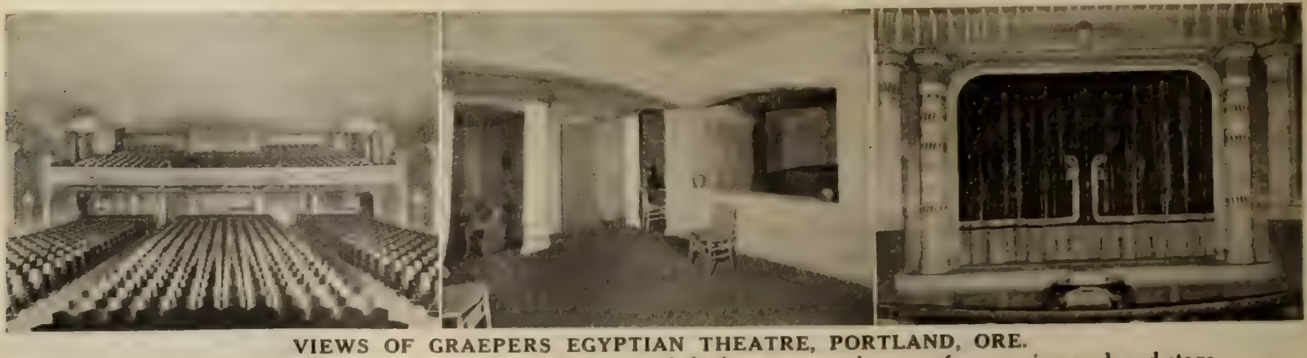
Goebel Makes Booth New Cameo Manager

C. A. Goebel, owner of Isis and Eagle Theatres, has appointed F. A. Booth, formerly of Knoxville, manager of his new Cameo Theatre, of Bristol, Tenn.

Mr. Booth is an experienced man in all phases of the theatre business. He has been in the industry about twelve years, having been at different times manager of all the theatres in Chattanooga. Until recently, he had charge of the vaudeville and legitimate end of the Bijou and Lyric Theatres in Knoxville. It is Mr. Booth's intention, as manager of the local house, to bring the best pictures available. He also intends to have the highest grade road shows and vaudeville presented at intervals.

Mr. Booth's original home is in Kentucky. He is not married. He was elected president of the Shrine Luncheon Club of Knoxville last November. He is a member of the order of Masons, a Knight Templar, a Shriner, Knight of Pythias, Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan, Elks, Rotary and Knights of Maccabees and Arma Grotto.

The new theatre cost about $100,000, and has seating capacity of 1,500.



VIEWS OF GRAEPERS EGYPTIAN THEATRE, PORTLAND, ORE.
Left to right: Interior view of auditorium from stage; corner of ladies' rest room; close-up of proscenium arch and stage

"What hundreds of Exhibitors have been waiting for."

E. H. Behrend
Park Theatre, Corona, L. I.

The NEW Pit Pipe Organ

Enables the "Average Exhibitor" to offer his patrons the highest type of performance at a MINIMUM COST

Write today for New Selling Plan

Robert Morton Organ Co.

New York, 150 W. 46
Chicago, 845 So. Wabash
Los Angeles, 935 So. Olive.
Berkeley, Calif.

GENUINE DEAGAN PERCUSSIONS USED

ROBERT MORTON ORGAN CO.

Send me without obligation full details of your New Selling Plan

Name . . . .
Theatre . . . .
Seating Capacity. . . . .
City and State . . . .

W

Grantland Rice's Sportlights

One Reel, Every Other Week

The lure, the thrill, the beauty and the delights of outdoor sports presented in a new way, and edited by the best-known sporting editor in the country.

Everyone is charmed with them.

Why shouldn't they be? See "Neptune's Nieces," a current release. You'll find it extraordinarily beautiful and interesting.

Produced by J. L. Hawkinson

Pathépicture

TRADE MARK

First in the Field!

Moving Picture WORLD

VOL. 73, No. 7 APRIL 18, 1925 PRICE 25 CENTS

STATE LIBRARY

100,000,000 SCREEN MERGER UNITE
METRO, MAYER, GOLDWYN COMPANI

ALS CONSUMMATED IN NEW YORK AT
OF MOVIE E

65 MILLION FILM
FORMED

METRO-GOLDWYN ME
HAS BEEN COMPLET
00,000 MOVIE

ent Makes Marcus Lo eater Owner in World;
er in New Company.

BIG FILM COMPA

ETRO-GOLDW
MERGER EXCIT ENTIRE INDUS

Amalgamation of Interests Creates Strong Factor in Production, Distribution and Exhibition.

WILL REDUCE OVERHEAD,
MARCUS LO

, COSMOPOL
MAYER IN GIAN
RGER HEAD

Powerful Unit
Marcus Loew and F. J. Go lopment Toward Lowe
Exhibitors

One Year Ago!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in its first year set a record to be proud of. Its pictures are the box-office hits of the year. And wait 'till you see what's coming!

The talk of the industry

Metro-Goldwyn

Member Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.—Will H. Hays, President

Published by CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY 516 FIFTH AVE. NEW YORK CITY

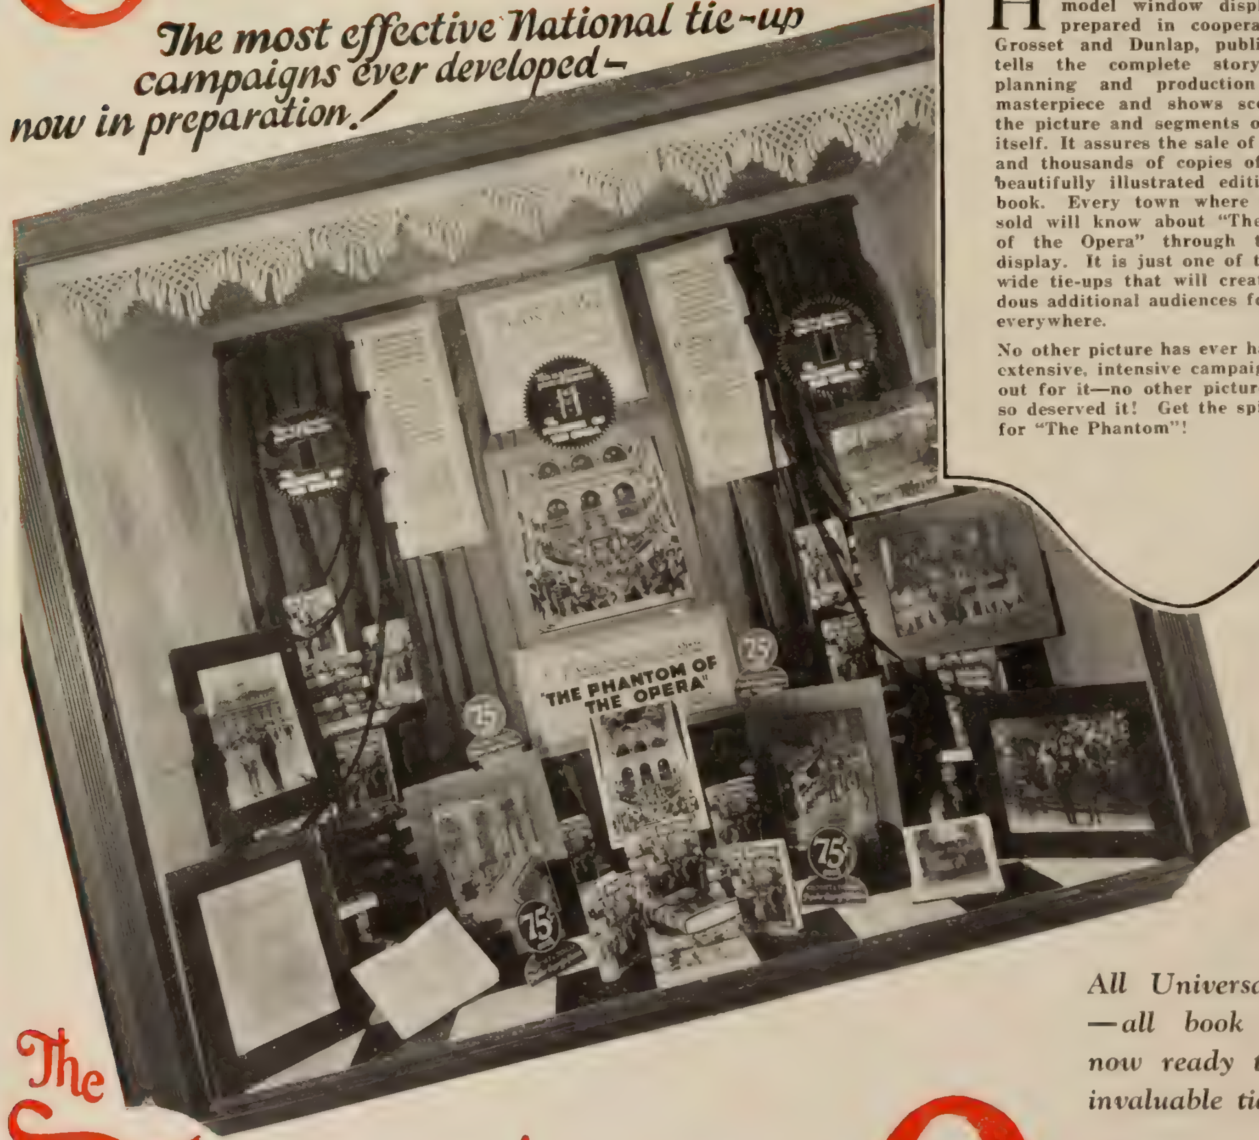
Entered as second class matter June 17, 1906, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Printed weekly. $3 a year.

Exploitation!

The most effective National tie-up campaigns ever developed— now in preparation!

HERE is pictured the special model window display tie-up prepared in cooperation with Grosset and Dunlap, publishers. It tells the complete story of the planning and production of this masterpiece and shows scenes from the picture and segments of the film itself. It assures the sale of thousands and thousands of copies of the new, beautifully illustrated edition of the book. Every town where books are sold will know about "The Phantom of the Opera" through this novel display. It is just one of the nation-wide tie-ups that will create tremendous additional audiences for theatres everywhere.

No other picture has ever had such an extensive, intensive campaign mapped out for it—no other picture has ever so deserved it! Get the spirit—watch for "The Phantom"!



All Universal Exchanges —all book dealers are now ready to effect this invaluable tie-up.

The Phantom of the Opera

LON CHANEY-MARY PHILBIN-NORMAN KERRY-

Directed by Rupert Julian. From the internationally famous story by
GASTON LEROUX

A Universal Production- To be presented by Carl Laemmle

UNIVERSAL HAS THE PICTURES!

Recent Paramount advertisements on "The Ten Commandments" and "Beggar on Horseback" made mention of THE GOLDEN FORTY. In answer to inquiries which the use of the phrase has elicited from exhibitors – is the greatest group of forthcoming new productions ever known in the history of the industry, and will be announced in detail within the next few weeks by

THE GOLDEN 40

Paramount

With this Cast:

ADOLPHE MENJOU
AILEEN PRINGLE
LILLIAN RICH
ANN PENNINGTON
KENNETH McKENNA

With this Story:

Situations suggested by Frederick Lonsdale's brilliant Broadway stage comedy hit, "Aren't We All?" which, after a solid year in New York, is now returning for another run! Adapted by Townsend Martin.

With this Kind of Review:

" 'A Kiss in the Dark' is first and foremost an audience picture. It is a surefire box office attraction. Sprightly, snappy, with fine titling, and is full of laughs."

—Morning Telegraph

How could you possibly fail to clean up with:

"A KISS IN THE DARK"

Frank Tuttle's klean, klever, kiss komedy?

A SECOND FAMOUS 40 Paramount Picture

Member Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.—Will H. Hays, President.

H. C. WITWER

(America's Most Famous Humorist)

SAYS:

"If Will Rogers can write ads for Bull Durham, I can write ads for

The Noiseless Drama

My Countrymen:

My spies tell me that Will Rogers has been seduced into composing ads for Bull Durham.

I know Bull personally—and there's a fellow which has stood for many a roll.

I don't know whether or not Will has ever been rolled but he's been on Broadway so long, I wouldn't be astonished to hear that he had been.

The boys on "Take-'Em Avenue" know no brother!

Well, if Will Rogers can write ads for non-chewing tobacco, there's no law to prevent me from writing ads for the noiseless drama, particularly for one that I had something to do with in a small way. That is, I wrote it.

This exhibition of strength and skill is entitled "THE PACEMAKERS" and is being broadcast by F. B. O. in 12 chapters of youth, beauty, drama, laughs and adventure.

You may remember that F. B. O. filmed and released my "FIGHTING BLOOD" and "TELEPHONE GIRL" stories, incidentally making George O'Hara, Alberta Vaughn, Kit Guard and Al Cooke four box-office aces.

Well, in "THE PACEMAKERS," I sat up nights trying to assemble something new, thrilling and funny. George, Alberta, Kit and Al worked nights before the Camera with the same idea in mind and F. B. O. gave us carte blanche (Russian for "No Limit!") on anything and everything for production.

The result is the best job any of us have turned out yet and I don't mean maybe!

"THE PACEMAKERS" has the thrill of "Fighting Blood," the kick of "The Telephone Girl" and the laughs of "The Go-Getters" all combined in each episode and spiced with its own ingredients.

We all put everything we had in it, and then someone thought of something else. "Fighting Blood," "The Telephone Girl" and "The Go-Getters" were remarkably successful experiments—"The Pacemakers" is the result of those experiments and we're all willing to stand or fall on YOUR verdict on 'em.

If you liked the others, you'll go wild over "THE PACEMAKERS." Get a load of these babies before they're all gone!

Laughingly Yours

H. C. Witwer

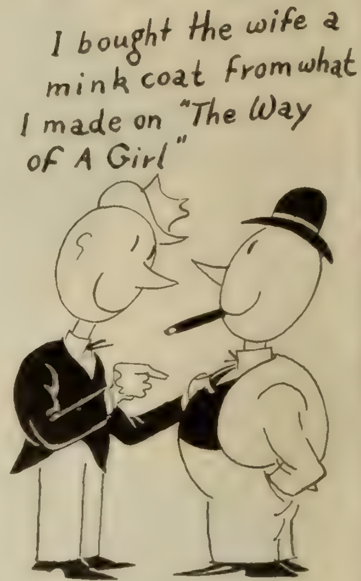
(Note) You Can Get
"THE PACEMAKERS"
Only Thru
FILM BOOKING OFFICES
34 Exchanges in 34 Cities

Thematic music cue sheets available on all our features.

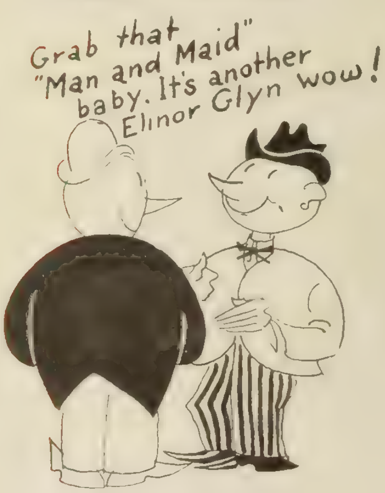
THE TALK OF THE

I cleaned up on "The Great Divide".

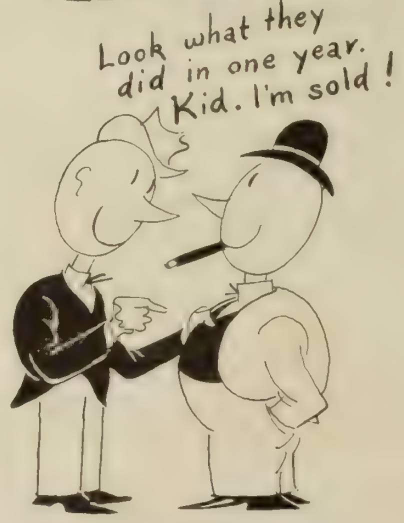
Those Metro-Goldwyn tellers are sure knocking 'em dead.



I bought the wife a mink coat from what I made on "The Way of A Girl"



Grab that "Man and Maid" baby. It's another Elinor Glyn wow!



Look what they did in one year. Kid. I'm sold!

I could have kept "Seven Chances" another week!

When you say John Gilbert you're mentioning money.

No more worry. boy, when you've got a Metro-Goldwyn contract.

Directors? Say those birds know what makes dough.

Information Concerning Territorial Rights Outside of the United States and Canada Can Be Obtained from FOREIGN DEPT., 1540 Broadway, New York City

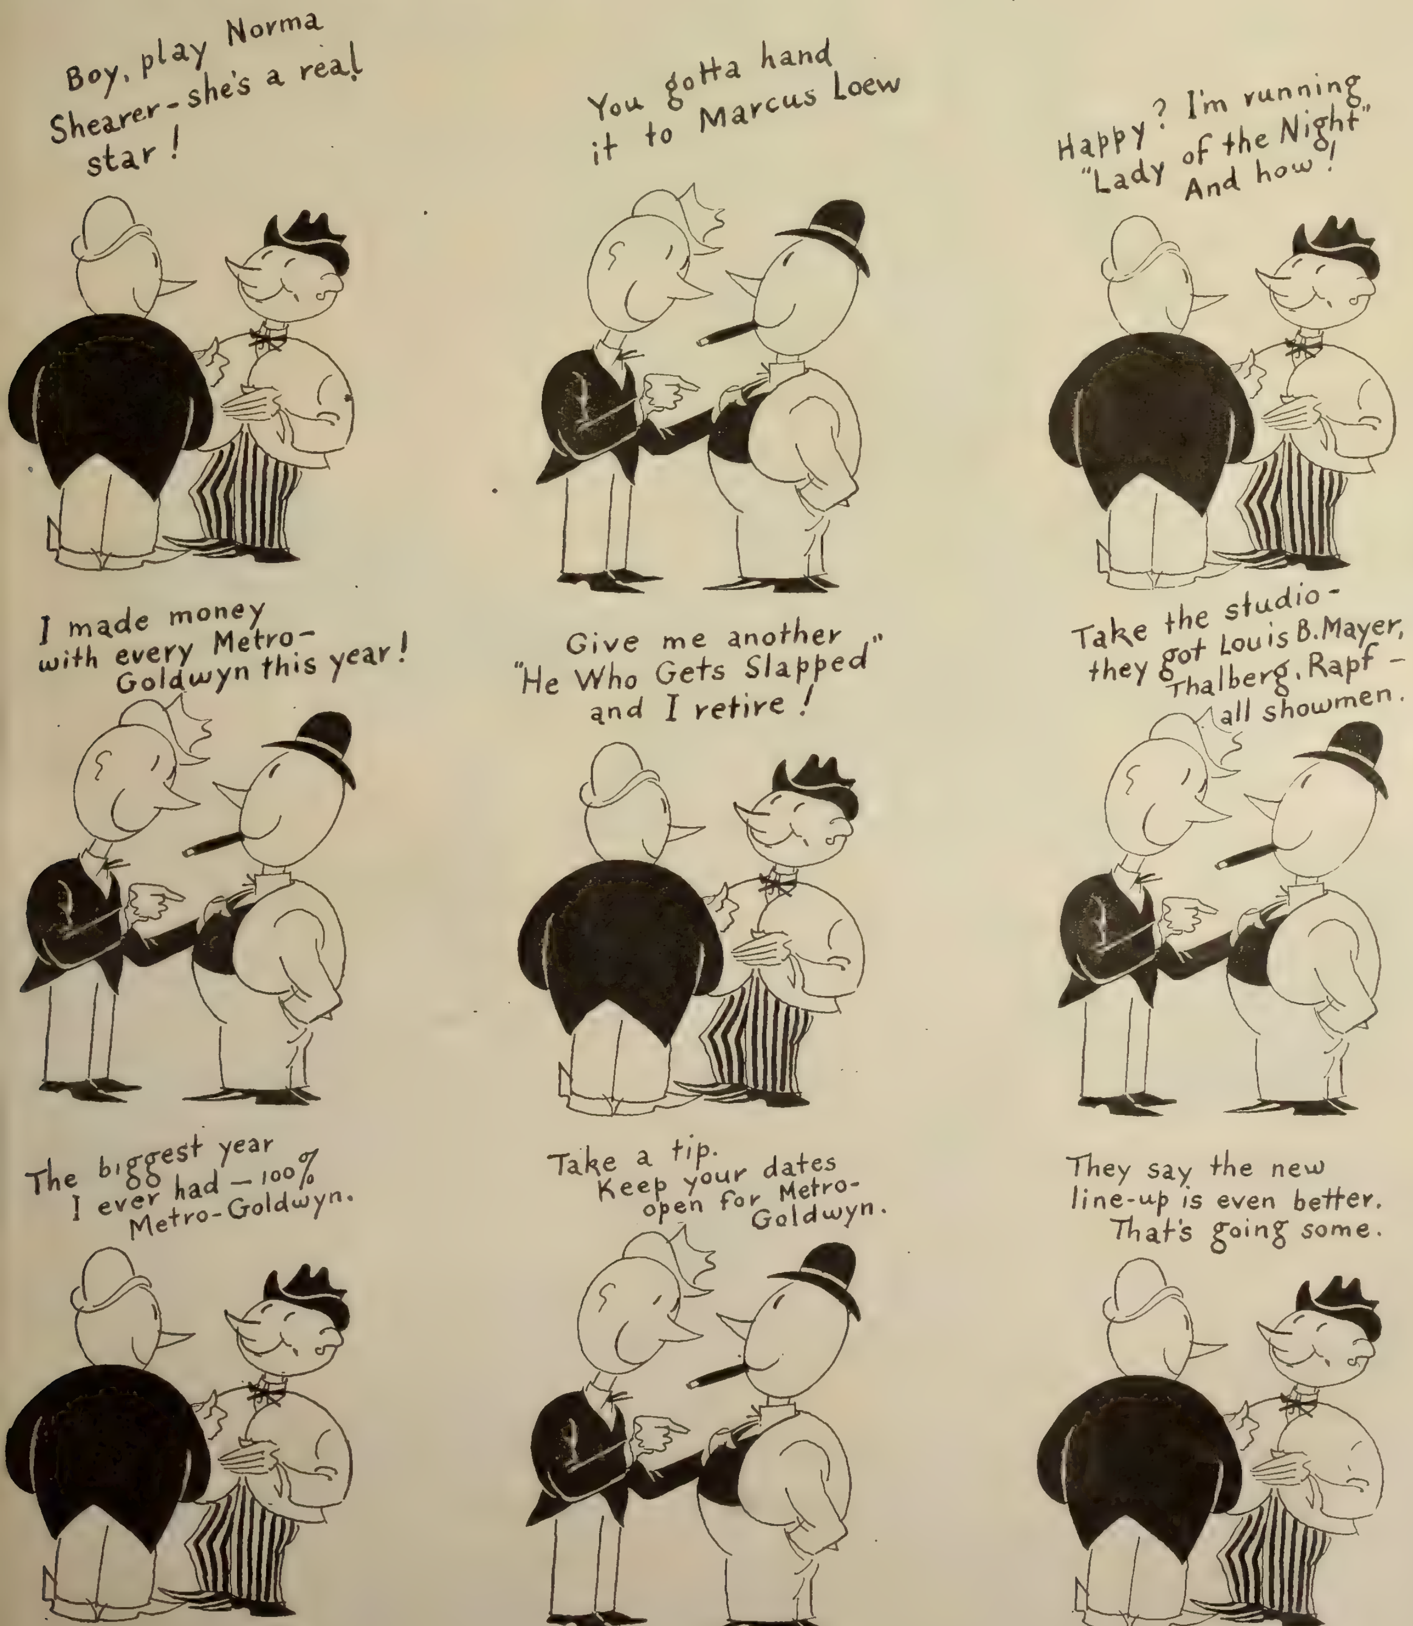
INDUSTRY



Boy, play Norma Shearer - she's a real star!
You gotta hand it to Marcus Loew
Happy? I'm running "Lady of the Night" And how!
I made money with every Metro-Goldwyn this year!
Give me another "He Who Gets Slapped" and I retire!
Take the studio - they got Louis B. Mayer, Thalberg, Rapf - all showmen.
The biggest year I ever had - 100% Metro-Goldwyn.
Take a tip. Keep your dates open for Metro-Goldwyn.
They say the new line-up is even better. That's going some.

Metro Goldwyn

Current Releases

"THE NIGHT HAWK"
"THE LIGHTNING RIDER"
"TIGER THOMPSON"
"ROARING RAILS"
"THE FLAMING FORTIES"
"SOFT SHOES"

HUNT STROMBERG
Personally Supervised Productions

Produced by HUNT STROMBERG CORPORATION
CHARLES R. ROGERS, Treas.

Thousands of wide-awake exhibitors are building up their box-office receipts with these great Careys sensational theatre favorite of the year

— in a new series of four colorful action dramas

"The BAD LANDS"

A smashing, spectacular tale laid in early California with thousands of real Indians. A Super-Thriller.

"Beyond the Border"

A glowing romantic story of the West. Adapted by Harvey Gates from the magazine story "When Smith Meets Smith," by Meredith Davis. Directed by Scott R. Dunlap.

"The Texas Trail"

Here is a cyclonic, melodramatic thriller of the last great West with hard-riding, straight shooting Harry Carey in a great role.

"SILENT SANDERSON"

A gripping tale of the Yukon picturized against gorgeous natural backgrounds in the frozen North, and replete with thrills, love and adventure. Story by Mrs. Kate Corbaley. Directed by Scott R. Dunlap.

FOREIGN DISTRIBUTOR
Wm VOGEL DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Member, Motion Picture Producers and
Distributors of America, Inc.
Will H. Hays, President

Released by

Producers Distributing Corporation

PDC

B. Berger Presents

RICHARD HOLT

In the fourth of the Aristocrat Series

"The CANVAS KISSER"

A DUKE WORNE Production

Produced and Distributed on the Independent Market by
GERSON PICTURES CORP

An Achievement!

B. Berger, General Manager of Gerson Pictures, at present visiting the foremost independent exchanges of the country, has four completed RICHARD HOLT Productions - - You see before you buy!

Completed:
- "TEN DAYS"
- "TOO MUCH YOUTH"
- "GOING THE LIMIT"
- "THE CANVAS KISSER"

And—in this First Series, Now in Work:
- "EASY-GOING GORDON"
- "ONCE IN A LIFETIME"

Foreign Rights Controlled by Richmount Pictures
723 Seventh Avenue, New York

Hold Your Play Dates for F.B.O's

BIG EXPLOITATION
SPECIAL

F.B.O.'s NEW BOX –

"LIL

OF

STRE

with JOHNNIE WALKER, VIRG

OFFICE WALLOP

IES

THE

ETS"

INIA LEE CORBIN - WHEELER OAKMAN AND GREAT CAST!

LILIES OF THE

A dramatic thunderb
ing facts of what happe girls in big cities — — —
Metropolis direct from AC
York's first and world fam
MARY E. HAMILTON — — amazing posters and am

"LILIES OF THE STREETS" is now being
Hold play dates open for the salesman who call

Released May 3RD

Film Boo
723-7th A
Exchang

STREETS

lt --- revealing the shocks to unprotected young filmed in the world's TUAL experiences of New us Policewoman — —
Amazing exploitation —
zing Press Book

Directed by JOSEPH LEVERING

sold by F.B.O. salesmen through the country on you—or wire your nearest F.B.O. Exchange

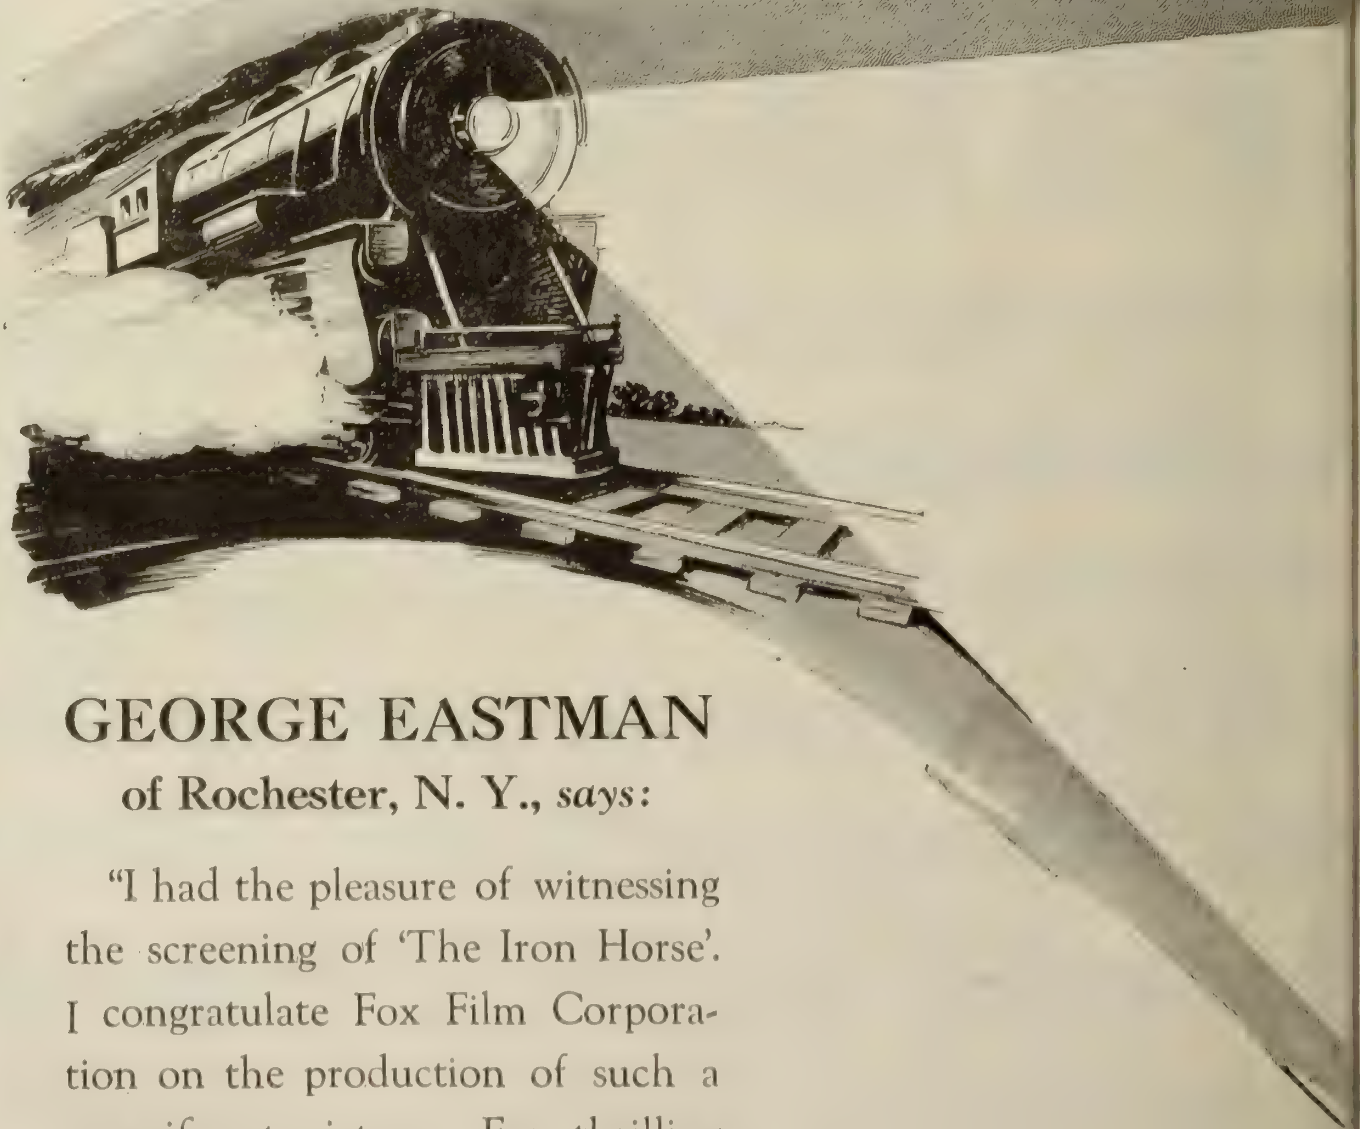
Offices
w York City
34 Cities

Play Dates Open

Blazing the Trail of Love,



GEORGE EASTMAN

of Rochester, N. Y., says:

"I had the pleasure of witnessing the screening of 'The Iron Horse'. I congratulate Fox Film Corporation on the production of such a magnificent picture. For thrilling interest and beauty of photography it stands at the very top."

FOX FILM CORPORATION

Courage and Civilization

WILLIAM FOX presents

THE IRON HORSE

Now in its

3rd CAPACITY MONTH

at

GRAUMAN'S EGYPTIAN THEATRE

Hollywood, California

2 Performances Daily

at $1.50 and $1.00

FOX FILM CORPORATION

One

WILLIAM FOX
presents

in GOLD

For IMMEDIATE

A thrilling drama of the Golden West~

FOX FILM CORPORATION

Smashing Hit after Another

BUCK JONES

and the GIRL

1925–26

RELEASE

Next season Buck Jones will appear in All~Western stories

Coming Soon

HEARTS and SPURS

with

BUCK JONES

From the Novel

THE OUTLAW

by JACKSON GREGORY

FOX FILM CORPORATION

Cameo
COMEDIES

WHEN his feature is long—when for any reason his program calls for a one-reel comedy full of snap and vigor, full of laughs and thrills, full of fast rough-and-tumble action—every showman who has once tried them just naturally turns to CAMEO COMEDIES.

THREE years of outstanding success explains the great popularity of CAMEO COMEDIES with exhibitors everywhere.

Here are six new CAMEO COMEDIES, featuring CLIFF BOWES and VIRGINIA VANCE, that will send 'em away happy.

"Ship Shape"	"High Hopes"
"Inside Out"	"Welcome Danger"
"Merrymakers"	"Have a Heart"

For foreign rights address
FAR EAST FILM CORPORATION
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

Member, Motion Picture Producers and
Distributors of America, Inc.
Will H. Hays, President

EDUCATIONAL
FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.
E.W. Hammons
President

Educational Pictures
"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Quality-Entertainment vs. Quantity-Footage

William A. Johnston, Editor of Motion Picture News, writes:

"Day in and out and week in and out and to please the millionfold audiences of this broad land, the variety program alone fills this very large order; and a variety program is—and importantly—a matter of short subjects.

". . . . we do suggest this: that the editor of a successful magazine is a good picker of material, that he balances well the tastes of his readers of all ages and degrees, and that variety, but always all around and pleasing variety, is the end he constantly strives for.

"Just so, the clever exhibitor. He doesn't merely throw in his short subjects. He picks them as carefully as his feature, or more so; and he picks each one to get a program of balance. He doesn't make a program to total so many reels, but to total so much entertainment. He is after quality, not quantity, of course. Consequently the short subject figures as importantly as the long; many a time it figures more importantly. . . . .

"We are rather proud of the prediction made so long ago of the increasing importance of the short subject. That importance has come steadily about. It will steadily continue, and increase."

Educational Pictures

"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

THE exhibitor who really wants quality rather than quantity in Short Subjects has a never-failing source of supply in EDUCATIONAL PICTURES. For five years they have been the outstanding leaders of the Short Subject field.

They will continue this leadership next season. You may count on this. All the best of Educational's great brands of comedies and novelties will again be available in 1925-1926 for the Showman who aims to give Entertainment and not footage. And there will be several additions that will be most welcome to exhibitors.

Details of next year's program will be announced in the near future. But "the clever exhibitor" knows now that

Educational Pictures
WILL LEAD THE FIELD

EDUCATIONAL
FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.

E. W. Hammons
President

Member, Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., Will H. Hays, President

Universal's Second White is on the WAIT!

"YOU OWE IT TO YOUR PUBLIC AND YOUR THEATRE to hold your play dates open to look over the pictures being made by all companies and to secure the highest quality entertainment pictures possible. This will only be possible if you will remember how valuable your play dates are. Do not become panicky, do not become stampeded. Do not give up a half interest in your theatre to one of these producer-distributor-exhibitor concerns for nothing, because of fear of not being able to secure quality pictures or of threatened competition. They can't build everywhere and aside from that, there will be a sufficient number of quality pictures made by other concerns to keep you in business and lick this unfair competition, if it does come."

—Writes SYDNEY S. COHEN.

Former President M. P. T. O. A.

JOHN BARRYMORE · · · WILLARD LOUIS · · · · · MARIE PREVOST · ·

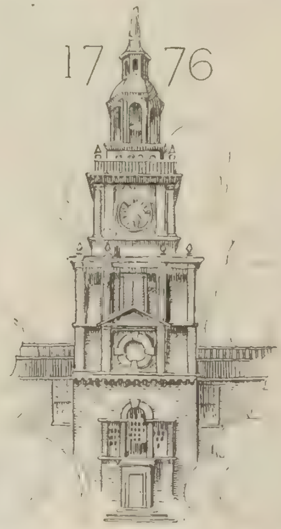
HUNTLY GORDON · · · RIN-TIN-TIN · · · LOUISE FAZENDA · · · SYD CHAPLIN ·

WARNER BROS.

and

Independence

AMERICA was founded on Independence. Independence is our birthright. This birthright we can maintain forever if we value it and have the courage to defend it.



Independence Hall—Dedicated to American Independence

Warner Bros. Studios — Dedicated to the Independence of the Screen

· JUNE MARLOWE · · · JOHN PATRICK · · · DON ALVARADO · · · CLIVE BROOK · ·

LOWELL SHERMAN · · · · MATT MOORE · · · · IRENE RICH

MONTE BLUE · · · PATSY RUTH MILLER · · · KENNETH HARLAN · · · JOHN ROCHE

Courage!

MOTION PICTURES have grown to be one of America's great industries. The continued progress and the future of the industry are dependent largely on the Independent Producer and the Independent Exhibitor—dependent on their courage to stand together to defend their independence.

WARNER BROS. from the beginning had to fight for their independence—for their very existence. Warner Bros. won in this struggle because they always kept a step ahead in the procession of progress—because You, the Independent Exhibitor, recognized a common cause with them and fought your way forward with them.

Warner Bros. have now attained a position where they can give the Exhibitor the best that is produced in motion pictures—give him not only quality but quantity.

Warner Bros. 1925-26 program is the greatest in Warner history—comprising FORTY Screen Classics which have the dramatic talent to assure the biggest audience appeal of any series of pictures yet produced.

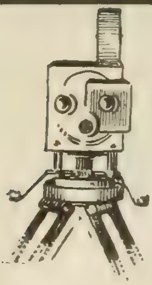
This means that with these 40 matchless Warner Pictures, together with other independent productions, you are in position as never before to make your bookings with absolute freedom and independence. You need be in no undue hurry.

Let us, Mr. Exhibitor, go forward together with courage and confidence. Courage to defend our independence—confidence that the Independents have the winning pictures for 1925-26.

Hold your dates open till you get full details of the famous WARNER FORTY. Wait for the Winners!

WARNER BROS.
Classics of the Screen

DOROTHY DEVORE · · · · JOHN HARRON · · · · GAYNE WHITMAN



CLOSE-UP SAYS:-
"THIS ONE WILL DRAG CROSS-WORD PUZZLERS AND RADIO BUGS AWAY FROM THEIR FAVORITE SPORTS"

"THE HEART OF A SIREN"

ADAPTED BY FREDERIC AND FANNY HATTON FROM FLORENCE REED'S BROADWAY STAGE SUCCESS "HAIL AND FAREWELL"

Phil Rosen, Arthur H. Sawyer and Miss LaMarr

All Sawyer-Lubin Productions Supervised By Arthur H. Sawyer

THE ladies and gentlemen of the press had some nice things to say about "The Heart of a Siren." "Should register as sure fire entertainment, which means that here is a money maker," says Pete Milne, in the N. Y. Telegraph. "It has setting of great color and splendor," according to Quinn Martin, of the N. Y. World. The Post reviewer finds that the story moves rapidly enough and there generally is something to look at, while the N. Y. Bulletin finds "the picture interesting." Says Louella Parsons, in the N. Y. American, "Phil Rosen evidently knows what Miss La Marr's public demands, for he has created a best seller which should be a riot." Tom Waller, in the Moving Picture World, says, "Miss La Marr may be considered to do the finest work of her career in 'The Heart of a Siren,'" and George Pardy, in the Exhibitors' Trade Review, says, "A feature that should bring welcome results at the box office."

A SAWYER-LUBIN PRODUCTION
DIRECTED BY PHIL ROSEN
STARRING
BARBARA LA MARR
AND CONWAY TEARLE

A FIRST NATIONAL PICTURE

You can't kid figures—so we'll let 'em talk!

Facts—not air. Actual PERFORMANCE—figures so conclusive they leave no room for doubt as to who has the best money making pictures.

The Motion Picture News prints, every month, a little section called "The Check-up". Here we find pictures listed with their box office values, as reported by those exhibitors who have played them. Get that! These are based upon what the picture did—not will do.

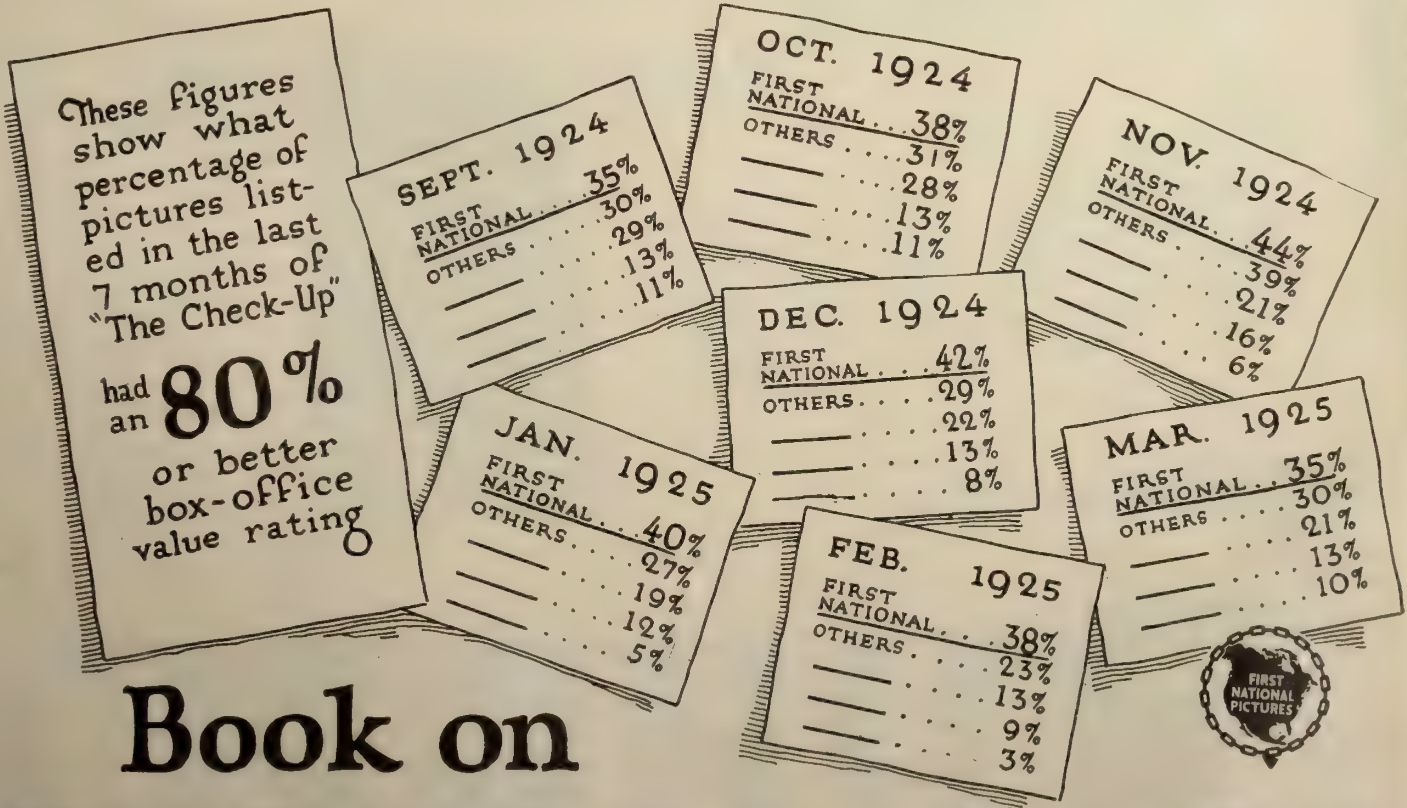
They prove that FIRST NATIONAL releases more big money makers than any other company in the business.



These figures show what percentage of pictures listed in the last 7 months of "The Check-Up" had an 80% or better box-office value rating

SEPT. 1924
FIRST NATIONAL . . . 35%
OTHERS 30%
—— 29%
—— 13%
—— 11%

OCT. 1924
FIRST NATIONAL . . . 38%
OTHERS . . . 31%
—— . . . 28%
—— . . . 13%
—— . . . 11%

NOV. 1924
FIRST NATIONAL . . 44%
OTHERS . . . 39%
—— . . . 21%
—— . . . 16%
—— . . . 6%

DEC. 1924
FIRST NATIONAL . . . 42%
OTHERS . . . 29%
—— . . . 22%
—— . . . 13%
—— . . . 8%

JAN. 1925
FIRST NATIONAL . . 40%
OTHERS . . . 27%
—— . . . 19%
—— . . . 12%
—— . . . 5%

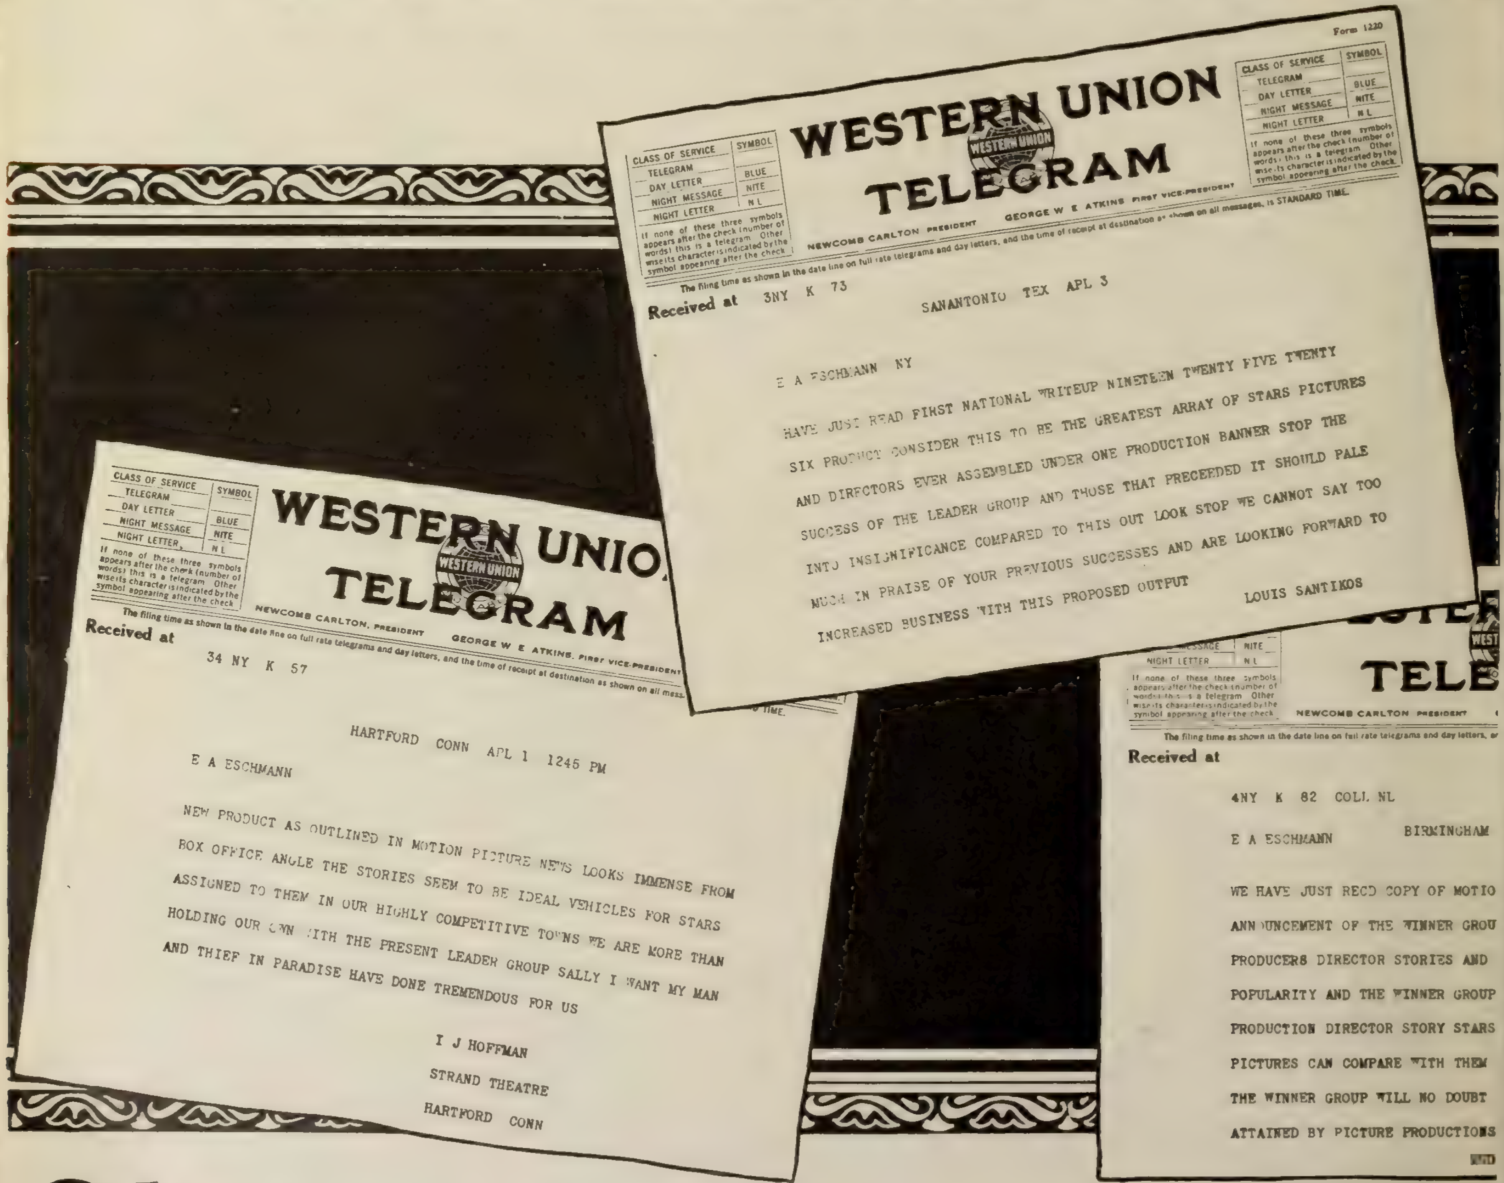
FEB. 1925
FIRST NATIONAL . . 38%
OTHERS . . . 23%
—— . . . 13%
—— . . . 9%
—— . . . 3%

MAR. 1925
FIRST NATIONAL . . 35%
OTHERS . . . 30%
—— . . . 21%
—— . . . 13%
—— . . . 10%

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

Book on PERFORMANCE

"The WINNER GROUP
ever offered exhibi



WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

NEWCOMB CARLTON PRESIDENT GEORGE W E ATKINS FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

Received at 3NY K 73

SANANTONIO TEX APL 3

E A ESCHMANN NY

HAVE JUST READ FIRST NATIONAL WRITEUP NINETEEN TWENTY FIVE TWENTY SIX PRODUCT CONSIDER THIS TO BE THE GREATEST ARRAY OF STARS PICTURES AND DIRECTORS EVER ASSEMBLED UNDER ONE PRODUCTION BANNER STOP THE SUCCESS OF THE LEADER GROUP AND THOSE THAT PRECEEDED IT SHOULD PALE INTO INSIGNIFICANCE COMPARED TO THIS OUT LOOK STOP WE CANNOT SAY TOO MUCH IN PRAISE OF YOUR PREVIOUS SUCCESSES AND ARE LOOKING FORWARD TO INCREASED BUSINESS WITH THIS PROPOSED OUTPUT

LOUIS SANTIKOS

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT GEORGE W E ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

Received at 34 NY K 57

HARTFORD CONN APL 1 1245 PM

E A ESCHMANN

NEW PRODUCT AS OUTLINED IN MOTION PICTURE NEWS LOOKS IMMENSE FROM BOX OFFICE ANGLE THE STORIES SEEM TO BE IDEAL VEHICLES FOR STARS ASSIGNED TO THEM IN OUR HIGHLY COMPETITIVE TOWNS WE ARE MORE THAN HOLDING OUR OWN WITH THE PRESENT LEADER GROUP SALLY I WANT MY MAN AND THIEF IN PARADISE HAVE DONE TREMENDOUS FOR US

I J HOFFMAN
STRAND THEATRE
HARTFORD CONN

TELE

NEWCOMB CARLTON PRESIDENT

Received at

4NY K 82 COLL NL

E A ESCHMANN BIRMINGHAM

WE HAVE JUST RECD COPY OF MOTIO
ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE WINNER GROU
PRODUCERS DIRECTOR STORIES AND POPULARITY AND THE WINNER GROUP
PRODUCTION DIRECTOR STORY STARS
PICTURES CAN COMPARE WITH THEM
THE WINNER GROUP WILL NO DOUBT
ATTAINED BY PICTURE PRODUCTIONS

They're Born of PERFO

First Natic

looks like the biggest buy tors"– say showmen!

CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
TELEGRAM
DAY LETTER	BLUE
NIGHT MESSAGE	NITE
NIGHT LETTER	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a telegram. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

Form 1220

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT GEORGE W E ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

Received at

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

5 NY K 69 NL

ATLANTA GA APL 1

E A ESCHMANN NY

YOUR ANNOUNCEMENT NEXT SEASONS PRODUCT IN NEWS IS A ROYAL
FLUSH WITH STARS STORIES AND DIRECTORS YOU HAVE ANNOUNCED
WE EXPECT TO RAKE IN THE CHIP FOR THE COMING SEASON DID NOT EXPECT YOUR COMING PRODUCT TO EQUAL THIS SEASONS BUT YOU HAVE DEALT THE EXHIBITORS A MONEY GETTING HAND FOR THE COMING SEASON EXTEND MY PERSONAL CONGRATULATIONS TO THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR SUCH A SPLENDID LINE UP OF PICTURES REGARDS

SIG SAMUELS

N UNION
RAM

'GE W E ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

A APL 3

ICTURE NEWS WITH FIRST NATIONAL
IE UNEQUALLED COMBINATION OF
RS IN THE GROUP ASSURES TREMENDOUS
OKS GREAT FROM THE ANGLE OF
D THE BOX OFFICE NO GROUP OF LEADER GROUP TOPPED THEM ALL BUT
CH HEIGHTS OF POPULARITY NOT YET

ND COLLEY AMERICAN CO INC

Form 1220

ESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

CLASS OF SERVICE	SYMBOL
TELEGRAM
DAY LETTER	BLUE
NIGHT MESSAGE	NITE
NIGHT LETTER	N L

If none of these three symbols appears after the check (number of words) this is a telegram. Otherwise its character is indicated by the symbol appearing after the check.

NEWCOMB CARLTON, PRESIDENT GEORGE W E ATKINS, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

The filing time as shown in the date line on full-rate telegrams and day letters, and the time of receipt at destination as shown on all messages, is STANDARD TIME.

Received at

2NY K 53 2

BUFFALO NEWYORK MAR 31

E A ESCHMANN

WE HAVE PLAYED THE PICTURES IN YOUR LEADER GROUP THIS SEASON AND HAVE BEEN VERY WELL SATISFIED WITH THEM FROM YOUR ANNOUNCEMENT IN TRADE PAPERS FOR COMING SEASON TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION STARS
DIRECTORS ETC FEEL SURE YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE THE BEST BOX OFFICE
PICTURES YOU HAVE YET OFFERED TO EXHIBITORS

VINCENT R MCFAUL
SHEAS HIPPODROME

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

RMANCE

nal Pictures

that's why!

Let PERFORMANCE book!

Let your brain guide you when planning your schedules.

When FIRST NATIONAL promises you the biggest series of money makers in the "Winner Group" this industry has ever seen —bear in mind they have always made good by PERFORMANCE.

Those figures on the first page say more than a thousand pages of sales copy because they report results.

"The WINNER GROUP"

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

First National Pictures

The backbone service of the country's finest showmen

Members of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America Inc.—Will Hays President

The
MOVING PICTURE
WORLD
Founded in 1907 by J. P. Chalmers

The Editor's Views

TO Moe Mark, Joseph Plunkett, and Carl Edouard—our congratulations on the occasion of the New York Mark Strand's anniversary celebration.

It would be difficult to over-estimate the very definite part that the pioneering Strand played in the development of the picture industry. The span covered by the Strand's eleven years of life is in very great degree the span of the industry's growth.

The Strand showed the way—and set us aiming at the better pictures and more rounded entertainment that we today accept as the commonplace.

Well do we remember our own first night at the Strand. We viewed "The Spoilers" from a seat in the balcony that made the theatre seem a vast, terrifying auditorium.

"Gosh," we said to our neighbor, "it's a good thing they built the stage big enough to handle opera or legitimate shows. They'll never be able to carry it on pictures alone."

Such is the foresight of editors.

* * *

BUT there were many arguments that a pessimist could marshal to his aid as he contemplated the filling of thirty-two hundred seats fifty-two times a year.

"Where are they going to get the pictures?" he could ask. "In a year they will only find a baker's dozen as big as 'The Spoilers.'" And that is only to be expected. We can't make every picture a big one.

But the Strand and the hundreds of other picture palaces of the new type that followed the pioneer provided the market place for better pictures—and the better pictures came. They provided the newer type of audiences—and the pictures stepped up in intelligence to meet those audiences.

It is difficult to successfully jump back eleven years and think the thoughts we were thinking then. Back to the days when David Griffith was the only one—or so we thought—who could produce pictures worthy of competition at equal prices with the attractions of the spoken drama. Back to the days when subjects of more than two reel length were listed under the heading "Features" in the trade paper release charts. Back to the days when there were any number of men to tell you that picture makers were going crazy on the subject of length.

And then try to realize that eleven years wrought the change.

* * *

WE are on the eve of "the battle of the giants." A battle that is going to be fought in terms of real estate deals, theatre juggling, and production expansion.

The giants are rolling up their sleeves. William Fox, Marcus Loew, Carl Laemmle, Adolph Zukor, R. A. Rowland—the entrants in the tournament certainly give promise of a lively scrap.

Theatre deals make better headlines and get the bulk of the attention. But when you survey the situation closer you'll notice that the giants are giving their personal attention to the real essential—product.

Fox is giving twenty-four hours a day attention to lining up what his associates expect to be the greatest special list he has ever offered; Carl Laemmle's "brief" stay at the studio is lengthened, and then extended again; Dick Rowland never takes his thoughts from production for a moment.

All of which is as it should be. Because, when real estate deals are signed and sealed, and mergers merged, you have to come back to PICTURES to get Mr. and Mrs. Public in. It would be well for any exhibitor to get this thought stronger than ever this year. Don't let the feverish reading of the latest New York deal carry you too far away from show shop fundamentals.

Robert E. Welsh

Moving Picture WORLD

EDITOR - - - - - - - - - - - - - - ROBERT E. WELSH

Published Weekly by CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY, 516 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Telephone: Murray Hill 1610-1-2-3. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. John F. Chalmers, president; James P. Chalmers, Sr., vice-president; Alfred J. Chalmers, vice-president; Eliza J. Chalmers, secretary and treasurer, and Ervin L. Hall, business manager.

Branch Offices: Joseph Esler, 5434 Glenwood Avenue, Chicago; W. E. Keefe, 1312 Stanley Avenue, Hollywood, Cal.

Managing Editor—John A. Archer. Advertising Manager—Ben H. Grimm. Circulation Manager—Dennis J. Shea.

Subscription price: United States and its possessions, Mexico and Cuba, $3.00 a year; Canada, $3.50; foreign countries (postpaid) $10.00 a year. Copyright, 1925, Chalmers Publishing Co. Copyright throughout Great Britain and Colonies, under the provisions of the Copyright Act of 1911. (All rights reserved.)

Other publications: Cine Mundial (Spanish). Technical books.

VOLUME 73 NUMBER 7

To Keep You Posted

Editorial 647
Milwaukee, the Ideal Convention City 649
That Trial by Jury 650
Films Hold Field in Chicago Theatres 651
Saxes Played to 2,537,000 in Year 651
Kansas Vice-President Dies of Heart Failure 651
New Wisconsin Combines Are Wholly Unaffiliated 652
Hays and Detroit Film Board Plan New Distributing Depot 653
West Coast Chain Is Building New Houses in California 653
Paper Cup Companies Charge Another with Infringing Patents 653
M. P. T. O. of Missouri and Illinois Elects Watts at Third Convention 654
Lillian Gish Wins; Duell Charged with Perjury 654
Universal Buys Hostettler's Big Circuit of 35 Theatres 655
Strand Theatre Anniversary Section 661
Tom Mix Lassoes New York's Esteem, Then Sails on World Tour 680
Exhibitors' News and Views 683
Projection 721

To Sell Your Seats

Selling the Picture to the Public (Department) 668
What the Public Library Gains from Film Co-operation 668
Special Block Paper for The Lost World 670
Production Hints from Edward L. Hyman 670
Made Science Talk Presswork Tornado 672
Faked a Tornado for a Lobby Stunt 673

To Aid Your Bookings

The First Run 656
Reviews 676
Pep of the Program 679
Mack Sennett Perfects Plans; Hal Roach's Huge Program for Pathe 682
Straight from the Shoulder Reports 689
Producers Distributing Marshalling Hollywood Forces for Biggest Year 704
Forty Profit-Making Pictures on Warner's Program 712
Current and Advance Releases 716

First in the Field!

4 out of every 5 motion picture theatres in the United States are reached by a copy of MOVING PICTURE WORLD!

Milwaukee—The Ideal Convention City

By
Jack M. Stenbuck

WHAT to expect in Milwaukee———

That's what approximately 1,500 exhibitors from all corners of this country and a few from across the Atlantic are speculating on as they prepare to pack their grips for the annual convention of the M. P. T. O. of American in the Cream City on May 12, 13 and 14.

To most of them the mention of Milwaukee brings to mind only a picture of a city famous in pre-war days for its lager beer and a place where exhibitors have a reputation of being exceptionally well organized.

Milwaukee as it really is and what it will offer to the visiting showman is best told, however, by a little geographical study and by consideration of the convention plans being laid by committees of the M. P. T. O. of Wisconsin.

First thought, of course, must be given to facilities in the way of convention halls. In this respect Milwaukee takes a back seat for no other city. The municipal auditorium, scene of the gatherings, is recognized as the finest building of its kind in the country.

Covering an entire block, the auditorium has been chosen for some of the greatest convention ever held in America and has been one of the most important factors in placing Milwaukee at the head of the list of convention cities. Only a few blocks removed from the heart of the downtown section, it is within easy walking distance from all the leading hotels, depots and places of amusement.

For the general sessions of exhibitors, Plankinton hall, the largest of all halls in the building except the main arena, has been obtained. This will seat approximately 1,500.

One of the advantages offered by the large building lies in the fact that three adjoining halls are available for equipment dealers who meet simultaneously with exhibitors. Thus, both branches of the industry, so closely related, will be under the same roof with the exhibits of the equipment men occupying two halls. Disagreeable chasing from one end of the city to another to view displays, which sometimes has been necessary at past conventions in other cities, will be eliminated.

The local committees, too, have arranged for the use of several smaller rooms leading off of Plankinton hall which will be ideal for conferences and committee meetings.

The Wisconsin Hotel, with its 500 rooms, has been chosen as national headquarters and the gathering place for the eastern delegations. This hotel is 12 stories high and is located on Third street, a half block north of Grand avenue, the city's principal thoroughfare. It is only three blocks from the auditorium.

The Pfister, Plankinton, Medford, Antlers, Martin, McCoy, Maryland, Republican and Gilpatrick are other leading hotels which offer rooms at prices within popular reach.

Milwaukee being only 88 miles—a two hour ride—from Chicago, the question of suitable railroad connections is immediately answered. For those who will plan their route through Chicago, there will be the choice of leaving the Windy City via the Chicago and Northwestern, or the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul steam roads; the Chicago, Milwaukee and North Shore electric line, or the Goodrich lake boats. With the convention scheduled for a time of the year when Lake Michigan is at its best, it is certain that many exhibitors will take advantage of the steamer route.

Undoubtedly many of the visiting delegates, especially those from Chicago, will arrive via auto. For these, two drives are possible. One follows highway 42 out of the city and leads through Waukegan and Zion City, Ill., to the state line via the Sheridan road, and highways 15 and 17 through Kenosha, and Racine, Wis. The other leads through Milwaukee avenue out of Chicago, and takes highway 42-A to Waukegan, from where autoists take highways 15 and 17 to Milwaukee.

As regards entertainment, the local committee, headed by E. W. Van Norman, of the Parkway Theatre, has already made elaborate plans.

To Hold Banquet in Gimbel's Grill

First, it has been definitely decided to hold the annual banquet in Gimbel Bros. grill on the night of May 13. The grill, located on the top floor of the department store, can accommodate approximately 1,400. It adjoins the Milwaukee river and through its glass walls on all sides commands a view of beautiful Lake Michigan, a few blocks away, as well as the entire city.

According to Van Norman, invitations will be extended to John J. Blaine, governor of Wisconsin, and D. W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, to address the gathering.

On the night of the 14th, it is planned to hold a monster ball at the Wisconsin Theatre Roof Garden, the spacious and magnificent dance floor being placed at the service of exhibitors through the courtesy of its owner, Thomas Saxe, veteran Milwaukee showman.

For the golf bugs, who cannot refrain from a few rounds even in the heat of conventions, there are excellent public courses at Lake, Lincoln and Grant parks.

Wisconsin is a veritable network of bus lines and the short trips to various beauty spots, which the lines running out of Milwaukee offer, are well worth taking.

Henry Staab, executive secretary of the Wisconsin M. P. T. O., at present is working on a plan to lead a post convention caravan of motoring exhibitors through a tour of the most popular beauty spots in the state immediately after the gathering closes.

SCENE OF THE 1925 M. P. T. O. CONVENTION

That Trial by Screen Jury

By
Dewey Bloom
of Associated Pictures Corporation

IN EVERY line of endeavor there are great moments, occasions when a verdict is to be passed upon months of careful thought and endeavor. The composer's thrilling moment is when his symphony is played for the first time in public; the artist's, when his painting is hung for critical approval; the shipbuilder's, when the vessel leaves the ways and rides the waves.

There is still another great moment fraught with equal if not greater intensity. This is the initial screening of a feature motion picture into which has gone the combined creative effort of many people and thousands of dollars of investors' money. We mean the screening before executives, not for newspaper and magazine reviewing.

Everyone has discounted the invariably optimistic reports from the studio during the production of the picture. They know that it is human and considered good business to verbally sell one's ability. What really counts is the verdict in the projection room on the day the picture is screened. And today is the day.

The entire organizations wears an air of quiet expectancy. The edict has gone forth that at 2:30 p. m. the heads of the different departments will witness the newest creation. Even the stenographers and office boys are sober and subdued, for upon the result of the screening will depend the mood of their lords and masters during the days to come.

We wonder if the story is true that when we reach the heavenly gates St. Peter will spread before us the record of our lives, and weighing the good with the bad, determine whether our achievements merit reward or punishment and thus decide our future dwelling place and vocation. If this is true, we imagine that the solemn occasion will resemble, in some ways, this flashing upon a tiny screen of what the makers of the motion picture have accomplished. Will the verdict be: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant?"

The scene is, for example, the projection room of First National Pictures, Inc. It is nearing 2:30 o'clock. Singly, or in pairs, the invited audience appears, until the little rectangular room is somewhat crowded. There is a little quiet talking; then the lights go out, there is a preliminary whirr and as the audience settles back into their chairs, the curtain comes to life and they read, "First National Pictures present Barbara La Marr in 'Heart of a Temptress,' adapted from the stage play 'Hail and Farewell,' a Sawyer-Lubin production, directed by Phil Rosen."

All the chairs being occupied—there are never sufficient chairs—a few more are brought in for late comers, a tardier guests line themselves along the sides of the room, all trying to look comfortable and unconcerned, although they are about to see the product of their combined energies for the last few months flashed on the canvas before them, while the mighty sit in judgment on their work.

No one is allowed in the room who is not directly concerned with the picture being screened. None are there to be entertained. It is purely a business conference and those assembled watch the picture from the angle that is of the greatest interest to them. The scenario writers are watching what the director has done to their continuity, the publicity men are looking for what the picture offers in the way of exploitation, members of the business staff are visualizing their selling points on the production, accountants are figuring costs in proportion to effects obtained, the art director decides whether the camera has done full justice to his work, the casting director is judging the work of the individuals he employed, and so on down, or rather, up the line to the chairman, who is, no doubt, figuring whether this picture will enable his company to declare the extra dividend he is hoping to present the shareholders in the near future.

Several of those present are seated at small desks, placed in the rear of the room, and from time to time make notations of certain points they are unwilling to trust to memory. There is no orchestra or music of any kind. The picture must stand or fall solely on its merits, and the audience, all other nominations to the contrary, is "the hardest in the world." Here are the workmen, who planned and built the picture, as well as those who provided the wherewithal, and they are their own and each other's severest critics.

Excepting for the busy hum of the projection machine, as reel after reel of the photoplay is unfolded, and the scraping of a match, with the consequent flare in the murky darkness, when someone lights a cigarette, there is silence, which is only shattered when a voice from the rear notifies an official of an urgent telephone call and there is a slight disturbance as he leaves to answer it.

The extreme tenseness is occasionally relieved by laughter when a comedy scene gets over very well; there is an occasional gasp at some audacious scene or elaborate setting; but these involuntary expressions are soon stifled by the perpetrators and the solemnity of the occasion is seldom disturbed by remarks of any kind.

Then, of a sudden, the final close-up and, simultaneous with the last foot of film, lights are switched on, the room is cleared almost instantly. Minor executives make a bee line for their desks and routine tasks, while the executives adjourn to discuss their newest contribution to the art of the photoplay and decide who shall be blamed for shortcomings and who shall be praised for excellences. The latter are sometimes overlooked; the former never.

Aid From An Exhibitor

Editor Moving Picture World,

Dear Sir:—I want to thank you for the extra copies of the World containing my little article on "How One Small Towner Does It" and I am indeed glad to be able to send anything that may be of benefit to some other exhibitor.

The fault of one exhibitor is often times the fault of many of us, so articles direct from the exhibitor stating the plain truth I think are valuable to us all.

If at any time I can contribute anything to make the World a better medium of service to the exhibitor I am more than willing to do so and stand ready to give all I can toward bettering exhibitor conditions.

From time to time I will endeavor to send you articles that I think will be of general interest to us all and which will contain information I have obtained through years of close study of conditions pertaining to small town exhibition.

Again thanking you for the copies of the World and assuring you that it is my sincere desire to see the World dominate the industry.

Yours very truly,
L. O. DAVIS.

Films Hold Field in Chicago Theatres

Jack Miller, business manager of the Chicago Exhibitors' Association, says that in 1921 Chicago had 385 moving picture theatres and combination houses, of which 376 were exclusive picture theatres. Last year this had dropped to 308 theatres showing pictures exclusively and 26 houses playing both vaudeville and pictures. The decrease has occurred in houses of less than 2,500 seats and exclusive pictures theatres. Of the 334 houses doing business this year, more than 250 are members of the association. His report does not include houses opened since the first of the year, such as the Jeffrey, the Capitol and a few other smaller houses.

The seating capacity of the theatres of the city, according to his report showing pictures and mixed bills, is in excess of 250,000, while the regular vaudeville houses report 6,100 seats, the burlesque houses 6,450 seats and the legitimate theatres, of which there are 18 houses, have only 22,570 seating capacity.

Great Lenten Business

The old bugaboo that the Lenten season invariably brings a slump to the motion picture theatre has been dispelled in Albany, Troy and other places in this section of the state, during the past month, when business has not only been up to par, but in some instances has ranked as the equal of the best weeks of the winter. Instead of playing second rate pictures on the assumption that business would be slack anyway, the up-to-date exhibitors in these cities have been showing some of the biggest and best pictures of the year with gratifying results.

NEW VITAGRAPH COMPTROLLER

Announcement was made this week of the promotion of Walter Bonyun to be Comptroller of Vitagraph Co. Mr. Bonyun has been with the Vitagraph Company of America for about twenty years and has filled the post of auditor for some time past.

Saxe's Played to 2,537,000 in Year

Bringing its first year to a close with a record of having played to approximately 2,537,000 patrons, Saxe's Wisconsin observed its birthday week by attracting the greatest crowds in its history.

Featuring twelve high class stage numbers brought to Milwaukee by E. J. Weisfeldt, director of production, at great expense, in addition to its usual program, the theatre was so jammed for all performances that for the first time since opening week the 3,500-seat auditorium and exceptionally large lobby were unable to hold the crowds and lines were formed on the sidewalk.

JAMES WATSON

Kansas Vice-President Dies of Heart Disease

James Watson, vice-president of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri and owner of the Benton theatre, Kansas City, died suddenly of heart disease on April 2 at his home, 631 Benton boulevard. Watson was one of the most widely known exhibitors in the Kansas City territory and was a tireless worker in the M. P. T. O. K-M.

Having made a marked success of the Benton theatre, one of the leading suburban houses, Watson soon was to have taken charge of a new theatre, now under construction at Independence and Prospect avenues, Kansas City. He was a former golf professional at Mission Hills Golf Club, Kansas City, and was known to thousands in that sport. He had been owner of the Benton theatre four years, developing the house up to a standard where it was regarded as one of the best money makers in the city. Watson, who was 46 years old, came to America 19 years ago from Dundee, Scotland. He had lived in Kansas City twelve years.

Distributor Ginsberg Opens European Depot

Jeffrey Bernerd, formerly managing director of Stoll Film Company, one of the largest film organizations in Great Britain, will become exclusive European representative of the Henry Ginsberg Distributing Corporation with headquarters in London. Negotiations which have been pending for the past few weeks between Ginsberg, president of the Ginsberg Distributing Corporation, and Bernerd, came to a successful conclusion this week, Bernerd sailing on the Aquitania to establish offices and get his European organization under way.

Bernerd was the founder of the Stoll Film Company seven years ago and during his regime built up the company to the largest British organization. His experience dates back a matter of fifteen years, when he was associated with some of the pioneer producing companies of this country.

Coming and Going

Robert Lieber, President of First National Pictures, Inc., is expected to arrive home from a five weeks' trip to Europe on April 10th.

Al Christie and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Vernon left Los Angeles this week for New York and Boston.

E. Bruce Johnson, manager of the foreign department of First National Pictures, will leave Southampton on the Mauretania, April 11 and is scheduled to arrive in New York in time to attend the annual meeting of the First National Franchise holders April 22. Accompanying Mr. Johnson are Ralph J. Pugh, managing director of Associated First National Pictures, Ltd., Sofus Berg, general manager for First National in Scandinavia, and Gavazzi King, president of the C. E. A., the British Exhibitors association.

J. I. Schnitzer, Vice-President and General Manager of Film Booking Offices, left on Monday for a hurried trip to Hollywood.

Mrs. H. H. Buxbaum, wife of First National's eastern district exchange manager, has returned from Florida where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meighan.

John B. Rock, general manager of Vitagraph, returned to his office in Brooklyn Wednesday, after a several days' visit in Chicago.

BIG F. P. L. CONVENTION

The first international convention of the Paramount department of distribution will be held at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York City, beginning April 16, under the general direction of Sidney R. Kent, general manager of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. One of the notable features of this convention is the fact that Paramount, appreciating the importance of the widening foreign market, has invited each of its foreign representatives from nearly every country in the world to attend the convention, which will open in New York for five business sessions and be continued in Los Angeles April 25, with the attendance of the western sales forces and Paramount West Coast studio officials.

CANADIAN CHARGED WITH ARSON

George F. Perkins of the Perkins Electric Company, Limited, Montreal, has been arrested on a warrant signed by Fire Commissioner Emmett Quinn alleging arson. Perkins was released under bonds of $5,000 for preliminary hearing.

Fire Razes Big Utica Theatre

The Olympic Theatre in Utica, New York, owned and operated by W. H. Linton, was burned to the ground early this week with a loss of approximately $50,000. The theatre was opened on March 26 and was located in the business center of the city.

A report to the effect that the fire was of incendiary origin was current in Utica Monday, and resulted in an investigation being conducted by detectives of that city, who later on declared that there was nothing to substantiate the rumor. The Olympic had been several months in course of construction and was one of the most up-to-date motion picture theatres in New York state.

15 Exhibitors Are Vindicated in Pa.

Ruling that the information in the cases was incorrect, Judge U. P. Rossiter in a written opinion handed down in Erie, Pa., has discharged 15 exhibitors, who were charged with violating a State law by operating their motion pictures theatres on Sunday. The opinion covers three lengthy typewritten pages and cites numerous decisions in law.

The 15 exhibitors were arrested last Fall when the Rev. Mr. Shaw of the Law Enforcement League started a campaign to close all motion picture houses operating on Sunday. The defendants were taken before Justice of the Peace Morrison of Wesleyville and convicted. They appealed from the summary conviction.

PHELCO'S NEW SALES ENGINEER

Manufacturers of Phelco Perfect Arc Carbons announce they have appointed Simon Terr as sales engineer for the organization.

From A Reader

March 20, 1925.

Robert E. Welsh, Editor,
Moving Picture World,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

In your issue of February 14th you include, together with other material on "The Lost World," a page of photographs with the caption, "Credit where credit is due," and at the bottom of the page the caption continues, "Here they are—the folks chiefly responsible for the new contribution to screen history * * * the only photograph missing is that of Willis H. O'Brien, research and technical director, inventor of the marvelous effects seen in 'The Lost World.'"

As an individual cinematographer, let me call your attention to the fact that if it is your intention to give "credit where credit is due," there is something much more than only one photograph missing.

To us here on the west coast (and we thought the fact was well recognized by everyone familiar with picture production) "The Lost World," of all pictures ever made, is pre-eminently a "photographic production." It demanded the highest development in cinematography, and to meet those great demands it required the best men in their respective cinematographic lines. Without the abilities of these men the reproduction, for the public, of the marvelous effects you have witnessed, would have been a sheer impossibility.

It is my opinion that these men should be included in anything and everything that sincerely aims to "give credit where credit is due" in connection with "The Lost World," if not in justice to these artists, then in justice to the cinematographic profession itself.

The cinematographers of whom I speak—the men who photographed and made possible this production are Fred W. Jackman, Arthur Edeson, Homer Scott and J. D. Jennings.

If the First National thought enough of the cinematographic necessities in "The Lost World" to induce Fred Jackman to temporarily leave the field of directors, in which he is a recognized success, then surely his achievements in that production, together with those of his colleagues, are entitled to be recognized wherever recognition is purported to be given in relation to the Doyle vehicle.

Sincerely,
GILBERT WARRENTON.

New Wisconsin Combines Are Wholly Unaffiliated

The Badger Theatres Corporation, functioning in Wisconsin, is in no way connected with the big buying combine recently formed by Al Steffes. Likewise, there is no understanding between the two organizations whereby Steffes will not invade Wisconsin territory. This is the answer of Badger leaders to conflicting rumors which are current outside Wisconsin.

According to officials of the Badger, the two combines are absolutely independent of each other with no working agreements between them.

Steffes, it is expected in Milwaukee, will extend his membership into Western Wisconsin, it being natural for that section to join his movement since it has always been regarded as Minneapolis, rather than Milwaukee, territory. Badger chieftans are not afraid, however, that he will go any further in Wisconsin.

Thus far, there appears to be no change in the situation between Badger and Paramount. As far as can be learned the two have not been able to come together.

With Earl Rice, a director and second vice-president of the organization, having sold his theatrical holdings and about to leave for California, a special meeting has been called by Badger to elect a successor. The meeting will be held in the Milwaukee headquarters with many out of town members expected. Other matters of importance may come up.

HOLDS 14TH CONVENTION

The fourteenth annual New England convention of the I. A. T. S. E. and M. P. O. took place in Springfield, Mass., on Sunday, March 29. Forty-nine local organizations were represented by 150 delegates. Most of the session was devoted to a discussion of matters in connection with the welfare of the alliance members and regarding plans for the renewal of existing wage agreements in the cities represented.

Suggests Churches Get Projectionists

Declaring that every church in the land should have its motion picture machine and film as a means of picturing to the eye a supplement of the sermon delivered, Rev. Guy L. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist Church, in Watertown, N. Y., and one of the leading ministers in northern New York, came out with such a statement last week.

"The Church will never solve the amusement problem by combatting it with denunciation and criticism. We shall never gain anything by belching oratory when we cannot show a reason for our argument. The theatre has done a great deal for the Church. The motion picture is one of the greatest inventions of the age and presents the means of accomplishing a great deal of good for the Church, but the latter has allowed it to slip away."

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912,

Of Moving Picture World, published weekly at New York, N. Y., for April 1, 1925.

State of New York }
County of New York } ss.

Before me, a Commissioner of Deeds in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared Alfred J. Chalmers, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Vice-President of the Chalmers Publishing Company, publishers of Moving Picture World, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Chalmers Publishing Co., 516 Fifth avenue, New York; editor, Robert E. Welsh, 516 Fifth avenue, New York; managing editor, John Archer, 516 Fifth avenue, New York; business manager, Ervin L. Hall, 516 Fifth avenue, New York.

2. That the owner is: (If the publication is owned by an individual his name and address, or if owned by more than one individual the name and address of each, should be given below; if the publication is owned by a corporation the name of the corporation and the names and addresses of the stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of the total amount of stock should be given.) Chalmers Publishing Company, 516 Fifth avenue, New York; J. P. Chalmers, Sr., 516 Fifth avenue, New York; J. F. Chalmers, 516 Fifth avenue, New York; E. J. Chalmers, 516 Fifth avenue, New York.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is ———— (This information is required from daily publications only.)

ALFRED J. CHALMERS,
Vice-President.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 1st day of April, 1925.

[Seal] GUSTAVE H. FAUSEL,
Commissioner of Deeds, New York City.
Residing in Bronx County.
New York Co. Clks. No. 62.
Term expires March 11, 1926.

DE MILLE INSURED FOR $1,000,000

The Cecil B. De Mille Pictures Corporation, which recently took over the Ince studios here, announced this week it had joined the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. Coincidentally the Cinema Corporation of America holding company of the De Mille corporations, announced that it had insured Cecil B. De Mille for $1,000,000.

Hays and Detroit Film Board Plan New Distributing Depot

THE Motion Picture Producers and Distributors' Association are co-operating with the Detroit Board of Film Trade in the establishment in the Michigan territory of a new form of film distributing station which, if successful, will be utilized in all exchanges throughout the country, according to advices from Detroit.

Details of the plan, which heretofore have been unofficial, are announced this week by David Palfreyman, manager of the Detroit Board.

Within a few months a special fire proof building, with vaults, shipping room, film inspection departments and other facilities that go with the inspection and shipment of motion picture film, will be erected in some section of Detroit convenient to all of the railroad shipping points. In this building, under the supervision of the Detroit Film Board of Trade, a crew of workers will take charge of all film coming in and going out of the Detroit exchanges.

It is figured that the saving from space and wasted help alone will reach high proportions, while the insurance and building rates will turn another item from the red letter side of the ledger.

C. E. Wilkinson, former manager of the Detroit Film Board of Trade, who one year ago became affiliated with the Hays organization, has been in Detroit for more than a week conferring with Palfreyman over the project.

Various film authorities have approved of the plan and it is confidently expected that its inauguration and practical test in the Detroit territory will be followed by a spread to every exchange territory in the country.

NEW BADGER M. P. T. O. OFFICES

When exhibitors from all over the country arrive in Milwaukee in May for the national convention of the M. P. T. O. they will find the Milwaukee and Wisconsin units established in new headquarters. As a result of the decision reached at a special meeting several days ago, the offices will be moved on May 1 from the Toy building, on Second street, to the Wisconsin Theatre building, one of the finest office structures in the city. The rooms occupied by the M. P. T. O. will be on the third floor. It was learned that the Silliman Theatre chain will also open headquarters in the same building.

A Correction

Board of Censors of Moving Pictures for the Province of Quebec
Montreal, April 6th, 1925.
Moving Picture World,
New York.
Gentlemen:

On page 441 of your periodical, of April 4, there is an article regarding the Montreal censors which is not according to fact.

The law of the Province of Quebec allows the censors three days for the censoring of films, which period of time the censors seldom take advantage of.

If you accept our denial would you please make correction or do you prefer to have letters from the different exchanges, in which case we would gladly let you have same.

Yours very truly,
R. DE R. DE SALES
President

West Coast Chain Is Building New Houses in California

Another new theatre to cost $175,000 will be built at Glendale, Cal., at the corner of Adams and East Colorado boulevard by M. G. Khodighian and Kalig Kalig Khodighian. The building will be two stories high with a seating capacity of 900 and will include four stores facing on Colorado.

The new theatre to be built at Fresno known as the Wilson will cost $650,000 but no further data as to construction was available.

There will be a new "Tulare" theatre built at Tulare next month to cost $140,000.

J. F. McSwain and T. H. Endicott are going to build a new three story theatre building with office suites and apartments at Huntington Park, to cost $160,000. The West Coast Chain have taken a 25-year lease.

A new theatre building to cost approximately $250,000 will be built by Walter E. Warren for the West Coast Theatres, Inc., at the corner of Tenth street and Western avenue just above the fashionable Welshire district. The building will be of class A structure, two stories in height and in addition to the theatre auditorium will contain eleven stores and twenty apartment suites. The seating capacity will be 2,200. The building will occupy a space of 155 by 190 feet.

A new theatre costing almost $300,000 will be built by the Sparr Heights Realty Company at Glendale to seat 2,000 persons. No announcement has been made thus far as to details of the construction.

Thru Error Kansas City Publishes Income Reports

Through a misunderstanding of orders from Washington, the internal revenue department at Kansas City permitted the publication of income tax returns and thereby offered opportunity for an interesting comparison in the amount of business done by the Newman, Royal and Globe theatres.

The Newman, which spent about $50,000 in interior improvements, usually presents elaborate prologues, has an orchestra of thirty-five pieces and carries a heavy "overhead," while the Royal, much smaller and yet elaborate, showed fully 75 per cent of the really big pictures booked during the year by Frank L. Newman, manager. The Newman paid $1,386.54 income tax, while the Royal paid $2,864.66, approximately twice the amount of the Newman. The Globe theatre, located a block out of the high rent area and playing both feature pictures and vaudeville, paid only $333.15.

The Better-Half

"The average exhibitor's wife keeps in closer touch with what the public wants than the theatre owner does." That is one of the theories of C. E. "Doc" Cook, business manager of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri.

The other theory is this: "Obtain the interest of women in organization, get them to talk and think organization and you will have established a nucleus for an exhibitors' association which can't be beaten down."

All of which means that there will be a well-planned campaign to have the wife of each exhibitor attend the semi-annual convention of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri at the Hotel Baltimore in Kansas City, April 27 and 28, the Baltimore having been substituted instead of the Hotel Muehlebach because more space for the convention will be available.

Paper Cup Companies Charge Another with Infringing Patents

Hearing has been held in the suit of the manufacturers of Lily drinking cups against the Tulip Container Corporation in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York, at Brooklyn.

The Lily Company alleges in its complaint that it has made and sold billions of drinking cups of the familiar Lily design for which it holds a patent, and that the Tulip cup is so nearly identical in appearance with the Lily cup as to infringe the patented Lily cup.

The suit also alleged infringement of other patent rights, and charges that the name "Tulip" is a mere variation and an infringement of the Registered Trade Mark on the Lily cup. Both companies manufacture in Bush Terminal, Brooklyn.

Suit was also filed by the Dixie Drinking Cup Company of New York against the Tulip Company under the patent of L. W. Luellen, who claims to be the originator of the present-day paper drinking cup. This patent is asserted to be the pioneer patent for the commercial one-piece paper drinking cup. Both plaintiffs ask for injunctions and damages.

Incorporations

The past week brought the following motion picture companies into the business in New York state, according to the papers filed with the secretary of state, the amount of capitalization and the names of the directors of the corporations being given in each instance: Frequal Company, Inc., capitalization not stated, J. Ginsburgh, S. R. Kurzman, D. Scheinker, New York City; Gordon Cooper Corporation, $7,500, Thomas DeBaryshe, Samuel Waxman, M. S. Worth, New York City; Trucraft Pictures, Inc., $50,000, A. G. Scheer, P. Feiner, New York; M. Hicks, Mount Vernon; Thespian Productions, Inc., $60,000, A. M. Watterberg, M. Katz, L. E. Dresser, New York City.

M. P. T. O. of Missouri and Illinois in Third Convention Elects Watts

W. W. WATTS, owner of the Princess, Vaudet and Gayety Theatres in Springfield, Ill., on March 31 was elected president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois during the year 1925-26 at the third annual convention of the organization which was held at the Elks Club, St. Louis.

I. W. Rodgers the retiring president continues in the executive family as one of the several vice-presidents of the organization. Like the national body the local association decided to dispense with first, second, third vice-president, etc., and to select various vice-presidents from various parts of the territory, each to hold the same relative position in relation to the president. The other officers elected vice-presidents were: John F. Rees, Wellsville, Mo.; G. M. Luttrell, Jacksonville, Ill.; J. C. Hewitt, Robinson, Ill.; Charles G. Goodnight, De Soto, Mo.; treasurer, Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis, Mo.; secretary, L. C. Hehl, St. Louis and sergeant-at-arms, Joseph Wagner, St. Louis, Mo.

Those who were elected members of the executive committee were: Spyros P. Skouras, St. Louis, Mo.; Joseph Mogler, St. Louis, Mo.; W. O. Reeves, St. Louis, Mo.; Charles Goldman, St. Louis, Mo.; Oscar Lehr, St. Louis, Mo.; J. C. Hewitt, Robinson, Ill.; T. E. Yemm, Duquoin, Ill.; J. R. Pratt, Fulton, Mo.; S. E. Pertle, Jerseyville, Ill., and President Watts, Secretary Hehl and Treasurer Wehrenberg by virtue of their offices.

Through its quota based on the number of Congressional districts in the territory serve the organization is entitled to sixteen delegates and alternates at the National Convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America to be held at Milwaukee, Wisc., on May 12, 13 and 14, and keen interest was shown in the selection of the men to fill this important post. The men decided on were: President W. W. Watts, I. W. Rodgers, Poplar Bluff, Mo.; Hector M. E. Pasmezoglu, St. Louis, Mo.; Leo A. Burnstine, Springfield, Ill.; G. M. Luttrell, Jacksonville, Ill.; Gus Kerssotas, Springfield, Ill.; Henry Lory, Highland, Ill.; O. H. Giese, Edwardsville, Ill.; T. E. Yemm, Duquoin, Ill.; Treasurer Fred Wehrenberg, J. R. Pratt, Fulton, Mo.; Secretary L. E. Hehl, Oscar Lehr, St. Louis; Mike J. Nash, St. Louis, and Joseph Mogle, St. Louis.

On the matter of the arbitration board as at present constituted some exhibitors complained that it was impossible for them to obtain justice, claiming that while they were bound by the strict letter of their contracts for various pictures that producers and distributors were privileged to put in other pictures and that the exhibitors had no redress when they signed for pictures in advance and later these pictures were not even made by the contracting company. A special committee was finally appointed to consider a uniform contract and to make recommendations in that regard to the national convention at Milwaukee.

Regarding tax free music it was reported by Secretary Hehl that many producers were in accord with the anti-tax fight.

Secretary Hehl reported that 94 local and out-of-town members registered on the convention roster. Many others attended the dinner at noon. Director of Public Safety Christophal was guest of honor at the dinner, but did not speak.

PAGE EXPLOITS MUSIC WEEK

Special prominence was given to the subject of theatre music in a special newspaper display by the United Amusements, Limited, Montreal, for its numerous local moving picture houses during Music Week which was observed in Montreal during the week of March 29. United Amusements employed practically a whole page for a discussion of the subject of music in moving picture theatres under the declaration that "A photoplay is no better than its musical setting."

Bromberg Denies He Would Re-Join Film Board

Arthur C. Bromberg, president of Progress Pictures, Inc., and one of the three independent exchanges who recently resigned from the Atlanta Film Board of Trade, has issued an emphatic denial to the rumor emanating from Cleveland and tending to show that Bromberg and the other two withdrawing independents regret their move and are now seeking reinstatement of their membership in the Atlanta Board.

"My resignation from the Atlanta Film Board of Trade came after mature and serious reflection and as a result of my conviction that the organization, with which I had functioned conscientiously for more than a year, was not an institution of fairness and justice. I am definitely out of the organization; I believe that I acted wisely and I know that I was actuated only by the sincerest motives when I withdrew; I have no intention of seeking re-instatement of membership therein, and the rumor that I have made any move in that direction is utterly false and absolutely groundless. I have never been 'down on my knees' either literally or figuratively to any one in the Film Board of Trade here or elsewhere, and certainly I am not imploring them for admittance to an organization that I left of my own volition and in the belief that it was not fair to me, to several other distributors, and to many an exhibitor."

State Rights Sales

Columbia Pictures has sold its entire program for the season of 1925-26 ot Messrs. Montague and McConville of the Independent Films, Inc., of Boston, Mass., and New Haven, Conn. Their territory covers the entire New England States. This concern handled both the Columbia and Perfection series for 1924-25 and did very well with them in a rather difficult territory. The pictures included in the present deal are: "The Danger Signal," "S. O. S. Perils of the Sea," "Ladies of Leisure," "Midnight Flames," "The Lure of Broadway," "The Unwritten Law," "The Penalty of Jazz," "Sealed Lips," "The Price of Success," "The Thrill Hunter," "The Fate of a Flirt," "An Enemy of Men," "The Great Sensation," "The Handsome Brute," "Fighting Youth," "The Speed Demon," "The New Champion," "Fight to the Finish."

Albany Hearing

Governor Alfred E. Smith, desirous to know more about the bill which was passed by the New York State Legislature, relative to the manufacture, sale and use of film of a nitrocellulose base, and removing certain restrictions on the manufacture, sale and use of an acetate of cellulose base, has decided to hold a public hearing on Monday noon, April 13, at Albany. The hearing will take place in the Executive Chamber of the State Capitol.

Lillian Gish Wins; Duell Charged With Perjury

Lillian Gish, the popular film star, is free to employ her histrionic talents in any manner she chooses as the result of a decision by Judge Julian W. Mack of the United States District Court in dismissing the injunction suit instituted against her by Charles H. Duell, Inc., in an effort to retain her services until 1930 under an existing contract.

In dismissing the suit Judge Mack expressed the opinion that Charles H. Duell, head of the film company, had committed perjury during the trial and held him in $10,000 bail to await the action of a Federal Grand Jury, United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner, who was summoned by Judge Mack, announced that he would present the matter to the April Federal Grand Jury.

It developed at the trial that Miss Gish was to receive $1,250 weekly the first year under her eight-year contract, $2,000 weekly the second year, $2,500 weekly the third year and $2,500 weekly and 15 per cent. of the gross receipts on the film products in which she appeared after the pictures had earned the cost of production during the remaining years of the contract.

Alleged modifications of the existing contract detrimental to the interests of Miss Gish were attributed by her counsel as the motive for her refusal to continue as a cinema star with Duell's producing company, and resulted in the institution of the equity suit to enforce the performance of the contract.

GLOUCESTER SEATING FRACAS

State officers closed the Strand Theatre in Gloucester during the progress of a show on Tuesday night, March 31, and ordered patrons to get their money back at the box office. It was alleged that the house capacity was oversold on the previous Monday night. Fred Shehay, resident manager of the Strand, denies the house was oversold, asserting that there were 59 vacant seats. The Strand formerly was operated by E. M. Loew of Boston, head of the circuit of theatres that bears his name. A few weeks ago he transferred the lease to the Gordon Olympia Theatres, Inc. The state officials claim that the license had not been changed to correspond with the change of operators. The license was restored after a hearing on Thursday, but the house was not allowed to open until Saturday.

MIAMI, OKLA., SUNDAY VOTE

Plans are under way for the circulating of a petition calling for an election at Miami, Okla., to close Sunday shows at that place. A vote will be taken on April 7, 1925, to determine the matter

Facts About Omaha

Omaha film exchanges ship out enough film every month to encircle the globe. In the film kept in stock in Omaha are one billion miniature pictures.

Five hundred persons are employed in the business of distributing films out of Omaha, according to a recent survey. A stock of more than $3,000,000 in films is kept on hand in Omaha.

About 850 shipments of films are made daily out of Omaha, each shipment averaging five reels with 1,000 feet to each reel.

Independent Combine In St. Louis Growing Fast

The movement looking to the formation of an independent booking combination to combat the large chain houses in St. Louis has gained ground steadily in the past week and it has been announced unofficially that thirty of the leading neighborhood theatres of St. Louis will purchase their film in the near future on a co-operative basis. The tentative headquarters of the new combine is at 3308 Olive street, but for the time being the names of the houses in the combine are being withheld for obvious reasons.

This matter was discussed informally at the convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois but no action was taken. It was decided it was matter for the theatre men of St. Louis to work out for themselves, but many out-of-town men approved plan.

EDITOR ADDRESSES A. M. P. A.

That over-legislation is injuring the economic life of the United States was the declaration made before members of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers at their latest weekly luncheon in the Cafe Boulevard by Merle Thorpe, editor of the Nation's Business. He declared that ninety per cent of present day legislation and of the present day business which faces the President and his cabinet is of an extremely complicated economic nature as against ten per cent political. In the earlier stages of our history these percentages were practically reversed.

TWO MORE B. & K. THEATRES

Two big movie houses will be opened in Chicago this year by the Balaban & Katz corporation. The new Uptown Theatre at Broadway, Lawrence and Magnolia avenues is expected to be completed early next fall, and the new Masonic Temple Theatre on Randolph street between State and Dearborn streets, is scheduled for opening around the holidays. The Uptown Theatre is being built from earnings, according to Herbert H. Stern, president of the corporation. The Masonic Temple Theatre will be leased.

HOSTETTLER INJUNCTION STANDS

The city of Hastings, Neb., which some months ago lost its fight for continuance of its municipal moving picture theatre, when the Hostettler Amusement Co. obtained an injunction against its operation in the courts, carried the fight to the floor of the state senate at Lincoln during the session of the legislature, and there lost again. The injunction by the Hostettler Amusement Co. was obtained on the grounds that no legal authority existed for using city funds for such a purpose as operating a theatre.

Universal Buys Hostettler's Big Circuit of 35 Theatres

THE Universal Pictures Corporation, of which Carl Laemmle is the head, has closed a deal buying out the Hostettler Amusement Company of Omaha, Neb., and gaining control of the big Hostettler chain of theatres, located in the key cities of Nebraska and also in certain important cities of Iowa and Missouri, it has just been announced at the home office of Universal, No. 730 Fifth Avenue. The deal embraces thirty-five theatres, complete control of most of them going to Universal and ownership interests or booking control in two or three others, according to the statement.

The deal was consummated by E. H. Goldstein, treasurer of Universal, and the Hostettler brothers, John E. and James O. Hostettler. Although it has been rumored for several weeks that Universal and the Hostettlers had entered negotiations, other strong interests have sought to acquire the Hostettler theatres.

Coming on top of that company's acquisition of the E. J. Sparks Circuit, 17 first-class theatres in important Florida towns and cities, and the Universal purchase into the Schine Circuit of Northern New York, which includes thirty-eight theatres, most of them with no opposition, in important towns and cities between Albany and Buffalo, the Universal-Hostettler purchase puts Universal in an enviable position in three sections of the country where the company hitherto had limited or almost no representation.

The theatres embraced in the deal just concluded are the Strand, Empress and Palm theatres in Hastings, Neb.; the Majestic, Empress, Lyda, Strand and Bartenbach in Grand Island, Neb.; the Empress, Crescent and the Opera House in Kearney, Neb.; the Swan and the North in Columbus, Neb.; the Wall and Empress theatre in Fremont, Neb.; the Lyric, Grand and the Auditorium in Norfolk, Neb.; the Rex and Majestic in Fairbury, Neb.; the Rialto and Strand in Missouri Valley, Ia.; the Casino and Odeon in Marshalltown, Ia.; the Orpheum, Colonial and Royal, the Electric and Tootle's Opera House in St. Joseph, Mo. The deal also assures Universal of first-run representation in half a dozen or more theatres in the following cities and towns, Lincoln, Neb., Beatrice, Neb., North Platte, Neb., and Holdredge, Neb.

The Universal Weekly in its next issue will print the following statement from Carl Laemmle in the form of a straight from the shoulder talk in regard to the theatres recently acquired by Universal. This is as follows:

"No exhibitor has yet been harmed by Universal's ownership of theatres. I have bought in places where I could not get a representative showing for Universal pictures and as I said before, I'll soon buy more houses.

"I don't want to harm any theatre. I don't want to create unnecessary competition anywhere, I only want a halfway decent showing of Universal pictures. I prefer to get it through houses already established. But if that is not granted to me, I'll have to build or buy. No town or community or neighborhood is over-seated to me if Universal has no seats in that town or community or neighborhood or if Universal pictures are not given a fair showing."

Sam Katz Will Address T. O. C. C.

Samuel Katz of Balaban and Katz will address members of the Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce, New York, at their meeting on April 14, that organization announced this week. The attitude of his company regarding the booking situation will be the subject of the talk, the T. O. C. C. expects.

The T. O. C. C. will install its recently elected officers at a dinner to be given at the Hotel Plaza on April 28.

NEW COPYRIGHT BILL UNIT

A special committee from the Patents Committee of Congress has been named in conformity with the suggestion of President M. J. O'Toole of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America. O'Toole suggested that conferences be held in the interim between congressional sessions of all interested parties so that Congress could frame a new copyright law at the next session which would be equitable in every way. This subcommittee will hold meetings and invite every interested party to present their views so that the new copyright bill will be suitable in every respect.

Selling Your Seats

What the Public Library gets out of cooperation.

First National produces fine block sheets on The Lost World.

How Hyman surrounded Charley's Aunt.

Permanent window frames work well in Indianapolis.

Uses gigantic book to frame scene miniature.

Gave a matinee to blondes only.

Weather bureau helped exploit The Tornado.

Love and Glory captures a soldier's monument.

Frames his holdout for sister theatre.

Panopolos likes the puzzle books.

Put X-word puzzle on a bank wall.

Miniature tornado is lobby seller.

Advertising examples on Miss Bluebeard, Madonna of the Streets, So Big, Sandra, The Ridin' Kid, Daughters of Pleasure, K, the Unknown and Manhandled.

(Turn to the Selling the Pictures to the Public and get these dollar-a-line ideas if you can use a little more money.)

SORIERO RESIGNS FROM "U"

Thomas D. Soriero, manager of the Theatre Department of the Universal Pictures Corporation, has resigned to enter the theatre field on his own account. Soriero has been with Universal since November, 1924. Before that he was executive for the Whitehurst Enterprises of Baltimore. His departure again places the Universal Theatre Department under the supervision of F. A. Flader, a veteran Universal executive.

CONNECTICUT KILLS 2 BILLS

The Connecticut Senate has tabled a bill for which an amendment had been offered to the effect that not more than ten children under 14 may accompany a parent or guardian after 6 p. m. to picture shows, dance halls or other places of amusement. The State House has also rejected a bill removing restrictions on use of motion pictures where "safety" film is used.

THE FIRST RUN

PRESENTATIONS – PROLOGUES – MUSIC

Anent Vaudeville Stars

By

Colby Harriman

SOMEBODY is trying to start something. Those who keep a hand on the pulse of Broadway are beginning to knit their eyebrows and solemnly predict that symptoms of trouble are manifesting themselves—and it's all on account of certain recognized vaudeville headliners enjoying successful engagements in first run picture houses.

The cause of this feeling (or what has been looked upon as an impending revolution in the amusement business) is that vaudeville agents feel that they are losing a lot of money through the bolting to the picture field of their sure-fire box-office cards.

This situation has only recently assumed proportions which have acquired a seeming showdown when two widely press-agented stars played to "real money" in leading theatres, not only to their own financial satisfaction, but to a marked excess and contrast to their previous vaudeville salaries.

Charges of unfair competition have been raised by men who jump at conclusions, but a different angle was given the situation this week when investigation was made through reliable channels to ascertain the attitude of the heads of the foremost booking offices and motion picture theatre managers.

The only way to avoid competition in any town is to have one theatre; when two theatres are found there is competition. Even though these houses are under the same management there is bound to be a friendly rivalry, if not in a managerial capacity then it is reflected by the preference of the public.

Vaudeville acts and presentations are two distinct types of production. A vaudeville act has the hall-mark of an individuality which it must possess, otherwise it is not a definite unit in the weekly bills, and soon loses its popularity, ultimately its route.

A presentation is developed to co-ordinate with a program topped by the picture. While the presentation must have characteristics, creating a dominant interest, yet it is more closely allied and welded to the picture program than an individual vaudeville act is to the bill. The difference is between a combination and a union.

Not every vaudeville act can play the picture houses. Even musical and dancing acts which may be vaudeville sensations cannot fit into the scheme of things in a moving picture house where music and dance is attaining its highest expression.

We find that a better form of exploitation and well developed publicity is the big factor attending the profitable engagement of those fortunate acts which have been booked in the picture houses, and given a presentation treatment.

It is safe to say that the vaudeville houses have never publicized the two stars in question as completely and uniquely as did the motion picture theatre managers. We find that the publicity attendant to motion picture theatres is more intensively expansive than that found in any other form of the amusement business. First of all it reaches a larger public.

In a majority of the cases we will find that there are people who depend entirely on the picture house for their sole form of entertainment. When a new feature such as a vaudeville act is added to the program of "their" house, immediately there is aroused added interest to particularly see that week's bill—because it holds a novel addition to an already dependable program.

There was a time when the vaudeville theatre in the early days of the picture was in the ascendancy, but the pictures came along and demonstrated a newer, better and more dependable form of entertainment. Any true artist is going to follow in the trend where the most complete expression is attainable and the financial returns the greatest.

The attitude of certain reliable men connected with leading booking offices is one in which pique is mingled with a reluctancy to admit the ability of another force capable of outbidding them. Certain leading exhibitors regard the initial agitation rather complacently. They are always willing to add a feature to their programs which will successfully carry them into the realm of the black ink, but both booking managers and exhibitors have expressed a willingness to get together, and the sooner this happens the better it will be, not only for vaudeville but for the picture houses. It is better to adjust your differences than to "bust" relations.

It seems only equitable that there should be an interchange, and equity should be furthered with amity.

There is no place today in the business for intimidating forces. Brow-beating is not a part of real showmanship, and when men think sanely and look the situation directly in the face, take a problem and dissect it, they achieve benefits which may be shared mutually.

It was suggested by one of the leading booking representatives that if leading exhibitors would cooperate with them, it might be possible that certain stars suitable for picture theatre programs be booked directly by them; that their name would be the same guarantee of quality and satisfaction to the picture houses as is the case with the various vaudeville theatres. This is a good idea. It is oil for troubled waters. It will result in a basis for all to equitably share, and link these two leading amusement agencies in a constructive bond of business friendship

A Moving Picture World Presentation

Complete subject matter for a novel prologue or presentation will appear weekly in this department. Any producer engaged in this type of production work in motion picture theatres is entitled to use the suggestion in its entirety or make his own adaptation.

Working plans, complete in every detail, are available on the presentation suggested herewith. Blueprints have been prepared with view to aiding showmen who may desire to avail themselves of the Colby Harriman suggestions. Music cue sheets, color diagrams and costume plates are included. Same may be secured without charge by requesting same of the editor.

A Novelty With a Tie-Up

"RADIOLOGUE"

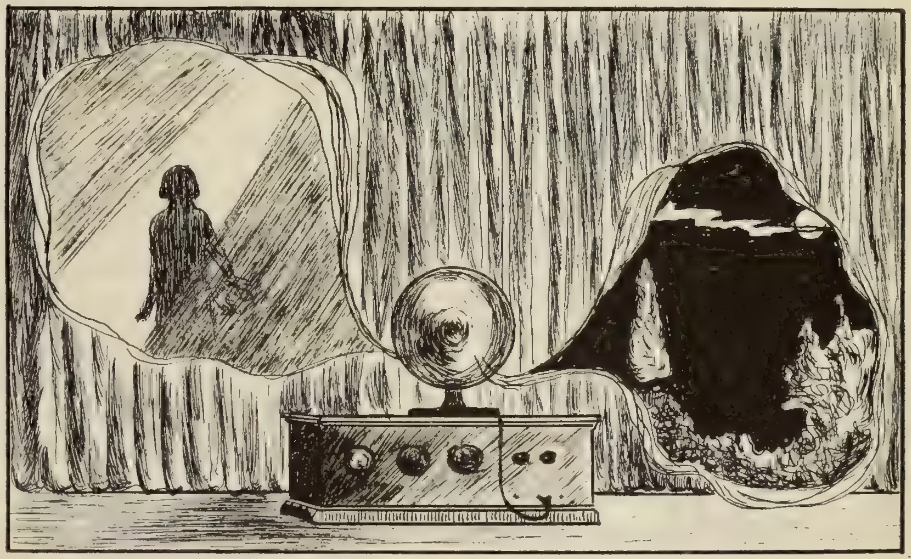
A "Moving Picture World" Presentation Devised by Colby Harriman

The majority of first run houses have regular or semi-direct contact with radio broadcasting stations. A number of managers have found a substantial increase in their business when the favorite artists offered over the radio were presented in person at their theatres. It has been noted that "radio fans" in particular are always interested in seeing these popular entertainers. Leading theatres in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other centers are cases at hand.

Novelty in presentation is one of the chief requisities for a successful radio artists introduction. The following suggestion is offered this week and it not only emphasizes novelty but gives an opporounity for "flash sets" of any number to be presented, providing the addition of certain comedy features.

A large radio, constructed of a frame covered with canvas, or a compo-board unit, is placed down stage at center. This is surmounted with an amplifier, made of a large hoop, covered with a scrim which will permit a transparency, and painted on the face to give the appearance of the bell of the horn.

A double drop is hung in one. The first drop should be of metalline gauze which will catch the high-lighting from the front when the lights back stage are down. This drop, hung in folds, is on a battened drop, which has two irregular openings cut right and left of center. The edges of the opening are treated with bronze metalics and a flasher set to give a streaming light around the bronze edge during the period the particular opening is used, giving the effect in a scenic treatment, that the scene is proceeding from the amplifier. A small platform can be used back of the opening at right. Tab drops and small set pieces done in compo-board are the only things required back of the drop. A flat piece should be placed at center, back of the drop, and running up-stage, to eliminate spill light from one scene to the other. A scrim drop can be hung down at the curtain line.



Setting for Special Radio Presentation

The action opens with dark stage. The lights focused on the radio come on gradually. Two girls, dancers, dressed in one-piece tights with small gauze wings adjusted to their shoulders, all treated with luminous paints in odd design, jump from the top of the radio, dance about it and at the conclusion of their number "tune in" by turning the large dials. There are a succession of typical noises, and as the girls disappear in the radio box, the lights set to illuminate the interior of the amplifier come on, revealing the head of the announcer. As the first number is announced, the lights in one of the sections gradually come up full revealing the artists, while the lights on the announcer dim down and out. This is repeated for the balance of the program.

A novel effect may be attained, using a silhouette sheet back of the opening in one section. When the singer, for instance, is announced, the vari-colored lights play over a surface, and gradually the singer appears in silhouette. As the song is begun, the lights change, the silhouette vanishing as the features of the artists become visible.

Much comedy can be attained in the announcing area. Each time, a new make-up can adorn the face of the announcer, as oddly named stations are brought in. One time, it can be the character of an old farmer, then that of a "tough boy," or an effeminate type. The usual squawks, shrill whistles, clash of cymbals, etc., can attend the beginning or conclusion of the announcement.

For a finale, both sections can be used, diming down to a quarter when the other section is predominating. Both sections can come in full for the close-in.

There is much information available relative to producing subjects of this kind, and we will be glad to work out details with any producer desiring to feature a novel "radio stars" bill, which has always proved a money-maker.

Plans for National Music Week

National Music Week will be observed by leading motion picture theatres during the week of May 3rd to 9th. The National Committee for the Advancement of Music has secured the co-operation of representative musical leaders and well known conductors in making this particular week one of importance in all musical circles.

The opportunity afforded the theatre to tie up with local musical organizations is rich in possibilities. Practically every city has its community choral society, school glee club, symphony orchestra groups, etc. It is possible to secure these organizations for special programs to which will be attached added local interest in the theatre.

Special attention is being directed to the introduction of "national" groups, where folk songs of various countries can be staged in settings suggestive of the native land, the various singers being dressed in characteristic costumes. There are programs available through the National Committee, which will be of valuable assistance to the producer in arranging these groups.

We will submit a number of specimen programs for Music Week observance in Motion Picture Theatres, in the next issue. These programs are being compiled by recognized conductors.—C. H.

CAPITOL THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

S. L. ROTHAFEL

Featured Picture: "Man and Maid"
(Metro-Goldwyn)

"The Palms"

A scenic investiture for the rendition of Faure's composition introducing Charles Schenck as soloist, assisted by the Capitol Ensemble, seven girls and four men, all clothed with Anglican choir vestments. The scene consists of a plush drop in two, draped around a five panelled stained-glass window piece. A twelve-inch platform runs across stage at center, with an elevated platform at each end. The end platforms are masked with a flat painted as the front of a choir stall. Two banks of palms are right and left of the end platforms. White from both sides light the singers who stand in a line across the platforms, the girls at center, two men at either end, and the soloist on the stage floor at center. A purple tint is given the vestments worn by girls, from the foots.

Divertissements

Four attractive numbers constitute this artistic unit.

(a) "Pee Weet"—Petrie-Parks
Betsy Ayres, Marjorie Harcum, Louise Scheerer.

A large triple section Chinese screen with gilt design against a black plush drop. Three girls, dressed in white Chinese costume, kneel on cushions before two small teakwood tea tables, with tea tray. They are on a small platform covered with gold mettaline cloth. Rose and green from sides highlight sections of the screen, and canary is used to tone area occupied by the singers.

(b) "Chinese Willow Plate"—Victor Herbert
Doris Niles, Frank Moulan and Marcello Fernandez.

Back drop hung in two. The design resembles a typical Chinese line drawing found on pieces of rare dishes. The color scheme is a faded blue on a light yellowish green background. Blue floods cover the entire opening. About a six-foot platform with runs, and masked with a row painted in blue to give the appearance of a small bridge, is at center. Chinese characters tell the little love story in pantomime. The characters are costumed as follows: The man in a pink blouse and blue trousers; the girl wearing a maroon colored blouse embroidered with gold design, and green trousers. Another dancer is dressed in the gilded robes of a mandarin wearing a high fantastically designed headdress. Four girls which are brought in for the finale are clad in vivid Chinese costumes. A white spot is used on the principal characters during the dance with amber and canary high-lighting on the sides.

Performance Is the Test of Service

LARGEST ASSORTMENT

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS BASKETS
BIRCH BARK STRIPS
COLOR ATTACHMENTS
FLOOD LIGHT EQUIPMENT
GRASS MATS
METALLINE CLOTH
PAPIER MACHE WORK
PLUSH AND VELOUR
SCENIC SPECIALTIES
TINFOIL AND TINSEL
VINES—LEAVES

DOTY & SCRIMGEOUR SALES CO., INC.

30 Reade St. New York, N. Y.

(c) "Hunger" from "Creole Love Song" cycle—Layton-Johnstone
Gladys Rice.

A silver mettaline transparency with a bronzed drop as a backing is used as the base for this setting. Purple from the sides is shot across the upper half of the front drop, with a light blue being toned in at the base. The bronze drop is high-lighted in the back which gives a zone lighting in the area left of center. A four-footed platform draped in black velvet is at center. Upon this platform a singer stands garbed in a flowing black costume. Small spots in white are placed in the floor of the platform which light the singer, throwing a long distorted shadow of her on the back drop. This number is very suggestive of a Continental lighting treatment.

(d) Waltz of the Jewels
Mlle. Gambarelli and Capitol Ballet Corps.

A heavy mettaline drop is hung back and the surface is hung in folds, black. It is flooded with green, amber, red and blue from each side, the variegation being well arranged and excellently blended on the glittering surface. Two narrow silver spangled columns constructed of fabrics are hung in about two. These columns are high-lighted with white. Four girls dressed in ballet costumes of yellow, green, blue and geranium dance with Gambarelli, in white, the latter carrying strands of tinsel. White flood is used.

RIVOLI THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

HUGO RIESENFELD

Featured Picture: "The Charmer"
(Paramount)

Overture Feature

It is very unusual that a picture can be reported as a presentation feature, but the showing of the "Georg Frederich Handel" subject of the Famous Master Series by James A. Fitzpatrick which has been given an excellent orchestral interpretation by Hugo Riesenfeld, is one of the outstanding features of the program. The opportunity to use the picture in the orchestra spot of the program has been made the most of. Here is a sure-fire bet as the artistry evidenced in the direction of the picture, the excellent photography, the proper musical setting, is enhanced only by the extreme novelty of the picture.

"The Palms"

The blue foots come on during the introduction of the song; the curtains are drawn, revealing a suggested section of a church. Two fabric columns right and left carrying an Easter lily design are high-lighted with light blue. The Ritz Quartette garbed in choir vestments stand center in a slight alcove back of which is a transparency drop upon which is painted an ecclesiastical figure with attendant Biblical scene. Two large candelabras with an uneven spiral standard holding seven candles tipped with amber candlepower lamps are extreme right and left. A sanctuary lamp hangs from center. At the conclusion of the song three women in white veiled robes slowly enter at left, come to center, face upstage and kneel. The theme, "Ave Maria," is used, the lights gradually come up in back of drop revealing singer clad in white robes and veil who sings "Ave Maria." For finale the three women exit from stage across back and up on the platform upon which the singer is mounted, and kneel before her.

MARK STRAND THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

JOSEPH PLUNKETT

Featured Picture: "I Want My Man".
(First National)

Orchestra Feature

"The Lost Chord"—Sullivan

A novelty is added to the excellent orchestral interpretation of the Sullivan composition with Kitty McLaughlin and the Male Ensemble.

During the first movement an amber flood is on curtains and orchestra pit. The lights dim down and the curtains open revealing a pointed scalloped oval painting suggestive of a church window frame. This is in the center of the drop. On a platform back of this opening the singer is seen seated at a small pipe organ which is high-lighted with light amber. Two folds of scarlet drapes are hung at the up-stage end of the organ. Towards the right a blue bordered and pink designed church window is suggested. The character seated at the organ is garbed in a red robe. For the finale the singer stands facing front, the Quartette Ensemble singing off stage.

"In The Springtime"

A Pastel

A simple stage setting which is highly effective depicting an orchard in bloom. Eight set trees are placed about the stage, the tops high lighted revealing a profusion of pink and white flowers. A deep blue cyc is used at the back. A deep green hedge row is placed between the trees and the cyc. At left a rustic bench is placed around the largest set tree. Pauline Miller and Everett Clark dressed in light colored costumes of the period of the '60's are seated on the bench and sing Romberg's "Will You Remember." An amber spot is thrown on the singers from off stage left. The characters exit. Mlle. Klemova and M. Daks dressed in costumes of the same period enter and dance in and around the trees. Lights in canary and rose come up in foreground and six members of the ballet dressed in hoop skirts of delicately tinted materials enter and a dance is done to the theme of Grieg's "Spring." For finale the singers enter and repeat the opening song and five couples which include the Mark Strand Male Quartette enter for groupings. Lights dim down for close-in.

Musical Programs——Week April 5th

CAPITOL THEATRE—New York City.
Overture: "Caucasian Sketches"................Ippolitow-Iwanow
Capitol Grand Orchestra—David Mendoza, Conducting
Interlude: Selection from "Rose Marie"......................Friml
Graham Harris—Associate Conductor.
Dr. Melchiorre Mauro-Cottone at console.

MARK STRAND THEATRE—New York City.
Prelude: "The Lost Chord"...............................Sullivan
Mark Strand Symphony Orchestra—Carl Edouarde, Conducting.
Alois Reiser—Associate Conductor.
Dr. Percy J. Starnes at console.

RIVOLI THEATRE—New York City.
Overture Feature: "Handel" subject of Famous Master Series
Interpretation by Rivoli Concert Orchestra.
Irvin Talbot, Conductor.
Emanuel Baer and George Kay, Associates.
Harold Ramsbottom and Frank S. Adams at the organ.

RIALTO THEATRE—New York City.
Overture: "Madame Butterfly"............................Puccini
Rialto Orchestra—Hugo Riesenfeld and Willy Stahl, Conducting.
Ludwig Laurier—Associate Conductor.
Riesenfeld's Classical Jazz: Theme—"Driftwood"
Featured Song—"Voices of Spring" by Strauss.
Helen Sherman, coloratura soprano.

COLONY THEATRE—New York City.
Overture: "The Love Song"...........................Offenbach Colony Concert Orchestra—Dr. Edward Kilenyi, Conducting.
Featured Song—"Giannina Mia" by Friml.
Helen Adler, soprano.
John Priest at the console.

CAPITOL THEATRE—Chicago, Ill.
Overture: "Capriccio Italienne"....................Tschaikowsky
Capitol Grand Orchestra—Albert H. Short, Conducting.
Popular Selection—"What We Hear on The Radio"
Orchestral interpretation of descriptive musical novelty.

EASTMAN THEATRE—Rochester, N. Y.
Overture: "March-Scherzo" from Sympony No. 6....Tschaikowsky
Eastman Theatre Orchestra—Frank Waller Conducting.
Organ Recital: Selection from "Rose Marie".................Friml

---

RIALTO THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by
HUGO RIESENFELD

Featured Picture: "Kiss in the Dark" (Paramount)

Dance Divertissements

A simple Easter setting comprises the scenic background of this number which features Felicia Sorel, Alma Hookey and Marguerite Low, dancers. A white spindle fence about three feet high runs across up-stage with two small newel posts at each end. Small bay trees are at extreme right and left. A blue plush drop is hung back. Between the drop and the fence are two compo-board set pieces of green and pink flowered design. A fan shaped arrangement of large Easter eggs in pinks, blues, and yellows is back of the set pieces. Festoons of ribboned crepe paper in various colors are dropped from the center of the back drop down to the edges of the set pieces. The three girls are dressed in "chicken" costumes which are high-lighted with canary.

COLONY THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by
J. DeROSA

Featured Picture: "Heart of a Siren" (First National)

Stessy and Prudy Goldner

These two talented musicians play a harp and violin duet. There are two numbers, the first, Saint-Saens "The Swan." The setting consists of a black drop masking in the right half of up stage, and the left half, a sky drop in deep blue with a low balustrade in the foreground and a column at extreme left mounted on a pedestal with silvered vines entwined around it. A pink flood highlights the column. A large tapestry is hung in front of the plush drop at right highlighted in white. The harpist sits in a gilt chair right of center, the violinist standing down right with a tapestried gilt settee behind her. Amber spots from left are thrown on the two artists. A green flood is thrown on the stage section left of center.

The second number is Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois." During the rendition of this number two characters dressed as Pierrot and Columbine in costumes of bronze and light blue do the customary dance. They are high-lighted with ambers and pinks from off stage.

Paul Specht and Band

This popular orchestra is held over for another week and given a very attractive setting not unlike the exquisite setting of last week.

"Moving Picture World's Presentations" Creating World-Wide Interest

GEORGE GREEN, LTD.,
182 Trongate, Glasgow

March 25, 1925.

Mr. Colby Harriman,
Moving Picture World,
New York.

Dear Sir:

I am very much interested in the new department anent prologues, presentations, etc., which you have opened with the issue of the Moving Picture World for March 21. I subscribe to the Moving Picture World, and would be very much obliged if you would put my name on your mailing list for a regular supply of the blue prints, working instructions, and schedule of color effects for these prologues as they appear from week to week.

With all good wishes,

Yours sincerely,

W. ARTHUR MANN.

No Presentation Can Be Better Than Its Mechanical Equipment

There is just as much art in the mechanical end of stage work as in any other end. Whether it's a prologue or a single number or a complete production you are putting on, the brains that you are putting into the show demand the best mechanical help they can get. Tell us your problems. We're equipped by knowledge and experience to help you.

COUNTERWEIGHT SYSTEMS
STAGE CURTAIN RIGGING

Smooth-running Curtain Control operating from any location desired; Spot Lights, Portable Switchboards, Dimmers, Border Lights—

Headquarters for All Kinds of
Electrical and Mechanical Stage Lighting Effects
Information gladly given on request.

J. H. WELSH
270 West 44th St. New York City

Pioneers in Presentations
Joseph Plunkett

Managing Director,
Mark Strand Theatre, New York City

A Series in Which
Mr. Harriman Chats
About Recognized Leaders

THERE is something fascinating about a theatre where things have happened during its existence which have marked it as a contributing factor in the establishment of theatrical precedence. But it is a rare event which finds perfection attained in the locals that first gave conception to it.

Three reasons may be ascribed to this unusual situation. First, a new idea was introduced by men with a vision. Second, it was given the proper attention during the critical period when the development was taking place. Third, a man who is basically a showman cultivated and properly presented it.

The Mark Strand theatre in New York City enjoys the distinction in the great family of motion picture theatres as being the first theatre in the world where presentations, prologue and symphony orchestras were introduced as part of a picture program. This theatre was the cradle of "de luxe" performances, but during the eleven years it has flourished as "a national institution," the last six have given it a recognition commensurate with its enviable position as a trail blazer and recognized leader. This period marks the managerial regime of Joseph Plunkett.

Mr. Plunkett is a product of the "good old show business." That statement clarifies the situation and is the elemental reason why this theatre, rich in tradition and achievement as far as the motion picture business is concerned, has prospered and contributed in the advancement of programs.

For years, Mr. Plunkett was the manager of such well known legitimate stars as William Faversham, Kyrle Bellew, Cyril Maude, Eleanor Robson, Mme. Rejane and William Hodge. He was thoroughly schooled in the theatre, and when he accepted the task of directing the activities of the Mark Strand Theatre with the direct supervision of all production work attendant to its presentations it was only natural that his work should show a spirit which was unconsciously carried from his long experience in the legitimate field.

Today, Mr. Plunkett has many outstanding presentation features which give him full right to be called a pioneer.

The "Plunkett Presentations" today emphasize a remarkable ability to develop a divertissement as a prologue, a feature directly connected with the picture is to follow. To illustrate this, Mr. Plunkett explained that the feature picture at his theatre usually followed the news reel. It would not be policy to proceed to the feature picture abruptly, as the greater part of the effect of the earlier scenes of the picture would be destroyed. The prologue presentation is the solution. In the news reel period the atmosphere of the present day is reflected, and the prologue is developed to create the proper atmosphere for the picture.

"But we must be careful," says Mr. Plunkett, "not to make the prologue a separate and distinct unit, so that when we come to the feature picture itself there is a mental break in the attention of the audience. To attain both of these results we first project the titles of the picture upon the scrim drop. There is no light back of this transparent drop. As the titles are projected from front, the scene at the back does not show. The moment the titles have been shown, the projecting beam from the booth is cut off, and the lights back stage come on to show a real and elaborate setting with people portraying characters in the photoplay on the stage scene.

"Thus the audience has been prepared for the picture, and by making the reality of the prologue pass naturally into the picture projection, we have not strained the credulity of our audience by making the usual abrupt transition. In other words, the audience sees at the beginning, real people of flesh and blood moving about in the atmosphere of the story, and a moment later they see the same characters on the screen; but we give them no opportunity to realize that one is real and the other merely a shadow."

Where such truly atmospheric prologues are produced Mr. Plunkett selects an elaborate setting of one of the principal scenes of the picture, and in a majority of cases he secures the original costumes used in filming the picture, to be worn by the people he uses in the prologue.

"The method of atmospheric transition into the proper mood and spirit of the photoplay which I have developed during my six years at the Strand, I think I owe to my long training in the theatre of the spoken word. I have tried to make motion picture presentations as real as stage presentations. Another element which I have carried into the theatre from the theatre of the spoken word has also to do with visualization."

"Whenever a song or an orchestral number suggests a scene or a happening or a definite atmosphere, I have illustrated the movement on the stage. For instance the orchestra we will say plays Liszt's 'Les Prelude.' The music suggests a storm. We show that on the stage. Then there is music which suggests a volcano. We show that in eruption and the final passages are pastoral. We have a shepherd leading sheep across the stage. And these are not motion pictures but actual staging and effects. For instance when the orchestra plays the '1812' overture we show Moscow in flames and the glare and noise of war. Whenever a song suggests a series of stage pictures we put them on the stage."

Mr. Plunkett concluded our interesting chat with—"Prologues and divertissements for singers and dancers are now a recognized part of the program of the motion picture theatres but the chief attraction is always the feature photoplay. Just how important a part these surrounding divertissements play in the attendance figures is hard to say. When the Mark Strand originated the present idea of motion picture presentation it was a novelty to hear good music in a photoplay house; now good music is expected for the public has been educated to it."

"The prologues I have been staging, have, I believe, a very definite value for the photoplay itself. For example—during the week the feature picture was 'Sally,' based on the musical comedy of the same title, the original music from the stage production was used for the music and ballet numbers. Sally, you will recall, was an East Side girl, and the opening scenes of the film were laid in the vicinity of her home. For the prologue an East Side set had been constructed; every detail was so faithfully produced that when the lights were dimmed and the screen lowered, the audience had been placed in the proper atmosphere of the photoplay. That is, I believe, the real function of the prologue."

Next Week

Production Helps

A list of technical books containing valuable information appertaining to stage settings, lighting, drapery treatments, and costuming.

Selected from American, British, German, Italian and French publications.

Mark Strand Theatre Anniversary Section

First "Million Dollar Movie House" Opened to Public Eleven Years Ago

THE New York Mark Strand Theatre, Broadway at Forty-Seventh Street, the first million dollar theatre devoted exclusively to motion pictures, was thrown open to the public on April 11, 1914. The eleventh anniversary of this history-making edifice will be celebrated during the week beginning April 12 with a special program arranged by Joseph Plunkett, managing director, the feature of which will be the Samuel Goldwyn-First National picture, "His Supreme Moment."

There is every indication that Mr. Plunkett, internationally famous as a builder of programs, a creator of prologues and a master of divertissements, will equal his best previous efforts in staging this anniversary program, if, indeed, he does not eclipse anything he has ever done along the lines that have made him famous.

The Mark Strand became a national institution (and achieved world-wide fame) because from the outset it began moulding public opinion to favor better pictures; has always demanded the best in pictureplays and as a result has compelled producers to aim higher than they would, perhaps, had there never been such an institution to urge them on.

Opened With "The Spoilers"

The fact remains that motion pictures in the year 1914 were not what they are today. Only a few of the recognized stars of that time remain in studio work now. The first picture shown in the Mark Strand was "The Spoilers," from the Rex Beach novel with William Farnum in the leading role, supported by Thomas Santschi, Kathlyn Williams, Bessie Eyton, and Marshall Farnum. Under Carl Edouarde, the orchestra played the Hungarian Rhapsodie No. 2 for the overture followed by incidental music and singing; a Keystone comedy and then the feature, a four reel Selig production.

The opening of the Mark Strand diverted the attention of New York theatre critics to a new form of entertainment, and one in which this theatre has been the pacemaker from the beginning. The original policy of showing one feature picture a week has remained unchanged with few exceptions, when specially meritorious pictures have been held over a second week (rarely a third week). One might trace from the beginning the screen career of many famous stars through the booking register at the Mark Strand.

Mary Pickford Emerges

Within four months after the opening of the Strand, Mary Pickford was seen in "The Eagle's Mate." Many treasured memories are conjured up by this Famous Players production, starring "The World's Sweetheart" and directed by James Kirkwood, who also played the leading male role. "Little Mary" (as she was known to the fans in the old days of one and two reel pictures) dawned on those larger audiences in the Strand as a new beauty. With each succeeding picture

(Continued on following page)

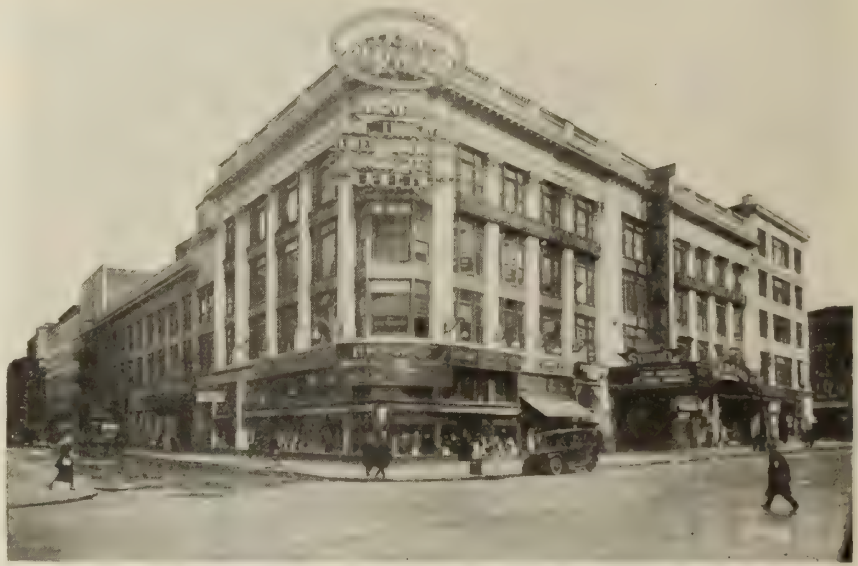
Moe Mark, head of the chain of Mark Strand theatres, in the center. Joseph Plunkett, Managing Director of the New York Mark Strand, at the left. Carl Edouarde, Musical Director at the Strand, at the right.

Strand Theatre Anniversary

(Continued from preceding page)

("Such a Little Queen," "Cinderella," "Mistress Nell," "Fanchon the Cricket," etc.) Miss Pickford cemented her grasp on her public and rapidly became famous.

What is true of Miss Pickford is very true of many other stars, whose first pictures were shown at the Strand. The history of this house not only follows closely the history of production through the years when D. W. Griffith was climbing up to "The Birth of a Nation," and other producers were striving for "bigger and better pictures," but the Strand laid down a policy of selecting its attractions, and the points that made pictures eligible for showing have been strengthened through the years.



THE NEW YORK MARK STRAND THEATRE

Built twelve years ago, this theatre attracted world-wide attention as it was announced that only motion pictures would be shown n it—one picture each week.

"The Daddy of 'Em All"

Going still further back, it is now upwards of thirty years since the late Mitchell H. Mark, the founder, and Moe Mark, also a founder and now head of the company operating the Mark Strand chain, started in business in a small, Buffalo basement, with a 5-cent "show." Moe Mark "barked" tickets on the sidewalk, and Mitchell "operated" the quaint little "theatre." The Ellicott Square Building has since risen on the site of the building that housed their first "theatre," the first motion picture theatre in the world.

The same brothers, in October, 1912, gathered a little group about them, and undertook to lease the site of the old Brewster carriage factory on which to build the "first million dollar motion picture theatre." The group included Mitchell H. Mark as president; Moe Mark as vice-president; Eugene L. Falk, treasurer; Walter Hays and Joseph M. Levenson on the board of directors. Two years later the house was opened.

"The White Lights" gradually moved uptown to meet, and ultimately pass, the Mark Strand.

With the death of Mitchell H. Mark, Moe succeeded to the presidency, and Mr. Hays became the vice-president. The Mitchell H. Mark Realty Corporation, owning and operating the Mark Strand theatres, is headed by Moe Mark as president and general manager; Walter Hays, vice-president; Eugene L. Falk, treasurer; Joseph Levenson, secretary; Morris Sharaf and Mrs. M. H. Mark, directors. Mr. Mark is the First National franchise holder for New York State, and Mr. Hays is now president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of the State of New York.

Carl Edouarde, conductor of the symphony orchestra of the theatre, who began at the beginning and remains to this day, has built up the Mark Strand orchestra until it is in a class by itself, clinging to the traditions that made it famous, and adding to its value as the years pass.

An Innovation

Among the innovations inaugurated by the Mark Strand was the cosmetics suite, where, "At the Sign of the Lipstick," a charming lounging room for the ladies, they are made to feel wholly at home.

The New York Mark Strand has attracted visitors from all parts of the world, and architects the world over have made use of ideas gleaned from this institution to build "palaces" in their own sections of the world.

Thousands of letters and telegrams have been received, and are daily arriving at the Strand, for the founders and officials felicitating them, on the occasion of the eleventh anniversary.

The Revolving Stage

Among the novel features of the Mark Strand stage is the revolving stage used by Mr. Plunkett in staging his charming divertissments. With this stage, it is possible to set four scenes at one time, and since its introduction, last Winter, many beautiful scenes have been evolved for presentation on the unique stage.

CONGRATULATIONS
TO
Mr. MOE MARK
On the Eleventh Anniversary of the
NEW YORK MARK STRAND

LEIGHTON'S

Counsellors of Fashion
SMART CLOTHES
AND HABERDASHERY
Broadway at 47th Street, New York
Your Friend in the Picture Business
Is Our Patron—Ask him!

The Mark Strand Theatre, of New York, started with the

Pathe News

After ten years they are still using it.

Quality tells in a quality house.

They have used 1,040 issues, each with its punch, laugh and thrill.

Congratulations to the Strand on its anniversary—

And congratulations to the Strand for its ten years' friendship with the oldest and best news reel.

A Tribute from The Art Department

Jay Weaver

director of the Art Department, who as one of the two oldest associates in number of years connection with the New York Mark Strand and the oldest with the Mark Strand Realty Corp., mentions with pride, his twelve years' affiliation with the House of Mark Strand.
—and pays his respects to the various National Advertisers and periodicals who patronize his Commercial Art.

Ken Greene

is proud of his affiliation with the Mark Strand through his association with Jay Weaver in the Art Department—and his work is available in the Commercial Art field.

JOHN J. ROCHE

congratulates the Mark Strand on its eleventh birthday. Mr. Roche supplies the Lobby Display lettering for the Art Department through

SIGN KRAFTERS

SPENCER TURBINE CLEANER CO.

Central Vacuum Cleaners

For Theatres

and All Types of Buildings

101 Park Avenue New York, N. Y.

S. MARKENDORFF

159 West 23rd St. New York City

Telephone 2483 Chelsea

MANUFACTURER OF

Theatre Lobby Display Frames

Box Offices Framed Mirrors

Ticket Takers Boxes, etc.

The new equipment of lobby and exterior display frames at the Mark Strand Theatre, New York City, were supplied by us.

Congratulations

The following telegram was among the many received by Moe Mark, president of the Mark Strand theatres organization, on the eleventh anniversary of the New York Mark Strand:

"New York, April 9, 1925.

"The Austin Organ Company wish to congratulate Mr. Moe Mark and his associates on their eleventh anniversary. It always has been a great pleasure to do business with the Strand Company on account of the pleasant relations and confidence that have existed between us. Once more, we extend our hearty congratulations and best wishes for the continued success of the splendid officials and employees of the Mark Strand Theatre."

(Signed) "H. BROWN,
"New York Representative."

Jay Weaver's Anniversary

Anytime Anybody Says "Celebrate," "J. W." Goes Right to It!

Jay Weaver, Art Director of the Mark Strand Theatre, is having an anniversary celebration of his own, this week.

Mr. Weaver is the oldest employee in the Mark Strand Theatres organization having been associated with the Mark Brothers in their theatrical enterprises in Buffalo.

When the Mark Strand was opened on Broadway eleven years ago, Mr. Weaver attained almost immediate recognition as being the creator of a new idea of theatre exploitation. He introduced hand painted art-posters as a substitute for lithographs.

The years that have elapsed attest to the practicability of the idea which Jay Weaver started and developed. Other theatres have copied them.

One of the best things to come from his studio are the display posters done in oil on Scotch canvas. These posters are highly artistic, reminding one of an old tapestry, and rich in color

THE PRESENT

STAGE DRAPERIES

MADE FOR THE FIRST

Million Dollar Theatre

THE

NEW YORK MARK STRAND

WERE INSTALLED BY

A. FERGUSON

Fabric Scenery

925 6th Avenue New York

First National Pictures

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES

form the backbone service of this great
NEW YORK Theatre

The

MARK STRAND

When you book—let PERFORMANCE
be your guide

Get "THE WINNER GROUP"—September, 1925 to September, 1926

"Markendorff's Lobby"

New Frames in Mark Strand Designed and Executed by New York Firm

The Mark Strand theatre, celebrating its eleventh anniversary, now boasts the finest lobby display of any Broadway motion picture theatre. Five huge frames of gold leaf trimming, red plush background for still photographs and with the edges in heavy mirrors, have just been installed in the main lobby. Until the new frames were placed, it had been the system to use panelled removable frames and the usual lobby boards.

Now, with the new frames, the entire lobby appearance is changed. The lobby has the appearance of a new theatre entrance. Aside from the lobby attractiveness, the still photographs of coming attractions of the Mark Strand are displayed to unusual advantage. The attention of the patron is attracted immediately, not with a "flash," but because of the richness and dignity of the display.

S. Markendorff, of 159 West 23d street, New York City, who has done the Mark Strand theatre's work since its opening, is responsible for the new lobby frames. He not only made the designs, but he executed the work, even to the last bit of installation.

Attention is also called to the exterior, or sidewalk, display frames, which have just been installed by Mr. Markendorff, which are the last word in design, construction and finish.

The luxurious "At the Sign of the Lipstick" suite of the theatre was another outstanding work of Mr. Markendorff. It will be recalled that "At the Sign of the Lipstick" was opened a year ago as the first suite reserved for milady where she could apply the lipstick. It is called the "cosmetics suite" and the cost was around $25,000. It is held as a model for theatres all over the country as the latest feature to attract the patronage of the discriminating woman.

An Orchestral Feature

An excellent musical composition has been recently published which will prove a popular selection for the interlude spot of a program or a "b" number of an overture feature.

The composition "Peachy" by Percy Wenrich is a novelty intermezzo fox trot. Mr. Wenrich is the composer of such popular hits as "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," "In the Purple Twilight," "All Muddled Up," etc. The L. L. VosBurgh Music Company, 1547 Broadway, New York City, are the publishers.

Mark Strand Anniversary Programme

The eleventh anniversary of the New York Mark Strand theatre will be celebrated the week beginning Sunday, April 12, with the biggest program of the year.

In musical numbers, novelties for concert artists and ballet corps and in the film feature, Joseph Plunkett, the managing director, has arranged his outstanding offering.

"His Supreme Moment," the George Fitzmaurice production for Samuel Golowyn, co-starring Ronald Colman and Blanche Sweet, is the feature picture, and the program opens with selections of "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni) for the overture. Carl Edouarde, conductor of the Mark Strand symphony orchestra, will be in the pit, and Kitty McLaughlin, soprano, and the entire Mark Strand ensemble will appear in the overture number.

A two-part divertissement follows. First is "At the Barber Shop," a novelty, with the Mark Strand male quartette. Next is "Four of a Kind," piano quartette with Geraldine Valliere featured.

The topical review follows, then the anniversary divertissement, "The Birthday Cake." Pauline Miller, the musical comedy girl, will sing a duet with Everett Clark, tenor, and the cakewalk for the birthday party follows. Mlle. Klemova, premiere danseuse, M. Daks and the Mark Strand ballet corps with Anatole Bourman, the ballet master, will do the cakewalk.

The feature photoplay follows; then a film novelty, and the organ solo closes the program.

THE
AUSTIN ORGAN CO.
of
HARTFORD, CONN. is proud of their installation of one of their largest organs in the
NEW YORK
MARK STRAND
The first million dollar motion picture theatre in the world.

"At the Sign of the Saxophone"

CONN
47th St. at Broadway
STRAND THEATRE BLDG.
NEW YORK CITY

CONN Band Instruments and Saxophones

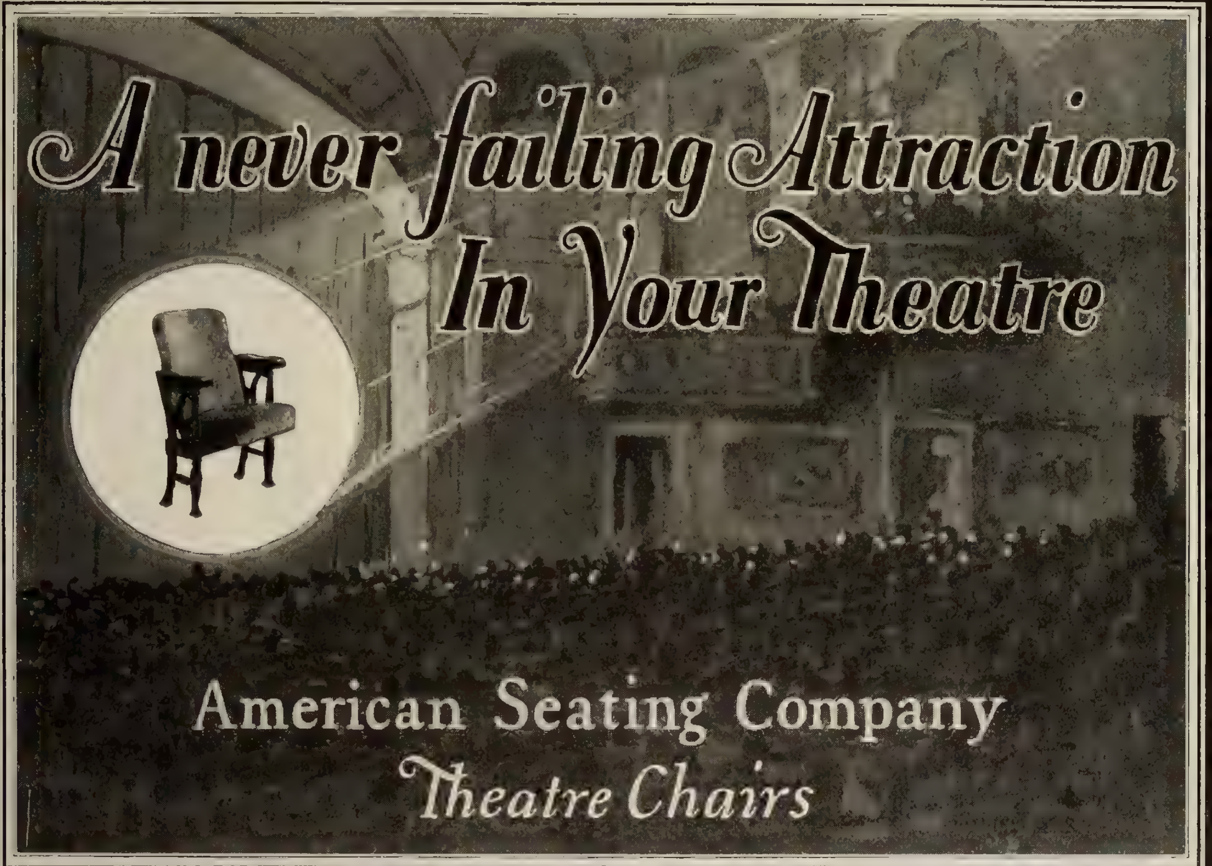
are used and endorsed by the Strand Theatre Orchestra and all the leading Theatre, Symphony and Dance Orchestras

*Free Catalog on Any Instrument
Write for your copy*



American Seating Company
CHICAGO
Offices in All Principal Cities
Installation Everywhere

SELLING the PICTURE to the PUBLIC

EDITED BY EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

What the Public Library Gains from Film Cooperation

By INA BREVOORT ROBERTS

Publicity Representative, Cleveland Public Library

(NOTE: While this story occupies more space than is customarily allotted by this department to a single article, it is offered in the belief that it will not only materially assist exhibitors to obtain library co-operation in their towns, but will aid in strengthening co-operation already obtained. The Cleveland Public Library is the pioneer in a sustained and comprehensive use of film co-operation, and its methods and deductions cannot but help other librarians. Show this story to your local librarian if co-operation already exists. Many librarians fail to get the fullest results from their co-operation because they do not know how to most fully develop the idea. You are not doing your share unless you aid your library to gain the fullest possible results. This will show them how.—E. W. S.)

LIBRARY FILM co-operation begun, so far as we know, by the Cleveland Public Library and carried on a wave of popularity through the country, is too well known to need repetition here. What, perhaps, may not be so well known, or possibly it would be more accurate to say, may not be apparent, is the basic reason for this popularity. Library-film co-operation is popular because it is successful and it is successful because it really is co-operation.

Instead of two forces, each trying to use the other solely for its own ends, as in the old days when the film industry ignored library ideals and educators and reformers strove for the producing and showing of films that, however moral and educational they might be, were so lacking in dramatic value that they inevitably unrolled their reels to empty theatres—instead of all this we now have two mighty forces cooperating; comprising, not ideals but the prejudices that came from ignorance of each other's point of view; adapting; co-ordinating: in other words, achieving big things as a result of better understanding.

The Public Library cooperates with current films that fit a required standard as to merit and suitable book connections. The mention of book connections at once suggests the popular novel. With this the Cleveland Public Library can seldom cooperate unless there are book connections other than the novel itself. The reason is that a special aim of the Libray in co operation is the advertising of books for which increased circulation is desired.

Now a library cannot afford to buy too many copies of a best seller; copies that will lie idle on the shelves as soon as the book's popularity has waned. This means that in Cleveland at least, co-operation is sometimes denied films excellent in themselves. This condition probably does not apply so emphatically to libraries in smaller places.

Sometimes co-operation is withheld because, while the book connections are satisfactory, the film is not: perhaps it is too sensational; perhaps the film does not sufficiently preserve the plot or the atmosphere of the book from which it was made, as is the case of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles." On the other hand, it is but fair to state, co-operation is occasionally withheld when the film is highly satisfactory but the book from which it was made is one for which the Library does not care to promote an increased demand. "The Lady of Quality" is an illustration of this last-named point.

Historicals Are Best

Historical films, generally speaking, are richest in book connections. While co-operation with best sellers is not usually practicable, notable exceptions to this rule occur when the best seller in question has book connections other than the novel itself.

Films made from published plays are suitable when the published play is in the Library or when the other works of the author are sufficient to furnish material for co-operation. "The Fighting Coward," made from the play, "Magnolia," by Booth Tarkington, invited co-operation with the literature division, where plays are kept, also with the history and travel books. In addition, stills were featured in the fiction division with a display of southern stories.

The Cleveland presentation of the play, "The Nervous Wreck," was made the occasion of a special display of humorous novels. Often co-operation is possible in the foreign language division, where books in 26 languages may be found. For instance, the fact that the Cleveland Public Library carries "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" in Croatian, French, German, Greek and Hungarian, as well as in three English editions, greatly increased the value to the library of co-operation with that film.

The Library's Angle

What all this can do for the picture is obvious; what film co-operation accomplishes for the Library may not be so well understood. Before the Cleveland Public Library's present plan of active co-operation was begun, about a year and a half ago, the fiction division was the only one whose circulation was materially affected by the coming of any particular film. What the present plan has accomplished, among other things, is to set a large number of film fans to reading history, biography, and travel by calling attention to books that are as interesting and oftentimes as fanciful or romantic as fiction. Where, in fiction, for instance, can you find the counterpart of the story of Joan of Arc? Here is one of those stories that "could not be true, yet is."

Very good examples of what film co-operation does for the Library in the way of increased circulation for worthwhile books are contained in the following paragraphs written by the Cleveland Library's editor for the staff paper, "The Library Log."

"The rather elaborate weaving together of films and books has been productive of much approving comment, besides other re-

A Warner Brothers Release

TWO OF THE DISPLAYS USED BY THE CLEVELAND PUBLIC LIBRARY ON BEAU BRUMMEL

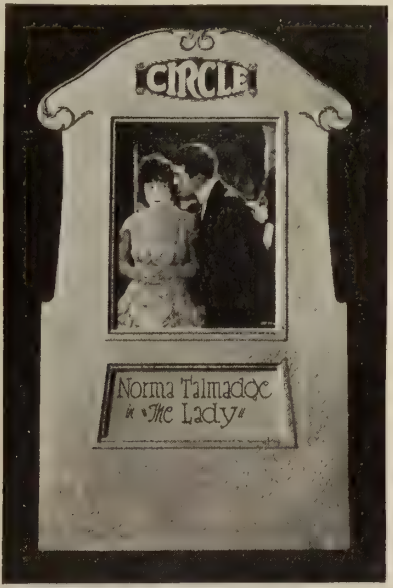
On the left is the display of the Division of History, Travel and Biography on books relating to the England of the time of the Beau. On the right is a display of the fiction devoted to the same period in history. This is a good illustration of the hook-up possibilities of an unpublished play. It still sells the distribution of sound reading matter.

Neat Window Card Easily Renewable

Here's another good idea from the fertile mind of Ben F. Caldwell, Art Director of the Circle Theatre, Indianapolis. It is a window card that gets into places where the average accessory is barred. He is at present using 21 of these in the highest class windows in town.

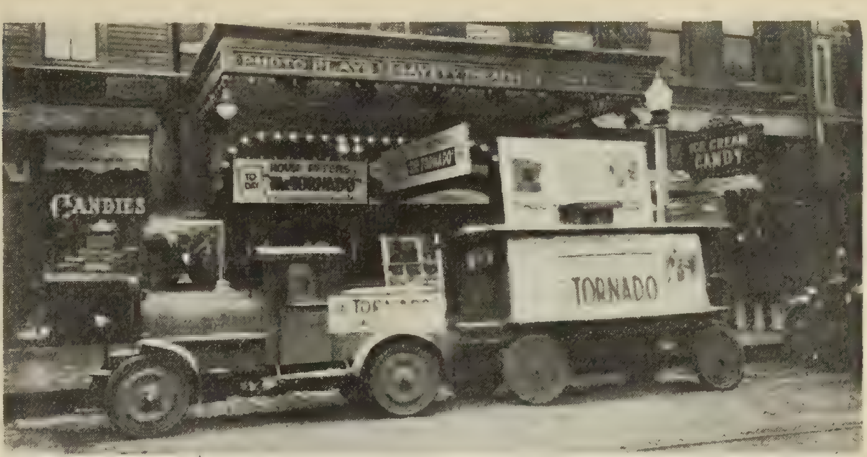
The size of the card may be judged from the size of the still, which is the usual 8 x 10, though it can be scaled to any size. The important measurement is that from the bottom of the title card to the bottom of the frame. This should be not less than five inches, to lift the title above the display articles placed in front.

The foundation is three-ply laminated board, (veneer) sprayed with stucco and then airbrushed for a stipple, this being changed from time to time, gold, colored metallics and water colors being used. The ornamentation at the top line is added at a frame factory, and probably will be beyond the reach of many exhibitors, but this can be put on if you can model a little.



A First National Release.

FOR THE LADY



A Universal Release

THIS ENGINE AND CABOOSE WERE A KNOCKOUT IN CHICAGO

Harry Kauffman, of the Gayety Theatre, Chicago, aided by Jack Edwards, Universalist, made up an engine and caboose to tour South Chicago with the slogan, "Clear the track, The Tornado is coming." First time a tornado ever shipped as freight.

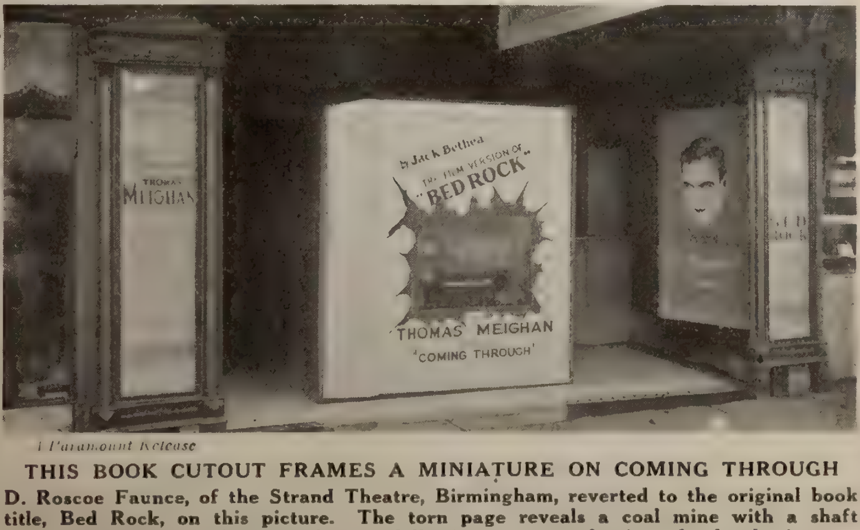
Caldwell has die-stamped metal channels at the back to form a holder for still and cards, but if you cannot afford this expense, cut a thin cardboard strip the dimensions of the bottom and sides of the still. Glue or tack this down and then use another and slightly larger piece to extend over this, so that the card or still may be slipped in from the top and be held in place by the projection.

With this foundation idea you can figure your own changes and get a costly looking frame at comparatively small expense.

Hearts and Masks

In addition to cutouts of the three sheets on A Thief in Paradise, Col. Fred Levy used a double string of alternate hearts and masks across the lobby of the Kentucky Theatre, Lexington, Ky.

The hearts were lettered with "love" legends such as "A little bit of love" and "A stolen kiss or two, or three," while the masks work on the thief end of the story, with somewhat similar legends. Both masks and hearts were red, lettered in white, and gave strong coloring. A straight banner was used at the top of the display.



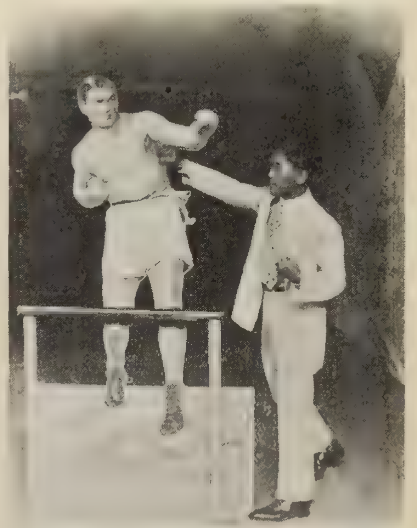
A Paramount Release

THIS BOOK CUTOUT FRAMES A MINIATURE ON COMING THROUGH

D. Roscoe Faunce, of the Strand Theatre, Birmingham, reverted to the original book title, Bed Rock, on this picture. The torn page reveals a coal mine with a shaft opening and a mule car and some doll miners, a reproduction of a local mine.

Pancho Villa Aids Dempsey's Series

Pancho Villa, flyweight champion of the world, is the local hero in Philippine fistiana, and when the Jack Dempsey series was brought to Manila he was invited to a special performance, along with other local notables, and later was photographed punching Dempsey's cutout in the midriff.



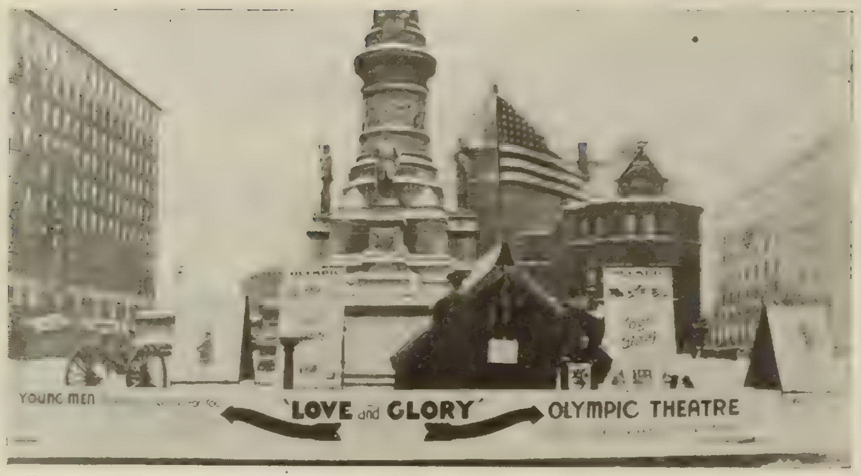
A Universal Release.

PANCHO AND JACK

All of the audience gave letters of commendations and if you are tired of the "Kids" and "Youngs" of our own mitt actors, it is refreshing to read of Elino Flores, Clever Sencio, Jack Perez and Francisco and Macario Flores. They all told Dempsey he was good, but they are mostly lightweights. Possibly another heavyweight might not have been so appreciative.

Played to Blondes

Because Jane Novak and Sigrid Holmquist, who have the leads in Two Shall Be Born, are both pronounced blondes, the America Theatre, Port Angeles, Wash., gave a special Sunday morning showing to blondes only. It went over big!



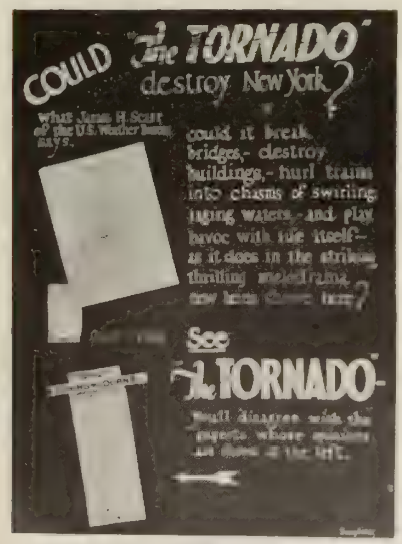
A Universal Release

ANOTHER RECRUITING TIE-UP ON LOVE AND GLORY

Hooking to the Army service in Buffalo gave the Olympic Theatre a chance to invade Lafayette Square, which never had been used for advertising theatrical attractions. The stunt was engineered by Nash Weil, manager of the theatre.

Made Science Talk Presswork Tornado

This cut shows a display board used during the second week of The Tornado at Moss's Broadway Theatre, New York. It was evolved by Joe Weil, of the Universal staff.



COULD The TORNADO destroy New York?
what James H. Scarr of the U.S. Weather Bureau says. could it break bridges,- destroy buildings,- hurl trains into chasms of swirling raging waters,- and play havoc with life itself- as it does in the striking thrilling melodrama
See
The TORNADO

A Universal Release

THE TORNADO BOARD

The letter is a reply from the local forecaster as to what a Tornado might do to New York. Just below is a letter to the editor from the columns of the Sun, and at the bottom is a clipping of the Serviss science article in the Evening Journal.

Serviss, who writes a daily article, was glad to get a suggestion for a story and it made fine copy for the board.

Weil sent a letter to the editor of every paper, each with a different signature and written from a different angle. He suggests that similar letters will bring copy to almost any exhibitor who works a week in advance of the engagement. It certainly is worth trying.

Sends His Holdout to Sister Theatre

Carl F. Miller, of Fremont, Ohio, owns two theatres, the Strand and the Fremont. The latter was not as popular as the Strand, which was the first choice of most patrons, for no particular reason.

After the Strand was packed the standout was split between the Fremont and an opposition. Miller hated to see that happen. He figured that Frivolous Sal, at the Fremont, should please them, if they could be led from the idea that they simply had to get into the Strand, so he printed a coupon offering two for a quarter at the Fremont.

He had the pleasure of seeing most of the turnaway travel off to the Fremont instead of splitting between that and the opposition, and he figures that even at the reduction he is on the winning side, since he played to more cash than he did the previous week.

Offered a Pass on Forty Winks

It is not new, but offering a pass to anyone who could sleep through the showing of Forty Winks helped to fill the Galax Theatre, Birmingham, Ala. Jack T. Turner took the idea from the suggestion supplied by the Theatres Department of Paramount, and this copy is so good that we are reproducing it for the benefit of those who are not on Mr. Franklin's mailing list. It runs:

"If you can get forty winks during 'Forty Winks' you're super human. And if you can prove that you are capable of just that you can have a season pass to the Galax Theatre free. Here's the dope:

Good Copy

"Many of the theatre patrons of Birmingham have developed the habit of taking their little snooze while the missus is watching the program. Now, then, if any man, woman or child can produce proof that they have slept through the showing of 'Forty Winks,' which is now showing all this week at the Galax Theatre, the management will gladly refund your admission money, and we won't ask a doctor to examine you. We don't think it's possible—because 'Forty Winks' is just one loud laugh from start to finish."

Likes It

Frank Panoplos, of the Lyric Theatre, McKeesport, Pa., is one of the first managers to report results with the Paramount Cross Word puzzle books.

He landed a hundred of the books on a local dealer through a prize offer, ten tickets for the best solution with four, three, two and one for the next four. This makes twenty tickets in all, and it looks as though more books would be needed.

It is only an indirect stunt, but he gets credit for participation and in addition he will collect in the additional interest taken in the stars and titles which are worked into the puzzles.

A Universal Release

OLD STUFF, PERHAPS, BUT STILL IN THE RING

The local Buick agency supplied a car to be devoted to the use of K, the UnKnown. Spiro Ford, of the Strand Theatre, Jamestown, N. Y., supplied the masked man to pose as K, and the car was used for a variety of exploitation ideas.

Faked a Tornado For a Lobby Stunt

There is nothing like selling a picture on a sample, and J. F. Cartwright, of the Rialto Theatre, Chattanooga, Tenn., built a twig forest in his lobby and then built in a tornado.

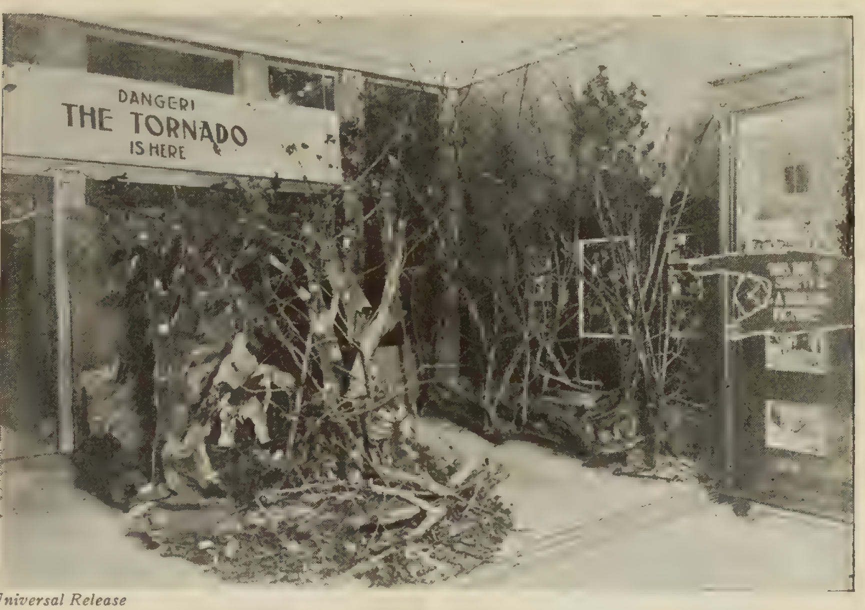
The branches were so firmly fastened that when a large fan, concealed in an upper corner of the lobby, was in motion the miniature trees swayed violently. A timer device turned off the current at the end of about a minute and gave an equal period of rest. This was better than a continuous stunt and the timid could scuttle to the shelter of the box office when the storm paused.

Won Attention

The stunt was more realistic than the photograph suggests, and it brought the better part of the town to the theatre to see the effect. Naturally many of them stayed.

The large fist on the right of the picture reads: "This way to safety and a thrilling picture."

Earle E. Griggs, of the Universal exploitation staff, helped in the construction, so we presume that Jerome Beatty has relayed the idea to the other offices, in case you are interested.



A Universal Release

A LARGE FAN MADE A REAL TORNADO IN THIS FOREST

It was timed for one minute alternations of rest and action in the lobby of the Rialto Theatre, Chattanooga, and the effect was so realistic that it very materially aided the business on the Universal-Jewel release of that title.

Scatters Helped

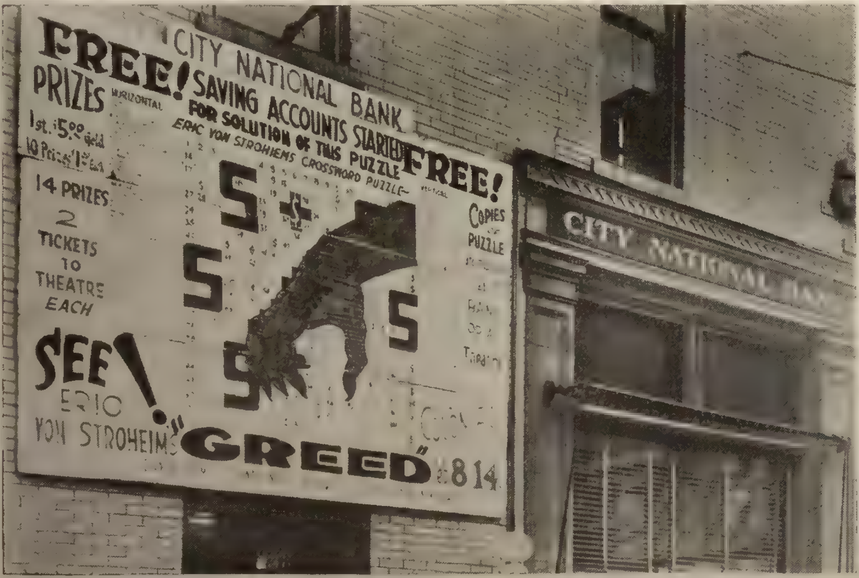
Two and three inch singles helped put over Greed at the Alhambra Theatre, Milwaukee. These supplemented the main announcement and helped to convince the readers that Greed must be something bigger and better or the theatre would not go to the extra expense to attract attention. The cross word puzzle was employed and with a number of book hook-ups the picture was put over well.

One new stunt was to lay off the picture of McTeague holding the canary in its cage to a pet animal store. This was a large oil painting and the store was glad to make room for it.

Still Running

Most managers who picked up Fred V. Greene's birthday stunts some years ago have forgotten them. An exception is the Royal Theatre, Dartmouth, N. S.

This Canadian house inaugurated the scheme of giving its juvenile patrons a birthday party a couple of years ago. It is still getting a column or more in the local paper for the announcements of birthday parties and letters from the "club members" and it has become as valuable to the newspaper as its own children's department would be if it had one. The stunt saves the paper the trouble of conducting such a circulation feature and at the same time keeps the Royal in the minds of everyone. The longer such a stunt runs the better it gets to be.



A Metro-Goldwyn Release

SOMETHING NEW IN A SAVINGS BANK COOPERATION

The City National Bank, of Lansing, Mich., used this 20 foot crossword puzzle on Greed to interest in its services, hooking to the Colonial Theatre. Copies of the puzzle, which was taken from the press book, could be had for home solution.

Makes Wall Banner From X-word Puzzle

Live banks are quick to appreciate the value of a tie up to the pictures in getting accounts for their savings departments, but the City National Bank, of Lansing, Mich., struck a new lead when it hooked in to the cross word puzzle on Greed in the Metro-Goldwyn plan book.

This was reproduced upon a banner twenty feet wide, placed on the side of the bank building. It was fully lettered in, but for the convenience of the puzzlers smaller copies could be had from the bank or the Colonial Theatre, where the picture was playing.

The prizes were a capital prize of $5 in gold, ten one dollar prizes and fourteen pairs of seats to Greed. Presumably the bank made the usual stipulation that the money was to remain on deposit for one year, but fifteen dollars would have been little enough to pay for a chance to advertise in this live wire fashion.

Impressed Them

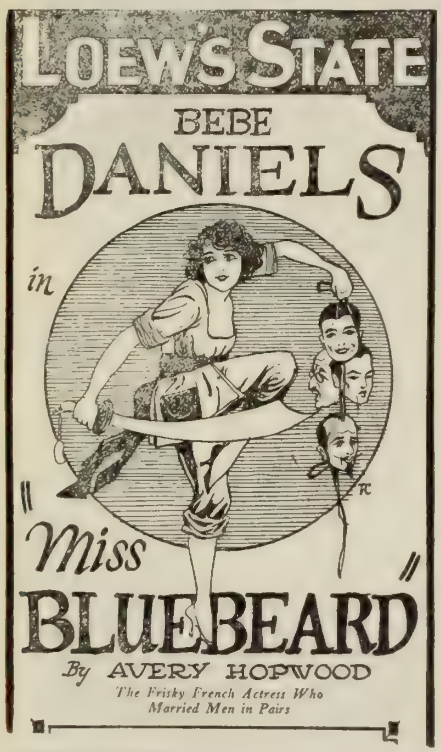
Because he had Norma Talmadge in The Only Woman Monday and Tuesday instead of Friday and Saturday, H. B. Clarke, of the Garing Theatre, Greenville, S. C., took a specially big newspaper ad on Monday morning. That made them realize that there was something extra on and the attraction did the best Monday-Tuesday business since the house switched to three changes a week. Of course he had to have a Norma Talmadge to back up the stunt.

Live Models

Hooking to the hospital scenes in K the Unknown, Brock, of the Strand Theatre, Knoxville, Tenn., persuaded a furniture store to turn a show window into an operating room. A department store loaned the live models who posed in the windows.

Attractor Cut Is Not True to Play

This upper portion of an advertisement for the State Theatre, Cleveland, on Miss Bluebeard, is not in M. A. Malaney's usual style. It suggests an Oriental farce rather than the delightful little modern play it is, and unless the reader has seen the stage original, he will not know that this is a modern story and not a fantasy. He is much more apt to patronize the modern story. Just below the title is a little eight point line that, were it played up, would sell a great many more tickets than the fantastic cut. It runs: "The frisky French actress who married men in pairs." It seems to us that this line will sell more tickets than will a cut that does not run true. The cut is an attractor but it bears no relationship to the play and is misleading. The line is the crux of the farce and it will suggest the lively Miss Daniels in a part that might have been made to order. This is only a part of the display, the lower third being given to the added attractions. Probably Mr. Malaney did not see the play in advance. If he had we think he would have been decidedly more enthusiastic. It has been a long time since Miss Daniels has had so good a vehicle. Is was worth a stronger endorsement.



LOEW'S STATE
BEBE
DANIELS
in
"Miss BLUEBEARD"
By AVERY HOPWOOD
The Frisky French Actress Who Married Men in Pairs

A Paramount Release
A MISLEADING CUT

Straight Type Work Needs Good Display

Here is an all-type advertisement from Rochester, N. Y., just a 50 by 2 on Madonna of the Streets. In so small a space the house wisely refrains from trying to do much talking, and depends upon a single appeal. Unfortunately the printer weakens this with all capitals. Probably everyone will read those three lines, but the point is that they would have read them more easily had they been set in upper and lower. Contrast the star name with the title. You'll find that it is easier to read because it was set upper and lower. Probably this, too, would have been all caps had the printer been able to jam the cap letters in, but there was not room in that size, so he was compelled to use lower case, and gets a legible name. That "Nazimova" would have been a terrible wreck in all caps had he used a condensed letter, and probably the only reason he did not use condensed was the fact that he did not have it. It's the only thing that holds this legible, for two heavy cap lines would have killed the space.

PICCADILLY
Week
Beginning
Today

Mme. Nazimova
RETURNING TO THE SCREEN IN A GREAT DRAMA THAT GOES DEEP INTO THE TRUTHS OF LIFE.
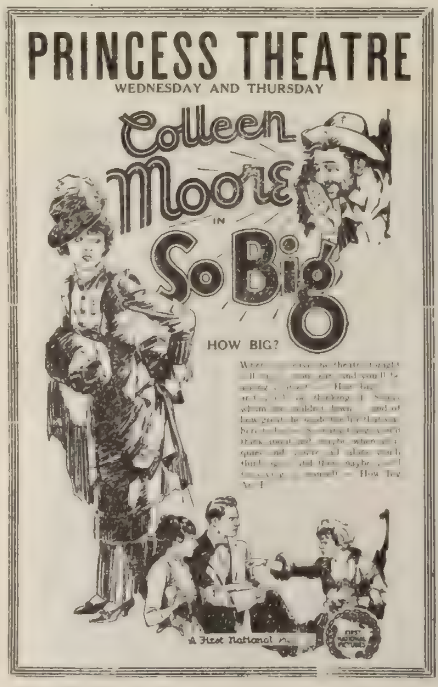
MADONNA OF THE STREETS
WITH
MILTON SILLS
From the Novel by W. A. Maxwell, "THE RAGGED MESSENGER"
WEEK OF FEBRUARY 8 — IF I MARRY AGAIN

A First National Release
KILL THE CAPS

Plan Book Cut Is Bulk of a Display

This announcement of the Princess Theatre, Rushville, Ind., is practically all plan book, for we believe that the copy is also from the First National book on So Big. But since it does its work so adequately, it would be foolish to seek to better it, so the Princess added merely the house name and the playing dates and let it go at that. The figure of Colleen Moore does most of the selling, but we think that some mention of the Ferber book would have helped, even though most persons will connect the play with the book.



PRINCESS THEATRE
WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY
Colleen
Moore
IN So Big
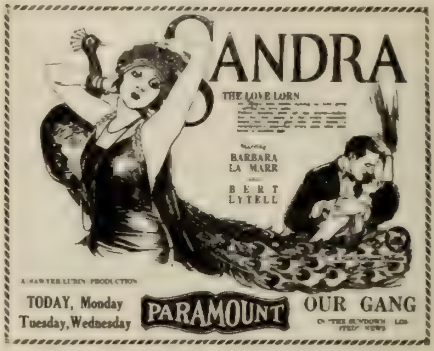
HOW BIG?
A First National Picture

A First National Release
ALL PLAN BOOK

Wide Cut Provides Nice Display Frame

This five column cut on Sandra from the First National book gives the Paramount Theatre, Logansport, Ind., a nice frame for its sales talk. The space is mortised and the design acts as a frame for the sales talk, while the comedy is carried below. As the paper uses the wide column and the plan book cuts are schemed to let in a rule on the narrow twelve em measure, the cut provides not only for a rule but for a little white space that keeps the cut from being crowded. This provides a better layout than some of the narrow but deeper three column cuts, though most of these can be worked into a wider space since First National seldom plans the cut to set against the rules, with straight edges. Most of them can be worked in any size space and are not limited to the column width, as is sometimes the case with other mats.

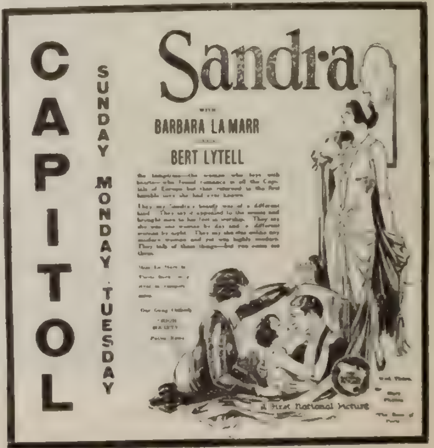


SANDRA
THE LOVE LORN
BARBARA
LA MARR
BERT
LYTELL
TODAY, Monday
Tuesday, Wednesday
PARAMOUNT
OUR GANG

A First National Release
NICELY LAID OUT

Widens a Space by Adding a Vertical

Apparently the Capitol Theatre, Clinton, Ind., sought to use a three column cut in a four column space by adding a signature and dates in vertical lettering. The result of this advertisement on Sandra is not altogether good. A much better layout would have resulted had the house name been set



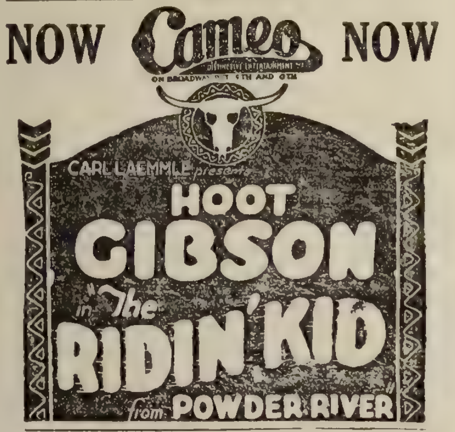
CAPITOL
SUNDAY MONDAY TUESDAY
Sandra
WITH
BARBARA LA MARR
BERT LYTELL
A First National Picture

A First National Release
RATHER MAKESHIFT

in eighteen point, spaced, to the left of the play title with the three days of the run below. Then Miss LaMarr and Lytell could have gone on a single line just below; the signature being held well above them. This would have given all that space to the left in which to set the sales talk in a light twelve point where it would have gotten a great deal more than double the display. This cut is so planned that it does not have to set against rule on the left. It would be possible to run type down and to have gotten a very sightly display where the present form largely suggests a makeshift. Vertical letters seldom look as well as horizontal lines, and the house name would have been amply displayed in an eighteen point.

Reverse Panel Is But Partly Good

This two fours from the Cameo Theatre, Los Angeles, has a good display of Gibson and the first half of his title, but "Powder River" is almost crowded out through the use of a smaller letter, and you have to look sharp to see that "Carl Laemmle presents." The idea is to get a big display in a small space, but if the device used tends to sink the letters, it is better to shift to some other idea. That border should hold the space to itself, and with type lettering, small enough to get white space value, an all type would have been better than this lettered reverse. It is an experiment that did not work out very well. Reverse so seldom does work well that it hardly pays to experiment with it.



NOW Cameo NOW

Distinctive Entertainment

ON BROADWAY BET. 5TH AND 6TH

CARL LAEMMLE presents

HOOT GIBSON

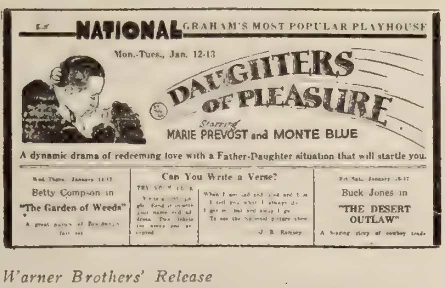
in "The RIDIN' KID from POWDER RIVER"

A Universal Release

GIVES THE TITLE

Larmour Duplicates a Crossword Man

M. W. LARMOUR, of the National Theatre, Graham, Texas, sends in a batch of stuff including the cross word man which, if we recall, was originally from Manager Stewart, of Casper, Wyo. Mr. Larmour, however, has changed to get in the words, where Mr. Stewart used only the outline. It's tough filling in the legs with two letter words, but they got it over. The design is not very strong because the office of the Graham Leader is not equipped with the black squares, but the compositor worked it out on the machine and that portion of the space is entirely machine set. No prizes were offered for the solution, but Mr. Larmour posted the answer in his lobby, figuring that those who came to verify their work would probably want to see the pictures which were Forbidden Paradise, The Fast Set and The Heart of the West. Mr. Larmour sends in a number of ad examples, which are good small town work. He writes that Graham has a population of about 3,000, and the Leader comes out once a week, which means that he must get his entire program over at one jump. Presumably he uses throwaways now and then, though he has not sent any up. The Leader is staffed by five men, two of whom are also the owners. One owner edits the paper and reads proof and the other is the business office and advertising solicitor. They have one machine hand, an ad man and a job hand. The ad man is very much on the job and he and Mr. Larmour go over the copies of this department and study the examples. The result shows in the appearance of the local compositions. This is something that has been urged on managers practically ever since this department was started, nearly fifteen years ago. The manager who wants good results and who has the right sort of a compositor can get better work if he will go over this department each week and talk it over with the man who handles the type. The two displays offered in this space are not in any way sensational, but they show good composition and the all-important sense of proportion. This compositor knows that big display does not come from large faces so much as the contrast in sizes. The first space shows a plan book cut designed for a three column cut apart and used in four columns. Getting what he wants out of what they can give him is one of Mr. Larmour's long suits. He can make a four column cut out of a two or cut a four into a two in half the time some men spend grumbling about the accessories. In the centre of the space you will notice a jingle. He has been running this for some time, giving a pair of seats for each jingle used. That's only one a week, because it is all he can use, but nearly everyone in town has worked on them, and they all have crystallized the thought that the National is a real show. The signature cut is one of several styles Mr. Larmour fabricated from linoleum. He writes that he has been using these for six months or more and so far they have stood up as well as metal. Of course you have to get a really good piece of linoleum, but trim can be used that costs nothing. The jingle stunt got an additional half column lately. It seems that Mr. Larmour booked in a vaudeville attraction. The show went bad and only one actor out of the troupe managed to make the town. Mr. Larmour put him to work. The man ripped his trousers and Mr. Larmour loaned him a pair to wear while his own were at the tailors. The borrowed pair were so much better than his own that the actor wore them out of town, and the columnist gave nearly half a column to the story, most of it in the jingle form. The second example shown is a three column space four and a quarter inches deep with Manhandled as the chief attraction. Mr. Larmour writes that he has decided that in future the major mention will go to the star rather than the title, where this is possible, since he has found that the star is a better seller than most titles. Mr. Larmour seems to have his pick of the pictures, for his programs carry all of the brands with Paramount and First National leading.



NATIONAL GRAHAM'S MOST POPULAR PLAYHOUSE

Mon.-Tues., Jan. 12-13

DAUGHTERS OF PLEASURE

Starring MARIE PREVOST and MONTE BLUE

A dynamic drama of redeeming love with a Father-Daughter situation that will startle you.

Wed.-Thurs., January 14-15

Betty Compson in

"The Garden of Weeds"

A great picture of Broadway's fast set

Can You Write a Verse?

J. B. Ramsey

Fri.-Sat., January 16-17

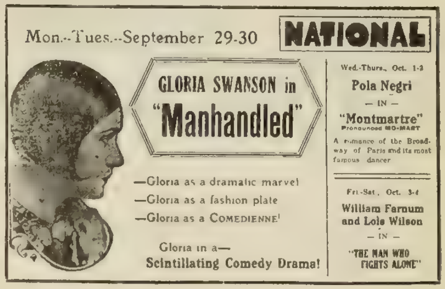
Buck Jones in

"THE DESERT OUTLAW"

A bracing story of cowboy trails

Warner Brothers' Release

A FOUR FROM A THREE



Mon.-Tues.-September 29-30

NATIONAL

GLORIA SWANSON in "Manhandled"

—Gloria as a dramatic marvel

—Gloria as a fashion plate

—Gloria as a COMEDIENNE!

Gloria in a—

Scintillating Comedy Drama!

Wed.-Thurs., Oct. 1-2

Pola Negri

— IN —

"Montmartre"

Pronounced MO-MART

A romance of the Broadway of Paris and its most famous dancer

Fri.-Sat., Oct. 3-4

William Farnum and Lois Wilson

— IN —

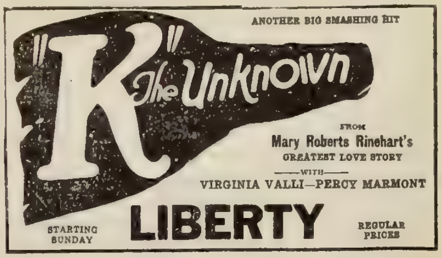
"THE MAN WHO FIGHTS ALONE"

Paramount Releases

MOSTLY MANHANDLED

K Reverses Good Guessing Contest

Managers who use the book ads on K, the Unknown might frame up a guessing contest as to what the reverses mean. This space from the Liberty Theatre, Youngstown, O., suggests what they call a "longnecker" up in Maine, otherwise a whiskey bottle as opposed to the flask. There is another that is more puzzling, though it suggests a hide stretched on the side of a barn to dry. The design shown probably connects with the fact that K is the story of a physician, but some of the reverses on this title suggest nothing at all except some spilled ink. When they get a nice black they come up well enough, but they don't always get a good ink, and then they look rather sloppy. Most persons know that K is about a physician, else it might be well to run the explanatory line: "Not a bootlegging story." The Liberty gets along with very little selling talk, probably counting upon the general press work to get the idea over to the readers.



ANOTHER BIG SMASHING HIT

"K" The Unknown

FROM

Mary Roberts Rinehart's

GREATEST LOVE STORY

—WITH—

VIRGINIA VALLI—PERCY MARMONT

STARTING SUNDAY

LIBERTY

REGULAR PRICES

A Universal Release

A REVERSE PROBLEM

He's Waiting

Harold E. Rice, of the New Majestic Theatre, Pueblo, Col., put in a powerful radio receiving set with the idea of using the current broadcasting to interest his audience and give the house musicians a little rest.

He writes that he thinks this will be a good stunt when they can get the cats and ohter forms of static and reradiation out of the darned thing, but meanwhile it isn't so good.

NEWEST REVIEWS and COMMENTS

EDITED BY CHARLES S. SEWELL

"Man and Maid"

Metro-Goldwyn Offers Interesting Elinor Glyn Production With Lew Cody in Sympathetic Role

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Not only did Elinor Glyn write the story for the Metro-Goldwyn feature, "Man and Maid," but she prepared the screen version as well and worked with Director Shertzinger in its production.

Starting out with the statement that a woman does one of three things to a man, she elevates him, degrades him or bores him, Miss Glyn has built an interesting story around an English war hero invalided to Paris. All three types of women are introduced, all fascinate him, but with the advent of the one real woman of the right type, the society women bore him and the demi-monde disgust him.

As was to be suspected of a writer of Miss Glyn's ability, she has fashioned a smooth-running story that has been developed along somewhat different lines from the average. It is largely a character study of one man and one maid of entirely opposite types and the working out of the age-old attraction of the sexes in a romance. Neither are there any strongly dramatic situations or very much action, but conflict is provided in the fact that the hero has to overcome the heroine's fight against him caused by her disgust at his companions.

The story is clean and in no way salacious, there are no objectionable sex situations. An unusual note from the audience standpoint is the appearance of Lew Cody in a sympathetic role. He gives a capable portrayal, but it will doubtless be hard for many to disassociate him from the "heavy" roles which he has played. Harriet Hammond, already famous as a screen beauty, makes her debut as his leading woman and lives up to her reputation. Her work, too, is entirely satisfactory, but as she portrays a rather cold type her performance gives very little indication of what she could do with more romantic or vivacious roles. Renee Adoree and Paulette Duval are pleasing as two different types of charmers.

Victor Shertzinger has given this story a high-class production and it should prove an interesting picture for the average patron.

Cast

Sir Nicholas	Lew Cody
Alathea Bulteel	Harriet Hammond
Suzette	Renee Adoree
Coralie	Paulette Duval
Burton	Alec Francis
Harcourt	Crauford Kent
Maurice	David Mir
Bobby Bulteel	Gerald Grove
Little Bobby	Winston Miller

Story and scenario by Elinor Glyn.
Directed by Victor Shertzinger.
Length 5,307 feet.

Story

Through gambling, the Honorable Boddy Bulteel is reduced to poverty and his daughter Alathea goes to work as a stenographer. Finally she is hired as secretary by Sir Nicholas and although pretty she wears dark glasses to make her look homely. She is attracted to Sir Nicholas but disgusted at his affairs with Suzette and other women. Finally he comes to really love Alathea, his better nature being awakened but she misunderstands his attentions and leaves. Her father gets into a gambling scrape and humbling her pride she agrees to accept Sir Nicholas' offer of marriage in name only. She cares too much to stand this when Suzette makes it appear that she is Sir Nicholas' mistress. Returning home, her mother tells her to forgive the past. She goes back to her husband and goes to his arms begging him to tell her why she felt like murdering the other women. Then they realize their great love for each other.

Features Reviewed In This Issue

Charmer, The (Paramount)
I Want My Man (First National)
Kiss in the Dark, A (Paramount)
My Son (First National)
Man and Maid (Metro-Goldwyn)
That Devil Quemado (F. B. O.)

"A Kiss in the Dark"

Adolphe Menjou Heads Fine Cast in Bright, Clever and Amusing Romantic Comedy For Paramount

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

As a stage play, Frederick Lonsdale's sophisticated romantic comedy "Aren't We All" proved a delight to a large class of theatregoers due to its witty lines, bright and amusing situations and excellent acting. For the same reasons, this story in screen form as the Paramount production "A Kiss in the Dark" should please a large percentage of picture patrons.

Instead of the conventional triangle we have here the less familiar quartette furnishing the center of the plot: the hero, a chap who cannot resist the wiles of a pretty woman, a worldly wise woman he really loves but who is a bit afraid to trust him, a wife who courts the adoration of the other sex and her complacent husband whose jealousy is finally aroused.

The action takes place in Havana and New York, and there are a number of attractive scenes which were filmed in the former city. It is the wife's flirtation with the hero that motivates the entire story and leads to the situation which gives the picture its title.

A forgotten satchel, a dash back to the hotel, a traffic violation causes this pair to miss the boat and arouses the husband's jealousy which has been innocently fanned by the hero himself. The home-coming wife finds the husband in a compromising situation which has been forced upon him; she goes to the hero's rooms, her husband follows, the other woman saves the situation and all ends happily.

Even the familiar situation in the apartment which has proved a melodramatic life-saver for many a story, is handled so that the comedy values are uppermost, not that it is burlesqued, but no chance for a smile or laugh is overlooked. The entire treatment of the story is highly sophisticated and much of the humor is subtle.

Frank Tuttle has cleverly directed this clever story though at times some of his points appear a bit forced. With Adolphe Menjou in the leading role an interesting and satisfying performance is expected, and one is not disappointed, although he has not quite as big opportunities here as sometimes. Irene Rich as the flirtatious wife is well cast, Aileen Pringle is also good but could have been a little more sympathetic, and Kenneth McKenna is excellent as the husband. Ann Pennington, the celebrated dancer from the Ziegfeld Follies adds snap to some of the scenes by her clever dancing. Altogether, "A Kiss in the Dark" is a pleasing and sophisticated romantic comedy that should provide good entertainment for the majority and especially appeal to the highest class patrons.

Cast

Walter Grenham	Adolphe Menjou
Janet Livingstone	Aileen Pringle
Betty King	Lillian Rich
Johnny King	Kenneth MacKenna
Dancer	Ann Pennington
Chorus Girl	Kitty Kelly

Based on play "Aren't We All" by Frederick Lonsdale.
Screen play by Townsend Martin.
Directed by Frank Tuttle.
Length, 5,767 feet.

Story

Walter Grenham's weakness is flirting with all the pretty girls he meets, but he really loves Janet Livingstone and always comes back to her. His love is returned, but Janet is afraid to trust him. In Havana she at last accepts him on his promise to keep away from other women. But he finds it hard sledding especially as Betty, the wife of a chap who is not jealous comes to tell him goodbye. All but Walter are sailing that day for New York. Betty forgets a satchel and urges Walter to take her to the hotel in his car to get it, Walter gets a traffic summons and they miss the boat. He has previously told Betty's husband Johnny that he should be jealous. With this turn of events, Johnny is. Under the influence of the moon and soft music, Walter kisses Betty. Both hurry to New York. With difficulty Walter explains to Janet. Betty finds Johnny kissing a chorus girl and leaves him without explanation, going to Walter. He believes she loves Johnny and forces the situation. Finally Johnny appears and Betty hides, Johnny is suspicious but Janet suddenly appears and saves the situation. Returning home Johnny finds Betty is there and they make-up. Walter thoroughly cured of his flirtations again agrees to be good, and this time Janet believes him.

"My Son"

First National Presents Nazimova in Pleasing Story of a Mother's Love for Her Erring Son

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Dedicated to mothers, the First National production "My Son," starring Nazimova, unfolds a story of intense mother-love and the heart-aches to which it is subjected when her only son strays from the straight and narrow path.

Martha Stanley's stage success of the same title furnishes the basis of the story which is laid among the Portuguese inhabitants of a small fishing village on the New England coast and Nazimova is cast as the keeper of the general store, loved by two men, but whose affection is lavished on her only son, a dutiful chap just growing to manhood. The appearance of a flapper turns the boy's head and finally causes him to resort to theft to satisfy her vanity. Rather than have him suffer disgrace, the mother in desperation knocks him unconscious and has him shanghaied aboard a fishing vessel, confident that he will return a real man.

The story is well constructed and holds the attention. Nazimova gives a fine characterization of the mother, rising to the emotional situations, strongly putting over the intensity of her love and in a role that calls for none of her usual vivacity acts with admirable repression; her makeup, however, seems rather youthful for the mother of a grown son, but you forget this in the excellence of her portrayal.

Jack Pickford in the title role is featured and gives a commendable performance of an unsympathetic role. The entire cast is high-class. Constance Bennett does notably fine work in the thankless role of the flapper; Charles A. Murray supplies good characterization and touches of comedy as a sea captain, and Hobart Bosworth portrays with sincerity the minor role of the sheriff.

The continuity is exceedingly smooth and Edwin Carewe has given the story excellent direction; the atmosphere of the fishing village is convincing and there are some strikingly beautiful shots of the rugged shore. Its convincing glorification of mother-love and the intense sympathy and heart interest should make this story appeal to the average patron, even though the stressing of the pathos in the mother role introduces a tone of sadness which is not overbalanced by the lighter touches.

Cast

Ana Silva	Nazimova
Tony	Jack Pickford
Ellery Parker	Robart Bosworth
Felipe Vargas	Ian Keith
Rosa Pina	Mary Akin
Captain Bamby	Charles Murray
Betty Smith	Constance Bennett
Hattie Smith	Dot Farley

Based on stage play by Martha Stanley.

Scenario by Finis Fox.

Directed by Edwin Carewe.

Length, 6,552 feet.

Story

In a small New England fishing village peopled largely by Portuguese, Ana Silva keeps the general store and worships her son Tony just growing to manhood. Felipe, a Portugese sailor and Ellery Parker the sheriff both love Ana, while Tony's sweetheart is Rosa Pina. Into this town returns Hattie Smith who has married wealth, bringing her flippant flapper daughter Betty, who sets out to amuse herself with Tony. The unsophisticated lad falls for her flapper tactics to such an extent that he finally steals her mother's diamond bracelet so that he may take Betty to New York. Ellery discovers Tony's guilt and tells Ana but she refuses to believe him until, having accepted Felipe she is preparing for their betrothal and finds the necklace. Confronting Tony he admits the theft and berates her interference. Rather than have him disgraced she hits him and has him taken aboard Captain Bamby's boat. Rosa, broken-hearted has also sailed with her father on this boat, and Ana rests satisfied that all will turn out right and he will come back a real man.

"I Want My Man"

Milton Sills and Doris Kenyon Show to Advantage in First National Feature Based on Novel

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

A novel by Struthers Burt "The Interpreter's House" furnishes the story for "I Want My Man" a production offered by First National with Milton Sills as the star and Doris Kenyon featured in the opposite role.

The plot hinges on the situation of a man who blinded during the world War married his nurse believing her to be disfigured with a livid scar. Later he regains his sight; his wife learns he was engaged to another woman, and fearing his anger when he discovered her deception, she leaves him resolved to regain his love on equal terms with the other woman.

Lambert Hillyer has given the story good direction and the excellent work of the entire cast holds the interest and it should prove of average entertainment value. There is good drama in many of the situations; however the story is never really convincing enough to get an intense hold on the sympathy. The characters appear to be dominated more by the author's ideas than by the logical development of the situations and is therefore not always true to life. For instance, it hardly seems probable that the wife under the circumstances would go to the extent of leaving the husband she loves and face the overwhelming odds of his engagement to a scheming determined woman.

There would have been greater force to the story, too, had the wife made a more determined fight. Twice she is ready to give up, and it is not through her own efforts, but a trick of fate that she finally wins out. The husband recognized her by closing his eyes and running his hand across her face. It would seem that her voice would have led him to the truth earlier. To test his love a sex inference is brought in that seems superfluous.

Milton Sills, as always, does excellent work and is convincing in his portrayal, and his role is a congenial and sympathetic one. Doris Kenyon gives an exceedingly fine performance as the wife, handling her emotional scenes well and holding the sympathy.

The smooth development of the story and high class production details added to the convincing work of the players goes along way toward making up for the artificiality of the story, and making it a pleasing attraction for the majority.

Cast

Gulian Eyre	Milton Sills
Vida Eyre	Doris Kenyon
Leal Satori	May Allison
Drusilla	Phyllis Haver
Phillip	Paul Nicholson
Mrs. Eyre	Kate Bruce
Mrs. Satori	Theresa Conover
Mr. Eyre	Louis Stern
French Doctor	Charles Lane
Amreican Doctor	G. W. Howard

Adapted from Struthers Burt's novel "The Interpreter's House.

Direct by Lambert Hillyer.

Length, 6,173 feet.

Story

Gulian Eyre is blinded during the great war and his nurse in order to be able to take care of him permanently marries him, working on his sympathy by telling him she is horribly disfigured. Finally Guilian's sight is restored, but just before this his wife Vida, learning that he was engaged to Lael and believing he will never forgive her for her lies as she is really beautiful, decides to leave him and try to win his love on equal terms with the other girl. She goes to America and becomes companion to Gulian's mother and he fails to recognize her. Lael, a schemer rushes matters and practically forces Gulian into preparing for the wedding, but it is postponed as his brother-in-law Phillip commits suicide after embezzling so much money as to sap the Eyre fortune. Lael throws him over, Vida, her love becoming unbearable prepares to leave and Gulian declares his love. Closing his eyes he runs his hand over her face and she winces as she formerly did and he knows then that she is really Vida, his wife, who has freed him, so they prepare to marry again.

"The Charmer"

In Her Latest Paramount Offering Sidney Olcott Draws Pola Negri Nearer the Box Office

Reviewed by E. W. Sargent

Working with a script based on Henry Baerlin's novel, "Mariposa," Sidney Olcott has brought Pola Negri appreciably closer to the box office than any of those who have essayed this task, and he did not have a particularly strong story to work with, at that.

Apparently the producer has realized that a brilliant performance, no matter how scintillating does not appeal through brilliancy alone, and he has labored to make this exotic artist human. He has succeeded in giving her a better opportunity than has been provided in a number of far more ambitious stories. He has made the star a woman, where others have sought to make her more of a star, and this picture should have a better box office value than any of the previous Negris.

The character of the dancer in a cheap Spanish cabaret, who is suddenly transferred to Broadway stardom is not one that lends itself to appeal, but between them the director and star have made her appealing to a large degree, and you feel more interest in the woman she portrays than in any of the more brilliant characterizations which constitute her American catalogue.

More than this, the entire presentation has been staged with a care that gives realism to the unreal.

Wallace MacDonald and Robert Frazer, as the two suitors; one a chauffeur to the other, are capital in their respective roles and supply admirable contrast, while Trixie Friganza walked away with many of her scenes and is responsible for a number of laughs. The other parts are all acceptably handled and the "big" scenes are convincing because they look real.

"The Charmer" is good entertainment.

Cast

Mariposa	Pola Negri
Ralph Bayne	Wallace McDonald
Dan Murray	Robert Fraser
Mama	Trixie Friganza
Senor Sprotti	Cesare Gravina
Mrs. Sedgwick	Gertrude Astor
Mr. Sedgwick	Edwards Davis
Mrs. Bayne	Mathilde Brundage

Based on novel "Mariposa" by Henry Baerlein.

Scenario by Sada Cowen.

Directed by Sidney Olcott.

Length, 6,076 feet.

Story

Mariposa, a native girl, dances in a cafe in a small town in Spain and is "discovered" by Sprotti a theatrical manager. About this time an auto in which Americans are touring stops at the cafe and both Ralph the wealthy owner, and Dan his chauffeur fall in love with Mariposa. She accepts Sprotti's offer to come to America and makes a big hit, being known as The Charmer. Ralph and Dan continue their attentions, but Dan does not make much headway against Ralph's wealth. Mrs. Sedgwick who loves Ralph arranges a dinner so as to make Mariposa and her peasant mother appear ridiculous to the guests and Ralph. Ralph however apologizes to Mariposa and invites her to his apartment and she accepts. Mrs. Sedgwick also comes to the apartment and her husband follows. Mariposa, because Sedgwick has been kind to her, saves the situation but is disillusioned regarding Ralph. Dan demands to know Ralph's intentions and seeks to force him to marry Mariposa at the point of a pistol. He accepts but Mariposa takes a hand and saying she will pick her own husband, chooses Dan by the same method. He is willing but tells her the pistol was not loaded.

"That Devil Quemado"

Fred Thomson Scores Heavily in Picturesque Dashing and Romantic Role in New F. B. O. Film

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Dashing adventures and picturesque romance are the highlights of "That Devil Quemado," Fred Thomson's new starring vehicle for F. B. O. Its snap and fast movement together with the glamour and mystery that surrounds a picturesque daredevil of the Robin Hood type should delight the Fred Thomson fans and make it register as thoroughly pleasing entertainment for the average theatregoer.

In the title role, the star appears as a college bred youth who, through love of adventure, returns to the land of his Spanish ancestors in the hills of Mexico and causes a mixture of admiration among the innocent and consternation to evil-doers by his sudden and daring sallies from the mountains to aid those in distress or right a wrong. On one of these expeditions he sees a proud Eastern girl who taunts him and sets out to sweep her off her feet and change her hate to love. Obviously he succeeds; she finally is glad to be kidnapped from her father and fiance and they are married while galloping away on horseback at full speed.

Thomson's role here belongs to the type that Douglas Fairbanks made popular and in fact in many respects it resembles the latter's "Mark of Zorro." With its snap and opportunities for athletic stunts and daredevil escapades it suits the star to perfection and he gives a thoroughly likable performance. The other players give satisfactory support. Gloria Hope appears as the girl with Alan Roscoe as the other fellow, and Del Andrews has given the story good direction.

Whether "Quemado" dashes on his fast horse right into a crowd of his enemies or whether he is suddenly found hidden among them, he spreads consternation to them, and even if some of the situations are quite implausible you are willing to overlook this because of their undoubted punch.

In our opinion "That Devil Quemado" is Fred Thomson's best picture.

Cast

Quemado	Fred Thomson
Jose Rameriz	Albert Priscoe
Conchita Rameriz	Nola Luxford
John Thatcher	Byron Douglas
Ned Thatcher	Joseph Bell
Joanna Thatcher	Gloria Hope
Gretorix	Alan Roscoe
Joan Gonzales	Robert Cantiero

Story by Marvin Wilhite.
Directed by Del Andrews.
Length, 4,720 feet.

Story

A border town in Sonora, Mexico is agitated by the unexpected sallies of a picturesque character Quemado, a descendent of the Spanish dons, who like Robin Hood, swoops down and right wrongs. On the occasion where he dashes in and kidnaps a bride during the wedding ceremony, Joanna Thatcher from the East sees him and is disgusted with his high-handed methods. With characteristic daring, he tells her that he is going eventually to make her love him and will kidnap her willingly when the time comes. Quemado is recognized by Joanna's fiance Gretorix as a former college companion and Joanna makes herself believe that she hates him, though really admiring him. She hastens her wedding to Gretorix. Quemado appears and through a ruse gets her away past the guards, procures a minister and literally sweeps her off her feet and in the end she admits she has been won and they are married while galloping away on horseback.

"Getting Trimmed"

(Universal—Comedy—Two Reels)

Here is one of the fastest and most amusing of the Century Comedies distributed through Universal in recent months. Wanda Wiley, the talented comedienne is the featured player and carries practically the entire comedy. Starting off as the whole works in a barber shop in which she is barber, bootblack and manicurist, she is kept busy every second. She breaks the nails and mashes the thumbs of would-be-flirts who want to be manicured, shines white shoes black and black ones white, has trouble with a trick barber chair, pours cement on a cop's face instead of soap in shaving him. This leads to the inevitable chase which includes a lunch stand which is picked up by a truck, a wild ride on a moving derrick and other vehicles and finally ends with her being dropped into a fire engine and crawling out very much blackened. The comedy is full of situations that will get the laughs and please the slapstick fans, a lot of the stunts have been used before, but there are so many of them and they are handled at such a rapid-fire râte that they all get over. This two-reeler should please the majority of any type of audience.—C. S. S.

"Shakespeare"

(Red Seal—Special—One Reel)

In memoriam of the anniversary of Shakespeare's birthday, Red Seal is offering a special reel dealing entirely with scenes associated with his life. Most of the shots are of Stratford-on-Avon, England where he was born but there are scenes of other places hallowed by his memory. In addition to being interesting many of these scenes are strikingly beautiful. A good double printing effect shows the shadowy forms of his most noted characters such as Shylock, Romeo and Juliet and others, above his grave in a churchyard. This reel should please all who revere the memory of this great poet and dramatist and prove interesting to the average spectator.—C. S. S.

"Pathe Review No. 16"

(Pathe—Magazine—One Reel)

Earl Carroll picks what in his estimation are the best types of show girls in this installment of the "Prettiest Girl I Know" series which heads Pathe Review No. 16. The next in this one-reeler are transcriptions of some of the Babylonic inscriptions by the Yale University Press. The Pathecolor is of New York's waterfront, one of the "Visiting Our Own America" series.—T. W.

"The Lion's Whiskers"

(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

There are several very thrilling situations in Mack Sennett's "The Lion's Whiskers," the cast of which includes Madeline Hurlock, Sunshine Hart, Jack Richardson and Andy Clyde. One of these is when a comedian chauffeur with a company on "location" on the top of a skyscraper falls off the coping, crashes through an awning, unravels a fire hose and finally lands safely on the back of a fat-and-forty type of woman. The skyscraper and the street cars far below are also brought into play when the director and camera man are nearly precipitated into space by the ungainly movements of the chauffeur. The whole thing is quite funny since the mechanic, unknown to the company, is the wife of the female star. Her role calls for her to be "beaten up" by a screen villain and the husbandly instincts of the chauffeur so revolt at these situations that he forgets it is only for the "movies" and starts a real brawl. This is the type of comedy generally liked by all classes of picturegoers.—T. W.

"Raisin Cain"

(Universal—Comedy—Two Reels)

Beth Darlington, an attractive blonde is given the leading role in this Century Comedy distributed through Universal. She is cast in the congenial role of a modern flapper with a high-powered auto, who does not care how she ignores traffic laws or smashes things or bowls over pedestrians, knowing that her good natured and wealthy father will straighten matters out. The worm turns, however, and papa sends Beth to a fashionable boarding school, where she is hazed by the other girls. Finally her sweetheart "kidnaps" her and they elope and win father's forgiveness. The humor follows along familiar lines, and the situations while not novel are of average amusement value.—C. S. S.

Alice Solves the Puzzle

(Winkler—Cartoon—One Reel)

A combination of cartoon and living characters involving the use of double photography which has been very well done; more than half the length showing a real child working with the familiar cartoon cat, introducing a cross-word bootlegger, a rum-running pelican and a number of other bits of clever invention. A bright little cartoon idea to which the use of the child gives a novel and appreciated touch. It is a decided improvement over the original cartoon idea. This is the first of a new series and about the best of the "Alice" comedies so far.—E. W. S.

"Ship Shape"

(Educational—Comedy—One Reel)

In this single reel Educational comedy hubby, Cliff Bowes, sees another man kissing wife, Virginia Vance, and joins the navy. Of course he finds out the other fellow was his wife's brother and he tries to "resign" from the navy but is arrested and taken aboard ship. Wifie to be near him disguises as a sailor and come aboard. They meet with a lot of mishaps of the slap-stick variety and altogether, most of the situations are familiar, they move at a snappy pace and this reel is up to the standard of the series as a laugh-getter.—C. S. S.

The Demand for Griffith's Lens Chart has been so great among theatre owners that we have just had to make a second printing.

This chart only costs $1.00. But it's worth a great deal more than that to every theatre owner who uses the ordinary arc or high intensity arc in his projectors.

Your Lens equipment has only to be very slightly out of adjustment to be inefficient.

Briefly: This Lens Chart shows you how to secure maximum screen results with the lens equipment you are using.

It's the best dollar investment in the business today.

If your dealer doesn't have it, we will supply you direct upon receipt of $1.00.

(Note) Lens Chart cannot be sent C.O.D.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

516 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Mack Sennett Perfects 1925-'26 Plans; Hal Roach's Huge Program for Pathe

MACK SENNETT and Hal Roach have mapped out splendid programs for their Pathe releases during 1925-26.

The forthcoming season will see a continuation of the Pathe-Mack Sennett alliance which has been maintained unbroken for the past several years. This affiliation is one which has been responsible for some of the outstanding two-reel comedy successes of the past few years, as well as for the rise of some of the leading comedians and comediennes in the field today, including such names as Harry Langdon, Ben Turpin, Alice Day, Ralph Graves, Madeline Hurlock, Natalie Kingston, and others.

The policy pursued by Mack Sennett of dealing only in such comedy material as embodies genuine box-office angles has been principally responsible for the success of this veteran Pathe producer. Sennett has always been prompt to sense any change in the public demand in the matter of comedy entertainment, and this capacity for anticipating new audience angles and acting on them has kept the Mack Sennett Comedy brands ever in the forefront of the short-subject comedy market.

This appreciation of the publics reaction to types of comedy entertainment and the need for the successful producer to hew close to the lines set down by the public, as reflected in their box-office attendance, stands out strikingly in a recent pronouncement of the Pathe producer in discussing the production program for the new season.

"The greatest advance in comedy productions for the past year," states Mr. Sennett, "seems to have been in the quality of the stories.

"We, at our studio, firmly believe that the basic foundation of a two-reel comedy is the story, just as this is true with drama. And we are working along these lines in our product for the coming season which Pathe will distribute.

The "Boiling Down" Process

"A five-reel story boiled down to two reels is what we are striving for in our comedies," continued Mr. Sennett. "And with the stressing the story element a change is taking place in the type of comedian now in popular favor. The trick mustache and 'muff' are fast disappearing. They are no longer necessary to create laughs. Funny situations are created now to get laughs, not funny makeups. There will always be grotesque comedians, no doubt, but a real story needs more or less real characters, believable people. Especially does the romantic theme need a believable boy and girl.

"Good gags are the prayer of the comedy producer. Good gags are necessary to a short comedy as the negative on which it is photographed," says Mr. Sennett. "Story, gags and believable people are the fundamentals of the new type of two-reel comedy.

"As shown by a recent canvass of the country, the short comedy is settling definitely into its place on the program of every first run and neighborhood theatre. The public is becoming discriminating in its selection of motion picture entertainment, and insists upon the comic relief afforded by the two-reeler."

Mack Sennett

Hal Roach

Plans for Hal Roach

Five comedy units will be kept busy at the Hal Roach studios this year producing pictures for Pathe distribution.

Of the five units three of them will be newly organized companies producing two-reel subjects and headed by Clyde Cook, Charley Chase and Glenn Tryon. "Our Gang" and Hal Roach Star Comedies will compose the other two units.

The total amount of this production, according to a recently signed contract between Hal Roach and the Pathe Exchange, Inc., will reach millions. The total expenditures on Hal Roach comedies for the next two years is expected to reach the cost of $15,000,000. Included in this amount will be the cost of the occasional feature-length production turned out by the Hal Roach organization for Pathe.

The lineup of the program for production for the coming season by the Hal Roach forces was made after a lengthy investigation into the comedy demand of the public. Charley Chase, as a result of his box-office popularity, was promoted from one-reel comedies to heading a unit producing two-reel subjects. Glenn Tryon was also placed at the head of his own producing company while Clyde Cook, celebrated English comedian, is under contract to appear as the featured player in a series of two-reel comedies.

"Our Gang" To Carry On

The "Our Gang" series, featuring Farina, Mickey, Jackie, Joe, Gene, and Mary, will be given unusual attention for the coming season by the Hal Roach forces. Bob McGowan will continue to direct from under the supervision of F. Richard Jones. In addition to the regular staff who have handled the production of this unit in the past there will be added many new "gag" men and story writers.

In the Hal Roach star unit there will be presented in the leading roles from time to time such prominent Hal Roach stock players as James Finlayson, Fay Wray, Martha Sleeper, and Frank Butler. No particular person will be featured throughout this series, the selections for the principal role being scattered among the more prominent members of the Roach Company.

The signing of Clyde Cook by the Hal Roach organization is considered in film circles as one of the most important events in the coming season in the screen comedy field. Mr. Cook is believed by many to be one of the best comedy bets of the day, and the lineup of product that has been scheduled for this star will further increase his box-office demand. The comedies of this star will be those of the slapstick variety, for which he is so well known among his motion picture followers.

Mr. Cooks rise in film popularity has been the result of years of hard work. He is the product of the English school of acting and made his biggest legitimate successes on the stages of London and Paris. His entrance into the screen comedy field was first with Fox, where he made a series of two-reelers and became a national figure. With the Fox organization he soon rose to the top in the comedy field. Later he starred in comedy roles for Educational where he headed his own company making two-reelers.

Chase is Popular

The presentation of Charley Chase in two-reel comedies was announced by Pathe some time ago. This stellar screen comedian started with the Hal Roach company making one-reel pictures. After a year of successful releases he was promoted to two-reelers. Charley Chase will follow the general line of comedies he has been making, that of domestic comedies with a running story.

Glenn Tryon since he has been with the Hal Roach company has been appearing in the Hal Roach Star Brand of comedies and has worked in two feature-length Hal Roach specials. In his past two-reel comedy productions in the Hal Roach Star Series, Tryon has only been one of a number of featured players in the Hal Roach Star unit. In most cases in these pictures he has been principally supported by Blanche Mehaffey, who, it is believed, will be his leading lady in the new comedies.

Patheserial Plans

New Series Will Include a Baseball Story by John J. McGraw

The Patheserial, "Idaho," is in its final chapters. This serial struck a new note in serial production in its story and locale. It features Mahlon Hamilton and Vivian Rich and is a story of the early gold rush days in Idaho territory.

There are three new Patheserials in the course of production to succeed "Idaho." Each of these is entirely different.

The first, "Sunken Silver," now in its final cutting stage, is a highly dramatic production based on the Albert Payson Terhune story, "Black Caesar's Clan."

The second, on which production started last week in Oklahoma, is a tale of the wild-west show life with all its romance and daily excitement.

The third is a dramatic and humorous story written by John J. McGraw portraying the life of a bush-league ball player.

EXHIBITORS' NEWS AND VIEWS

EDITED BY SUMNER SMITH

Troy Showman in Hot Pursuit of Bed Finds Even Home Locked

Jake Rosenthal, of the Rose in Troy, is sick and tired of the crowds that throng the hotels in Albany during the legislative session. He has good reason. Jake made up his mind to indulge in a Turkish bath and journeyed down to Albany with a business friend. The bath was there all right, but when Mr. Rosenthal attempted to secure a room for the night he found everything taken by legislators and near-legislators. So back to Troy journeyed Jake, reaching home in the wee small hours, only to find himself locked out as he had forgotten to take his night key and the family, believing that he would not be home until the next day, had locked up and gone to bed hours before.

Walter Roberts, manager of the Troy Theatre, never worked a day in his life in a bank but last week he was called upon to pass upon the genuineness of a fifty dollar bill which had been tendered for a couple of admission tickets at the theatre. It must be that large bills are scarce as a hen's tooth in Troy, for Mr. Roberts admitted later that it was the largest bill ever taken in at the theatre. Anyhow, the cashier, wild eyed, telephoned in to Mr. Roberts and then stalled the prospective patron along before giving back any change, until the manager arrived and had looked over the bill.

According to W. W. Farley, the Barcli Theatre in Schenectady will not only remain closed during the summer months, but if business slumps in June through daylight saving and hot weather, one of the other houses operated by Farash Theatres will probably be closed for a month or so in order to throw more business to the State and Strand theatres, where the overhead is pretty stiff.

ETTA LEE

"Princess of the Orient," was one of the World's Court of beautiful models in Paramount's "The Dressmaker from Paris."

ANNA Q. NILSSON

One of the charming faces in Paramount pictures

When you meet Charles E. Roff, an exhibitor in Tivoli, it wouldn't be amiss to greet him as "President" for he was re-elected as president of the village last week. Mr. Roff was in New York for a day or so looking over some new fire apparatus for the village. And if you want something to talk about mention radio.

Jake Golden, manager of the Hall in Albany, who has more ideas to the minute than many an exhibitor can boast of in a day, announces a Children's Festival along with the usual double features on Easter Week, when the children are out of school.

Olin L. Hawk, manager of the Star Theatre in Mechanicville, owned and operated by the Cohoes Amusement Company, was arrested last week on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, on a warrant sworn out by Louis Buettner of Cohoes, an officer of the amusement company. Mr. Hawk was arraigned before Judge Finnegan, where he waived examination and was held for the Grand Jury, with bail at $2,000. It is claimed that Hawk took funds of the theatre. He had previously managed the Strand in Mechanicville which was destroyed by fire.

Did you ever wonder the reason why Lew Fischer of Fort Edward, with theatres in Fort Edward, Port Henry, Hoosick Falls, Chatham and Ticonderoga, walks with a limp? He broke his hip while skating back in boyhood days and has been obliged to walk with a cane ever since. Mr. Fischer is an old timer in the business, having run theatres in Syracuse, Auburn, Rome, Oneida, Catskill, Kingston and other places, and having twice experienced going on the rocks. Mr. Fischer has been spending a good bit of coin of late on his house in Ticonderoga, a 750-seat theatre charging 25 cents admission, and it now ranks as the best of the chain. In fact, Mr. Fischer expressed himself last week as wishing he had a dozen such houses. He has plans and specifications for a new theatre in Chatham, and is also planning to spend money on some of the other houses. Business is picking up in the blast furnaces at Port Henry and the house will run throughout the summer. It seats 500 and a 25 cent admission is charged. Mr. Fischer believes in booking the big pictures for which he boosts his admission by 10 cents and claims that patrons in the small places pay the increase without a murmur and even go so far as to thank him for an opportunity of seeing the pictures.

There will be no stock this summer at Harmanus-Bleecker Hall in Albany, where double features have been found to be so good a drawing card that it has been decided to shift stock to the Troy house.

There was just one thing missing when Gardner Hall in Troy reopened last week with James Rose at the helm. And yet that something, as it was conveyed to Mr. Rose, was mighty pleasing. The missing portion, as the patrons expressed it, was the racket that had generally characterized shows in the former days. The opening was most successful, the place being packed to its doors. Mr. Rose has his nerve, for he charges 10 and 15 cents for his straight picture program, with the Palace, a mixed vaudeville and picture house, only a few blocks away, charging but a dime. Mr. Rose had the boys and girls of Troy robbing the hen roosts during the week, admitting all children to "Peter Pan" for 7 cents, providing they brought with them a "Peter Pan" feather. The Columbian in Rensselaer, another Rose

(Continued on next page)

Now Booking

Florence Vidor

in

"The GIRL of GOLD"

With Malcolm MacGregor, Claire Du Brey, Alan Roscoe, Bessie Eyton and Charles French

Directed by . . . . : . . . John Ince

Released by

– PRODUCERS – DISTRIBUTING – CORPORATION –

New York Live Wires

CAPITAL FILM EXCHANGE
729 7TH AVE., N. Y. Byt. 9074
"PASSION'S PATHWAY"
"FOR WOMAN'S FERVOR"
"THE LIGHTS OF LONDON"
"PEARL OF LOVE"
"LOVE, LIFE AND LAUGHTER"
"THE HEART OF ALASKA"

Albany, N. Y.

(Continued from preceding page)

house, will reopen Monday following Easter, with William Rose of Gloversville as manager.

According to all reports, Mike Friedman is no longer connected with Farash Theatres, Inc., but will remain in Schenectady, opening an office of his own.

Ben Apple of the King in Troy, a red hot member of the Kiwanis Club in that city, journeyed up to Glens Falls last week and helped install a Kiwanis Club there.

Junior Movies came to a close in Albany at the Mark Strand last Saturday morning when the theatre was packed to its doors. The United Traction company donated cars for the transportation of children from institutions at a distance. On April 18, the Albany Mothers' Club, which has been back of the Junior Movies this winter, will sponsor a benefit performance for the Girl Scouts of the city who have served as ushers. Uly S. Hill, manager of the theatre, has donated the house for the occasion. In Troy, Walter Roberts, manager of the Troy, received much praise on the manner in which he put over the personal appearance of Thornton Burgess on Friday. Over 500 children came in a body from Watervliet, while Lansingburgh sent nearly twice as many in chartered cars Mr. Roberts co-operated with the Parent Teachers' Association of Troy.

Resolutions of respect on the death of Samuel Suckno of the Albany Theatre have been framed and are given a place in the office of the Albany Zone Committee. The resolutions bear the signature of Walter Hays of Buffalo, president of the State M. P. T. O. and long a friend of Mr. Suckno.

When John Augello of the Family Theatre in Utica is delegated to do a thing, he does not pass the buck. Five theatres in Utica authorized Mr. Augello to represent them at the recent meeting of the Albany Zone committee, but Mr. Augello was ill at the time and could not attend. He showed up last week, however, and went on record in a number of matters that have been considered.

BETTY COMPSON
Paramount star in a scene in "Eve's Secret"

The Rose Theatre in Troy observed its second anniversary last week, and the occasion also marked the first appearance at the theatre of Cecilia Rosenthal, daughter of the owner, since she was taken to the Troy hospital for an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Rosenthal during the week presented the House of Good Shepherd with a screen, a short time ago giving the institution a projection machine.

The other night Tony Veiller of the Lincoln Theatre in Troy was standing in the lobby chatting with Uly S. Hill, general manager of the three houses, when a stranger approached and pointing to his necktie, asked Mr. Veiller how he liked it. The latter replied that it looked rather neat and then asked why his opinion was sought. At this the stranger asked Mr. Veiller if he wasn't the clerk in the store nearby that had sold it to him.

Joe Saperstein had a couple of so-called banjo-kings as an extra attraction at the Griswold in Troy last week.

If you like something, why not indulge? So says Jake Rosenthal of Troy, who disposes of a half dozen or more bananas a day and isn't ashamed to admit it. One can generally find two or three bananas reposing on Mr. Rosenthal's desk—that is up until early evening, for after that they disappear one by one.

Buffalo, N. Y.

Stockholders of Affiliated Theatres, Inc., held the annual meeting the other day in Olean, N. Y. The meeting was harmonious and Charles Bordonaro and Donald M. Dusenbury of Olean and Nikitas Dipson and Edward A. Washburn of Batavia were re-elected directors for the ensuing year. The directors then met and re-elected as officers Mr. Bordonaro, president; Mr. Dipson, vice-president, and Mr. Dusenbury, secretary and treasurer. An agreement was reached and signed by all the interested parties, amicably, terminating the litigation brought by the corporation through its attorney Bayard J. Steadman of Batavia, against the Bordonaro Brothers to recover possession of the Palace Theatre in Olean, and this theatre will be delivered to the corporation at once. Mr. Dipson continues as general manager of all the theatres in Olean operated by the corporation, the Palace, Haven and Gem theatres. These, with the Family and Grand theatres in Batavia and theatres in Hornell and Wellsville, recently acquired, make in all seven theatres now operating under Mr. Dipson's management.

J. H. Michael, manager of the Regent Theatre, Buffalo, denies that that he has welcome written on the mat in front of the office safe. However, for the steenth time last week cracksmen entered the house through the coal hole and almost jimmied open the strong box before they were frightened away. Nothing was stolen. The safe door was badly sprung. Mr. Michael is chairman of Buffalo Zone, M. P. T. O. of N. Y.

Complete victory for the picture men in the battle with the common council in Syracuse for lower license fees is reported. Thomas J. Staunton, alderman of the 15th ward, leader of the fight to raise the fee, is reported to have yielded to pressure brought to bear by the theatre men. Latest indications are that the council will adopt a schedule of $10 per 100 seats, proposed originally by the picture men.

Decision has been reserved by Justice Hinkley in Supreme Court, Buffalo, on the application of Samuel Wertheimer for a mandamus order to compel the city council to grant him a permit to erect a picture theatre at 1400 Hertel avenue. The council previously ruled that the granting of the permit would depend on the consent to the plan of Saint Margaret's Catholic Church, across the street from the proposed theatre. The church refused consent.

Erectors this week placed the first steel beam in the superstructure of Shea's new $1,500,000 Buffalo theatre as photographers snapped and movie men cranked their cameras. Work on the theatre is being rushed night and day and it is expected to have the house ready for the public in February, 1926. Elmer C. Winegar is making a film history of the building from beginning to end. The progress of the house is shown on the Hippdorome screen each week, as well as in the other Shea houses.

Manager H. M Addison is making elaborate plans for the celebration of the fifth anniversary of the Binghamton Theatre in Binghamton, N. Y., the week of April 20. Plans for the house were announced April 30, 1919, and on April 22, 1920, the theatre was opened. Since the opening the house has remained under the management of Mr. Addison.

Al Becker of the Becker Theatre Supply Company is doing his spring cleaning. The motion picture equipment man's place in Pearl street is all dressed up like a Fifth avenue model. Al must have landed that new Shea house contract.

Nikitas Dipson, general manager of Affiliated Theatres of Batavia and Olean, has taken over the Babcock Theatre in Wellsville, N. Y., which has been operated for many years by Charlie Babcock. The house is one of the finest in the Southern Tier.

Two Women Theatre Managers Competitors in Lynn, Mass.

The Waldorf Theatre Company has been chartered in Boston for the purpose of conducting the Waldorf Theatre in Lynn. Allan B. Newhall, managing director of the Lynn Mark-Strand Theatre, is president. M. A. Silver is treasurer. Besides having active charge of the Mark-Strand, Mr. Newhall also has charge of the Comique and Waldorf, both in Lynn. Mrs. Newhall is manager of the Comique, so now we've located another woman manager in Massachusetts. But Mrs. Newhall is one of the two lady managers in Lynn. The other is Mrs. Ivy Hunt of E. M. Loew's Capitol Theatre.

The Theatre Realty Company of New England has been granted a charter of incorporation. The address is Boston. The capital consists of 1,000 no par shares. The incorporators are: Samuel Haase of Jamaica Plain; Mae C. Barry and Annie Kaplan, both of Dorchester.

I. B. Finn, booking manager for the E. M. Loew circuit of New England theatres, now also is serving as resident manager of Mr. Loew's Dorchester Theatre in Dorchester.

Easter week will bring two new film "specials" to Boston. On Easter Monday "Quo Vadis" will open at Tremont Temple and on the same day "Romola" will be shown at the New Park Theatre. The latter will be the first photoplay shown in the Park since this house was taken over by A. L. Erlanger.

J. E. Berry, manager of the picture shows presented in the Red Men's Hall in South Hadley Falls, has won the everlasting friendship of the kids of his town by offering free tickets for the winners of a marble tournament.

An explosion of motion picture film is believed to have caused the fire which destroyed the Maplewood Theatre in Malden shortly after the close of the night show on March 30. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

Elmer R. Daniels broke into print in a Worcester newspaper the other day when he signed his name to an advertisement recommending his show at the Olympia Theatre. Even if his name is seldom to be seen in the papers, he is right on the job every second just the same.

Three thousand dollars damage was caused in the Gem Theatre, East Boston, by a fire. Isadore Greenberg is owner of the building.

The following is the committee of Boston managers to take charge of N. V. A. week in Boston: R. G. Larsen, general manager of the Keith-Albee Boston theatres; Victor Morris, manager of Loew's Orpheum Theatre; Al Somerbee, general manager of the Howard and Bowdoin Square theatres; James Doyle, of the Broadway Theatre; J. J. McGuinness, general manager of the Gordon vaudeville theatres; Charles W. Frazer, of the Keith-Albee booking office.

Victor J. Morris, manager of Loew's Orpheum Theatre in Boston, has just installed a radio-fountain in the clubhouse of the Orpheum. The fountain, made of marble and glass, has a water spray reflected by incandescents of various colors. The radio attachment can tune in on many of the long distance stations.

Laurence (Buddy) Stuart, managing director of the Fenway Theatre in Boston, essayed a new role when he appeared as master of ceremonies at a party under auspices of the Boston American Women's Club.

Ellis Mendell will open his newly constructed theatre in Saugus on or about April 15. Installation of a pipe organ now is being completed. Manager Mendell has been granted a permit by the board of selectmen to present shows Monday to Saturday, inclusive.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Manley. The proud papa is assistant treasurer of the Wilbur Theatre in Boston.

Joe Cook, the "baby" of Boston managers, and Vincent Fetherstone, who has been in charge of the box office of the Hollis Theatre, Boston, for thirty-four years, will have their annual benefit on April 13.

Leading photoplays in Boston the week of April 5 were as follows: Fenway, "The Recreation of Brian Kent;" Loew's State, "A Kiss in the Dark" and "The Way of a Girl;" Modern and Beacon (twin houses, "The Recreation of Brian Kent" and "The Redeeming Sin;" Loew's Orpheum, "The Top of the World;" Gordon's Scollay Square, "Dynamite Smith;" Gordon's Washington Street, second week of "Sally;" Boston, "In Love With Love;" Tremont Temple, "The Passion Play."

Maine

Nelson E. Haskell of Freeport, the new manager of the Six Links, is conducting a combination policy of dancing and motion pictures in that hall.

The Bath Opera House in Bath was destroyed by fire early on the morning of March 27. The house was owned by the Maine and New Hampshire Theatres, Inc. H. Augustus Hughes was manager. Its policy has been transferred to the Columbia, owned by the same company. Origin of the fire, which broke out in the balcony, is unknown. The loss is estimated at approximately $20,000. The theatre was erected in 1918. Work of rebuilding the house probably will be started soon.

R. G. Craerin is manager of the Jefferson Theatre in Portland.

Lysander Richmond, manager of the Colonial Theatre in Sanford, has been presenting special shows on Monday afternoons for the school children and they have proved successful.

Frank A. Leavitt is building a picture theatre in Ogunquit. It will seat 1,200 and open during May.

Frederick E. Mortimer, aged 72, died on March 13 at his home in Freeport. He had been manager of theatres in New England since 1882.

Kenneth Tallmadge has succeeded A. J. Moreau, field representative of the Gray Circuit, as manager of the Haine Theatre in Waterville and he is now in charge of the local theatre.

JANE WINTON
Appearing in Paramount pictures

Vermont

William LaPoint, formerly manager of the Opera House in Barre, was fined $5,000 at a special session of United States District Court in Montpelier on March 27. He was charged with failing to pay revenue tax on theatre tickets. LaPoint pleaded guilty and was sent to jail in default of money to pay the fine.

The Opera House in Groton was destroyed by a fire which devastated the community. The loss totalled $100,000.

H. A. Holden is the enterprising manager of the picture shows now being presented in the Town Hall in Wallingford.

Pittsburgh

Manager W. J. Nelson of the Cameo Theatre, has dug up a brand new print of "Tillie's Punctured Romance," the ten-year-old comedy feature, starring Charlie Chaplin and Marie Dressler, and will present the picture at the Cameo the week of April 27. Mr. Nelson looks for a big week's business.

C. G. Couch, who has been in the theatre business at Carnegie for many years, has sold his Carnegie Theatre to A. P. Altmeyer.

Paul B. Jones of the Rowland and Colonial theatres, Wilkinsburg, has returned home after a few days' business trip to New York.

Eddie Beadle and Earl Forsythe, the exhibitors of Canonsburg, which is right close to Washington, are expected to do their bit towards making the forthcoming M. P. T. O. of W. Pa., a real success.

Now Booking
HARRY CAREY
in
"Beyond the Border"
Directed by Scott Dunlap
A HUNT STROMBERG personally supervised production
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Lubliner & Trinz Issue Bonds; Terms of Ascher Loan Reported

Shapker, Stuart and Company has issued $475,000 worth of 7 per cent. first mortgage building bonds on the new Grove Theatre and office building going up on Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, for Lubliner & Trinz. The house has been leased to the circuit at an average rental of $42,333.34 annually.

According to the records, the $750,000 loan of the Ascher circuit through the B. K. Goodman Company will be repaid at the rate of $1,500 a week for the first year, then a payment of $300,000 and then $2,500 a week for the remainder of the loan, which draws 7 per cent. The security of the loan covers the fees of the West Englewood, the Portage Park, Frolic and Columbus theatres of the circuit, as well as pledge of stock owned by the other theatres of the Ascher circuit.

Manager John J. O'Neill of the Quincy Theatre at Quincy, Ill., used his mind and prevented a panic when a reel of "Bull and Sand" ignited in the projection booth of the theatre. Calling on the audience to disperse in an orderly manner, the house was emptied in a few minutes and the fire was brought under control. The projection machine and film were destroyed. The theatre reopened a few days latter.

Pinkleman and Cory, who built the Washington Square Theatre at Quincy, Ill., are being sued by the Pathe Exchange and Miller Castle and Freiburg for $10,000, charging unpaid accounts and breach of contract. The United Artists have also filed a suit for $5,000 against them.

The executives of Jones, Linick & Schaefer are feeling good these days as Aaron Jones has told them they are to get one month's vacation this year with pay. The first manager to take advantage of the generous offer is Will Rosenblum of the Rialto, who is at French Lick Springs. Aaron Jones, Jr., is on the job while he is away. Bill Seigel is also there.

Mrs. H. L. Snyder has sold the Community Theatre at Albany, Ill., to Manager Carpenter.

The National Theatres Corporation, which operates the new Capital Theatre, Chicago, says that owing to big business they have been forced to add another de luxe show to the daily program. Four complete shows are now being given with five on Saturday and Sunday. The afternoon prices are 15 and 30 and the night prices are 25 and 50 cents. More than 50,000 people pass through the turnstiles of this fine new house every week.

The many friends of Harry Greenman, former manager of the Monroe Theatre, Chicago, will be glad to hear of his promotion by the Loew organization to managing director of the new Loew State Theatre at St. Louis.

With the arrest of John L. Wells, stock promoter in the Majestic Theatre building on West Monroe street, Chicago, for violating the Illinois Securities act, several persons charge they lost large sums of money through him. He was arrested on the complaint of Louis Rubens, well known exhibitor of Joliet, who is reported to have lost $30,000 through the promoter.

Frank Evans, E. Fort Ahern and Lester Evans have organized the Evahern Theatre Corporation of Hinsdale, Ill.

Mrs. J. M. Kennedy will build a picture theatre at Kirksville, Mo., that will seat 1,200 and have a large stage.

Cool headed action by Charles Hellaman, owner of the Erie Theatre at 641 North Clark street, Chicago, averted a panic among more than 600 patrons when fire broke out in the basement of the theatre and quickly spread to the stage. Hellaman mounted the stage and quietly warned the audience to leave. Men, women and children filed out with no disturbance, the last persons reaching the street as the flames broke through the floor. Fire companies, which arrived soon after, extinguished the flames. The damage was estimated at $8,000.

Safeblowers blasted their way into a safe of the Windsor Theatre at 1225 North Clark street, Chicago, and obtained $1,000. The safe also was forced open three weeks ago and a considerable sum taken.

Emil Hulquist, proprietor of the Chicago Theatre at 614 South State street, Chicago, was counting his receipts for Friday, Saturday and Sunday in his basement office and had got to $400 when a negro with a revolver held him up and took the money. Hulquist estimates there was about $500 lost.

Balaban and Katz are to pay an annual rental of $90,000 for twenty-five years for the 3,000-seat theatre being erected in the Ure Building on Howard Avenue, Chicago, according to a lease filed.

J. A. Wade, theatre owner of Griggsville, Ill., is branching out, having added the Orpheum Theatre at Vandalia to his chain of houses.

Here they have Kenneth Fitzpatrick of Fitzpatrick and McElroy getting engaged to Cecilia Evans out Hollywood way. The boys were all set to congratulate him and he says nothing to it. Evidently the press agent forgot to ask him about the announcement.

W. H. Rulon and Son have sold the Edgewood Theatre, Chicago, to Logan McCullum of Belmond.

Abraham Cohen has taken over the Willard Theatre at 340 East 51st street, Chicago, from Ortenstein and Wells and will fix the house up to run both vaudeville and pictures. He also has the Midway Hippodrome.

Now Booking

AGNES AYRES
in
'HER MARKET VALUE'
with ANDERS RANDOLPH
TAYLOR HOLMES · HEDDA HOPPER & EDWARD EARLE
from the celebrated stage success
A PAUL POWELL PRODUCTION
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

St. Louis

The Brothers Horsefield have switched theatres. Bill is now at Union, Mo., and Bob at Owensville, Mo.

'Tis said that Salem, Mo., is to have two new theatres. W. A. Donnellson recently sold his house there. Now it is said that Mrs. Donnellson will become interested in a new house, while the man who purchased Donnellson's old theatre also plans to build.

William Peterson, 18 years old, son of Mrs. Minnie Peterson, owner of the Ozark Theatre, St. Clair, Mo., is a patient at the Frisco Hospital, St. Louis. He was injured two weeks ago while trying to pole vault at a high school meet. He hurt his back.

R. E. Atkins of De Soto, Ill., and Elkville, Ill., was here this week to rearrange his booking because of the destruction of the Gem Theatre, De Soto, Ill., in the tornado of March 18. He hopes to rebuild.

Steve Farrar of Harrisburg, Ill., and Carl Malone of Eldorado, Ill., were among the visitors of the latter part of the week. Many other out-of-town men came in for the convention at the Elks Club on Tuesday, March 31.

The New Maplewood Theatre, Manchester avenue, Maplewood, Mo., opened on March 28, playing to capacity at each performance. "Oh Doctor" was the feature. The new house is owned by the Koplar interests and Dave Nelson is manager. It seats 1,500 and represents an investment of about $125,000. It is a one floor theatre. The exterior is of Moorish design. The house has a full stage sufficient for vaudeville or dramatic presentations.

Connecticut

The Strand Theatre Corporation of Winsted has elected Abe Davidson of Norwich president. Other officers chosen are: Vice-president, W. J. Brennon of Winsted; secretary-treasurer, Patrick J. Darcy. The new company is capitalized at $100,000. It intends to build a theatre on Main street, Winsted. President Davidson is one of the most prominent exhibitors in Connecticut and conducts theatres in Norwich.

Henry Needles, managing director of the Princess and Strand theatres in Hartford, presented "Sally" as the film attraction at the Strand during anniversary week starting March 30. Mr. Needles has been eminently successful in his conduct of the Strand since taking over this house, one of the leading film theatres of the capitol city.

Manager Constantine of the Coleman Theatre in Southington presented "Peter Pan" as a benefit for the high school association.

Efforts are being made to obtain the right to present motion pictures in New Canaan on Sunday nights. A battle on the matter is seen as a result of opposition started by church members.

A theatre seating 1,800 persons is to be built in Derby by a New York concern whose identity has not been disclosed. The project is said to involve $250,000. I. H. Hoffman, owner of the Capitol, is reported to have been planning the erection of a new house and now is said to be preparing to start actual work on it.

A certificate of organization has been filed at the capitol in Hartford by the Krasner Amusement Company, Inc., of Bridgeport. The officers are as follows: President, Benjamin Krasner, Denver, Col.; treasurer, Jennie K. Ruttner, Bridgeport; secretary, Martie Ruttner, Bridgeport. These officers comprise the board of directors.

Poli's Palace Theatre in Hartford soon will abandon its feature picture policy and a stock company will be installed. Charles Benson is the energetic manager of the Palace.

Cincinnati

According to a dispatch from Washington, the Federal Trade commission has dismissed proceedings against the Lande Film Distributing corporation of Cincinnati, against which a complaint had been made charging the reissuing of films under titles other than those originally used. The case involved a number of film exchanges, but in the case of the Cincinnati firm the commission found no evidence that 'it was guilty of such practice.

The safe in the office of the Strand Theatre, Middletown, Ohio, was robbed of $575 recently by a bandit who left a handkerchief in the building, through the laundry mark on which he was traced and apprehended.

Manager F. J. Buckhor of the Park Theatre, Barberton, Ohio, is mourning the death of his wife who passed away a fortnight ago, after an illness of several weeks.

Charles W. Schafer and George J. Renner, Jr., Youngstown, Ohio, are contemplating the erection of a theatre at the corner of West Federal and Market streets.

Carl Hume 'has disposed of his Orient Theatre, Toledo, Ohio, to Ryan and Whitmore. Hume formerly managed the Hippodrome, Cleveland.

The Lyric Theatre, Toledo, has passed into possession of Nat Charnas, who also operates the Superior and Strand in that city.

Contracts have been let at Portsmouth, Ohio, for the construction of the Grand Opera House, to cost $250,000. Dail W. Conroy and Simon Labold are the managers. It is understood that the house will play pictures at least part of the time.

When the Casino Theatre, Clark and Linn streets, Cincinnati, was sold recently, the names of the purchasers were not disclosed. It now develops that the house was taken over by Phil Miller, Sam Fine and others, the consideration being $125,000.

Wisconsin

A. J. Meininger, veteran Ascher Bros. manager who recently announced his resignation as manager of the Merrill, downtown Milwaukee house, after it had been taken over by the Saxe interests, is expected to join the Silliman theatre circuit in an executive capacity. Although J. H. Silliman, who with Jack Grauman operates the Silliman circuit, declares the time is not yet ripe for a definite announcement, one report is that Meininger has been offered a post as general manager of the nine outskirt houses which compose the chain. Another report is that he will combine the management of the Riviera, the largest Silliman holding, with direction of exploitation for all the houses.

Earl Rice, who recently disposed of the Riviera and three other theatres to the Silliman circuit, has announced that he will stay with the chain until June 1, if necessary, in order to give the purchasers an opportunity to select managers for the houses. Mendel Rice, his father, is expected in Milwaukee shortly from California, to close minor details in connection with the deal. Earl Rice upon leaving Milwaukee expects to enter the movie field in California with his father and brother.

Plans for a $70,000 theatre and store building on the south side of Milwaukee have just been revealed. The theatre will be located at Twenty-second and Forest Home avenues and will be erected by the Badger Theatre Building service. It will be two stories high, of brick and tile construction.

A ten and twenty-five cent policy has been announced for the Merrill Theatre in Milwaukee by the Saxe interests, which recently acquired the downtown house from Ascher Bros.

"Joe" Hopp Exonerates Stars

SEVERAL publications carried stories of the financial difficulties into which a group of motion picture stars got while making personal appearances in the Middle West. Now a letter from Joseph Hopp, veteran theatre and exchange man of Illinois, to the Chicago correspondent of Moving Picture World removes any doubt that may have unjustly existed as to the conduct of the stars.

"While at Rock Island," Mr. Hopp writes, "I had occasion to go over to Davenport and there I was amazed to see a hold-out in front of the Capitol Theatre that not only filled the lobby but also packed the spacious sidewalk in front. Nine movie stars making a collective personal appearance were the magnet. Going back-stage I found Bryant Washburn, Cullen Landis, Jack Dougherty, Carl Miller, Harry Tighe, Anna May Wong, Ruth Stonehouse, Katherine McGuire and Ena Gregory. They were all presented in turn, each doing a stunt, and were enthusiastically received."

Mr. Hopp blames their manager for the difficulties which came up.

"They then decided," he writes, "to handle their own business and placed the managerial cares upon Bryant Washburn upon their arrival at Des Moines. That they acted wisely is proved by the fact that not only have things since run smoothly but they are drawing record crowds. They give a splendid entertainment and at the same time evidence the fact and impress all with their gentlemanly and lady-like bearing."

News of the Kansas Territory

"Show me a suburban or rural theatre which has a clean, attractive front and lobby and I'll show you a house which is making money," says W. D. Fite, who operates a chain of theatres in Kansas. "The day I acquire a theatre the first thing to be done is to replace the usual unattractive front and lobby with something which looks like a theatre, I actually believe that 70 per cent. of the failures among the smaller theatres are due to the fronts, which need paint, and bleak characterless lobbies—all of which could be remedied for a few dollars, which any exhibitor should be more than willing to spend.

The new Central, which is under construction at Thirty-first street and Indiana avenue, Kansas City, rapidly is nearing completion and is expected to open on Easter. The theatre, a suburban house which represents an investment of $70,000, is being erected by T. H. Brougham and will be managed by Jack Tiller, formerly of McCook, Neb. The theatre will seat 900 and contain two four-room apartments and two storerooms.

H. E. Ulrich, manager of the Midland and Royal Theatres, operated by the Midland Circuit of Theatres, has been appointed manager of the Strand Theatre, Salina, Kas., operated by Capitol Enterprises. He will be succeeded at the Midland and Royal theatres by Harry Keefer, who has been connected with the Midland circuit several years.

Few small theatres in Kansas will surpass the new Crook Theatre being erected at Howard, Kas., by W. S. Stoddard. When completed it will seat 800 and will have a seven-piece orchestra. The policy will be six nights a week with Saturday matinee.

Spring fever reaped an early victim in Willard Frazier, manager of the Empress Theatre, Paola, Kas. Last week when Lee Balsley, manager of the Western Pictures Company, called to see Mr. Frazier he was greeted with the sign, "Doctor is out—Gone fishin'."

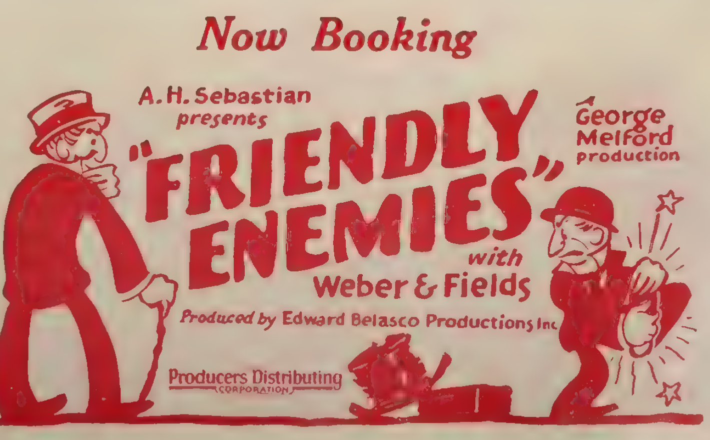
H. Turner, manager of the Turner Theatre, Burlingame, Kans., is confined to his bed, suffering of influenza. Burlingame, incidentally, is a town of 1,400 inhabitants and supports three picture theatres, making it easy to imagine the mental "ease" with which one of those managers could be forced to lie in bed.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors in the Kansas City market last week were: Laurence Brenninger, Orpheum, Topeka, Kas.; S. E. Wilhoit, Jefferson, Springfield, Mo.; Charles Sears, Sears Circuit, Nevada, Mo.; C. M. Pattee, Pattee Theatre, Lawrence, Kas.

Special membership solicitors will be appointed in the membership drive now being staged by the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri. The first special solicitor to be appointed is C. R. Wilson, owner of the Liberty Theatre, Liberty, Mo.

The nine-piece orchestra of the Sedalia Theatre, Sedalia, Mo., was taken to Jefferson City, Mo., state capitol, last week, where a program was broadcasted over station WOS, while H. A. Jones, manager, gave a talk on the picture theatre as a civic centre. A woman soloist and the Sedalia quartet, of which Jack Truitt, owner of the theatre, is a member, also were on the program.

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER REPORTS RELIEVE BOOKING WORRIES
TURN TO PAGE 689.



Now Booking
A. H. Sebastian presents
"FRIENDLY ENEMIES"
with Weber & Fields
A George Melford production
Produced by Edward Belasco Productions Inc
Producers Distributing Corporation

San Francisco

The Golden Gate Theatre, San Francisco, celebrated its third birthday during the week of March 29 when a special program was offered, the feature picture being "Waking up the Town." Since the opening of the house three years ago slightly more than 2,500,000 persons have attended the shows and Manager Clifford Work estimates that 65 per cent. of these have been women. Approximately 30 per cent. of these women bring children with them. The past year set a record for attendance, this showing having been assisted by the steady growth of business out Market street.

Work on the preparation of a site at Market, Hyde and Fulton streets, San Francisco, for the erection of a large theatre for Alexander Pantages, has been stopped by a court order secured by Sol E. Levis, a local theatre owner. Last September Mr. Levis paid a security of $10,000 on a ten-year lease on a portion of the property on which he planned to erect a 400-seat picture theatre and proceeded with this work to the extent of completing the excavation. Four months later the owners of the property entered into an agreement with Alexander Pantages whereby the latter was to take over the entire holdings on a fifty-year lease, with a total rental of more than $5,000,000. Mr. Levis has been otified that his ten-year lease agreement cannot be accepted and he is now suing for the return of the money paid as security. An order temporarily restraining Alexander Pantages from going ahead with his project has been issued.

Charles Gore, son of Michael Gore, president of West Coast Theatres, Inc., and identified with the technical department of this organization, sailed from San Francisco recently on the liner Sierra on a trip to Australia. He plans to investigate the theatre situation there and upon his report will depend a decision to invade that country with American type theatres.

Road show vaudeville, which has been a part of the entertainment offered by the Casino Theatre, San Francisco, since its opening several months ago by James Beatty, has been eliminated and feature pictures have been substituted in its stead, "Frivolous Sal" being the first offering under the new policy. A change has also been made in the weekly change date and this will henceforth be made on Saturdays instead of Sundays. Every feature offered is previewed by James Beatty and House Manager Herman Kersken.

Michael Gluskin, formerly of the Lincoln Theatre, Alameda, Cal., has taken over the Temple Theatre at Fillmore and Sutter streets, San Francisco, and will remodel it, reopening it as a 15-cent house.

Stanley Griffin, formerly connected with Associated First National, has entered the exhibiting field and is now with the Haight Theatre, San Francisco, as house manager.

The Orpheum Theatre at Cloverdale, Cal., formerly conducted by V. A. Wood, is now operated by G. H. Perry.

Sam Perlin, who conducts a chain of picture houses in the San Francisco field, has taken over the Allendale Theatre at Oakland.

West Coast Theatres, Inc., has arranged for the building of a picture house at Marysville, Cal., seating 2,000. A site has been purchased and plans are being prepared. The deal was handled by Jacob Samuels and others interested in it are the Paramount Theatre Corp., George Pelletier, president of the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank of Sacramento and Isadore Morris, Sacramento capitalist.

A theatre and lodge building is to be erected at Dunsmuir, Cal., at an estimated cost of $75,000 by the Dunsmuir Lodge of Masons.

Nebraska

Harry Simons, who has recently purchased the Blakely Theatre at Red Oak, Ia., immediately set on foot a contest in which a prize was offered for the best new name suggested for his theatre.

Jack Tiller has sold his interest in the Temple Theatre at McCook, Nebr., to J. A. Anderzen and O. F. Glass. Mr. Glass has been operating the Star Theatre at McCook, and was formerly in the business also at Elm Creek, Nebr. Mr. Anderzen is from Elm Creek.

M. H. Garvin, owner of the Crescent at Hoidrege, Nebr., which was destroyed by fire some time ago, has come to Omaha and purchased the Hamilton Theatre at Fortieth and Hamilton streets and the Ideal at Sixteenth and Dorcas streets.

Building Inspector R. E. Edgecombe, City Electrician Israel Lovett and Deputy State Fire Warden E. E. Hayduk, who are making the spring inspection of small film theatres of Omaha, united in saying that they found some conditions "very bad" with respect to safety exits.

Michigan

A new theatre to cost $400,000 and to be one of the largest and finest in Michigan is to be built by W. S. Butterfield in Battle Creek, according to announcement by Edward C. Beatty, general manager of the Butterfield Enterprises.

Max Balaban and Sam Katz, of the famous combination of Chicago theatre owners, were in Detroit several days last week conferring with John H. Kunsky and George W. Trendle over the new Michigan Theatre project, in which all are interested.

Charles H. Miles announces the closing of the Orpheum, one of his largest downtown houses, for redecorating. It is expected that the house will be ready to open May 15. The policy heretofore has been pictures and vaudeville.

Seattle

Floyd E. Wesp, assistant manager of Hamrick's Seattle Blue Mouse Theatre, has returned from a well merited vacation and is "rarin' to go." Floyd takes his work so sincerely that he spent part of his vacation time studying stage presentations, lighting effects, decorations, etc., and is now in a position to give Seattle patrons some of the newest ideas along these lines, in addition to the Blue Mouse's regular policy of splendid musical and feature picture attractions. Mr. Wesp is well known in the Northwest as a live wire, having been manager of a number of leading houses in this territory. He has been affiliated with the Hamrick organization for over two years. His engaging personality and attention to detail have won him many friends among patrons of the Blue Mouse.

W. A. Mendenhall and Mrs. Mendenhall of Boise, Idaho, are visitors in Seattle. Mr. Mendenhall controls four houses in his city and is a popular showman.

A. H. McDonald of Eugene, Oregon, died this week after a brief illness from pneumonia. Mr. McDonald was a well known and well beloved old timer in the exhibition field. The new Lowell Theatre now under construction for him will be a monument to his name. His son, who has been more or less actively associated with him of late, will continue the management of his father's enterprises.

Later plans as developed by Warner Brothers in Seattle call for a much larger house in the University district than was at first contemplated. Additional lots have been acquired, giving a space 140 feet wide by 103 feet depth. A 1500-seat house costing $100,000 will be erected. The latest report from Spokane is to the effect that definite arrangements have been completed for the acquisition of the Clemmer Theatre, formerly owned by Clemmer & Lambach. Dr. Lambach is understood to have sold out his interest to the Warners, while Dr. Clemmer will remain in the organization and act as active head of the theatre.

A special committee appointed by the Northwest Film Board of Trade, met with Messrs. Ulsh and Ruth of Mount Vernon, Wash., and arrived at a satisfactory arrangement whereby these exhibitors will play all pictures under contract with the various exchanges.

H. W. Bruen has resigned as secretary of the Board of Arbitration, effective this week. Mr. Bruen, who was serving his second term in this arduous office with his wonted sincerity, fairmindedness and capability, has found this step necessary due to the press of personal business which will absorb all his time from now on. Joe Bradt, owner of the Good Luck Theatre, is a worthy successor to Mr. Bruen as the new exhibitor member.

Frank Wade, according to a local report, will build a new house in Anacortes, Wash., in the downtown district. The movement is sponsored by business men.

Mrs. Nellis has bought the Rose Theatre, Cheney, Wash., from S. E. Guenther.

Ray Grombacher of Spokane will represent the M. P. T. O. of Washington at the national convention in Milwaukee next month.

A "sub-convention" of the M. P. T. O. of Washington is planned to be held in Spokane about June 1. This will enable Eastern Washington exhibitors to come into closer contact with the organization. Mr. Grombacher will undoubtedly have returned by that date, and will have much of interest to discuss and relate.

The Anzier Theatre, Twenty third and East Madison, was sold this week to Clarence R. Anderson.

Now Booking
A FRANK WOODS SPECIAL PRODUCTION
"BEAUTY and the BAD MAN"
By PETER B. KYNE
Directed by WILLIAM WORTHINGTON
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

STRAIGHT from the SHOULDER REPORTS

A DEPARTMENT FOR THE INFORMATION OF EXHIBITORS

EDITED BY A. VAN BUREN POWELL

Associated Exhibitors

(Includes Selznick)

RACING LUCK. (5 reels). Star, Monty Banks. Very good subject. Pleased but drew fair only. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. Middle and working class city of 23,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

SIXTH COMMANDMENT. Star cast. Do not let anyone command you to pay your perfectly good money for this grapefruit. Lay off and far away. Tone, punk. Special, Ye Gods, no. Audience appeal, zero. Middle and working class city of 23,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

F. B. O.

CLOUD RIDER. (5,070 feet). Star, Al Wilson. An excellent stunt airplane picture. Good paper that pulls them in on Saturday. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, okay. Oil field class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlicter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

DANGEROUS FLIRT. (5,297 feet). Star, Evelyn Brent. This one is the first I ran of her, and she is not bad. Will do for anybody that likes this kind of stuff. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio

DESERT SHEIK. Star, Wanda Hawley. Not much of a picture, as these sheik pictures are not much any more. But what there was to it wasn't much. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, good. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

FIGHTING SAP. (5,138 feet). Star, Fred Thomson. Full of pep. Plenty of action. Thrills and laughs and a big hand for Silver King. The horse gets better and better all the time. Good tone. Strong audience appeal. Working class city of 100,000. Admission 10-15-20. W. C. Budge, Comedy Theatre (275 seats), Jamaica, New York.

FLASHING SPURS. Star, Bob Custer. Boys, here is a real good star. This is my first picture of this star, and think I have made a good buy. Look at this one and you will buy entire series. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Very good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

GALLOPING HOOFS. Star, Fred Thomson. Now, you said something. Another one of his good ones. Brothers, get this kind as you want and need for patronage. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, ninety-nine per cent. Middle and working class city of 25,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

GIRL OF THE LIMBERLOST. (6,500 feet). Star cast. This is a good picture and one of the best drawing cards we have had this year. Lots of people had read the book. Tone, good. Hardly suitable for Sunday. Special, no. Strong audience appeal. Farming and small class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

These dependable tips come from exhibitors who tell the truth about pictures to help you book your program intelligently. "It is my utmost desire to serve my fellow man," is their motto.

Use the tips; follow the advice of exhibitors who agree with your experience on pictures you both have run.

Send tips to help others. This is your department, run for you and maintained by your good-will.

HIS FORGOTTEN WIFE. (6,500 feet). Star, Madge Bellamy. Here is a picture I didn't think much of till after the first show, and it sure went over big. Never heard a one say they didn't like it. Heard lots of favorable comments on it. Made a success on the wonderful acting done by Baxter and Bellamy. There isn't a dull moment in the picture. Can't make a mistake in buying this picture. Heard some say I should charge fifty cents for this picture. Good tone. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety-eight per cent. Farm class town of 150. Admission 15-30. Robert W. Hines, Hines Theatre (150 seats), Loyalton, South Dakota.

LAUGHING AT DANGER. (5,442 feet). Star, Richard Talmadge. Another huminger from Dick. I find he is the best bet for my Saturday night crowd. Book this one boys, and all of the rest and you are sitting pretty for profit against opposition. Tone, only fair. Sunday, no. Good attendance. All classes town of 2900. Admission 10-25, 15-30. A. E. Andrews, Opera House (496 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

NEGLECTED WOMEN. (6,265 feet). Star cast. Nothing much to it. Will do for program houses; will not do if you have to pay much for it. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

RANGE TERROR. (4,700 feet). Star, Bob Custer. The best that Custer has made yet and is a peach of a picture with plenty of action. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio

SILENT STRANGER. (5 reels). Star, Fred Thomson. A dandy western comedy drama. For action and comedy it just could not be beat. The horse, "Silver King," steals a few honors, too, appearing to be an animal with marvelous intuition. A good, clean picture that should please most any audience. We had a good print. Tone, good. Sunday, probably not. Merchants and farmers town of 440. Admission 15-25. Kenneth W. Thompson, M. W. A. Theatre, Hancock, Wisconsin.

THUNDERING HOOFS. (6,915 feet). Star, Fred Thomson. By far the best we have had with this star, and he drew the people in on an off night. Tom Mix, look to your laurels, this fellow is gaining on you fast and if we don't miss our guess will be a better box office bet inside of another year. No tone. Sunday, no. Special, yes. Audience appeal, eighty-five per cent. All classes town of 2,900. Admission 10-25, 15-30. A. E. Andrews, Opera House (486 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

TRIGGER FINGERS. (4,775 feet). Star, Bob Custer. This is our first of this series of westerns and he seems to be a new comer in the field, the show went over nicely with our audience on a one day run, and some people came the second night thinking we had it two nights and wanted to see it which speaks for itself. No tone. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. All classes town of 2,900. Admission 10-25, 15-30. A. E. Andrews, Opera House (486 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

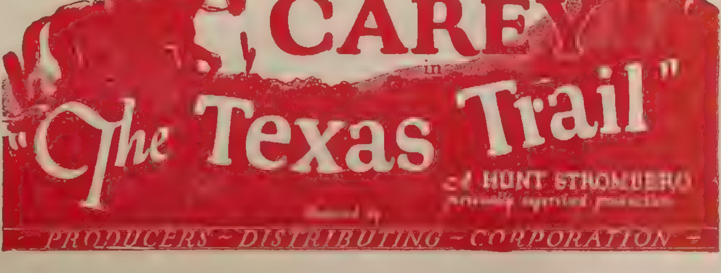
First National

BAD MAN. (6,404 feet). Star cast. Our Saturday crowd seemed to like this very much. Lots of laughs and somewhat of a western, and that's what our Saturday crowds like. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Good audience appeal. Farming and small town class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

BOND BOY. (6,902 feet). Star, Richard Barthelemess. Also a good picture. Well acted an outdoor picture that should please anywhere. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 700. Admission 10-20. W. F. Denney, Electric Theatre (250 seats), Lowry City, Missouri.

DANGEROUS AGE. (7,204 feet). Star cast. A picture with a good moral, that will please any audience in town, large or small. A good, clean picture. Tone, good. Sunday, good. Good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 700. Admission 10-20. W. F. Denney, Electric Theatre (250 seats), Lowry City, Missouri.

Now Booking



GIRL IN THE LIMOUSINE. (5,630 feet). Star, Larry Semon. Pretty weak, is my opinion of this one. It is altogether too long. In about two or three reels it would be all right. It has some good comedy, but only in spots. Will pass in a double feature program. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST. (6,600 feet). Star, Sylvia Breamer. A good story of the early gold rush days. All liked it. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Rural and small town class town of 850. Admission 10-25. Star Theatre (200 seats), Crofton, Nebraska.

GOLD FISH. (7,145 feet). Star, Constance Talmadge. Drop the first four letters from the title of the picture and I think we have it about right. Star cast, but everything wasted on a lot of nonsense. Tone, poor. Sunday, no. Special, no. Poor audience appeal. Mixed class town of 7,000. Edgar Delahunty, Family Theatre (300 seats), Forest City, Pennsylvania.

HUNTRESS. (6,236 feet). Star, Colleen Moore. A pretty good little picture, but not much plot. Our audience enjoyed it for a change. She is a good little star. We should nave used "Flaming Youth" first, as they say it is her best. Tone good. Sunday, no. Fair audience appeal. Farming and small town class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

LOVE MASTER. (6,779 feet). Star, Strongheart (dog). Splendid outdoor picture. Rather old, but film in fine shape, and seemed to please one hundred per cent. Young and old enjoyed it. Bought right and made a good profit. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Family class town of 1,800. Admission 10-30. R. Kuhn, Kuhn Theatre (300 seats), Lebanon, Oregon.

PERFECT FLAPPER. (7,000 feet). Star, Colleen Moore. I think that this is Colleen's best offering to date. She plays her part to perfection in this story of a modern flapper. Anyone who thinks she can't act, should see this picture. They may change their opinion. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

PONJOLA. (7 reels). Star, Anna Q. Nilsson. This was a very good audience picture. Real entertainment and suspense. Pretty good drawing card. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Hardly suitable for special. Strong audience appeal. Farming and small town class of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

SLANDER THE WOMAN. (6,400 feet). Dorothy Phillips. This is an extra good picture that should please; lots of beautiful scenery and also good acting. Special, no. Town and country class town of 700. Admission 10-20. W. F. Denney, Electric Theatre (250 seats), Lowry City, Missouri.

Mary Pickford, the darling of the gods, does some plain and fancy snap-shooting at William Beaudine, her tall director. Beaudine will direct Mary in "Little Annie Rooney," in which Mary again appears as a ragged urchin for United Artists SILENT WATCHER. (7,576 feet). Star, Bessie Love. Too much competition so flopped. Picture good and comments favorable from few who saw it. Film rental entirely too high for me. R. L. Nowell Jr., Idlehour Theatre, Monroe, Georgia.

SONG OF LOVE. (8,000 feet). Star, Norma Talmadge. Better than most of her later ones though Norma is getting in the matronly type and is a little heavy for a care free child of the desert who does not know her own mind. Desert settings better than a few pictures for which companies were taken to the old world to get. General class city of 16,000. Admission 20-40. Ben. L. Morris, Temple and Olympic Theatre, Bellaire, Ohio.

Fox

CIRCUS COWBOY. (6,400 feet). Star, Charles Jones. Good program picture. This one has a little bit of everything in it. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Miners and farmers town of 600. Admission 10-25, special, 15-30. John Russell, Russell Theatre (250 seats), Matherville, Illinois.

CIRCUS COWBOY. (6,400 feet). Star. Buck Jones. Nothing startling as a production, but pleased all. Fair tone. Suitable for Sunday. Special, no. City of 163,000. Draw from working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

HEART BUSTER. (4,500 feet). Star, Tom Mix. Good action but too much clowning by Mix. Audiences are fed up with his funny stuff. Pleased 60 per cent. and played to three days fair business. City of 163,000. Working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

LADIES TO BOARD. (6,112 feet). Star, Tom Mix. This was a repeat, but they all came back to see Mix. Splendid picture and pleased everybody. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Excellent audience appeal. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (730 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

LONE CHANCE. Star, John Gilbert. A good and pleasing little program picture well acted and directed. Consider Gilbert a very good actor, and if placed in the right kind of productions he should please any audience. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Mixed class town of 7,000. Edgar Delahunty, Family Theatre (300 seats), Forest City, Pennsylvania.

PAINTED LADY. (6,938 feet). Star cast. Just a good program picture. Not a special by a long shot, and I paid a special price for it. Print good. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

PLUNDERER. (5,812 feet). Star, Frank Mayo. Classed and charged as a special, but it isn't. It is quite a good average mining drama, but no puller. People like it but don't enthuse. Played three days to ordinary business. Tone, all right. Sunday, no. Special, no. City of 163,000. Draw working and seafaring class city of 163,000. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

SHEPHERD KING. (8,500 feet). Star cast. A super depicting the early life of David (about 1030 B. C.). It opens with an

Now Booking
The novelty sensation of the year
GILBERT HEYFRON presents
A RENAUD HOFFMAN Picturization
"Private Affairs"
Released by
- PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION -

You and Constance used to be my best bets but your last three pictures don't please, they're not what the people want. No tone. Sunday, no. Special, no. No appeal. All classes. Admission 10-25-30. W. H. Odom, Pastime Theatre (250 seats), Sandersville, Georgia.

WANDERER OF THE WASTELAND. (6,700 feet). Star, Jack Holt. Not as good as some of the other Zane Grey pictures. Tone O. K. Yes for Sunday but not as special. Draw small town class, town 3,300. Admission 15-20. P. L. Vann, Opera House (650 seats), Greenville, Alabama.

Pathe

CHRONICLES OF AMERICA. (Pathe). I have the whole series booked and everytime I think of it I curse myself. I ran about six or eight of them and now I have given up that idea and let them stay in the film can from the time they get here until it is time for them to go. Tone, okay. Not suitable for Sunday or any other day. Special, no. Very poor audience appeal. Family and student class city of 100,000. Admission 10-20. George W. Pettingill Jr., Mirror Lake Theatre (850 seats), St. Petersburg, Florida.

HOT WATER. (5,000 feet). Star, Harold Lloyd. This one packed 'em in with a dramatic show to fight. It's the House of Fun. It's a good one. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Appeals to all classes. Farmers town of 806. Admission 10-20. W. C. Herndon, Liberty Theatre (250 seats), Valliant, Oklahoma.

SAFETY LAST. (6,400 feet). Star, Harold Lloyd. Very good, but not as good as "Dr. Jack" and "Grandma's Boy." Audience appeal and tone O. K. No for Sunday or as special. Draw best class, town 875. Admission 10-25. Hal James, Wanoca Theatre, Wallace, North Carolina.

Producers' Dist. Corp.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE. (7,179 feet). Star, Florence Vidor. A Civil War story, big and well produced and will go well where war stories are liked but we are pretty well worn on them in our house. Would have been fine some years ago. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 3,600. Admission 10-20. William A. Clark, Sr., Castle Theatre (400 seats), Havana, Illinois.

CAFE IN CAIRO. (5,656 ft.). Star, Priscilla Dean. A fine picture that pleased immensely. Not as good, however, as "The Siren of Seville." Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Oil field class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlichter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

CHALK MARKS. (6 reels). Star cast. A good program picture that should please all who see it. Margaret Snow's realistic impersonation of the aged school teacher will sympathetically impress any audience. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, No. Audience appeal, 90 per cent. General class, city of 500,000. Admission, 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

FLAMING FORTIES. (5,770 ft.). Star. Harry Carey. Have had lots better Careys than this, although it is fairly entertaining. Poorest one in the first series, but good at that. Our patrons like Carey next to Thomson as a western star. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Pretty good audience appeal. Farming and small town class, town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

HOUSE OF YOUTH. (6,650 ft.). Star, Jacqueline Logan. A fair jazz picture and will do for program stuff. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Oil field class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlichter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

LIGHTNING RIDER. (6 reels). Star, Harry Carey. An extra good western. Tone, good. Special, no. Pleased all. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allen & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

CLAIRE ADAMS
Appearing in Paramount Pictures

MIAMI. (6,317 feet). Star, Betty Compson. Not so good as "Ramshackle House," but an average picture. Tone, okay. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25. Allen & Underhill, Pastime Theatre, Chelsea, Vermont.

MIAMI. (6,317 feet). Star, Betty Compson. A frothy dream of southern beach resorts. Very snappy and appealing to the younger set. Good entertainment and nobody made complaint. Very appealing title. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, sixty-five per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

MICHAEL O'HALLORAN. (7,000 feet). Star, Eleanor Boardman. A mighty good show all through, though pretty sad in several places. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, fair. Fine audience appeal. Rural and small town class, town of 850. Admission 10-25. Star Theatre (200 seats), Crofton, Nebraska.

NIGHT HAWK. (5,115 feet). Star, Harry Carey. Good crook and western. Some combination, but the audience liked them and that is what we want. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Hardly suitable for special. Good audience appeal. Small town class and farmers, town of 600. Admission 10-20, 10-30. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

NIGHT HAWK. (5,115 feet). Star, Harry Carey. Another good action picture. Carey is a good bet for us. Tone, okay. Special, no. Pleased all. Farming class in small town. Admission 10-25, Allen & Underhill, Pastime Enterprise, Chelsea, Vermont.

RAMSHACKLE HOUSE. (6,287 feet). Star, Betty Compson. Very good picture, will stand three days anywhere, don't be afraid of it. Fight between alligator and Indian makes them stand up. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. All classes town of 2,800. Admission 10-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

ROARING RAILS. (5,753 ft.). Star Harry Carey. A railroad story of the west. The story is interesting at all times. This picture ought to please everyone. Many beautiful scenes in the end. Fire scenes are thrilling. Tone, good. Good audience appeal. Working class, city of 100,000. Admission 10-15-20. W. C. Budge, Comedy Theatre (275 seats), Jamaica, New York.

TROUPING WITH ELLEN. (6,452 ft.). Star, Helene Chadwick. No action in this. A love story with two dopey lovers who wouldn't fight for the girl they loved. A sweet little old lady furnishes the humor for the picture. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, 65 per cent. General class, city of 500,000. Admission 10-30. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

WHAT SHALL I DO. (8,000 ft.). Star cast. Good picture, but not the kind needed at this theatre. Tone, good. Special, no. Audience appeal, 60 per cent. Middle and working class, city of 25,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

United Artists

BIRTH OF A NATION. Star cast. Always the same. Packs them in and never fails to please. See it scores of times and then see it again. Excellent tone. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, 100 per cent. Middle and working class, city of 23,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

DOROTHY VERNON OF HADDON HALL. (10,000 ft.). Star, Mary Pickford. Splendid costume picture. Rather long, but my people enjoyed it. However, as with "America," United Artists got me for a sucker. They got biggest part of income and I got the experience. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Family class, town of 1,800. Admission 10-30. R. Kuhn, Kuhn Theatre (300 seats), Lebanon, Oregon.

GARRISON'S FINISH. Star, Jack Pickford. Very good picture if you like one with race horses in it. Book this one. With plenty of speed. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Miners and farmers, town of 600. Admission 10-25; special 15-30. John Russell, Russell Theatre (250 seats), Matherville, Illinois.

WHITE ROSE. (11 reels). Star, Mae Marsh. A photoplay directed by Griffith and with stars like Mae Marsh and Carol Dempster in the cast is bound to be above the average in entertainment value. The emotional acting of Miss Marsh and the support of the elfin Carol Dempster and Ivor Novello, well cast in the role of the fallen minister, register a performance that is sure to appeal to everybody. A simple human story. City and country class, town of 3,000. Admission 10-30. George W. Walther, Dixie Theatre, Kerrville, Texas.

Universal

ACQUITTAL. (6,325 feet.) Star cast. A costume picture that isn't worth a cent for a small town exhibitor, as there isn't much action to it. A mystery play in seven reels. Town and country class town of 700. Admission 10-20. W. F. Denney, Electric Theatre (250 seats), Lowry City, Missouri.

BREATHLESS MOMENT. (5,556 feet.) Star, William Desmond. A play of crooks who reform with results sometimes serious and sometimes humorous. Plot is terribly far fetched but entertaining on the whole. Will please majority in right houses. Played three days to fair business. Tone, bad. (Crooks reform for convenience not through conscience.) Sunday, no. (Contains burlesque church scenes.) City of 163,000. Draw working and seafaring class city of 163,000. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

DARING CHANCES. Star, Jack Hoxie. A western picture which has some excellent riding scenes. The story is always interesting. Tone, good. Strong audience appeal. Working class city of 100,000. Admission 10-15-20. W. C. Budge, Comedy Theatre (275 seats), Jamaica, New York.

FAST WORKER. (6,500 feet.) Star, Reginald Denny. An interesting story. Will hold the attention of the audience. Some very amusing situations. A thrilling auto race in the end. Tone, good. Audience appeal, good. Working class city of 100,000. Admission 10-15-20. W. C. Budge, Comedy Theatre (275 seats), Jamaica, New York.

HOOK AND LADDER. Star, Hoot Gibson. Gibson as an accidental fireman. The humor got over fairly well but the fire at the finish did not convince. Pleased seventy-five per cent and played to three days fairly good business. Tone, very shaky at the start. Sunday, no. Special, no. City of 163,000. Draw from working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

JACK O'CLUBS. (4,717 feet.) Star, Herbert Rawlinson. Rawlinson as an Irish cop where the gangsters gang and the cops cop it. This one is full of humor and ends with a boxing match that might be part of a slapstick comedy. Pleased a hundred per cent and then some. Played to three days of very good business. No tone. Suitable for Sunday, questionable. City of 163,000. Draw from working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

LADY OF QUALITY. (8,640 feet.) Star cast. Here is a picture that cost a lot of money that is a flop for a small town. No good at all. Also the picture could have been in six reels instead of eight without injury. No tone. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, not good. Town and country class town of 700. Admission 10-20. W. F. Denney, Electric Theatre (250 seats), Lowry City, Missouri

ETHEL CLAYTON

Leading woman in "The Mansion of Aching Hearts," a B. P. Schulberg production.

LET 'ER BUCK. Star, Hoot Gibson. A splendid western which will please everyone. The Pendleton round-up scenes were very interesting. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (730 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

OH DOCTOR. Star, Reginald Denny. This beats them all, more laughs than ten two reel comedies. Reginald Denny is certainly enjoying a position that everyone can envy. Laemmle ought to pat himself on the back for securing only the finest vehicles available for this exceedingly popular star. Let's have some more like this. Recommend every exhibitor to grab it and exploit, also look at Denny's three others if you haven't yet played them. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, very good. Town of 2,000. Admission 10-30. H. W. Rible, Mayfield Theatre (210 seats), Mayfield, California.

RIDE FOR YOUR LIFE. (5,510 feet). Star, Hoot Gibson. A fairly good film ruined by the photographer's vignetted shots, fuzzy edge stuff, and faked night scenes. The result of this heavy vignetting is to surround the whole thing with an atmosphere of gloom and darkness. I wish they'd cut out this 'clever' work with the camera. The audience don't know what's wrong, but it leaves them dull and dissatisfied. Tone, doubtful. Sunday, no. Special, no. City of 163,000. Draw from working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

RIDGEWAY OF MONTANA. (4,842 feet). Star cast. Just a fair program offering. Fairly entertaining. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. No audience appeal. Farming and small town class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

Vitagraph

BEHOLD THIS WOMAN. (6,425 feet). Star cast. Fairly good subject but not the kind for our theatre. Good tone. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, fifty per cent. Working class city of 25,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

BELOVED BRUTE. (6,710 feet). Star cast. And it is all star. Good enough for anybody and don't think anybody made any better. Sunday, no. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

CAPTAIN BLOOD. (10,680 feet). Star cast. Fine picture. Holds interest throughout entire 10,000 and more feet. Worth showing in any house in the U. S. A. or elsewhere. Get it and give your patrons a treat. Did not draw here but no fault of picture as everyone seeing it had nothing but praise for it. Draw all classes, town 2,800. D. W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

CODE OF THE WILDERNESS. (7,008 feet). Star, John Bowers. This is a western of the better type; in fact, the best of its kind that we have used in a year. Everyone commented favorably. Good tone and appeal. Suitable for Sunday. As special, in small towns, yes. D. B. Ranklin, Co-Operative Theatre, Idana, Kansas.

FEARBOUND. Star cast. Fair program picture to fair businses. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, fair. Oil field class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlichter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

GREATER THAN MARRIAGE. Star, Lou Tellegen. Nothing to it. I'd lay off. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Rotten audience appeal. Oil field class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlichter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

MAN FROM BRODNEY'S. (7,100 feet). Star, J. Warren Kerrigan. Good picture and a good box-office bet. Seemed to please most of them. A splendidly made picture. Tone, good. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Farming and small town class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

PAMPERED YOUTH. (6,640 feet). Star, Alice Calhoun. Too old fashioned. Folks like up to date stories, especially in this town. Story faithful to time and period, but did not appeal. Box office weak. Remarks going out not so good. Tone, good. Sunday, yes, Special, no. Audience appeal, fifty per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

Warner Bros.

CONDUCTOR 1492. (6,500 feet). Star, Johnny Hines. A very good comedy drama; with proper exploiting Hines can be made more popular than Lloyd, and his type of stories are more appealing than Harold's. This is our third one and he draws better. Sunday, yes. Excellent audience appeal. General class city of 16,000. Admission 20-40. Ben L. Morris, Temple and Olympic Theatre, Bellaire, Ohio.

DADDIES. (6,800 feet). Star cast. I was anxious to play it on account of so many favorable comments. Personally I think it's absolutely the bunk, some good comedy situations but as a whole very boresome and too much padding. Didn't draw at box office, in fact the poorest two days I've had in a long time. I can't see it at all and would say it is a very poor attraction. Family class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

DANGEROUS ADVENTURE. Star, Grace Darmond. This picture is very nearly like a

Now Booking
AGNES AYRES
in
The AWFUL TRUTH
An Elmer Harris Prod.
Directed by Paul Powell
from Ina Claire's great starring success
by Arthur Richman
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

serial. The production is all right but it is so impossible in places that some of the situations caused some merry laughter instead of the intended thrill. Should please the serial fans however, if advertised as such. No tone. Sunday, probably not. Merchants and farmers town of 440. Admission 15-25. Kenneth W. Thompson, M. W. A. Theatre, Hancock, Wisconsin.

GEORGE WASHINGTON JR. (6 reels). Star, Wesley Barry. Fine comedy drama. Mostly all comedy though and not much drama; however, it is very good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

GOLD DIGGERS. (6,500 feet). Star, Hope Hampton. One of the spiciest pictures we have had this year but the people enjoyed it at that. Louise Fazenda stole the honors. She was a real scream. Don't pass this up if your patrons like real comedy. Never a dull moment. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Good audience appeal. Farming and small town class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

HER MARRIAGE VOW. Star, Monte Blue. Good interesting story, but somehow Warner Brothers' pictures have made me no profit. Have played about twenty of their releases and outside of one of the Rin Tin Tin pictures have lost money on almost all. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family class town of 1,800. Admission 10-30. R. Kuhn, Kuhn Theatre (300 seats), Lebanon, Oregon.

HEROES OF THE STREET. (6 reels). Star, Wesley Barry. A good clean entertaining picture with Wesley Barry in the leading role. Wesley Barry's pictures will please your audiences if you can buy them right. We paid too much for them and consequently lost money. Print was in fair condition. Tone, good. Sunday, optional. Merchants and farmers town of 440. Admission 15-25. Kenneth W. Thompson, M. W. A. Theatre, Hancock, Wisconsin.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES. (6 reels). Star, Johnny Hines. Very, very good. Give us more like this one. Lots of comedy and action. Don't pass this good bet up. Had it on a Saturday night and the audience was surely enthusiastic. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Hardly suitable for special. Strong audience appeal. Farming and small town class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

THIS WOMAN. (7 reels). Star, Irene Rich. A very good romantic stage drama that shows Irene Rich to good advantage and Marc. McDermott as "Stratine" interprets a very likable character. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty-five per cent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-30. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Comedies

A PERFECT 36 (Educational). Star, Bobby Vernon. A few laughs; but will get over. Draw all classes, town 2,800. D. W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

BIG BUSINESS. (Pathe). "Our Gang." As usual the gang kept them in good humor, throughout the entire length of two reels. Print new. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

CHARLIE CHASE COMEDIES. (Pathe). Boys, these comedies are the best one reelers on the market bar none, buy 'em they'll sure please. Prints new. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

GOOD MORNING (Educational). Star, Lloyd Hamilton. This one was too much like his last one, "Killing Time." The print on this one was not good. We had two stops in the first reel. Tone, okay. Fair appeal. Carl A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

Helene Chadwick and Kenneth Harlan in a scene from the Harold Bell Wright novel, "The Re-Creation of Brian Kent," which has been released by Principal Pictures Corp.

EXIT CHASER (Educational). A great laugh producer, lots of laughs. It ends in a scream, get it. All classes town of 2,800. Admission 10-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

HAVE A HEART (Educational). Star, Cliff Bowes. A dandy Cameo one-reeler. This was another right out of the box that pleased our crowd. They are mostly always good. Tone okay. Good appeal. Draw better class. town 4,500. Carl A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

INBAD THE SAILOR. (Fox). No use talking these monkeys are everything but human. This one is very good. Print new. Sunday, yes. Very good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

JIMMIE AUBREY COMEDIES. (F. B. O.). Very good slapstick comedies. Photography not extra good but the stunts bring down the house. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

PIN HEAD (Fox). Star, Clyde Cook. A scream, almost tore the house apart with laughter, get it for a weak sister and it will help you out. All classes town of 2,800. Admission 10-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

TAKE A CHANCE (Educational). Star, Walter Hiers. Our first Walter Hiers comedy. It only registered fair with our house. He may go over but he has to do better than this one. Tone okay. Fair appeal. Draw all classes, town 4,500. Admission 10-15. Carl A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

THREE FOOLISH WIVES. (Pathe). Star, Ben Turpin. A laugh from start to finish. Sennett comedies are all good. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (730 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

UNREAL NEWS REEL NO. 4 (Fox). Nothing doing here. All classes town of 2,800. Admission 10-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

WANDERING WAISTLINES. (Pathe). A real good comedy and one laugh after the other, you are safe with any Sennett comedy, as they are all good. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (730 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

WHY MEN WORK (Pathe). Star, Charles Chase. Nothing to this one reel comedy; not a laugh here in the entire picture. All classes, town 2,800. Admission 15-25. D. W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

WILD GAME (Educational). Star, Lige Conley. A Mermaid that is up to the average of the rest. Really nothing new pulled in this one but it seemed to bring the laughs anyway. Tone okay. Good appeal. Draw better class, town 4,500. Admission 10-15. Carl A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

Serials

IRON MAN. (Universal). I am very willing to let other exhibitors know that I think Universal's serial, "The Iron Man," is one of the best serials made. It is doing very good business for me. Jacob Eppler, Ogden Theatre, Denver, Colorado.

RIDDLE RIDER. (Universal). I am now finishing up on the "Riddle Rider," and have enjoyed very good business with this serial. Am glad to state this serial has broken all of my house records on an average. After twelve years of serial business having virtually run the serial output from all producers of this type of pictures. It even surprised my best bet, which was Dempsey's best "Dare Devil Jack." J. H. Johnson, Virginia Theatre, Washington, D. C.

RUTH OF THE RANGE. (Pathe). Star, Ruth Roland. This is a real thrilling western serial and prices are right. It is worth the money. Tone good. Good audience appeal. Farmers' town of 806. Admission 10-20. W. C. Herndon, Liberty Theatre (250 seats), Valliant, Oklahoma.

WAY OF MAN. (Pathe). This is as good short subject as I ever saw in a serial. Tone good. Good audience appeal. Farmers' town of 806. Admission 10-20. W. C. Herndon, Liberty Theatre (250 seats), Valliant, Oklahoma.

Now Booking

Charles R. Rogers presents
A RENAUD HOFFMAN Picturization
"ON THE THRESHOLD"
with
Gladys Hulette, Henry B. Walthall, Sam DeGrasse, Robert Gordon, Charles Sellow, Margaret Seddon and Willis Marks
Released by
PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION

Short Subjects

BORDER RAIDER. (Universal). Star, Ed. Cobb. A very good two reeler. Lola Todd pretty enough to be in pictures. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre, Buena Vista, Virgina.

GO-GETTERS. (F. B. O.) Star, Alberta Vaughn. Have used six. Only two worth the rental. Others below ordinary. Fair tone. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, 75 per cent. Small town class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-35. S. G. Harsh, Princess Theatre (249 seats), Mapleton, Iowa.

PATHE NEWS. (Pathe). Pathe still continues to get the best pictures of the events but we don't get very quick service. In all cases I find that Pathe covers the news the best and most completely. George W. Pettingill Jr., Mirror Lake Theatre, St. Petersburg, Florida.

ROCKBOUND BRITTANY. (Fox). I have used about fifteen of these. They average high and make a cheap and novel filler. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. Rural class town of 400. Admission 15-30. E. L. Partride, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

Independent

BATTLING FOOL. (Federated). Star, William Fairbanks. This was a great show for Saturday night crowd. They come in droves and say it is the best ever. The fight was well handled and looked like the real thing. "The Go-Getters" series used with this feature helped put it across and they all voted it great stuff. Not much tone. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty per cent. All classes town of 2,900. Admission 10-25, 15-30. A. E. Andrews, Opera House (486 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

BIFF BANG BUDDY (Artclass). Star, Buddy Roosevelt. Fair program picture that pleased the western fans. Draw all classes, city 10,000. Admission 10-20. Al C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

BLACK LIGHTNING. (Lumas Film Co.) Star, Thunder (dog.) (5,500 feet). A very good dog drama containing all the quality of entertainment that should please any audience. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. General class city of 500,000. Admission 10-20. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

BRIGHT LIGHTS OF BROADWAY.. (State Right). Star cast. An excellent picture, very entertaining throughout. Drama of the higher class. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

FAST AND FEARLESS. (Artclass.) Star, Buffalo Bill, Jr. Boys, this star is a money getter. Go after him. This picture is a good, clean western with lots of action. Print new. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Not a special. Very good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

DUANE THOMPSON

Adds charm to Educational-Walter Hiers comedies.

FIGHT FOR HONOR. (State Right). Star, William Fairbanks. Good railroad melodrama suitable for program night. Story good and cast did fairly well. Enough action to cause a thrill or two. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

FLAMING HEARTS. (State Right). Star, J. B. Warner. Just a western, not much of anything in it. This fellow does not seem to go over. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

GIRLS THAT MEN FORGET. (State Right). Star, Jane Novak. While the reports on this one were not the best I consider it's a fair picture for program offering. It did a fair business for me and pulled more the second than the first night. Tone, only fair. Sunday, yes. Good attendance. All classes town of 2,900. Admission 10-25, 15-30, Friday and Saturday. A. E. Andrews, Opera House (496 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

GOLD AND GRIT. (State Right). Star, Buddy Roosevelt. Getting better in every picture. This Buddy is a comer. Got a lot of them beat now. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 14,000. Admission 10-20. G. M. Bertling, Favorite Theatre (160 seats), Piqua, Ohio.

GROWING BETTER DAY BY DAY. (State Right). Star, Bill Hatton. Fairly good western with a lot of romance. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Rural and small town class town of 850. Admission 10-25. Star Theatre (200 seats), Crofton, Nebraska.

HARD HITTIN' HAMILTON. (State Right). Star, Buffalo Bill Jr. Some extra good and drawing western. The kind that pulls 'em in off the street and makes 'em cough. Pleases them one hundred per cent after they get in. Tone, excellent. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. Middle and working class city of 23,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

HIS LAST RACE. (Goldstone). Star cast. They call this a special but is nothing but a program picture, although it is very good. Also has a big well known cast. Print good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

HORSE SENSE. (State Right). Good subject and pleased. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre, Greenville, South Carolina.

HUTCH OF THE U. S. A. (State right). Star, Hutchison. Good subject. Pleased patronage. Drew only fair though. Tone, good. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy-five per cent. Middle and working class city of 25,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

LET HIM BUCK. (State Right). Star, Dick Carter. This was the second William (Bill) Mix production and a big improvement over "Reckless Riding Bill" which I used several weeks previous. It is a fair type of western. Tone, none. Sunday, no. Good attendance. All classes town of 2,900. Admission 10-25, 15-30. A. E. Andrews, Opera House (496 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

NOT WANTED. Star, Billy West. Just a fair two reel comedy not what is expected of this comedian. Print new. Sunday, yes. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

PAL O' MINE. (State Right). Star, Irene Rich. Patrons were very well pleased with this picture and it went over nicely. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

POISONED PARADISE. (Schulberg). Star, Kenneth Harlan. (6,800 feet). Harlan is a new star for this town, but he was well liked. The picture went over good and had a good attendance. Ed. Malhiot, Monarch Theatre Co., Alberta, Canada.

RACING FOR LIFE. (State Right). Star, Eva Novak. Was considered a good picture by the majority, and we had several nice comments on it. City of 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al. C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

RACING FOR LIFE. (State Right). Star, Novak. Very poor picture; so tiresome to see flashes of an auto race and hero. No punch or comedy. Half the audience left. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. No audience appeal. Miners and railroad class town of 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (730 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

ROUGH RIDERS. (State Right). Star cast. Some western. All to the mustard. The kind audiences whoop up and will come to see. Need more like them. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre, Greenville, South Carolina.

SHERIFF OF SUN DOG. (State Right). Star, Bill Fairbanks. A good western story, star and supporting cast very good. Should please all western fans. Print fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

BOYS!

Send in all the reports you can. Help make this the biggest and best department of its kind in the business. VAN.

Sawyer-Lubin Unit Now Filming "White Monkey"

AFTER weeks of the most careful kind of preparation concerning scenario, sets and cast, the Sawyer-Lubin units of Associated Pictures Corporation has started the filming of "The White Monkey" at Universal Studios, Fort Lee, N. J.

Phil Rosen, who made an excellent production in "The Heart of a Siren" which will be released April 26th, is directing "The White Monkey" in which Barbara La Marr plays the leading role of "Fleur."

Arthur H. Sawyer, supervising director of Associated Pictures Corporation, together with Phil Rosen and Barney Lubin have exercised the most extreme care in selecting a cast to appear with Miss La Marr which would insure the tensely human characters visioned by John Galsworthy in this novel which ranks as a best seller in the one hundred thousand copy class.

The role of Soames, shrewd and interesting captain of English commerce, will be played by George Marion, celebrated stage and screen actor. Marion has made an undying name for himself in his remarkable characterization of the old sea captain in "Anna Christie" both on stage and screen. The part of Michael Mont will be played by Thomas Holding while Henry Victor, famous English actor has been especially imported by Sawyer Lubin to enact the part of Wilfrid Desert.

In securing an artist to impersonate Victorine Bicket, delightful and appealing Cockney girl, again it was found necessary to bring to this side of the water Flora Le Breton, famed English stage and screen beauty. The sympathetic and important character of Tony Bicket, costermonger of toy balloons, a part which furnishes an intensive human note to Galsworthy's novel has been assigned to Charles Emmett Mack, the remarkable "find" of D. W. Griffith.

The comedy angles which Galsworthy has so delightfully woven into the story of "The White Monkey" have been given particular attention both in the matter of scenario and casting, and Colin Campbell and Tammany Young have been respectively engaged to play Danby and Bill Hawkes. Every possible effort is being put forth by the Sawyer-Lubin organization to make the picturization of Galsworthy's great story stand out as the most ambitious production they have ever attempted.

"Lady of the Night" One of 1925 Best

"Lady of the Night" has opened at the Capitol Theatre in New York and last week was met by an enthusiastic outburst of critical acclaim from the press. Monta Bell directed this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the Adela Rogers St. Johns story adapted to the screen by Alice D. G. Miller.

Norma Shearer plays the title role, and is supported by a cast headed by Malcolm McGregor and George K. Arthur.

"Monta Bell," says George Gerhard in the New York Evening World, "has produced in 'Lady of the Night' a screen drama that must of necessity command serious consideration when the year's best efforts are compiled. This picture is a finely wrought gem. It has a cameo-like quality that simply drives its message home. And its tempo is so expertly gauged that there does not appear to be a false motion in it.

"Norma Shearer plays both the daughter of a wealthy judge and the offspring of a crook who was sent away for twenty years. In the first named role she is her own beautiful self, but in the latter she reveals herself as an excellent character actress. In fact, the latter portrayal is bound to take its place with the best of the season. Norma Shearer has never done anything better than this. This picture is bound to go far."

New Vitagraph Branches Function; One in Canada

EDWARD AUGER, assistant general manager of Vitagraph, returned to New York this week from a trip into Canada and to points in the Missouri valley, bringing roseate reports of motion picture prosperity. He found Vitagraph business so heavy, indeed, that he arranged for the opening of two new Vitagraph sub-sales offices.

One of the new offices will be at Des Moines, Ia., and will be under the supervision of E. F. Tarbell, the branch manager at Omaha. The other will be at Calgary, in the territory covered by the Winnipeg branch office, of which A. S. Clatworthy is manager.

Mr. Auger visited Montreal, St. John, Winnipeg, Omaha and other key centers. Besides conferring with Vitagraph branch managers respecting production plans, he took occasion to call on a number of well known exhibitors, renewing old acquaintances and discussing business conditions. He found a feeling of optimism prevailing everywhere, with exhibitors expressing confidence that a long run of unbroken prosperity is at hand.

Mr. Auger was gratified at the receipt of repeated assurances of complete satisfaction with the product forming the current Vitagraph schedule. In Montreal, he had an interview with Mr. A. D. Dennis, owner of the Arcade Theatre in that city, and president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Canada.

Mr. Dennis took occasion to compliment Vitagraph highly on its withdrawal of membership in the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. The M. P. T. O. of Canada already had passed resolutions warmly commending Vitagraph's action, and Mr. Dennis declared that this resolution expressed the individual convictions of the Canadian exhibitors unanimously.

Begins on "American Eagle"

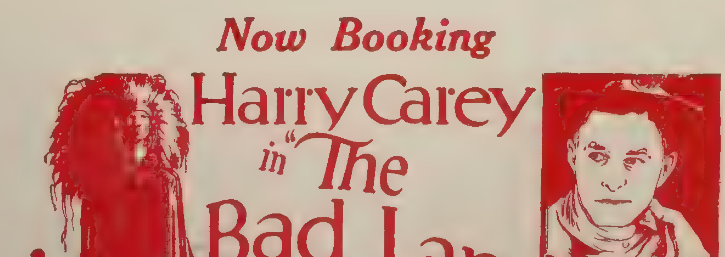
Dick Talmadge, who recently signed a new contract with F. B. O., has begun work on "The American Eagle," a stunt melodrama of the type in which Dick excels. Art Rosson will direct him.

Gasnier to Make Six

Six of the most important stories on B. P. Schulberg's schedule for next year will be directed by Gasnier, according to an announcement made this week by the producer. With the start of the 1925-26 season, Gasnier begins his fourth year of picturemaking under Schulberg supervision.

Florence Vidor Will Be Featured

Florence Vidor will follow "Are Parents People?" with "Grounds for Divorce" it was announced by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president of Famous Players in charge of production. This is described as a story of modern love. Production will begin this week under the direction of Paul Bern who made "The Dressmaker from Paris."



Now Booking
Harry Carey in "The Bad Lands"
A Super Thriller with Thousands of Real Indians
A Hunt Stromberg personally supervised production
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Two Talented Players Signed For De Mille Stock Company

TWO additional players were added to the Cecil B. De Mille stock company this week with the signing of William Boyd and Lewis Natheaux, both of whom will hereafter be seen exclusively in the releases through Producers Distributing Corporation.

Lewis Natheaux is an accomplished actor of the suave heavy type with a wide range of experiences on the vaudeville and dramatic stage, as well as screen training for the past several years. On the speaking stage he appeared as a singer and dancer and just prior to the World War he took Eddie Cantor's place in the musical comedy, "Canary Cottage," and toured with it. On the screen he has appeared in such productions as "Rich Men's Wives," "Poor Men's Wives," "The Super Sex," "Passing Through" and "The Golden Bed."

In a personal comment on Natheaux, Mr. De Mille said that he believes the young actor has a personality that will carry him far in screen work.

William Boyd is of the Wallace Reid type with five years of screen experience to qualify him as a member of the new De Mille stock.

In 1919 he began his film career in an extra part in 'Why Change Your Wife?" Since then he has progressed steadily through leads and featured roles in such productions as "Bobbed Hair," "Forty Winks," "New Lives for Old," "Feet of Clay," 'Triumph" and "The Golden Bed."

McGraw Writes Patheserial; Giants to Help Produce It

JOHN J. McGRAW, internationally known baseball leader and manager of the New York Giants, is about to make his motion picture debut as the author of an original screen story. The story, which deals with baseball life and narrates the development of a young bush-leaguer into a player of national prominence, is now in production and will be released as a Patheserial in ten chapters early in the fall.

McGraw and the Giants are actively cooperating in the filming of the new Patheserial. An instance of this arrangement is the close association that the Patheserial producing unit will maintain with the Giants on the latter's tour of exhibition games now being conducted at various points in the South preliminary to the opening of the baseball season. The Pathe unit journeyed south to Sarasota, Florida, the training camp of the Giants, two weeks ago for the purpose of joining the New York team prior to the start of the series of exhibition games.

The new Patheserial will be directed by Spencer Bennett and the featured roles in the professional cast will be enacted by Allene Ray and Walter Miller. J. Barney Sherry and Harry Semels have been engaged for prominent parts in the support, with important additions to the cast to be announced in the near future.

The original screen story, which was adapted to the screen by Frank Leon Smith, is not Mr. McGraw's first literary effort. The arrangements entered into are among the most unique ever closed between a motion picture organization and an outside enterprise, identifying, as they do, with a film-producing unit an internationally famous group of athletes and its equally famous manager.

Exhibitor's Hat Off to "My Wife and I!"

What Edwin Silverman, manager of Film Classics, Inc., of Chicago thinks of Warner Brothers' "My Wife and I," the Harriet Beecher Stowe novel, directed by Millard Webb and featuring Irene Rich, he tells in the following telegram sent to Jack L. Warner at Warner's Hollywood studio:

"Jack Warner,
"Warner Brothers' Studio,
"Los Angeles, Cal.

"'My Wife and I' great screen attraction. Everybody wild about it. Direction of this picture exceptional. If every picture Warners produce had a punch like this one they couldn't be beaten. It's no kidding, Jack—pictures like this can't be beaten.

"EDWIN SILVERMAN."

New "Spats" Comedy

Camera work has been completed on a new "Spats" comedy titled "Wild Papa." Frank Butler in the role of Tewksbury Spat, becomes involved in an affair with a cave-woman "vamp" through the connivance of Ambrose, the overbearing brother of Mrs. Spat. The subsequent measures taken by Tewksbury to free himself from his noxious positon and re-establish himself with Mrs. Spat are said to result in one of the most laughable subjects of this entire series for Pathe.

Warners Buy "Love Toy"

Who wrote "The Love Toy," a perfect motion picture title. It is credited to "Anonymous," a somewhat prolific adventurer in literature, but usually with a fascinating story to tell. Warner Bros., who bought the novel this week, would like to know. The Warners made the purchase from proofs.

Columbia Finishes Financing; Plans 18 Films for the Year

JOE BRANDT announces that Columbia Pictures Corporation has just completed the most comprehensive financing in its history. The banks as a whole have looked askance at financing to any extent the undertakings of Independent producers. This is quite understandable in view of the comparatively recent entry of the banks in the field of producers in general.

Columbia Pictures claims to be the first in the Independent field to be able to completely finance its whole year's production in advance. This has been made possible only by the financial record of this concern.

Last year Columbia Pictures laid out a program of sixteen pictures and proved its ability to take care of itself by completing its full program exactly twenty-six hours behind the schedule as originally laid out.

After many conferences Columbia Pictures officials laid out a program of eighteen pictures for the coming year. A production schedule was laid out and a budget of expenditure was drawn up to the most minute detail. This complete plan of procedure was placed before certain bank officials and after its full consideration, in which past performance played no little part, the program was approved and the funds were made available. The budget runs well over a million dollars.

F. B. O. Officials Approve "Lilies of the Streets"

"LILIES OF THE STREETS," the F. B. O. police picture made by Belban Productions, in which Samuel Briskin and George H. Davis are financially interested and which was sponsored by Mary E. Hamilton, New York's first policewoman, was shown privately to the executives of the distributing company early this week and received their enthusiastic approval.

"Lilies of the Streets" is an original story by Elizabeth J. Monroe, a young woman who has been actively associated with the Police Department for a number of years as assistant to Mrs. Hamilton. It is based on experiences of Mrs. Hamilton and concerns the life of a young girl in a big city and the dangers of bad environment and evil associates. Virginia Lee Corbin and Johnnie Walker are co-starred, with Irma Harrison, Wheeler Oakman, Peggy Kelly, Dorothy Cummings, Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Monroe prominent in support of the stars. Joseph Levering directed from the continuity of Harry Chandlee.

Nat G. Rothstein, director of publicity and advertising at F. B. O., has already launched a huge exploitation campaign in connection with the production. The picture has been endorsed by civic welfare associations and men prominent in public affairs, and letters have come pouring in 'commending Mrs. Hamilton and Film Booking Offices on the idea that prompted the screening of the picture. Alfred E. Smith, governor of the State of New York, is one of the many state and government officials who has written Mrs. Hamilton, expressing his sincere appreciation of her efforts to educate young girls of the dangers lurking in a big city, and adding his hope that the picture will be a huge success.

In commenting on the tremendous exploitation possibilities of the production, Mr. Rothstein said:

"Thousands of people throughout the United States have written to Mrs. Hamilton, asking her to produce a motion picture based on her experiences as a policewoman, which, needless to say, have been thrilling to the 'nth degree.

"Lilies of the Streets" is not a propaganda picture. True, it bears a poignant message to women and young girls, but it is genuine entertainment, and not a preachment.

"The exploitation possibilities for affecting tie-ups with the Police Departments, throughout the United States are unlimited. Every policewoman and every policeman in the country will get behind the picture and act as unpaid exploiteers to see that the picture is booked in every city, town and hamlet from Maine to California."

JULIETTE COMPTON
in "Love's Bargain," an F. B. O. production.

Scenes from the F. B. O. special, "Lilies of the Streets," with Johnny Walker, Virginia Lee Corbin, Irma Harrison, and other celebrated players. Mrs. Mary Hamilton, the New York police woman who supervised the production, is seen at the right in the center group.

"Confessions of a Queen" Acclaimed by the Critics

VICTOR SEASTROM'S "Confessions of a Queen" has opened at the Capitol Theatre in New York, where it has received enthusiastic acclaim from both the critics and the public. This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the Alphonse Daudet novel, "Kings in Exile," has been adapted to the screen by Agnes Christine Johnston and has Alice Terry and Lewis Stone in the leading roles.

"This picture is a lovely romance," observes Dorothy Herzog in the New York Daily Mirror, "splendidly enacted by Alice Terry and Lewis Stone, and an optical delight. Alice has lost weight and again wears her blond wig. The combination, along with the stunning frocks and negligee and excellent photography, is unbeatable. Victor Seastrom has rounded out lavish entertainment."

"With as good an actor as Lewis Stone undoubtedly is," remarks George E. Brady in the New York Morning Telegraph, "and as pretty a girl as Alice Terry, virtually any motion picture would be worth spending two hours to see, so 'Confessions of a Queen' will surely prove satisfactory."

"If King Christian, of Illyria," writes Louella O. Parsons in the New York American, "were a living, reigning monarch instead of a fictional character created by Alphonse Daudet in 'Confessions of a Queen,' the Prince of Wales would have a potent rival. Lewis Stone is so charming as the happy-go-lucky king that he has our sympathy even when we are expected to censure him. It is probably very fortunate that he does not live in this day and age, for he would certainly wreck empires. Alice Terry as the Queen looks exactly like the fairy princess in story books."

"Lewis Stone and Alice Terry," writes Mildred Spain in the New York Daily News, "are certainly the people's choice for a king and queen in a mythical realm by the sea. Lewis Stone has never before made you realize just what a nactor he is, not even in his Rex Ingram triumphs. As Christian II of Illyria, whose heart is bigger than his realm, he gives a striking performance."

"After a period of separation that dates back almost to 'The Prisoner of Zenda,'" testifies the New York Evening Telegram and Mail, "Lewis Stone and Alice Terry are together again—which obviously calls for another royal photoplay. Miss Terry never looks so lovely and appealing as when she is a suffering sovereign. Stone, moreover, seems at his best when wearing his perfectly fitting kingly uniform."

"Stone is delightful as the insouciant king," reports the New York Evening Journal, "and Miss Terry appears regal in the elaborate costumes. The photoplay is well staged and the plot is interesting."

MARION DAVIES

Cosmopolitan star will shortly be seen in "Zander the Great," a Metro-Goldwyn release.

Von Sternberg Completes Photography

Josef von Sternberg has completed camera work on his initial Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "The Exquisite Sinner." The film is now being edited under the personal supervision of the director. It will be cut to seven reels of fast, punchy action. "The Exquisite Sinner" was adapted by von Sternberg himself from Alden Brook's novel, "Escape." It is a comedy drama with an entirely French locale.

Conrad Nagel and Renee Adoree head the cast, with Paulette Duval, Frank Currier, George K. Arthur, Mathew Betz, Helena D'Algy, Claire Du Brey, Fred Esmelton, Robert Graves, Dan Mason, Charles A. Post and Vivianne Wilch among its prominent players.

Marion Davies' Newest Film, "Zander the Great", Is Ready

"ZANDER THE GREAT," the new Cosmopolitan production starring Marion Davies, is to be presented in New York early next month, according to an announcement made recently by the Cosmopolitan Corporation. Released by Metro-Goldwyn, it will be given a simultaneous showing in the leading cities of the country.

The picture, adapted from Salisbury Field's stage play of the same name, presented at the Empire Theatre two seasons ago with Alice Brady in the stellar role, was recently completed on the West coast. It is a modern story, and in this respect differs materially from the productions in which Miss Davies has recently appeared.

Miss Davies plays the part of "Mamie," an orphan girl, who adopts a child and starts for the far West. It is a part rich in opportunity for comedy and whimsical characterization, and Miss Davies is said to display a new versatility in the role.

The picture has been produced on an elaborate scale. Its action is placed against a background of the Mojave desert and the Rockies. The company spent a period of three weeks on "location" in the desert, where many thrilling scenes were filmed.

One of the most distinguished casts ever assembled for a motion picture appears in support of Miss Davies. Among those in prominent parts are: Holbrook Blinn, Harrison Ford, Harry Watson, Jr., Hobart Bosworth, Harry Myers, George Siegmann, Richard Carle, Hedda Hopper, Olin Howland, Emily Fitzroy and Master John Huff.

"Zander the Great" was adapted to the screen by Frances Marion, and directed by George William Hill. Joseph Urban designed the settings.

Marion Davies and Harrison Ford in Scenes from "Zander the Great," a Metro-Goldwyn release.

NAT G. ROTHSTEIN

The man who puts a rare personality behind the advertising, publicity and exploitation campaigns on F. B. O. releases

Another One from Doug

Will Start New Production Upon Completion of "Don Q"

Immediately after the completion of "Don Q," which probably will be finished within the next month, Douglas Fairbanks will begin another production. What this new picture is to be has not as yet been decided, but indications now are that it will be an original rather than an adaptation of either novel or play.

The main reason Mr. Fairbanks has decided upon this policy is that by the time he completes "Don Q," Mary Pickford will be only well started on her next feature, "Little Annie Roonie," which would leave Doug theoretically twiddling his fingers until she finished her production. Now Doug never twiddles his fingers, theoretically or otherwise, so the only course open to him was to do another picture in order to keep in step with his wife.

If they come out even on the completion of their respective pictures, they will probably then call it a day for the year of 1925 and go abroad once more for a holiday. This time they are very apt to start toward the setting sun and end their trip where the sun rises. Thus they would be able to see the Orient and possibly Australia before returning to Hollywood. All this, however, is still a matter of conjecture, for if they do not come out even at the finish of their productions, one or the other, if not both, may do another picture this year. All of which would delay their trip abroad.

Steiner On Western Trip

William Steiner is making his usual jaunt over the western territory and reports that conditions look fine and the independent exhibitors don't seem to be falling very hard for block booking. In many centers exhibitors are organizing to combat the system. "Bill" is highly elated over the latest Edith Thornton production "Fair Play." In the supporting cast Lou Tellegen registers strong in part that fits him to the letter. "Bill" has received much praise for putting over real live money getters for the independent exhibitor.

Rothstein's Exploitation Stunt Helps Showing of "Broken Laws"

SOMETHING new in the way of exploiting a motion picture was conceived by Nat. G. Rothstein, F. B. O.'s director of publicity, advertising and exploitation. With a title like "Broken Laws" Nat felt the sky was the limit. He purchased a dozen second hand cars, selected twelve of the busiest roads of New York and Brooklyn, and had the cars overturned on the street corners.

Banners bearing the legend: "'Broken Laws' cause of accidents and death. Help the community-sound your horn," were stuck on top of the cars. Crowds congregated around the scenes of the supposed accidents, and it is estimated that the overturned and broken cars, together with the banners were seen by over one million persons in Greater New York.

It will be very simple for any exhibitor who plays "Broken Laws" to exploit the production in this way, for two or three days before the showing. Broken cars may be rented from any junk shop. Placed on crowded street corners, with the "Broken Laws" banner attached, this stunt is bound to attract and intrigue curious crowds.

Gene Stratton Porter's "Her Father's Daughter"

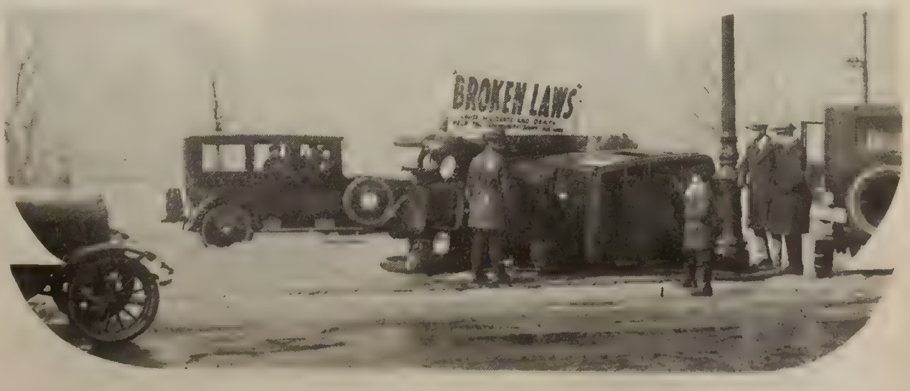
"HER FATHER'S DAUGHTER," one of Gene Stratton-Porter's most successful novels, originated through an interesting circumstance, and Director James Leo Meehan, son-in-law of the famous novelist, who will produce this picture for F. B. O. release, told of it shortly after her tragic death.

"Mrs. Porter was the most observing woman I have ever known," said Mr. Meehan. "She could go out with people, and one would never know that she was vitally interested in what was being said or done. But always that 'camera mind' of hers was functioning with the perfect regularity of a good graflex. The impressions people and events made on her was indelible, and weeks afterward she would be able to repeat complete conversations; or tell you what the funny, silent, little, old man over in the corner was doing at any given times."

"The idea for 'Her Father's Daughter' came to Mrs. Porter through a conversation she had with a remarkable Los Angeles high-school girl. That girl, whose name obviously cannot be mentioned, is immortalized in the 'Linda' of the story. Mrs. Porter was very interested in the working of this girl's mind, and made several engagements with her.

"Next in importance to the making of 'Her Father's Daughter' was James S. Lawshe, a nephew of Mrs. Porter, to whom the book is dedicated. Mr. Lawshe is a business man and the manager of a Los Angeles oil company. He has always been a great student of flowers, and is one of the champion dahlia growers of Southern California. When Mrs. Porter first came to Los Angeles to live, several years before her death, Mr Lawshe took her into the mountains and the deserts on many excursions. She always had a passion for flowers herself, but it was Mr Lawshe who first acquainted her with the remarkable flora and fauna of Southern California. It was an interesting combination; the hard-headed, successful business man with a flower hobby for his spare time, and the novelist who loved nature as well as she loved human beings, and whose work reflected both."

Mr. Meehan added that at the time of her death, Mrs. Porter was beginning an exhaustive study of the plant life of Catalina Island, where she had built a beautiful summer home. Special facilities had been provided for her work by William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the island, and there she expected to develop some interesting material for nature lovers as well as to gather a background for a new romantic novel.



On one of the most crowded of all the automobile "traffic arteries" in the city of New York, Nat Rothstein "planted" this remarkable "attention arrester" for the F. B. O. special, "Broken Laws."

Prominent Pastor Preaches on Fox's Big Picture "Iron Horse"

DR. C. F. AKED, who was so much in the public eye while pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church in New York, of which John D. Rockefeller was a constant attendant, is now in Los Angeles at the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church after five years spent in San Francisco. On the Pacific Coast Dr. Aked is attracting much attention with his Sunday night sermons which are broadcast over KNX from the theatre of the Ambassador Hotel.

Sunday night, March 15th, he devoted his entire discourse to the William Fox presentation of "The Iron Horse," the John Ford picture that is breaking all records at the Egyptian Theatre in Hollywood.

A part of Dr. Aked's address follows:

"In my judgment, 'The Iron Horse' is the greatest picture which the screen has yet given to the world. It is the most beautiful, the most fascinating, the most thrilling—in every way the most satisfying and delightful. I congratulate the creators and producers of this masterpiece; I congratulate them and praise them and offer to them this word of personal gratitude.

"And what a story the picture has to tell! Once again you see the prophetic spirit of Abraham Lincoln alive and compelling. He knew that it was not enough to hold the South to the North if the East should lose the West. And so Lincoln encouraged the dreamer to dream, the man of science to ponder, the capitalist to plan, and the nation to give of its wealth in gold and men to build clear across a continent and wed ocean to ocean along lines of rail.

"I have only to say this to you: If you would see the very crown and climax of superb photography, with color and fire and life and movement, and if you would see a supreme triumph of American enterprise and American courage and American patriotism, and if you would see the conquering soul of man subduing the empire of Nature to his will—see 'The Iron Horse.'"

ARTHUR LOEW

Vice-president of Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corp. and member of the executive committee and Board of Directors: also head of the Foreign Department of the corporation

O'Malley to Play Lead Role

Pat O'Malley, who recently completed a leading role in King Vidor's production of "Proud Flesh," has been cast for the chief male part in Reginald Barker's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "The White Desert." Irving G. Thalberg, studio executive, made this announcement this week.

Courtney Riley Cooper's novel of lumbering atop the Continental Divide in Colorado, and dealing with the hardships surrounding the building of a tunnel through the Rocky Mountains, will be filmed on the actual locale.

Bert Lytell in Vitagraph's Newest Curwood Production

AN interesting announcement made by Vitagraph this week reveals that Bert Lytell has been signed to play the leading role in "Steele of the Royal Mounted," another James Oliver Curwood novel which is to find its way to the screen as a David Smith production.

Stuart Holmes also will have an important part in the special, according to the statement. Having completed "Baree, Son of Kazan," the Anita Stewart starring vehicle for Vitagraph (this also the adaptation of a Curwood story) David Smith is now directing his attention to "Steele of the Royal Mounted," and this will be finished in time for release on the current Vitagraph schedule. Jay Pilcher, scenario writer for "Captain Blood," "Pampered Youth," and several other David Smith productions for Vitagraph, was the adaptor.

Bert Lytell has a host of successes to his credit, among those most firmly fixed in the popular mind being "Lombardi, Ltd.," "Alias Jimmy Valentine," "To Have and to Hold," "Rupert of Hentzau," and "The Right of Way." His engagement for the role in "Steele of the Royal Mounted" will be hailed by picture lovers as a ten-strike by Vitagraph.

This is the second Vitagraph picture on the 1924-1925 schedule in which Stuart Holmes will have had a place. His work as the heavy in "The Beloved Brute," produced by J. Stuart Blackton, will long be remembered favorably.

Some of the other notable features in which Mr. Holmes appeared to great advantage were "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Under Two Flags," "Rich Men's Daughters," "The Way of Woman" and the recently-released 'The Salvation Hunters."

The work of recruiting the cast for "Steele of the Royal Mounted" is proceeding, and it is expected that further announcements will be made soon.

S. S. Krellberg, Chadwick Pictures Corp. executive, signs contract with Joseph McConville and A. Montague of Independent Films, Inc., Boston, for distribution of thirteen of Chadwick's next season pictures

Ince to Direct "Chatterbox"

Ralph Ince has been engaged to direct Evelyn Brent in Bayard Veiller's melodrama, "The Chatterbox" for F. B. O., according to an announcement by B. P. Fineman, general manager of the Film Booking Offices studios. Mr. Ince has just completed "Alias Mary Flynn," with Miss Brent portraying the sort of female raffles role in which she has become famous.

Alice Calhoun playing opposite Tom Mix in "The Everlasting Whisper," William Fox Special.

Mae Busch and Cody in Lead Roles

Mae Busch and Lew Cody are to play leading roles in Robert Z. Leonard's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Time the Comedian," from the celebrated novel by Kate Jordan. Frederic and Fanny Hatton have adapted the story to the screen. Others in the cast are Gertrude Olmstead, Rae Ethelyn, Nellie Parker Spaulding, Roy Stewart, George Periolat, Lillian Langdon, Jacques Abbott, Gertrude Bennett, Shannon Day and Frank Elliot. "Time the Comedian" accentuates the contrast between life in the opening years of the twentieth century and present-day existence.

Regent Featured Short Subjects

What was described by both patrons and the manager of the Regent Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich., as the "perfect program" was recently the bill at that theatre when a program of selected short subjects preceded the showing of the feature attraction.

The program opened with the news reel, Kinograms and was followed by "Paris Creations in Colour," Educational's fashion reel with Hope Hampton. This was followed by a prologue to a short subject consisting of an ice-skating act just before the Educational special, "The Chase." A musical number, selections by a tenor, preceded the showing of the feature, the Christie production, "Charley's Aunt."

The program was advertised by quarter page "ads" in the newspapers and special emphasis was laid upon the diversity of the program. The short subjects, "The Chase" and "Paris Creations," were exploited as special attractions of great appeal to the men and women respectively.

Weiss Brothers Planning Novelty Serial Release

WEISS BROTHERS' Artclass Pictures Corporation is planning to produce a fifteen episode novelty serial for Fall release, according to an announcement by Louis Weiss, managing executive of Artclass.

The story will be of the action-stunt, melodramatic variety, which has in the past been customary in all serials, but will present an entirely different setting and locale from the usual chapter play.

Negotiations are now under way for the services of a very well known woman star, to carry the featured honors, while the photodramatization of the story, which is already owned by Weiss Brothers, will be assigned to an equally well known scenario expert.

Weiss Brothers have had the plan for a serial photoplay for the independent market in mind for a long time, but hitherto it has not seemed feasible to them to carry it until the present season, when they feel that with their strong exchange affiliations with the Buddy Roosevelt and Buffalo Bill, Jr., five reel action features, an episodic chapter play of a somewhat different type can be handled with advantage by their distributing companies.

In addition to the serial, Weiss Brothers will produce and distribute at least two big special features and a series of eight five reel adventure stories during the coming year, as well as the twenty-four Western stunt features, already announced, Buffalo Bill, Jr., and Buddy Roosevelt and their new cowboy star.

"Friendly Enemies" Will Not Be Road Showed, Says Pro-Dis-Co.

THE first print of the film version of "Friendly Enemies," starring Weber and Fields, was received by Producers Distributing Corporation this week and active preparations are now being made for its presentation in the biggest of the first-run theatres.

The plans to road-show the picture with Weber and Fields appearing with it in person were abandoned in answer to a flood of requests for the immediate release of the production to the big regular picture theatres.

After viewing the picture in the projecting room, Paul C. Mooney declares that the famous team of stage stars will be a revelation to the exhibitors and the public. "Both Joe Weber and Lew Fields are as magnetic on the screen as they are on the stage," says Mr. Mooney, "and Lew Fields, who was assigned the best of the two acting parts, gives a portrayal that equals anything ever done by an actor on the screen."

"Friendly Enemies" is an adaptation of the stage play of the same title, written by Samuel Shipman and Aaron Hoffman. The screen production was made by Belasco Productions, Inc., under the direction of George Melford at the Hollywood studios.

A cast of real stellar calibre that includes Stuart Holmes, Virginia Brown Faire, Lucille Lee Stewart, Jack Mulhall, Eugenie Besserer, Nora Hayden, Jules Hanft, Fred Kelsey, Johnnie Fox and Ed Porter support Joe Weber and Lew Fields in the star parts.

MARY PHILBIN, UNIVERSAL'S BEAUTIFUL STAR

This charming little lady is soon to be seen in the Universal-Jewel production "Fifth Avenue Models."

Producers Distributing Marshalling Hollywood Forces for Greatest Year

THE stage is all set for the brightest producing year in film history according to the report brought back by F. C. Munroe, president of Producers Distributing Corporation, who returned to New York yesterday (Monday, April 6), after a seven weeks' sojourn in Los Angeles.

"There is a spirit of progressive enthusiasm everywhere throughout Los Angeles and Hollywood," said Mr. Munroe, "and among the producers allied with our own organization confidence is finding expression in elaborate and painstaking preparations for productions that will be the most ambitious efforts in their respective careers.

"It was astonishing to note the great changes made in the late Thos. H. Ince studio since it was taken over by Cecil De Mille less than seven weeks ago. For the most part these changes, all of which were made during my stay in Los Angeles, are time saving improvements that will greatly facilitate the work when a picture is in progress on the stages. The installation of electrical machinery to quickly transport props and sets from the stock rooms, the enlargement and general rearrangement of the wardrobe building for the proper making, hanging and filing of all costumes, etc., seemed at first glance to be directorial luxuries, but under analysis they are revealed as amazing time savers that will reduce waste to an absolute minimum. And when all of the improvements that Mr. De Mille has planned, are installed at the Culver City plant, everything with the exception of the dramatic artistry and directorial genius will be moved by machinery with machine-like precision and rapidity.

F. C. MUNROE

"And at the Christie studios and the Hollywood studios recently acquired by the Christie brothers equally progressive improvements are being installed for the use of Hunt Stromberg, Al. Christie, Frances Marion, and A. H. Sebastian for the big subjects they will release through Producers Distributing Corporation during the coming season.

"Under Scott Sidney's direction Al. Christie will produce three and possibly four features of the "Charley's Aunt" and "Stop Flirting" type. Hunt Stromberg will make four personally directed specials and a new series of Harry Carey westerns. Frances Marion will produce at least two society dramas. A. H. Sebastian will make two big dramatic subjects for Belasco Productions, Inc., under the supervision of Harry O. Hoyt, director of "The Lost World" and Metropolitan Pictures, Inc., will produce six features.

About twelve subjects will come from the De Mille studios during the coming season. These will all be made under Mr. De Mille's supervision with such well known directors as Paul Iribe, Frank Urson, and Paul Sloan in actual charge of the work. Mr. De Mille will personally direct several specials, but the exact number of these big features during the coming season is as yet undecided.

"So far we have made tentative arrangements for thirty-two productions, but this number may be increased to thirty-eight or forty. Deals are now in negotiation with several producers of international fame and the present aspect of these negotiations is very favorable to their joining our forces.

"John C. Flinn, who was with me in Los Angeles, has remained there to personally conclude these deals and when he returns within the next two or three weeks we will be in position to make a complete announcement of our releases for the coming season, with the titles of each subject and the important names that will be identified with each subject."

Fox News Promotions

Expansion of Editorial Staff, With Many Promotions Announced

Further evidence of the determination to strengthen Fox News to the highest degree is found in the announcement this week of promotions and changes in the editorial staff, as follows:

Truman H. Talley, Director-in-Chief.

William A. White, promoted from News Editor to Associate Editor, assisting Mr. Talley in the direction of Fox News and with general supervision over the production of news reel material by the American and Foreign camera staffs.

James E. Darst, promoted from Foreign Editor to Associate Editor, in charge of the make-up of the National and all Foreign Editions of Fox News.

Harvey Smith, transferred from Fox Varieties to Fox News as News Editor, in charge of the New York and American camera staff.

Harry Lawrenson, promoted from Assistant Editor to Foreign Editor, in charge of the Foreign camera staff and the re-titling of Foreign Editions.

The establishment of an Editorial Council, the members of which are expected to contribute from their newspaper and news reel experiences to the editing of Fox News, has been announced. This Editorial Council is composed of the following:

Edwin C. Hill, Charles Sarver, Ray L. Hall, Elizabeth Pickett, Gerald K. Rudolph and John Weier.

Vitagraph's "Happy Warrior" In Work in Coast Studios

ALMOST on the heels of his "The Clean Heart," which, under the auspices of Vitagraph, is achieving a marked success as a film production, another A. S. M. Hutchinson novel is soon to reach the screen. This, too, will be shown under the Vitagraph banner. J. Stuart Blackton, who made "The Clean Heart," this week started production work on "The Happy Warrior," dispatches from California state.

A remarkable cast is being recruited for the new production. Malcolm MacGregor, according to an announcement by Vitagraph this week, has been signed to impersonate the character of Ralph. His most recent releases were "Smouldering Wives," with Pauline Frederick, and "Lady of the Night," with Norma Shearer, and some of the earlier successes in which he had important parts were "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Broken Chains."

Alice Calhoun, whose performance as Isabel Amberson and Isabel Amberson Minafer in "Pampered Youth," Vitagraph's picturization of Booth Tarkington's prize-winning novel, "The Magnificent Ambersons," is now being enjoyed in picture theatres throughout the country, has the role of Dora, the leading woman's part in "The Happy Warrior." Miss Calhoun has been featured in many other Vitagraph successes, among them "The Man From Brodney's," "Pioneer Trails" and "The Code of the Wilderness," in the last named of which she impersonated Ruth Harkness.

Also among those already signed for the cast is the ever popular Mary Alden, who played the fortune-teller in Vitagraph's "The Beloved Brute." A few of the earlier productions to whose success she made important contributions were "The Birth of a Nation," "Mile-stones," "Honest Hutch," "The Old Nest," "Notoriety," "Silk Husbands and Calico Wives" and "The Eagle's Feather."

"Great Divide" in Lorain, Ohio

The opening of the new Ohio Theatre in Lorain, O., was celebrated on Wednesday night, March 4, by a private showing of "The Great Divide" before an invited audience. Formal opening to the public took place on the succeeding night. C. C. Deardourff, Metro-Goldwyn exploiteer, sold space on a souvenir program, wrote advance ads and conducted a heavy press campaign generally, posted the town liberally and decorated the lobby for the occasion. This campaign resulted in a brilliant opening night, and in excellent business throughout the week.

Weber and Fields in a scene from "Friendly Enemies," Released by Producers Distributing Corporation

Rockett Goes to Coast

Special Representative for First National During McCormick's Absence

Al Rockett, assistant to Richard A. Rowland, general production manager for First National Pictures, left April 11 for Hollywood to act as Special Western Representative for that company during the absence of John McCormick abroad. Mr. McCormick and wife, Colleen Moore, are going to Europe for a two or three months' vacation, following the completion of Miss Moore's next starring vehicle, "The Desert Flower," work upon which has been resumed after a six weeks' suspension due to an injury to the star while on location.

Mr. Rockett will have business managership over several of the company's important new season productions while on the West Coast. Upon the arrival back home of Mr. McCormick, he will return to New York and resume his present duties with First National.

Mr. Rockett has had a remarkably successful career as a motion picture executive. He is an ardent believer in the round table conferences on each new production before work is started, a system which he has had occasion to watch carefully and check up on since his appointment as assistant to Mr. Rowland, for First National pursues this policy with every production which it makes.

Vidor Renews With Metro

King Vidor, one of the most successful producers in the industry of box-office hits, has renewed his contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, that company announced this week.

At the expiration of his present contract, Vidor will produce four King Vidor Productions for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Changes Title

The tentative title of "Empty Corrals," completed a few weeks ago for F. B. O. by Ben Wilson with Yakima Canutt in the starring role,, has been changed to "The Ridin' Comet," according to announcement made yesterday by General Manager B. P. Fineman.

"Reckless Courage"

Studio Work Completed on Weiss Bros. Buddy Roosevelt "Western"

Announcement of the completion on the coast of "Reckless Courage," the initial feature in the forthcoming series of eight five-reel acrobatic-stunt features starring Buddy Roosevelt, the popular young riding boy, was made this week by Louis Weiss, executive director of Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation, which will distribute the new Buddy Roosevelt series in the State right field.

"Reckless Courage" is said to set a new high mark in this type of action-feature Western. The picture was directed by Tom Gibson, who has handled the megaphone on many screen successes, with a cast of favorites, including Helen Foster, J. C. Fowler, W. A. McIlwain, Jack O'Brien, Jay Morley, Merrill McCormick, Eddie Barry, Princess Neola, the famous Tuscarora Indian actress, and Robert Burns.

Carey Starts Another

Begins Working on "The Texas Trail" for Producers Distributing Corporation

With only a few days breathing spell following the completion of "Silent Sanderson," Harry Carey has begun work on "The Texas Trail," a picturization of the popular novel, "Rangy Pete," by Guy G. Morton. Harvey Gates is credited with the continuity, and Scott R. Dunlap is the director. Ethel Shannon is Carey's new leading woman and the supporting cast includes Claude Peyton, Vester Pegg, Charles French and Sidney Franklin.

Harry L. Decker is working day and night in the cutting room with "Silent Sanderson," putting the final editorial touches on this Kate Corbaley original, which Producers Distributing Corporation will immediately release.

Completing the first four of the new Harry Carey series for Producers Distributing Corporation will be "The Bad Lands," a super-thriller of pioneer Indian days and the most ambitious production in which Carey has yet appeared. Kate Corbaley is now writing the continuity and actual filming will be started in the early summer.

To Make Eight Westerns

Steen to Distribute the Five Reel Thrillers Produced by Goodman—Two Ready Now

Eight five-reel Western action-features, starring Bruce Gordon, the South African cowboy and rough rider, will be distributed in the State Right market by Miller & Steen Distributors, Inc., according to an announcement by A. G. Steen.

Two of these high power thrillo-features are now completed and will be offered for territorial sale as soon as lithographs and a full line of accessories can be prepared.

The completed features are entitled "Don X," and "Lawless Trails," and were directed by Forest Sheldon from original stories by Camille Fox, one of the best known writers of western screen fiction today, with a cast of favorites among patrons of this type of feature.

The series will be produced by Barney A. Goodman, executive head of B. A. Goodman Productions, Inc.

The cast of "Don X," which will be the initial release of the series, includes, besides Bruce Gordon, the star, Josephine Hill, Boris Bullock; Victor Allen, Fred Peters and several others.

Barbara LaMarr, Conway Tearle and Harry Morey in a scene in "The Heart of a Siren," the Sawyer-Lubin production; a First National release.

De Mille Signs Jetta Goudal; 'Coming of Amos,' Her 1st Film

JETTA GOUDAL, one of the shining lights under the Paramount trade mark and whose contract still has some time to run with that organization, has gone over to the De Mille forces according to an official announcement from the De Mille studio.

The announcement does not state how the contractual barriers were overcome, but it is a fact that Miss Goudal's contract with De Mille went into immediate force yesterday and her first picture under his independent banner will be in the leading role opposite Rod La Rocque in "The Coming ot Amos," a dramatization of Wm. J. Locke's famous novel of the same title.

Jetta Goudal made a distinct personal hit in "The Bright Shawl," "The Green Goddess" and "The Spaniard," and was slated for early stellar honors by Famous Players-Lasky.

Prior to entering motion pictures, Miss Goudal had a brilliant stage career, scoring in such New York stage successes as "The Elton Case," "The Hero," and "Simon Called Peter."

Paul Sloan, recently signed by Mr. De Mille will direct "The Coming of Amos."

JETTA GOUDAL

Weiss Bros. Announcement

Kerman Films, Inc., to Handle Popular "Westerns" in N. Y. and N. J. Field

Louis Weiss, managing director of Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corp., announces that Kerman Films, Inc., of 729 Seventh Avenue, are now handling both the popular Buffalo Bill, Jr., and Buddy Roosevelt series of eight five-reel action-stunt features for Greater New York and Northern New Jersey.

Harry Danto, who originally distributed these fast-moving thrillers in this territory, by arrangement with Weiss Brothers, turned over all prints and accessories on both series to Kerman Films, Inc., early last week, together with all contracts for future bookings on these favorite, young riding stars.

Gorgeous Premiere Planned For Gloria's Latest Film

ON April 17 the Paramount production of Gloria Swanson in "Madame Sans-Gene," which was produced in France, will be launched to the world at the Rivoli Theatre, New York, where plans have been perfected to make this the most magnificent premiere ever accorded a motion picture or legitimate production on Broadway. Seats are selling at the Rivoli box-office at $5 each for the opening night.

For the first time in the history of the Rivoli, with the exception of the heatless Mondays during the coal famine, the house will be closed the day before opening in order to make all arrangements for the opening night.

The greatest effort ever made at the Rivoli in the form of electric light advertising will be the name of the star spelled out across the front of the theatre in letters eight feet high. The Norden Sign Company, which built the sign, state that it is the largest electric name sign for a star that has ever been displayed on Broadway.

At the entrance to the theatre, covering the entire area under the canopy, will be a thickly cushioned blue carpet with the crest of Napoleon worked in gold in the center. This will be strewn with flower petals.

Inside of the Rivoli the entire promenade will be re-decorated in Empire period furniture. Objects of art such as chairs, tapestries and personal ornaments of the Napoleonic era will be displayed. Two of the larger tapestries brought from France will be displayed on either side of the stage. Hugo Riesenfeld, who is directing the presentation, is arranging for two wax tableaux, one to show Gloria as the laundress and the other as the duchess. These will be arranged artistically on one side of the promenade.

Three young girls selected for looks, as well as efficiency, costumed in the Empire period, will distribute souvenir programs on the opening night and assist the ladies with wraps.

As Gloria Swanson and her husband, the marquis, will be present, special attention will be given the box they will occupy. Lights will be set to flood the box for their entrance and it will be banked with cut flowers. All the loges will be draped in the Napoleon colors of blue and gold. Over the arch of the proscenium there will be a huge seal of Napoleon consisting of the familiar initial "N" under a coronet.

Doctor Riesenfeld, who is now rehearsing the musical score, has augmented the Rivoli orchestra to sixty pieces.

On the Seventh avenue side of the Rivoli building the largest American flag in the world will be hung down from the roof. This flag is so big it will almost cover the entire side of the building. French and American flags will be used inside and outside of the theatre, not only because the story of "Madame Sans-Gene" is French, but because it was through the co-operation of the French Government with Paramount that the production was successfully filmed in France.

New Conductor's Attachment For Musicians In Theatres

THE latest and most novel invention in the motion picture field comes under the heading of "music in the theatre," for the device, according to an announcement from the Cameo Music Company, of New York City, Inc., is "the Mintz Conductor's guide attachment for motion picture musical scores." M. J. Mintz is the inventor. In the statement, the Cameo officials say, in part:

"With the 'Mintz' Conductor's Guide Attachment, the orchestra leader, or single musician, need not have the slightest concern with regard to the irregular running of the picture, missing titles or scenes, or eliminations in the film from any cause whatsoever.

"How often have you heard musicians complain about the original and compiled scores they are compelled to play with some of the bigger pictures? It is comparatively safe to say, they find fault with nearly every one, not from the stand-point of the music contained in the score, but from the irregular and uncertain endings at the cues, where the musical numbers are to be changed.

"Were a film, after a few screenings, to remain in the same condition it was when the score was prepared, the musician would experience no difficulties, but since motion picture film is only celluloid, the footage is sure to decrease from time to time, due to breaks, cracks, ragged sprocket holes, patching, etc; the music score, however, remains intact, which obviously does not permit of a smooth and satisfactory performance. Now, however, the remedy has been found and the problem solved, and undoubtedly no film company, from this time forth, will have a complete music score made for any big picture without using the 'Mintz' Conductor's Guide Attachment in connection with it.

"This remarkable improvement was conceived by M. J. Mintz, the originator and patentee of the 'Thematic Music Cue Sheet' which has proven such a boon to motion picture musicians, and which is being distributed by all the prominent film companies.

"Mr. Mintz, a thorough showman and accomplished musician, with this 'Thematic Music Cue Sheet' for one purpose, and his 'Conductor's Guide Attachment' for another, has given to the motion picture industry, the two greatest aids toward the ultimate perfection in musical accompaniment to the picture that has ever been know."

BRENDA BOND
Boston society girl has lead in Fox's "The Fool," which has its premiere at the Central, New York City, next week

Many F. B. O. Melodramas for Spring and Summer Program

THE alleged waning of interest in sex productions and sophisticated society dramas and the growing vogue of action melodramas all over the country, finds the F. B. O. Studios maintaining a full-time schedule in which productions of the latter type are occupying the attention of its executives and stars. April and May, from present indications, promise to be the busiest period of the year at F. B. O.

Having completed "That Devil Quemado," in which he portrays a romantic character for the first time, Fred Thomson has embarked on his third western production for F. B. O., "The Bandit's Baby." James Hogan is directing. The story is an original by Leete Renick Brown.

Despite an accident which kept Evelyn Brent confined to her Hollywood home for several days, she will complete "Alias Mary Flynn" on time, according to B. P. Fineman, F. B. O. general manager, under whose personal supervision the play is being produced. Ralph Ince is directing this crook melodrama by Edward J. Montagne and Fred Myton. Miss Brent's next vehicle is being prepared. It will be another underworld melodrama.

"Lefty" Flynn has launched his second comedy drama, "High and Handsome," a Gerald Beaumont story, with the stalwart hero of the collegiate gridirons playing the role of a "harness bull," otherwise a detective with a romantic turn of mind. Mr. Flynn last week completed "Speed Wild," his first comedy drama from the story by H. H. Van Loan. Harry Garson both produces and directs the Flynn subjects under the banner of Globe productions.

Dick Talmadge, the stunt star, now a producer in his own right, has embarked on his third production under the terms of a new contract with F. B. O. It is called "Sporting Grit." Arthur Rosson is directing.

Wesley Ruggles continues to hit a fast pace with the new H. C. Witwer two-reel series, "The Pacemakers," in which George O'Hara and Alberta Vaughn are co-starred. He is now at work on Episode No. 6 and has six more to go.

Leo Meehan, son-in-law of the late Gene Stratton-Porter, director and author, is at Catalina preparing the continuity for his next Stratton-Porter production, "Her Father's Daughter,"

Wally Wales, "Cowboy Prince," Star of Weiss Bros. Series

LOUIS WEISS, executive director of Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corp., announces that Wally Wales, known as "the Cowboy Prince," has been signed to carry the featured honors in the new series of eight five-reel acrobatic stunt features, which Artclass will distribute during the coming season in conjunction with the Buddy Roosevelt and Buffalo Bill, Jr., series.

Lester F. Scott, Jr., producer of high class Western action-pictures, and chiefly responsible for the notable success of the Buffalo Bill, Jr., and Buddy Roosevelt series, which he produces for Artclass, will also direct the destinies of the new riding star, all of the Wally Wales productions being made under his personal supervision.

Richard Thorpe and Tom Gibson, both of whom have a record of many screen successes in the making of action-stunt pictures, will alternate in handling the megaphone on Wally Wales, while a third director will be engaged by Mr. Scott, to assist him in producing some of the features in the Buffalo Bill, Jr., and Buddy Roosevelt series.

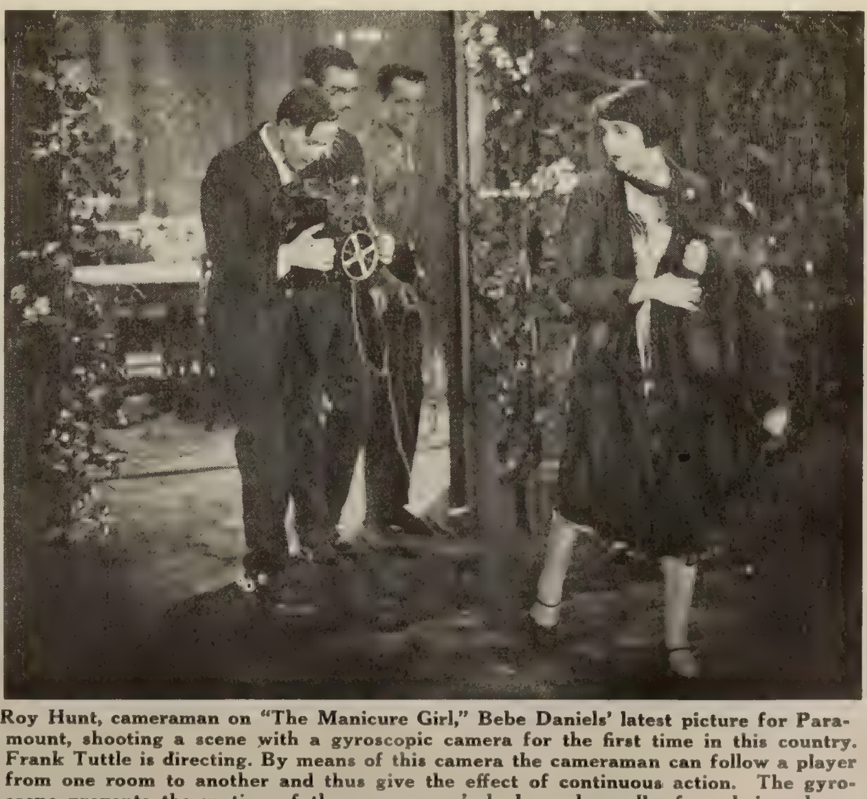
A special line of stories has been secured for Wally by Producer Scott, which will afford him the widest opportunity. Work on the first production is now under way, and an early announcement will be made regarding the opening release date of the series, which will be distributed by Weiss Brothers in the independent field.

MacLean in Hollywood

Douglas MacLean has arrived in Hollywood and is making preparations for his first production under the new releasing contract with Paramount. MacLean was accompanied on the westward trip by Bogart Rogers, general manager of the MacLean organization, and J. R. Crone, production manager.

To Release Two Chadwicks

W. E. Shallenberger, president of Arrow Pictures Corporation, announces for forthcoming release by his organization two Chadwick productions. One of them will be based upon Hal Reed's famous old stage success, "Driven From Home." The title of the remaining production will be announced at a later date.



Roy Hunt, cameraman on "The Manicure Girl," Bebe Daniels' latest picture for Paramount, shooting a scene with a gyroscopic camera for the first time in this country. Frank Tuttle is directing. By means of this camera the cameraman can follow a player from one room to another and thus give the effect of continuous action. The gyroscope prevents the motion of the cameraman's body as he walks from being shown on the film. The electric motor turns the film roll, the cameraman simply pressing a button. The camera is an English invention. It was used for the first time in the German-made picture, "The Last Laugh"

Best Van Bibber Comedies Yet to Come, Says Fox Film

THE popularity of the Van Bibber comedies has been growing by leaps and bounds. Reports from all sections of the world show this series of polite fun films is setting new high marks for box-office value everywhere and it is doubtful whether or not any other two-reel subject ever attained an equal amount of prestige in so short a time.

"The Amateur Detective," the final Van Bibber for the current season, proves a fitting climax to an unbroken chain to genuine hits and many critics hail it as the very best polite comedy ever filmed.

According to the plans of Fox Film Corporation the 1925-26 series of these picturizations from Richard Harding Davis stories will be even improved. The aim will be to make each succeeding production on a more elaborate scale and to otherwise accentuate the exceedingly high class of these short features.

This decision was reached as a result of the discovery that these two-reelers were, in so many cases, proving more of an attraction for theatres than their main features.

Earle Foxe will continue as the star of this series, portraying the character of Van Bibber in a variety of laugh-provoking adventures in a variety of locales. His artistic treatment of the hilariously humorous situations into which he is projected in these exceedingly clever plots has won Mr. Foxe a real box-office reputation and there is no doubt of his efforts to spread the spirit of mirth over the face of the whole earth.

Signs Anna Q. Nilsson

Anna Q. Nilsson, one of the most popular stars in motion pictures, has just been signed by First National Pictures on a long-term contract as a featured player, according to an announcement by John McCormick, western representative of that organization.

EDWARD REED

Pick Entire Cast

With production started and the principal members of the cast on the way to Arizona or already arrived, announcement was made by Paramount that the complete cast for "The Light of Western Stars" had been organized. Jack Holt, Billie Love, Noah Beery and Alma Bennett are the featured players. Others in the cast are William Scott, George Nichols, Mark Hamilton, Robert Perry and Gene Pallotte.

Strand Theatre, Providence, R. I. Books All Chadwick Series

EDWARD REED, manager of the Strand, Providence, one of the most important first run theatres in New England territory, broke all precedents for first run houses last week, when he booked the complete Chadwick 1925-26 series as the basis for his next season's program. So far as is known, this is the first time that the product of an independent producer has been booked by a leading theatre as the ground work for a season's program.

The Chadwick Pictures, which are distributed in New England by Independent Films, Inc., will comprise more than twenty-five per cent of the year's program at the Strand. The thirteen pictures scheduled for the Strand are "American Pluck," and five other George Walsh features, Lionel Barrymore in "The Bells" and one other well known stage play, Theda Bara in "The Unchastened Woman," "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Perfect Clown," two Semon specials, and two Hunt Stromberg special productions, "The Transcontinental Limited" and "Winning the Futurity."

It is understood that the Strand will also book "Some Pun'kins" and the three other Ray rural comedies as soon as distribution of these pictures is arranged.

A MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENT!

King Leo, in the Fox Imperial Comedy "Lion Love," is not interested in crossword puzzles although the splendid beast may actually be pondering a three-letter word meaning "a square meal"

Educational Comedies

New York City and Newark, N. J., Big First Runs, Features Popular Shorts

Educational Short Subjects are again in two big Broadway theatres this week, following Educational subjects in the same houses last week. The Rialto is offering the Christie Comedy, "Why Hesitate?" following the Bobby Vernon Comedy, "Don't Pinch," the comedy offering on the bill last week. At the Capitol the Lyman H. Howe Hodge-Podge "Movie Morsels" this week is following "Lots of Knots," also of the Hodge-Podge series which played that house last week.

In Newark, Educational subjects are succeeding themselves at the Branford Theatre. "Great Guns," a Bobby Vernon Comedy, is the Short Subject on the bill this week following another Bobby Vernon Comedy, "High Gear," shown last week.

Pick William Collier, Jr.

A three month's quest to cast the role of the Prodigal Son in the Paramount production of "The Wanderer" is ended by the announcement from Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president of Famous Players in charge of production, that William Collier Jr., has been selected from a large field.

CHARLEY CHASE
Starring in Pathe comedies produced by Hal Roach.

Start "Manhattan Madness"

All-Star Supporting Cast Selected for Jack Dempsey's Picture for Associated Exhibitors

An all-star cast has been selected and is now busily at work on Jack Dempsey's picture for Associated Exhibitors, which will be released in the fall under the title of "Manhattan Madness."

The production is being directed at the Selig Studios in Los Angeles under the direction of John McDermott and will be known as a Fine Arts production. The company left the latter part of the week for location work near Chattsworth, Cal. En route over the Southern Pacific Railway scenes will be made aboard the specially chartered train with the fight champion doing many stunts. Special Pullmans and a dining car were included on the train so that the company will have a complete equipment in every way.

In the production Dempsey is chiefly supported by his wife, Estelle Taylor. The rest of the cast includes George Seigman as Dr. Harlan, Frank Campeau as the butler, Bull Montana as the chauffeur, Nelson McDowell as Hank, Bill Franey as Zeke, Theodore Lorch as Count von Winek, Tom O'Brien, Ed Kennedy, Glen Cavender, Jack Deery, Dean Markham and Buddy Mason.

Pathe's Releasing Program, Week Beginning April 19

VARIETY is the keynote of Pathe's releasing program for the week of April 19th.

Among the highlights of the Pathe program for the week are the release of another comedy featuring the famous "Spat Family," "Black Hand Blues," and a Mack Sennett Star Comedy, "The Lion's Whiskers." In addition, there is a chapter of the Patheserial, "Idaho."

"The Lion's Whiskers" carries a cast of all-star comedy screen players. Heading the list are Billy Bevan, Madeline Hurlock, Sunshine Hart, Jack Richardson and Andy Clyde. The production was directed by Del Lord, and concerns a movie "vamp" who has secretly married her chauffeur. The vamp's contract with the motion-picture firm stipulates that she is not to marry, and the situation of a movie star carrying around a husband-chauffeur proves very funny.

Frank Butler, Sidney D'Albrook and Laura Roessing are the featured members of the "Spat Family" comedy, "The Black Hand Blues," produced by Hal Roach. The picture was made under the direction of Jay A. Howe, under the supervision of F. Richard Jones.

The week marks the release of Chapter 8 of the Patheserial "Idaho." The title of this chapter is "The White Streak." The story of "Idaho," feautring Mahlon Hamilton and Vivian Rich, is laid during the exciting gold rush days in Idaho territory.

The Pathe novelty release for the week is the Grantland Rice "Sportlight" produciton "Beauty Spots." The picture screens in detail some of the most beautiful watering places in America, including the summer resorts of the North, and society's wintering places in Florida.

The principal subject in the Pathe Review No. 16 is an installment of the "Prettiest Girl I Know" series, a series in which experts on beauty make their pick. In this installment Earl Carroll selects a few girls whom he believes represent the most perfect type of "Show Girl." In the second subject of the Review, members of the Yale University Press translate some ancient inscriptions of the days of Babylon. In the "Visiting Our Own America" series a Pathe-color of New York City is shown.

"The Adventures of Adenoid" is the title of the Aesop's Film Fable. Adenoid is the name of one of Paul "Aesop" Terry's cartoon characters, and his adventures are many and varied.

"Topics of the Day," No. 16, and Pathe News Nos. 34 and 35, complete the Pathe program of releases for the week of April 19th.

Laemmle Signs Charles H. Puffy

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, has signed a five-year contract with Charles H. Puffy, the well-known European stage and screen comedian. Mr. Puffy, whose work as the fat chef in "The Rose of Paris" will be readily recalled by screen play patrons, will begin work at once with Universal. He weighs 295 pounds.

N. H. Brower Appointed

First National Pictures has apointed N. H. Brower has been assistant manager and city succeeding W. E. Knotts, resigned. Mr. Brower has been asistant manager and city salesman in the San Francisco branch.

"Clarissa and the Post Road"

First National Pictures, Inc., has just purchased another story in which to star Colleen Moore. It is "Clarissa and the Post Road," written by Gract Sartwell Mason and published in the Saturday Evening Post, and probably will be produced next Fall.

"Baree" Print En Route

Vitagraph officials at the general offices in Brooklyn expect to have their first view of "Baree, Son of Kazan," the David Smith special starring Anita Stewart, within a few days. They have been advised that the first print is now on the way from Hollywood.

Scenes from Pathe's "The Haunted Honeymoon," in which two-reeler Glenn Tryon and Blanche Meheffey are featured.

"40 Profit Making Pictures" On Warners' New Program

WITH the announced intention of providing exhibitors with a background of pictures for their theatres so that they do not have to sign up on snap judgment, or go into combines so as to be sure they can obtain product, Warner Bros. announced this week that they will make 40 Warner pictures during the 1925-26 season.

This just doubles the program of the season drawing to a close and adds fourteen to the program announced two weeks ago by H. M. Warner upon his return from the Coast.

"With the biggest season in our history just ahead of us," said Mr. Warner "we found after announcing we had prepared a program of twenty-six productions, that many exhibitors who wanted to play our pictures were fearful that if they did not buy others in the dark or join in with booking combines, that they would be unable to fill out their playing dates.

"We decided to help these men out and have changed our production schedule so that they can be assured of 40 high-class productions made from the best stories, by the best directors and with the best players that it has been possible to obtain. With these 40 as a backbone, and with the programs announced by other independent companies, there is no need for any exhibitor to be alarmed regarding his play dates for the coming season, or to rush in and buy through booking combines or in a stampede sales effort.

"From the start, Warner Bros. have made consistently good pictures. I think everyone will admit that. We have progressed slowly but surely, both in the quantity of our product and its quality. The best evidence of this is that with only 15 pictures in the 1923-24 season, six of these were selected as the best 52 pictures of the year,—an extraordinarily high percentage.

"We are set this year for our supreme effort in high class production. No studio on the Coast is better equipped than our own. We have everything necessary to deliver the goods. We are prepared for action and we intend to carry out every promise we make.

"We have twenty stars under contract. Look them over—John Barrymore, Marie Prevost, Monte Blue, Syd Chaplin, Irene Rich, Louise Fazenda, Rin-Tin-Tin, Lowell Sherman, Patsy Ruth Miller, John Patrick, Dorothy Devore, Kenneth Harlan, Matt Moore, John Harron, Clive Brook, Willard Louis, June Marlowe, John Roche, Huntley Gordon and Gayne Whitman.

"Among our directors are Ernst Lubitsch, Harry Beaumont, William Beaudine, Millard Webb, James Flood, Roy Del Ruth and Herman Raymaker, Alan Crosland and George Hill.

"Our scenarists consist of Hope Loring and Louis Lighton, Darryl Francis Zanuck, Julien Josephson, Bess Meredyth, Charles A. Logue and C. Gardner Sullivan.

"Other high-class players, directors and scenarists are under call if we need them. We also have a library of the best advertised novels and plays carefully selected during the last year. So it is plain that it will be no trouble for us to turn out forty pictures of the calibre that have been proven successes in the past—and even better."

JOHN PATRICK

Whose excellent work in Warner Brothers pictures has earned him a long term contract with that firm

Famous Opera Slated for Lubitsch's Next Picture

IT is quite possible that Ernst Lubitsch's next picture for Warner Bros. will be the the filming of a big light opera, one that has made the whole world laugh at its rich humor and dance to its dreamy music.

Negotiations are now being conducted with the representatives of Richard Straus, "the waltz king," for the picturization of one of his most famous operettas.

The one that the Warners have in mind is full of fire, color and romance and will lend itself admirably to screen adaptation.

It is the intention of the company to give Lubitsch a free hand in making a super-production along entirely different lines from what he has been doing of late.

Work on the new production depends largely on the plans of the director. He had arranged to come East for the first time since he went to the coast, and then go to Paris to speak at the International Motion Picture Congress. These arrangements may have to be changed.

Warners stated that Hans Kraely, who has been responsible for all of the big Lubitsch successes, and author of "Kiss Me Again," just finished at the Warners studio, would adapt the opera.

Moore and Fazenda Picked

Warner Brothers are to make an early production of "The Inevitable Millionaires," the first comedy from the pen of E. Phillips Oppenheim, and his latest novel. Roy Del Ruth, who recently was signed to a Warner contract, has been assigned to the direction, and the adaptation is now being made by Julien Josephson. Matt Moore, Louise Fazenda and Willard Louis will be featured.

Warners Sign Raymaker

Herman Raymaker, who has just completed "Tracked in the Snow Country," with Rin-Tin-Tin for Warner Bros., has been signed to a long term contract by that firm and assigned to the next picture for the dog star, which is to be started within a week. Raymaker, before coming to the Warners was a comedy director of note. John Harron and June Marlowe are to be featured.

Irene Rich and Bert Lytell in "Eve's Lover," Warner Bros. Picture.

First National Adds Several To List of Contract Players

FIRST NATIONAL PICTURES has recently added several important names to its distinguished list of contract players. Its line of players is one of the most imposing at the service of any producing company. Stars who are under contract are Milton Sills, Colleen Moore and Corinne Griffith, while its featured players include Doris Kenyon, Ben Lyon, Anna Q. Nilsson, Lloyd Hughes and Myrtle Stedman. Players recently placed under contract are Mary Astor, Robert Frazer, Victor McLaglen, Charles Murray, Joyce Compton and Hugh Allen.

Mary Astor recently played the feminine lead in two Thomas H. Ince productions for First National, "Enticement" and "Playing With Souls." She came into prominence through her acting opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Bright Shawl" and has since played imptortant roles in productions by various companies. Miss Astor is at present playing the lead with Douglas Fairbanks in his new production, "Don Q." She is slated for the lead in a First National picture for the new season, "The Unguarded Hour," by Margaretta Tuttle.

Victor McLaglen is an English actor who was recently seen in Vitagraph's "The Beloved Brute" and now is playing one of the leading roles in First National's forthcoming Frank Lloyd special, "Winds of Chance," from Rex Beach's Alaskan novel, now in production. A number of important assignments are in view for him.

Robert Fraser has had a long and distinguished acting experience both on stage and screen. On the stage he appeared in "Ben-Hur," "The Wanderer," "Thy Name is Woman," "The Mirage," etc., while among his pictures are "Fascination," "Jazzmania," "When the Desert Calls," "As Man Lives" and "The Feat of Life."

Charles Murray is known wherever pictures are shown. He began his screen career after twenty-one years on the stage. He has played on the screen for Biograph, Keystone, in whose productions he became famous as the "Keystone cop," Sennett, Hodkinson, Burr and First National. He played the comedy role in First National's "Sundown" and is slated for important parts in the company's winner group of pictures for next season.

Joyce Compton and Hugh Allen are juvenile players who have appeared in various productions.

LLOYD HUGHES

The popular First National player

Changes Name of Novel

When Samuel Goldwyn purchased May Edginton's novel, "World Without End," for George Fitzmaurice production, he changed the book title for screen use, to "His Supreme Moment."

Now May Edginton, whom Mr. Goldwyn met in England, has decided that "His Supreme Moment" is a better book title than "World Without End" and has decided to re-name her novel "His Supreme Moment" to coincide with that of the picture, which will be distributed by First National.

DeMille Announces First Two Independent Pictures

SPECULATION on the type and magnitude of the first vehicle Cecil B. DeMille would personally direct under his new releasing arrangement with Producers Distributing Corporation is now brought to an end in an official announcement from the producer that he will start "The Road to Yesterday" about June 15.

"The Road to Yesterday" is one of the most prominent box-office successes in the last quarter century of the drama. It is by Beulah Marie Dix and E. G. Sutherland and was first played in 1903, and although considered splendid picture material it has been tied up in litigation for twenty years and only within the past few months has it been released for picture purposes.

Jeanie Macpherson and Beulah Marie Dix are collaborating upon the scenario. No cast has as yet been announced but in all probability Vera Reynolds will have the leading feminine role.

Leatrice Joy's first starring vehicle will be "Hell's Highroad," adapted by Eve Unsell from the successful novel by Ernest Pascal, author of "The Dark Swan," one of the biggest current stage successes on Broadway, New York.

Edmund Burns will play opposite Miss Joy in the vehicle, which is to be directed by Frank Urson and Paul Iribe.

"Hell's Highroad" has to do with the adventures of a girl who schemes a fortune for her husband, only to have to scheme his misfortune and financial loss when money becomes more important than love. The production editor is Bertram Millhauser. Other members of the cast are still to be chosen. Start of production has been set for April 13.

First Lowell Sherman Picture

The first story in which Lowell Sherman will make his reappearance on the screen under a Warner Brothers contract has been selected for the star by Jack Warner. It is "Satan in Sables," a powerful story of New York life suggested by a tale written by Edmund Goulding.

Richard Barthelmess and his wife, Mary Hay, in scenes from "New Toys," a First National release.

Next Keaton Picture

"Mr. Battling Butler," Long-Run Musical Comedy Hit, to be Buster's Next Metro-Goldwyn Feature Comedy

"Mr. Battling Butler," one of the greatest musical comedy successes of recent years, will be Buster Keaton's next feature length comedy, Joseph M. Schenck-produced, for Metro-Goldwyn release. Keaton announced this one his return to the coast from New York.

"Mr. Battling Butler" was produced by George Choos early in 1923 under the title of "The Dancing Honeymoon." As such it had an unusually successful run in Chicago, outdistancing all other song shows of the season, Choos then opened his hit in New York at the Selwyn Theatre on October 8, 1923, under the title of "Battling Butler," but the "Mr." was added shortly after the opening.

The musical comedy had a record breaking engagement in New York, running throughout the season. It was written and adapted by Ballard Macdonald from the original by Brightman, Melford and Furber, with the music composed by Walter L. Rosemont.

Film Evokes Editorial

Salt Lake City "Citizen" Comments on "Capital Punishment"

Motion pictures broke into the editorial page of the Salt Lake City Citizen last week when B. P. Schulberg's special production, "Capital Punishment," became the subjct of the principle editorial.

Readers of the paper were urged to attend the picture's local showing at the Pantages Theatre, the editor saying: "It is a picture all the world should see. Our public officials ought to be the first in attendance, including the Governor, our state officials, our legislature, our city commissioners, our police officers and especially our judges and justices of our courts. This is a film picture that strikes straight to the heart of all who see it."

Schofield Signed by Paramount

Paul Schofield, scenarist, has been signed for one year by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to prepare scripts for Paramount pictures.

Schofield's first assignment under the new contract calls for the adapting of "The Street of Forgotten Men" which Herbert Brenon will produce with Mary Brian in the leading feminine role.

Hill to Direct "Limited Mail"

Desiring to make an elaborate and up-to-date production of the famous old melodrama "The Limited Mail," Warner Bros. are going to considerable trouble to secure a special cast and a melodramatic director for the Elmer Vance play which will soon be started at their Hollywood studio.

The new York office of the Warners announced this week that by a special arrangement with William Randolph Hearst and Cosmopolitan productions, they had secured the services of George Hill to direct the picture. Mr. Hill is at present under contract to Mr. Hearst. As all of the directors on the Warner lot will soon be engaged with other important productions, it was decided to obtain the best man they could outside of the studio.

POLA NEGRI

In a characterization from Paramount's "The Charmer," in which she will next be seen.

"Eve's Lover" Screened

Warner Bros. New York Officials Praise Forthcoming Release

Warner Bros., promise exhibitors a high calibre picture in "Eve's Lover," which had its first screening at the New York office of the company this week. This is an adaptation of the novel by Mrs. W. K. Clifford, directed by Roy Del Ruth, a new comer to the Warner lot, who was signed to a long term contract for his work with this production.

Irene Rich is featured, supported by Bert Lytell, Clara Bow and Willard Louis.

Miss Rich plays the part of an independent business woman, whose reserve is battered down by a charlatan when he brings to her her first love affair. There are several spectacular thrills in the picture, among them a strike at a big steel mill that is full of action and color.

"Speed Wild" Concluded

The Harry Garson unit, making "Speed Wild," second of the features starring Lefty Flynn since the former Yale athlete was put into the comedy drama field under the Garson banner, has just returned from Palms, Calif., where they concluded the final scenes on the H. H. Van Loan story. Work will be begun shortly on Mr. Flynn's next starring vehicle for F. B. O. tentatively, entitled "High and Handsome."

Howard Hawks Joins Metro

Howard Hawks, former independent motion picture producer and scenario editor and production supervisor for Famous Players-Lasky, has been engaged by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio at Culver City. The appointment was made by Irving Thalberg, and Hawks has already assumed his duties as an executive of the scenario department.

"Classified"

Another Edna Ferber story will see the screen-light through First National Pictures, Inc. That company has purchased the film rights to her short story, "Classified," which appeared in the November, 1924, issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Hunt Stromberg Busy

His Companies Filling Many Stages in Hollywood; "Off the Highway" Started

Hunt Stromberg is now filling Hollywood stages with his companies these days, owing to the fact that his contract with Producers Distributing Corporation calls for a big increase in his production output this year.

Under the direction of Tom Forman the production of "Off the Highway" adapted to the screen by Dorothy Farnum from the popular novel, "Tatterly," by Tom Gallen, went into the making this week on the same stage where Stromberg is personally supervising "The Texas Trail," starring Harry Carey.

"Off the Highway" was the last picture scheduled to be produced by the late Thomas H. Ince. His death delayed the production until now when Stromberg has taken charge of its production.

Marguerite De la Motte and John Bowers, have been signed to play the leads in "Off the Highway," which is to be a Stromberg special for Producers Distributing release. William V. Mong, who will play the other featured role, has been under contract since February 1, as the producer believes that Mong is the ideal actor for this powerfully dramatic dual role. Others prominent in the cast are Buddy Post, Gene Corrado, Josef Swickard and Charles Gerard.

"Charley's Aunt" Opens House

Pro-Dis-Co Gets First Twenty-Seven Weeks at New Salt Lake Theatre

The first run difficulties in Salt Lake City were most decisively overcome this week by Producers Distributing Corporation in the signing of a contract with the new Orpheum Theatre whereby the theatre will open with the Al. Christie feature "Charley's Aunt" and this big attraction will be followed by twenty-seven other Producers Distributing Corporation releases to be shown in the twenty-seven consecutive weeks immediately following the opening of the theatre.

The new Orpheum Theatre will be a combination house presenting vaudeville and features for one week stands and its opening breaks the deadlock that has existed for the independent producers.

To Make Four for Arrow

Arrow Pictures Corporation, through its president, W. E. Shallenberger, announces as an important item of its release schedule for the coming season four special productions to be made by Arthur Beck.

Full details concerning the production plans of Mr. Beck will be announced by Arrow at a later date. Mr. Shallenberger states that the stories, casts and directors of each of the four specials will be, in every case, of the first water.

Laemmle Buys Spence Stories

"Gallantry," an original story by Ralph Spence, has been purchased for Norman Kerry's next starring vehicle, according to an announcement from Carl Laemmle, president of Universal. Although Spence is known in the picture industry as a title writer, he makes his debut as an author with "Gallantry" and follows up his "first attempt" with a western story, "Kings Up," the picture rights of which have also been obtained by Mr. Laemmle and which will serve as a starring vehicle for Hoot Gibson.

First National Pictures

Earl Hudson, Production Manager, Sends Two Into Cutting Rooms

Two pictures were sent into the cutting room of First National's New York studios by Earl Hudson, eastern production manager, this week. They are "Chickie," the screen adaptation of Elenore Meherin's newspaper serial, and "The Necessary Evil," adapted from Stephen Vincent Benet's magazine story, "Uriah's Son."

Dorothy Mackaill in the title role heads an all-star cast in "Chickie." Included in the cast are John Bowers, Hobart Bosworth, Myrtle Stedman, Gladys Brockwell, Olive Tell, Paul Nicholson, Lora Sonderson and Louise Mackintosh. John Francis Dillon directed.

Ben Lyon and Viola Dana are co-featured in "The Necessary Evil," which George Archainbaud directed. Others in the cast are Frank Mayo, Gladys Brockwell, Thomas Holding, Mary Thurman, Betty Jewel, Martha Madison, Arthur Housman and Beach Cooke.

Gypsy Writer Signed

Konrad Bercovici to Write Nomadic Story for Cecil B. DeMille

Konrad Bercovici, noted gypsy author of "Ghitza," "Murdo," "Iliana," "Claim of Charity," and "Around the World in New York," has been signed by Cecil B. De Mille to write a special story for production some time this year.

Bercovici will leave immediately to join a gypsy caravan with whom he will travel until the tale assumes final form. Then he will return to the De Mille studio to be present while it is being filmed.

Mr. De Mille did not indicate whether or not the story to be written in such a unique manner would relate gypsy adventures. Nor is it stated whether Leatrice Joy or Rod La Rocque will play in it.

Mr. Bercovici is not unknown to motion pictures. His photoplay, 'The Law of the Lawless," was exceedingly successful. For several years, however, he has devoted himself to an intensive study of the life of the foreign born in America, gathering material for a series of novels he proposes to write.

"Secret Service" Series

Peggy O'Day, whose strikingly effective work in such productions as "Thundering Hoofs" and "The Fighting Skipper" made her a fine reputation as a "thrill" heroine of the screen, has been signed by J. Charles Davis, 2nd, to start in a series of "Secret Service" productions for the Davis Distributing Division, Inc. These will be made from stories of actual experiences in the Secret Service, in which Miss O'Day will have the role of a star detective.

Draper Joins Abramson

William H. Draper, well-known financial and realty man of Providence, Chicago and New York, has aligned himself with Ivan Abramson, producer of "Lying Wives," recently completed here in the East.

This is Draper's first venture in picture producing, but the possibilities displayed by "Lying Wives," in which Clara K. Young and five other popular stars appear, has impressed him so highly that he plans to produce others with Abramson.

Mary Louise Miller, featured baby in "The Bandit's Baby," starring Fred Thomson, for F. B. O.

Starts Work on "Bandit's Baby"

Fred Thomson is burning up the hours at the F. B. O. Studios in Hollywood, making up time for the days he lost as a result of an injury sustained early in the year.

This week he began work on the third Western Feature under his new contract with F. B. O. It is "The Bandit's Baby," an original story by Leete Renick Brown, in which Fred, as a ne'er-do-well, is regenerated by a waif who, like himself, has been buffeted on the tides of Fate.

James Hogan is directing the production, and among those in the cast are Helen Foster, Dave Kirby, Mary Louise Miller, Clarence Golder and C. W. Mack. Others are to be engaged.

More Short Subjects

F. B. O. Plans New Series To Follow "The Pacemakers"

To satisfy the insistent demands of exhibitors in this country and abroad for the better class short subject, Film Booking Offices of America, Inc., is planning another series to be made on their own lot in Hollywood, following the completion of the current "Pacemakers," based on stories by H. C. Witwer and co-starring Alberta Vaughn and George O'Hara.

It is probable that the new series will be written by H. C. Witwer and will star the dainty and diminutive Alberta Vaughn, with George O'Hara, Al Cooke and Kit Guard in support. J. I. Schnitzer, vice-president and general manager of Film Booking Offices, now in Hollywood, is negotiating for the new series. Announcement will shortly be made.

Next Universal Super Picture

Upon completion of the "Lorraine of the Lions" film on which he is now working, Edward Sedgwick will start the production of a huge special upon the story of which he has been working intermittently for the last two years. This is "The Pony Express," for which some scenes were shot last year but which was interrupted through the necessity for several Hoot Gibson productions of an entirely different character.

"Kiss Me Again"

Ernst Lubitsch Completes Marie Prevost-Monte Blue Feature for Warner Bros.

Final scenes on the Ernst Lubitsch Warner Bros.' production, "Kiss Me Again," were made early this week at the Warners' Hollywood studio and the picture is now in the cutting room where it is being edited for early release.

This is the Parisian comedy by Hans Kraely, on which Lubitsch has spent considerable time in preparation and production. He has said that he believes he has turned out the best picture of its type in his career.

This is also the last production in which Marie Prevost and Monte Blue will be seen together for some time, as, after appearing together in a half dozen of Warner classics, they are about to split and head separate units.

There are only three other characters in the cast, played by Willard Louis, John Roche and Clara Bow.

Plans of the Warners for future Lubitsch productions will be forthcoming within a short time, and, it is said, they will be concerned with an entirely different type of picture.

Opens With Vitagraph Film

New Gem Theatre, at Jackson, Tenn., Opens With "Captain Blood" as the Premier Attraction

In opening the new Gem Theatre at Jackson, Tenn., B. M. Herron, the managing director, gave Vitagraph's "Captain Blood" the place of honor by selecting it as the initial attraction. As the theatre neared completion, competition among motion picture producers desirous of booking their product as the inauguration feature became keen, and it was only after canvassing the situation closely that Mr. Herron selected this David Smith special, picturizing Rafael Sabatini's masterpiece.

The premiere was made a gala occasion, with special dedicatory exercises and an elaborate musical program under the direction of Mrs. Breaker Atterbury, who presided at the fine new organ. In its two days' run continuous showing from 1.30 to 11 P. M., daily—the house was packed constantly, and "Captain Blood" was enthusiastically praised by the reviewers. A full page advertisement in the Jackson Sun had announced the theatre opening and the showing of the Vitagraph special.

Completes "Little French Girl"

Herbert Brenon has completed production of "The Little French Girl" at the Paramount Long Island studio.

Four featured players head the cast; Alice Joyce, Neil Hamilton, Mary Brian and Esther Ralston. Supporting them are Paul Doucet, Maurice Cannon, Mario Majeroni, Jane Jennings, Julia Hurley, Maud Turner Gordon, and Anthony Jowitt, in whom Paramount believes it has a new "find."

First Gordon Comedy Ready

The first starring vehicle of Eddie Gordon, the Century Comedy "find" of the season, is ready for release, it is announced by H. M. Herbel, sales manager for the Century Film Corporation. The comedy is entitled "Puzzled by Crosswords," and is a burlesque on the current crossword puzzle craze. This is the first of a series of twelve two-reelers being made by Gordon for the 1925 market.

CURRENT and ADVANCE FILM RELEASES

Containing in compact, comprehensive form, the title, star, kind of picture, date of review in Moving Picture World, and footage on past, present and future releases

ALLIED PRODUCERS AND DISTRIBUTORS

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
End of the World (J. Pickford)	Comedy-drama		6.500

ARROW

Come On, Cowboys (Hatton)	Western drama	May 24	4,700
Mysteries of Mah Jong	Novelty	May 24	2,000
Two After One (West)	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Lash of Pinto Pete (Dearholt)	Stunt drama		4.437
Two Fisted Sheriff (Canutt)	Western drama	Dec. 6	4,625
Sell 'em Cowboy (Hatton)	Western drama		4.821
Ridin' Mad (Canutt)	Western drama		4.927
Desert Hawk	Western drama		4,828
Horse Sense (Hatton)	Western drama		4.648
His Majesty the Outlaw (Wilson)	Western drama		4,069
Romance and Rustlers (Canutt)	Western drama	Nov. 15	4,939
Rip Snorter (Hatton)	Western	Nov. 22	4,998
The Fugitive (Ben Wilson)	Western dr.	Nov. 29	4.920
Lost Chord (Powell-Lake-Binney)	Heart interest dr.	Dec. 20	6,751
Lena Rivers (Earle Williams)	Drama		6,000

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

Spitfire (all-star)	Modern drama	July 5	6,109
Racing Luck (Monty Banks)	Comedy-drama	July 26	6,000
Never Say Die (MacLean)	Comedy of thrills	Sep. 13	5,803
East of Broadway (O. Moore)	Police drama	Nov. 22	5,785
Price of a Party (H. Ford)	Modern drama	Oct. 18	5,315
Barriers Burned Away	Spectacle	Dec. 27	6,236
Is Love Everything?	Sex melo.	Nov. 15	6,000
Adventurous Sex (C. Bow)	Flapper drama
Children of the Whirlwind
Great Air Mail Robbery
Battling Bunyan (Barry)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27	4,718
Greatest Love of All (Beban)	Drama	Jan. 17	6,486
Bad Company (Tearle)	Society drama	Jan. 24	5.551
Introduce Me (Douglas MacLean)	Comedy thrills	Mar. 21	6,710
Sky Raider (Logan)	Drama
Back to Life (Patsy Ruth Miller)	Drama	Feb. 28	5,628

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Air Pockets	Mermaid comedy	May 17	2,000
Lunch Brigade	Cliff Bowes	May 24	1,000
Dizzy Daisy	Mermaid comedy	May 24	2,000
Good Morning	Lloyd Hamilton	May 24	2,000
Tootsie-Wootsie	Christie comedy	May 31	2,000
Just Waiting	Robert Bruce series	May 31	1,000
Echoes of Youth	"Sing Them Again"	May 31	1,000
Hot Air	Lee Moran	June 7	2,000
In a Drop of Water	"Secrets of Life"	June 14	1,000
Grandpa's Girl	Kathleen Clifford	June 21	2,000
The Chase	Alps Novelty	June 21	2,000
Snapshots of the Universe	Hodge-Podge	June 21	1,000
The Farewell	Bruce Scenic	June 21	1,000
Wedding Showers	Jack White prod.	June 28	2,000
The Ex-Bartender Retires	Bruce scenic	June 28	1,000
Family Fits	Cameo comedy	June 28	1,000
His First Car	Tuxedo comedy	July 5	2,000
Pardon Us	Cameo comedy	July 5	1,000
Melodious Moments	"Sing Them Again"	July 5	1,000
Pigskin	Mermaid comedy	July 12	2,000
Heads On	Cliff Bowes	July 12	1,000
Jumble in the Jungle	Hodge-Podge	July 12	1,000
Never Again	Tuxedo comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
Turn About	Cameo comedy	Aug. 2	1,000
Frozen Water	Novelty	Aug. 9	2,000
Savage Love	Jimmie Adams	Aug. 9	1,000
Good News	Cliff Bowes	Aug. 23	2,000
Oh, Teacher	Juvenile comedy	Aug. 23	1,000
Boneyard Blues	Earl Hurd cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Drenched	Cliff Bowes	Aug. 30	2,000
Wild Game	Mermaid comedy	Aug. 30	1,000
Don't Fail	Cameo comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
Jonah Jones	Lloyd Hamilton	Sep. 6	1,000
Hazardous Hunting	Hodge-Podge	Sep. 13	2,000
Rough and Ready	Lige Conley	Sep. 13	1,000
Cheer Up	Cliff Bowes	Sep. 20	2,000
Stupid but Brave	Al St. John	Sep. 20	2,000
Dirty Hands	Juvenile comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Short Change	Hiers comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Bright Lights	Vernon comedy	Sep. 27	2,000
Her Boy Friend	Larry Semon	Oct. 4	2,000
Court Plaster	Neal Burns	Oct. 4	1,000
The Hoboken Nightingale	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 4	1,000
Crazy-Quilt of Travel	Hodge Podge	Oct. 11	2,000
Fast and Furious (Conley)	Comedy	Oct. 11	1,000
No Foolin' (Bowes)	Comedy	Oct. 18	1,000
Sawmill Four	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 18	1,000
Why Hurry? (Adams)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Kid Speed (L. Semon)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Crushed (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Oct. 25	1,000
Empty Heads (Bowes)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
High Gear (Vernon)	Comedy	Nov. 1	1,000
The Mosquito	Instructive	Nov. 15	1,000
Artist's Model	Hurd cartoon	Nov. 15	2,000
Poor Butterfly	Mermaid comedy	Nov. 15	1,000
Watch Your Pep (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Easy Pickin's	Christie com.	Nov. 22	1,000
Cut Loose (Dynham-Vance)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
A Fat Chance (W. Hiers)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Go Easy (Bowes)	Cameo com.	Dec. 6	2,000
Low Tide (J. White prod.)	Comedy	Dec. 6	1,000
Little People of the Garden	Instructive	Dec. 13	1,000
Earth's Oddities	Hodge-Podge	Dec. 13	2,000
Goat Getters	Juvenile com.	Dec. 20	2,000
French Pastry (Vernon)	Christie com.	Dec. 20	1,000
Broadcasting	Hurd cartoon	Dec. 27	2,000
Lovemania (St. John)	Tuxedo comedy	Dec. 27	1,000
Mad Rush (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
Step Lightly (Lige Conley)	Mermaid com.	Jan. 3	1,000
Hi-Fliers	Hodge-Podge	Jan. 17	2,000
Hooked (Hamilton)	Comedy	Jan. 17	1,000
Weak Knees (Bowes)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 17	1,000
Have A Heart (Ruth Hiatt)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 24	2,000
Good Spirits	Christie com.	Jan. 24	1,000
Motor Mad	Mermaid com.	Jan. 31	2,000
Sea Legs (Neal Burns)	Christie com.	Jan. 31	1,000
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Jan. 31	1.000
Paris Creations	Fashions	Feb. 7	1,000
Topsy Turvy Travel	Hodge-Podge	Feb. 7	2,000
His High Horse (Lee Moran)	Mermaid com.	Feb. 7	1,000
He Who Gets Soaked	Hurd cartoon	Feb. 14	1,000
High Hopes (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Wild Cat Willie	Juvenile com.	Feb. 21	1,000
Our Six-Legged Friends	Secrets of Life	Feb. 21	2,000
Great Guns (Bobby Vernon)	Comedy	Feb. 21	1,000
Welcome Danger (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 28	1,000
Paris Creations in Color	Fashions	Feb. 28	2,000
Half a Hero (Lloyd Hamilton)	Comedy	Mar. 7	1,000
Two Cats and a Dog	Cartoon	Mar. 7	1,000
Lots of Knots	Hodge-Podge	Mar. 7	1,000
Little People of the Sea	Instructive	Aug. [illegible]	1,000
Voice of the Nightingale	Novelty	Mar. 14	1,000
Love Goofy (Adams)	Christie com.	Mar. 14	2,000
Hello, Hollywood (Conley)	Mermaid com.	Mar. 14	2.000
Dynamite Doggie (Al St. John)	Tuxedo com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Mar. 21	1,000
Merrymakers (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Mar. 21	1,000

How to Use This Chart

First—Booking! Get accurate footage and look up date review appeared in Moving Picture World. Then you can decide if the picture will suit your audience.

Second—Play date! When you set your play date, consult this Chart to set the picture on a date that will not conflict with preceding and following pictures; avoid a sequence of similar type of story; space out your specials.

Third—Laying Out Program! This chart shows star and kind of story as well as accurate length; you can lay out a balanced program easily, avoid over—and under-length program.

Fourth—Exploitation! Through this chart find the review in Moving Picture World; this will give a good synopsis, the all-important cast and a fine line on exploitation possibilities as well as the things you'll want to soft-pedal.

Always! Turn to this Chart when you want accurate information in simple form and easy to get at a glance. AND—

File Your Moving Picture World

$1 for Your Time

Many exhibitors tell us that Moving Picture World Guide to Releases is the most accurate available to them. We know it is the most complete in that it is the only chart containing names of stars, type of picture, and all necessary information to the exhibitor.

We want it to be absolutely accurate—Moving Picture World recognizes the importance of accurate footage information, etc.

If you notice an error in FEATURE footage, or any other major error, we will pay you $1 for the effort on your part of writing us a letter telling us the correct facts.

In many territories local censorship cuts alter the footage to a minor extent. Don't write to tell us of these unimportant variations. But in any case where you feel that our figures will work a real hardship on the exhibitor following them—shoot us the word and we will shoot the dollar for your trouble.

Moving Picture World is willing to back up its complete confidence in the accuracy of its chart with its money.

We can't do more. No one else does as much. We thank you.

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Rarin' Romeo (Walter Hiers)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Red Pepper (St. John)	White-Mermaid	Apr. 4	2,000
Inside Out (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Apr. 4	1,000
Movie Morsels	Howe Magazine	Apr. 4	1,000
Mellow Quartette	Hurd cartoon	Apr. 4	1,000
Why Hesitate? (Burns)	Comedy	April 11	1,000
In the Spider's Grip	Novelty	April 11	2,000

FILM BOOKING OFFICES OF AMERICA

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Girl of the Limberlost (Grey)	Rural drama	May 10	6,000
Untamed Youth (Lewis)	Gypsy drama	May 10	5,000
Danger Line (Hayakawa)	Japan drama	May 24	5,000
Spirit of the U. S. A. (Johnson prod.)	Patriotic drama	May 31	8,312
Dangerous Coward (F. Thomson)	Western	May 31	6,000
Napoleon and Josephine (all-star)	Hist. romance	June 7	6,591
Fighting Sap (F. Thomson)	Western	June 14	5,138
There's Millions In It (all-star)	Romantic thriller	June 28	6,000
Swords and the Woman (DeCordoba)	Romantic drama	July 12	6,000
Fools in the Dark (Patsy R. Miller)	Melo. farce	July 26	7,002
Neglected Women (Seena Owen)	Society drama	Aug. 9	6,265
Messalina	Italian spectacle	Sep. 6	8,473
American Manners (R. Talmadge)	Thrill-com.-dr.	Sep. 6	5,200
Desert Sheik (Hawley)	Sheik picture	Sep. 20	5,044
Vanity's Price (A. Q. Nilsson)	Society drama	Sep. 20	6,124
Woman Who Sinned (Busch)	Society drama		6,102
Thundering Hoofs (F. Thomson)	Western	Dec. 6	5,033
Stepping Lively (R. Talmadge)	Comedy drama		5,317
Life's Greatest Game (J. Walker)	Baseball epic	Oct. 11	7,010
Millionaire Cowboy (M. B. Flynn)	Western		4,841
Broken Laws (Mrs. W. Reid)	Drama	Jan. 31	6,413
Quemado (F. Thomson)	Western
Cheap Kisses (all-star)	Jazz-drama	Nov. 15	6,538
Go-Getters Series	Thrill comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Dangerous Flirt (Evelyn Brent)	Drama	Dec. 6	5,297
Miss in the Dark (Vaughn)	Go-getters	Dec. 6	2,000
On The Stroke of Three (Harlan)	Drama	Dec. 13	6,767
Trigger Fingers (Bob Custer)	Tex. Ranger	Dec. 13	4,775
Going of Cumming	Go-Getters	Dec. 13	2,000
Laughing at Danger (R. Talmadge)	Thrill drama	Dec. 20	5,442
Air Hawk (Al Wilson)	Airplane dr.	Dec. 20	5,000
Who's Hooligan?	Go-getters	Dec. 20	2,000
Heebie Jeebies (Aubrey)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Silk Stocking Sal (Brent)	Underworld dr.	Jan. 3	5,367
West of Hot Dog (Stan Laurel)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
No-Gun Man (Lefty Flynn)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 17	4,522
Flashing Spurs (Bob Custer)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5,068
Youth and Adventure (R. Talmadge)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5,000
Sleeping Cutie	Go-Getters	Jan. 31	2,000
Midnight Molly (Evelyn Brent)	Crook drama	Feb. 7	6,000
Range Terror (Bob Custer)	Western	Feb. 14	4,75[illegible]
Cloud Rider (Al Wilson)	Airplane-thrill	Feb. 21	5,070
Jimmie's Millions (R. Talmadge)	Athletic-stunts	Feb. 28	5,167
Parisian Nights (Hammerstein-Tellegen)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,278
Welcome Granger (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 7	2,000
Helping Hand (Aubrey)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Breed of the Border (Lefty Flynn)	Western	Mar. 14	4,930
Love's Bargain (Marjorie Daw)	Drama	Mar. 21	6,000
Captain Kidd	Bray cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Scar Hanan (Yakima Canutt)	Western	Mar. 28	6,020
Galloping Vengeance (Bob Custer)	Texas Ranger dr.	Mar. 28	5,005
He Who Gets Rapped (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 28	2,000
Forbidden Cargo (Evelyn Brent)	Melodrama	Apr. 4	4,850
O. U. West (Lefty Flynn)	Western	April 11	5,000

FIRST NATIONAL

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Flowing Gold (all-star)	Drama	Mar. 1	8,005
Lilies of the Field (C. Griffith)	Drama	Mar. 22	8,510
Galloping Fish (Ince prod.)	Comedy	Mar. 22	5,559
Secrets (N. Talmadge)	Drama	Apr. 5	8,446
Enchanted Cottage (R. Barthelmess)	Drama	Apr. 19	7,120
Abraham Lincoln (G. A. Billings)	Drama	Feb. 2	9,759
Cytherea (all-star)	Society drama	May 21	7,142
Why Men Leave Home (J. M. Stahl prod.)	Comedy-drama	May 3	8,002
Woman on the Jury (all-star)	Drama	May 17	7,408
Son of the Sahara (all-star)	Melodrama	May 24	7,603
Sea Hawk (all-star)	Romantic drama	June 14	11,527
Marriage Cheat (all-star)	Drama	June 21	6,622
Those Who Dance (Ince prod.)	Drama		7,512
White Moth (LaMarr)	Drama	June 21	6,571
Perfect Flapper (C. Moore)	Comedy	June 28	7,030
Self-Made Failure (B. Alexander)	Comedy	June 28	7,285
For Sale (all-star)	Drama	July 5	7,304
Born Rich (C. Windsor)	Society drama	Dec. 20	7,389
Single Wives (C. Griffith)	Society drama	Aug. 9	7,5[illegible]
Girl in the Limousine (Semon)	Farce comedy	Aug. 30	5,260
Flirting With Love (C. Moore)	Comedy	Sep. 6	6,926
In Hollywood With Potash and Perlmutter (all-star)	Comedy	Sep. 20	6,685
Husbands and Lovers (all-star)	Dom. drama	Nov. 8	7,822
Madonna of the Streets (Nazimova)	Drama	Oct. 25	7,674
Tarnish (all-star)	Comedy-drama		6,907
Her Night of Romance (C. Talmadge)	Comedy	Dec. 6	7,211
In Every Woman's Life (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,298
Sandra (LaMarr)	Drama	Dec. 6	7,905
Classmates (R. Barthelmess)	Drama	Nov. 29	6,923
Christine of the Hungry Heart (Vidor)	Drama	Nov. 1	7,678
Silent Watcher (Glenn Hunter)	Drama	Oct. 18	7,530
Love's Wilderness (Griffith)	Drama	Dec. 20	7,037
So Big (C. Moore)	Drama	Jan. 17	8,562
If I Marry Again (Doris Kenyon)	Drama	Jan. 24	7,401
Idle Tongues (Marmont)	Comedy-drama	Dec. 27	5,447
Sundown (all-star)	Western epic	Oct. 25	8,641
The Only Woman (N. Tadmadge)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 8	6,770
Inez from Hollywood (Nilsson-Stone-Astor)	Heart interest	Dec. 13	6,967
Frivolous Sal (O'Brien-Busch-Alexander)	Western melo.	Jan. 17	7,307
A Thief in Paradise (Doris Kenyon)	Melodrama	Jan. 24	7,231
As Man Desires (Sills-Dana)	Melodrama	Jan. 31	7,649
Enticement (Mary Astor)	Drama	Feb. 7	6,224
The Lady (Norma Talmadge)	Emotional dr.	Feb. 14	7,357
Her Husband's Secret (Moreno-Miller)	Sentiment-dr.	Feb. 21	6,150
Quo Vadis (Emil Jennings)	Special	Feb. 28	8,745
Lost World (Conan Doyle story)	Special	Feb. 28	9.700
New Toys (Barthelmess)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 28	7,811
Playing With Souls (Jacqueline Logan)	Drama	Mar. 7	5,831
One Year to Live (Pringle)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,064
Learning to Love (C. Talmadge)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 7	6,099
Heart of a Siren (La Marr)	Drama	Mar. 21	6,700
Sally (C. Moore-Leon Errol)	Stage success	Mar. 28	8,636
Declasse (Corinne Griffith)	Society dr.	Apr. 4	7,869
One Way Street (Lyon-Nilsson)	Society dr.	Apr. 4	5,600

FOX FILM CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Arizona Express (D. Butler)	Railroad drama	Mar. 29	6,316
Plunderer (Mayo)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,000
A Man's Mate (Gilbert)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,812
Circus Cowboy (Jones)	Western drama	May 3	6,400
Trouble Shooter (Mix)	Western drama	May 17	5,702
He's My Pal	Imperial comedy	May 17	2,000
Lone Chance (Gilbert)	Western drama	May 24	4,385
When Wise Ducks Meet	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Western Luck (Jones)	Comedy-drama	June 28	5,000
Magic Needle	"Etching"	June 28	1,000
Romance Ranch (Gilbert)	Comedy-drama	July 12	4,471
Heart Buster (Mix)	Comedy-drama	July 19	4,500
Beaten Gold	Educational	July 19	1,000
Against All Odds (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 9	4,899
Pain as You Enter (Moran)	Comedy	Aug. 9	2,000
That French Lady (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 16	5,470
Man Who Came Back (special)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,273
Desert Outlaw (Jones)	Drama
Wolves of the Night (W. Farnum)	Drama
It Is the Law (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,895
Dante's Inferno (special)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,480
Cyclone Rider (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,672
Last of the Duanes (Mix)	Drama	Aug. 30	6,942
Iron Horse (special)	Railway drama	Sep. 13	11,400
Conquerer (W. Farnum)	Reissue
The Fight (all-star)	Drama
Oh, You Tony (Mix and Tony)	Comedy-drama	Sep. 27	6,302
Winner Take All (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,949
Hearts of Oak (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,336
Great Diamond Mystery (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Nov. 1	5,096
Warrens of Virginia (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 1	6,535
End of the Trail (W. Farnum)	Drama
Rambles of a Raindrop	Instructive	Sep. 27	1,000
Daughters of the Night (all-star)	Modern drama	Dec. 13	5,701
Painted Lady (Mackaill)	Modern drama	Oct. 4	6,936
Jerusalem Today	Instructive	Oct. 4	1,000
Last Man on Earth	Novelty special	Dec. 27
Gold Heels	Race track dr.	Feb. 7	6,020
Flames of Desire	Love drama		5,438
The Dancers	Drama	Jan. 24	6,656
The Folly of Vanity	Dramatic fantasy	Feb. 14	5,250
Teeth (Mix-Tony Duke)	Western drama	Nov. 15	6,190
Tainted Souls	Modern drama
Darwin Was Right	Monkey novelty com	Nov. 8	4,992
Everyman's Wife	Modern mystery-drama
In Love With Love	Comedy drama	Jan. 3	5,677
Hunting Wild Animals in Hollywood	Novelty
Honor Among Men (E. Lowe)	Romance-drama	Oct. 18	4,960
Unreal News 4	Novelty	Oct. 11	2,000
Van Bibber Series	Polite com.	Oct. 25	2,000
Age of Oil	Educational	Nov. 1	750
Deep Sea Panic (Parrott)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
Nickle Plated West	Sunshine comedy	Nov. 15	2,000
The Bull Fight	Educational	Nov. 15	1,000
My Husband's Wives (Mason-Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Nov. 22	4,509
Paul Jones, Jr.	Van Bibber com.	Nov. 22	2,000
Finger Lakes	Instructive	Nov. 22	1,000
Brass Bowl (Edmund Lowe)	Adventure dr.	Nov. 29	5,861
Stolen Sweeties (Monkeys)	Comedy	Nov. 29	2,000
Salt of the Earth	Educational	Nov. 29	1,000
Gerald Cranston's Lady (James Kirkwood)	Domestic dr.	Dec. 6	6,074
Masked Marvel (Parrott)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
The Roughneck (George O'Brien)	Melodrama	Dec. 13	7,619
The Burglar	Van Bibber	Dec. 13	2,000
Man Who Played Square (Jones)	Western drama	Dec. 20	6,700
Deadwood Coach (Mix)	Western drama	Jan. 10	6,346
Troubles of a Bride	Melodrama	Dec. 27	4,915
Dick Turpin (Mix)	English drama	Feb. 7	5,224
Hunted Woman	Melodrama
Arizona Romeo (Jones)	Western drama	Jan. 31	4,694
Curlytop (Mason)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	5,828
Stardust Trail (Mason)	Melodrama	Mar. 7	4,686
Scuttlers (W.Farnum)	Western drama		4,686
Movie-Mad Maid (Babe London)	Slapstick	Dec. 20	2,000
Roaring Lions at Home	Sunshine com.	Jan. 3	2,000
Uncommon Clay	Educational	Jan. 3	1,000
Up On the Farm (Lee Moran)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
The Violin Speaks	Educational	Jan. 10	1,000
Dangerous Curves	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Milk Bottle Bandits	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Ports of Call (E. Lowe)	Regeneration dr.	Jan. 24	5.500
Sleep Walker (Sid Smith)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Hell-Roaring Range	Educational	Jan. 24	1,000
Corsica the Beautiful	Educational	Jan. 31	1,000
Nobody Works But Father	Slapstick	Feb. 7	2,000
Trail Rider (Jones)	Western	Feb. 21	4,752
Man Without a Country (all-star)	Special	Feb. 28	10,000
Scarlet Honeymoon (Shirley Mason)	Romantic com.-dr.	Mar. 14	5,080
Mysterious Stranger	Comedy	Mar. 14	2,000
Riders of the Purple Sage (Mix)	Western	Mar. 21	5,578
House of Flickers	Imperial com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Gold and the Girl (Jones)	Western	Mar. 28	4,512
Amateur Detective	Van Bibber	Mar. 28	2,000
Hunted Woman (Seena Owen-Earl Schenck)	Curwood dr.	Apr. 4	4,954
Butterfly Man (Sid Smith)	Comedy	Apr. 4	2,000
From Mars to Munich	"arieties"	Apr. 4	1,000
Marriage in Transit (E. Lowe)	Secret service dr.	April 11	4,800

METRO-GOLDWYN

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Janice Meredith (Davies)	Romantic dr.	Aug. 23	10,655
Rejected Woman (Rubens-Nagel)	Drama	May 3	7,761
Heart Bandit (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 19	4,909
Fool's Awakening (Ford)	Drama	Feb. 16	5,763
Man Life Passed By (Marmont)	Drama	Mar. 1	6,4[illegible]
Thy Name Is Woman (LaMarr)	Drama	Mar. 1	9,087
Uninvited Guest (Tolley)	Drama	Mar. 8	6,145
Happiness (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 8	7,414
Women Who Give (all-star)	Sea drama	Mar. 28	7,[illegible]
Boy of Flanders (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 5	7,[illegible]

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Shooting of Dan McGrew (all-star)	Drama	Apr. 12	6,318
Sherlock, Jr. (Keaton)	Comedy	May 17	4,065
Arab (Novarro-Terry)	Drama	July 12	6,710
Bread (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 2	6,726
Tess of D'Urbervilles (Sweet)	Drama	Aug. 9	7,736
Little Robinson Crusoe (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 16	6,126
Broken Barriers (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 16	5,717
True As Steel (all-star)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,454
Revelation (Dana)	Drama	July 5	8,752
Recoil (Blythe-Hamilton)	Drama	July 12	7,089
Wine of Youth (all star)	Drama	July 26	6,805
Along Came Ruth (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 2	5,161
Red Lily (Bennett-Novarro)	Drama	Aug. 16	6,975
Sinners in Silk (Menjou-Boardman)	Drama	Aug. 30	5,750
Circe, The Enchantress (Murray)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,882
His Hour (Pringle)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,300
One Night in Rome (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Sep. 27	5,883
Navigator (Keaton)	Comedy	Sep. 13	5,559
Bandolero (all star)	Drama	Oct. 11	6,[illegible]
Great Divide (all star)	Drama	Feb. 21	7,811
The Snob (all star)	Drama	Nov. 8	6,513
He Who Gets Slapped (Chaney)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,613
Rag Man (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 14	5,908
Silent Accuser (Peter, the Great)	Dog drama	Nov. 22	5,883
So This Is Marriage (all star)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 3	6,300
Beauty Prize (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 11	5,750
Ben Hur (special cast)	Drama
Merry Widow (Murray)	Comedy-dr.
The Scandal (Novarro)	Drama
Sporting Venus (Sweet)	Drama
Married Flirts (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 25	6,765
Temptress (Cosmopolitan)
The Square Peg
Zander, the Great (Cosmopolitan)
Romola (Lillian Gish)	Famous novel	Dec. 13	12,974
Greed (Von Stroheim prod.)	Special	Dec. 20	10,067
Chu-Chin-Chow (B. Blythe)	Spectacle	Feb. 21	6,408
Wife of the Centaur	Drama	Jan. 17	6,586
Dixie Handicap (Windsor-Keenan)	Drama	Jan. 10	6,905
Cheaper to Marry (All Star)	Drama	Feb. 14	5,921
A Man's World (Joyce-Marmont)	Drama
Excuse Me (Shearer-Nagel)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 7	5,084
Monster (Chaney-Olmsted)	Weird com.-dr.	Mar. 7	6,435
Daddy's Gone a Hunting (Marmont)	Pathos drama	Mar. 7	5,851
Lady of the Night (Norma Shearer)	Underworld dr.	Mar. 14	5.441
Denial (Claire Windsor)	Drama	Mar. 21	4.791
Seven Chances (Keaton)	Comedy	Mar. 28	5,113
Confessions of a Queen (Terry-Stone)	Mythical romance	Apr. 4	5.809
Way of a Girl (Boardman)	Thrill-comedy	April 11	5,000

PARAMOUNT

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Breaking Point (all star)	West-Metropolitan	Apr. 19	6,664
Confidence Man (Meighan)	Romance dr.	Apr. 26	6,500
Moral Sinner (Dalton)	Crook melo.	Apr. 26	5,439
Triumph (C. DeMille prod.)	Theatrical dr.	May 3	8.292
Bluff (Ayres-Moreno)	Drama	May 10	6.504
Men (Negri)	Society dr.	May 17	6,700
Wanderer of Wasteland (Holt-Technicolor)	Western	May 31	6,086
Code of the Sea (LaRocque-Logan)	Sea melodr.	Jun. 7	6,550
Bedroom Window (W. DeMille prod.)	Mystery dr.	Jun. 21	6.550
Guilty One (Ayres)	Heavy mystery	Jun. 28	5,365
Tiger Love (Melford prod.)	Modern dr.	Jun. 28	5.325
Changing Husbands (Joy)	Dual role dr.	July 5	6.799
Unguarded Women (Daniels-Dix)	Society dr.	July 5	6,051
Enemy Sex (Compson)	Romantic dr.	July 12	7,861
Side Show of Life (Torrence)	Clown dr.	Aug. 2	7,511
Manhandled (Swanson)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 9	6.908
Man Who Fights Alone (W. Farnum)	Drama	Aug. 9	6.337
Monsieur Beaucaure (Valentino)	Spectacle melo.	Aug. 23	9,932
Empty Hands (Holt)	Forest Melo.	Aug. 30	6.976
Lily of the Dust (Negri)	Drama	Sep. 6	6.811
The Female (Compson)	Society dr.	Sep. 13	6,167
Merton of the Movies (Hunter)	Travesty	Sep. 20	7,655
Sinners in Heaven (Daniels-Dix)	Drama	Sep. 20	6.621
Open All Night (all star)	Demestic dr.	Sep. 20	6.881
Feet of Clay (C. DeMille prod.)	Drama	Oct. 4	9.741
Alaskan (Meighan)	Drama	Sep. 27	6,736
Her Love Story (Swanson)	Romance dr.	Oct. 11	6,736
Story Without a Name (Ayres-Moreno)	Prize title	Oct. 18	5,912
Dangerous Money (Daniels)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,864
Border Legion (Moreno)	Drama	Nov. 1	7.048
Worldly Goods (Ayres)	Drama	Nov. 15—	6,055
Fast Set (Compson-Menjou)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 29	6.574
Forbidden Paradise (Negri)	Drama	Nov. 29	7,000
Sainted Devil (Valentino)	Drama	Dec. 6	8,633
City That Never Sleeps (Cruze prod.)	Mother-love melo.	Oct. 11	6,097
Manhattan (Dix)	Romantic com.	Nov. 8	6,415
Garden of Weeds (Compson)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,230
Wages of Virtue (Swanson)	Drama	Dec. 6	7.093
Tongues of Flame (Meighan-Love)	Melodrama	Dec. 27	6,763
North of 36 (Torrence-Holt-Wilson)	Historic romance	Dec. 13	7.908
Argentine Love (Daniels-Cortez)	Spanish romance	Jan. 3	5,970
Peter Pan (Betty Bronson)	Barrie classic	Jan. 3-10,	9,593
Locked Doors (Compson)	Original story	Jan. 24	6,221
Tomorrow's Love (Ayres)	Divorce com-dr.	Jan. 24	5,903
East of Suez (Negri)	Drama	Jan. 17	6.821
Miss Bluebeard (Daniels)	The stage success	Feb. 14	6,453
Golden Bed (LaRocque)	Drama of classes	Jan. 31	8,584
Man Must Live (Dix)	Newspaper romance	Feb. 7	6.116
Coming Through (Meighan)	New type Meighan story	Feb. 21	6,522
The Devil's Cargo (Starke)	Drama of Old California	Feb. 21	7,980
Top of the World (Nilsson-Kirkwood)	Africa and England	Feb. 28	7,167
The Swan (Menjou-Howard)	Stage success	Mar. 14	5,889
Contraband (Wilson-Noah Beery)	Bootleg drama	Apr. 4	6,773
Madame Sans Gene (Swanson)	World Famous drama
Thundering Herd (Holt-Wilson)	Buffalo stampede	Mar. 7	7,187
Forty Winks (Dana-Roberts-Griffith)	Comedy	Feb. 14	6,293
Goose Hangs High (Cruze production)	Typical	Mar. 21	6,186
Code of the West	Western dr.		6,777
New Lives for Old (Compson)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,796
Salome of the Tenements (Jetta Goudal)	Drama	Mar. 7	7,017
Too Many Kisses (Richard Dix)	Comedy	Mar. 14	5,750
Dressmaker From Paris (Leatrice Joy)	Drama	Mar. 28	[illegible]
Air Mail (feature cast)	Melodrama	Mar. 28	[illegible]
Grass	Drama	April 11	6.000
Sackcloth and Scarlet (Alice Terry)	Drama	April 11	6,732
Men and Women (Dix)	Feature	April 11	6,223

PATHE

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Bottle Babies	"Spat Family"	May 17	2,000
Going to Congress	Will Rogers	May 24	2,000
Position Wanted	Charles Chase	May 24	1,000
The Cat's Meow	Sennett comedy	May 24	2,000
Cradle Robbers	"Our Gang"	May 31	2,000
Building Winners	"Sportlight"	May 31	1,000
Before Taking	Earl Mohan	May 31	1,000
Rupert of Hee-Haw	Stan Laurel	June 7	2,000
Yukon Jake	Ben Turpin	June 7	2,000
Up and At 'Em	"Dippy Doo Dads"	June 7	1,000
The Flying Carpet	Terry cartoon	June 7	1,000
Declaration of Independence	"Chronicles"	June 14	3,000
Fast Black	Mohan-Engle	June 14	1,000
Lion and the Souse	Sennett comedy	June 14	2,000
On Guard	"Sportlight"	June 14	1,000
Suffering Shakespeare	"Spat Family"	June 14	2,000
Young Oldfield	Charles Chase	June 21	1,000
His New Mama	Sennett comedy	June 21	2,000
Don't Park There	Will Rogers	June 21	2,000
Her Memory	Will Nigh Miniature	June 21	1,000
Solitude and Fame	"Sportlight"	June 28	1,000
Stolen Goods	Charles Chase	June 28	1,000
Jubilo, Jr.	"Our Gang"	June 28	2,000
Jeffries, Jr.	Charles Chase	July 5	1,000
The Wide Open Spaces	Stan Laurel	July 5	2,000
The Body in the Bag	Terry cartoon	July 5	1,000
Yorktown	Chronicles of America	July 12	3,000
Why Husbands Go Mad	Charles Chase	July 12	1,000
Desert Sheiks	Terry cartoon	July 12	1,000
Radio Mad	"Spat Family"	July 12	2,000
Maud Miller	Special	July 19	2,000
Our Congressman	Will Rogers	July 19	2,000
A Woman's Hour	Terry cartoon	July 19	1,000
A Ten-Minute Egg	Charles Chase	July 19	1,000
It's a Bear	"Our Gang"	July 26	2,000
The Sport of Kings	Terry cartoon	July 26	1,000
Our Defenders	"Sportlight"	July 26	1,000
Seeing Nellie Home	Charles Chase	July 26	1,000
Into the Net	Mulhall-Murphy serial	Aug. 2
Romeo and Juliet	Sennett comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
Flying Fever	Terry cartoon	Aug. 2	1,000
Short Kilts	Hal Roach comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
A Hard Boiled Tenderfoot	"Spat Family"	Aug. 9	2,000
The Puritans	"Chronicles" series	Aug. 9	3,000
Amelia Comes Back	Terry cartoon	Aug. 9	1,000
The First Hundred Years	Sennett comedy	Aug. 16	2,000
A Truthful Liar	Will Rogers	Aug. 16	2,000
The Battling Orioles	Special	Aug. 23	5,000
East of the Water Plug	Sennett comedy	Aug. 23	2,000
High Society	"Our Gang"	Aug. 23	2,000
The Prodigal Pup	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Hoofbeats	"Sportlight"	Aug. 23	1,000
House Cleaning	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Alexander Hamilton	"Chronicles" series	Sep. 6	3,000
Lizzies of the Field	Sennett comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
Barnyard Olympics	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
South of the North Pole	"Spat Family"	Sep. 6	2,000
One Third Off	Cobb-Rice comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
The Happy Years	"Sportlight"	Sep. 6	1,000
Why Men Work	Charles Chase	Sep. 6	1,000
Message From the Sea	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
Luck of the Foolish	Harry Langdon	Sep. 13	2,000
Outdoor Pajamas	Charles Chase	Sep. 13	2,000
Three Foolish Weeks	Ben Turpin	Sep. 13	2,000
In Good Old Summertime	Terry cartoon	Sep. 13	1,000
Danger Lure	Sportlight	Oct. 11	1,000
Dixie	Chronicles	Oct. 11	3,000
Goofy Age (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
10 Scars Make a Man (Allene Ray)	Serial	Oct. 18
Black Magic	Terry cartoon	Oct. 18	1,000
Sporting Rhythm	Sportlight	Oct. 18	1,000
Riders of the Purple Cow	Sennett com.	Oct. 18	2,000
Every Man for Himself	Our Gang	Oct. 18	2,000
Hot Water (Harold Lloyd)	Feature com.	Oct. 18	5,000
On Leave of Absence	Detective	Oct. 25	2,000
Bungalow Boobs (Chase)	Comedy	Oct. 25	1,000
Sky Plumber (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Galloping Bungalows	Sennett com.	Nov. 1	2,000
Stunts	Sportlight	Nov. 1	1,000
Hot Stuff	Spat family	Nov. 1	[illegible]
Cat and the Magnet	Terry cartoon	Nov. 1	1,000
Fast Company	Our Gang	Nov. 15	2,000
She Knew Her Man	Terry cartoon	Nov. 15	1,000
Gridiron Glory	Sportlight	Nov. 15	1,000
Love's Sweet Piffle (R. Graves)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Are Blond Men Bashful? (Stone)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Out of the Storm	Detective	Nov. 22	2,000
Good Old Circus Days	Terry cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
All Wet (Chase)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Deaf, Dumb and Daffy	Spat Family	Nov. 29	2,000
Cannon-Ball Express	Sennett com.	Nov. 29	2.000
Champions	Sportlight	Nov. 29	1,000
Lumber Jacks	Terry cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
White Sheep (Glenn Tryon)	Special dr.	Dec. 6	6,091
Feet of Mud (Sennett cast)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
Meet the Missus (Tryon)	Comedy	Dec. 6	3,000
Bucking the Bucket Shop	Detective series	Dec. 6	2,000
She's In Again	Terry cartoon	Dec. 6	1,000
Mysterious Mystery	Our Gang	Dec. 13	2,000
Off His Trolley (R. Graves)	Sennett com.	Dec. 13	2,000
Noah's Athletic Club	Terry cartoon	Dec. 13	1,000
Just a Good Guy (Stone)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2,000
Royal Razz (Chase)	Comedy	Dec. 20	1,000
Mysteries of Old Chinatown	Terry cartoon	Dec. 20	1,000
Nature's Rouge	Sportlight	Dec. 20	1,000
Rubber Neck	Spat Family	Dec. 27	2,000
Bull and Sand	Sennett comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Invaders	Sportlight	Dec. 27	1,000
Down on the Farm	Terry cartoon	Dec. 27	1,000
The Sea Squawk	Sennett com.	Jan. 3	2,000
On the Ice	Terry cartoon	Jan. 3	1,000
Galloping Hoofs (Allene Ray)	Serial	Jan. 3
Wages of Tin (Tryon)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
Rat's Knuckles (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 10	1,000
Rough and Tumbling	Sportlight	Jan. 10	1,000
Our Game Pup	Terry cartoon	Jan. 10	1,000
The Big Town (Our Gang)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Plumber (Graves)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Wild Goose Chaser (Turpin)	Sennett Com.	Jan. 17	2,000
Hello Baby (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 17	1,000
Laugh That Off	Spat Family	Jan. 24	2,000
Honeymoon Hardships	Sennett comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Brain and Brawn	Sportlight	Jan. 24	1,000
Boobs in the Woods (Langdon)	Sennett comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Hold That Thought	Terry cartoon	Jan. 31	1,000
Fighting Fluid (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 31	1,000
Beloved Bozo (R. Graves)	Sennett comedy	Feb. 7	2,000
Circus Fever	Our Gang	Feb. 7	2,000
Biting the Dust	Terry cartoon	Feb. 7	1,000
Transatlantic Flight	Terry cartoon		1,000
Change the Needle (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Family Entrance (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 14	1,000
Bigger and Better Jails	Terry cartoon	Feb. 14	1,000
Fisherman's Luck	Terry cartoon	Feb. 21	1,000
A Fox Hunt	Spat Family	Feb. 21	2,000
Sporting Armor	Sportlight	Feb. 21	1,000
Idaho (Vivian Rich)	Serial	Feb. 21	10 ep.
Water Wagons	Sennett com.	Feb. 21	2,000
His Marriage Wow (Langdon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Plain and Fancy Girls (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 28	1,000
Clean-Up Week	Terry cartoon	Feb. 28	1,000
Haunted Honeymoon (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Raspberry Romance (Ben Turpin)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Neptune's Nieces	Sportlight	Mar. 7	1,000
Bashful Jim (Graves)	Mack Sennett com.	Mar. 7	2,000
In Dutch	Terry cartoon	Mar. 7	1,000
Dog Days	Our Gang	Mar. 7	2,000
Percy (Charles Ray)	Typical dr.	Mar. 14	6,000
Should Husbands Be Watched	Comedy	Mar. 14	1,000
Hard Boiled (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 14	2,000
Jungle Bike Riders	Terry cartoon	Mar. 14	1,000
Excuse My Glove	Spat Family	Mar. 21	2,000
Giddap (Billy Bevan)	Comedy	Mar. 21	2,000
Traps and Troubles	Sportlight	Mar. 21	1,000
Pie Man	Terry cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Zowie!	Stereoskopik	Mar. 21	1,000
At the Zoo	Terry cartoon	Mar. 28	1,000
Is Marriage the Bunk? (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000
Plain Clothes (Langdon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Sailor Papa (Tryon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Breaking the Ice (Graves)	Comedy	Apr. 4	2,000
Love Bug	Our Gang	Apr. 4	2,000
Housing Shortage	Terry cartoon	Apr. 4	1,000
Marriage Circus (Turpin)	Sennett com.	April 11	2,000
Bad Boy (Chase)	Comedy	April 11	2,000
Are Husbands Human? (Findlayson)	Comedy	April 11	1,000

PRINCIPAL PICTURES

Listen Lester (all-star)	Comedy-drama	May 10	6,242
Daring Youth (Daniels)	Comedy-drama	May 17	5,975
Daughters of Pleasure (Prevost)	Drama	May 24	6,000
Masked Dancer (H. Chadwick)	Mystery drama	May 31	4,987
Good Bad Boy (Joe Butterworth)	Comedy-drama	June 7	5,198
Captain January (Baby Peggy)	Sea story	July 12	6,194
Helen's Babies (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-drama
Mine With Iron Door (all-star)	Adventure drama	Dec. 27	7,800
Re-Creation of Brian Kent	Drama	Mar. 14	6,878

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Love's Whirlpool (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	Mar. 22	6,605
Hoosier Schoolmaster (Hull)	Drama	Mar. 29	5,556
His Darker Self (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Apr. 5	5,000
Try and Get It (Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 12	5,607
Not One to Spare (all star)	Pathos dr.	Apr. 19	5,000
Wandering Husbands (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	May 10	6,300
Hold Your Breath (Devore)	Thrill com.	Jun. 7	5,900
Miami (Compson)	Drama	Jun. 14	6,317
Night Hawk (Carey)	Western	Jun. 14	5,115
Lightning Rider (Carey)	Western	Jun. 21	6,000
What Shall I Do? (Mackaill)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,000
Legend of Hollywood (Marmont)	Drama	Jan. 10	5,414
Wise Virgin (Miller)	Drama		5,951
Welcome Stranger (Vidor)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,618
Ramshackle House (Compson)	Comedy-dr.		6,257
Barbara Frietchie (Vidor)	Civ. War dr.	Oct. 11	7,179
Chalk Marks (M. Snow)	Drama
House of Youth (Logan)	Drama		6,669
Roaring Rails (Carey)	Railway dr.	Oct. 25	5,753
Another Scandal (Lois Wilson)	Sex theme	Nov. 1	7,000
Another Man's Wife (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama		5,015
Trouping With Ellen (H. Chadwick)	Comedy-dr.		6,452
Reckless Romance	Comedy feature	Nov. 22	5,530
Siren of Seville (Dean)	Drama	Nov. 29	6,724
Girl on the Stairs (Miller)	Comedy-dr.		6,214
Chorus Lady (Livingston)	Comedy-dr.	Feb. 21	6,020
Cafe in Cairo (Dean)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,656
Flaming Forties (Carey)	Western		5,770
The Mirage (Vidor)	Drama
Let Women Alone (O'Malley-Hawley)	Drama
Soft Shoes (Carey)	Western
Off the Highway (Logan)	Drama
Charley's Aunt (Syd Chaplin)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 21	7,243

B. P. SCHULBERG PROD.

Breath of Scandal (Blythe)	Society drama		6,940
White Man (Joyce)	Jungle romance	Nov. 22	6,370
Triflers (Busch-Mayo)	Paris soc. dr.	Dec. 27	6,626
Capital Punishment (Clara Bow)	Prison dr.	Jan. 24	5,950
Boomerang (Clara Bow)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 21	6,714
Parasite (Bellamy-Moore-Washburn)	Drama	Jan. 31	5,140
Mansion of Aching Hearts (all-star)	Melodrama	Mar. 14	6,147

UNITED ARTISTS

Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall (Pickford)	Romantic drama	May 17	9,351
America (Griffith prod.)	Historical drama	Mar. 8	11,442
Isn't Life Wonderful? (Dempster)	Realism	Dec. 13	8,000
Thief of Bagdad (D. Fairbanks)	Fantasy	Mar. 29	12,000
Salvation Hunters (Von Sternberg prod.)	Symbolical dr.	Feb 14	5,930
Waking Up the Town (J. Pickford-Shearer)	Comedy-dr.	April 11	4,892

UNIVERSAL

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Excitement (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 19	4,913
Storm Daughter (Dean)	Drama	Apr. 19	5,203
Racing Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Apr. 19	2,000
Forty Horse Hawkins (Gibson)	Western	Apr. 26	5,140
One Wet Night (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 26	1,000
Pretty Plungers (Follies Girls)	Century com.	Apr. 26	2,000
Riders Up (Hale)	Race drama	May 3	4,904
Politics (Summerville)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
Green Grocers (Dunn)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
A Lofty Marriage (Earle)	Comedy	May 3	2,000
Taxi, Taxi!	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Pigskin Hero (McCoy)	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Bulltosser (Lyons-Moran)	Reissue	May 10	1,000
Dangerous Blonde (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	May 17	4,919
Fast Steppers (New Series)	Race dr.	May 10	2,000
Ridgeway of Montana (Hoxie)	Western	May 17	4,843
My Little Brother (Summerville)	Comedy	May 17	1,000
The Lone Round-Up (Dougherty)	Short Western	May 17	2,000
The Signal Tower (Super-Jewel)	Drama	May 24	6,714
Tired Business Man (Alt-Follies Girls)	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Honor of Men (N. Hart re-issue)	Western	May 24	2,000
Reckless Age (Denny)	Drama	May 31	6,954
Fighting American (all star)	Drama	May 31	5,251
Case Dismissed (Summerville)	Comedy	May 31	1,000
Boss of the Bar-20 (Lawrence)	Western	May 31	2,000
Delivering the Goods (Pal)	Comedy	May 31	2,000
The Gaiety Girl (Philbin)	Drama	Jun. 7	7,419
High Speed (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 7	4,927
Fearless Fools (McCoy)	Century com.	Jun. 7	2,000
Rest in Pieces (Roach)	Comedy	Jun. 7	1,000
Powerful Eye (Morrison)	Short Western	Jun. 7	2,000
Sailor Maids (Follies Girls)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Winning a Bride (Ridgeway)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Family Secret (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-dr.	Jun. 21	5,076
Back Trail (Hoxie)	Western	Jun. 21	4,615
Fight and Win (Jack Dempsey)	Fight series	Jun. 21	..
Please Teacher (Messinger)	Comedy	Jun. 21	2,000
Miners Over 21 (Summerville)	Comedy	Jun. 21	1,000
Blue Wing's Revenge (Lawrence)	Western	Jun. 28	2,000
Dark Stairway (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 28	5,000
Iron Man (Albertini)	Serial	Jun. 28	...
Behind the Curtain (Bryson)	Drama	July 5	4,875
A Royal Pair	Century com.	July 5	2,000
Why Be Jealous? (Roach)	Comedy	July 5	1,000
Young Ideas (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	July 12	4,847
Her Fortunate Face	Century com.	July 12	2,000
Little Savage	Short Western	July 12	2,000
Sawdust Trail (Gibson)	Western	July 19	5,500
Cry Baby (Summerville)	Comedy	July 19	1,000
Starving Beauties (Wiley)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Flying Eagle (Lawrence)	Short Western	July 26	2,000
Patching Things Up (Roach)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Fighting Fury (Hoxie)	Western	Aug. 2	4,491
Kid Days (Snooky)	Comedy	Aug. 2	1,000
Her City Sport (Wiley)	Comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
The Gun Packer (Morrison)	Western	Aug. 2	2,000
Big Timber (Desmond)	Forest dr.	Aug. 9	4,650
Paging Money	Century com.	Aug. 9	2,000
King's Command (Lawrence)	Short Western	Aug. 9	2,000
Love and Glory (all star)	Drama	Aug. 16	7,084
Hit and Run (Gibson)	Baseball dr.	Aug. 16	5,504
Wolves of the North (Duncan)	Serial	Aug. 16	...
Wine (C. Bow)	Drama	Aug. 23	6,220
Hysterical History (Z Series)	Novelty	Aug. 23	1,000
Sagebush Vagabond	Western	Aug. 23	2,000
Butterfly (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 30	7,472
The Blow Out (Messinger)	Comedy	Aug. 30	2,000
K—The Unknown (Valli-Marmont)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,146
All's Swell on the Ocean (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
So This Is Paris (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
Scared Stiff	Century com.	Sep. 6	2,000
Mind the Baby (Pal)	Comdey	Sep. 13	2,000
College Cowboy	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
Traffic Jams (McCoy)	Comedy	Sep. 13	2,000
Tempest Cody Gets Her Man (Walcamp)	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
That's the Spirit (Roach)	Comedy	Sep. 13	1,000
Measure of a Man (Desmond)	Drama	Sep. 20	4,979
Fast Worker (Denny-LaPlante)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,506
Low Bridge (Messinger)	Comdey	Sep. 27	2,000
Game Hunter (Roach)	Comdey	Sep. 27	1,000
Between Fires	Western	Sep. 27	2,000
Rose of Paris (Philbin)	Drama	Oct. 4	6,362
Rip Van Winkle	Hysterical Hist.	Oct 4	1,000
Trouble Fixer	Century com.	Oct. 4	2,000
Western Wallop (Hoxie)	Ex-convict dr.	Oct. 11	4,611
Hello, Frisco (Summerville-Dunn)	Comedy	Oct. 11	1,000
Snappy Eyes (Wiley)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
An Eyeful (Sullivan)	Short drama	Oct —	—
Pocahontas & John Smith	Hysterical hist.	Oct. 18	1,000
What an Eye	Comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Ridin' Kid From Powder River (Gibson)	Western	Oct. 25	5,727
Riddle Rider (Desmond-Sedgwick)	Serial	Nov. 1
Robinson Crusoe	Hysterical hist.	Nov. 1	1,000
Some Tomboy (Wiley)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
The Tornado (H. Peters)	Melodrama	Nov. 15	6,375
Sweet Dreams	Century comedy	Nov. 15	2,000
Antony and Cleopatra	Gysterical History	Nov. 15	1,000
Speed, Boys (Trimble, Bobbles)	Century (kid)	Nov. 22	2,000
Oh, Doctor (R. Denny)	Comedy	Nov. 29	6,587
Omar Khayyan (Hysterical history)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Double Cross (Sullivan)	Drama	Nov. 29	2,000
Smouldering Fires (Frederick-LaPlante)	Drama	Dec. 13	7,356
Hurricane Kid (Gibson)	Western	Jan. 3	5,296
Secrets of the Night (Kirkwood-Bellamy)	Drama	Dec. 20	6 138
Mad Whirl (May MacAvoy)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27	6,184
Saddle Hawk (Gibson)	Western dr.	Mar. 7	4,419
Eyes of Fools (Rubens-Marmont)	Society dr.	Jan. 24	6 581
Fifth Avenue Models (Mary Philbin)	Drama		5,922
Up The Ladder (Valli)	Drama	Jan. 31
Let 'Er Back (Gibson)	Western	Jan 3	5,900
Dangerous Innocence (LaPlante-O'Brien)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,759
Man in Blue (Rawlinson-Bellamy)	Drama	Feb. 28	5,624
Taming the West (Gibson)	Western	Feb. 28	5,304
Paul Revere	Hysterical histy	Dec. 20	1,000
Border Maid (Ed Cobb)	Drama	Dec. 20	2,000
Family Row (Messinger)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2,000
Present Arms (Wiley)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Red Age (Sullivan)	Drama	Jan. 3	2,000
Ponce de Leon	Hysterical history	Jan 3	1,000
Prehistoric Man	Hystetical history	Jan. 3	1,000

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Sign of the Cactus (Hoxie)	Western	Jan. 10	4,538
Ridin' Pretty (Desmond-Forrest)	Western com.-dr.	Jan. 17	4,812
Looking Down (Wiley)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Aggravatin' Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Pistol Point Proposal (Eddie Polo)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Whip Hand (Billy Sullivan)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Rembrandt	Hysterical histy.	Jan. 31	1,000
Last Laugh (Emil Jannings)	Human drama	Feb. 7	6,500
Fighting Ranger (Sedgwick-Daugherty)	Serial	Feb. 7
Roaring Adventure (Jack Hoxie)	Western	Feb. 14	4,800
Sir Walter Raleigh	Hysterical Histy.	Feb. 14	1,000
Taming the East (Messinger)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Tempest Cody's Man Hunt (Walcamp)	Western series	Feb. 21	2,000
Seeing Red (Billy Sullivan)	Cowboy drama	Feb. 21	2,000
Lost Chord (Bert Roach)	Comedy	Feb. 21	1,000
Nobody's Sweetheart (Wanda Wiley)	Century comedy	Feb. 21	2,000
Itching for Revenge (Eddie Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Kicked About (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Puzzled by Crosswords (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Olympic Games	Hysterical histy.	Mar. 14	1,000
Dangerous Peach (Al Alt)	Century com.	Mar. 14	2,000
Don't Worry (Wanda Wiley)	Century com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Cowpuncher's Comeback	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Storm King	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Both Barrels	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Girl Problem	Sweet 16 com.	Mar. 21	1,000
Headwinds (H. Peters-Patsy R. Miller)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,486
Fighting Terror (Sullivan)	Mustang westn.	Mar. 28	2,000
Powdered Chickens (Edna Marian)	Century com.	Mar. 28	2,000
Tenting Out (Neely Edwards)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000
Burning Trail (Wm. Desmond)	Western	April 11	4,783
Loaded Dice (Ed. Cobb)	Mustang western	April 11	2,000
Papa's Pet (Roach-Edwards-Howell)	Bulls-eye com.	April 11	1,000
Putting On Airs (Edna Marian)	Century comedy	April 11	2,000
Smoked Out	Bulls-eye com.	April 11	1,000

VITAGRAPH

Virtuous Liars (Allen-Powell)	Society dr.	Apr. 19	5,650
One Law For The Woman (Landis)	Mining camp		6,000
Code of the Wilderness (Bowers-Calhoun)	Modern west.	July 12	6,480
Behold This Woman (Rich)	Movie romance	Aug. 2	6,425
Captain Blood (Star Cast)	Sabatini romance	Sep. 20	10,680
Clean Heart or Cruelties of Life	Modern dr.	Sep. 27	7,950
Greater Than Marriage (Tellegen-Daw)	Theatre dr.
Beloved Brute (De La Motte)	Melodrama	Nov. 22	6,719
Two Shall Be Born (Novak-Harlan)	Drama
Pampered Youth (Landis-Calhoun)	Drama	Feb. 21	6,640
Redeeming Sin (Nazimova-Tellegen)	Apache dr.	Jan. 31	6,227
Barree, Son of Kazan	Special
Fearbound (Daw-Welch)	Melodrama	Feb. 14	5,700
Steele of Royal Mounted	Special
In the Garden of Charity	Special
Happy Warrior	Special
Alibi	Special
Road That Led Home	Special
Unknown Story	Special
School for Wives (Tearle-Holmquiest)	Drama	April 11	6,182

WARNER BROTHERS

George Washington, Jr. (Barry)	Comedy-drama	Mar. 22	5,674
Daddies (Belasco)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,228
Conductor 1492 (Hines)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,080
Beau Brummel (J. Barrymore)	Romantic drama	Apr. 12	10,930
Broadway After Dark (Menjou)	Comedy-drama	May 31	7,019
Babbitt (all-star)	Character drama	July 1	7,900
Being Respectable (all-star)	Society drama	Aug. 16	6,040
How to Educate a Wife (star cast)	Society drama		6,000
Her Marriage Vow (all-star)	Society drama		7,100
Cornered (all-star)	Society drama		7,300
Lovers' Lane (all-star)	Character drama	Nov. 29	5,100
Tenth Woman (all-star)	Society drama		6,250
Find Your Man (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Oct. 4	7,300
This Woman (Rich)	Society drama	Nov. 1	7,100
Lover of Camille (all-star)	Romantic drama	Nov. 29	7,180
Dark Swan (Prevost-Blue-Chadwick)	Drama	Dec. 6	6,800
Narrow Street (D. Devore-Matt Moore)	Light comedy	Jan. 17	6,700
Lighthouse by the Sea (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	6,700
Lost Lady (Irene Rich)	Social drama	Feb. 7	6,700
Broadway Butterfly (Devore-Landis)	Broadway dr.		7,705
On Thin Ice (Moore-Roberts)	Crook drama		7,298
Man Without a Conscience (Rich-Lewis)	Drama		6,850
Recompense (Prevost-Blue)	Society drama		7,480
My Wife and I (Irene Rich)	Domestic dr.		6,700
On Thin Ice (T. Moore-Edith Roberts)	Drama	Mar. 21	7,046
Bridge of Sighs (Dorothy MacKaill)	Pathos dr.	Apr. 4	6,694

MISCELLANEOUS

ARTCLASS PICTURES CORP.

Rough Ridin' (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Apr. 26	4,670
Rarin' to Go (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Aug. 2	5,000
Battling Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 13	4,000
Biff Bang Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 20	4,500
Fast and Fearless (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 27	4,500
Walloping Wallace (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill western	Oct. 11	4,700
Hard Hittin' Hamilton (Buf. Bill, Jr.)	Thrill western	Oct. 18	5.000
Gold and Grit (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	April 11	4,650
Bringing Home the Bacon (Buffalo Bill)	Thrill dr.		4.650
After Six Days	Biblical spec.		10,000
Woman Who Believed (Ann Luther)			5,700
Deerslayer (J. W. Kerrigan)			5,000
On the Go (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Western	Apr. 4	4,825

BANNER PRODUCTIONS

Truth About Women (Hampton)	Society drama	Review.	Feet
Man Without a Heart (Harlan)	Society drama		6,000
Those Who Judge (P. R. Miller)	Society melo.		5,700
Daughters Who Pay (all-star)	Society drama		5,800
Empty Hearts (all-star)	Society drama		5,860

Kind of Picture Oct. 25.. 5,600

C. B. C.

Battling Fool (R. Fairbanks)	Prize fight		4,975
Foolish Virgin (E. Hammerstein)	Social drama		5,900
Price She Paid (A. Rubens)	Marriage dr.		5,987
Fight for Honor (Fairbanks-Novak)	Railroad dr.		4,570
Midnight Express (Hammerstein)	Railroad melo.	Dec. 6	5,967

C. C. BURR

Speed Spook (J. Hines)	Thrill drama	Aug. 30	6,000
Average Woman (Pauline Garon)	Drama	Feb. 9	6,400
Lend Me Your Husband (Kenyon)	Drama		6,700
Youth for Sale (S. Holmquist)	Drama	Oct. 18	6,500
The Early Bird (Hines)	Comedy	Dec. 27	7,000
Cracker Jack (Johnny Hines)	Drama		6,500

CHADWICK PICTURES CORP.

Fire Patrol (all-star)	Melo. of Sea	May 24	6,600
Meddling Women (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Oct. 18	6,400
Painted Flapper (all-star)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,600
I Am the Man (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Nov. 1	7,600
Flattery (Bowers)	Political dr.	Nov. 8	6,000
Tomboy (Devore-Rawlinson)	Melodramatic com.	Jan. 3	6,000
Midnight Girl (Lila Lee)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,300

CRANFIELD & CLARKE

Lily of the Alley (Chrissie White)	Slum drama		6,289
Strangling Threads (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,410
A Soul's Awakening (LeBreton)	Slum drama		5,597
Speak No Evil (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,500
Comin' Thru The Rye (all-star)	Romantic dr.		6,500

DAVIS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Tales of 1,001 Nights (French Cast)	Arabian Nights	Feb. 14	[illegible]

J. J. FLEMING PROD.

Shackles of Fear (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Trail of Vengeance (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000
Phantom Shadows (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Scarlet and Gold (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000

FRENCH SUBJECT

(American Distributor not announced)

Miracle of the Wolves	Historical dr.	Mar. 7	10,246

GERSON PICTURES CORP.

Too Much Youth (Richard Holt)	Modern drama	Feb. 21	4,800

INDEPENDENT PICTURES CORP.

Border Justice (Bill Cody)	Western dr.	Nov. 8	5,482
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Bootlegging dr.	Nov. 29	4,960
Bill Cody series of eight	Stunt dramas
Baffled (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,940
Bandit Tamer (E. Farnum)	Comedy west.		5,240
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		4,980
Billy, The Kid (F. Farnum)	Western		4,790
Blood and Steel (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		5,000
Calibre 45 (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,950
Courage (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		5,020
In Spider's Web (Alice Dean)	Melodrama		6,000
Moonshine (B Cody)	Western		4,988
Drug-Store Cowboy (F. Farnum)	Western com.-dr.	Feb. 7	4,356

RAYART

Battling Brewster (Farnum)	15 ep. ser.		6,067
Easy Money (All-Star)	Drama
Butterfly Comedies (Gloria Joy)
Super Speed (Reed Howes)	Automobile com.-dr.	Feb. 7	5,227
Geared to Go (Howes)	Drama		5,117
Right Man (Larkin)	Drama		4,571
Winning a Woman (Perrin-Hill)	Drama		4,865
Getting 'Em Right (Larkin)	Drama		4,669
Snob Buster (Howes)	Drama
Quick Change (Larkin)	Drama
Youths Gamble (Howes)	Drama
Double Fister (Perrin)	Drama

RED SEAL PICTURES CORP.

Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
Should a Husband Tell (Gem of Screen)	Gems of screen	Nov. 22	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Nov. 22	2,000
League of Nations (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
The Cure (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Dec. 13	1,000
Zoo's Who's Who (Gem of Screen)	Novelty	Dec. 27	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Jan. 10	1,000
Marvels of Motion (Issue B)	Slow motion nov.	Jan. 17	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Jan. 24	300
Cartoon Factory	Cartoon nov.	Jan. 24	1,000
Mother Goose Land	Cartoon	Jan. 24	1,000
Storm (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Mar. 21	1,00
Do You Remember	Scenic novelty	Mar. 21	1,00
Animated Hair (Issues R and UU)	Marcus cartoon	Mar. 28	300
Film Facts (Issue D)	Magazine	Mar. 28	1,000
Ko-Ko the Barber (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon novelty	Mar. 28	1,000
Day With the Gypsies	Screen Gem	April 11	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoon F	Novelty	April 11	[illegible]

RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

Passing of Wolf MacLean (All-Star)	Western melo.	Nov. 29	4,712
Courageous Coward (Jack Meehan)	Western	Dec. 6	4,052

WM. STEINER PROD.

Poison (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 13	5,600
Turned Up (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 27	4,900
Riding Double (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,008
Tucker's Top Hand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,618
Rainbow Rangers (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,982
Perfect Alibi (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,108
Left Hand Brand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,884
Pot Luck Pards (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,987
Virtue's Revolt (Thornton)	Stage melodrama	Oct. 11	5,173
On Probation (Edith Thornton)	Drama	Dec. 13	5,000
Across the Dead Line	Western		5,000
Always Ridin' to Win	Western		5,000
Hidden Menace	Stunt dr.		5,000
Branded a Thief	Western		5,060
Verdict of the Desert	Western		4,745
Valley of Vanishing Men	Western		4,482
Trouble Buster (Leo Maloney)	Western	Feb. 21	5,000

PROJECTION

EDITED BY F. H. RICHARDSON

From an Exhibitor

The following letter was followed by a P. S. stating that it was "not for publication, but only to encourage you in your work, and to let you know that some of us appreciate it, even though we may neglect to tell you about it."

I wrote friend Bush who, together with G. A. Bush, owns and operates the Superba and the Broadway Strand at San Diego; the Silver Strand at Coronado, and the Vista Theatre at East San Diego, asking permission to publish the letter, which in due time was received, though I think Bush would have rather it were not done.

I believe the publication of letters of this sort from exhibitors is of a very real importance. I believe many exhibitors do read the department, and even study it and the Bluebook, though they seldom make that part known. The net result is that projectionists believe hard work and study don't pay, because the exhibitor doesn't care. By this I mean that many of the men think this indifference on the part of the exhibitor is general, and that the one who places any value at all upon skill and knowledge on their part is very much of an exception.

Exhibitors Awakening

That this is evenly and exactly true of many exhibitors is unquestionably true, BUT it also is true that more and more exhibitors are awakening to at least some knowledge of the box office value of skill, knowledge and energy as applied to projection, and IF THESE MEN MADE THAT FACT KNOWN IT WOULD HAVE THE DIRECT EFFECT OF STIMULATING PROJECTIONISTS TO REAL EFFORT TO IMPROVE.

It is true that some exhibitors fear to do this because they fear that the projectionist will get "swelled up," and demand more money. Can you imagine anything more utterly foolish? On that theory we ought to discourage the production of better pictures, because they always cost more money. Better seats, ventilation, decorations, etc., all cost more money. Why center opposition on projection? Bush says:

My Dear Mr. Richardson: Possibly you have some faint recollection of your visit to San Diego some seven or eight years ago, on which occasion you were the guest of myself and two or three of the members of the San Diego local on an auto trip through Coronado and to Tiajuana, Mexico. At that time I had only been in the exhibiting business for about a year, and of course knew very little about projection, or operating as we called it then. Your lecture given here at that time, however, gave me the first inkling as to the importance of experience and study in that department of the business, and I have been a reader of your department and student of your books ever since.

Improvement

The wonderful improvement in your department during the past year or so is the reason for this letter, as I feel it is the least an interested exhibitor can do to express to you our appreciation for your untiring effort in trying to awaken the projectionists of this country to the importance of study and individual effort towards perfecting themselves in the art of motion picture projection. Your Blue Book school has undoubtedly been a big step in this direction. In fact, to my mind it is the thing which promises to wake up the worth while men to the absolute necessity of improvement.

Bluebook School

Question No. 261—Explain what is meant by "polarity." Use a few words and let us know just what your understanding of it is.

Question No. 262—Explain the difference between a volt and an ampere. To what does each correspond as compared to water, gas, etc.?

Question No. 263—Explain how power is stored up, using steam, a spring and electricity as examples.

Question No. 264—Can you see or feel electricity? Explain your answer.

Question No. 265—Has the positive or negative wire of a generator or battery any affinity for anything else except a conductor of opposite polarity attached to the same generator or battery?

Your article and cuts in the issue of Dec. 13 on Film Damage are of extreme interest, and I wish it could be brought to the direct attention of every exhibitor in the country, because I feel that it will be necessary to interest the smaller exhibitors of the country in the matter of proper upkeep and care of their projection machines before general results can be obtained.

"Pink Slips"

I note with interest your article in the same issue referring to the "pink slips" sent out in the film cases. My men all have standing instructions to prepare cue sheets for change-over signals, and in addition to take out or paste over all punch marks and scratches. When the pink slip was brought to my attention I instructed them to disregard both the pink sheets and any make-shift change over or reel end signals attached to the reels, and to continue preparing cue sheets as before.

We find that we can nearly always be assured of good film from the two or three exchanges which maintain adequate inspection departments, while from the others it is necessary to obtain bookings while the picture is new in order to secure acceptable prints. Even then it is often necessary to take out several feet of punch marks, scratches and poor splices before an acceptable show can be projected. The enclosed sample splice is perhaps not as dangerous as many others, but it is the only one I have on hand at present.

Opposed to High Speed

I have always been opposed to high projection speed, and have consistently refused to book more film than could be run in the regular show time without excessive speed. I find, however, that our projection speed is gradually increasing, due to a number of causes. In the first place, I believe that many directors maintain a higher camera speed than was formerly customary, thus increasing the footage of the picture, and also making it necessary to project at an increased speed in order to produce normal action on the screen. The increased footage of the majority of feature pictures today also makes it necessary to project at an increased speed in order to make room for the comedy and short reel or reels which are necessary to make a complete show. However, in arranging bookings, I try to arrange the footage so as not to exceed a speed of 85 feet per minute in any event, and I try to strike an average of around 80 feet. I understand that in many of the large key cities houses it is the custom to project at speeds running from 90 to over 100 feet per minute. I have seen pictures projected in some of the large Los Angeles theatres which I am sure were running better than 95 feet per minute.

Confers With Men

I make it a rule to visit my projection rooms frequently, talk over conditions with the men, and am always ready to supply them with all parts and supplies necessary to secure good projection. We are using the B. & L. Cinephor condensor systems with both D. C. Arcs and Mazda equipment, and find that they both improve the picture on the screen, and in the case of the arc lamp, effect a considerable saving in current cost.

I trust that you will find it possible to visit California and San Diego again before too long a time passes. You will see many changes and improvements, and I believe will be given a right royal reception. In closing I can only say again, thank you for the good work you are doing, and keep it up.

Don't

Sam Mitchell, Itta Bena, Mississippi, says:

Noticed an article in the projection department descriptive of an electric change-over signal. When I took charge of projection here I immediately saw the need for such a signal. Started experimenting and have evolved one which fills the bill. It gives two signals, each at the proper time. It does not have to be moved out of the way to thread the projector. It is in no manner grounded to the projector.

I want to know would other projectionists be interested in this? Also would a successful electrical change-over signal have sufficient value to justify cost of a patent?

As to the latter, I don't know, Brother Mitchell, but there have been about fifty of them invented, and none have made their inventor anything, so I think the patent value is at least extremely doubtful.

Yes, projectionists would be interested. Why not send description and drawings for publication in the department?

SPECIAL
ROLL
TICKETS

Your own special Ticket, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon Tickets for Prize Drawings; 5,000 for $7.00. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated All tickets must conform to Government regulation and bear established price of admission and tax paid.

SPECIAL TICKET PRICES

Five Thousand	$3.50
Ten Thousand	6.00
Fifteen Thousand	7.00
Twenty-five Thousand	9.00
Fifty Thousand	12.50
One Hundred Thousand	18.00

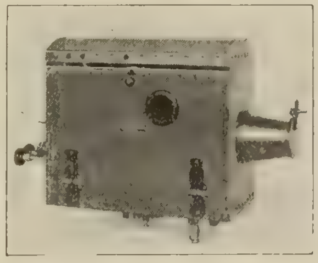
National Ticket Co. Shamokin, Pa.

"You want
Phelco!"

Smooth and quiet burning
Bright light
Steady arc
Slow burning rate
Long Condenser life

Charles W. Phellis & Co.
Incorporated
130 West 42nd Street New York
For Canada: Keystone Trading Co., Ltd.,
10 Ste. Sophie Lane, Montreal

SAVE TWO-THIRDS ON CURRENT, 25% ON CARBONS AND GET MUCH BETTER SCREEN ILLUMINATION WITH THE PREDDEY REFLECTOR ARCLAMP.



For any make of Machine. Automatic feed type, $300. Hand feed type, $200. Write for Bulletin. Two of these Lamps may be burned at one time on Rectifier or Small Generator.

Has many valuable features not found in other makes.

WALTER G. PREDDEY
187 Golden Gate Ave. San Francisco, Calif.

ROLL—Machine—Coupon
TICKETS

QUALITY—Second to none!
SERVICE Unexcelled—our
LOWEST PRICES will be mailed to you on request.

State your requirements by mail—Today!

TRIMOUNT PRESS
LARGEST AMUSEMENT TICKET PRINTERS IN NEW ENGLAND FOR 17 YEARS.
119 ALBANY ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Projection Room Expense

At the last meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, held at Chicago, the editor of this department read the following paper. I am printing it here in order to enable projectionists and UNIONS who may wish to place it before theatre managers and exhibitors to do so. It is titled:

THE PROJECTION ROOM EXPENSE ACCOUNT

By F. H. RICHARDSON

"In various papers presented to this society by the writer during past years, the fact has been emphasized that every operation in the production of a photoplay must perforce depend very largely for its effect upon the final buyer, the public, upon the manner in which it is projected to the theatre screen.

"For many years I have labored hard in the endeavor to impress upon this society, and upon the motion picture industry as a whole, the fact that ANYTHING WHICH CAUSES THE PHOTOPLAY TO BE LESS PLEASING TO THE THEATRE PATRON, MUST AND IN THE VERY NATURE OF THINGS WILL RE-ACT TO DECREASE BOX OFFICE RECEIPTS.

"That fact is now, I believe, thoroughly understood by this society, and by a constantly increasing number of exhibitors, as well as by most producers. There still is, however, a very large percentage of exhibitors and theatre managers who apparently still have a fixed idea that excellence in projection means either very little or nothing at all to the box office, and still others who do not believe that high grade projection is of sufficient importance to justify the added expenditure necessary to obtain it.

Box Office Returns

"To argue with the men here present that a photoplay well projected is more pleasing and therefore has a higher box office income value than one not well projected, would be a mere waste of energy, because you all understand that fact. I believe you will all grant, as a basic proposition, that in order to secure the greatest possible box office return, a theatre must continuously and consistently present its pictures through the medium of high grade projection. If you do concede this, then immediately we are confronted with two questions, viz: (a) what various things are necessary in order that a theatre present uniformly high grade projection, and (b) what amount of expense over and above the possible minimum is the exhibitor justified in expending in order to secure it.

"Let it be clearly understood that by "High Grade Projection" we mean projection which will place upon the screen the highest possible entertainment value contained in any photoplay. Also we should understand that in this paper we deal only with projection itself, and not with those various other things which have to do with the show as a whole, such as music, screen setting, theatre decoration, seating, ventilation, etc., etc.

Matter of Cost

"Fix the fact clearly in your mind that projection, in all its grades, from the poorest to the best, is wholly a matter of cost. Any theatre may have projection which will place upon its screen the maximum entertainment value, contained in any photoplay provided it is willing to pay the cost. This being true, the whole matter then resolves itself into a question of just to what extent added cost in projection will bring additional box office returns.

"As a foundation for our discussion, I think we will all agree that projection room expense may only properly be increased above the possible minimum, when such increase will cause the box office to receive additional revenue, due to increased patronage caused by the increased excellence of the thing the theatre patron pays to see—the picture—equal to or in excess of the additional expense incurred. Unless there is additional box office revenue which the exhibitor has reason to believe is due to improvement in the projected screen image, then the exhibitor very naturally and very properly does not feel that increase in projection room expense over and above the possible minimum is justified. As a business man he will only invest money where he has reason to believe the investment will be returned to him, plus a reasonable profit.

Purpose of Paper

"The purpose of this paper is to examine into the matter of projection room expense, seeking to determine, as nearly as we may, just what investment, over and above the possible minimum, is or ought to be justified from the standpoint of increased box office revenue.

"Broadly, there are two possible extremes, viz: (a) the well constructed, well ventilated, properly located projection room, supplied with all necessary high grade projection equipment, and those conveniences necessary to the health and reasonable comfort of the men working therein, the equipment in charge of a projectionist or projectionists possessed of the technical knowledge necessary to the efficient, high grade projection of motion pictures, and with sufficient practical experience and energy to apply that knowledge intelligently.

"Such a projection plant is expensive in first cost; also it is relatively expensive in operation, because of the fact that the high grade projectionist commands relatively high remuneration, and will only consent to handle equipment which is kept in good repair. In location for the projection room what is correct from the projection viewpoint is not always available without some sacrifice in seating space.

Other Extreme

"The other extreme is the small, cheaply constructed, poorly located, poorly ventilated projection room, without sanitary and other conveniences for the comfort of the men working therein, equipped with the cheapest possible machinery and optical appliances, the whole in charge of a projectionist possessed of slight technical knowledge and little energy or ambition to excell, or to even apply the knowledge he does possess in practice.

"Such an assemblage comes cheap, insofar as first cost and upkeep be concerned, but an ever increasing number of theatre managers and exhibitors are arriving at the conclusion, through costly experience, that first cost and upkeep are the only things in which it is not very expensive.

"Let us now make detailed examination of projection room expense, with view of determining as nearly as may be just what expenditures represent good practice, and what ones do not, taking the probable effect upon box office receipts as our guide.

"Naturally the first items for consideration are location, size and general construction, which we will consider in their order. It would be difficult, if not impossible, to offer anything in the way of tangible proof as to the beneficial effect of a projectionally correct projection room location. We shall therefore merely consider this item in the light of plain common sense.

Planning

"When planning a motion picture theatre, the architect may be governed by either one or two possible considerations in the matter of projection room location, (a) He may select a location where a room, commodious or otherwise, may be constructed at a minimum of trouble and expense, without marring the symmetry of the auditorium, or sacrificing seating capacity in any degree, but without regard to the amount of picture distortion such location will cause, or to what extent such location will involve inefficiency in the optical trains of the projectors. (b) He may select a location which will involve increased cost in contruction, may mar the symmetry of the auditorium to some extent, or may involve a sacrifice in seating capacity, or may involve all three of these things. On the other hand this latter location will enable the projection of an undistorted picture, and the use of efficient projector optical systems.

"Considering first the matter of picture distortion, while it is not possible to offer absolute proof that picture distortion operates to the detriment of box office receipts, still some things appeal to our common sense to such an extent that actual visible proof is non-essential to their acceptance by the mind. Ask yourself this question: IF A DISTORTED AND AN UNDISTORTED MOTION PICTURE WERE PLACED SIDE BY SIDE, WHICH ONE WOULD I LIKE BEST? WHICH WOULD BE THE MORE PLEASING.

Logic

"Does your mind not instantly and automatically respond with: "Why, the undistorted one of course." If it does, then ask yourself this further question: WILL NOT ANYTHING WHICH OPERATES TO MAKE MORE PLEASING THE THING THE PUBLIC PAYS TO SEE, AUTOMATICALLY OPERATE TO INCREASE BOX OFFICE RECEIPTS? If an affirmative is your immediate mental reaction to that query, then, without tangible proof, the case in nevertheless proven to you, and the only remaining question is just to what extent seating may be sacrificed, and extra expense may be incurred in order to secure a projection room location which will permit of the projection of an undistorted picture.

"In my opinion it is always possible to so plan a theatre that the projection room may be properly located, with either no picture distortion at all, or only the permissible five per cent. increase in picture height, without any serious sacrifice in seating space, and without appreciably detracting from the symmetry of the auditorium, provided the architect first consider the requirements of projection and plan the theatre in accordance therewith. There may be some additional expense involved in construction, and in securing proper ventilation of the room, but I believe we may safely assume that this moderate increase will be returned to the box office in a comparatively short while, by reason of the improved appearance of the undistorted picture over the distorted one.

Another Factor

"Another factor which adds potency to our argument for additional expense in properly locating the projection room is the fact that, as a rule, the location which produces distortion is the up-high, away-back one, and this automatically compels the use of a long focal length projection lens, which is in itself inefficient, unless an expensive condenser be used, and may even be inefficient with such a condenser. Briefly this is because of inability of the lens to pick up the entire light beam, and the necessity for a large diameter projection lens, which has comparatively slight depth of focus, and which compels the use of a very wide rotating shutter master blade. These things mean waste of light, and if the distortion be heavy the stopping down of the projection lens diameter to secure added depth of focus, which in turn adds very greatly to the light loss. Also the wide rotating shutter master blade sets up additional flicker tendency, which operates to compel an otherwise unnecessarily high projection speed, which may work very serious injury to some parts of the photoplay.

"Without further argument, I think we may conclude that additional expense in securing a proper projection room location is even more than fully justified.

The Room Itself

"The next consideration in projection room expense is the maximum and minimum amount which may be expended upon its construction. We may have a very small room—one just barely large enough to house the necessary equipment—and it may be constructed very cheaply, in which latter event it will probably be neither thoroughly fire proof nor to any considerable extent sound proof. On the other hand we may have a fairly commodious room, so constructed that it would be thoroughly fire proof and pretty nearly sound proof as well.

"I think we may all agree, without argument, that the expense incurred in erecting a thoroughly fireproof, and as nearly as possible a sound proof projection room is always entirely justifiable. Some of the many reasons why this is so are that such a room gives adequate protection to the theatre patron from fire danger, and prevents the annoyance caused by sounds from the projection room reaching the audience.

The Old Days

"How many of you have, especially in the olden days, sat through an entire show with the annoying hum of a transformer, or the clicking rumble of a noisy projector intermittent movement sounding in your ears, distracting your attention from the screen, the annoyance entirely due to a poorly constructed projection room. Would you not have immediately agreed that money expended to so construct the projection room that the source of irritation would be eliminated, would make the theatre decidedly more attractive, and thus tend to increase box office revenues?

"Expense incurred in the building of a commodious projection room, when space is available, you may or may not consider justifiable in the sense that it will operate to increase box office revenue. You will decide this question largely according to whether or no you believe men will produce uniformly better results when working in reasonably comfortable quarters, than when confined in cramped, crowded working space.

"In considering this item remember that in the great majority of theatres the projectionist must remain constantly in the projection room from two to six hours. Is it not at least reasonable to assume that after any considerable time in the semi-darkness of a room in which there is no space in which to move about, a man will become mentally weary, and in consequence more or less prone to carelessness? His reaction is likely to be: "If they want high grade work, why don't they supply a decent place for us to work in!" It requires no effort of the brain to understand that such a state of mind is very likely to react detrimentally to the screen, and therefore to the box office. I believe you will agree with me that a reasonable amount of money expended in erecting a projection room of sufficient size to allow freedom of movement, or at least sufficient space to move around the equipment conveniently, will tend to improve the projection of the picture, and therefore will justify itself at the box office.

Sanitary Equipment

"As to sanitary equipment—toilet and wash basin with running water—their lack tends to make the men uncomfortable, and therefore inclined to carelessness, with injury to screen results and to the machinery. Aside from health reasons, their cost is more than justified. I feel that it is not necessary to argue so obvious a thing.

"We now arrive at the consideration of things concerning which it is possible to offer more definite proof, and arrive at perhaps somewhat more definite conclusions, viz: Projection room equipment (machinery, etc.) and its upkeep, lack of adequate consideration of which has, in my opinion, cost the motion picture industry hundreds of millions of dollars in the past, both in damage to films and loss of revenue directly due to resultant injury to screen results.

"We still are treated to the occasional spectacle of an exhibitor investing tens of thousands of dollars in erecting a really fine theatre building, and other thousands in equipping it with expensive comfortable seats, a costly organ, an elaborate ventilating system, beautiful decorations, expensive carpeting for aisles and foyer, and then looking around for a good, CHEAP second hand motor generator, and two good CHEAP second hand projectors.

Cheap!

"Not long ago an exhibitor in the middle western states wrote me saying he had built a theatre at the cost of $32,000.00 and was then installing furnishings, etc., at an additional cost of $5,000.00 The theatre was scheduled to open just seventeen days from the date that I received the letter. "COULD I TELL HIM WHERE HE COULD SECURE A SECOND HAND MOTOR GENERATOR SET, AND TWO GOOD SECOND HAND PROJECTORS, CHEAP?" I replied, advising him to secure a second hand DeVry, which would be much cheaper than a professional projector, and he would then require no motor generator. He would only need one, since doubtless his audience would not mind waiting while the boy—for surely since a boy would be cheaper than a man, he would not employ a man for, to him, such an apparently unimportant item as projection—changed reels, provided he ran an explanatory slide. I heard no more from him. I did not care to. I relate this incident to this society merely as illustrative of the amazing unintelligence with which the motion picture industry still has to contend.

"Let us now consider the matter of whether the exhibitor is justified in replacing old projectors with new, up-to-date ones. Let us assume that in a certain theatre the admission price averages twenty-five cents for all seats, and that there are a total of 700 seats. Let us further assume that this theatre gives four shows each day, in which case it has a total of 700 x 4 = 2800 seats for sale each twenty-four hours.

"Good Service"

"This theatre has, we will suppose, two motion picture projectors which are old type and badly worn, and a motor generator set which is well past its prime of usefulness. The management claims it cannot afford to replace these machines with new equipment so long as they are "giving good service." Let us examine into that matter, in the light of reason and common sense, carefully remembering that "Good Service" is a relative term only.

"Let us assume that two new, up-to-date projectors would cost him in round numbers, a total of $1,600.00. Let us further assume that the new projectors will last only three years, at the end of which time they would be without further value. In other words the management will, after three years of use, throw the projectors in the scrap heap as having no further value.

"This means that the management will have $1,600.00 invested in projectors for a period of three years, and that these projectors must not only earn an additional $1,600.00, plus $512.00 as interest at eight per cent on the investment, in order to clear themselves, but must return an additional sum over above that, as profit, in order to justify their installation.

"During the three years the projectors must return a total of $2,112.00 in added box office receipts in order to pay for themselves, and in addition pay eight per cent. interest on their costs.

Examine Facts

"This seems quite a large sum of money until we examine the facts. The average price of seats in this theatre is, we have assumed, twenty-five cents. There are (365 x 3) 1095 days in three years, hence it will require an average increase in daily income equal to (211200 cents ÷ 1095 days) about 192½ cents to pay the total cost of the projectors and interest on the money. Remembering that if the theatre is an average

WHY PAY MORE?
Roll Tickets
Your Own Special Wording
100,000 for $15.50
10,000 for $4.50, 20,000 for $7.50
50,000 for $10.00
Standard Rolls of 2,000
KEYSTONE TICKET CO.
Dept. W. SHAMOKIN, PA.
The Union Label if you want it
Have been printing Roll Tickets for 10 years and no better can be had at any price.

WELDED WIRE REELS
For Sale by
Howells Cine Equipment Co.,
740 7th Ave., New York

one it will have an average of at least 800 of the total 2,800 seats unsold each day. Will any man contend that new up-to-date projectors will not, with the application of the same skill and knowledge the old ones received, give a sufficiently better projection to cause enough additional patronage to fill MORE than eight of those unsold seats? If this appeals to your mind as sound argument, then we may decide that projection room expense for replacing the projectors once every three years is fully justified.

"This same argument applies to upkeep in the shape of repairs for the projectors. It may be presumed that, taking theatres big and little, one hundred dollars a year will be ample to keep the projectors in very good condition, but to be liberal let us set the sum at $150.00 per year. This is less than fifty cents per day, and surely projectors in good repair will put a sufficiently improved projection on the screen as against projectors in poor repair, to increase patronage by the sale of two additional seats a day. To think otherwise would, it seems to me, be to pay the public a very poor compliment.

Motor Generators

"In the matter of motor generators, the same general argument applies, except that the loss in their case may be that of an entire show, with a crowded house, because of a break down of the old, decrepit motor generator. One stoppage may cost more than enough to pay interest on the investment in a new machine for many years. In large theatres it may equal the price of a new generator.

"IMPORTANT: REMEMBER THAT IN CONSIDERING SUCH MATTERS WE ARE NOT MERELY EXAMINING THE PROBABLE EFFECT UPON THE INDIVIDUAL SHOW, BUT THE EFFECT ON THE BOX OFFICE OVER AN EXTENDED PERIOD.

"Our whole argument is based upon the assumption that the public will, other things being equal, prefer the theatre where they may see a perfectly projected picture—that they will patronize such a theatre in preference to one in which the projection is poor. To make the matter unmistakably clear let us consider two adjoining theatres, one of which is known to have perfect projection and the other a projection less excellent. Our claim is that the theatre with the better projection will have the better patronage, except when the one with less excellent projection has an attraction of greater drawing power, nor does the possible difference in drawing power of attractions in any degree invalidate or detract from the potency of our argument.

Light Source

"As regards the amount of expense it is advisable to incur in the use of electric energy in the endeavor to place a satisfactory picture upon the theatre screen, or the type of light source it is advisable to employ—high intensity arc, ordinary arc, mazda or reflector type arc—it is difficult to make even an intelligent guess, because of the fact that so very much depends upon the conditions encountered in each individual installation. All we may say with confidence is that any expense incurred in improving the light source in a way which will place upon the theatre screen a sufficiently improved picture to attract additional patronage is justified, assuming, of course, that there is possible additional patronage to appeal to.

"We may, further remark, however, that except in the village theatre where possible patronage is strictly limited, and where a very brilliant illumination will serve to emphasize the faults in the necessarily old film used, it probably always pays to use a sufficiently brilliant illumination to place upon the screen all details contained in the film photograph. It may also be said that in large theatres it will always be justifiable to use a light source of sufficient brilliancy to make all picture details readily discernible to patrons in the back rows of seats.

Knowledge

"We now arrive at the last, and in some ways the most important item of them all, viz: What amount of money are we justified in investing in skill and knowledge in the projection of pictures? Put in another form: is money in excess of the possible minimum invested in superior skill and knowledge in projection likely to return a profit on the investment?

"In the past the practice has largely been to invest only the absolute minimum in these items. As a rule the industry has offered little, if any, monetary incentive to men to excel in projection, and it has offered very little other incentive. It has been inclined to foster the idea that little real knowledge or skill is needed to place the finished goods of the industry before its buyer, the public.

"In this connection we may assume that men engaged in projection are no different from the rest of humanity in that it requires some real incentive to bring out the best there is in them. Just as with other professions and vocations in life, some real incentive is needed to bring out the best there is in the projectionist with the exception of an occasional individual who has the germ of progress implanted in his soul.

Encourage Skill

"If we admit the correctness of the statement that it requires at least some degree of expert skill and knowledge to place before an audience the highest entertainment value it is possible to obtain from any set of films, we also admit that men possessed of such expert knowledge and skill ought to be encouraged; also, it follows that the greater the amount of knowledge and skill possessed by an individual the higher is his value to the theatre.

"I think we may all agree upon the foregoing, and from this point it is but a slight step forward to assume that a reasonable amount of money invested in encouraging real projection ability (which includes, skill, knowledge, ambition and the energy necessary to apply them in practice) is more than likely to prove profitable in the end. I believe there is nothing in all the realm of industry so completely discouraging to the good man as to see a man or men of inferior energy and ability receive equal remuneration with him for the same work, the more especially when that work is performed in an inferior manner. Yet we see that very thing in projection rooms all over the country, because of the fact that where an organization has set up a minimum of pay designed as the remuneration for its poorest men, it has been adopted as both maximum and minimum, and a dead level is thus set up for good and bad alike.

Wages Not Discussed

"It most emphatically is not the intent or purpose of this paper to discuss the matter of wages, except so far as is necessary to point out the evil of the dead level, and the injury it works to the industry through discouraging capable men from advancing in knowledge and skill in the projection of motion pictures effectively and efficiently.

"I firmly believe that money invested by exhibitors in the form of higher remuneration for men who give evidence of energy, skill and knowledge in projection will, in the end, be found to be thoroughly justified projecting room expense.

"In closing, let me say that this has been a difficult subject to treat adequately, and at the same time avoid the appearance of "grinding some one's axe," which most emphatically is far from the intention of the author of this paper.

"I have tried, perhaps not altogether in the best way, to show that any projection room expense which tends to project a better picture, or to project the picture more efficiently, is justifiable expense. If I have given you anything which may be of value to this Society and the motion picture industry, I am well satisfied."

That is the end of the paper. It was followed by discussion, but I have before me only its opening paragraph, which reads:

Discussion on Mr. Richardson's Paper

"Mr. Hill: I am very glad to hear Mr. Richardson again on the value of projection in terms of box office receipts. At times we have been astounded by the financial gain which has come to us through improved projection. In some instances, when we placed new equipment in operation, the box office receipts have doubled."

A Shame

A high class projectionist in Chicago writes a confidential letter complaining that his boss has got the speed bug and wants him to jam nine and ten reels through in an hour and a half, which is about 110 feet of film per minute.

Managers who insist upon such crude work ought not to be supplied film at all. They not only are acting dishonestly with their patrons by selling them tickets to see a show, and then showing them a travesty on one, but also they outrage every foot of film they compel their projectionist to jam through at that rate, and THUS INJURE THE SHOW OF EVERY FELLOW EXHIBITOR AND MANAGER WHO MUST USE THOSE FILMS THEREAFTER.

The projectionist who is obliged to project at 110 feet per minute is, of course, compelled to carry an excessive aperture tension, which means that the edges of each sprocket hole in this film is unduly strained, abraided and weakened.

Not a Showman

Of course this type of manager is not a real show man, whatever he may himself think about it. He sees no immediate visible damage to the film, hence to his mind the films have not been damaged. He pays his patrons the "compliment" of believing them to be better pleased with 10,000 feet of production jammed through until the actors look like overworked mechancal dolls, than less footage projected at a speed which will put a correct, artistic representation on his screen.

Really, I don't know whether to feel sorry for the man who does things that way or to take a hickory club to him. Anyhow, I never see the results of his work without feeling very sorry for his audiences, his projectionist, and for the motion picture industry which he is doing his level best to murder.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS
Help and Situations Wanted Only

3c per word per insertion
Minimum charge 60c
Terms, Strictly Cash with Order

Copy must reach us by Tuesday noon to insure publication in that week's issue.

SITUATIONS WANTED

FIRST-CLASS EXPERIENCED ORGANIST desires immediate or future engagement. Accomplished musician. Picture player and soloist of exceptional ability. Union man. Magnificent library. Good instrument essential. Wire or write, Arthur Edward Jones, Princess Hotel, Atlantic City, N. J.

THEATRE CLOSING MAY 1ST—Union projectionist desires permanent position in first-class theatre. Eleven years' experience, any make projectors. Six years with present employer. Married, steady and reliable. Can furnish best references as to ability, character and attention to duty. E. W. Sanor, Box 421, Kankakee, Illinois.

PROJECTIONIST desires position with first-class theatre where high-class projection is demanded and appreciated. Seven years experience, refernce. Must giv present employer two weeks' notice. Box 368, Moving Picture World, New York City.

HELP WANTED

MANAGER WANTED—We offer exceptional opportunity for manager who has made good and open for steady paying position. New house in live town 8,000. Don't answer unless you can make good and stand investigation. K. L., Moving Picture World, New Yoirk City.

GET
Your Copy of Richardson's
Bluebook of Projection
NOW
Postage Prepaid $6.00

The Simplex Projector

AND

OUR PART IN THE INDUSTRY

We are engaged in the Motion Picture Equipment business. More important to you is the fact that WE MAKE A BUSINESS of building Projectors. All that this implies in painstaking care, constant inspection, absolute accuracy and close attention to detail is offered you. Whether your requirements are a Projector or a small part of one, the result will be high quality properly serviced.

Simplex

CONSPICUOUSLY SUPERIOR

MADE AND GUARANTEED BY
THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St— New York

ASK FOR CIRCULAR "YOUR INSURANCE FOR GOOD PROTECTION"

Bluebook School—Answers 231-235

Question No. 231—Name the various causes of "rain" in film.

A. L. Fell, Collingswood, New Jersey; C. H. Hanover, Burlington, Iowa; F. H. Moore, Taunton, Mass.; W. C. Budge, Garden City, Long Island; Harold E. Hurlbutt, Oskosh, Wisconsin; S. F. Cooley, Manchester, New Hampshire (who has the grace to offer us all an apology for absenting himself from "school" for three weeks, promising not to do it again); Allie Baron, Lodi, California; Wm. A. Burnett, Newton, Iowa; Walter Johnson, Champaign, Illinois; G. W. Bennewitz, Sioux Falls, So. Dakota; Chas. Armentrout, Mason City, Iowa and J. L. Smith, Chicago, Illinois, all made more or less complete replies to question 231.

Bennewitz says:

The various causes for what is known as "rain" in film are: (A) magazine valve roller or rollers stuck and probably work flat, is one possible cause, since in that condition a mixture of film cement, emulsion and dirt may adhere to them; (B) dirty magazine valves; (C) accumulations of dirt on parts of the projector which come into contact with the emulsion side of the film; (D) pulling down in rewinding; (E) using so-called cleaning pads to which considerable pressure is applied; (F) allowing the hand or fingers to rest upon the emulsion with some pressure while rewinding in inspecting films; (G) stopping one reel instantly while rewinding, which has the effect of "pulling down" the film on the other reel, especially if it be loosely wound; (H) starting the rewinder with a jerk when the rewinder tension is heavy with relation to the projector take-up tension, which causes the layers of the film roll on the dummy end to slip on each other; (I) high speed rewinding in projection rooms and exchange inspection rooms. All these various causes are productive of trouble in proportion to the amount of dirt or dust on the surface of the film itself.

Hanover enumerates most of the causes set forth by brother Bennewitz, and adds:

"Pulling down" new film is very often productive of serious injury in the form of scratching, because the emulsion is soft and very easily damaged; also dirt adheres to it readily. Stiff, rough splices also often do serious damage when the layers of film are caused to slip upon each other by "pulling down," or by other wrong procedure. Considerable rain is also caused near the end of the film roll by heavy projector takeup tension which slips the film on itself slightly, but under heavy pressure.

Rain is nothing more or less than scratches in the photographic emulsion. These, unless very deep indeed, are invisible on the screen when first made, but become visible when they fill up with dirt. It therefore follows that it is an imperative necessity of good practice to keep the films as clean as possible, and to avoid any procedure which will or may result in the emulsion receiving scratches.

Brother Baron submits a drawing and description of a hinged arm with a strip of cotton at its end. This he proposes to attach to the inside bottom of the upper projector magazine, in such manner that the cotton will rub the film gently as it passes out of the magazine, thus removing dirt and dust adhering to its surface.

I have not published it because, whereas it probably would do considerable good if rightly handled, it might do a lot of harm if wrongly handled, and the chances are that not many men would handle it right. To be effective I would say that the cotton would have to be very soft, quite thick, and be renewed for every reel. Baron's idea is to thus brush the films upon the first running, after which they would be all right. I'm afraid I can't agree with you on this, friend Baron. Too much chance for damage through careless handling of the device.

Cooley's reply was especially good in many ways. He says:

In considering this matter I would say that the greater percentage of "rain" in film is caused by the radically wrong procedure of the film exchange and by the "Picter Machine Op'rater," because each of these agencies manhandle and mishandle the films to a greater or less extent.

Most exchange inspectors are none too careful in handling films. They seldom either clean the films, or rewind them in any proper way, sending them to tho shipping room with all the dust and dirt on their delicate surfaces that was there when they arrived, and usually in a rather, and sometimes very loosely wound roll. The packer usually, or at least often literally chucks the reels into shipping cases, which he or she troubles not to clean out by any other process than merely turning it upside down—if he even bothers to do that. Of course films shipped thus will arrive at the theatre in a far from perfectly clean condition, some of the grit having probably worked itself into the emulsion during shipment.

The machine operator will receive this MESS, thread the films into a projector which is itself none too clean, and project them with a take-up tension adjusted by the by-guess method. He will rewind them at zip-i-ty-zip speed, stopping occasionally to "pull down" when the film roll begins to flop. When he is through with the films he chucks them into the same old dirty shipping case, and returns them to the exchange—where the cycle starts all over again. NET RESULT—PLENTY OF RAIN IN A PERFECTLY GOOD FEATURE ONLY A FEW WEEKS OLD, and this, Friend Richardson, is MORE TRUTH THAN FICTION. I have opened many a film shipment which looked almost like they had used the case to receive the sweepings of the exchange floor.

I have left the Projectionist out of this, because the fellow who is a projectionist, or who is trying hard to be worthy of that title, will be striving to have his projectors clean, and in proper adjustment. He will rewind properly, pack shipments carefully in a CLEAN case, and send the films back to the exchange in as good shape as possible. He may cause some rain in films which have reached him filled with dirt and grit, true, but that is no fault of his own, since he must perforce use the films to a considerable extent in the condition in which they reach him.

Projectionists as a whole constitute a factor which tends to eliminate rain in films, not to increase it. If you have ever opened a shipment of films in such filthy condition that you just hated to use them at all you will understand why I am thus wasting all this paper, ink and your time. To name the various causes of rain: (1) improper exchange procedure; (2) machine operators, which really means machine attendants; (3) improper rewinding; (4) improper take-up tension; (5) dirty projectors; (6) magazine valve rollers which do not rotate; (7) dirt or grit of any sort which finds its way between the layers of film in the roll; (8) worn aperture plate tracks which cause the film to rub against the recessed edges of the aperture; (9) oil on film, which serves to collect grit and dirt, and to hold it to the surface of the film.

Question No. 232—Suppose you find cracks extending from the upper corners of the sprocket holes (upper as the film is in the projector). To what would you attribute the cause of the damage?

Bennewitz, Fell, Moore, Johnson, Burnett, Cooley, Hurlbutt, Smith, Hanover and Frank Jones, Detroit, Michigan (Bully for Detroit) all agree that this damage would be caused by excessive takeup tension, possibly aggravated by badly worn and hooked lower sprocket teeth. Fell says:

The lower sprocket acts somewhat like a brake, or hold-back, pulling against the takeup tension. If the tension be too great, the pull is, of course, excessive, which sets up undue strain on what may be termed the "back", or non-working edges of the sprocket holes. This pull may be sufficient to crack the celluloid at the corners of the sprocket holes. Excessive strain may usually be detected by the singing sound the film will make as it goes over the lower sprocket.

Question No. 233—Suppose there are cracks at the lower corners of the sprocket holes (lower corners as the film is in the projector), to what would you attribute the cause of the damage?

Every one before named agreed that excessive tension at the projector aperture was the chief cause of such damage as this, but many overlooked the fact that there is another possible cause for it. Brother Bennewitz says:

Cracks at the lower corners of the sprocket holes, as the film is in the propector, are usually caused by excessive tension at the aperture, often aggravated by worn or hooked intermittent sprocket teeth. Excessive tension may be made necessary by reason of excessive projection speed or because the intermittent movement is not in good condition or proper adjustment. With the later type of projectors the upper magazine spindle is provided with an adjustable brake, to hold the reel in retard. This adjustment is not always made correctly and intelligently, with result that if the error be on the too great tension side, there will be an unnecessary force exerted on the lower edges (lower as film is in projection) of the sprocket holes by the upper sprocket. If this is heavy enough, as it may be and sometimes is, the sprocket holes may be cracked at their edges by the strain, or even the sprocket holes may be torn entirely out in spots if the reel happens to be crooked, and "stick." The tension should be just sufficient to hold the reel in retard, so that there will be no slack film between the reel and the upper sprocket, and when the projector is stopped from any cause, the reel will stop without running loose film off into the magazine.

Question No. 234—Name the various faults in a projector which may and probably will result in damage to the film.

Armentrout says:

The various faults in the projector which may result in damage to the film are: (A) excessive tension on either the upper or the lower reel; (B) excessive tension at the projector aperture; (C) worn, damaged, undercut or hooked sprocket teeth; (D) improperly adjusted sprocket idler rollers; (E) sprocket idler rollers which will not rotate; (F) magazine valve idlers which will not rotate; (G) deposits of mixed emulsion, dirt and film cement on non-rotating sprocket idler rollers or magazine valve rollers or on film tension shoes; (H) upper magazine not in line with sprocket; (I) badly worn magazine valves; (J) and if reels may, for the purpose, be considered as a part of the projector, then cheap, poorly made or damaged reels.

Bennewitz adds to this as follows:

Magazine spindle not parallel with the sprocket; OUTLAW SPROCKETS; improperly adjusted stripper plates; improperly adjusted intermittent movement, or worn intermittent, compelling the carrying of excessive aperture tension to steady the picture; Power loop stter roller out of line, or not parallel with sprocket.

Smith adds this:

Badly worn aperture plate tracks sometimes cause serious damage by causing the film to rub the edge of the aperture opening, thus scratching the film.

Burnett adds this important item:

Wrongly designed takeup tension.

This perhaps doesn't properly belong to the question, as it has to do with the design of the projector. but still it certainly is ad-

(Continued on page 728)

They would rather be comfortable

Every hot day this summer there will be hundreds of people in your town who'd like to see your show—

BUT they'd rather be comfortable.

Now, doesn't it seem a pity to pass up these admissions?—especially when it's so easy to save them with cool, refreshing Typhoon Breezes.

You ought to write for Booklet W-6.

Typhoon Fan Company

345 West 39th Street New York,
Philadelphia Jacksonville New Orleans Dallas

Get Maximum Screen Results

Send for the Brand New

LENS CHART

By JOHN GRIFFITHS

Here is an accurate chart which belongs in every projection room where carbon arcs are used. It will enable you to get maximum screen results with the equipment you are now using.

The new Lens Chart (size 15" x 20") printed on heavy Ledger Stock paper, suitable for framing, will be sent to you in a strong mailing tube, insuring proper protection. Get it NOW!

Price $1.00

Postpaid

Chalmers Publishing Co.

516 Fifth Avenue New York City

'SAFETY FIRST'

Certified prints

SAFETY FIRST

It takes plenty of care and skill to avoid the dangers in the film printing business.

"CERTIFIED PRINTS" safeguard the success of your pictures.

The Consolidated Film Industries, Inc.

New York Los Angeles

CONSOLIDATED CERTIFIED PRINTS

missible the way the question is worded, though the question was not intended to include projector design. Well, anyhow it is true that wrongly designed takeup tensions were one of the bugbears we had to fight for many years.

Our new "scholar," Jones of Detroit, adds this important point, which, while it is not basically a "fault in the projector," but a fault in the machine attendant (operator), I am going to admit. He says:

> EXCESSIVE OILING OF THE PROJECTOR MECHANISM CAUSES DAMAGE TO THE FILM IN SEVERAL WAYS. Not the least of which is that it causes dust and dirt to adhere to it, which makes for plenty of scratches and "rain."
>
> Hurlbutt adds this: "Dirty, oil-smeared projector mechanism."
>
> The Editor adds this one: Excessive heating of the parts adjoining the projector aperture because of using high amperage with a wrongly selected and (or) adjusted projector optical train, when with a correct optical lineup the same screen illumination might be had with far less current and less heating effect.

Question No. 235—Name the various faults which poorly matched sprocket holes may cause to appear on the screen and the various kinds of damage which may result to film from poorly matched sprocket holes.

Hanover says:

> Mismatched sprocket holes may do any one of the following things to the screen image: (1) cause it to jump up and down; (2) cause it to move sideways; (3) cause it to move both up and down (jump) and sidewise; (4) cause the picture to jump out of frame; (5) cause lines of those things which look like bugs crawling, but really are sprocket tooth indentations; (6) cause a blank screen and stoppage of the show.
>
> The possibilities for damage to the film through mismatched sprocket holes are many. They are: (A) sprocket holes torn out; (B) lines of sprocket tooth indentations; (C) film torn in two; (D) several feet of film utterly ruined by splitting, or being just plain chewed up; (E) sprocket holes on one side of the splice more or less injured.

Brother Armentrout remarks at the end of this list:

> Say, Richardson, trying to answer the last twenty-five or thirty questions is enough to give a chap the hebe jebes!

Yes, brother Armentrout, but this is no Sabbath school picnic we are indulging in. To answer the questions consistently and well requires real WORK. There is no excellence without GREAT LABOR, you know, and if you think it is anything in the nature of a picnic for me, you are in error, and then some. But practically every one who has been answering the questions have somewhere put in a word that they felt themselves to have already been benefitted. Stick to it, men. It means hard work, yes, but in the end you will be mighty glad you went through with it. Those who merely read the answers will NOT get half the good—no, nor a quarter the real good out of it that you men will who get down and dig out the best answers you can. That last is just plain cold FACT.

Mackler Dinner

It is rather an unusual thing to see a local union give a present of considerable value and a dinner to an ex officer who is an "ex" because he refused to accept the office of president again.

Last Saturday, April 4, however, two hundred and fifty six men and women gathered in one of the finest of the many fine banquet-ball rooms at the Hotel Astor, New York City, in honor of Harry Mackler, Past President of Local Union 306, New York City Motion Picture Projectionists, I. A. T. S. E. & M. P. M. O.

The affair was gotten up by his many friends in the local, who had "chipped in" and bought a beautiful white-gold-case watch, and had the I. A. emblem engraved on its cover. Alex. Polin, Business Agent of 306, apparently engineered the affair, and it is but plain justice to remark that it proved Brother Polin to be some considerable "engineer." It was the finest of the many fine projectionist affairs which have been pulled of in New York City during the past winter.

Many Ladies Present

Many ladies were present, and to the music of an excellent band, dancing was indulged in after the dinner until Old Sol warned that another day was breaking in the Eastern sky.

At the guest table were the following: William Canavan, International President, and C. A. Spencer (and wife), International President of the I. A. T. S. E. & M. P. M. O. of the U. S. and Canada; Harry Mackler and wife; Will C. Smith, F. H. Richardson, C. W. Johnson, Supervisor of Projection for the Fox Circuit, accompanied by his Better Half; Harry Sherman, of the International office, Dick Green, of the Board of Motion Picture Projectionist Examiners, New York City; Mike Campbell, Supervisor of Projection for the Loew Circuit of theatres in New York City and Leo S. Swanwick, Deputy Clerk of Jersey City.

Mrs. Harry Levine, an accomplished singer, entertained the company with songs, and was encored until she coaxed the band to play a lively dance, which of course diverted attention and she escaped.

Mrs. Louis Weinberger also entertained the company with songs. Mrs. Weinberger has a well trained and remarkably sweet voice. To hear her was a very real treat. I hope I may again hear Mrs. Weinberger, under conditions better suited to enjoyment of her rendition of harmony in song.

Some Demonstration

During the dinner F. H. Richardson called the guests to order, advised them that the purpose of the affair was to do honor to Past President Harry Mackler and—stopped right there, because for full ten minutes the sleeping (???) guests of the Astor must have said words no decent printer would ever think of printing. The applause lasted that long, while Harry looked almost angry enough to kiss his smiling wife. It was a really very remarkable demonstration, and one that no other union official of New York City has ever, so far as my knowledge goes, been the recipient of.

When at last they quieted a bit, your editor introduced Will C. Smith, who presented the watch before described to Brother Mackler, on behalf of his many friends in Local 306.

Smith, who has been ill and had dropped entirely out of sight for the past half year, himself received an ovation lasting two or three minutes—which is quite a while when it is considered that before each guest lay a huge slab of the famous Hotel Astor I scream, with a band and perfectly good dancing floor waiting.

Honor to Harry Mackler

In introducing Smith, whom I was truly glad to see get such a splendid reception, I said we were gathered to do honor to Harry Mackler, who as President of Local Union 306 had worked hard, HONESTLY and efficiently for the good of the motion picture projectionists of New York City. I want to repeat that statement here. Harry Mackler I am proud to call by the sacred title FRIEND, because, whatever his shortcomings may be, he is honest, energetic and earnest.

The complete committee on arrangements consisted of the following: Alex Polin, Abe Horowitz, Louis Weinberger, Morris Bernard and Joseph Basson.

Among Those Present

Among those present were the following: P. A. McGuire, Advertising Manager N. Power Company; "Claude" Meyers, Assistant Sales Manager, N. Power Company, who fetched along a dictionary to sit on, in order to reach the table top; Joseph Basson, President Local Union 306 and his Better Half; Abe Horowitz, Secretary L. U. 306, whose wife also came along to see if he really was going to the Mackler dinner; Jimmie Daisey, all dolled up in a plaited shirt and a cigarette; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Levine, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Weinberger, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horowitz, Mr. Irving Polin, Miss Lillian Polin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tillman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tillman, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Engle, Mr. and Mrs. Max Feinberg, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Rattiner, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Berkowitz, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Abrams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Aveney, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kafka, Mr. Abe Lang, Mr. Jack Wolheim, Mr. Sam Talofsky, Mr. Louis Epstein, Mr. Arthur Saunders, Mr. Al Rose and something like a hundred and fifty more of Mackler's friends.

It was a most enjoyable affair, and I'm glad to see this appreciation shown for Mackler, BUT if any one springs another of these get-home-at-daylight affairs before next fall he'd better borrow one of those steel doughboy hats, and wear it.

Sits in the Game

Frank Jones, Detroit, Michigan, sends in answers to questions 232, 233 and 234 and says:

> Have been studying the Bluebook School for some time, as well as reading the department. As you say, however, what is the good of the school unless we dig in and make real use of it. So here I am, with my bit.

In the language of the Swedish poet: "Attaboy!" There are about ten or fifteen thousand more men who ought to 'wake up.' F'rinstance, there is San Francisco, Seattle, Portland and Vancouver, with a total of probably three hundred men, some of whom call themselves quite some punkins when it comes to projection, BUT to this date not a man of them has had sufficient energy or ambition to even try to answer one of the questions. I might also, without fear of successful contradiction, say that none of them have evinced sufficient pride in the advancement of the profession to help push this almost universally acknowledged good thing along.

Also there is Portland, Maine; Duluth, Wisconsin; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Rock Island and Moline, Illinois; St. Louis, Missouri; Dallas, Texas, and hundreds of other cities in which one would really expect to find at least some men who would not absorb continuously, without giving off a little once in a while. And I very well know that some of these cities, Rock Island and Duluth, for instance, really contain progressive, up-to-date projectionists. S'pose you take a hitch in your belts, gentlemen, and get busy. This work is going on, yes, but up to now no thanks are coming to the silent ones that such is the fact.

As Good As

In describing Eastman Positive Film you never have to say, "It's as good as such and such film."

There just isn't any question about the outstanding superior photographic quality of Eastman Film.

And you know when the print is on the genuine — the identification "Eastman" "Kodak" in black letters in the margin tells you.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Organize New Company to Operate Croswell and New Family Theatres

NEGOTIATIONS have been completed whereby the operations of the Croswell and New Family Theatres, of Adrian, Mich., will be directed by the Adrian Amusement Company, organized to manage the consolidated business.

The officers of the new company are: Harry C. Angell, president; Robert Codd, of Niles, and E. J. Miller, of Chicago, vice-presidents; B. McElroy, of Chicago, treasurer; Clarke E. Baldwin, this city, secretary. The ownership of neither theatre is changed by the terms of the consolidation. Codd and Angell will continue to own the Croswell, but have leased it to the new operating company in which both members of the firm are officers, and the Fitzpatrick-McElroy company retains its ownership of the New Family, but likewise leases that property to the operating company. Mr. Angell will be manager of both theatres.

Elwyn M. Simons, manager of the New Family, is not interested directly in the consolidation, except as it affects his interest in the holding Chicago company, which purchased his theatre recently. He has joined the Fitzpatrick-McElroy organization, but his work with that company, it is said, will take him to some other city.

Pictures for both theatres will be booked through the Fitzpatrick-McElroy Company, which has extensive buying powers through its ownership of forty-two theatres in Michigan and Illinois. So far as the public is concerned, the two houses will continue to be operated as competing attractions.

Plans for improvements to the New Family include: New Kimball pipe organ, to cost $15,000. The lobby has been redecorated and the store north of the theatre entrance has been vacated, and is being remodeled for a manager's office, which is to replace the present box office.

Wisconsin Has Big Playroom; All Kinds of Toys Provided

OF all the conveniences offered patrons at Saxe's Wisconsin and Uihlein's Alhambra theatres in Milwaukee, probably none is so popular as the children's playrooms.

Both downtown houses boast playrooms that are the last word in keeping youngsters amused and under proper care while mothers are enjoying the program. At both theatres the playrooms have had the effect of stimulating matinee business.

The playroom in the new $2,000,000 Wisconsin is situated off the balcony promenade and adjoins one of the ladies' rooms. It is done in a soft ivory with a panel depicting children at play adorning the walls. A figured carpet of red, harmonizing with that throughout the rest of the house, covers the floor.

Toys of every description are provided. There are blocks, balls, rocking horses, dolls, go-carts and jumping jacks. In one corner is a sand pile with the necessary shovels and pails. Along another wall is the juvenile "rest" furniture, consisting of a miniature chair and settee, done in handsome wicker, with a juvenile bridge lamp to match beside the chair.

A competent nurse is in constant attendance, administering to the needs of the youngsters in her care. When the children become tired of playing with the toys at their disposal she reads to them from fairy books.

At the Alhambra, the playroom has long been an institution, it being one of the first theatres in the country to set aside a place for the kiddies.

The Alhambra playroom is off the main downstairs corridor and, like the Wisconsin, is equipped with every form of toy imaginable and with adequate sand boxes. In addition, there are little beds where the youngsters may take a nap while their mothers are in the theatre.

Playroom at the Wisconsin Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis.

Joseph Bonnett, the eminent French Organist at the Console of the Robert Morton-Unit Organ

Pantages Buys Five More R. Morton Unit Organs

Alexander Pantages has just placed with J. A. G. Schiller, general manager of the Robert Morton Organ Company, contracts for five large Robert Morton Unit Organs, to be installed in his theatres at Portland, Ore., Spokane, Wash., Vancouver, B. C., and two other northwestern Pantages theatres.

These Robert Morton Organs, in addition to playing the pictures, and augmenting orchestras, will be used as distinct music features and one of the entertainment units. The instruments will be specially built for the purposes intended.

Building Big Theatre

A. H. Schwartz will build a 2500 seat theatre with stores in Flushing, L. I., N. Y. The site is located on the main thoroughfare, Jagger avenue and Prospect street. This theatre will probably be one of the finest located in this section of Long Island, and will be operated by Mr. Schwartz personally, as part of his present chain of theatres.

Richardson's
Bluebook of Projection
Postage Paid $6.00
Get Your Copy Now
Don't Hesitate—Present Edition
Going Fast

POWER'S
INCANDESCENT EQUIPMENT
NOW MADE IN THE POWER'S PLANT AND A GENUINE POWER'S PRODUCT

POWER'S INCANDESCENT EQUIPMENT

ADVANTAGES

1. Adaptability

An arc lamp gives a whiter, steadier, more effective light on direct current than on alternating current. Since the current supply to the theatre is usually alternating it is necessary to use an expensive motor-generator set to convert to direct current.

The MAZDA lamp operates equally well on alternating and direct current and with equal illumination.

2. Steadiness

The MAZDA lamp provides a constant source of light. The intensity of illumination on the screen does not change. The MAZDA lamp does not vary in intensity and operates always in a fixed position. It assures continuous uniformity of screen illumnation. This combination greatly reduces the possibility of eye strain.

3. Simplicity

The porjectionist has no adjustments to make during operation. After the initial setting, no change is necessary during the life of the lamp. This permits more attention to the other details of presenting the picture in a successful manner.

4. Cleanliness

The MAZDA lamp is a hermetically sealed light source and because of its greater cleanliness inspires a cleaner general condition in the projection room.

5. Economy

The 900-watt MAZDA lamp compares favorably with a 40-amp. direct current arc. The advantage from an illuminating standpoint is in favor of the MAZDA lamp. Assuming an alternating current source of supply, the arc requires 60 volts at 50 amperes, and with converter losses, consumes 4 kw. per hour. The MAZDA lamp (including all losses) requires approximately 1 kw. per hour. The power bill is, therefore, cut to about one-fourth.

The initial cost is less because no expensive control equipment is required.

The cost of lamp renewals should not exceed the cost of carbons.

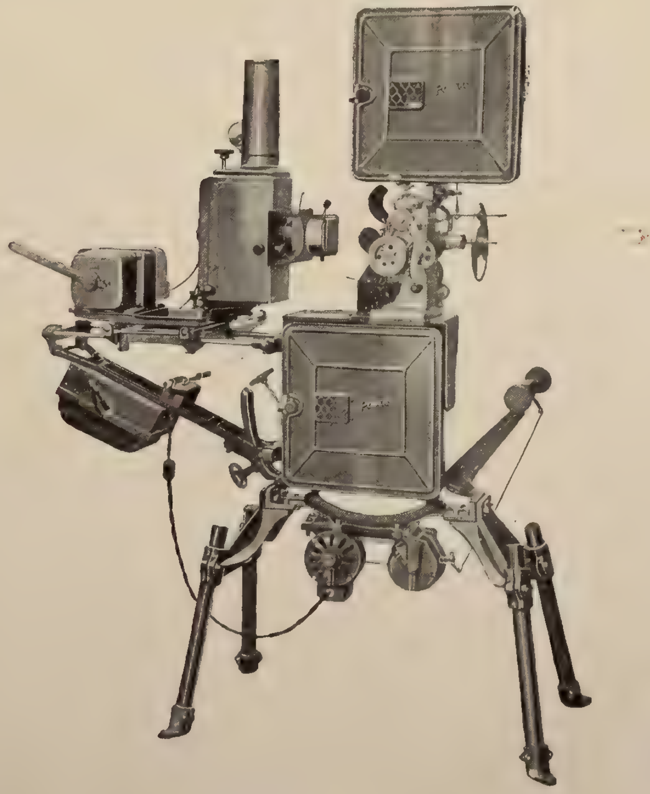
6. Utility

The new Incandescent Equipment can be used successfully in theatres having a main floor seating capacity up to 1,000 or having up to 16-ft. picture, or having a throw of approximately 100 feet. It gives better results than an alternating current arc and is the equal of the direct current arc up to 40 amps.

Power's Incandescent Equipment represents eight years' development and test in laboratories and theatres. It is therefore now possible to offer a reliable projection device, using a MAZDA lamp as the source of light, not only for theatres but also for schools, lodge rooms, community centers, and industrial establishments.

RECENT IMPROVEMENTS AND REFINEMENTS

Moulded Composition Knobs and Handles Thruout, and a New and Superior Vertical Adjustment on the Lamphouse. The Slideover Tracks are now Cold Rolled Steel, accurately finished and securely fastened to the top of the base casting.



Crystallized Lacquer Finish replaces plain Japan finish—all steel parts are Dull or Polished Nickelplated. New Mirror and Power's Aspheric Condenser Mount are much superior to those heretofore supplied.

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
NINETY GOLD ST. NEW YORK, N.Y.

Mack Sennett Comedies

Two Reels

Girls—so pretty you wonder where he gets them.

Gags—so sparkling you marvel at the cleverness of those who thought of them.

Comedians—so clever there isn't a dull moment while they are on the screen.

No wonder Sennett Two-Reel Comedies give a sparkle and dash to your program that make them a tonic and a necessity.

Coming, "Super Lizzies"

Pathécomedy

TRADE MARK

First in the Field!

Moving Picture WORLD

VOL. 73, No. 8 APRIL 25, 1925 PRICE 25 CENTS

$5.00 a Seat — and S.R.O.!

AT THE WORLD PREMIER
FRIDAY APRIL 17TH
RIVOLI THEATRE, NEW YORK,
OF

GLORIA SWANSON

in "Madame Sans Gene"

A Paramount Picture

Published by CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY 516 FIFTH AVE.
NEW YORK CITY

Entered as second class matter June 17, 1906, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879 Printed weekly $3 a year

Clive Brook and Marjorie Daw are co-starred in F.B.O.'s big-time drama of love behind the scenes

"LOVE'S BARGAIN"

A brilliant story with two of the biggest present day box office stars

Directed by BURTON GEORGE
Photographed by BERT CANN
by arrangement with
ARCHIBALD NETTLEFORD

RELEASED APRIL 15

Distributed by
FILM BOOKING OFFICES
723 Seventh Avenue, New York
Exchanges Everywhere

Thematic Music Cue Sheets Available on All Our Features

Crowd your House with

"The Crowded Hour"

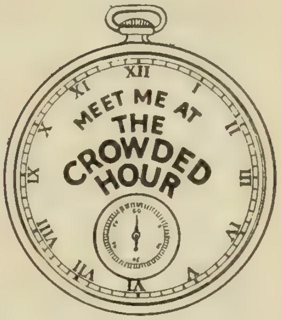
STARRING

BEBE DANIELS

WITH

KENNETH HARLAN -- T. ROY BARNES
HELEN LEE WORTHING

EXPLOITATION IDEA



Have stickers printed with above lettering and paste them on watches and clocks around town. Run an essay contest for your patrons on the subject, The Most Crowded Hour of My Life.

> "One crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name" —Sir Walter Scott

From the stage play by Channing Pollock and Edgar Selwyn. Screen play by John Russell. Directed by E. Mason Hopper.

One of the 2nd Famous 40

Paramount Pictures

You can get mats of this drawing at exchanges, 25¢

THE comedy on your program ought to entertain your patrons, of course; it ought to make them laugh; it ought to put them in a good humor to enjoy the rest of the show.

The comedy ought to do all these things. But it should do more than these. It should attract patrons to the box-office and make money for you.

It WILL do this for you if you choose your comedy wisely. Few feature stars are better known than LARRY SEMON. And only the best of features are better box-office drawing cards than

Larry Semon
SPECIAL COMEDIES

E. W. Hammons
Presents

LARRY SEMON

in

"The Dome Doctor"

The Dome Doctor could grow hair on a head of cabbage. And he can produce laughs from the coldest audience.

Directed by
LARRY SEMON

EDUCATIONAL
FILM EXCHANGES, Inc.
E. W. Hammons
President

For foreign rights address
FAR EAST FILM CORPORATION
729 Seventh Avenue, New York, N.Y.

Educational Pictures
"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

Member, Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., Will H. Hays, President

What a Clean-up!

—the laughs, the tears, the thrills that mean money in the box-office

MARION DAVIES

in the rip-roaring
comedy-drama

ZANDER the GREAT

This Great Cast

Holbrook Blinn, Harrison Ford, Harry Watson, Jr., Hobart Bosworth, Harry Myers, George Siegmann, Richard Carle, Hedda Hopper, Olin Howland, Emily Fitzroy and Master John Huff.

adapted by Frances Marion from the stage success by Salisbury Field settings by Joseph Urban directed by George William Hill

A Cosmopolitan Production

Distributed by Metro-Goldwyn

Member Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.—Will H. Hays, President

A. Carlos Presents

Richard Talmadge

IN

"TEARING THROUGH"

Continuity by Frederick Stowers
Directed by Art Rosson

ANOTHER WILD ACTION PICTURE TO DELIGHT THE MOST RABID RED BLOODED FANS

TALMADGE comes thru again with another high speed action picture faster than any he has yet turned out. . . It just races from one wild action scene to another without a let up. Fans by the million watch for Talmadge pictures because they love action and Talmadge gives it to them in car loads.

THAT'S your cue to book the new series of Talmadge pictures just announced. A whirlwind series of 5 Talmadge pictures now being sold throughout the country by F. B. O. salesmen now covering the field. Try and see "TEARING THROUGH" . . . and you'll get an idea of the kind of whirlwind action pictures you'll get in these big 5. Book 'em now.

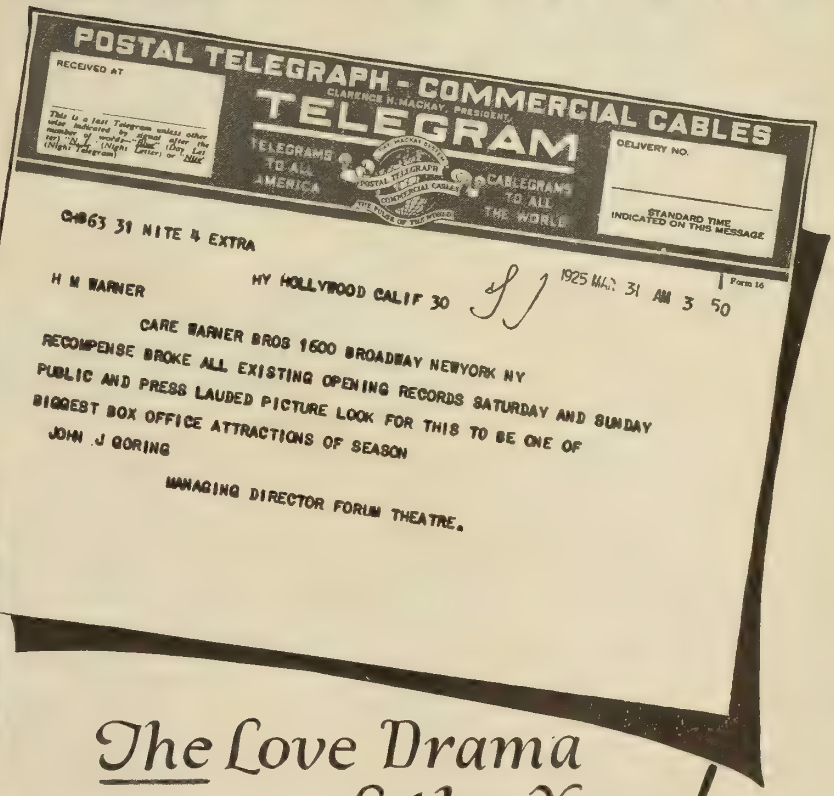
FILM BOOKING OFFICES

723 Seventh Ave., New York, Exchanges Everywhere

Thematic music cue sheets available on all our features

WARNER BROS.
Classics of the Screen

- a forecast from one who knows



POSTAL TELEGRAPH - COMMERCIAL CABLES
CLARENCE H. MACKAY, PRESIDENT.
TELEGRAM
TELEGRAMS TO ALL AMERICA
CABLEGRAMS TO ALL THE WORLD

RECEIVED AT

This is a fast Telegram unless otherwise indicated by signal after the number of words—"Blue" (Day Letter) "N.L." (Night Letter) or "Nite" (Night Telegram)

DELIVERY NO.

STANDARD TIME INDICATED ON THIS MESSAGE

Form 16

```
CH863 31 NITE 4 EXTRA

H M WARNER                HY HOLLYWOOD CALIF 30      1925 MAR 31 AM 3 50

          CARE WARNER BROS 1600 BROADWAY NEWYORK NY
RECOMPENSE BROKE ALL EXISTING OPENING RECORDS SATURDAY AND SUNDAY PUBLIC AND PRESS LAUDED PICTURE LOOK FOR THIS TO BE ONE OF BIGGEST BOX OFFICE ATTRACTIONS OF SEASON
JOHN J GORING

              MANAGING DIRECTOR FORUM THEATRE.
```

"RECOMPENSE"

by ROBERT KEABLE
with
MARIE PREVOST
MONTE BLUE
and a Sterling Warner Cast Including—
JOHN PATRICK
JOHN ROCHE
ETTA LEE
Wm. C. DAVIDSON
Adapted to the Screen by— DOROTHY FARNUM
Directed by HARRY BEAUMONT

The Love Drama of the Year!

That's "RECOMPENSE"—a story by Robert Keable, brought to the screen from between the covers of the year's "best seller."

Practically every motion picture is a love story—ONE picture out of a hundred is so powerful and unrelenting in its love theme that the grip on the heart never lessens throughout its screening. "RECOMPENSE" is the ONE love story in a hundred.

"A BEST SELLER ON CELLULOID."

Playing New York's
Piccadilly Theatre
Week Begining, April 18th

ERNST LUBITSCH · · HARRY BEAUMONT · · WILLIAM BEAUDINE ·

· DARRYL FRANCIS ZANUCK · · BESS MEREDITH · · HOPE LORING AND LOUIS LIGHTON ·

WARNER BROS.

and Progress

OUR COUNTRY—Independent and the marvel of the world in progress. Independence and progress go forward hand in hand together. The independent must be progressive—he must offer the world something better in order to exist.

1925

1625

CHARLES A. LOGUE · · G. GARDNER SULLIVAN · · HANS KRAELY ·

· MILLARD WEBB · · · JAMES FLOOD · · ROY DEL RUTH ·

Trail Blazers!

Warner Bros. have blazed the trail of motion picture progress with new ideas and new accomplishments which have carried the industry to new and greater successes.

You remember "My Four Years in Germany"—"School Days"—"Why Girls Leave Home"—"Main Street"—"Brass"—"Where the North Begins"—"Tiger Rose"—"Beau Brummel"—Warner Pictures which gripped the public from coast to coast and filled your theatres.

It was Warner Bros. who first recognized the genius of the European master of screencraft, Ernst Lubitsch, and through him brought a new technique to the American screen. It was Warner Bros. who secured the association of David Belasco in the filming of his dramatic masterpieces. It was Warner Bros. who first discovered in best-selling books a new source of unsurpassed screen material. And Warner Bros. have always blazed the way in the aggressive exploitation of motion pictures.

These achievements are a matter of screen history and show that Warner Bros. have been the real pioneers in motion picture progress.

With ample finances, Warner Bros. today are able to carry through a pre-arranged production schedule of a magnitude heretofore impossible. The 1925-26 Warner program is by far the biggest in Warner history. It will set new standards of screen achievement—new records of box office successes.

Don't be in a hurry to make your bookings. Bigger and better things are coming—FORTY WARNER Classics—40 Winners. Wait for the winners!

WARNER BROS
Classics of the Screen

HERMAN RAYMAKER · · ALAN CROSLAND · · GEORGE HILL ·

· · JULIEN JOSEPHSON · · CHUCK REISNER · · FRED NEWMEYER ·

LET'S GO!

Everybody Welcome to attend the CONVENTION

at

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

WEEK OF MAY 12th

Over 60 Manufacturers of Theatre Equipment will exhibit their latest products. See their displays.

Railroads are making special rates, so are the Hotels.

Over 3,000 are expected. Be sure to attend.

No admission charged. The general public will not be permitted, only Theatre Owners and their Projectionists, together with the Theatre Supply Dealers and Manufacturers.

If you want any information write, phone or wire Sam Lears, President of the Manufacturers Division,

ASSOCIATION OF

MOTION PICTURE EQUIPMENT

DEALERS OF AMERICA, Inc.

417 South Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

Its showing is reflecting great credit on this theatre"

says

LEE A. OCHS

Managing director of the

PICCADILLY THEATRE

New York's big picture palace, Broadway, N.Y.

TITLE	STAR	DIRECTOR	AUTHOR	TYPE
Smouldering Fires	Pauline Frederick Laura La Plante	Clarence Brown	Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin	Sensational Society Story
The Hurricane Kid	Hoot Gibson	Edward Sedgwick	Will Lambert	Western Adventures
Oh Doctor!	Reginald Denny with Mary Astor	Harry Pollard	Harry Leon Wilson	Side-Splitting Comedy Drama
Secrets of the Night	James Kirkwood and Madge Bellamy	Herbert Blache	Guy Bolton and Max Marcin	Mystery Comedy Drama
The Mad Whirl	May McAvoy Jack Mulhall	William Seiter	Richard Washburn Child	Sweeping Love Story
Ridin' Thunder	Jack Hoxie	Clifford Smith	Raymond Schrock and Geo. Hively	Western Action
The Price of Pleasure	Virginia Valli and Norman Kerry	Edward Sloman	Marion Orth and Elizabeth Holding	Unusual City Life Story
The Saddle Hawk	Hoot Gibson	Edward Sedgwick	Raymond Schrock	Hard-riding Western
Raffles – The Amateur Cracksman	House Peters	King Baggot	E. W Hornung	The Famous Detective Yarn
A Woman's Faith	Alma Rubens and Percy Marmont	Edward Laemmle	Clarence Budington Kelland	A Northwoods Melodrama
Too Many Women	Reginald Denny	Harry Pollard	Elmer Davis	Denny's Funniest
Fifth Avenue Models	Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry	Svend Gade	Muriel Hine	The Splendor of New York
The Meddler	William Desmond	Arthur Rosson	Miles Overholt	Western Daring
The Man in Blue	Herbert Rawlinson and Madge Bellamy	Edward Laemmle	Gerald Beaumont	A Great Police Story
Taming the West	Hoot Gibson	Arthur Rosson	B. M. Bowers	All that the Name Implies
Head Winds	House Peters	Herbert Blache	A. M. Sinclair Wilt	A Whale of a Sea Story
Don Dare-Devil	Jack Hoxie	Clifford Smith	William Gittens	Western All the Way
Let 'er Buck	Hoot Gibson	Edward Sedgwick	Chas. W. Furlong	Exclusive Scenes of the 1924 Pendleton Roundup
Dangerous Innocence	Laura La Plante and Eugene O'Brien	William Seiter	Pamela Wynne	Smartly Sensational
Red Clay	William Desmond	Ernst Laemmle	Sarah Saddoris	Amazing Story of an Indian Youth Today
Up the Ladder	Virginia Valli with Forrest Stanley	Edward Sloman	Owen Davis	The Power of a Woman's Love

Read what a great showman says:

Congratulations on another White List knockout!

"Smouldering Fires" is the finest picture I have yet played at the Piccadilly. I didn't think it possible for any picture to please my audiences more than "Oh Doctor" did, but, "Smouldering Fires" is beating even the "Oh Doctor" records. Everyone is delighted with it and its showing is reflecting great credit on this theatre. Will you please advise me at once if you can re-arrange your subsequent bookings so that I can hold "Smoldering Fires" over for another week? I will move back other pictures to make room.

I am extremely pleased with the White List.

Sincerely yours,

LEE A. OCHS,
Managing Director,
Piccadilly Theatre,
New York City.

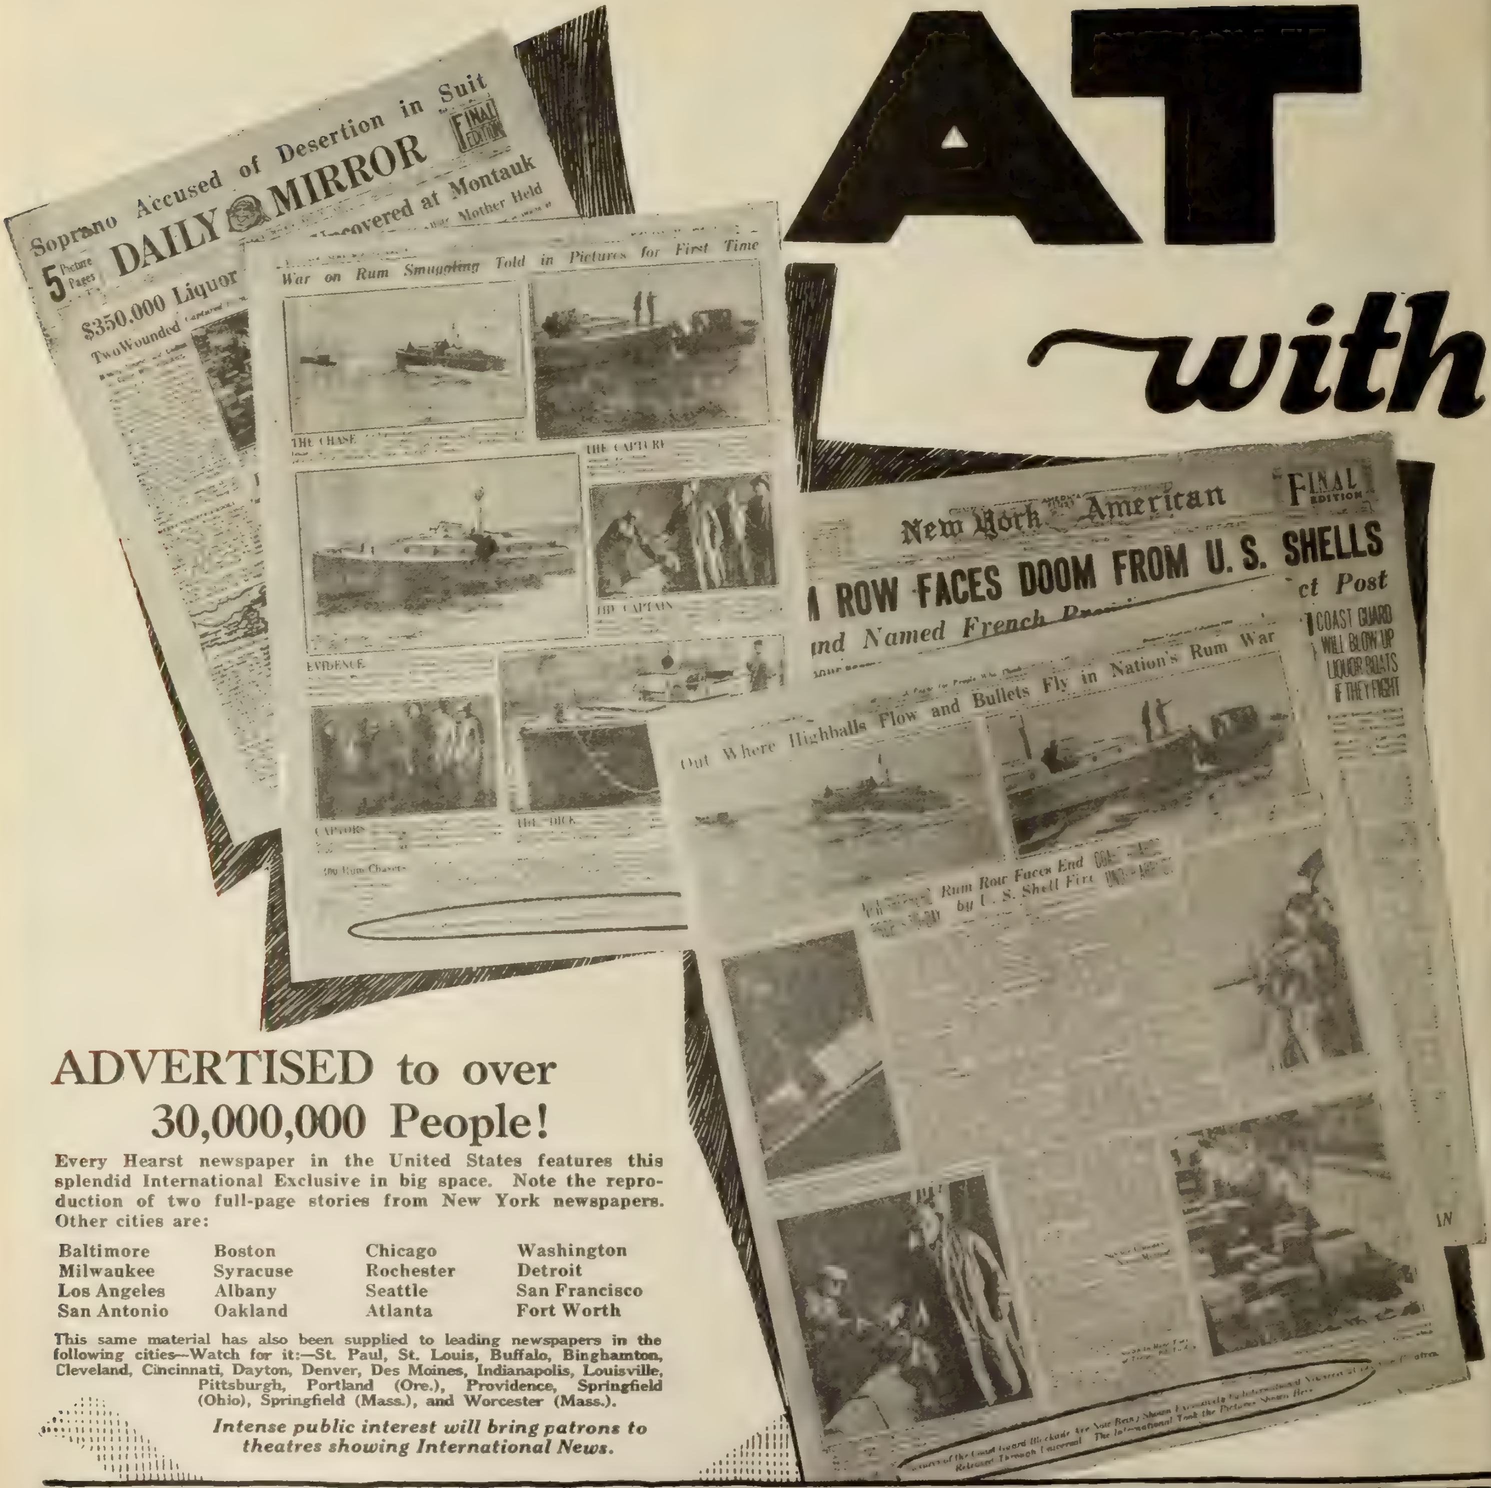
Carl Laemmle
presents

UNIVERSAL'S

White List

AT

with



Soprano Accused of Desertion in Suit

5 Picture Pages

DAILY MIRROR

FINAL EDITION

covered at Montauk

Mother Held

$350,000 Liquor

Two Wounded

War on Rum Smuggling Told in Pictures for First Time

THE CHASE

THE CAPTURE

THE CAPTAIN

EVIDENCE

CAPTORS

THE DECK

New York American

FINAL EDITION

ROW FACES DOOM FROM U. S. SHELLS nd Named French

ct Post

COAST GUARD WILL BLOW UP LIQUOR BOATS IF THEY FIGHT

Out Where Highballs Flow and Bullets Fly in Nation's Rum War

Rum Row Faces End by U. S. Shell Fire

ADVERTISED to over 30,000,000 People!

Every Hearst newspaper in the United States features this splendid International Exclusive in big space. Note the reproduction of two full-page stories from New York newspapers. Other cities are:

Baltimore
Milwaukee
Los Angeles
San Antonio
Boston
Syracuse
Albany
Oakland
Chicago
Rochester
Seattle
Atlanta
Washington
Detroit
San Francisco
Fort Worth

This same material has also been supplied to leading newspapers in the following cities—Watch for it:—St. Paul, St. Louis, Buffalo, Binghamton, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Denver, Des Moines, Indianapolis, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Portland (Ore.), Providence, Springfield (Ohio), Springfield (Mass.), and Worcester (Mass.).

Intense public interest will bring patrons to theatres showing International News.

INTERNATI

Twice every week

The
MOVING PICTURE
WORLD
Founded in 1907 by J. P. Chalmers

Get Behind This!

WITH all due respect to the headlines, the important news of the current week is not that story of Sam Katz's fencing session with the Theater Owners Chamber of Commerce, Metro's acquisition of Lillian Gish, nor any of the usual happenings commonly labelled "news."

The week's announcement of greatest importance is the initial statement of the industry's plans for a "Greater Movie Season."

Read every word of that story—and, whether your part in the industry be that of producer or exhibitor, decide right here and now that you are going to do YOUR part in the campaign.

The Greater Movie Season means a quickening of the industry's pulse; it must, inevitably, mean increased revenue to all branches of the industry; and, of most significance, it marks a reversal of the industry's propaganda attitude.

We have passed the defensive stage, we are embarking upon an offensive.

* * *

IT is most important that all exhibitors realize that the Greater Movie Season, while sponsored by Will Hays, is not the private property and concern of any group.

It is YOURS—whether you be big producer or independent circuit owner or small town exhibitor —in proportion as you take advantage of it.

All branches of the industry have been consulted and considered by the Hays organization in laying out the plans. Exhibitor representatives, trade paper editors, experienced advertising men, all have had a part. And this, to the end that the campaign might be truly for the benefit of all.

It now remains for film folk over the country to appreciate this fact and bend their full energies to cooperate.

GREATER Movie Season is not an experiment. Herman Wobber, father of the idea, has shown in four successful San Francisco campaigns and in last year's Los Angeles whirlwind, that it is a most potent stimulant for the industry.

What Wobber has done in California, Will Hays is now attempting to do for the nation. It can only fail if we fail. It can only succeed if all of us do our share.

The public has shown that it will respond. Of greater value, it has been demonstrated that the public's response is not limited to the particular month in which the drive reaches its greatest strength. Harry Arthur, Managing Director of West Coast Theatres, is responsible for the assertion that the impetus given business carries on to return dividends long after the campaign itself has been forgotten.

Assuredly the industry is in a position to welcome any business stimulant that comes so well recommended.

* * *

WHAT is your part in the Greater Movie Season? First of all, to become a booster in thought, word and deed. Second, to realize that if we invite the public to see us on parade we must be arrayed in our very best finery.

Every possible aid in the way of publicity and advertising material will be supplied through the medium of the Hays office and local committees to be organized later. But judgment in the selection of the best possible attractions you must supply yourself.

Greater Movie Season is YOURS! Get behind it!

Robert E. Welsh

Moving Picture WORLD

EDITOR - - - - - - - - - - - - - - ROBERT E. WELSH

Published Weekly by CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY, 516 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Telephone: Murray Hill 1610-1-2-3. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. John F. Chalmers, president; James P. Chalmers, Sr., vice-president; Alfred J. Chalmers, vice-president; Eliza J. Chalmers, secretary and treasurer, and Ervin L. Hall, business manager.

Branch Offices: Joseph Esler, 5434 Glenwood Avenue, Chicago; W. E. Keefe, 1312 Stanley Avenue, Hollywood, Cal.

Managing Editor—John A. Archer. Advertising Manager—Ben H. Grimm. Circulation Manager—Dennis J. Shea.

Subscription price: United States and its possessions, Mexico and Cuba, $3.00 a year; Canada, $3.50; foreign countries (postpaid) $10.00 a year.

Copyright, 1925, Chalmers Publishing Co. Copyright throughout Great Britain and Colonies, under the provisions of the Copyright Act of 1911. (All rights reserved.)

Other publications: Cine Mundial (Spanish). Technical books.

VOLUME 73 NUMBER 8

To Keep You Posted

Editorial 749
Speaking Freely 751
Progress Noticeable on the Continent 752
An Independent Exhibitor Keeps Cool 753
Katz on Stand Before T.O.C.C. Denounces Price-Cutting Booking Combination 754
Paramount's White Way Site Will Total Investment of $13,500,000 756
Governor Smith Indicates He Will Veto Cellulose Film Bill 756
Milwaukee Convention to Deliberate Great Crisis in Exhibitor Affairs 757
Four Hundred Gather in New York for Paramount International Convention 759
Federated Film Exchanges, of Boston, Files Bankruptcy Petition 759
Radio Station Will Observe Box Office 760
Greater Movie Season Inaugurated by Will Hays for U. S. in August 761
Exhibitor-Exchange Hatchet Funeral Urged by Cook 761
Skouras Plans Huge $5,500,000 Theatre 762
New Investment Unit Established by Balaban & Katz 762
Badger Combine Has Shake-up in Executive Board 762
New Jersey Theatre Owners Praise Seider at Luncheon 763
Independents Hint Retaliation for Price Cutting in New York 763
Exhibitors' News and Views 767
Projection 820

To Sell Your Seats

Selling the Picture to the Public (Department) 783
Successor to the Drawing Contest is Found in Coogan Ragman Pasted Figure 783
Production Hints from Edward L. Hyman 784
Addison's Experiment with Lecturers a Knock-out 784
Gave Dummy an Automatic Breath 785

To Aid Your Bookings

Universal's 1925-26 List Comprises Thirty Jewels and Larger Program 766
Straight from the Shoulder Reports 773
The First Run 791
Reviews 796
Pep of the Program 799
"The Lost World Plays Ten Weeks in N. Y., Nine in Boston, Eight in Philly 805
Current and Advance Releases 815
Index to Releases 829

First in the Field!

Get

Behind

Greater

Movie

Season

See page 749

Speaking Freel

Quite a party—that T. O. C. C. affair on Monday. Quite a disappointment to most of those in attendance. For some reason or other the exhibitors seemed to think that Sam Katz was present in the role of a Quo Vadis martyr. Expected to see him fed to the lions. The lions being O'Reilly, Burkan, and Cohen. But Sam didn't play up to the role. Too wise. Instead played the part of a man who knows what he is doing, what he wants to do, and what he does not want to do. And no one is going to make him do anything he doesn't want to do.

No one who saw Sam Katz in active operation on Monday will ever harbor any doubts as to the reasons for his meteoric success. And that about sums up the meeting. Just what was accomplished toward hastening a solution of the New York exhibitors' local troubles it would be pretty hard to say.

But one thing was accomplished for exhibitor benefit. The coming Milwaukee convention certainly received a most wonderful ballyhoo. There will be more like it. So you can jot it down in your book now that the Milwaukee meeting will be pretty certain to break attendance records.

Any day that Sydney Cohen decides to give up exhibiting and real estate worries he can have a very fine letter of recommendation from us if he decides to seek employment as an industrial or political propagandist. Six months ago the Milwaukee convention loomed up as "just another one of those things." And look at it now, with the work only half done! By the middle of May it will be a whirlwind.

Sam Katz and the T. O. C. C. didn't hold all the spotlight, at the Astor on Monday. In another room the officers and directors of the New Jersey M. P. T. O. tendered Joe Seider a well-deserved testimonial luncheon. And a silver cup. Joe blushed and stammered, Sidney Samuelson showed that the 'skeeter exhibitors are not lacking in oratorical or literary ability. Incidentally, also in the course of paying his tribute to the guest of honor, giving the attending trade paper men an insight into the really remarkable organization job that has been done in Jersey.

Charlie Pettijohn has turned author. His book, "The Motion Picture," is intended to supply "some facts about an American institution with which some of us are not so familiar as its importance in our daily lives may warrant." A good idea.

Eddie Eschmann, back from his swing over the country. We attempt to interview him for publication. We don't get very far. "What's the use?" he asks. "There's no sense in handing out the usual trite phrases, and if I spend my time telling you about some of the coming First National productions I saw while in Los Angeles, you'd accuse me of writing an ad.

"I saw rushes on Frank Lloyd's new production, 'Winds of Chance,'" says Eddie. "Frank Lloyd is more enthusiastic over it than he was over 'The Sea Hawk.' If one can judge the completed picture from the early rushes, then it is going to stack right up with 'The Sea Hawk.' While I was in Los Angeles I saw, wholly or in part, 'The Talker,' Corinne Griffith's 'The Marriage Waltz,' 'Just a Woman' and 'The Desert Flower,' and feel justified in asserting that our new product being made on the West Coast surpasses the high average maintained by previous productions."

"The states in the corn-belt, particularly Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and North and South Dakota, which suffered most severely in the slump of land values a few years ago, were put far on the road to recovery by last year's big crops," said Eddie. "The farmers have paid their debts to the banks to a much greater extent than was thought possible, and the long series of bank failures seems to have been definitely checked. The farmers in those regions again have money in their pockets and the cities and the villages are correspondingly more prosperous.

"If the Central States have another year of good crops, they will be far on the road to complete financial recovery, which will mean renewed healthy conditions for all industries in that section. Conditions improved after the harvest last fall. The agricultural regions are preparing for a very active season; what the results will be depend upon the coming crops which are forecast with optimism by all. I found increased activity in our branch offices in Des Moines, Omaha and Minneapolis. The same condition no doubt prevails in the exchanges of other companies. With another good crop, I am convinced that picture conditions will again approach normal in the Mid-West.

"The film business in the Southwest is about normal. 'The Sea Hawk' and 'Abraham Lincoln,' which were recently shown in New Orleans and in several important Texas first run theatres, played to big receipts and created great public interest. In this connection it is most encouraging to note how splendidly 'Abraham Lincoln' is going over in the small towns in all parts of the country."

R. E. W.

Sound Sense

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, INC.

April 13, 1925.

Dear Mr. Welsh:—There has unquestionably been a considerable improvement in the average length of feature pictures during the last year, but that they are still too long for the average theatre is clearly indicated by a letter written to our Detroit Exchange Manager by Mr. Vernon Locey, owner of the Temple Theatre, Howell, Michigan. Because we believe you might consider this letter worthy of some comment, or because it might give you an idea on this subject, we quote most of this.

"I have your letter asking for additional May dates account of National drive.

"Fifty per cent of my features for those weeks are of eight reels or more and it's a shame that the public has to sit through such slow moving stuff as the most of it turns out to be.

"I recently had a feature in eleven reels that in order to keep the action near natural action it was necessary to run the picture in 90 minutes.

"That damages film and projectors. A few years ago the same story would have been exposed on six reels.

"I feel that your service and consideration merit more business but until we can secure box office attractions in shorter lengths it's impossible to give the public a variety. With a news, all that can be added to the features is a fable or cartoon that has a little punch in about five or six hundred feet. The public is calling for a variety, but tell me how it can be done. Put an ordinary five or six-reel feature on during mid-week and the receipts will not cover the nut.

"I believe the short subject producers should use some influence with those who think it necessary to have ten thousand feet of film in a five or six-reel story.

"Most cordially yours,
"(Signed) VERNON LOCEY."

"P. S.—Tonight 'White Sister,' 11 reels. Somehow I had it listed as 8 reels. Had a 2-reeler from ——— which I'm returning unused.—V. L."

Very truly yours,
GORDON S. WHITE,
Director, Advertising and Publicity.

Progress Noticeable On Continent

By

W. Stephen Bush

THE expansion in the motion picture industry of Continental Europe is going forward with great strides. In my last letter I spoke of an increase in the amount of production and a slight improvement even in the quality. The growth of the industry, however, is far more noticeable in the exhibiting than in the producing branch. Throughout Central and Southeastern Europe there has been a noteworthy increase in motion picture theatres. In Northern and Western Europe the increase has been equally gratifying.

I am making a distinction between these two parts of Europe because in the former the number of new and bigger theatres has multiplied almost abnormally, while in the latter part the progress has been only normal or such as might have been expected just as we look forward to a normal increase in population. I have no statistics at hand but from my personal knowledge and observation I feel justified in saying that the seating capacity of Continental Europe has within the last two years increased more than 20 per cent. This is a very conservative estimate; as a matter of fact the increase has probably been somewhat larger.

Building Larger Theatres

Builders of motion picture theatres here now seem to aim principally at size. There are more theatres with a seating capacity of a thousand or more than ever before in Continental Europe. A seating capacity of a thousand or more may seem a rather modest affair to us, but here it is from 40 to 50 per cent. above the average. There naturally follows an increased capacity for the absorption of films—a fact which is not and certainly ought not to be lost on American producers and exporters. They are entitled to reap the full benefit of an increase in seating capacity, for it is largely due to the American picture that the foolish prejudice in Europe against motion pictures "as a sort of inferior entertainment for the lower classes" is beginning to disappear. The American films have created new patrons and new patrons call for more seats.

It is most interesting to note that this progress in Europe resembles in all its movements and characteristics our own progress as it began to set in about a dozen years ago. The great difference between the progress of Europe in 1925 and the American era of development say in 1912 must be found in the rate of speed. Here the comparison shows the American ship of kinematography rushing along like one of those widely advertised greyhounds of the ocean, while the European ship travels only slightly faster than the caravels of Columbus. Eventually, of course, both vessels reach the port—the caravel as well as the greyhound.

Europeans Poor in Presentations

Let me call attention to another point of similarity between our development and that of Europe: we too started to build theatres with larger seating capacity before we tried to make a feature of presentation. We now have more and bigger theatres in Europe, but presentation as an art and science and as the best means of perfecting a motion picture entertainment are still waiting for a Rothafel. There is not a theatre owner in an American town of 5,000 who would not be hailed as a Belasco of the motion picture even in the biggest houses of the key cities in Europe.

Yes, there are exceptions but they are negligible. I have been looking for some suggestions that I could pass on to our own theatre owners as a means of improving presentation, but I have found nothing to pass on. In Paris some of even the smaller theatres print the musical program selected for the feature and distribute it among the patrons. Some of the bigger houses print an elaborate program of this kind, describing each musical selection in detail or by name and mentioning the composers. I do not know how American audiences would receive such an innovation and I mention it here only because it shows an intelligent effort to serve the public.

Small Improvement in Projection

There are not wanting faint signs of an improved presentation—that is to say, an improvement over old standards. There is more system and method in advertising, which is at least closely related to presentation. There is a little, a very little, improvement in projection. I cannot at this time conscientiously say more than that. The long intermissions between reels, the lack of sense and courtesy in handling patrons, the frequent absence of even the commonest comforts, the uniform incompetency of most of the employees, must be mentioned as outstanding blemishes in the average motion picture theatre here.

The theatre owner does things on his own courage. Aids from the producers and the trade press which we have come to look upon as commonplace are quite unknown here. The American theatre owner enjoys splendid sources of information, which, for example, advise him of the success or failure of the films; which keep him posted on the movements of the producers, of distributors or of his own fellow theatre owners; which provide him with a complete calendar of releases; which offer him the services of experts trained in the schools of experience; which furnish him with the news about the general state of the industry and a score of other vital subjects. The European theatre owner knows no such luxuries. Europe in all fields of human endeavor, and of course in this field too, clings too much to the road of yesterday and has no conception of the American spirit of service.

In the field of production the Germans seem to be improving steadily if slowly. They seem to have a genius for the reproduction of great historic events and characters. They have just filmed another great historic subject, one which is still fresh even in the minds of the present generation. I am speaking of the story of the Austrian Crown Prince Rudolph and his paramour, the Baroness Vetsera. They have named the film "Mayerling," using the name of the hunting lodge where the heir of the Hapsburg crown and the beautiful Hungarian girl were found dead in each other's arms thirty-six years ago.

The film has been a great success both in and out of Germany. I consider it fully the equal of "Passion" and "Deception," or "Du Barry" and "Anne Boleyn" as they were known by their original titles. The subject was a dangerous one to handle, as the great tragedy had been belittled if not cheapened by the treatment it had received in the yellow press and the dime novels. The direction has steered clear of all difficulties and has presented the world with a first-class entertainment. The historic characters

(Continued on page 762)

An Independent Exhibitor Keeps Cool

By
L. O. Davis
(Virginia Amusement Company)

STRANGE things are happening in the ranks of the motion picture industry nowadays.

In the past few months we have heard a good deal about Producer-Distributor chains of theatres; about the major concerns gaining such hold on the exhibition end of our industry as to spell the ruin of the independent exhibitor.

We see, almost daily, announcements of new theatre projects by Producer-Distributor-Exhibitor interests, and amalgamations of big circuits throughout the country. In fact, there seems to be a mad rush between these big interests to attempt to monopolize the whole exhibition end of the business.

We might term this an epidemic of theatre construction and control and it certainly is giving many an independent exhibitor cause for a great deal of worry.

All the activity in this direction is but one of the phases this rapidly changing industry is passing through at this time. I see no real cause for worry on the part of the capable independent exhibitor.

No Cause For Alarm

An exhibitor is a professional, in every sense of the word, and is a trained executive graduated from the school of business experience: so, there is no more reason for him to worry over losing his business than there would be for a doctor or any other professional man to worry because of the thousands of other people entering his profession yearly.

We have gained our places in the business world through years of hard work and study of our immediate public and there's no reason on earth why we should not hold these places as long as we apply ourselves to our task, devoting our entire attention to the study of exhibition.

There's not another man on earth who understands your local conditions better than you, yourself. There's not a corporation in the world that can operate a theatre in your town as efficiently as you can do with your own house.

Isn't the personality of your theatre your most valuable asset? Isn't this the very thing that the houses which are controlled from distant points lack?

Are you not a well-liked, respected citizen of your community, and doesn't your knowledge of local conditions give you the jump on any outsider? Certainly!

A Real Need For the Exhibitor

Isn't the prestige that you have spent years in gaining, worth something? You are laps ahead of anyone entering the race, and all you have to do is to keep up the pace you have set!—never tiring or lagging, but always looking for the something your public wants, and playing fair with them at all times. There's not only room for you as a real exhibitor—there's real need of you!

You must not be discouraged at all by the distant rumblings of great theatre magnates. If you are a real, live exhibitor of the first rank, there's no cause for unease. You are an expert in your profession and you want to remember that there isn't a business or profession in the universe overcrowded with experts.

The places at the top are never jammed, in any walk of life. It's the small jobs that are filled to capacity—and a good exhibitor doesn't hold a small job!

Let's just keep to our jobs, encouraging as much independence in this industry of ours as possible; keeping ever uppermost in our minds that "Service is Success" and we'll still be exhibitors when some of those ambitious theatre projects are forgotten.

Many of the newly formed circuits will, no doubt, evolve into successful theatre chains; but many of them are apt to fail in their undertakings. Details essential to the prosperity of any great enterprise are being overlooked in this mad whirl of expansion and it's going to run many of these inexpertly steered ships ashore.

Hold On to Your Theatre

Independents—go slow! Don't get this theatre fever. Hold tight to what you have! It is better to run one house in the way that it should be run than it is to try to handle a dozen in a half-way fashion—and if you can't be the biggest exhibitor in the world, there's no reason why you shouldn't stick and try to be one of the best.

It seems worth while to offer a word to the Producer-Distributors. Don't neglect the production of good pictures—for that's the source of our existence—mine and yours.

If your time is divided between a string of theatres and Hollywood, then you certainly can not expect to compete with the men who will surely give all their time to production.

Specializing is more essential now than ever, and let's all hope this fact isn't realized too late for the salvation of the box office.

And, by way of closing, I feel that we would all be better off if those who produce would produce: those who distribute would stick to distribution: those who exhibit—exhibit!

Shiver—shudder—shake!

Aren't they putting theatres in chains?

Isn't the hand of amalgamation choking the old-timer out of the exhibitor ranks?

Steady!

Here's an independent exhibitor who hasn't lost his head.

See what he has to say.

Then—

Stick!—strive!—succeed!

Katz on Stand Before T. O. C. C. Combination; Submits Only to

By TOM WALLER

CONTRARY to Chairman O'Reilly's announcement, Samuel Katz answered no questions except some of those by Attorney Nathan Burkan which had been rehearsed over a week ago when the two, and Adolph Zukor as an intermediary, met in executive conference.

The 250 or more, mostly exhibitors from New York, New Jersey, Long Island and Westchester County, and among whom were many prominent national producers, distributors and their representatives, seemed to have been generally disappointed at the inopportunity of a few eager interrogators to attempt to heckle the youthful partner of the big Balaban and Katz circuit at the Manhattan luncheon tendered him by the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce in the Hotel Astor on April 14.

Katz read his speech, the highlight of which was his denunciation, substantiated by that of his firm, "of any booking combination that has as its basis price-cutting of pictures because this defeats the very fundamental necessities of our business." Katz pledged the support and co-operation of his midwest circuit to any movement which would insure permanency for the industry.

The luncheon to Katz was for the purpose of having that "master mind," as his was termed by Burkan, divulge to his listeners the secret of his organization's success and also to offer any suggestions which might aid the industry to establish a set of concrete and workable laws. In the latter respect, O'Reilly observed in his introductory remarks, the independent exhibitor and independent producer are more or less at sea as to whether their survival in the future will necessitate their becoming one or whether they may hope to look for any provender in their present individual capacities. It is as individuals that they desire to continue and thus their expectant representation of 3,000 at the Milwaukee convention next month will doubtless insist as a unit in determining from some of the industry's leading leaders, seemingly now mute on this subject, the course to be pursued, he said.

O'Reilly Urges Justice

"We have this situation right in New York where the man who has been a customer has been turned into a competitor. The guest of this organization is an exhibitor and also an officer in one of the world's greatest producing companies. I hope his talk will give us some ideas that will serve to guide us.

"For two and a half years," O'Reilly continued, "we have been engaged in a movement for competence and co-operation. Out of it comes to us our splendid arbitration. That arbitration, however, is much like the police court. It tries only petty larceny. We know that grand larceny and even murder are being committed. Yet we have no place to bring such things for a quick adjudication because they carry with them the bread and butter of the men who have devoted their lives to this business. We want to know if real permanency in the motion picture industry is assured the individual exhibitor."

Having rendered his prepared talk, which is printed in full later in this report, Katz, it was announced by Chairman O'Reilly, was ready to answer any questions which any person in the Astor's crowded College Hall might desire to place on the record. O'Reilly made it quite clear, as did Attorney Burkan, that it was not the object of the organization to embarrass the exhibitor king and that it was not to be expected that he would have to respond to every query.

Katz made it clear from the outset, however, that the questions he was prepared to answer were some of those only which Burkan had put to him in the private talk preceding the luncheon. He also indicated that at that time enough had been publicly aired and that more could be actually accomplished in executive session. He said that questions put to him in general would surround individual problems of the respective interrogator with which the speaker would have to be fully conversant before he could make a comprehensive suggestion.

Katz Will Co-operate

"I am willing to come to New York as frequently as necessary to sit in with Mr. Burkan and members of the T. O. C. C. on the problems enumerated," he said. "Our little organization will lend whatever aid it can to help clear up this situation."

Burkan seemed to be wholly in accord with Katz's stand on the subject of general interrogation. He secured the honor guest's permission to query him on some of the points which, the lawyer said, had arisen in the conference. In substance, these questions and answers are as follows:

Accepts One Interrogator

Would you care to state whether or not in your operations you would permit a man to acquire a theatre and then deprive him of his right to run it?

It hasn't been done in our zone.

Do you know of large combinations of theatres favoring several large combinations of producers?

I know of no national arrangement of any character of that sort.

In reply to a question endeavoring to determine the Balaban and Katz perspective on product for its theatres, Katz said:

When a business reaches a certain size it must think of quality as of the moment and it must also consider quality as of the months and years to come.

Burkan again referred to the recent conference asking Katz if it were not correct that he had then stated it was abhorrent to him that a power in the industry could put up a certain proposition to an individual exhibitor, namely: that that power would agree to give such exhibitor fifty per cent. of the profits providing the exhibitor would relinquish his managership, or that otherwise that power would refuse to supply such exhibitor with first run product.

Katz replied that he could not see where any permanency would come to the industry through such an activity as described.

You also stated to me, Burkan continued, that you never permitted your competitor to be deprived of the first run product he had already been obtaining. Is that so?

Balaban and Katz, the witness replied, have not up to this point encountered the situation which you have described. We are in territories where exhibitors are operating and as far as I know they are receiving the same product.

Honor Guest Lauded

If you, with your prominence in this industry, the attorney persisted, say that you believe the one who was there before the invasion should get the first run product, either in whole or in part of what he received before, then that's going to help. We in this locality are confronted with such a situation. If you say that you are opposed to it then you are going to be helpful and constructive to us.

I would answer that in this way. I don't think that any development, that any circuit is sound in its development, unless it is equally capable of developing without necessarily taking away any fellow's bread and butter.

Attorney Burkan then proceeded to summarize Katz's replies. I think, he said, that we will have no difficulty in attaining what we set out to do. I think Mr. Katz should know—and the other leaders should know—that we have for nearly a year been trying very hard with the Hays organization to work out some logical sensible scheme of protecting the so-called independent exhibitor, the man who has a theatre and has no connection with any chain or so-called booking combine. That individual and his investment today mean absolutely nothing. The combine may destroy him overnight.

Burkan Sounds Warning

Despite the fact that Hays is sympathetic, has promised to help the situation and "has agreed with me" and the T. O. C. C. that priority in a territory should be recognized, also that he is opposed to taking over a theatre on a fifty per cent. basis, little has been accomplished because, Burkan emphasized: "the master minds of the industry refuse absolutely to solve the problem."

The alleged lack of co-operation of the "master minds," Burkan declared, and their opinion that the film business was created but for their few, will spell their own disaster a month from now. Burkan then referred to the M. P. T. O. A. convention when, he said, 3,000 exhibitors will become unified and will then realize the tremendous power which unity will permit them to wield.

Speaking of the tendencies for expansion of "the few" into exhibitor realms Burkan

Denounces Price-Cutting Booking a Quizzing by Attorney N. Burkan termed it "illegitimate and bastardized." He accused "the few" of "equivocation and side-stepping." The lawyer said that they had ignored his constant appeals for an audience. "I have appealed to them and nothing has been accomplished," he declared.

"If they will all be men like Mr. Katz this question can be solved. I take this occasion to sound a note of warning—and that goes for all of them. It is just as important to protect the independent producer as well as the independent exhibitor. Mr. Katz's theatres would not be worth a nickle if he didn't have worthy product. I want to say that Mr. Katz is one of the foremost figures in this industry and that they are all afraid of him. . He can be of great help to us."

Cohen Faces Katz

An intimation of what the general quizzing would have been, had not Katz ruled against it, was partly revealed when Sydney S. Cohen, head of the board of directors of the T. O. C. C. and also an official in the M. P. T. O. A. took the floor.

Cohen lauded Katz's "open book" speech but said that the "book" might contain "a few loose leaves" of which Katz, in his zeal to aid, might not be aware.

On the subject of competition and individual theatre owners the speaker said Balaban and Katz had gone into a territory where one theatre owner was striving to make a livelihood, and were there preparing to erect a theatre. The exhibitor was in the audience, he said, in the presence of W. W. Watts of Springfield, Ill.

I feel sure that when you have learned the circumstances you will want to turn this theatre over to Mr. Watts, Cohen stated directly to Katz. Cohen remarked that Watts' situation was only illustrative of what was happening throughout the entire country.

During the open meeting Katz made no reply to this suggestion by Cohen. In fact, when Cohen completed his address the session was brought to a close.

In order to get Katz's viewpoint of this charge by Cohen, Moving Picture World secured an exclusive interview with the midwestern circuit owner as he was hurriedly leaving the Astor. He stated:

"There is a group of small exhibitors who are putting up this theatre in Springfield. Balaban and Katz have nothing to do with its erection. Mr. Cohen later admitted to me that he was in error on this point."

Record Attendance

The attendance at the T. O. C. C. affair, the most brilliant in the history of that organization, was swelled by many members of the M. P. T. O. of New Jersey who had just previously dined their president, Joseph Seider, in another section of the Hotel Astor.

Among those present, other than the regular assemblage of T. O. C. C. members, were noted: "Roxy," Reisenfeld, O'Toole, Samuel Goldwyn, Irving Lesser, Harry and Abe Warner, Ned Marin, Ned Depinet, Jules Levy and Hawley Turner, Harold B. Franklin, James R. Grainger of Fox, Sam Zierler of Commonwealth, Sam Morris and Eddie Silverman, Colvin Brown of F. B. O., Bill Cateret of the Comerford interests in Pennsylvania, Sidney Allen of Medina, Nathan H. Gordon of Boston, Mike Glynn, Patchogue, Meyer Schine, Gloversville.

Below is a verbatim report of the Katz speech:

Katz's Speech

"Gentlemen of the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce:

"Please permit me to thank you for this invitation to be with you today. It is an extreme pleasure to feel that I have come from the West to be your guest and to be privileged to join with you in a discussion of the problems that seem to face the industry today. I am, of course, somewhat in the dark as to just what I am to discuss with you, but presume that it is your idea that I should make a few remarks relative to the conditions existing today. I presume further that I am invited with you because of the prominence that Balaban and Katz have been given in many recent trade paper discussions.

"There seems to have been some apprehension in the minds of some people in the industry because of the Balaban & Katz expansion in the last few years. Let me sketch briefly to you some of the fundamental reasons for the development of the Balaban & Katz business.

"At the very outset, we predicated all of our activities on the word 'quality.' We attempted to build those kind of theatres that would enable us to give expression to quality entertainment. In this respect we do not claim any originality, but rather a study of the existing conditions indicated to us that the surest road to permanency in this business was quality. The very heart of the business depended, first on quality pictures and then upon quality exhibition. From our very inception it has been our aim and desire to be associated with those producers whose am was to make quality pictures. We have consistently supported those producers because of a realization that our investment would depreciate greatly unless the quality of pictures increasingly became better and better; because we knew, what you all know, that the public would only remain loyal to us as long as we kept pace with their desires for better and better production and better and better exhibition. This policy has been profitable from the outset and we feel grateful to all of those in the industry who have contributed their thoughts toward the continued improvement in the direction of production and exhibition.

Aimed For Permanency

"We studed every phase of this business that would give us permanency. We have spent great sums of money in institutional advertising, in selling the public good will, and making them permanent patrons. We have standardized our service to the public so as to make them feel a part of us. We have introduced into the operation of our business better types of young men, boys with college training and military experience, and have created a relationship of confidence between the public and ourselves. Throughout this period we have adhered closely to the thought of consistency in all of our activities. We have supported, year in and year out, those producers of experience in quality pictures. And it is the combination of this effort that has given Balaban & Katz its place in the exhibition field in the territory in which we operate.

"It was but natural, that after investing huge sums of money into our business that serious thought be given to certain fundamental economies that seem necessary for the continued prosperity and permanency of this business. One thing that presented itself to us was the necessity for enlarging our scope of activities beyond the territory in which we had begun our operations, because it is a mistake to have all of our eggs crowded into one basket where a jolt might destroy the very foundation of our business. It was but a natural business conclusion that an organization of the amount of invested capital that Balaban & Katz had invested must seek such expansion and affiliations that would give to Balaban & Katz more permanency. Therefore, we took on various affiliations which have been reported in the trade papers and with which you are undoubtedly familiar. We have affiliated ourselves with Messrs. Kunsky and Trendle in Detroit so that we are in operation in that zone. We have affiliated ourselves with many towns in the State of Illinois and are operating there. We have affiliated oourselves with A. H. Blank and are associated in his operations throughout Iowa and Nebraska. You see, therefore, that we have made some rather substantial investments recently and all of these are but a natural growth of a business that has earned for itself a reputation for quality.

Necessity For Quality

"I am repeating the word 'quality' with considerable frequency because I want to point out to you that every exhibitor owes to himself the duty of exercising every bit of energy to make it possible to continue to receive bigger and better pictures all the time, which in turn reflects itself in bigger box office returns.

"In every place that we have gone, particularly in the smaller towns, we have immediately tried to improve the situation through additional exploitation—more unform service—and a bit more presentation—all in the hopes of increasing the returns from that town so that it could do its share to contribute to bigger and better pictures. In every town and every zone we have entered, we have applied, in the proportion that it would fit that particular town or zone, the same principles of consistency and quality that made possible the success of our larger theatres in the larger cities. We have proceeded on the theory that every town in America, properly regulated, must and should show a profit, and that a consistent policy operation would bring increasing profit. This has worked out in a most interesting manner. We have found that in proportion to the population, the same theory of consistent quality has been applicable and has resulted in profitable operation.

(Continued on page 757)

Paramount's White Way Site Will Total Investment of $13,500,000

Files Plans for 29-Story Building; Will Include 4,000-Seat Theatre—Expect Occupancy by Labor Day 1926

Paramount Theatre and Building, New York.

ONE of New York's most historic spots will soon be the home of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and the site of a magnificent 4,000 seat theatre devoted to the exhibition of Paramount Pictures, according to plans filed with the Building Department, N. Y. C., by Famous Players-Lasky. These plans call for the construction of the Paramount Building, a twenty-nine story office structure and theatre, on land now occupied by the Putnam Building on Broadway, between 43rd and 44th streets, and Westover Court, an apartment house in the rear of the Putnam Building, N. Y. C.

A total investment of $13,500,000 will be made to improve the land which was purchased by the original John Jacob Astor for $25,000. The property, which has a 200-foot frontage on Broadway and extends 207 feet westward on 43rd and 44th street, is now appraised at $6,000,000. It was acquired by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation more than six years ago.

The structure, which will cost $7,500,000, will be surmounted by a tower six stories high. There will be stores on the ground floor and several more floors will be devoted to the executive offices of Famous Players. Razing of the Putnam Building will commence October 1.

A feature of the building will be a Motion Picture Hall of Fame, containing portraits and biographical material of the most notable figures in the history of motion pictures. The exhibits in the Hall of Fame will be selected by a jury similar to that controlling the election of the National Hall of Fame. There also will be a trophy room in which will be displayed exhibits marking the most outstanding events in the development of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

The main entrance to the Paramount Building will be on Broadway and will open into a grand lobby [illegible] feet long, [illegible] feet wide and rising two stories. Finished in marble and bronze the lobby will be similar in many ways to the foyer of the Paris Opera. What is said to be the largest office building clock in New York will face Broadway from the tower of the building. This clock will be three stories high and will be equipped with chimes imported from Europe.

The theatre will be opened on Labor Day, 1926. The architects are C. W. and George L. Rapp of Chicago. One of the features of the Paramount Theatre will be an enormous air-conditioning system.

The stage will be supplied with enormous water tanks, which will make possible the staging of ice ballets and other scenic effects in connection with the exhibition of the pictures. Another innovation will be special arrangements for the handling of two orchestras, and plans also call for the installation of one of the finest theatre pipe organs in the world.

A high-powered radio broadcasting station, which will put the theatre's musical programs on the air. A nursery, which not only will be a practical recreation room for children, but also will be decorated as a Toyland, tea rooms and rest rooms for patrons are also included in the plans for the theatre.

SILLS SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON

Milton Sills, First National screen star, was the guest of honor and speaker at an anti-censorship luncheon in Indianapolis, Ind., given by the National Indorsers of Photoplays, last Wednesday noon, April [illegible].

Sills made a hurried trip from New York leaving on Tuesday afternoon. Arriving at Indianapolis the next morning, he spoke at the luncheon and within three hours had entrained again for New York.

TIM TURNER, ELDORADO, DIES

W. Tim Turner, manager of the Grand Theatre, Eldorado, Ill., succumbed this week to a lingering illness at a local hospital. Mr. Turner had been a leading Eldorado showman for the past several years.

Governor Smith Indicates He Will Veto Cellulose Film Bill

GOVERNOR ALFRED E. SMITH will veto the bill passed by the last Legislature amending the general business law of the state as it relates to the manufacture, sale and use of film of a nitro-cellulose base and repealing certain existing restrictions on the manufacture, sale and use of film of an acetate of cellulose base. Such action on the part of the Governor is regarded as a foregone conclusion as the result of a hearing which was held in the Executive Chamber at the State Capitol in Albany on Monday afternoon, April [illegible].

Governor Smith took a decidedly keen interest in the provisions of the bill and during the hearing which lasted for fully an hour, the State's Chief Executive did almost as much talking as those who spoke for and against the measure, the Governor very frequently interrupting the speaker as he shot inquiry after inquiry back in order that he might better understand the true provisions of the bill.

Speakers opposing the bill included Thomas A. [illegible], deputy chief of the New York City Fire Department; John F. [illegible], chief inspector; James Holland, of the American Federation of Labor, and Taylor Phillips, representing the Motion Picture Machine Operators Union of New York City, the latter declaring that the bill "attacked the outposts of caution." Norman I. [illegible], of the Western Electric Company, also spoke against the bill, particularly section [illegible]. He stated that he appeared as the representative of a company and in the interest of owners and lessees of industrial film.

After the opposition had talked itself out, Governor Smith called for those favoring the bill, which brought Courtland Smith of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, to his feet. Mr. Smith started off by saying that he had never heard so many misstatements made, and that the only opposition in all North America to the bill came from the New York City Fire Department. Mr. Smith time and time again, in asking for favorable consideration of the bill, asked that "the responsibility be put on us," saying that nitro-cellulose film could not be shipped to anyone if the bill was signed, unless the shipper knew that the receiving party had a license permitting such reception.

The Governor said that he was quite certain that there would be no injury on the part of the community whether the film was of this or that base. The Governor, by his line of reasoning, made it plainly evident to the crowd that there is absolutely no chance of his signing the bill.

Milwaukee Convention to Deliberate Great Crisis in Exhibitor Affairs

Duration of Meeting Extended from Three to Four Days to Combat Decisively an Extraordinary Situation

NEWS of a definite crisis involving every independent theatre owner in the United States and the necessity for a tremendous attendance at the national exhibitor convention is contained in a letter mailed to all independent theatre owners by R. F. Woodhull, chairmam of the Board of Directors of the M. P. T. O. A., and Sydney S. Cohen, chairman of the Administrative Committee. It follows:

"The National Board of Directors of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America has just finished a two-day session in New York, and after a survey of the field and after reviewing the actual conditions in the industry as laid before them, have decided to extend the Milwaukee convention another day—May 12, 13, 14 and 15.

"The situation that confronts independent theatre owners is an extraordinary one and requires quick and decisive action. Our rights are in jeopardy and we have no alternative left, if we desire to continue to live, but to unite for justice and right, to fight.

"We have been meeting with the independent producers and distributors, state rights men and the heads of Vitagraph, Fox, Film Booking Offices, Warner Bros., etc., and they are fully alive to the danger. They realize the necessity of meeting the big problem that confronts all independents—an assurance of worth while product for the theatre owner for next season and thereafter, and a fair opportunity of showing it for the distributor and producer. They will be at Milwaukee, ready to battle with us and for us, to preserve that independence which we must have if this industry is to survive.

"The help, co-operation, strength and power of every independent theatre owner in the United States are needed right now if we desire to preserve our identity, to protect our independence, to survive the deliberate attempts at domination and control, to escape the coils the interests bent on monopolization are endeavoring to tighten into a stranglehold upon us.

"The situation is not local in any way or by any means confined to any one territory. It is breaking out in all parts, and unless forcibly cut out now will gain greater strength as the theatre owners in these places one by one succumb, leaving a very few to resist it.

"We are not alarmists. We are just putting the facts before you plainly, seeking to impress you with this, your problem, which must be met by you, which can only be solved by you. Perhaps you haven't felt the 'octopus' yet as your fellow theatre owner has. Don't feel secure, don't think you are immune—you have been left alone solely because your time hasn't come yet. Last year others felt that way and now they are clamoring to us to do something to obtain relief for them.

"All the sessions of the convention will be business ones—except an executive session for the election of a Board of National Directors. Trade and Commerce will be the slogan.

"Come to Milwaukee! Help us write a new Declaration of Independence, a new proclamation! Join with your fellow theatre owners there and show by your attendance that you are in earnest and will demand justice. 'Independents' number about 75 per cent. of the entire industry. But they are not intensively organized as is the minority interest which seems to force its will upon us. Do your share to organize the 'independents' at Milwaukee. Theatre owners from all parts of the country are attending—North, South, East and West. Canada is sending her delegation, too. Her representatives can tell you about the strangle-hold the 'combine' has in that territory and it will bring home to you forcibly the position which will be yours unless you take action at Milwaukee.

"We want you at Milwaukee. We want your co-operation; we want your aid; we want your assistance. We ask it in the interests of all 'independents'—theatre owners and producers and distributors. Will you give it to us? Will you be at Milwaukee and help us fight for our rights? Remember our rights is always prefixed by a 'y' which means your rights.

"The transportation committee at national headquarters—Suite 1110, 25 West 43rd street, New York—will be glad to give you every information about railroad accommodations and hotel reservations."

Referendum Illegal

Voters in Binghamton will not have an opportunity to vote on Sunday movies because of a ruling by State Attorney General Albert Ottinger, of Albany, that such a referendum on the question would be illegal. The common council passed a resolution last week to submit the question of Sunday movies to the voters at the November election.

The situation in Rome in 1921 and in Binghamton in 1925, is similar. The law places the responsibility for a decision on Sunday movies with the common council. The common council of Binghamton is said to be opposed to Sunday movies. It was pointed out that if a referendum was taken the validity of the voting might be attacked.

BLACKWELL WANTS OPEN SUNDAY

A movement is on foot at Blackwell, Okla., to open Sunday shows at that place. To meet the demand of the influx of population, and the wishes of the oil field workers, it is proposed to open the theatres and to provide clean entertainment for them.

Katz Talks

(Continued from page 755)

"There has been considerable discussion recently regarding the situation of booking combinations. While I have felt for many years that many basic economies might be effected through intelligent co-operation, I wish to state emphatically that I am opposed to any booking combination that has as its basis, price-cutting of pictures because this defeats the very fundamental necessities of our busines. We are not now engaged, or never will be, in any combination that has for its aim price-cutting, and we will never participate in any movement that doesn't recognize as its first aim, ever-increasing quality, and simultaneously a sympathetic understanding of the producers' problems in bringing that quality to the exhibitor.

"I do not wish to go into a discussion of local situations because I am helpless in intelligently approaching any situation that I am not familiar with, except to repeat that the first duty the exhibitor owes to himself and to every one else in the industry—because he can no longer remain isolated from the general problems—is the duty of allegiance to the consistent development of the industry at large, and the specific obligation to do his share toward making this business one of ever-growing popularity with the public.

"Balaban & Katz will at all times co-operate with and work side by side in any movement that spells for more permanency and ever-increasing quality."

Los Angeles Producers Will Welcome Shriners

A mammoth electrical pageant to be staged under the auspices of the motion picture industry will be one of the biggest, if not the biggest, feature of the entire Shriners conclave to be held in Los Angeles in June.

Motley H. Flint, president of the Pacific Trust and Savings Co., chief in command, and in charge of the entire program for the Shriners, has set aside the night of June 4 for the event. Frank Murphy, chief electrical engineer for Warner Brothers, and Harry D. Brown of the Cinema Studio Lighting Company, will stage the affair.

Warner Brothers will set aside their largest indoor stage, 400 feet long, for two evening affairs. The first of these will be a Spanish Fandango barbecue, the other a ball.

Foreign Representatives of Paramount

1

2

3

4

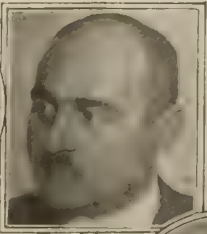
5

6

7

8

9



10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

1—John Cecil Graham, General Foreign Representative and Managing Director of the British Paramount organization, Famous Players Film Company, Ltd. and Famous-Lasky Film Service, Ltd. 2—Emil E. Shauer, assistant treasurer and director of the foreign department of the Famous Players-Lasky Corp. 3—John W. Hicks, Jr., managing director of the Famous-Lasky Film Service, Ltd., Paramount distributors in Australia, New Zealand, Dutch East Indies, Straits Settlements and Siam. 4—I. Blumenthal, special European representative of Famous Players Film Co., Ltd., London, Paris and Berlin. 5—Alfred Carmichael, branch manager of the Brisbane office of the Famous-Lasky Film Service, Ltd., Australia. 6—Montague Goldman, sales manager, Great Britain. 7—P. N. Brinch, general manager of Paramount Film Vertrieb, G,m,b, H., Germany, and general representative for Austria, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Roumania. 8—Ingvald C. Oes, Copenhagen, general representative of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for Norway, Sweden and Denmark. 9—Adolphe Osso, managing director, Societe Anonyme Francaise des Films Paramount, Paris. 10—Robert Rosenthal, exclusive Paramount distributor in Switzerland. 11—Phillip Harrison, branch manager of the Paramount office in Manchester, Eng. 12—Maurice Pezarro, branch manager of the Paramount office, Amsterdam, Holland. 13—John L. Day, Jr., general manager of Cia Pelicules D'Luxo Da America Do Sul, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and Paramount Films, S. A., Buenos Aires for Argentine Republic, Paraguay, Uruguay, Chile, and Bolivia. 14—David Souhami, branch manager of Paramount Films, S. A. I., Rome, Italy. 15—Carl York of Filmaktibolget, Liberty, exclusive Paramount distributors for Scandinavia, Stockholm. 16—J. J. Metsch, divisional sales manager of Societe Anonyme Francaise des Films Paramount, Brussels. 17—Walter LeMat of Filmaktiebolget Liberty, exclusive Paramount distributors for Scandinavia, Stockholm. 18—H. E. Walker, manager London Exchange. 19—Jean Faraud, divisional sales manager of Societe Anonyme Francaise des Films Paramount, Marseille. 20—Robert Hurel, divisional sales manager of the Paramount, Societe Anonyme Francaise des Films Paramount of Paris, France. 21—William C. Winship, district manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, S. A., in Mexico and Central America. 22—Ollie Traggardh, assistant manager of the Famous-Lasky Film Service, Ltd., London England. 23—William Hurworth, branch manager of the Sydney office of the Famous Lasky Film Service, Ltd., Australia. 24—Frederick Martin, director of publicity, Great Britain. 25—John Kennebeck, exploitation manager of the Famous Lasky Film Service, Ltd., of Australia. 26—Earl St. John exploitation manager, Great Britain.

Four Hundred Gather in New York for Paramount International Convention

Files Bankruptcy Petition in Mass.

The Federated Film Exchanges, Inc., of New England, with offices in Boston, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, listing total liabilities "unknown" and assets as "uncertain." According to the schedules, there are fifty unsecured creditors, whose known claims amount to $74,525. The principal unsecured creditors are the Arrow Pictures Corporation and the Banner Productions, both of New York City, for $28,500 and $14,000, respectively.

The assets consist chiefly of an unliquidated claim, in which the suit involved now is pending, against Robertson-Cole Pictures Corporation, with an estimated value given of between $50,000 and $100,000.

H. M. Richey Advises on "Family Days"

After investigating complaints that have been received from various sources during the past year on the type of motion pictures being displayed by the neighborhood theatres in Detroit, H. M. Richey, manager of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Michigan, came to the conclusion that most of them centered about pictures exhibited on Saturday and Sunday, two days that are known to exhibitors as "family days."

"Leave the adult pictures to the other days of the week, but on Saturday and Sunday serve something that the whole family, mother, dad and the kids, can consume together without a sign of a blush." That was Richey's advice in substance.

All Foreign Representatives in Attendance—Zukor, Kent and Shauer Among Speakers—Most Active Export Year Planned

PARAMOUNT began its second big international convention of the department of distribution under the general direction of Sydney R. Kent on April 16 at the Hotel Roosevelt. There were over 400 in attendance, representing the home office executives, studio officials, eastern sales forces and all foreign representatives. The convention will continue until April 20.

Bringing the foreign representatives to New York from nearly every country in the world is significant of the importance with which Paramount regards the future of the foreign field.

This year Paramount held the convention in New York and Los Angeles, with no stop-over at Chicago. The Hotel Ambassador is headquarters for the convention in Los Angeles.

The first day's session opened in New York with an address of welcome by Sidney R. Kent, general manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. He was followed by Emil E. Shauer, head of the Paramount foreign department who spoke on "Progress in Foreign Lands" and introduced the foreign representatives.

Mr. Shauer had the various heads of the foreign department present, including J. H. Seidelman, assistant manager; P. H. Stillson, traffic manager; O. R. Geyer, manager of the foreign advertising and publicity; M. Messeri, sales representative; J. P. Cunha, Portugese translator, and J. V. Sureda, Spanish translator.

Prominent Paramount executives and managers from abroad in attendance were John C. Graham of London, general foreign representative for the company and managing director of the Paramount British organizations; Ike Blumenthal, special representative for Europe; John W. Hicks, Jr., managing director of the Australasian organization; Adolphe Osso of Paris, general manager of the French company; John L. Day, Jr., of Rio de Janeiro, the general manager of Paramount's Brazilian and Argentine offices.

In addition there were a number of sales managers, branch managers and other department heads who are in New York for the international convention. These include P. N. Brinch of Berlin, general manager of Paramount Film Vertrieb, G. M. B. H., Germany, and general representative for Austria, Hungary, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Roumania; Ingvald C. Oes of Copenhagen, who is general representative of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for Norway, Sweden and Denmark; William C. Winship, district manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, S. A., for Mexico and Central America; Messrs. Walter Le Mat and Carl York of Filmaktiebolaget Liberty, exclusive Paramount distributors for Scandinavia with headquarters in Stockholm; Hermann Rosenfeld of Berlin, director of National Films, Berlin, exclusive Paramount distributor for Germany; Robert Rosenthal of Bale, exclusive Paramount distributor in Switzerland; Ollie V. Taggardh, assistant manager of the Famous Lasky Film Service, Ltd., of London; Montague Goldman of London, sales manager of the Great Britain Paramount organization; H.

(Continued on next page)

EXECUTIVES OF FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

Left to Right: Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production; Adolph Zukor, president; Sidney R. Kent, general manager.

Paramount International Convention

(Continued from preceding page)

E. Walker, branch manager of the London, England, exchange; Philip Harrison, branch manager of the Manchester, England, exchange; Frederick Martin of London, director of publicity for Great Britain; Earl St. John of London, Exploitation manager for Great Britain; Robert Hurel of Paris, divisional sales manager of the Societe Anonyme Francaise des Films Paramount of France; J. J. Letsch of Brussels, Belgium, divisional sales manager of the Societe Anonyme Francaise des Films Paramount; Jean Faraud of Marseilles, divisional sales manager of the Societe Anonyme Francaise des Films Paramount; Maurice Pezarro of Amsterdam; William Hurworth, branch manager, of Sydney, Australia; Alfred Carmichael, branch manager, of Brisbane, Australia; John E. Kennebeck of Sydney, exploitation manager of Australia; David Souhami of Rome, branch manager of Paramount Films, S. A. I., Rome, Italy.

In addition to attendance upon the convention sessions, the foreign delegation devoted considerable time to conferences with Mr. Shauer on distribution problems in their respective territories, in preparation for what is expected to be the most active year in the export business of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Harold B. Franklin, head of the theatre department, opened the afternoon session. J. C. Ragland and W. R. Frazer, representing Harold Lloyd, and Bogart Rogers, representing Douglas MacLean, were introduced following Mr. Franklin's address on the functions and future of the theatre department in co-operation with the department of distribution. The theatre department heads present were Fred Metzler, treasurer, Southern Enterprises, Inc.; Harry Goldberg, assistant to Harold B. Franklin; Herbert Elder, booking department; J. J. Amm, Florida district manager of theatres; Jack Mansfield, in charge of physical operation; Jack Barry editor of "Close-up," theatre department house organ, and Lem Stewart.

Several of the home office executives spoke at the afternoon session. The speakers and their subjects were: George W. Weeks, divisional sales manager, "The 100% Club," an internal organization of the department; B. P. Wiles, president of "The 100% Club;" Harry G. Ballance, divisional sales manager, "Consolidating Old and New Product"; John D. Clark, "Increased Circulation"; M. H. Lewis, "The Salesman's Obligation in Small Towns"; Mel Shauer, head of the Ad Sales Department, "Ad Sales"; Charles E. McCarthy, Paramount publicity manager, "Publicity Plus"; Claud Saunders, head of exploitation division, "Our Exploitation"; Phil Reisman, "Over the Top Contest"; Harry Reichenback, "Special Campaigns"; G. B. J. Frawley, "Exchange and Accounting."

This session closed at 5:30 p. m., and the members of the convention adjourned for dinner and the theatre as guests.

On April 17 Sidney R. Kent will occupy the entire morning session with three topics which represent the main purpose of the convention. The first is "Review of Present Product," "New Selling Policies" and "Fall Product and Its Sale."

A. M. Botsford, Paramount advertising manager, will open the afternoon session with "Our National Advertising," in which he will discuss the present advertising mediums, the addition of the farm papers to the advertising program and future plans for the extension of the Paramount national advertising program. Mr. Botsford will have a special delegation present consisting of Vincent Trotta, head of the art department; Russell Holman, trade paper advertising; A. O. Dillenbeck, secretary of Hanff-Metzger advertising agency, which handles the Paramount national advertising account, and Fred Rath, Alvin Adams and Samuel Cohen, who are assigned to Paramount's exhibitor advertising. Al Thorne, head of the Paramount poster department, will discuss "Posters and Display." Thorne is a poster expert of twenty years' standing. Dinner and theatre are the two items on the evening program for Friday.

The Saturday morning session will be a special combined meeting of the production and distribution departments for the general exchange of ideas in order to reach an even closer co-operation between the two departments. At this meeting, Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky and Sidney R. Kent will speak. One of the other features of this meeting will be an address by Harold Bell Wright, the famous author. In the open discussion which will follow, the following members of the production department are expected to take an active part: William Le Baron, Edwin C. King, manager of the Eastern studio; Allan Dwan, Walter Wanger, Henry Salsbury, Ralph Block, John Butler, Lloyd Sheldon, Julian Johnson, Townsend Martin, Forrest Halsey, John Russell, Paul Schofield, Willis Goldbeck, D. W. Griffith, Herbert Brenon, Frank Tuttle and Edward Southeland

In the afternoon session, the man selected from the sales force to lead the Fall Quota Contest will make an address. The session will close with a summary of the convention by Sidney R. Kent and the pledges from the sales forces.

At the banquet Saturday night A. M. Botsford will preside as toastmaster, and Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, S. R. Kent, and D. W. Griffith will speak. The guests of honor will be former Governor McElvey of Nebraska, who will address the convention on the subject of legislative matters affecting the industry.

The Sunday morning session will be devoted to completing any unfinished business from the Saturday session. In the after noon new product will be screened both at the hotel and the Paramount home office.

Monday morning and afternoon will be devoted to individual meetings in the offices of the individual sales managers. At 5:30 about seventy-five of the executives attending the New York convention will leave on the Lake Shore Limited for Chicago en route to Los Angeles.

Mo. Blues Fail

No blue laws got through the Missouri legislature which adjourned on Wednesday, April 8. The reformers had introduced Sunday closing, censorship and a bill preventing the sales of tickets after all seats were taken in theatres, but each of these bills died in committees.

Radio Station Will Observe Box Office

Something quite interesting in radio broadcasting programs has been announced by the Film Corporation of America which formally dedicate its new radio station KFVE in its University Motion Picture Studios, Egyptian Building, 6800 Delmar Boulevard, University City, Mo., on Wednesday evening, April 15.

This new station, which will have an international range, will not broadcast during the hours motion picture theatres have on shows, but will confine its operations to between 6 and 7 p. m., and after 11 p. m. A feature of its broadcasting schedules will be reviews of current motion picture, dramatic and vaudeville and other amusements by an internationally known motion picture director and actor.

The Film Corporation of America, a Missouri corporation with a paid-up capitalization of $350,000, has no connection with any other motion picture production or distribution organizations. It will produce program feature pictures, comedies, education and industrial pictures and also operate departments for the production of trailers, art titles and other propaganda films and also for family group films. C. B. Clapp, capitalist and banker of Moberly, Mo., is president and principal owner of the Film Corporation of America.

F. P. L. Buys in Toronto

Notice has been given of the sale transfer of the Allen Theatre, Montreal, formerly one of the largest and most beautiful houses of the chain operated across Canada by Jule and J. J. Allen, to the Palace Theatre, Limited, a company affiliated with the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Toronto, under whose auspices the theatre is now being conducted. The sale price is $228,857.76.

Selling Your Seats

Here's something better than the drawing contest.

Cliff Lewis stays up all night every Friday.

Addison makes cleanup with Chautauqua bookings.

Excuser helped Excuse Me.

How Hyman surrounded Charley's Aunt.

Gave a party on house anniversary.

Gave a dummy an automatic breath.

Edgar Hart profits with capsules.

Love pills for Oh Doctor.

Got a window on a joke.

Map drawing helps Top of the World.

O. T. Taylor gets novel lobby on The Thief of Bagdad.

Tagged keys work for Locked Doors.

Take-a-chance-week is a general cleanup.

Swanke's clever fabricated three sheets.

Mine entrance lobby helped Coming Through.

Advertising examples on The Thief of Bagdad, Cheaper to Marry, Charley's Aunt, The Last Laugh and Oh Doctor.

(Several hundred dollars worth of valuable hints are parked in the Selling the Picture to the Public. Look them up.)

Greater Movie Season Inaugurated by Will Hays for U. S. in August

Giving Public Correct Angle on Pictures and to Increase Attendance are Objective Points—Movement Is National in Scope

A NATIONAL movement for a Greater Movie Season that will be celebrated by thousands of theatres throughout the United States next August, has been inaugurated by Will H. Hays as President of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

The object of the campaign is to increase attendance at motion picture theatres beginning in August and to create good-will for motion pictures by advertising and publicity that takes the offensive in spreading the news as to what is right with the industry.

The Greater Movie Season has been a conspicuous success in San Francisco, Los Angeles and a number of other cities where exhibitors upon their own initiative have staged concerted drives that have resulted in great increases in business during August. The principles of these campaigns will be carried out nationally.

Jerome Beatty, director of exploitation of Universal Pictures Corporation, has been loaned by Carl Laemmle for four months to direct the Greater Movie Season Campaign under the supervision of Hays. A force has been organized to open the drive and to prepare material for the use of exhibitors. Later the staff will be augmented with men who will tour the United States to help the various cities get their Greater Movie Season campaigns under way.

Prominent exhibitors, with whom the plans have been discussed, have been unanimous in declaring that it is a movement that will be of tremendous value to the motion picture theatres of the United States and have assured Hays that he will have the whole-hearted support of theatre owners of the nation.

The Greater Movie Season campaigns in each city will be handled by a board made up of representatives of all the theatres in that city. In cities where motion picture distributors have exchanges, the branch managers of companies belonging to the Hays organization will co-operate.

The theatres will stage during the month of August a monster jubilee, celebrating the opening of the new motion picture season and promotion motion pictures in general. They will advertise through every known method that August marks the beginning of a new era in motion pictures.

Intensive exploitation service will be given by the Hays organization to every city that joins the Greater Movie Season campaign. Special accessories, novelties, posters, etc., will be prepared and furnished to exhibitors at cost. A comprehensive press sheet will contain complete details as to the promotion of the campaigns, articles by famous authors and a series of institution advertisements on motion pictures to be used by theatres in their newspapers and house programs.

A national prize contest will be tied up locally with all theatres participating.

Exhibitor—Exchange Hatchet Funeral Urged by Cook

"There is one thing which exhibitors sooner or later have got to learn," said C. E. Cook, business manager of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri, this week," and that is that the antique slogan, 'Battle the exchanges,' is musty and out of date. You wouldn't believe it, but I have found certain exhibitors ready to sympathize more with exchanges than theatre owners if I happen to mention that the tactics of the exchanges, as a whole, have been altogether fair of late.

"It must stop! This thing of regarding as enemies the men who really should be our co-workers is all wrong. Neither the theatre owner nor the distributor will ever get anywhere as long as there is a battle between them. I am glad to say that the 'battle' element is just about to disappear in this territory, but there still remains a little antagonism. When an exhibitor has a grievance case against any exchange, instead of trying to fight it out single handed, let him file it with us. We have been able to accomplish a great deal in the last few months by reasonable, fair and friendly dealings with the exchanges."

It is not generally known among exhibitors as a whole, but A. H. Cole of Famous Players-Lasky, Kansas City, working under the supervision of the Hays organization, has spent many tireless days and nights in combating legislation unfavorable to exhibitors.

"I don't care to come in for any personal credit," Cole modestly admitted, "but I do think that exhibitors out in the territory should begin to realize that what is of interest to them is just as vital to us. We are all in the same boat, headed in the same direction."

UNITED RE-ELECTS DIRECTORS

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the United Artists Corporation, held in its offices at 729 Seventh Avenue, New York City, the entire board of directors were re-elected as follows: Joseph M. Schenck, Hiram Abrams, Dennis F. O'Brien, Maurice G. Cleary, Albert H. T. Banzhaf and Nathan Burkan.

Incorporations

There was much activity in the way of companies forming and entering the motion picture business in New York state during the past week. Records in the state's corporation bureau show that ten companies incorporated and entered the business during the past few days and several of them showed substantial amounts of capitalization.

These companies included Pangor Amusement Corporation, capitalized at $200,000, with I. Pekelner, Joseph Horowitz, N. Y., and J. Genell, Brooklyn; Robbis Amusement Co., Inc., $100,000, Samuel Small, L. Rubin, Max Abraham, Brooklyn; Composite Pictures Corporation, with H. E. Goldberg, J. Morrison, F. Freeman, Brooklyn; Producing Rights Conveying Corporation, with Robert. Buchman, George Weitzenberg, M. Cohen, New York; Mutual Chaplins, Inc., with L. Auerbach, Joseph Simmonds, William W. Wilson, New York City; Rhebem Theatres Corporation, with Isaac Abramson, Leon Kauffman, Albert Strauss, New York; Celebrity Pictures, Inc., with William B. Levy, M. Edelstein, New York; H. A. Post, Brooklyn, the capitalization of these companies not being stated; Newburgh Theatres Corporation, $30,000, R. D. Sarfaty, Brooklyn; A. D. Ghersan, Queens; L. M. Scheuer, New York; Friesiva Pictures Corp., $25,000, John Friedgen, F. A. Siriani, A. P. Valerio, New York; Blue Ray Productions, $10,000, R. L. Newman, J. M. and D. N. Mowat, New York City.

Papers have been filed with the secretary of state of Massachusetts, incorporating the Sea Coast Film Company to produce motion pictures in Lynn, Mass. The company is incorporated for $100,600. The officers, holding the majority of the stock, are: President, Chester A. Sanborn of Lynn; treasurer, Charles W. Field of Somerville; clerk, Albert W. Plummer of New York. This concern had selected the name of East Film Company, but as there is another concern operating under the same title in New Jersey, it has changed the name to Sea Coast Film Company.

Four other corporations in Massachusetts formed for the purpose of engaging in the motion picture business and representing a total investment of $250,000, were granted charters during the week of April 6. They are as follows:

Boston Capital Operating Company, Boston, theatrical; capital, $50,000; incorporators, Carl H. Uriot, Roslindale, Patrick J. Delaney, Dedham and Albert S. Collins of Dorchester.

Sea Coast Corporation, Lynn, moving pictures; capital $50,000, and 500 no par value shares; incorporators, Chester A. Sanborn, Lynn; Charles W. Field, Somerville, and Albert W. Plummer, Boston.

Dependable Pictures Corporation, Boston, moving pictures; capital, $100,000; incorporators, Max Feldman, Roxbury; Abraham Kadets, Boston; Theodore Shaps, Dorchester.

Golden Eagle Cinema Company, Boston, moving pictures; capital, $50,000; incorporators, L. Melano Rossi, Roxbury; Guiseppe Sordillo and Erminio Sordillo, both of Boston.

DECLARES PICTURE-RADIO SOON

Will the day ever come when motion pictures will be transmitted the same as sound is today, by radio? Professor Ward C. Priest, of St. Lawrence University, in Canton, N. Y., declares that such will come and his declaration made at a recent gathering in Watertown has occasioned much talk throughout the state. Professor Priest has charge of the broadcasting station at St. Lawrence University.

Skouras Plan a $5,500,000 Theatre

Skouras Brothers Enterprises of St. Louis, which plans to increase its capitalization from $1,000,000 to $8,000,000, has announced officially that construction of the $5,500,000 Ambassador Theatre and office building at Seventh and Locust Streets, St. Louis, will get under way May 1. The taking of bids will be closed in April 27. The plans have been prepared by C. W. and George L. Rapp, of Chicago.

Skouras Brothers own the Grand Central, West End Lyric and Lyric Theatres, the Lyric Skydome and also own a controlling interest in the Capitol Theatre and a half interest in the St. Louis Amusement Company, which has fifteen outlying theatres and several large airdomes. In addition they hold the franchise for First National Pictures in this territory and own the St. Louis Film Exchange. They hope to have the Ambassador Theatre ready by July, 1926. Skouras Brothers Enterprises is a Delaware corporation.

Badger Combine Has a Shake-up in Executive Board

J. H. Silliman, prime mover in the formation of the Badger Theaters Corporation, has resigned as its first president after only a few months in office and has been succeeded by George Fischer, it has become known following a general meeting of the organization's membership in Milwaukee.

Silliman explained that his action was prompted only by the pressure of his private interests which of late have assumed greater proportions through the expansion of his theatre circuit. He remains as a member of the board of directors.

Fischer, veteran Milwaukee showman and at present in control of the Milwaukee and Capitol Theatres, has been identified with Silliman in the Badger project ever since its inception and since its formation has been first vice-president.

With Silliman's retirement, virtually the entire list of officers has undergone a change, since it was necessary at the last meeting to find a successor also for Earl Rice, second vice-president, who has sold his theatrical holdings in Milwaukee and is going West.

Filling the vacancy created by Fischer's promotion is Ernest Langemack, of the Colonial, Milwaukee. Charles Trampe, of the Rainbow, Milwaukee, has been elected second vice-president to replace Rice, while George Bauch, of the Mirth, has been named to the board of directors.

Between forty and fifty exhibitors from the state attended the session at the Milwaukee headquarters. They were assured that the change in officers would have no effect in the operation of the combine.

Kansas City Theatres Fight Amendment to Building Code

Kansas City exhibitors are fighting a proposed new building code for that city, which, if adopted, would mean unlimited expense for theatre owners. More than $5,000 would be added to the cost of construction of the average first run house, should exhibitors be forced to conform with the proposed code, it is said.

Through C. E. Cook, business manager, the executive committee of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri has voiced its protest of the code to members of the building code committee in the city council and asked that the present code, as far as theatres are concerned, be allowed to stand. The proposed code would require much additional expense in altering old houses, also. Excerpts from various sections of the proposed code:

Section 268 (Paragraph 3)—If any structure is built over the ceiling or roof of any building used for a theatre, opera house or motion picture show, the girders, trusses or other metal members supporting said structures shall be protected against fire by at least 4 inches of fireproof material with special provisions to reinforce or support it.

Section 275 (Paragraph 1)—All seats in the auditorium, except those contained in boxes, accommodating not more than 12 persons, shall be firmly secured to the floor and shall be placed not less than 32 inches back to back.

Section 278 (Paragraph 2)—Where there may be 30 or more rows on the ground floor, additional cross isles not less than 32 inches wide in the clear shall be introduced not more than 16 rows apart at either side of the center section of seats, or center aisle, and extending to the side aisle or exits.

Section 284 (Paragraph 2)—The combined width of entrance and exit stairways shall provide for 1 foot in width for each 25 persons accommodated on that tier and the aggregate width of emergency exit doorways, opening from each gallery, shall be 60 per cent more than the required width of the stairways to which they lead.

Section 288—There shall be legibly printed on the program of each performance a separate diagram or plan of every tier. Each such diagram shall occupy a space of not less than 15 square inches and shall show distinctly the entrances and exits from each tier and where they lead.

Section 291 (Paragraph 1)—No entrance stairs to any tier in the auditorium shall be less than 5 feet wide.

M. P. T. O. K.-M Has 4 Major Problems

Four major problems, about which most of the discussion will revolve, are due to come up at the convention of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri, April 27 and 28 at the Hotel Biltmore, Kansas City. The problems are: Producer owned theatres; more available trailer service at a nominal charge and placed upon a system basis; non-theatricals in Missouri (those in Kansas having been dealt a death blow by state legislation) and the leasing of military memorials for public services; condition of prints, opposition to old prints and the question of when a print should be discarded.

"Frequent adjustments are made on prints, but statistics show few exhibitors file complaints," C. E. Cook, business manager of the M. P. T. O. K.-M., said. "The exchanges are willing to be fair, we have found, and exhibitors should not be so backward in bringing forth their cases."

New Investment Unit Is Established by Balaban & Katz

Balaban and Katz have organized another department to the expanding business of the big circuit and this will be known as the investment unit under the direction of W. R. Parker. The new department will handle the sales of the preferred and common stock of the Balaban and Katz organization to the patrons of the various theatres of the company.

Heretofore the sales have been made either through the employes of the circuit or by the banks with which the organization did business. A bonus system has been arranged whereby the ushers and staffs of the various houses will receive extra compensation for stock sales.

A monthly sales plan has been evolved whereby the patron may have the Balaban and Katz investment department buy the stock on the market at the current prices which last week averaged 53 to 54 for the common stock.

Several thousand patrons have bought the stock since it was put on the market last year and practically all of the employes hold shares in the big circuit.

PETE SMITH JOINS METRO

Major Edward Bowes, vice-president of Metro-Goldwyn, announces that Louis B. Mayer has appointed Pete Smith, one of the best known publicity men in the industry, to take charge of publicity at the Culver City studios. He is now on his way to New York where he will confer with Howard Dietz, newly appointed director of advertising and publicity for the entire organization.

Charles Condon, who formerly handled the Coast publicity, becomes one of the production managers of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company.

Progress Noticeable on Continent

(Continued from page 752)

are speaking likenesses, especially the old Emperor Francis Joseph.

It is too bad that a few pieces of poor photography have been permitted to get into the film. The European producer should know by this time that poor photography of any kind is considered a mortal sin by American audiences, though the native audiences here seem to overlook such defects.

The other German picture, which also has scored a great success in all Europe, is called "Motherhood," with Henry Porten in the leading part. This actress is known to our public by her impersonation of Anne Boleyn. "Motherhood" is a very simple and very human story ending happily after moments of heart-rendering suspense and impending disaster. Here and there the director has woven some excellent comedy relief into the film—a most unusual thing in a German film. It is all charmingly and pathetically true to life. Henny Porten's acting assures the success of the film but lots of credit must be given to the baby. The theme of the story is the most international imaginable—a mother's love for her baby. I regret that in this film there are likewise some rough spots in photography.

New Jersey Theatre Owners Praise Seider at Luncheon

By SUMNER SMITH

A GROUP of much traveled men, exponents of the "See New Jersey First" idea, met at the Hotel Astor, New York, at noon on April 14 to honor a co-worker who has traveled the state even more than they. The hosts were the directors of the M. P. T. O. of N. J., each with a record of over 2,000 miles covered within the state on organization work, and the guest was President Joseph M. Seider.

But this matter of travel had only an incidental bearing on the occasion. The gathering had a double ideal—to thank "Joe" Seider for his work in behalf of the organization and to express the cordial good will that his personality inspires. If "Joe" wasn't a dynamo of efficient industry, still he would be admired.

The spirit of the luncheon was epitomized by the presentation of a loving cup inscribed, "To Joseph M. Seider, for unusual and meritorious services rendered to the Theatre Owners of New Jersey."

Unique Gathering

It was a unique gathering of travelers, for each director was a survivor of an organization law that many regional meetings must be held each year, for the convenience of exhibitor members, and that three absences on the part of a director automatically forces his resignation. New Jersey is in a peculiar situation as regards motion pictures, having no exchanges and being overshadowed on the north by New York and on the south by Philadelphia. So the regional meetings were conceived, and each host at the luncheon had traveled over 2,000 miles up and down New Jersey.

"Joe" Seider, in his capacity as president and, before, as president of the Board of Directors, has done more state-trotting than they. He has been everywhere that the famous Jersey mosquitoes have, and he can tell you many sections they don't know anything about. He has talked with legislators at Trenton, the Lord's Day Alliance in Hudson County, concessionists at Atlantic City and Asbury Park, and distributors' representatives in New York and Philadelphia. He has worked for Sunday opening, less taxes and lower rentals, always with fairness as well as energy, and his efforts, now bearing fruit, were the cause of the Astor affair.

High Percentage

Sidney E. Samuelson, chairman of the Board of Directors, told about all this in introducing the New Jersey president. He told how Pete Woodhull built up the association from 1921 to 1924 and how, on that firm foundation, "Joe" Seider has created a highly efficient organization until the enrolled membership now is 93 per cent. Samuelson concluded with a tribute to Seider's personality.

Contrary to custom, the presentation of the loving cup had been kept a secret and Seider was genuinely surprised and affected. He spoke briefly, expressing appreciation and urging a full attendance at the national exhibitor convention.

Besides the guest of honor, those present were: I. Seider, his brother; S. E. Samuelson and N. H. Samuelson of Newton, W. C. Hunt of Wildwood, I. M. Hirshblond of Toms River, R. F. Woodhull of Dover, Leon Rosenblatt of Bayonne, Leo Juskowitz of New Brunswick, Louis Rosenthal of Orange, Benjamin Schindler of Camden, Vice-President Peter Adams of Paterson, Master Arthur Adams, his son; Secretary Henry P. Nelson of Elizabeth, Treasurer William Keegan of Trenton, Miss Louella Parsons, New York American; William A. Johnston, J. S. Dickerson and Oscar Cooper, Motion Picture News; Willard C. Howe, Trade Review; Joseph Dannenberg, Film Daily; John S. Spargo, Exhibitors' Herald; Fred Schader, Variety; P. S. Harrison, Harrison's Reports; Robert E. Welsh, Lawrence A. Urbach and Clarence Schottenfels, Moving Picture World.

JOSEPH M. SEIDER

Independents Hint Retaliation for Price Cutting in New York

ASKED to express an opinion as to the reason for the delay in the actual signing of contracts with the Independent Producers for the 1925-26 production, Joe Brandt, president of the Columbia Pictures Corporation, said that there is no doubt but that the exhibitors in the New York territory are to blame for the hesitancy on the part of some Independent exchanges to contract for product for the next season. He said:

"Most exhibitors during the past year, particularly in the New York territory, have believed that they can control the situation by endeavoring to pit one exchange against the other and thus bring down the rental price of pictures to the lowest possible point. Heretofore the exhibitors have at the start of the buying season used the Independent exchanges as a method of whipping the bigger programs in line, but they have come to a point where they feel so sure that they can dictate prices that they have overlooked the one important factor in their business—that without pictures they cannot run their theatres.

"The Independent producers have stood the brunt of the price slashing methods of the exhibitors and they have gambled enormous sums of money in endeavoring to prove their contention—that the output of the Independent Producers is a standardized and dependable one worthy of support. Despite the fact that every Independent Producer during the season of 1924-25 released pictures of exceptional merit, the exhibitors did not and do not seem inclined to give to the Independent organizations the support that they must have in order to continue to be a factor in the industry.

"I have just returned from a very extensive trip and I find that there is a tendency outside of New York to give the Independent exchanges the greatest possible support in order to keep them in the field. Exhibitors in various parts of the country have learned that their only salvation is to keep the Independent producers alive as an ace in the hole to prevent a monopoly.

"The system which has been put into effect in the New York territory, especially in reference to tying up circuits and forcing prices down to an impossible figure, has brought about a situation whereby the Independent producer and the Independent exchangeman must weigh carefully the attitude of the exhibitors.

"The spirit of optimism still prevails among the producers, and outside of New York we are getting the support that we are entitled to. It is for New York exhibitors to decide whether they are going to continue their present tactics of making the Independent exchanges and Independent producers the goats and thus make it necessary for these producers and exchanges to retaliate in some substantial form.

"The Independent producers are determined to continue in business, and if they have to follow the example of Carl Laemmle, who started out to fight the monopoly many years ago as an Independent, this will be done. These producers are determined that their product shall be distributed and brought before the public. If there is no other way than to buy or build theatres, the exhibitors who are pursuing these unfair methods will have no one to blame but themselves."

Schenck Signs Lillian Gish

Lillian Gish was signed to a long term contract recently by Nicholas M. Schenck, vice-president, who concluded arrangements whereby all of her future productions will be made by the Metro-Goldwyn Pictures Corporation at their studios in Culver City, Cal.

The first Metro-Goldwyn Picture in which Miss Gish will star has not yet been announced, but it will be a vehicle of outstanding international fame. Miss Gish's director has not yet been selected.

Thomas H. Ince PRESENTS

CHARLES RAY

supported by

Charlie Murray and Betty Blythe

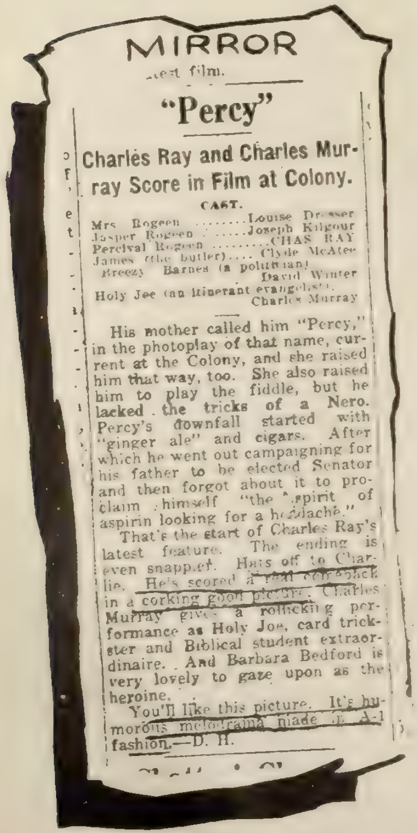
"The Best Picture on Broadway!"

That's what New York critics said of "Percy" when it showed at the Colony.

DIRECTED · BY
R. WILLIAM NEILL



MIRROR

atest film.

"Percy"

Charles Ray and Charles Murray Score in Film at Colony.

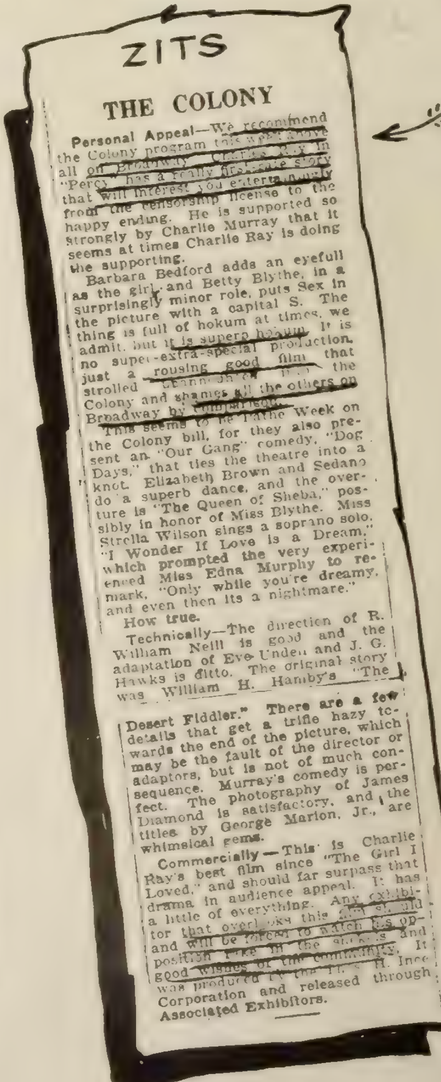
CAST.

Mrs Rogeen ....Louise Dresser
Jasper Rogeen ......Joseph Kilgour
Percival Rogeen ....CHAS RAY
James (the butler).... Clyde McAtee
Breezy Barnes (a politician)
David Winter
Holy Jee (an itinerant evangelist).
Charles Murray

His mother called him "Percy," in the photoplay of that name, current at the Colony, and she raised him that way, too. She also raised him to play the fiddle, but he lacked the tricks of a Nero. Percy's downfall started with "ginger ale" and cigars. After which he went out campaigning for his father to be elected Senator and then forgot about it to proclaim himself "the spirit of aspirin looking for a headache."

That's the start of Charles Ray's latest feature. The ending is even snappier. Hats off to Charlie. He's scored a real comeback in a corking good picture. Charles Murray gives a rollicking performance as Holy Joe, card trickster and Biblical student extraordinaire. And Barbara Bedford is very lovely to gaze upon as the heroine.

You'll like this picture. It's humorous melodrama made in A-1 fashion.—D. H.



ZITS

THE COLONY

Personal Appeal—We recommend the Colony program this week above all on Broadway. Charles Ray in "Percy" has a really first-rate story that will interest you entertainingly from the censorship license to the happy ending. He is supported so strongly by Charlie Murray that it seems at times Charlie Ray is doing the supporting.

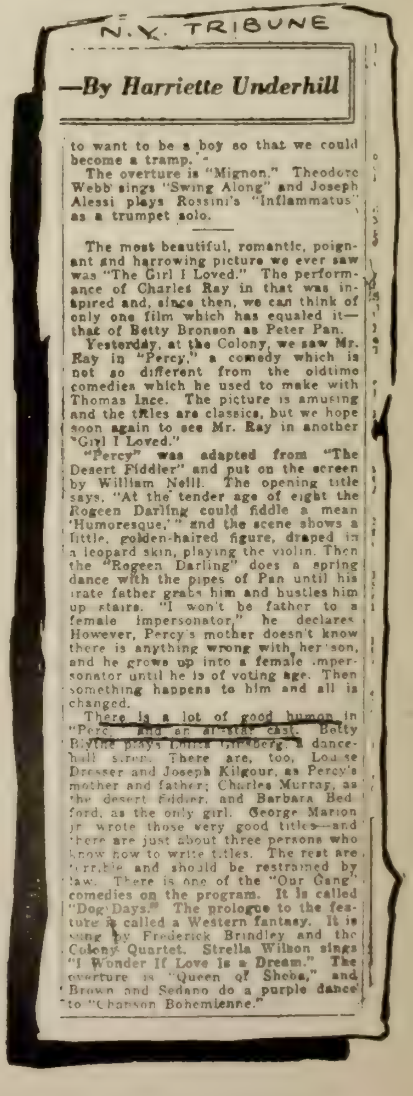
Barbara Bedford adds an eyefull as the girl and Betty Blythe, in a surprisingly minor role, puts Sex in the picture with a capital S. The thing is full of hokum at times, we admit, but it is superb hokum. It is no super-extra-special production, just a rousing good film that strolled unannounced into the Colony and shames all the others on Broadway by comparison.

This seems to be Pathe Week on the Colony bill, for they also present an "Our Gang" comedy, "Dog Days," that ties the theatre into a knot. Elizabeth Brown and Sedano do a superb dance, and the overture is "The Queen of Sheba," possibly in honor of Miss Blythe. Miss Strella Wilson sings a soprano solo, "I Wonder If Love is a Dream," which prompted the very experienced Miss Edna Murphy to remark, "Only while you're dreamy, and even then its a nightmare."

How true.

Technically—The direction of R. William Neill is good and the adaptation of Eve Unden and J. G. Hawks is ditto. The original story was William H. Hamby's "The Desert Fiddler." There are a few details that get a trifle hazy towards the end of the picture, which may be the fault of the director or adaptors, but is not of much consequence. Murray's comedy is perfect. The photography of James Diamond is satisfactory, and the titles by George Marion, Jr., are whimsical gems.

Commercially—This is Charlie Ray's best film since "The Girl I Loved," and should far surpass that drama in audience appeal. It has a little of everything. Any exhibitor that overlooks this film should and will be forced to watch his opposition rake in the shekels and good wishes of the community. It was produced by the Thomas H. Ince Corporation and released through Associated Exhibitors.



N.Y. TRIBUNE

—By Harriette Underhill to want to be a boy so that we could become a tramp."

The overture is "Mignon." Theodore Webb sings "Swing Along" and Joseph Alessi plays Rossini's "Inflammatus" as a trumpet solo.

The most beautiful, romantic, poignant and harrowing picture we ever saw was "The Girl I Loved." The performance of Charles Ray in that was inspired and, since then, we can think of only one film which has equaled it—that of Betty Bronson as Peter Pan.

Yesterday, at the Colony, we saw Mr. Ray in "Percy," a comedy which is not so different from the oldtime comedies which he used to make with Thomas Ince. The picture is amusing and the titles are classics, but we hope soon again to see Mr. Ray in another "Girl I Loved."

"Percy" was adapted from "The Desert Fiddler" and put on the screen by William Neill. The opening title says, "At the tender age of eight the Rogeen Darling could fiddle a mean 'Humoresque,'" and the scene shows a little, golden-haired figure, draped in a leopard skin, playing the violin. Then the "Rogeen Darling" does a spring dance with the pipes of Pan until his irate father grabs him and bustles him up stairs. "I won't be father to a female impersonator," he declares. However, Percy's mother doesn't know there is anything wrong with her son, and he grows up into a female impersonator until he is of voting age. Then something happens to him and all is changed.

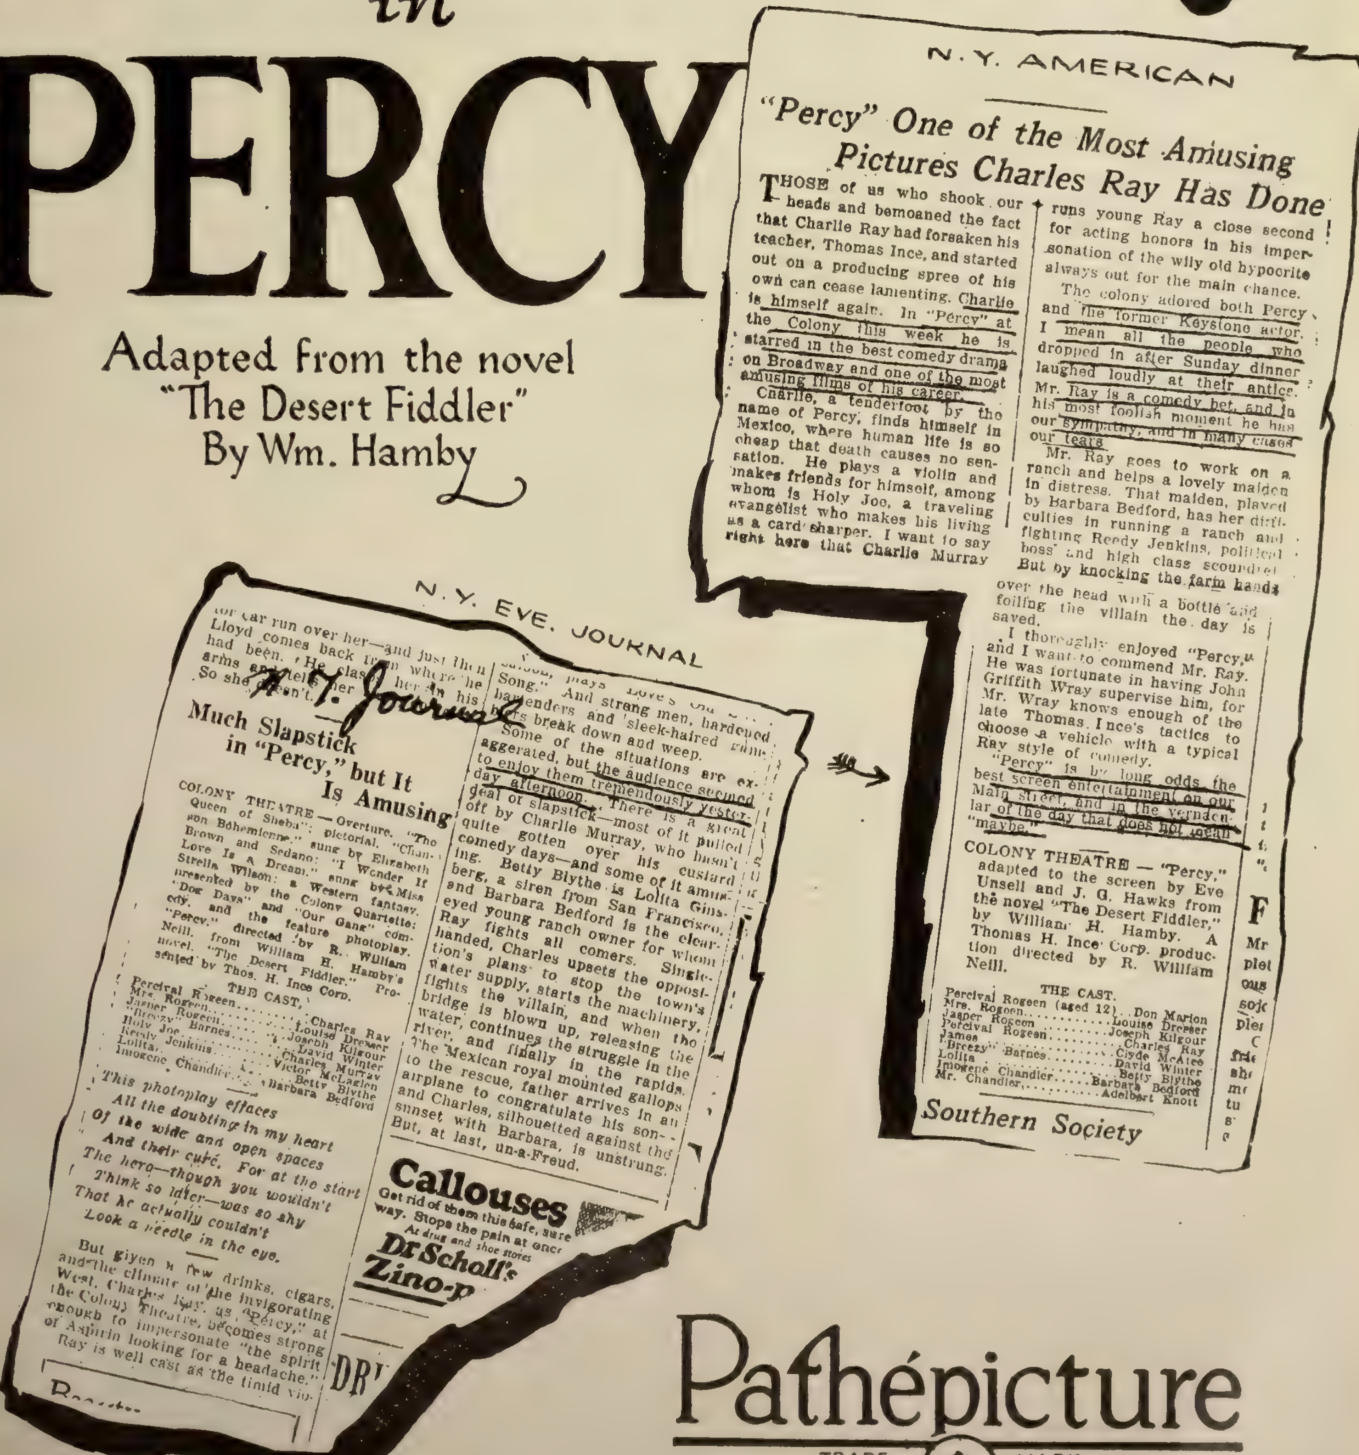
There is a lot of good humor in "Percy" and an all-star cast. Betty Blythe plays Louisa Ginsberg, a dance-hall siren. There are, too, Louise Dresser and Joseph Kilgour, as Percy's mother and father; Charles Murray, as the desert fiddler, and Barbara Bedford, as the only girl. George Marion jr. wrote those very good titles—and there are just about three persons who know how to write titles. The rest are terrible and should be restrained by law. There is one of the "Our Gang" comedies on the program. It is called "Dog Days." The prologue to the feature is called a Western fantasy. It is sung by Frederick Brindley and the Colony Quartet. Strella Wilson sings "I Wonder If Love Is a Dream." The overture is "Queen of Sheba," and Brown and Sedano do a purple dance to "Chanson Bohemienne."

Charles Ray

in

PERCY

Adapted from the novel
"The Desert Fiddler"
By Wm. Hamby



N.Y. AMERICAN

"Percy" One of the Most Amusing Pictures Charles Ray Has Done

THOSE of us who shook our heads and bemoaned the fact that Charlie Ray had forsaken his teacher, Thomas Ince, and started out on a producing spree of his own can cease lamenting. Charlie is himself again. In "Percy" at the Colony this week he is starred in the best comedy drama on Broadway and one of the most amusing films of his career.

Charlie, a tenderfoot by the name of Percy, finds himself in Mexico, where human life is so cheap that death causes no sensation. He plays a violin and makes friends for himself, among whom is Holy Joe, a traveling evangelist who makes his living as a card sharper. I want to say right here that Charlie Murray runs young Ray a close second for acting honors in his impersonation of the wily old hypocrite always out for the main chance.

The colony adored both Percy and the former Keystone actor. I mean all the people who dropped in after Sunday dinner laughed loudly at their antics. Mr. Ray is a comedy bet, and in his most foolish moment he has our sympathy, and in many cases our tears.

Mr. Ray goes to work on a ranch and helps a lovely maiden in distress. That maiden, played by Barbara Bedford, has her difficulties in running a ranch and fighting Reedy Jenkins, political boss and high class scoundrel. But by knocking the farm hands over the head with a bottle and foiling the villain the day is saved.

I thoroughly enjoyed "Percy," and I want to commend Mr. Ray. He was fortunate in having John Griffith Wray supervise him, for Mr. Wray knows enough of the late Thomas Ince's tactics to choose a vehicle with a typical Ray style of comedy.

"Percy" is by long odds the best screen entertainment on our Main street, and in the vernacular of the day that does not mean "maybe."

COLONY THEATRE — "Percy," adapted to the screen by Eve Unsell and J. G. Hawks from the novel "The Desert Fiddler," by William H. Hamby. A Thomas H. Ince Corp. production directed by R. William Neill.

THE CAST.

Percival Rogeen (aged 12)..Don Marion
Mrs. Rogeen..........Louise Dresser
Jasper Rogeen........Joseph Kilgour
Percival Rogeen..........Charles Ray
James..................Clyde McAtee
"Breezy" Barnes.........David Winter
Lolita..................Betty Blythe
Imogene Chandler.....Barbara Bedford
Mr. Chandler..........Adelbert Knott

Southern Society

N.Y. EVE. JOURNAL

N.Y. Journal

...tor car run over her—and just then Lloyd comes back from where he had been. He clasps her in his arms and tells her... So she doesn't.

Much Slapstick in "Percy," but It Is Amusing

COLONY THEATRE—Overture, "The Queen of Sheba"; pictorial, "Chanson Bohemienne," sung by Elizabeth Brown and Sedano; "I Wonder If Love Is a Dream," sung by Miss Strella Wilson; a Western fantasy, presented by the Colony Quartette; "Dog Days" and "Our Gang" comedy, and the feature photoplay, "Percy," directed by R. William Neill, from William H. Hamby's novel, "The Desert Fiddler." Presented by Thos. H. Ince Corp.

THE CAST.

Percival Rogeen..........Charles Ray
Mrs. Rogeen..........Louise Dresser
Jasper Rogeen........Joseph Kilgour
"Breezy" Barnes.........David Winter
Holy Joe...............Charles Murray
Reedy Jenkins.........Victor McLaglen
Lolita..................Betty Blythe
Imogene Chandler.....Barbara Bedford

This photoplay effaces
All the doubting in my heart
Of the wide and open spaces
And their cure. For at the start
The hero—though you wouldn't Think so later—was so shy
That he actually couldn't
Look a needle in the eye.

But given a few drinks, cigars, and the climate of the invigorating West, Charles Ray, as "Percy," at the Colony Theatre, becomes strong enough to impersonate "the spirit of Aspirin looking for a headache." Ray is well cast as the timid vio-

...saloon, plays Love's Old ... Song." And strong men, hardened bartenders and sleek-haired gamblers break down and weep.

Some of the situations are exaggerated, but the audience seemed to enjoy them tremendously yesterday afternoon. There is a great deal of slapstick—most of it pulled off by Charlie Murray, who hasn't quite gotten over his custard comedy days—and some of it amusing. Betty Blythe is Lolita Ginsberg, a siren from San Francisco, and Barbara Bedford is the clear-eyed young ranch owner for whom Ray fights all comers. Single-handed, Charles upsets the opposition's plans to stop the town's water supply, starts the machinery, fights the villain, and when the bridge is blown up, releasing the water, continues the struggle in the river, and finally in the rapids. The Mexican royal mounted gallops to the rescue, father arrives in an airplane to congratulate his son—and Charles, silhouetted against the sunset with Barbara, is unstrung. But, at last, un-a-Freud.

Callouses
Get rid of them this safe, sure way. Stops the pain at once
At drug and shoe stores
Dr Scholl's
Zino-p

DR

Pathépicture
TRADE MARK

Universal's 1925-26 List Comprises Thirty Jewels and Larger Program

UNIVERSAL has just announced its 1925-1926 product. Combining as it does a greater array of Jewel productions than ever before, an enlarged schedule of "Western" features, and a strengthened program of serials and other short product, the announcement presages the greatest year Universal ever had.

Word to make public Universal's plans for the coming year was flashed by wire to New York Saturday from Carl Laemmle, the Universal chief, who has just left Universal City for the East.

The foundation upon which Universal will build the new year consists of thirty Jewels, to be known as the Second White List. They are being made with the best stars available, by Universal's top-notch directors, from stories by popular authors and playwrights. This is a new record for Universal. The last few years have seen that company's Jewel schedule mount from six to eight, from eight to twelve, and so on, until now, thirty Jewels make up the Second White List.

In increasing its Jewel output, Universal is by no means letting up on its production of Western dramas. The Universal chief has found that there is a widespread demand for good Western pictures and Universal means to give second place to none in the output of this type. For the coming year, twenty-four Western dramas, of feature length, are scheduled. They are to be made with popular Western stars, male and female.

In the serial field, Universal plans to maintain its present prestige. Having put chaptered entertainment on a new plane, with the brand name of Adventure Pictures, a title in keeping with the style of the new serials, Universal will release six big continued features during the twelve months beginning next Fall.

Other Short Product have been planned in keeping with Universal's enlarged Jewel, Western and serial schedule. Besides a year's supply of Century Comedies, made with stars which have been built as box-office attractions, there will be a week issue of one-reel comedies, an additional supply of Gump Comedies, and a series of two-reel Western dramas. Other special short features are projected

"The Phantom of the Opera," Universal big picture for 1925-1926, will be released under special arrangements. It is a super-Jewel, of the same quality as "The Hunchback," and is expected to duplicate the remarkable success of that spectacle-drama.

The thirty Jewels scheduled for coming release are made with such stars as Reginald Denny, who will make four; Mary Philbin, Virginia Valli, Hoot Gibson, Laura La Plante, House Peters, Norman Kerry, all well-known Universal favorites, and such special stars as Pat O'Malley, Patsy Ruth Miller, Glenn Hunter, Jacqueline Logan, Cullen Landis, Jack Pickford, Louise Dresser, Constance Bennett, Alice Joyce, Clive Brook and Alexander Carr.

The directors, among the best, include such box-office builders as Clarence Brown, Harry Pollard, King Baggot, Charles Brabin, Edward Sedgwick, Svend Gade, Herbert Blache, Frank Giffen, Clifford Smith, Maurice Tourneur, William A. Seiter, Edward Laemmle, Lawrence Trimble and popular Will Nigh.

Universal's forecast that its 1925-1926 Jewels would be adapted from to pick of the literary and stage field is borne out by the list of writers contributing to the Second White List. Included in this list are Edwin J. Locke, Adelaide Matthews and Martha M. Stanley, Samuel Hopkins Adams, William McLeod Raine, Ralph Spence, Hugh McNair Kahler, Byron Morgan, Temple Bailey, George Sidney, Charles Murray, Charles Guernon, Nina Wilcox Putnam, Charles A. Logue, Rex Beach, Seymour Hicks, Cecil Raleigh, Edgar Franklin, B. M. Bowers, Bertram Atkey, Dorothy Canfield, Joseph Arthur, A. C. Wheeler, Frederick Isham and others.

The opening Jewel for the new year, to be released September 6, will be "Stella Maris," from William J. Locke's famous novel. Mary Philbin will be starred in it and Charles Brabin will direct the production. This will be the greatest picture by far ever attempted with Mary Philbin.

The next Jewel, to be released September 20th, will be "The Teaser," adapted from William A. Brady's stage success. Laura La Plante and Pat O'Malley are co-starred in this production. "Lorraine of the Lions," a drama of adventure, with Norman Kerry and Patsy Ruth Miller, will be the Jewel release for October 4th. It is an Edward Sedgwick Production, from a story by Isidore Bernstein. On October 18, Universal will release "Siege," a screen adaptation of Samuel Hopkins Adams' great novel. The stars are Virginia Valli and Eugene O'Brien.

October 25th will see the release of the first Hoot Gibson Jewel. It will be "A Hero On Horseback," adapted from William McLeod Raine's novel, "A Daughter of the Dons." A Norman Kerry Jewel will be next, released on November 2nd. It is "On the Frontier," made from a story by Ralph Spence, with Herbert Blache handling the megaphone.

Next will come "The Little Giant," starring Glenn Hunter, with Edna Murphy and David Higgins as the principal players. This is the heralded picture, made in the East by Universal, with Will Nigh as director. It is adapted from Hugh McNair Kahler's Saturday Evening Post Story, "Once a Peddler."

On November 30 will come the long-heralded Denny masterpiece, "California Straight Ahead," made by Harry Pollard from a story by Byron Morgan.

"Peacock Feathers," with Jacqueline Logan and Cullen Landis, will be next on the Universal Jewel schedule, being released December 14. It is another Svend Gade production and was adapted from the novel by Temple Bailey.

December 21 marks another Hoot Gibson Jewel, "Spook Ranch," directed by Edward Sedgwick, from a story by Raymond Schrock and himself.

The last Universal Jewel release for the year 1925 will be "Two Blocks Away" from the stage play by Aaron Hoffman. George Sidney and Charles Murray head the cast.

Next will come the first House Peters Jewel

Next will come the first House Peters Jewel of the season, "The Titans," from the novel by Charles Guernon.

On January 25 will come another Mary Philbin Jewel, "Sally in Our Alley," by Johns Chickering and directed by Charles Brabin.

Then comes a new Laura La Plante picture, "The Society Cheat," from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Doubling for Cupid," by Nina Wilcox Putnam.

The next Jewel is another Hoot Gibson production, "The Arizona Sweepstakes," written by Charles A. Logue and directed by Clifford Smith.

Following the Gibson picture will be "The Goose Woman," adapted from Rex Beach's great novel.

On March 8, Virginia Valli, in "Sporting Life," adapted from the famous Drury Lane melodrama, will reach the screen. It is a Maurice Tourneur production, with an all-star supporting cast.

On March 22 the Universal Jewel release will be a new Reginald Denny picture, "Where Was I?" from the magazine story by Edgar Franklin. William A. Seiter is the director.

Then will come another Norman Kerry Jewel, "Under Western Skies," a western epic, to be filmed during the Pendleton Round-up and released April 5.

Another Hoot Gibson Jewel will be released April 12. It is "Chip of the Fdying U," from the western novel by B. M. Bower, and directed by Edward Laemmle.

A second House Peters Jewel, "Snowbound," directed by William A. Seiter, will be the April 26 release.

Following that, on May 12 will come a screen adaptation of "My Old Dutch," featuring Pat O'Malley and Cullen Landis. The authors are Albert Chevalier and Arthur Shirley. Lawrence Trimble is the director.

May 24 will see the release of another Reginald Denny Jewel, "The Whole Town's Talking," from the stage success by John Emerson and Anita Loos. Harry Pollard is the director.

Then will come another Hoot Gibson picture, on June 7, "Kings Up," from a story by Ralph Spence and directed by Edward Laemmle.

On June 21 will be released Laura La Plante in "Winnie O'Wynne," from the Saturday Evning Post series by Bertam Atkey and directed by Frank Giffen.

The next Jewel will be "The Home Maker," with Alice Joyce and Clive Brook, adapted from Dorothy Canfield's novel. It is a King Baggot production.

On July 19 will come "The Still Alarm," adapted by Harvey O'Higgins from the stage play by Joseph Arthur and A. C. Wheeler.

On August 2 "The Calgary Stampede," a Hoot Gibson Jewel, made at the famous Calgary Stampede, during the 50-year celebration of this noted event.

August 16 will see another Reginald Denny reach the screen. It will be "This Way Out," from the story by Frederick Isham.

The final Universal Jewel release in the Second White List, scheduled for August 30, 1926, will be a King Baggot production, "His People," made with Alexander Carr from a story by Isidore Bernstein.

EXHIBITORS' NEWS AND VIEWS

EDITED BY SUMNER SMITH

N. Y. Showman Stakes Speaker to Dinner, Gets No Publicity

Bob Wagner of the Gateway Theatre in Little Falls spent a dollar last week. The transaction came about when the Exchange Club of Little Falls entertained visiting members from the same clubs in Dolgeville, Fort Plain, St. Johnsville and Utica, with a bang-up good dinner at the Richmond Hotel. Mr. Wagner, being a leading member of the club, was delegated to provide the speaker of the evening. Racking his brain a bit, he decided to invite M. H. Wolf, manager of the Metro-Goldwyn exchange in Albany, and of course inviting him, he paid for his dinner. That cost the dollar. Naturally Mr. Wagner thought maybe, with the accent on "maybe" that Mr. Wolf in the course of his talk on motion pictures in general might mention the Gateway. Mr. Wolf gave a rattling good talk but forgot all about the Gateway, and as Mr. Wagner later said, so far as the Gateway was concerned, the evening was a total loss. Anyhow, "a pleasant evening was had by all."

"Picture theatres may be all right during the fall and winter," remarked Jacob Tremper, an exhibitor at Rhinebeck, a couple of days before Easter, "but give me this season of the year when it comes to cashing in." By way of explanation, it is only fair to add that in addition to being an exhibitor, Mr. Tremper is one of the largest growers of violets in the Hudson Valley town, and at Easter time the receipts for a single day run into the thousands.

If the United Booking Offices and Louis Buettner can get together on a price, it now looks as though Mr. Buettner's house in Hudson Falls will change hands. Pat Casey was up from New York last week checking up attendance at the theatre, and later opened negotiations with Mr. Buettner.

TRILBY CLARK
Hunt Stromberg star in Producers Distributing pictures

Did Jimmy Rose, with four theatres to his credit, two being in Troy, blossom forth on Easter Sunday with a brand new lid? Sir James has been threatening to spend a little coin of the realm outside of Film Row on a new hat, and went so far last week as to admit that the one doing service had survived the last two years.

There will be no state convention of the M. P. T. O. in New York State this year, according to information forthcoming from headquarters in Albany. The three zones are said to be functioning so smoothly these days that it will not be necessary to hold a convention.

You can't help admiring "Pop" Linton. No longer a young man, yet possessing the pluck that is lacking all too often in many of the younger generation, the veteran exhibitor, who lost his theatre in Utica the other day within two weeks after it had opened, announces that another will be built within the next three months. Mr. Linton was in town and along Film Row during the week on his way to New York City. Although he was busy cancelling bookings, with every cancellation he remarked that although the fire had been a bad blow he would be back in the game before fall.

Glens Falls is witnessing a merry little battle these days between Oscar Perrin, handling the Empire there, and the Park, which is running pictures until such time as the Rialto can be rebuilt, following the recent fire. When the Empire went over to the new management, pictures were run for a straight week. Now both houses are changing every other day and spending all sorts of money in the way of newspaper advertising.

Count that day lost whose low descending sun witnesses no new idea on the part of Jake Golden of Harmanus-Bleecker Hall in Albany. Last week, Jake arranged for the dedication of a new musical selection written by Stephen Boisclair, his organist, with a soloist from the WGY broadcasting station, carrying the air from one of the boxes. The idea made a big hit. This week, among other things, Mr. Golden is using George Decker, a local minstrel man, and an amateur night on Thursday, along with double features. Jake plans to give a dollar's worth for a quarter and his 2,000 seats can't accommodate the crowds.

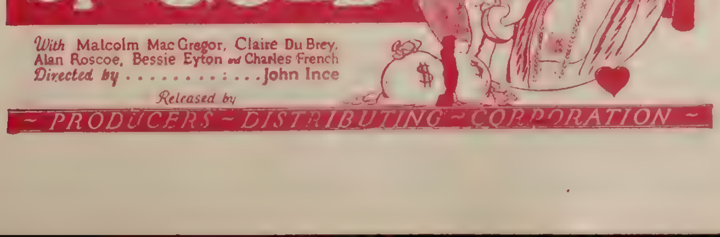
VIRGINIA VALLI
Universal star is shortly to be seen in a splendid Super-Jewel production.

By-laws used by the Buffalo and New York Zone Committees have been received by the Albany Zone Committee, and will be used in fashioning others that will govern the Albany exhibitors. It now looks as though there would be another meeting of the Albany Zone Committee the fore part of May, at which time there will be a general discussion on the various policies of each exchange located in Albany. There will be an advance notice sent out and every exhibitor attending will be expected to have his say.

The Grand in Watervliet was closed a portion of last week owing to the death of Mrs. Tetrault. The sympathy of readers of this column is extended to members of her family, and with Mrs. Tetrault at the head it was a family in the real sense of the word.

Exhibitors in this part of the state are continuing to have their machines overhauled. Walton and Adams, running the Happy Hour in Lake Placid, and Lew Fischer's house in Port Henry, sent their machines into Albany the past week. Good projection pays and more and more exhibitors are realizing this to the good of their bank accounts.

(Continued on next page)



Now Booking
Florence Vidor
The GIRL of GOLD
With Malcolm MacGregor, Claire Du Brey, Alan Roscoe, Bessie Eyton and Charles French
Directed by . . . . John Ince
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Ruth Dwyer and Theodore Von Eltz with Strongheart, in "White Fang," an F. B. O. release

The Buffalo, N. Y., Territory

J. Meyer Schine, president and general manager of the Schine Theatrical interests, was in Auburn this week, with Architect Leon Lempert of Rochester, inspecting the old Second Presbyterian Church which is to be converted into a modern theatre by the Schine company. Work will be started this spring. The house will seat 2,200. The property was purchased a year ago.

Patrons of the Olypmic Theatre, Buffalo, were reminded that spring has arrived, as Manager Averill introduced his girl ushers this week in new spring costumes, which are most attractive. Mr. Averill put over a fine campaign on "Barbara Frietchie" making a strong drive on the schools. Business was very satisfactory despite Lent.

The Zicofe Corporation of Buffalo, which operated the Grand Theatre in Westfield, N. Y., has leased the new picture theatre in Batavia, N. Y., which was constructed by the Farber Brothers and which is expected to open in a month or so.

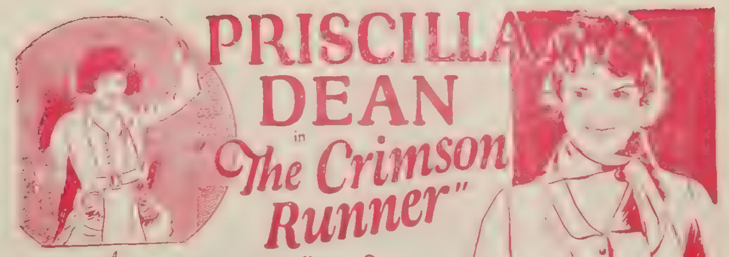
Working three shifts a day the contractors building the new Shea Buffalo house expect to give the theatre to M. Shea for a Christmas present, which will be going some. It is expected to have the exterior complete by August 1.

The Temple Theatre in Lockport has placed its spring and summer price scale in front, which shows a reduction of 15 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. "Nothing cut but the price," says the management.

The Beckman Theatre in Dundee, N. Y., which has been closed all winter, has been reopened with pictures by C. A. Betts of Red Creek.

Rumors persist that a picture house is to be built in the north Main street section of Buffalo. The latest report is that it will be at Main street at Highgate. Nothing official, however, has come to light as yet.

Police dogs were all over the streets of Buffalo the past week. But they were led by boys, and the dogs carried blanket ads for "Black Lightning," which Manager Howard Smith was showing at the Palace.



Now Booking
PRISCILLA DEAN
in
"The Crimson Runner"
by Harvey Gates
Ward Crane, Alan Hale, Mitchell Lewis
A HUNT STROMBERG personally supervised PRODUCTION
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Albany, N. Y.

(Continued from preceding page)

Clyde Allen of Antwerp, who sells cheese and shows pictures, was along Film Row during the week, and announced that he would join the Albany Zone Committee at once. According to Mr. Allen, just about as many persons are eating cheese these days as are seeing pictures, and such being the case he has absolutely nothing to complain of in the way of business.

The Schines have taken over another house, having acquired the Bijou in Lowville, which has been owned and operated by E. J. Wolfe since 1914. The new owners will assume possession October 1, but will retain Mr. Wolfe as manager.

Although Red Hook has a population of only 827, B. M. Griffing of the Lyceum Theatre there furnishes a five-piece orchestra and not only gives about the best pictures obtainable but also is proud of the fact that he has one of the nicest theatres in the entire country, considering the size of the town. Mr. Griffing is always as pleasant as the proverbial basket of chips, but then that's not be wondered at for he is superintendent of a big sweet chocolate factory.

When the late Samuel Suckno of Albany reached the critical stage of his last sickness, he called his son Walter to his side and said: "I want you to step into my shoes, and if they wear out, buy a new pair." Walter Suckno has followed his father's instructions to the letter, stepping into the shoes of an exhibitor who knew his business, and today the young man is running two theatres in Albany in a way that elicits commendation from fellow exhibitors and the public alike.

Wearing a broad smile, William Rose started in his career last Monday night as an exhibitor, handling the affairs of the Columbia Theatre in Rensselaer when it reopened with James Rose doing the booking and paying the bills. Frankly, Jimmy Rose is doing exceptionally well with his four theatres.. When he started in a few months ago, he remarked that there were three things he would insist upon, these being cleanliness, quietness and good pictures, not forgetting for a moment that the last is of little value without good projection.

There are no better Great Dane dogs in all New York State than those bred by E. J. Wolfe of the Bijou Theatre in Lowville. During the last week or so he has shipped puppies to the southern and western states, and the price received would make the ordinary human being inclined to forsake any business he might be in and start in as a competitor to Mr. Wolfe.

Visitors along Film Row during the week included T. W. Thornton of Saugerties and Thomas H. Martell, the latter booking for the United States Army picture service and paying particular attention to the pictures that will be shown at the citizens' military training camps at Plattsburg this summer.

There will be no stock replacing pictures at the Colonial in Albany this summer. When George Roberts, manager of the house, was asked if there would be any change in the policy of the theatre this summer, he replied that he had had a dose of stock one summer at the Colonial, and that once was sufficient.

William Shirley, managing director of Farash Theatres, Inc., of Schenectady, was the victim of an ill-conceived joke on April 1. Some one telephoned one of the film exchanges on that day, generally known as "April Fool's Day," that Mr. Shirley was dead and the rumor went so far as to be telephoned to one of the Albany newspapers, which offers a weekly cash prize for news tips.

The Berinstein interests will renew their lease on the Van Curler Theatre in Schenectady on May 1 for a period of four years. Harry Berinstein, of Elmira, was in town this week, and discussing plans for the new theatre in Elmira, stated that while plans and specifications have been drawn that bids had not been called for as yet.

I. Libson Pays $500,000 for Capitol Theatre, Cincinnati

One of the most important theatre transfers in recent years is recorded in the sale of the Capitol Theatre, the biggest movie house in the city, which has been purchased by L. Heidingsfeld, Cincinnati attorney, and I. Libson, who now operates all of the important first-run houses in the downtown district. The consideration is said to have been approximately $500,000. The property which, in addition to the theatre auditorium, contains four storerooms, was purchased from Ascher Brothers of Chicago, who built the structure four years ago. The site is owned by the Wurlitzer estate but was controlled by Ascher Brothers through a perpetual lease.

Andrew G. Hettesheimer, owner of the Orpheum Theatre, who has been confined to the hospital for several weeks after having undergone an operation, is expected to be back on the job within a fortnight.

The industry has lost an old veteran in the person of H. C. Horater, who operated the Temple Theatre, Toledo, until a short time ago. According to reports Horater and his wife have gone to Florida to engage in the candy business.

Announcement is made by George D. Spragg, manager of the Spragg Amusement Co., Martins Ferry, Ohio, that his company will operate the Elk-Grand Theatre with pictures and vaudeville the last three days of each week.

The Colonial Theatre, Cleveland, Ohio, has been closed by Barck Bros., who will, however, still operate the Duncan and Market Square theatres. The Colonial is to be rebuilt, the lease on the building having been sold.

The Superior Theatre Co., Toledo, Ohio, has been incorporated by Howard Feigley and Nathan Charnas. Another recent incorporation is the Theatrical Enterprises, Findlay, Ohio, by H. W. Powell and others.

Harry W. Kress, president of the Piqua Amusement Co., controlling three houses in that city, and who is known as a "fire fan," recently heard an alarm and following his usual custom rushed to the fire. He found upon arrival that his own home was in flames. The greater portion of the house and contents was destroyed.

A. G. Constant, who is the big chief of the recently-organized Tri-State Amusement Co., with headquarters at Steubenville, Ohio, is forming a booking circuit in the state. Some twenty houses in the smaller cities will be included in the venture.

John A. Schwalm, manager of the Rialto Theatre, Hamilton, and executive head of the Jewel Photoplay Co., in that city, was among those present at the New York meeting of the M. P. T. O. of A. Schwalm is one of the executive committeemen of the association.

Skirboll Bros., who recently took over the Opera House, New Philadelphia, will close for thirty days late in July in order to remodel the house. A new lobby will be built, new seats, new organ, new electric signs and other new equipment will be installed.

Spitz and Renner, who previously controlled the Dome Theatre, Youngstown, Ohio, will build a new house in that city, directly back of the Orpheum Theatre.

The McKinley Theatre, Niles, Ohio, has been taken over by F. B. Kearney, a real estate dealer of Youngstown. The theatre was sold by the receiver at public auction, and Kearney's bid of $48,000 was the highest received.

SELLING THE PICTURE TO THE PUBLIC

The Leading Exploitation Department in the Industry, Found in Moving Picture World

The Paris Theatre, Lorain, Ohio, has passed from possession of B. Solomon to Robert Sinclair. Solomon will continue the operation of the Temple Theatre, Lorain.

Michigan

A sharp change in policy for one and possibly two downtown first-run theatres in Detroit at the completion of the new State and the new Michigan theatres is said to be contemplated. It is reported that the Madison may change its present policy from first runs to second runs and vaudeville, while the Fox-Washington will close to be succeeded by a new house being planned by William Fox. The Broadway Strand is another first run that is slated to either change or close its doors as soon as Universal finds a site for a new theatre.

Henry S. Koppin, owner of a string of twenty outskirt theatres in Detroit, has returned from a six weeks' trip to California. It is announced that he will build a 1,500-seat house at Chene and Gratiot avenues. Mr. Koppin's new Piccadilly Theatre will open some time in May.

Leon Krimm, proprietor of the Lyric Theatre at Mt. Clemens, has returned from a two weeks' business trip to New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

The Orpheum Theatre, one of Charles H. Miles's downtown picture houses, which is now being redecorated, will reopen May 10. The new policy has not been announced.

Glen Cross of Battle Creek has bought out the interests of his late partner, Harvey Lipp, by obtaining a $75,000 mortgage taken out in the name of the Legitimate Theatre Co. There are five theatres in the string.

Fred Wuerth, who operates theatres in Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor, has purchased a site in downtown Ypsilanti for the purpose of erecting another new theatre and store building, starting in June. It will seat 1,200 and be equipped for pictures, vaudeville and legitimate attractions.

Charles Carlisle, manager of the Mecca-Palace Theatre in Saginaw, has been in Detroit most of the past week getting all of his dates set in for April and May. He plans on leaving shortly for a six weeks' tour of California.

DISCOVER NEW SHEIK

Warner Bros. have a "find" in Don Alvarado, young Spanish actor under contract for star roles

Milwaukee

Harry Jones, one of Milwaukee's first picture theatre managers, has returned after an absence of several years to take over the management of the Merrill, downtown house recently acquired from Ascher Bros. by the Saxe interests.

Jones, recently of Sedalia, Mo., succeeds A. J. ("Happy") Meininger, who has just given confirmation to reports that he is to join the Silliman-Grauman circuit. According to Meininger, he will assume his new duties when the Silliman chain opens its downtown headquarters in the Wisconsin Theatre Building on May 1. He will serve in the capacity of general manager of the circuit of nine houses.

Congratulations are in order for Fred Seegert, president of the M. P. T. O. of Wisconsin. It's a boy, Fred Seegert, Jr. Mother and son are doing nicely.

The Majestic Theatre, oldest and largest showhouse in Stevens Point, has been purchased by J. P. Adler from M. E. Bruce and Rush Gregory. The sum involved is said to be $65,000.

Adler also owns the Lyric, the only other Stevens Point theatre, as well as the Adler and Trio theatres in Marshfield. Bruce, a pioneer exhibitor, plans to retire. Gregory may enter the business elsewhere.

Now Booking

Pennsylvania Makes Public Committees for Convention

Appended herewith is the personnel of the exhibitor committees making arrangements for the fifth annual convention of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Western Pennsylvania, which is to be held at the George Washington Hotel at Washington, Pa., on April 21, 22 and 23.

General Committee—Harry Davis, Pittsburgh, chairman; D. A. Harris, Pittsburgh; Wm. Birnkrantz, McKeesport; Jake Silverman, Altoona; Frank Panoplos, McKeesport; Chris Wagner, Connellsville; C. M. McCloskey, Uniontown; Theodore Mikalowsky, Masontown; C. O. Baird, Portage; R. T. Jennings, Greensburg; G. B. Meyers, Derry; L. M. Jones, Vandergrift; H. C. Morrison, Mt. Pleasant; Wm. Maute, Irwin; Bart Dattola, New Kensington; George McGowan, Indiana; Wm. P. McCartney, Punxsutawney; George Panagotocos, Johnstown; Wm. Lamproplos, Latrobe; Mike Manos, Greensburg; N. Notoupoulos, Altoona; George C. Wilson, Tyrone; Peter Antonoplos, East Pittsburgh; Anthony P. Jim, Woodlawn; Charles Freeman, New Castle; M. A. Sybert, Moundsville; Wm. Evans, Morgantown; J. Gillis, Clarksburg; J. McGraw, Monongah.

Reception and Entertainment Committee—N. Walken, Washington, chairman; B. E. Cupler, Washington; Sam E. Blyer, Washington; Edward Beadle, Canonsburg; Earl Forsythe, Canonsburg; Charles F. Silveus, Waynesburg; Michael Rosenbloom, Charleroi; John R. Evans, Donora; Robert Coyle, Charleroi and William Gray, Monongahela.

Wister M. Elliott, Vandergrift exhibitor, who has nothing to do but look after three theatres, says the hardest job he ever wished on himself was the booking of vaudeville acts.

Al Nordquist, blonde exhibitor from Galeton, made one of his periodical trips to Film Row in Pittsburgh last week and before he left town they all knew he was here. He left with Bob Lynch headed for Driftwood and other centers of rural population. He was passing around pictures of Al, Jr., aged 2 years. With the boosting his father is giving him, this boy should at least be Mayor of Galcton some day, if not President of the United States or Governor of Pennsylvania.

Frank Panoplos of the Lyric Theatre, McKeesport, is out again, after having been confined to his bed suffering from la grippe.

W. J. Murray, manager of the Harris Amusement Company's Strand at Youngstown, O., was a Pittsburgh visitor recently. Johnny Harris, Jr., escorted Mr. Murray about Film Row and made him acquainted with all the boys here.

The World extends sincere sympathy to John Isaacs of the Palace Theatre, Lyndora, who lost his wife and an infant child a short time ago. Six children are left motherless as a result of Mrs. Isaacs' untimely death. It is likely that Mr. Isaacs will dispose of his theatre.

Lots of out-of-town exhibitor visitors to Pittsburgh's Film Row recently, including: Theodore Mikalowsky, Masontown; C. M. McCloskey, Uniontown; R. L. Barnhart, Charleroi; Sam Gallo, Nanty Glo; F. L. Farman and Carl Becker, Butler; B. E. Cupler, Washington; Wister M. Elliott, Vandergrift; C. O. Baird, Portage; D. Serrao, Ford City; J. B. Cox, Mt. Pleasant; G. B. Meyers, Derry; J. George Schweitzer, Titusville; and four of the boys from New Castle, William Wray, John Newman, Ben Burke and Charles Freeman.

St. Louis

A. A. Gralnick, prominent retail clothing and shoe dealer of St. Louis, Mo., has announced plans for a 2000-seat theatre for negroes to be erected at Jefferson avenue and Market street. Several stores and offices will be included in the structure, which will front 125 feet on Jefferson avenue, with a depth of 106 feet on Market street.

Alfred Lubin, 52 years old, manager of the Liberty Music Hall, 3627 Delmar boulevard, St. Louis, Mo., dropped dead in the theatre on April 9. Heart disease caused his death.

Fred L. Cornwell, owner of the Delmonte Theatre, has obtained the St. Louis first-run rights on several big Paramount pictures, including "The Contraband," "Salome of the Tenements," "Worldly Goods" and "Tomorrow's Love."

• The Liberty Music Hall baseball team beat the Missouri Theatre outfit at Fairground Park, April 8, score, 8 to 3. It was the first game between the movie ball tossers this season.

D. D. Cox has purchased the Community Theatre at Raymond, Ill., and the Gem Theatre, Harvey, Ill., from G. F. Weber.

George P. Skouras is devoting his entire time to his own picture houses. He recently resigned from the St. Louis Amusement Company staff. His brothers, Spyros and Charley, own a half interest in the St. Louis Amusement Company's group of neighborhood houses.

Martin W. Operle is now operating the Missouri Theatre at Sainte Genevieve, Mo.

On April 27 Denny's Bijou Theatre at Carrollton, Ill., will be closed for repairs and redecorating. It probably will reopen on May 2.

Now Booking
AGNES AYRES
in
'HER MARKET VALUE'
with ANDERS RANDOLPH
TAYLOR HOLMES - HEDDA HOPPER & EDWARD EARLE
from the celebrated stage success
A PAUL POWELL PRODUCTION
Released by
PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Nebraska

The Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Nebraska and Western Iowa will meet at the Hotel Loyal, Omaha, April 21 and 22, according to a call issued by President Charles Williams. Delegates will be elected at this time to attend the national convention.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors calling on the exchanges here recently were Miles Robinson, North Bend, Neb.; B. B. Holdrege, Shenandoah, Ia.; Morris Smith, Sioux City, Ia.; A. Beans, Pawnee City, Neb.; H. Simon, Red Oak, Ia.; C. J. Kremar, Stanton, Neb.; H. A. Larson, Oakland, Neb.; J. T. Grothenhius, Orange City, Ia.; Harney Means, Sidney, Ia.; J. H. Dennis, Weeping Water, Neb.; C. E. Preston, Red Cloud, Neb.

Byron Watson, who bought the Strand and Atlantic Theatres at Atlantic, Ia., from the Hostettler Amusement Co., Omaha, has settled the old case between Dan Borgum and the former owners, Hostettler Amusement Co., which involved the question of ownership of the house. Watson settled with Borgum for cash. Mr. Watson, who operates the Grand at Knoxville, Ia., will remain at Knoxville to look after that, while his partner, Mr. Pierce, will go to Atlantic to look after the management of the two houses recently acquired there.

Canada

Some very effective newspaper advertising was secured by Manager Leonard Bishop of the Regent Theatre, Ottawa, for the presentation of "The Dressmaker from Paris" during Easter Shopping Week through the publication of a paid reader in the shopping section of the Ottawa Journal, which is edited by "Polly Pobble," a local fashion writer. This was written in conversational style.

Joseph M. Franklin, manager of the B. F. Keith Theatre at Ottawa, Ontario, is looking for someone to lease the theatre Sunday mornings because that is the only space of time that he has the theatre unoccupied. On

There is one exhibitor in Canada who does not have to worry about newspaper publicity and advertising and he is R. J. Richardson, proprietor of the picture theatre at Treherne, Manitoba. The reason for his distinctive position is that he is also the owner and publisher of the local newspaper, the Treherne Times. Treherne is a town situated about 80 miles from Winnipeg, the capital of Manitoba from which place he obtains his pictures. Recently Mr. Richardson gave a big boost for Vitagraph, pointing out that he had not suffered one "flop" in some twenty Vitagraph productions played during the past year. He opposes the plan of various exchanges in selling the advertising accessories outright to exhibitors.

Bob Cluster of Johnson City, Ill., has purchased a beautiful residence in Benton, Ill., and will make his home in that city. It is conveniently located to his houses in Johnston City.

The funeral of Lee Turner, manager of the Strand Theatre, Eldorado, Ill., was held on April 9.

Friends of Bill Keigley, manager of the Benton, Ill., houses operated by Reed, Yemm & Hayes, will be sorry to learn that his father is seriously ill in the hospital at Duquoin, Ill.

Many prominent out-of-town exhibitors were seen at the various local exchanges during the week: Buddy Paul, Grand Theatre, Mexico, Mo.; Mrs. I. W. Rodgers, Cairo, Ill.; Bob Cluster, Johnston City, Ill.; J. W. Moore, Pastime Theatre, Canalou, Mo.; Mrs. C. E. Lilly, Hannibal, Mo.; John Pratt, Fulton, Mo.; J. W. Cotter, Fourth Street Theatre, Moberly, Mo.; H. Roman, Benld, Ill.; Henry Imming, Newton, Ill.; Oscar Wesley, Gillespie, Ill., and Frank S. Russell, Shelbyville, Ill.

News of Chicago Territory

Notwithstanding the fact that Evanston voted against Sunday movies by a big majority, Clyde E. Elliott, president of the new Evanston Theatre Company, operating the Evanston and Hoyburn theatres in that city, will begin work on a new theatre to seat 2,500 and cost $750,000. It will be called the University and will be built on Orrington street overlooking Fountain Square in the heart of the city.

Oak Park, the largest village in the country—it claims 50,000—defeated Sunday movies by a vote of 19,944 to 4,260, while Evanston beat the Sunday shows by 10,010 to 6,627. The campaign in both cities was bitter and overshadowed the election of officers for both towns.

The John G. Garibaldi Trust has acquired for $195,000, subject to $120,000, the unexpired term of the 99 year leasehold of the property at the northwest corner of Division and Dearborn streets, Chicago, now improved with the two-story brick and white terra cotta building containing the 835-seat Dearborn Theatre and twelve offices. The lessor is Attorney Henry Roth. The leasehold has run seven years and requires an annual ground rental of $68,750. The rental of the building is said to be $25,000 annually.

Charles Casanave, general manager of the Lynch Theatres, Inc., reports that the circuit has four new houses under construction at the present time. The new Manor Theatre at North avenue and Parkside, Chicago, seating 1,600, is expected to be opened some time in June. Foundations are being dug for the new house at Ridgeland and Twelfth street in Berwyn, and work has started on two houses in Maywood, one seating about 2,000 and the other about 800. Business is holding up for the Lynch circuit, and the outlook is for good business during the next few months.

The Wonderland at Buckeye has been sold to George Lutterman.

Another exhibitor to go into the race horse business for the summer is Barney Berman of the Harper Theatre, Chicago. He's at Louisville to see how his fast one is coming along in training. Lou Weil of the Bryn Mawr says that his horse, the Runt, will be heard from again this year on the heavy going, as quite a few of the film boys cleaned up on the Runt last year, and they are pulling for a repeater this season.

Abe Gumbiner of the Gumbiner Circuit is back from a three weeks sojourn at Hot Springs.

The new golf circuit in Chicago has opened with a bang. Charley Casanave and Frank Schaefer took on Fred Aiken and Lenard Ullrich for a beating at their first match. Other golf bugs among the exhibitors and film men are preparing for battle in the near future, and the boys are arranging for a large gallery of spectators to watch the championship matches.

The Dreamland at Roodhouse, Ill., has been sold to Clarence Denny.

Rudolph Scheller has taken over the management of the Lannane at Worden, Ill., from J. A. Langbran.

A. E. Keene has been made manager of the Plaisance on Parkside avenue, Chicago, belonging to Jack Miller.

The many friends of Arthur Mayer, formerly representative of the Metro interests in the management of the Ascher Circuit, will be glad to hear he has accepted an executive position with Balaban & Katz. He has returned from a trip to the West Coast and reports much activity among the producers at Hollywood.

C. M. Sigfried has purchased the Family Theatre at Mount Carroll, Ill., from F. E. Briant and will personally take charge of the house.

Norman Peters and Jacob Horwitz are building a three-story brick and terra cotta theatre costing $1,000,000 to seat 2,700 on the north half of the block at the corners of Lincoln, Belle Plaine and Robey street, Chicago. Andrew Karzas of the Woodlawn has leased the new house for twenty-five years at a rental of $1,875,000 for the term. This will be one of the largest theatres on the northwest side when completed.

Samuel Halper, who operates the Capital, Rose, Pershing and Irving theatres, has added the Terminal at Lawrence and Spaulding avenue, Chicago, to his circuit, but will not get possession of the house uutil the present lease of the Ascher Circuit expires on November 15.

One of the youngest exhibitors in the business is Charley Carpentier of East Moline, Ill. In addition to looking after the Strand, Majestic and Lyric theatres in that city, Charley was recently elected alderman and made a director of the First Trust and Savings Bank.

J. J. Poppas has taken over the Monticello Theatre on Montrose avenue, Chicago, and will operate it in connection with his Avon Theatre holdings.

Manager R. S. Emig of the Julian Theatre at 918 Belmont avenue, Chicago, had the surprise of his life one night last week when, making a tour of the house before closing, he found an unidentified woman about 60 years of age dead in her seat. Heart disease was the cause.

Dr. A. Mitchell, president of the Theatres Operating Company of Peoria, and Henry Stickelmeyer were here last week on business for their circuit.

Connecticut

The Rialto Theatre, New London, burned early on April 6. B. L. Armstrong, owner, has started plans for rebuilding. Total loss is put at $75,000. The Rialto was twenty-five years old. W. T. Murphy, operator of the Crown, Lyceum and Capitol, now virtually is in complete control of the city's amusements.

Siegfried Malm will erect the theatre building in Derby which will be taken over by the Marcus Loew interests upon its completion. The house is to seat 2,000.

Matt Saunders, manager of S. Z. Poli's Palace Theatre in Bridgeport, was elected a member of one of the city's civic clubs, and right away was asked to furnish the entertainment, free, for the following week's meeting.

William Skidmore died recently at Milford in his 80th year. He opened one of the first picture theatres in Bridgeport.

CHARLEY CHASE
Promoted! From single reels to two reelers for Pathe release

Massachusetts

E. M. Loew won in a suit brought by Edwin A. Simpson of Lowell to recover possession of the Rialto Theatre. Simpson alleged that terms of the lease had been broken, but Mr. Loew testified that he had spent thousands of dollars in improvements to the house since he had taken possession of it.

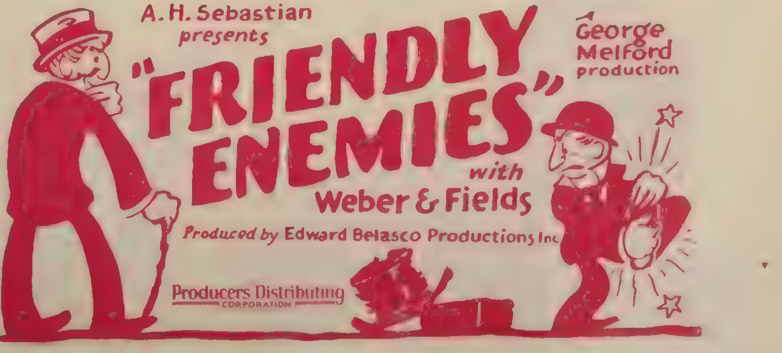
J. J. DeWalde is now general manager of the three Gordon theatres in Salem. Although he has been a New York City manager for several years, his invasion of Salem is not his first sojourn in the Bay State. Mr. DeWalde managed the Empire Theatre in Fall River at the time it was conducted by the Keith-Albee interests.

Samuel Torgan, alert exhibitor of Lowell and managing director of the Strand, has one of the finest theatres ever visited by ye scribe. It plays a double feature policy. The organist, whose name we did not discover, is a wonder. During our visit to Lowell we were unable to see Mr. Torgan, as he was absent.

J. J. Cahill, Brockton representative for the three Gordon theatres in that city, has tied up with one of the city's newspapers to give free tickets to the Strand for the best "story" sent to the paper. Each story must be less than 150 words in length and describe some odd happening seen in the city.

L. R. Acker of the Strand and Orpheus theatres in Halifax, N. S., has been seeking attractions in Boston. He received a royal welcome among the theatre men of the Hub during his visit.

Now Booking



A. H. Sebastian
presents
"FRIENDLY ENEMIES"
with
Weber & Fields
George Melford production
Produced by Edward Belasco Productions Inc
Producers Distributing Corporation

San Francisco

The legal obstacles to construction work on the new Pantages Theatre, Market and Grove streets, facing the San Francisco Civic Center, have been swept aside and work is being rushed on this project. The present building, occupied by the theatre on Market Street, has been leased for retail purposes and the new house will be made ready for occupancy at the earliest possible date.

The property at Fourth and Stevenson streets, San Francisco, owned by West Coast Theatres, Inc., has been disposed of and will be improved for retail purposes.

Raymond Kaliski, the 12-year-old son of Louis Kaliski, theatre owner of Alameda, Calif., was shot in the head recently by the discharge of a rusty pistol found by a playmate and is in a serious condition in the Alameda Sanitarium.

The New Stanford Theatre at Palo Alto, Cal., being built under the direction of Ellis Arkush, is nearing completion. A big pipe organ is being installed.

Ashley W. Thresher, of Wasco, Cal., announces that work will be commenced at once on the erection of a picture theatre seating 600.

A picture theatre and apartment house building will be erected at Auburn, Cal., at a cost of more than $100,000, according to Dr. W. F. Durfee. The first pipe organ in Auburn will be installed.

Title to the Monache Theatre, Porterville, Cal., has passed to the National Theatres Syndicate of San Francisco, which has been operating the house for some time.

Manager J. J. Cluxton of the Pantages Theatre, San Francisco, has made a number of changes in the personnel of the staff of late and has dispensed with the services of girl ushers who have been acting since the war. Their places have been taken by young men, as in former years.

George Elliott, manager of a picture house at Bakersfield, Cal., has been arrested on charges of permitting minors to appear on the stage in dramatic entertainments.

The Strand Theatre, Merced, Cal., operated by J. A. Harvey, is being placed in shape for the warm season.

John Hamrick, well known exhibitor at Seattle, was a recent visitor in California, accompanied by Mrs. Hamrick.

A. Wylie Mather, of Honolulu, T. H., is a visitor at San Francisco, making the trip to the mainland to get the latest ideas in stage and screen presentation.

R. Jacobs, connected with the Central Theatre, San Francisco, is a chesty chap these days, his son having won the blue ribbon at the Baby Show held here recently.

Kansas

R. R. Biechele, president of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri, who returned this week from New York, where he attended the committee meeting of the Hays organization on the uniform contract and discussed the matter fully with Charles O'Reilly, president of the M. P. T. O., New York, and Charles Pettijohn, counsel for the Hays body, intends to deliver an address upon the subject at the M. P. T. O. K.-M. convention in Kansas City this month.

C. R. Wilson, owner of the Liberty Theatre, Liberty, Mo., who has been a special membership solicitor in the territory of the M. P. T. O. Kansas-Missouri drive, reports progress as good.

Death claimed both the mother and cousin of R. G. Liggett, former president of the M. P. T. O. Kansas and owner of the Gauntier Theatre, Kansas City, Kas., last week. A double funeral service was held in Kansas City. Mrs. J. W. Liggett was 72 years old. The cousin, Frank Balch, was of Earl, Ark.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors in the Kansas City territory last week were: Willard Frazier, Empress, Paola, Kas,; Charles Sears, Sears Circuit, Nevada, Mo.; Charles Fisk, Opera House, Butler, Mo.; W. D. Stepp, Regent, ElDorado, Kas.; F. G. Weary, Farris, Richmond, Mo.; Roy Burford, New Burford, Arkansas City, Kas.; C. M. Pattee, Pattee Theatre, Lawrence, Kas.

Plans are being drawn for a new theatre to replace the present Elite Theatre of Iola, Kas., according to Tom McGruder, owner and manager. Construction work on the new house, which is to cost $35,000, will start soon.

The Strand of Arkansas City has been added to the setting of houses of Roy B. Burford of that city and "Shake" Davidson has been employed as exploitation manager. Mr. Burford also owns the New Burford and Rex theatres of Arkansas City.

Apparently Charles Sears of the Sears Circuit, Nevada, Mo., is successful in other pursuits besides motion pictures. Last week he was elected vice-president of the Nevada Golf Club.

Maine

What do you think of this for a double bill: 'Sally" and "He Who Gets Slapped?" Abraham Goodside, operator of the Strand, Jefferson, Empire and Elm Theatres in Portland, presented those two pictures at his Strand for the first three days of Easter Week.

C. C. Collins of New York City has been appointed manager of the Rex Theatre in Norway. He succeeds Colby Robinson, who resigned to return to Bangor to conduct the automobile business owned by his father.

Now Booking

Seattle

Two big theatre openings made history on the night of April 4. The new Columbia Theatre, Longview, Wash., a 1200-seat house, opened to two capacity shows before a brilliant assemblage composed in part of leading officials of the Long Bell Lumber Company, founders of Longview, who arrived in time for the double celebration of the new theatre opening and the arrival of the first train over a new rail route. A big bunch went down from Seattle and Kelso was well represented. Junior Orpheum vaudeville will be featured Saturday nights, with road shows and feature pictures daily. "Charley's Aunt" opened Sunday to capacity crowds.

Hensen & Von Herberg's new Liberty Theatre, Astoria, Oregon, was the second opening and was equally successful. It seats 1,100 and is the finest house in recreated Astoria. C. S. Jensen, Portland member of the firm, was host on the occasion of the opening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Potter of Portland have their new 800-seat house in the Moreland district well under construction. It will be of Spanish type. Complete contracts for furnishing, equipping, decorating, seating, projection, etc., have been let to B. F. Shearer, Inc.

G. H. Dixon of the Ellensburg Theatre, Ellensburg, Wash., was in Seattle recently lining up his early summer bookings. He reports business "as usual."

John Danz has gone to summer prices of 10 cents at his Capitol Theatre, Seattle.

L. R. Stradley, whose newly opened Cheerio Theatre, on Queen Anne Hill, Seattle, has become the popular gathering place of Hill residents, gave a free Saturday matinee showing for children under 15 on the opening chapter of Universal's serial, "The Great Circus Mystery." He has 800 seats, but by doubling up some of the little chaps entertained 940. Mr. Stradley is operating his community house in a splendid, efficient manner. He has just added a Wednesday night vaudeville feature to his regular program.

Bill Stickley, owner of the Electric Theatre, Concrete, Wash., was a Seattle visitor this week.

Fred Mercy, Jr., son of Fred of Yakima Theatres fame, has joined the house staff of the Strand Theatre, Seattle.

Fred Mercy is about to reopen the Liberty Theatre, Yakima, Wash., after six weeks which have been devoted to the refurnishing, decorating, equipping, etc., of the house. Opening date will be Easter Sunday.

Warner Brothers are seeking a suitable site in Bremerton, Wash., Puget Sound Naval Station, for the erection of a picture theatre. L. K. Brin and Attorney B. M. Levine, Seattle counsel for the company, spent some time in Bremerton last week going into the matter.

Manager Art Hile of the Capitol Theatre, Seattle, gave a special kid matinee Saturday morning for "The White Sheep." He tied the stunt up with the Seattle Star, which printed the free coupons. About 1,000 youngsters were entertained.

Los Angeles

Mark M. Hansen has completed negotiations for the erection of a new picture theatre at Santa Monica boulevard, Melrose and Doheny drive, West Hollywood, Cal., and construction will be started within a month. It will be a Class A structure, having a frontage of eighty-five feet on Melrose and a depth of 165 feet. The cost will be $600,000 and the capacity 1,800 seats, including 500 divan seats and a balcony seating 500. The stage will have a full basement, measure 80 by 24 feet nad be equipped for vaudeville acts.

STRAIGHT from the SHOULDER REPORTS

A DEPARTMENT FOR THE INFORMATION OF EXHIBITORS

EDITED BY A. VAN BUREN POWELL

Associated Exhibitors

EAST OF BROADWAY. (5,783 feet). Star, Owen Moore. For me a nice, clean little one-day comedy-drama. Tone O. K. Fair appeal. Probably suitable for Sunday, no as special. Draw family and student class, town 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

NEVER SAY DIE. (6 reels). Star, Douglas MacLean. Good comedy drama. Quite a number of my patrons not satisfied with it but did not complain. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. All classes city of 12,000. Admission 10-20, 15-25. Louis Pilosi, Pilosi's Theatre Old Forge, Pennsylvania.

F. B. O.

BREED OF THE BORDER. (4,920 feet). Star, Lefty Flynn. A picture just as good if not better than any picture that William S. Hart ever made and is the best this star has done up to date. Print good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Great audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents always. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre, Baltimore, Maryland.

BREED OF THE BORDER. (4,920 feet). Star, Lefty Flynn. An unusually good western that pleased a majority. Am sorry to see F. B. O. putting Lefty in a new type of picture as his western productions are giving him a following who will be disappointed to see him in any other kind of photoplay. Good action and good story to this one. Tone fair, good appeal. No Sunday and special. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

BROKEN LAWS. (6,413 feet). Star, Mrs. Wallace Reid. Here is a picture that is a real special, and has a wonderful story, told in an interesting way, and will register with any of your patrons who have children to raise, but will not interest the young people. Tone, yes: appeal, you bet! Yes for Sunday and special. Draw from small town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

FOOLS IN THE DARK. (7,002 feet). Star, Patsy Ruth Miller. A fine show for Saturday night in our house. Everybody enjoyed the comedy element in this show. Drew fairly good business. Tone, okay. Not suitable for Sunday. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

HARDEST WAY. Star, Fanny Ward. Good clean picture but rather too slow to please the average audience. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Poor audience appeal. Small town and farmer class town of 600. Admission 10-20, 10-30. H. W. Batcheler, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

HIS FORGOTTEN WIFE. (6,500 feet). Star cast. Good enough for any house. Not a big special but a very entertaining picture, well done throughout. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

SILENT STRANGER. (5 reels). Star, Fred Thomson. All of these Thomson's are good with us. No other stars are as popular as Thomson and Silver King with our audiences. He is the best western star we have. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Good audience appeal. Farming and small town class town of 800. Admission 10-25. Welty & Son, Mid-Way Theatre (500 seats), Hill City, Kansas.

These dependable tips come from exhibitors who tell the truth about pictures to help you book your program intelligently. "It is my utmost desire to serve my fellow man," is their motto.

Use the tips; follow the advice of exhibitors who agree with your experience on pictures you both have run.

Send tips to help others. This is your department, run for you and maintained by your good-will.

SPIRIT OF THE U. S. A. (8,312 feet). Star, Johnny Walker. A good picture, by all means. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Town of 3,500. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre (250 seats), Buena Vista, Virginia.

THAT DEVIL QUEMADO. Star, Fred Thomson. Fred Thomson's best picture to date and your western patronage will eat this one. A hundred per cent. audience hokum and a good drawing card. No as special. Appeal 85 per cent. Draw industrial center, 6,000. Admission 10-30. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (700 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

THUNDERING HOOFS. (6,015 feet). Star, Fred Thomson. In my opinion the best Thomson I have ever seen. He has some real comedy, too. The only fault I have to find with Fred is that he always pulls off some impossible stunts. Silver King fine as usual. Tone O. K. Good appeal. Yes for Sunday but no as special. Draw mixed class, town 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

TRIGGER FINGER. (4,775 feet). Star, Bob Custer. A fine western. Pleased western fans and if Bob Custer's future productions are as good as this one we will be well satisfied. Exhibitor's playing western nights should book this picture as there is action from start to finish and the interest is worked up to a splendid climax. Breezy Eason did some good directing here. Come on, Bob, give us more like this. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Strong western audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35 on specials. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

UNKNOWN PURPLE. (6,950 feet). Star cast. A very heavy story of an inventor who solves the secret of invisibility and takes a creepy revenge upon his faithless wife and lover, the man who falsely sent him to prison. With good strong music this film can be worked up to a great pitch. Some of the interiors are remarkable. One hall scene in particular gained an appearance of colossal size through very clever exaggerated perspective. At the right halls this should be a real winner. Was greatly praised here and played to three days exceptional business. Tone, rotten. Not suitable for Sunday. Special, in the right halls. Town of 163,000. Draw from working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

VANITY'S PRICE. (6,214 feet). Star, Anna Q. Nilsson. Nothing to brag about. Acting of star and cast fair. Good sets and photography, but story is rotten. Sorry I bought it. Tone, no good. Sunday, no. Special, no. No audience appeal. Family class town of 1,800. Admission 10-30. R. Kuhn, Kuhn Theatre (300 seats), Lebanon, Oregon.

First National

ASHES OF VENGEANCE. (10 reels). Star, Norma Talmadge. An excellent production that can be classed as a special. Although of the costume type, the patrons soon become so absorbed in the well directed story that they forgot the old time dress and at two or three times voiced their nervousness at some particularly exciting incident. Even the roughnecks praised this one. One of Norma's best. Some may consider too much fighting. Strong audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35 on specials. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

CHILDREN OF THE DUST. (6,228 feet). Stars, Johnnie Walker, Bert Woodruff, Pauline Garon. Not so very well liked here though some very good acting was put on by all three. Good tone, fair appeal. Yes for Sunday. Helen Drexler, Star Theatre, Crofton, Nebraska.

CIRCUS DAYS. (6,000 feet). Star, Jackie Coogan. A real good picture, old, but one that will please many. Used with local picture which drew them in. "Circus Days" pleased them. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. All classes town of 1,312. Admission 10-20. M. J. Bradley, Airdome Theatre (300 seats), Thornton, Arkansas.

CLASSMATES. (6,983 feet). Star, Richard Barthelmess. Good. Very nice business. Tone good Sunday, yes, but special no. City 9,237. Admission 10-25. H. V. Smooths, Vine Theatre (600 seats), Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

CYTHERIA. (7,400 feet). Star cast, includes Lewis Stone. Very few liked it and it causes much adverse criticism from many. Let it alone. Tone bad, appeal poor. No for Sunday or as special. Draw better class, city 14,000. Admission 10-35. E. W. Collins, Grand Theatre (700 seats), Jonesboro, Arkansas.

FLAMING YOUTH. (8,474 feet). Star, Colleen Moore. This is a hum-dinger for a so-siety play with an expose of the younger element or I might say an expose of the older element also in highbrow society class. Very well done. Tone, questionable. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

IF I MARRY AGAIN. (7,401 feet). Star, Doris Kenyon. As fine as they make them. Full house two nights and everyone commented favorably. Doris is a real star. This picture "made" her here. Give us more like it. Tone O. K. Appeal 100 per cent. Sunday O. K. Draw all classes, town 4,000. Admission 10-20, 15-25. R. L. Nowell, Idlehour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

IN HOLLYWOOD WITH POTASH AND PERLMUTTER. (6,750 feet). Star cast. Very clever character comedy. Norma and Constance Talmadge in the cast (for a minute). Subtitles very clever and keep the crowds laughing; we did well on this one. Good tone, appeal 80 per cent. Yes for Sunday, no as special. Draw all classes, town 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotten, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

LADY. (7,337 feet). Star, Norma Talmadge. "The Lady" is one of Norma's best. A good cast supports her and the picture should make money anywhere. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent.

MADONNA OF THE STREETS. (7,507 feet). Stars, Milton Sills, Nazimova. If your audience appreciates tense drama, without much comedy, show them this wonderful story of England. If they don't—use your own judgment. Sills fine as usual. Nazimova very good. Tone O. K. Good appeal. Yes for Sunday, no as special. Draw mixed class, town 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

MADONNA OF THE STREETS. (7,507 feet). Stars, Milton Sills and Nazimova. Comments were pretty fair as a rule, although quite a few razzed it. Personally I don't think a star, as a minister, appeals much. Good tone, fair appeal. Yes for Sunday, no as special. Draw family and student class, town 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

PONJOLA. (7 reels). Star, Anna Q. Nilsson. Pretty good picture but no drawing power; ran Friday and Saturday but couldn't get the country people in on it. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

PONJOLA. (7 reels). Star, Anna Q. Nilsson. Business good. Appeal 70 per cent. Yes for Sunday. W. D. LaFerry, Roseville Theatre, Roseville, Georgia.

SANDRA. Star, Barbara La Marr. Very ordinary. Just another movie. Town 9,237. Admission 10-25. H. V. Smooths, Vine Theathe (600 seats), Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

SEA HAWK. (12,045 feet). Star, Milton Sills. A big picture in the way of production but only pulled the first day. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

SECRETS. (8,345 feet). Star, Norma Talmadge. Failed to please. We cannot get money out of Norma Talmadge's features any more; they are a back number with us. Small town patronage. A Mitchell, Dixie Theatre, Russellville, Kentucky.

SO BIG. (8,562 feet). Star, Colleen Moore. A dandy picture. Went well at the box office. Pleased about fifty per cent of the audience as some did not like Colleen in the elderly part. Should make money though. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, sixty per cent. All classes town of 5,000. Admission 25-50. C. E. Matlock, Rivoli Theatre (815 seats), Pendleton, Oregon.

SUNDOWN. (9,000 feet). Star cast. Good educational and historical picture. Big scenic with some comedy situations worked in; I would say book it most any place. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. Small town and farmer class town of 600. Admission 10-20, 10-30. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

SUNSHINE TRAIL. (4,500 feet). Star, Douglas MacLean. A good comedy drama that will please mostly all people. If I didn't get any picture worse than this could say all okay. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Town and country class town of 700. Admission 10-20. W. F. Denney, Electric Theatre (250 seats), Lowry City, Missouri.

TWENTY-ONE. (6,560 feet). Star, Richard Barthelmess. A pretty fair offering, old but got by with it. Barthelmess always good. Give us more modern stuff for him. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa

WHEN A MAN'S A MAN. (6,910 feet). Star, John Bowers. An exceptionally fine western. You don't have to be a western fan to like this one. Not a weak spot in it. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

WHITE MOTH. (6,550 feet). Star, Barbara LaMarr. First National furnishes a fine trailer on this one. I ran it for about a week before I showed it, and played to a good house. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Mixed class town of 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

Fox

CAMEO KIRBY. (6,921 feet). Star, John Gilbert. Another one of the pictures which were forced on. Rental too high. No profit. Lost money on this. No box-office appeal. Tone good. Maybe suitable for Sunday, if you can get it cheap enough. Special, no. Poor audience appeal. Farmers and merchants town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

CONQUEROR. Star, William Farnum. A reissue with plenty of action. Far better than "Wolves of the Night" the first of this series. Print good. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. All classes in big city Admission ten cents always. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre, Baltimore, Maryland.

DANCERS. (6,656 feet). Star cast. The best Fox picture in two years. George O'Brien a coming star. Patrons can't believe that this could be a Fox picture after all the poor ones they've seen. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

DANTE'S INFERNO. (5,680 feet). Star cast.

Between Ourselves

A get-together place where we can talk things over

Opposition—

Competition—

Without another theatre around you have those two things.

In winter—parties, dances, and so on, radio, the newest competitor.

But you don't shut up the house all winter. You make it warm and comfortable: you try to pick strong pullers—and GET 'EM COMING in spite of the distractions.

How about spring—and summer?

With the outdoor games, the automobile, and so on, pulling against you—

Are you going to lay down?

Or—

Keep on GETTING 'EM COMING!

Maybe the fellow next door will ride away from you in his car—to the country.

How about making the country autos drive—your way!

Make it easy for them. Let them know you've got good pictures, booked by these dependable tip pages—facilities for taking care of the car while they're amused.

Tie up with the outdoor people make them foresake their games often enough to help fill your theatre.

Pick good shows—strong titles, pulling pictures that did well for some exhibitor reporter last summer but that you didn't use.

And use these dependable tip pages to slam starch into that summer slump! VAN.

Now Booking

The novelty sensation of the year

GILBERT HEYFRON presents

A RENAUD HOFFMAN Picturization

"Private Affairs"

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Not a small town picture. Too gruesome. They'll come to see this one if you can get them curious. But they won't come again. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

DARWIN WAS RIGHT. (4,982 feet). Star cast. Darwin was right and Fox sure made a monkey of this exhibitor when he put this one over on them. Nothing but a two reel comedy and not as good. Advise if you have this bought pay for it and give it back. This picture certainly comes up to the Fox standard of last year's pictures. City of 12,000. Admission 10-25. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre (600 seats), Shawnee, Oklahoma.

DEADWOOD COACH. (7,619 feet). Star cast. This picture knocked 'em cold. Advertise it big and count the results. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

GERALD CRANSTON'S LADY. Very good. Above the average Fox special. As special yes. Appeal 70 per cent. Draw masses, city 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre, Birmingham, Alabama.

HEART BUSTER. (4,500 feet). Star, Tom Mix. The kid glove cowboy, nothing extra in this, not up to the Mix standard. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy per cent. Factory class town of 2,800. Admission 15-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

LAST MAN ON EARTH. (6,637 feet). Star cast. I built a special lobby, advertised this as a fantastic comedy and believe me, it was one. The people came out in crowds to see it, and it pleased them all. Some even came back the second time and brought their friends and families. The censors stole about two reels of it before it got here but they couldn't ruin this one. (They may have helped it). Tone, okay by the time it reached me. Special, yes. Audience appeal, extra good. All classes in small town. Admission 10-30. M. W. Larmour, National Theatre (430 seats), Graham, Texas.

ROUGHNECK. (7,010 feet). A dandy for Saturday. Pleased them all. Small town patronage, all classes. A. Mitchell, Dixie Theatre, Russellville, Kansas.

ROUGHNECK. (7,500 feet). Star cast. A good picture. Lots of action and comedy. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

SILENT COMMAND. Star cast. Good picture worth seeing. Can be called a feature. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Farmers and merchants town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

Metro-Goldwyn

FASHION ROW. (7,300 feet). Star, Mae Murray. Had fairly good comments on this picture and it seemed to please the majority. It held up fairly well during its run. City 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

HIS HOUR. (6,300 feet). Star, Aileen Pringle. Four days to satisfactory business. Picture pleased the women immensely. General class city of 35,000. Admission 25-35. C. D. Buss, Strand Theatre (700 seats), Easton, Pennsylvania.

HIS HOUR. (6,300 feet). Star, John Gilbert. A real picture. Drew well and pleased. Advertise it strong and get the money. Patrons liked it better than "Three Weeks." City of 12,000. Admission 10-25. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre (600 seats), Shawnee, Oklahoma.

JANICE MEREDITH. (10,000 feet). Star, Marion Davies. Absolutely not a small town picture. Don't go too strong on this one. A disappointment to us. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. City of 12,000. Admission 10-25. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre (600 seats), Shawnee, Oklahoma.

NAME THE MAN. (8 reels). Star cast. As good a drama as I have played in a long time. Book it and don't be afraid to push it as it is all there. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fine audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

Pirie in Again

"Dear 'Van', and 'Gang': I've been a parasite and a backslider lately, for I've been studying 'Straight From the Shoulder' and sending no tips. I've been spending the last few hours with a sharp pen-knife and nine months' issues of Moving Picture World, cutting out 'Straight From The Shoulder' and filing it with its indexes in spring back files. The job is done to date and I've got to do my bit for the department, so you'll find a bundle of reports enclosed. You're doing great work. The proof's in the files. Best wishes. Ever thine, Wm. Findlay Pirie, Star Picture Palace, Aberdeen, Scotland."

NELLIE THE BEAUTIFUL CLOAK MODEL. (7,000 feet). Star cast. One of the best melodramas without too much hokum that I have ever played. Very interesting and finely acted. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

RAGMAN. (5,908 feet). Star, Jackie Coogan. Jackie is very good and the crowd liked him very much. Good clean comedy drama. Got thirty cents for this one without a murmur. The direction is fine which means everything in putting over a kid star. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

REVELATION. (8,732 feet). Star, Viola Dana. Altogether too long. It has a fine theme and the acting of the entire cast is excellent, yet it drags and drags. Is now in nine reels but could be cut down to six; then it would be fine. Tone O. K. Fair appeal. Yes for Sunday but no as special. Draw mixed class, town 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

SILENT ACCUSER. Star cast. A real good picture. Pleased about ninety per cent. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

SILENT ACCUSER. (6 reels). Star, Peter the Great (dog). Fine feature. Should please any audience. Fine acting by dog. Pretty out door scenes. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. Farmers and merchants town of 1,650. Mrs. J. B. Travelle, Elite Theatre, Placerville, California.

SOCIAL CODE. (5 reels). Star Viola Dana. Just an ordinary program picture that seemed to please about fifty per cent. of our audience. Acting good. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Mixed class town of 7000. Edgar Delahunty, Family Theatre (300 seats), Forest City, Pennsylvania.

Paramount

BREAKING POINT. (5,788 feet). Star, Matt Moore. Very good picture. You will like Matt Moore's acting. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, yes. Audience appeal, good. Best class town of 875. Admission 10-25. Hal James, Wanoca Theatre (300 seats), Wallace, North Carolina.

COMING THROUGH. (6,522 feet). Star, Thomas Meighan. Biggest week's business in several weeks in the face of opposition, such as John McCormick, Chamber of Commerce Exposition, two road attractions, a musical comedy, and Al. G. Fields Minstrel. The best role Thomas Meighan has had since "Back Home and Broke." My patrons like it very much. It will get money for you. All classes city of 91,000. Admission 40-50. Guy A. Kenimer, Arcade Theatre (1,150 seats), Jacksonville, Florida.

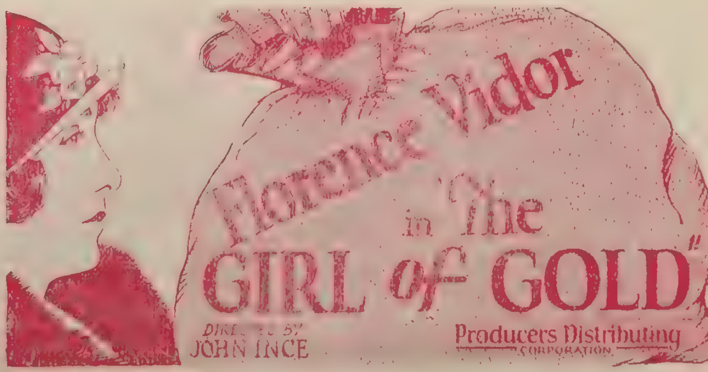
NE'ER DO WELL. (7,414 ft.). Star, Thomas Meighan. From Rex Beach's novel. Most of the action takes place in Panama. I can say the same for this as for all the Meighan's that I have used. It pleased all who saw it, I believe, but it didn't pull enought in to see it. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Village and rural class, town of 400. Admission 15-30. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

NORTH OF 36. (7,908 ft.). Star cast. Honest to goodness western thriller. Paid a good stiff price for it, but it brought me three days' capacity business. Find Paramount big specials good investment. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fine audience appeal. Family class, town of 1,800. Admission 10-30. R. Kuhn, Kuhn Theatre (300 seats), Lebanon, Oregon.

OLD HOMESTEAD. Star, Theodore Roberts. A very splendid picture from every angle. This pleased the crowd as well as any we have had. Although it was not new when we ran it last summer we got a good print. You are fairly safe with Paramount prints, though they can be improved in the matter of splices. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Merchants and farmers, town of 440. Admission 15-25. Kenneth W. Thompson, M. W. A. Theatre, Hancock, Wisconsin.

THUNDERING HERD. Star Jack Holt. Chalk up another big success for Famous; still another for Zane Grey. Boys, here's a real honest to goodness picture from one end to the other; a picture that can be called a real special. There is no end to the thrills in it; no fake stuff. Wait until you see 'em pile up about three or four wagons, wreck everything. It will raise your hair. Grab it as soon as possible and

Now Booking



Many an audience has gone out in a satisfied frame of mind in spite of seeing a weak feature—because you had a strong short subject or two to bolster up the show.

Help other exhibitors by telling them what the short subjects were like.

Serials, too.

A serial that's a puller may make a good day out of a poor day—for ten or fifteen weeks!

SEND TIPS STEADILY.

exploit it to the limit. Sunday, yes. Special, yes, by all means. Audience appeal, 100 per cent. Town of 2,000. Admission 10-30. H. W. Ribble, Mayfield Theatre (210 seats), Mayfield, California.

TOMORROW'S LOVE. (5,801 feet). Agnes Ayres. Just fair program stuff. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Oil field class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlichter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

TOMORROW'S LOVE. (5,802 feet). Star cast. This is an attractive picture not big but good and pleases. It has a good comedy touch and an interesting plot. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Town of 3,200. Admission 10-20-30. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

TOO MANY KISSES. (5,790 feet). Star, Richard Dix. An extra good program picture. Very entertaining. Has humor, action, love, interest, etc. I believe it would have gone better under a better title. Tone, okay. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. All classes in town of 3,000. Admission 10-30. M. W. Larmour, National Theatre (430 seats), Graham, Texas.

TOP OF THE WORLD. (7,167 feet). Star cast. Story deals with life in South Africa and is an interesting picture. Not big but worth the price they asked for it. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Town of 3,200. Admission 10-20-30. Charles Lee Hyde, Grand Theatre, Pierre, South Dakota.

WAGES OF VIRTUE. (7,083 feet). Star, Gloria Swanson. A fairly good picture but not up to Gloria's standard. It seems as if our American audiences don't want the foreign stories; she is a good bet here in the right type of picture. Tone, fair; appeal, mentioned. Draw from industrial center, 6,000. Admission 10-30. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (600 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

WILD BILL HICKOK. (6,892 feet). Star, William S. Hart. Good wild western. Bill shoots them up. Mly fans eat this stuff up. Old but worth running. General class town of 4,000. R. L. Nowell, Idlehour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

WORLD'S APPLAUSE. (6,526 ft.). Star, Bebe Daniels. Just fair picture. Probably all right for the larger towns, but I would not book it if I had seen it run before booking. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Small town class and farmers, town of 600. Admission 10-20, 10-30. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

Pathe

NANOOK OF THE NORTH. (6 reels). Star cast. This probably hasn't been ranked as a gold mine by any exhibitors. The evening before public showing, I screened it for superintendents of the schools of several surrounding villages. I also worked extra hard on it otherwise. The supereintendents seemed to like it and I guess they boosted it loyally. Had a fair attendance, but nothing in proportion to exploitation I put into it. I thought the subject wonderfully interesting. Village and rural class town of 400. Admission 25-15, 30-15. E. L. Patrridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

SAFETY LAST. (6,400 feet). Star, Harold Lloyd. Seven reels is too long for this one, believe that if they would have cut it to five it would have been much better, but it's good and worth running. Factory class town of 2,800. Admission 15-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

Principal

CAPTAIN JANUARY. (6,194 feet). Star, Baby Peggy. A good picture. Clean as a whistle, entertaining, all the way through, and was well liked by everyone who saw it. Unfortunately this class of picture does not draw good here. No amount of boosting will bring out the patronage a picture of this high class deserves. But those who saw it are still talking about it. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. All classes in small town. Admission 10-30. M. W. Larmour, National Theatre (430 seats), Graham, Texas.

CAPTAIN JANUARY. (6,194 feet). Star, Baby Peggy. Very good, out of the ordinary line of pictures. Nothing exciting, good for those who change every day but don't pay too much for it like we did. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, seventy per cent. Factory class town of 2,800. Admission 15-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

CAPTAIN JANUARY. (6,194 feet). Star, Baby Peggy. A very fine picture with beautiful marine scenery. Good drama with lots of laughs too. Baby Peggy featured in ad. too much. Fine tone, good appeal. Yes for Sunday but no as special. Draw family and student class, town 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

ANNA MAY WONG

Appearing in Douglas Fairbank's "Thief of Bagdad" which United Artists released

HELEN'S BABIES. Star, Baby Peggy. Nothing much to it, but will get by with the women. Not a man's picture, however. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Oil field class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlichter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

MASKED DANCER. Star, Elliott Dexter. Cannot give this one much. The fact that the husband did not know his own wife with a mask on part of her face and made love to her does not seem right. No business second night. Tone, none. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, fifty per cent. All classes town of 2,900. Admission 10-25, 15-30. A. E. Andrews, Opera House Theatre (496 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

Producers' Dist. Corp.

ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE. (5 reels). Star, James Kirkwood. A nice little program picture that pleased. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Oil field class, town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. H. E. Schlichter, Liggett Theatre (600 seats), Madison, Kansas.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE. (7,179 ft.). Star cast. Good picture, but failed to draw or please. Something wrong with its appeal. Fair tone. Sunday questionable. Special, no. Audience appeal, 60 per cent. Middle and work class city of 25,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE. (7,179 feet). Star, Florence Vidor. A truly wonderful picture of a beautiful Civil War romance that just finds its way to your heart. Edmund Lowe and Florence Vidor's acting carries the audience with them. Many favorable comments were made on this. General class, city of 500,000. Admission 10-30. William T. Meeks, Silliman's Murray Theatre (740 seats), Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

BEYOND THE BORDER. Star, Harry Carey. Another knockout for Carey. Story, star and direction are above criticism. These Careys are very dependable and anyone can boost them. Tone, fair. Appeal ninety per cent. No for Sunday or as special. Draw all classes, town 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank G. Wotten, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

HOLD YOUR BREATH. (5 reels). Star, Dorothy Devore. Good, clean comedy picture but not a special in any way. This picture pleased everyone and went over good. Good tone and appeal. Yes for Sunday and no for special. Draw from railroad and mining

Now Booking

HARRY CAREY
in
"Silent Sanderson"
A Hunt Stromberg
personally supervised production
PRODUCERS - DISTRIBUTING - CORPORATION

"IN THE SPRING THE WHOLE GANG'S FANCY LIGHTLY TURNS——"
Here we have a laughter-bubbling picture from the Hal Roach-Pathe comedy "The Love Bug," starring every little star in "Our Gang" class, town 3,500. Admission 10-35. Giles Master, Strand Theatre (730 seats), Gallup, New Mexico.

LOVE'S WHIRLPOOL. (6,028 feet). Star, James Kirkwood. Just a fair picture. Lost money on it so guess I am prejudiced against the picture, very dark in places. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Poor audience appeal. Small town and farmer class town of 600. Admission 10-20, 15-35. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

MICHAEL O'HALLORAN. (7,000 feet). Star cast. Well liked, though sad in places. A feature trying to impress charity. Good tone. Fair appeal. Yes for Sunday and in my opinion as special. Helen Drexler, Star Theatre, Crofton, Nebraska.

ROARING RAILS. (5,756 feet). Star, Harry Carey. Fine picture that was enjoyed by all. Acting of Darro best I have seen for a kid in long time. Played on Saturday to good crowd. Tone, okay. Sunday, okay. Audience appeal, one hundred per cent. General class town of 4,000. R. L. Nowell, Idlehour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

SIREN OF SEVILLE. (6,724 feet). Star, Priscilla Dean. Pretty good show. Priscilla shows you in one scene whether she's getting plump or not. Tone, fair. Possibly suitable for Sunday. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

SOFT SHOES. Star, Harry Carey. Again we say "Good!" This completes the first series and if the next are as good we say "O. K." Tone, no. Sunday, no, same as special. Appeal eighty per cent. Draw masses, city 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre, Birmingham, Alabama.

United Artists

AMERICA. (14,000 ft.). Star cast. Splendid in every way except that the exchange charged me three times as much for it than what they sold same to other exhibitors in my territory. Worked like a slave to get it over and exchange got the money. Tone. good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Appeals to young and old. Family class, town of 1,800. Admission 10-30. R. Kuhn, Kuhn Theatre (300 seats), Lebanon, Oregon.

DOLL'S HOUSE. Star, Nazimova. This is a poor picture and a plot that lacks everything that goes to make up an interesting photoplay. Why will Nazimova try to direct herself as she always makes a mess of it. As an emotional actress she has few equals but spoils it all with her misdirected mannerisms. In her latest picture "The Redeeming Sin," directed by J. Stuart Blackton she equals her first great triumph in "Eye For Eye." You'll disappoint your people if you order this one. City and country class town of 3,000. Admission 10-30. George W. Walther, Dixie Theatre, Kerrville, Texas.

DOROTHY VERNON OF HADDON HALL. (10,000 feet). Star, Mary Pickford. Not so good to me, my patrons do not like costume. Did not do so good, not as good as some of her previous shows. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Fair audience appeal. All classes city of 12,000. Admission 10-20, 15-25. Louis Pilosi, Pilosi's Theatre, Old Forge, Pennsylvania.

THIEF OF BAGDAD. Star, Douglas Fairbanks. Truly a great picture and will please any audience. Go the limit in advertising this big special. Will, in my opinion, stand fifty cent admission anywhere. It pleased my patrons better than anything in months. Tone good. Appeal 100 per cent. Yes for Sunday and as special. Draw from industrial center, 6,000. Admission usually 10-30. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (700 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

THIEF OF BAGDAD. (12,000 feet). Star, Douglas Fairbanks. A big production in every way and a wonderful picture for its kind; many go to see it for curiosity. Sets are wonderful. Use plenty of advertising. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Varied audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

THIEF OF BAGDAD. (12,000 feet). Star, Douglas Fairbanks. About as good a picture as you will see for some years to come but it did not do anything like the amount of business here to justify the outrageous rental charged for it. Tone O. K. High appeal. Yes for Sunday and as special. Draw better class, city 14,000. Admission 10-35. E. W. Collins, Grand Theatre (700 seats), Jonesboro, Arkansas.

Universal

ACQUITTAL. (6,325 ft.). Star, Clair Windsor. This one is a pretty good picture, but it is too much of one thing. Good murder case. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Miners and farmers, town of 600. Admission 10-25; special 15-30. John Russell, Russell Theatre (250 seats), Matherville, Illinois.

BIG TIMBER. (4,650 feet). Star, William Desmond. A very good program picture. If you give Desmond a good story he will make good. Town of 3,500. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre (250 seats), Buena Vista, Virginia.

BUTTERFLY. (7,472 feet). Star, Laura LaPlante. Advertised it as a special and got the gang out but didn't make a hit. Old stuff done too many times before. Well produced, however. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

FAST WORKER. (6,500 feet). Star, Reginald Denny. Pretty good but not as good as "The Reckless Age" to my way of thinking. A "Keystone" comedy finish. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

FIGHTING FURY. (4,491 feet). Star, Jack Hoxie. Fairly good western. Hoxie can't compare to Mix or Thomson but he will do. My customers like him. General class town of 4,000. R. L. Nowell, Idlehour Theatre (210 seats), Monroe, Georgia.

FOOL'S HIGHWAY. (6,800 feet). Star, Mary Philbin. A pity to put her in a picture of that kind. Had it two nights, the second night nobody came to see it. I can only say I'm glad I did not exploit it as they always say you should to put them over. All classes town of 7,000. Admission 10-25. O. J. Miller, St. Clair, Pennsylvania.

LAW FORBIDS. (6,262 feet). Star, Baby Peggy. I think this one is just about as good as any of the Baby Peggy pictures. She is a wonderful little actress and put this over in fine shape. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

LET 'ER BUCK. (5,000 feet). Star, Hoot Gibson. "Let 'Er Buck" is a picture that should get money and place. It has one hundred percent audience appeal. Features the great Pendleton round-up. Tone, fine. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Audience appeal, one hundred percent. All classes town of 5,000. Admission 25-50. C. E. Matlock, Rivoli Theatre (815 seats), Pendleton, Oregon.

OH DOCTOR. (6,507 feet). Star, Reginald Denny. Another picture like this and Denny will be done for, a disappointment to our customers. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. No audience appeal. City of 12,000. Admission 10-25. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre (600 seats), Shawnee, Oklahoma.

RECKLESS AGE. (6,954 feet). Star, Reginald Denny. A dandy Saturday night show that went across great for us. Everybody tickled with this one. It is good entertainment. He is a comer. Tone, good. Family picture. Special, no. Great audience appeal. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

RIDIN' KID FROM POWDER RIVER. (5,727 feet). Star, Hoot Gibson. Very faithful to the book. Hoot goes over big as usual. Here's a western actor that can really act; the majority of them are riders. Hoot has certainly come along in the last five years. This picture was built perfect for a Saturday crowd. Tone, fair. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, one hundred percent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

SIGNAL TOWER. (6,714 feet). Star, Rockliffe Fellows. Very fine railroad picture that should go over with any audience. Will stand plenty of boosting and not disappoint. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Very good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

TORNADO. (6,576 feet). Star, House Peters. The first five reels average melodrama; but the last two reels contain the greatest storm scenes I ever screened. Tone O. K. Good appeal. Yes for Sunday and nearly a special. Draw family and student class, town 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

WHITE TIGER. (7,000 feet). Star, Priscilla Dean. This is a poor picture: received poor print and whatever good things were in it did not show up. Not good for small town as it lacks action. Tone none, Sunday yes, special no. Draw railroad and farm town of 1,500. Admission 10-25. Ralph Saffer, Pastime Theatre, Manchester, New York.

Vitagraph

BELOVED BRUTE. (6,710 feet). Star, William Russell. A fine picture. A little too rough for ladies. But in other ways good. Town of 3,500. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre (250 seats), Buena Vista, Virginia.

CAPTAIN BLOOD. (10,680 feet). Star, J. Warren Kerrigan. This is a big picture that is as good and better than the "Sea Hawk." There is action all the way through. Sea fights are wonderful. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Very good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

MARY BRIAN

Plays the title role in Paramount's "The Little French Girl"

CAPTAIN BLOOD. (10,680 feet). Star, J. Warren Kerrigan. Big picture. Raised prices and had only fair crowd, partly on account of bad weather but I consider the picture all they claim for it and would be glad to get more like it. Small town class and farmers town of 600. Admission 10-20, 15-35. H. W. Batchelder, Galt Theatre (175 seats), Galt, California.

FROM THE MANGER TO THE CROSS. Lenten special. Small town exhibitors should play this subject and should make money anytime. Get your local church and tieup with them. Tone, very good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Very good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents always. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre, Baltimore, Maryland.

GREATER THAN MARRIAGE. Star cast. Very good program picture. No kicks, and pleased the ladies. All prints from Boston Exchange in wonderful condition. Tone fair. Appeal 75 per cent. No for Sunday or as special. Draw all classes, town 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotten, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

VIRTUOUS LIARS. (5,650 feet). Star cast. A pretty good program picture that seemed to please those who came out to see it. Tone and appeal fair. Yes for Sunday, no as special. Draw neighborhood class town 4,200. Admission 10-20. W. E. Elkin, Temple Theatre (500 seats), Aberdeen, Mississippi.

Warner Bros.

BEING RESPECTABLE. (7,500 feet). Star, Marie Prevost. Co-starred with Monte Blue. An excellent program offering not suitable to advertise as special. Those who saw it were well pleased although the story was very ordinary. Fine photography, good film, helped put the production over. Fair tone. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35 on specials. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

BEING RESPECTABLE. (7,500 feet). Stars, Monte Blue, Marie Prevost. Not much to it; been done too many times. Fair first day; N. G. second. Tone and appeal fair. Sunday yes, no as special. Draw family and student class, town 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

CORNERED. (7,500 feet). Star, Marie Prevost. Story of a girl blamed for robbing her own house while her double takes possession. This film pleased one hundred per cent. It hasn't much action but there is plenty of suspense in well developed dramatic scenes. Played to three days good business. Tone, rotten. Not suitable for Sunday. Special, no. City of 163,000. Draw from working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

DADDIES. (6,800 feet). Star, Mae Marsh. "Ought, naught, cipher, zero. The man who marries is a hero"—such was the slogan of the Bachelors' Club. Instead of taking wives they adopted war orphans. Oh boy, when the kids arrived including a damsel of seventeen the bachelor household was some menagerie, and at bedtime, Gee whiz and sundry expletives, what a night! The crowd roared and roared. It didn't pull tremendously but it pleased everybody. Tone, good. Suitable for Sunday. Special if your crowd favor farce. City of 163,000. Draw from working and seafaring class. W. F. Pirie, Star Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

DARK SWAN. (6,300 feet). Star, Marie Prevost. Really good entertainment. Plenty of youth in the cast and classy production. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

FIND YOUR MAN. (7,000 feet). Star, Rin-Tin-Tin (dog). Pleased one hundred percent. Boys, if you haven't booked it, book it now. Did a record breaking business. We seldom comment or knock on any picture, but this was so good I just couldn't keep still. Sunday, yes. Tone, fine. Almost special, but not quite. Town of 100,000. Jackson Brothers, Cozy Theatre, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

FIND YOUR MAN. (7,300 feet). Star, Rin-Tin-Tin (dog). Made a wonderful Friday and Saturday offering with an "Our Gang" comedy. The dog is everything but human. The greatest dog I ever saw. Action will get them in and please. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Very good audience appeal. Town and country class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25. C. R. Seff, New Radio Theatre (250 seats), Correctionville, Iowa.

GOLD DIGGERS. (6,500 feet). Star cast. Am sorry to say that I couldn't see this one nor could my audience. Saw some fine reports from exhibitors but can't agree with them. Some good comedy but boresome as a whole. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre, Fresno, California.

LIGHTHOUSE BY THE SEA. (6,700 feet). Star, Rin-Tin-Tin (dog). A real picture. Pleased one hundred per cent but not as good as "Where the North Begins." City of 12,000. Admission 10-25. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre (600 seats), Shawnee, Oklahoma.

LOVER OF CAMILLE (7,180 feet). Stars, Monte Blue, Marie Prevost. A most artistic production but too heavy for the average audience. No for Sunday. Appeal 75 per cent. Draw masses, city 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre (850 seats), Birmingham, Alabama.

LUCRETIA LOMBARD. (,500 feet). Star, Monte Blue. An excellent show that deserved much better attendance than it received. The title and posters did not draw any crowd at all. Print was okay. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

TENTH WOMAN. (6,250 feet). Star Beverly Bayne. A good program offering. Miss Bayne is certainly a treat for sore eyes in this one. This might be considered a semi-western. Will please the average audience. Tone O. K. Fair appeal. Yes for Sunday, no as special. Draw mixed class, town 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

THIS WOMAN. (7,000 feet). Star, Irene Rich. A good program picture by no means a special. Warner pictures are not up to last year's standard. City of 12,000. Admission 10-25. Jake Jones, Cozy Theatre (600 seats), Shawnee, Oklahoma.

WHERE THE NORTH BEGINS. (6,200 feet). Star, Rin-Tin-Tin. Very fine dog picture. Rin-Tin-Tin is exceptionally fine in this one. Any theatre is safe to play it. Think I sent one report, but am not sure. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. Family and transient class city of 65,000. Admission 10-15. R. K. Covington, Bijou Theatre (500 seats), Fresno, California.

Comedies

BLACK AND BLUE. (Educational). Star, Jimmie Adams. Good comedy that brought out a few more laughs than usual. Adams usually very good. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35, on specials. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

CHARLEY CHASE COMEDIES. (Pathe). Star, Charley Chase. His comedies are always good and clean. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Town of 3,500. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre (250 seats), Buena Vista, Virginia.

DON'T FORGET. (Pathe). Star, Hal Roach. Only a fair Roach one reeler. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Fair audience appeal. Village and rural town of 400. Admission 25-15, 30-15. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

FAST AND FURIOUS. (Educational). Star, Lige Conley. This was almost as the (Ivory Soap) slogan of ninety-nine forty-four hundreth per cent. good as a comedy. It has some fine gags in it that made 'em laugh. Tone, okay. Good audience appeal. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

FRONT. (Educational). Star, Poodles Hanneford. A rip roaring comic. You can run this one anytime. Factory class town of 2,800. Admission 15-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

GOLD FISH STORY. (Fox). An interesting picture. Village and rural class town of 400. Admission 25-15, 30-15. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

GREEN TIES. (Universal). Real good. Would rank it trifle above the average of this series. These are called Edwards comedies; but, in my estimation, Roach with his damfool antics is more than half the show. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Appeal good. Rural and village class town of 4,000. Admission 15-30. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

HIGH BROW STUFF. (Pathe). Star, Will Rogers. Very few laughs in this one. Had six tears on first show, then I took out about fifty rotten splices and they call this service. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

HUNT. (Fox). Star, Earle Fox. If you have not run any of these Van Bibber pictures yet, do so as they are all good, this one is a scream in two reels. Factory class town of 2,800. Admission 15-25. David W. Strayer, Mt. Joy Theatre (250 seats), Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania.

MASKED MARVEL. (Fox). The second 1925 series Fox comedy we have played and it went over fairly well. Tone, okay. Sunday, dunno. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35, on specials. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

Dorothy Gish plays Tossa in "Romola," the Inspiration picture which Metro-Goldwyn is distributing, in which her sister Lillian has the title role

PALE FACE. (First National). Star, Buster Keaton. Good, but not the best of his two and three reelers. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. Village and rural class town of 400. Admission 25-15, 30-15. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Orio.

SAVAGE LOVE. (Educational). Star, Jimmie Adams. Everybody had a good word for this comedy. The best Christie comedy that we have had for some time. A dandy. Tone, okay. Audience appeal, fine. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, SHOULD POKER PLAYERS MARRY? (Universal). Stars, Edwards and Roach. Fair. Tone okay. Yes for Sunday. Fair appeal. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre, Kinsman, Ohio.

SOLD AT AUCTION. (Pathe). Star, Snub Pollard. Seemed to please. Averages well with the rest of the Snub's. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Fair audience appeal. Village and rural class town of 400. Admission 15-30, 25-15, E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

WELCOME DANGER. (Educational). Star, Cliff Bowes. Not much to this one. It did not have a real laugh in it. The best thing about it was the film; that was in perfect condition. Tone, okay. Fair audience appeal. Better class town of 4,500. Admission 10-15. C. A. Anglemire, "Y" Theatre (404 seats), Nazareth, Pennsylvania.

WILD GAME. (Educational). Star, Lige Conley. Lige held his standard in this one and pleased a majority. Tone, fair. Sunday, yes. Fair audience appeal. General class town of 1,000. Admission 10-25, 15-35 on specials. H. H. Hedberg, Amuse-U Theatre, Melville, Louisiana.

Serials

RIDDLE RIDER. (Universal). Star, William Desmond. Starts off like a million dollars, with Desmond and Eileen Sedgwick in the lead and a good cast. Our old friend, Helen Holmes is here again and also Hughie Mack. We are on episode five, and if it keeps up as it is going, it will register as the best we have seen for two or three years. We find adults following this as well as children, lots of fast action and good story. Family class city of 600,000. E. Barker, College Playhouse, Toronto, Canada.

RIDDLE RIDER. (Universal). The best thing that I can say for Universal serial, "The Riddle Rider," is it made my worst day my best, and not for a few episodes but all so far run now using number ten. Herman Rubin, Cockade Theatre, Petersburg, Virginia.

Short Subjects

A MISS IN THE DARK. (F. B. O.). Star, Alberta Vaughn. Another one of the "Go-Getters." Can't be beat where once shown. Always shown. Buy them if you haven't. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Audience appeal, ninety-five per cent. Farm class town of 150. Admission 15-30. Robert W. Hines, Hines Theatre (150 seats), Loyalton, South Dakota.

DEATH RAY. (Pathe). An interesting educational subject, makes a great filler for a short program. Sunday, yes. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

GO-GETTERS. (F. B. O.). Star, Alberta Vaughn. The best two reel subject on the market. Seems to be getting better all the while and all of them have been exceedingly good. Try them for your short subject. No tone. Sunday, yes. Big attendance. All classes town of 2,900. Admission 10-25, 15-30. A. E. Andrews, Opera House (496 seats), Emporium, Pennsylvania.

SPORTLIGHTS. (Pathe). These one reelers are very good. Have lots of stunts in them and they make an ideal filler for any program. Prints always good. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

Independent

APACHE DANCER. (State Right). Star, George Larkin. A crude story of a Parisian dancer (male) who rescued an American girl from apaches and later in America continued the job, same girl, same apaches. Only one interior set in the whole thing. The 'thrilling' climax will either make your crowd's hair stand on end or double them up with mirth. Here they roared. Pleased about

Now Booking

Charles R. Rogers presents
A RENAUD HOFFMAN Picturization
"ON THE THRESHOLD"
with
Gladys Hulette, Henry B Walthall, Sam De Grasse, Robert Gordon, Charles Sellow, Margaret Seddon and Willis Marks
Released by
PRODUCERS – DISTRIBUTING – CORPORATION

fifty per cent, and played to three days of fair business. Tone, all right. Not suitable for Sunday. Special, emphatically not. Draw from working and seafaring class. City of 163,000. W. F. Pirie, Star Palace Theatre, Aberdeen, Scotland.

BATTLING FOOL. (State Right). Star, William Fairbanks. Those who want action don't overlook this picture. Lots of action from the beginning to the end. Working class city of 100,000. Admission 10-15-20. W. C. Budge, Comedy Theatre (275 seats), Jamaica, New York.

BLACK LIGHTNING. (State Right). Star, Thunder (dog). A fine dog story. I think that Thunder is more of an actor than either Strongheart or Rin-Tin-Tin but the story and cast are not as good as the ones in which these other dogs star. Thunder puts it across. Tone O. K. Good appeal. Yes for Sunday, but no as special. Draw mixed class, town 3,000. Admission 25-35. T. L. Barnett, Finn's Theatre (600 seats), Jewett City, Connecticut.

BROKEN HEARTS OF BROADWAY. (State Right). Star, Colleen Moore. A very good picture which should make money for any exhibitor. Has a wonderful cast. Print fair. This one should be a big bet for the small town theatre. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, yes. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

CALIBRE FORTY FIVE. (State Right). Star, Franklyn Farnum. It's a shame they don't give this star action stories. This one very calm and they don't like calm westerns. Print good. Tone, okay. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre (298 seats), Baltimore, Maryland.

CRIMSON GOLD. Star, H. B. Warner. Good western. Pretty scenery, plenty of pep. Good for western fans. Tone and appeal good. Yes for Sunday some places, fair for special. Helen Drexler, Star Theatre, Crofton, Nebraska.

DO IT NOW. (Goldstone). Star, Madge Bellamy. A very good comedy drama with lots of action. William Fairbanks is leading male star and is very good in fact this picture is suitable for any class. Tone, okay. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents always. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre, Baltimore, Maryland.

FAST AND FEARLESS. (Artclass). Star, Buffalo Bill, Jr. A good western with lots of action and some comedy that gets over very good; give us more. Appeal 80 per cent. Draw from small town of 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

FIGHTING IN FRANCE. (U. S. Signal Corps). The best actual war picture I have seen yet. No flag waving or heroes dashing madly over the top. Just Uncle Sam's boys, at work, at play, in action and on their journeys. The photography is good for one of these pictures. Tone, okay. Special, yes. M. W. Larmour, National Theatre (430 seats), Graham, Texas.

RICHARD DIX
The perennial favorite who appears in Paramount pictures

FIGHTING IN FRANCE. (State Right). Star cast. Drew good but failed to please natives. Middle and working class city of 23,000. Admission 10-25. Ed. C. Curdts, Bijou Theatre (365 seats), Greenville, South Carolina.

FLOODGATES. (State Right). Star, John Lowell. A lumber camp story. The story is always interesting. There is plenty of action. This picture ought to please any audience. Good tone. Good audience appeal. Working class city of 100,000. Admission 10-15-20. W. C. Budge, Comedy Theatre (275 seats), Jamaica, New York.

GAME FIGHTER. (State Rights). Star, Bill Patton. Just another western; same old story done in the same old way. Will please western fans if they are not too particular. Not much audience appeal. Draw small town class, town 300. Admission 10-25. Roy E. Cline, Osage Theatre (200 seats), Osage, Oklahoma.

LOST BATTALION. (McManus). Ran this for the local Legion Post for forty per cent. It did less than fair business for us. Ran two nights, second night falling considerably below first. In reproducing this incident of history, they attempted to emphasize the many nationalities of which the 77th was composed. The romances of several members and activities of the women with their knitting needles are woven in. All this takes up lots of footage. It is praiseworthy but at the same time, I believe, disappointing to most patrons as it is rather remote from the "big show" in France. Considering type of picture which they think they have paid to see, most would prefer to see this footage devoted to the techniques of war. This technique phase of the picture is good but not up to the possibilities. I would rank this part of it about on a par with the stuff in "Spirit of the U. S. A." In keeping the production authentic, it was about impossible to inject any of the great hokum punch stunts which put over Marshall Neilan's great war picture, "Unpardonable Sin." I'd call the production good, but not big; and add that war pictures are losing their popularity here in the "sticks" as well as in the cities. Rural and village class town of 4,000. Admission 15-30. E. L. Partridge, Pyam Theatre (250 seats), Kinsman, Ohio.

MAN FROM BROADWAY. (Elfelt). Star, J. B. Warner. Only fair. No story to work with. Good tone. Appeal 50 per cent. Yes for Sunday but no as special. Draw masses, city 200,000. Admission 10-20. R. M. Kennedy, Royal Theatre, Birmingham, Alabama.

NO DANGER. (Arrow). Star, Bobby Dunn. A very good two reel comedy. Sunday, yes. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents always. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre, Baltimore, Maryland.

OUT OF THE DUST. (State Right). Star cast. Just a fair picture of the west and will get by as a program picture where westerns are liked. Don't tell them you have a big one here. No as special; appeal 75 per cent. Draw from industrial center, 6,000. Admission 10-30. L. O. Davis, Virginia Theatre (700 seats), Hazard, Kentucky.

PAINTED FLAPPER. (Chadwick). Star, Pauline Garon. Pretty good flapper story although last two reels drag some. Good titles. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Fair audience appeal. Family and student class town of 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

RANGE TERROR. (State Right). Star, Bob Custor. If you want one with a lot of action here it is. The dog makes this picture go over big. Tone, good. Sunday, no. Special, no. Audience appeal, eighty-five per cent. Farm class town of 175. Admission 15-30. Robert W. Hines, Hines Theatre (150 seats), Loyalton, South Dakota.

ROMANCE AND RUSTLERS. (Arrow). Star, Yakima Canutt. Oh boy, what a picture and a star "Yak". The best on the screen. If he only would make more pictures so we could make something. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Town of 3,500. Admission 15-25. E. C. Bays, Globe Theatre (250 seats), Buena Vista, Virginia.

SPEED SPOOK. (C. C. Burr). Star, Johnny Hines. Pretty good show altho no better than his past ones. Very clever titles by best title writer in the business, Ralph Spence. Tone and appeal good. Yes for Sunday but no as special. Draw family and student class, town 4,000. Admission 10-25. R. J. Relf, Star Theatre (600 seats), Decorah, Iowa.

SURGING SEAS. (Steiner). (4,700 feet). Star, Charles Hutchinson. Seemed to satisfy everyone and held up fairly well at the box office. City 110,000. Admission 10-20. Al C. Werner, Royal Theatre, Reading, Pennsylvania.

WATCH HIM STEP. (State Right). Star, Richard Talmadge. Good action picture, wonderful star, fair direction and rotten print. This boy has a lot in him, and is always welcomed to an audience. His pictures are clean, and he is a hard and conscientious worker. Goes over big with me. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Audience appeal, ninety per cent. All classes town of 6,000. Admission 10-20-30. Frank H. Wotton, Park Theatre (600 seats), Lebanon, New Hampshire.

WHITE PANTHER. (Goldstone). Star, Rex Baker. Another worth while attraction under Goldstone banner. Should please any type of patronage. Print good. Tone, good. Sunday, yes. Special, no. Good audience appeal. All classes in big city. Admission ten cents always. Stephen G. Brenner, Eagle Theatre, Baltimore, Maryland.

Ginsberg Announces Five of Banner's 1925-26 Pictures

IN a general announcement to the independent exchanges pledging a consistent quality type of production made possible by concentrated individual effort on the part of the producer and distributor, the Henry Ginsberg Distributing Corporation gives the titles of the first five of Banner Productions for the 1925-26 season.

The Banner list is headed by "The Love Gamble," adapted from the novel, "Peggy of Beacon Hill," by Mazie Greig. It is a lively story of modern youth, love and frivolity but not a sex picture. The scene is laid in the Greenwich Village scetion of cultured Boston and is an unusual modern romantic drama.

The second title is "The Checkered Flag," an adaptation of the widely read novel by John Mersereau. It is a story of the automobile industry and the racing game with a strong love theme. It will have one of the most thrilling race scenes ever filmed.

"Brooding Eyes," the third on the list, is an adaptation from the novel, "The Man With the Brooding Eyes," by John Goodwin, author of "Without Mercy," and many other book successes which have already been presented on the screen.

The fourth picture is "Whispering Canyon," a new departure in pictures from a newly exploited field, the great lumber forests of the west. The high lights of this production are the gorgeous exteriors and the sensational dramatic scenes.

The fifth picture has not been commercially titled as yet but will be produced under the working title of "Salvage." It is a combination sea story and society drama by Izola Forrester, the author of "The White Moth," also done in picture form.

The sixth and last of the Banner group will be selected this week. Production will start on the first two pictures on the Coast in the course of the next ten days, the principals and cast now being assembled under the personal direction of George Davis and Sam Briskin of Banner.

Mr. Ginsberg has already received very favorable comment from many of the independent exchanges on the excellence of the titles and the type of story.

The second group of six pictures, to be known as Royal, are now being selected and production plans for this unit call for actual shooting about May 1. A well known star and capable casts with massive sets, dramatic action and vigorous narrative will be prominent features of Royal.

Lupino Lane, Educational Comedy Star, Has Talent

LUPINO LANE, recently signed by Earl Hammons, president of Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., to do a series of six two-reel comedies, will portray in his two-reel comedies a character similar to that which he portrayed in D. W. Griffith's picture, "Isn't Life Wonderful," where he had the part of the strolling player.

Mr. Lane's work in Griffith's masterpiece attracted much attention and excellent comment from newspaper reviewers. The Evening Post review of the picture devoted more than half of its space to its comments on Lane's work, stating that "Mr. Lane's work in it touches a high mark in comedy which no screen actor save Chaplin has ever reached."

In full, the portion of the review dealing with Lane's work says:

"While the entire picture is extraordinarily good, there are things in it which stand out so definitely as to be worthy of special mention. The first is a scene in which Lupino Lane, who, 'in Poland was considered somewhat of a dancer,' exhibits his footwork to a very much bored man who finally leaves him flat. While the scene itself is splendidly done and provides a legitimate touch, we wish to rise and state that Mr. Lane's work in it touched a high mark in comedy which no screen actor save Chaplin has ever reached.

"It has been said, and with much truth, that Charlie's comedy is outstanding because behind the fun and burlesque lies pathos. You may sympathize with him and at the same time you laugh at him. Lane's work in this picture has the same quality of pathos. His antics bring a laugh, but you see the bravery and earnestness and wistful longing in his eyes and you are sorry for him.

"We consider Lupino Lane's work in 'Isn't Life Wonderful' puts this in a class by himself and that, given proper stories, he has it in him to become one of our best makers of sincere laughter."

Gompers Pictures Given to A. F. of L.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Peter J. Brady, president of the American Federation of Labor Bank, in New York City, paid a visit to the Fox Home office last week for the purpose of reviewing the pictures of the last annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, held in El Paso, Texas, and which convention later sat in joint session with the Mexican Federation of Labor.

It was during these latter sessions that the late Samuel Gompers was fatally stricken and rushed to American soil where he died. In accepting the print of this subject, which was presented to the American Federation of Labor by Mr. Fox, Mr. Green said:

"Mr. Fox has given the American Federation of Labor one of its most priceless possessions. This picture will be carefully guarded for all time, because it shows our great leader, Samuel Gompers, in action for the last time.

"It will be an inspiration to our organization to view these pictures in later years. It is with sincere gratitude, that I accept these pictures from Mr. Fox. They will play a most important part in the celebration of the second anniversary of the opening of the American Federation of Labor Bank, May 19, 1925."

"Bobbed Hair"

Story by Twenty Authors Directed by Alan Crosland for Warner Bros.

Louis Milestone is now putting the finishing touches on the scenario for "Bobbed Hair" for Warner Bros. "Bobbed Hair" is the story by twenty popular fiction writers that ran serially in Collier's Weekly, recently. It is a light, breezy yarn, that tells the escapades of a young lady who chooses her husband by the decision of "to bob or not to bob." It is replete with thrills and intense action.

Alan Crosland, originally signed by Warner Bros. to direct "Why Girls Go Back Home," has been assigned to make "Bobbed Hair."

Now Booking

Harry Carey in "The Bad Lands"

A Super Thriller with Thousands of Real Indians

A Hunt Stromberg personally supervised production

Released by

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Kinograms Radio Tie-up Will Benefit Theatres

A RADIO tie-up of direct benefit to motion picture exhibitors was effected last week when the Kinogram Publishing Corporation, publishers of Kinograms, Educational's news reel, arranged with A. H. Grebe & Co., of Richmond Hill, New York, radio manufacturers and operators of station WAHG, to broadcast publicity matter regarding Kinograms 5069.

In this issue of the news reel interesting scenes showing the manufacture of the radio receiving set are shown. An interesting talk on the manufacture of some of the more essential parts of the receiver is contained in the material broadcast from the station and interested listeners and radio fans are told that more can be learned from seeing the reel on the screen than from the talk.

In order that all listeners might be able to learn more about the appliances mentioned, the name and issue number of the news reel are prominently mentioned in the talk and information as to where the reel can be seen is broadcast.

The list of theatres includes the large motion picture circuits showing Kinograms from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast and also the names of the big representative theatres in each large city.

Interested listeners are advised to see the reel at the theatres mentioned or to ask the managers of unmentioned theatres when Kinograms No. 5069 will be shown in those houses.

Arrow Pictures Receives Two Rapid-Fire Comedies

ARROW Pictures Corporation through its president, W. E. Shalenberger, announces the arrival from the West Coast of two new comedies, one a Broadway Comedy starring Billy West, the other a Mirthquake Comedy starring Bobby Ray.

Mr. West's newest effort, made originally under the title of "Brass Buttons," has been characterized as the cleverest picture he has made thus far. It is filled to the brim with rapid fire action and hilarious gags, and according to Arrow's reviewing staff, it is thickly dotted with laughs.

It will reach the screen under the title of "Copper Butt-Ins," a particularly apt example of nomenclature for the story deals with a rooky policeman—a copper—who is constantly putting his oar in where it doesn't belong.

Bobby Ray's newest was made under the working title, "Love Birds," and has since been rechristened "Cagey Love." Like the usual run of this popular player's pictures, there is a laugh a minute and a distinct innovation is noted in that there are real legitimate thrills as well.

Bobby's antics as he cavorts about the scaffolding of an unfinished building, are not only ludicrous in the extreme, it is stated, but may truly be characterized as sensational.

"The Making of O'Malley"

First National Productions has completed the casting of Milton Sills' first starring vehicle, "The Making of O'Malley," according to announcement by Earl Hudson, head of the eastern units of First National. The supporting cast includes Dorothy Mackaill, Claude King, Helen Rowland, Warner Richmond, Julia Hurley, Thomas I. Carrigan, Charles Graham, Allen Brander, Drew Demarest, T. Wigney Percyval and Charles Craig.

Hope Hampton's Next

Associated Exhibitors announces that Henri Diamant Bergere will produce "Lovers Island" with Hope Hampton in one of the leading roles of the picture.

"Lovers Island" is a T. Howard Kelley story that appeared in a recent issue of the Smart Set Magazine. Arthur Hoerl is adapting the story to the screen and writing the continuity. Production will be started sometime this month.

Artclass Films in England

Twenty Prints of "Rough Ridin'" and "Hard Hittin' Hamilton" Shipped Abroad

Twenty prints of "Rough Ridin'," first of the Buddy Roosevelt series of five reel action-stunt dramas, released by Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation, were this week shipped to George Smith's Films Ltd. of London, according to an announcement by Louis Weiss, the Artclass executive.

These prints will be used exclusively in the British Isles, where this popular series of Western features are shortly to be released.

They will be followed by twenty prints of "Hard Hittin' Hamilton," starring Buffalo Bill, Jr., which has been selected by George Smith's Films, Ltd. as the initial release of this favorite ridin' boy in Great Britain.

An intensive exploitation campaign on both the Buddy Roosevelt and Buffalo Bill, Jr. series has been planned by the officials of George Smith's Films, Ltd., including various tie-ups, prize contests and magazine publicity, which will appear simultaneously with the general release of the pictures.

The Boys Cinema, a widely read periodical in Great Britain, will publish serially a novelization of each story in the Buffalo Bill, Jr. and Buddy Roosevelt series, the publication beginning in each case at the date of release. This magazine also will offer prizes to boys for the best essay on the two stars, among which will be a sombrero and lariat, which have been used by Buffalo Bill, Jr. and Buddy Roosevelt.

"Go Straight" for April

J. G. Bachmann Announces That Ewart Adamson's Story Will be Released This Month by Schulberg Productions

"Go Straight!", Ewart Adamson's story, will be the next B. P. Schulberg Production to be released, says an announcement from J. G. Bachmann, vice-president and general manager of distribution. The date set for it is April 27.

The feature is being made under the direction of Frank O'Connor. In the principal roles are Owen Moore, Gladys Hulette, Mary Carr, Robert Edeson, George Fawcett and Francis McDonald. The story is a crook melodrama with Hollywood as its locale and in several episodes of the story there will appear a number of prominent screen folks including Anita Stewart, Larry Semon and Donald Keith.

"Grounds for Divorce"

Paramount Starts Production of Stage Success, With Florence Vidor

Florence Vidor, Matt Moore, Harry Myers and Louise Fazenda are the featured players in the Paramount production of "Grounds for Divorce," which has gone into production at Hollywood with Paul Bern directing. "Grounds for Divorce" is described as an up-to-the-Minute modern drama. The stage play was a big success.

Florence Vidor is cast as the young wife; Matt Moore as a famous French divorce attorney, and Harry Myers is given an opportunity for his individual style of comedy in the role of a French count. Louise Fazenda steps out of her semi-burlesque character in this production to play the role of a modern woman with "vampish" tendencies.

Adaptation for the screen was made by Violet Clark.

SELLING the PICTURE to the PUBLIC

EDITED BY EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Successor to the Drawing Contest Is Found in Coogan Ragman Pasted Figure

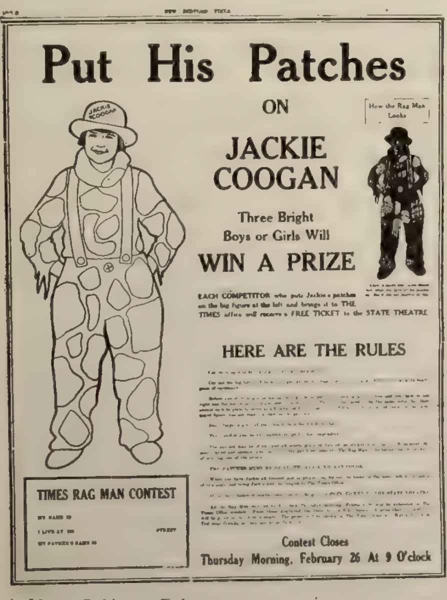
EVER since the drawing contest was developed to put over the Vitagraph production of Black Beauty, the contest has been one of the main standbys of the hustling exploiteer.

About a year ago this was slightly changed when someone, probably Howard Price Kingsmore, of the Howard Theatre, Atlanta, varied the stunt by printing a scene cut of Wanderer of the Wasteland and offering prizes for the best coloring, the idea being to give emphasis to the fact that this picture was in natural colors.

The idea broke so quickly on Southern Enterprises that it is difficult to say definitely that it was Mr. Kingsmore's idea, but his was the first to be reported. Following the publication in this department the idea spread all over the country.

Now It's Cloth

The newest idea probably was suggested by the new style fabric posters and comes from the State Theatre, New Bedford, Mass. The New Bedford Times was permitted to use the stunt for a circulation scheme in return for the space it gave. The initial stunt is shown in this reproduction of a full page display which opened the contest.



Put His Patches

ON

JACKIE COOGAN

Three Bright Boys or Girls Will WIN A PRIZE

EACH COMPETITOR who puts Jackie's patches on the big figure at the left and brings it to THE TIMES office will receive a FREE TICKET to the STATE THEATRE

HERE ARE THE RULES

TIMES RAG MAN CONTEST

Contest Closes

Thursday Morning, February 26 At 9 O'clock

JACKIE COOGAN
How the Rag Man Looks

A Metro-Goldwyn Release

THE FULL PAGE SPREAD

The full page spread was necessary in order to give the children a sufficiently large figure to work on. Where newspaper cooperation is not possible, the best idea would be to have the figure printed on light cardboard, about ten or twelve inches high. This should be distributed to all children applying for one, and not be held to patrons of the house. It would be a good idea to have these anyway.

The outline on the left is a duplicate of the smaller halftone on the right, which serves as a guide. The idea is to paste the outline on a card and then fill in with cloth.

According to the directions the first step is to paste up a dark cloth for the trousers and same lighter goods for the shirt, with a black cloth for the derby.

On this foundation are pasted the patches, each a different design, and finally two strips are pasted down for the suspenders.

Each child who completes the design is given a ticket to the performance and prizes are offered for the best work.

The entires are displayed in the window of the newspaper's counting room.

Strong Publicity

This gives the child plenty of scope and the best will probably make splendid window cards after the prize decisions have been made. Leather shoes, "real" hair and buttons for the suspenders are some of the little refinements that may be added.

All children should be given tickets, for they are entitled to a return for their hard work, and since the idea of the child appeal is to sell to the parents, this stunt will work far better than the drawing or coloring scheme.

Don't let this get away from you. This stunt is going to pull thousands of dollars into various box offices. Get your share.

A Night Owl

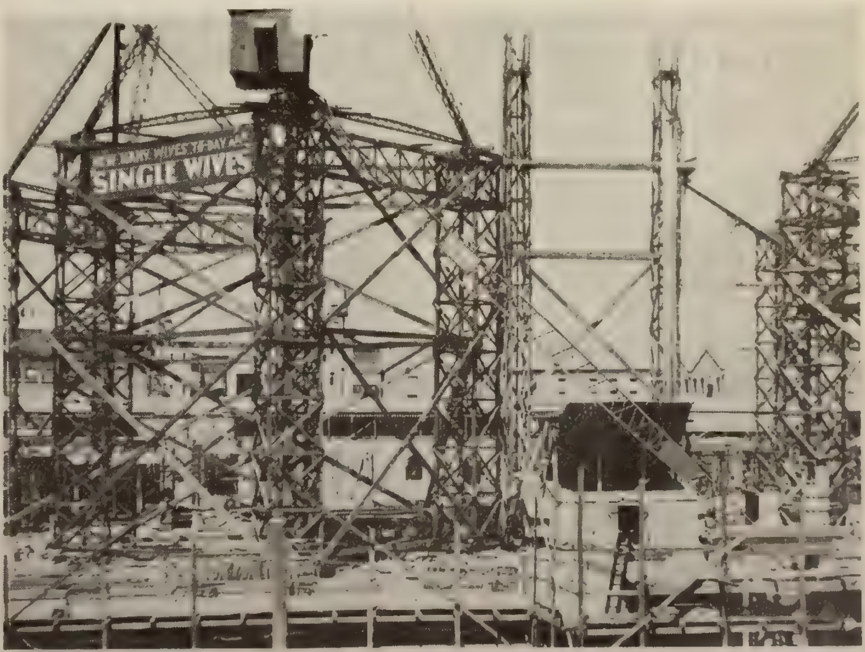
Talk about your midnight matinees! Cliff Lewis, of the Strand Theatre, Syracuse, writes that the house is on the air every Friday evening from eleven to two. The "eleven" is P. M. and not A. M., and the "two" is A. M. and not P. M. Must be pretty good to keep the customers out of bed that late, but Cliff writes that they get a lot of appreciative letters, for they give good shows.

Cliff does the announcing and is rapidly developing into a local Roxy.

Happy Days

N. L. Royster made a real campaign for Tom Mix in Dick Turpin at the Temple Theatre, Birmingham, Ala., but most of it was along usual lines, dressing up the house employees, warning the public of the impending arrival of the noted robber, an airplane herald throwout and much lithographic material, but he hit a good angle in contrasting the fight in the picture with the padded glove contests of the present day.

Run on the sporting page, this got him sales impossible to make through any other channel.



A First National Release

QUICK THINKING HELPED SINGLE WIVES IN AUSTRALIA

This is the skeleton of the new Town Hall in Brisbane. A derrick fell and before the news photographers could get around Premier First National pictures had a banner for Single Wives where it simply had to be incorporated into the pictures.

It's a Winner

H. M. Addison, of Binghamton, reports that his first experiment with the use of Chautauqua lecturers on his picture program was a knockout. Both papers gave him wonderful stories, one turning two columns and the other exceeding a column length with a two column head.

But a more important point is that he turned away upward of 800 persons after packing the house to the fire limit. Laugh that off if you think you can.

His first speaker was the Rev. Bernard Clausen, who in his opening said:

"I think I know an occasion when I see one, and this is a new day in the world, yet I feel quite at home in it, and feel like saying: 'Here I am again.'

"Years ago, lyceum lectures were given in Binghamton, largely through the efforts of the churches. Perhaps this is the beginning of a vast unexplored experiment, a renewal of the former movement. If that is true, the theater will make a great contribution to intellectual community life."

We believe that Mr. Addison has developed an idea that will do immense good to any theatre carrying out his policy. It will not only make immediate money but it will give such a house a prestige that cannot be figured in dollars and cents.

Production Hints from Edward L. Hyman

Managing Director, Mark-Strand Theatre, Brooklyn

"QUO VADIS," distributed by First National, being longer than the average film feature, it was possible to present on the same program only two musical incidents. However, one of these, called "Popular Songs Then and Now," ran for 14 minutes and was a small show in itself. The other and musical stage number was a "Holy Week Suite" embracing an overture and vocal selections. The show was rounded out by the Topical Review, which ran its customary 8 minutes. Altogether the program took up 2 hours and 7 minutes, of which time "Quo Vadis" took up 98 minutes.

Each of the 4 de luxe performances of the day were opened by the "Holy Week Suite," programmed as a collection of pre-Easter melodies specially arranged to solemnize Holy Week. The orchestra first played Franz Schubert's "Omnipotence." While this was being played, the gold draw-curtains were closed over the production stage and two steel blue Mestrum floods of 150 amperes flooded them from the booth. A steel blue flood from the domes covered the musicians. At the finish of "Omnipotence" the gold draw-curtains opened disclosing painted transparency representing the exterior of a cathedral. The blue floods were left standing on this curtain and blue foots were also dimmed up. As the orchestra played the introduction to "The Holy City," the cathedral curtains opened, disclosing a set representing the interior of a church. Singers in choir vestments were standing center stage and to the left the premiere danseuse was mounted on a pedestal as a madonna. A steel blue spot from overhead picked her out, while a small baby spot of white from overhead was focused on an armful of lilies which she held. Edna Burhans, soprano, one of the four artists wearing the choir vestments, then sang "The Holy City," after which the incident was closed by the quartette singing "The Psalms." The running time of this incident was seven minutes.

After the Mark Strand Topical Review came the "Popular Songs Then and Now." This was programmed as the hits of 20 years ago, revived for comparison with the melodies of today. A specially made film trailer announcing the presentation and setting forth the selections to be heard was run on the screen preceding the number. The setting was the interior of a song shop, showing shelves upon which were displayed copies of sheet music. A piano was to the left and a xylophone to the right with various music shop props here and there. The artists were introduced first as customers looking over the various song hits for sale. With Frank Banta at the piano, the first selection was "Robert E. Lee," sung by a lyric soprano. Then came "On the Banks of the Wabash," sung by a baritone. The third selection was "Sweet Adeline," sung by lyric soprano and mixed quartette. "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" was sung by a tenor. Then came "Love Me and the World is Mine" by a soprano; a contralto then sung "In the Good Old Summertime," and the old-time popular songs were brought to a close with "Alexander's Ragtime Band," danced by the ballet corps. The dancers were in minstrel dress. The new popular songs were then put over. The first was "I'll See You in My Dreams," by contralto; "No Wonder I Love You" was second by a soprano and baritone. "O Katharina" was third, selection danced by the ballet with the pianist and xylophonist doing their stuff. A tenor then sang "Dreams," after which the incident was brought to a close by "Alabamy Bound" by the ensemble with a novelty finish which showed them putting on their hats and coats and carrying small suit cases which, when reversed and put in a row spelled "Alabamy Bound."

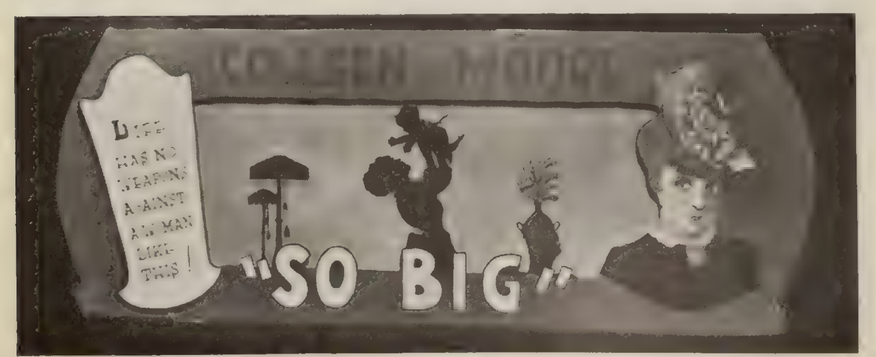
Just the Car

Sam Friedman, of the Luna Theatre, Sharon, Pa., saved a salary on a stunt lately. He used the automobile hook-up, but instead of using a bally to ride in the borrowed car, it perambulated the streets for two days with a banner on each side reading "This car reserved for the use of K the Unknown."

It ran for two days and made about as much talk as would have resulted had a rider been employed.

Used an Excuser

Instead of the Pullman porter, which has become almost a standard exploit on Excuse Me, the perambulator at Peoria, Ill., was a young man of good appearance who jostled pedestrians and then politely said "Excuse Me," at the same time proffering a card urging that the picture be seen at the Madison Theatre. It's a good stunt with a really tactful man, but it could be made to do the house considerable hurt.



A First National Release

SWANKE SOLD THIS BANNER BEFORE IT WAS COMPLETED

That's getting to be a habit with him, and gives him the use of it free. The front panel is yellow and the back grey, the silhouettes in black. He uses a similar banner in the foyer of the Rialto Theatre, El Dorado, Ark., for departing patrons.

Gave Patrons Party for an Anniversary

Chattanooga knows that the Tivoli Theatre is four years old. It will remember it beyond the year, for C. B. Stiff made the event the excuse for a real party.

The house has an unusually large lobby, to accomodate standouts, and after the night shows the guide railings were taken up and the foyer became a ball room in which several hundred couples could dance to the music of an excellent band. There was punch by the gallon and the birthday cake was cut into 1500 pieces and passed around.

The cutting of the cake was made the occasion of a pretty ceremony, the first incision being made by the Commissioner, (who would be Mayor by another title,) District Manager J. H. Franklin and Mr. Stiff making the second and third cuts.

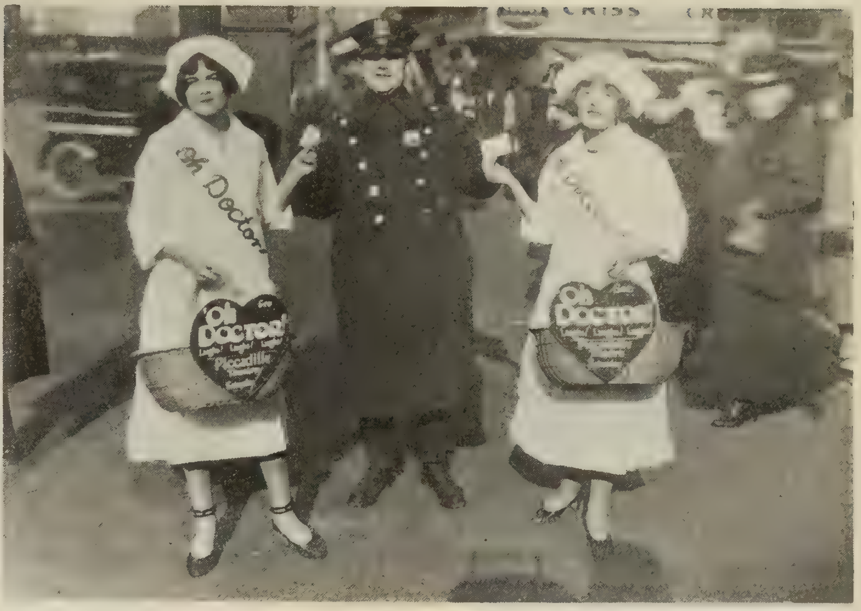
The party lasted well into the morning hours and was voted a regular event.

Numerous small souvenirs were given the dancers, including the Paramount Puzzle Books, and the guests are already longing for the fifth anniversary next year.

It did not cost much actual cash and it was the best good will stunt Mr. Stiff ever worked, and he has figured out a lot of good ideas since he has had the Chattanooga Paramount houses.

Wodetsky Is First

J. C. Wodetsky, of the Liberty Theatre, Terre Haute, Ind., is the first to land a cooperative on "Charley's Aunt." He got a double truck, in spite of the fact that he did not hook it to any distribution of tickets, puzzles or anything. He got it on the argument that a double truck on so well known a play would get additional attention for the constituent ads. He worked with the advertising manager of the Leader and he admits it took him longer than it used to, for cooperative pages have been dead in Terre Haute and it took extra effort to shake them up, but he got a fine page with two good ears on the streamer. One of them is "The funniest old lady who ever wore trousers," and the other: "With more laughs than the Navy has beans."



A Universal Release

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF POLICE GRAFT IN NEW YORK

The cop got two packages of "Love Pills" instead of the one most pedestrians received. The pills advertised Oh Doctor, at the Piccadilly, and the instructions on the envelope told you to take "two breaths and one pill" before each kiss.

Gave a Dummy an Automatic Breath

A really clever window stunt was worked by the American theatre, Terre Haute, Ind., for the Golden Bed. M. A. Fox, manager, borrowed a brass bed in the window of a furniture store and installed a wax head. Under the bedclothes he had a rubber bag which was inflated and deflated by means of a motor, and a large sign challenged curiosity with the question as to whether the occupant of the bed were alive or a dummy.

The head seemed to be a dummy, clearly enough, but the regular breathing was so deceptive that many persons hung around for some time in the hope of detecting some betraying movement.

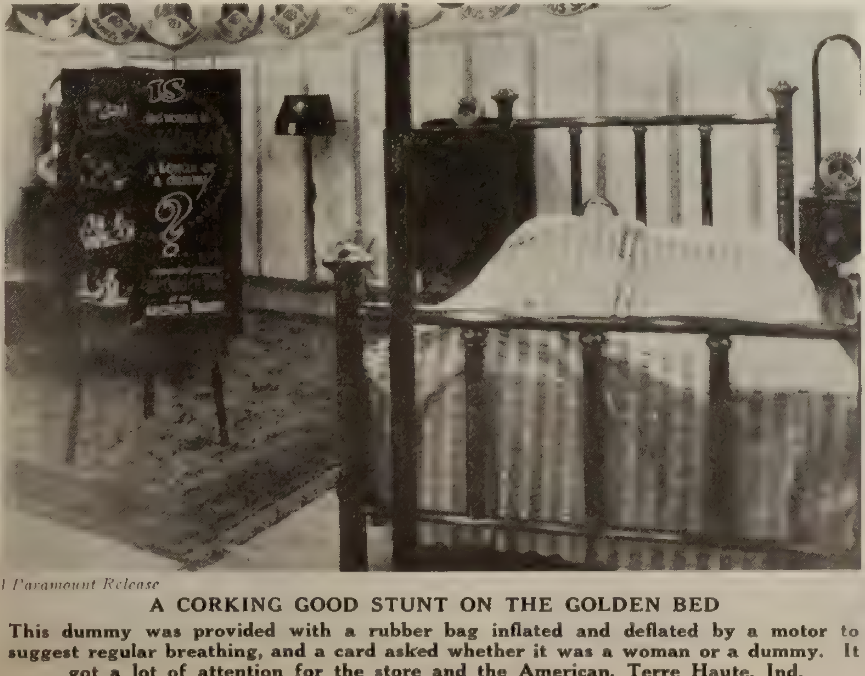
The question soon became a common topic of conversation, and it not only made business for the theatre but for the store, which was conducting a special sale and was glad enough to get such an attractor. We don't know just how the stunt was worked, but possibly Mr. Fox will give you the details if you are particularly interested.

J. M. Edgar Hart, of the Opera House, Augusta, Maine, used capsuled heralds on Oh, Doctor, these being distributed by a girl in nurse's uniform. He did not use any trick folding to let a line show through the gelatine. He just put the 4 by 4½ sheets into capsules and warned the recipients not to swallow them. The idea is as good as ever.

Too Light

Pace and Bouma, of the Rialto Theatre, Pocahontas, Iowa, send in a nice four page card program for the month of April. It is printed on light blue stock and the front page is done in gold. Blue and gold is a good combination, but better in a deep blue stock. For a lighter tint silver shows up better. It is best not to use gold until you come to a strong navy blue. Lighter tints will let the gold sink in and you have to hold it at just the right angle to get the effect.

One good stunt is the printing of the calendar for the month on the face of the program. People will stick it up for the sake of the calendar.



A Paramount Release

A CORKING GOOD STUNT ON THE GOLDEN BED

This dummy was provided with a rubber bag inflated and deflated by a motor to suggest regular breathing, and a card asked whether it was a woman or a dummy. It got a lot of attention for the store and the American, Terre Haute, Ind.

Unusual and Distinctive

LOBBY DISPLAYS

The Art Guild

250 West 54th Street

N. Y. CITY COLUMBUS 5780

Pathe selected our APLAKAY product for all their displays on Capt. Nungesser's personal appearance tour with "The Air Raider."

Got a Window With a Punning Hook-up

If you do cross word puzzles you know that a pun is a three letter word meaning "a low form of humor." Maybeso, but a pun got a nice window display for the Liberty Theatre, Oklahoma City. This is it.

A Universal Release.

WHAT A JOKE DID

Very simple. The theatre sold a shoe store on the idea that it was the champion local leather pusher while J. D. was the heavyweight ditto. The store had a sale in preparation and was glad to get a good centrepiece that would attract to the shoes. Simple? Yes! Good? Also!

And all good little newsboys got Dempsey Coins and the good and bad alike were shown the first issue of The Leather Pushers.

Watchful

J. M. Edgar Hart was not going to let an earthquake get away from him without a press stunt. He hustled to the telephone and assured the morning paper that his patrons did not feel the shock and that he knew nothing about it until telephone inquiries began to come in.

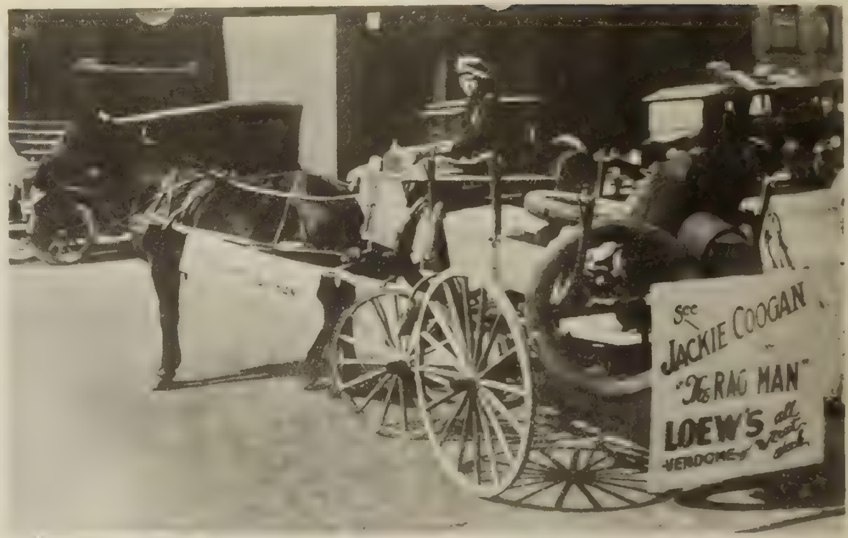
He got a couple of inches in a real news story and conveyed a suggestion of the solidity of the underpinnings of the Opera House, Augusta, Maine.

Spotted and Saved

While a saving on the current bills was no part of the scheme of E. B. Roberts for putting over The Golden Bed at the Majestic Theatre, Austin, Texas, the bill was cut down through the scheme employed.

Mr. Roberts used the cutout from the 24-sheet, touching up with gold paint to get a brighter effect. Then he spotted this strongly and cut off most of the lobby lights to let the bed stand out.

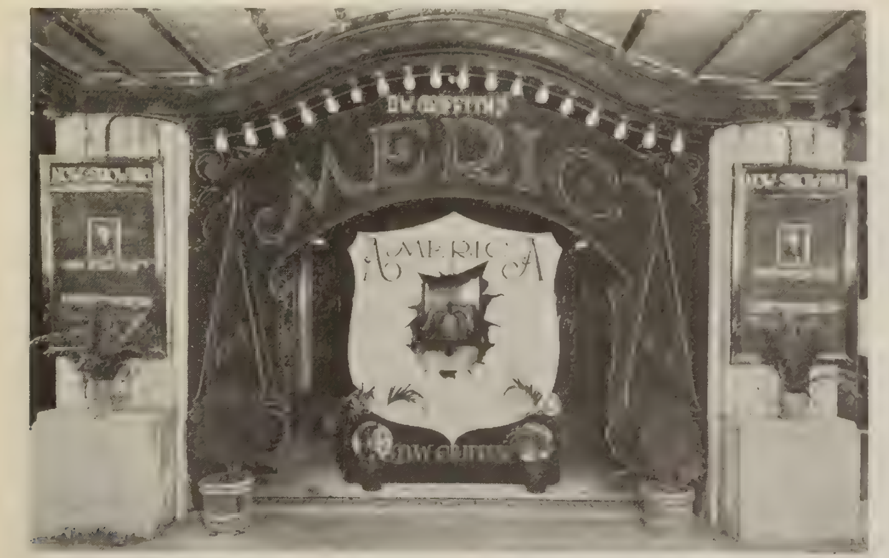
People came down to see why the lobby was dark and went away sold on the picture.



A Metro-Goldwyn Release

A SIMPLE AND APPROPRIATE PERAMBULATOR FOR THE RAG MAN

It did not cost much to get up and it got good business for the Vendome Theatre, Nashville, Tenn. Too bad that the old clothes stunt was worked out by Jackie before he used this title. Foot rules were given the children on this.



A Warner Brothers' Release

J. P. HARRISON'S STRIKING DISPLAY FOR AMERICA

This is the front of the Hippodrome Theatre, Waco, Texas, on the Griffith production. The ground is black with the letters cut out and backed with orange tissue, with flasher lights behind. The bell in the shield is a real one, working on a motor strike, with a painted crack.

Lincoln Banner in Silhouette

Arthur Swanke, who devises unusually good advertising for the Rialto Theatre, El Dorado, Ark., produced a very fine one on Lincoln. It was simple and dignified and wholly in keeping with the spirit of the First National production and yet it got the necessary attention.

The colors were held to black and white, black lettering of the name on a slightly arched ground of white, but at either end was a profile of Lincoln in silhouette, the features from chin to brow thrown into relief by the white of the banner, the entire head being almost double the height of the banner.

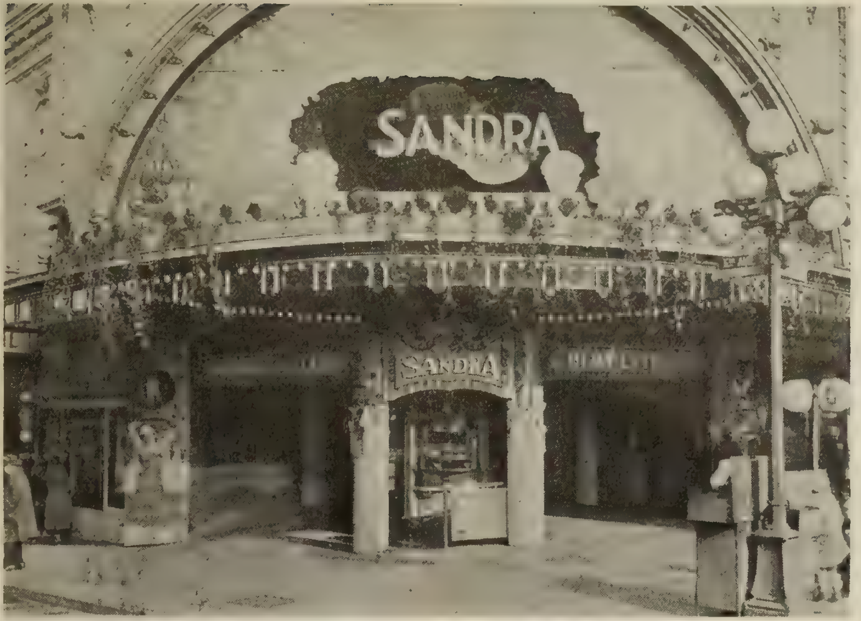
A special postal was sent to the mailing list with only the title and house name boldly displayed, so that "Abraham Lincoln" and "Rialto" were caught at a glance. Leading up to the title was a three line paragraph in the upper left hand corner reading: "From the life of America's greatest man comes its greatest motion picture—." Then the title was displayed in a heavy gothic, followed by "With all the drama, romance, humor and adventure of that great life, it springs to the screen as one of the finest entertainments you have ever seen." The house name filled the lower right hand corner with "of course" just below, in much smaller type, with the play dates over to the left.

This card was mailed to patrons, and backing this was an invitation to all teachers to be the guests of the Rialto, which naturally had its effect on the attendance of the pupils and their families.

Used the World

Here's a slightly different angle on the drawing contest. A. M. Lyons, of the Pantheon Theatre, Vincennes, Ind., hooked the idea to The Top of the World, but made the drawing a map of the world, with a $2 top prize, the contest open to any school child and the work to be in any medium.

Hooking the newspaper to the idea got extra mention.



A First National Release

A PRETTY DISPLAY ON SANDRA FROM SEATTLE

This is the front of the Coliseum, all dressed up. The photograph does not give the full detail on the arch, which is a fanciful landscape design broken to let in the title. It's good, even for the Coliseum, which excels in displays.

Staff Presented a Birthday Cake

Something different in birthday cakes turned up from Hamilton, Ohio, where the house staff of the Strand Theatre presented the theatre wtih a hundred pound birthday cake to mark the fifth anniversary. This is a real cake and not a pasteboard dummy with plaster of paris icing.

FRED MEYERS' CAKE

After doing duty in the lobby during the celebration, Fred Meyers sent the cake to the institutional children, to give them a share of the celebration, a graceful act that is typical of Meyers.

Lobby on The Thief Helped Draw S.R.O.

O. T. Taylor went the limit in his lobby on The Thief of Bagdad at the D. & R. Theatre, Aberdeen, Wash., and drew S. R. O. two out of the three nights of the run—the last two nights, which would suggest that the lobby got the first night crowd and the first nighters sent the others in. But the lobby ensured a near standout on the first night and that was what turned the trick.

The photograph on this page shows two ceiling lights on, but Mr. Taylor explains that this was merely to light the display for the photograph. In actual use the only visible light came from the ornamental lanterns in front of the box office, the other illumination being with spots and concealed bulbs.

Monotone can suggest the construction, but gives no idea of the gorgeousness of the display, in which metallic pigment was largely used. The prevailing colors were new blue, dark blue, yellow, orange and grey.

On the left is the magic carpet scene with cutout characters standing on a small rug apparently suspended in the air against a sky backing. On the right is the cutout rope climber.

Old readers will recognize those vases in either display, for they were made for the Weir Theatre, whcih has now become the second house of the string, giving place of honor to the 1,600 seat D. & R. In a recent story in this department the displays were credited to the Weir, where they should have been placed in the new house.

This is one of the prettiest lobbies on The Thief that we have yet run, and will take a lot to beat.

Figure Out Your Stunt Now for Memorial Day. That Holiday Comes Next

Worked a Key Gag for Locked Doors

Four hundred tagged keys were distributed at the schools about dismissal time when Locked Doors came to the Galax Theatre, Birmingham, Ala. The tags stated that some of these would unlock the Locked Doors in the lobby.

Most of the kids and some of their parents came down to see what their key would do and most of them bought tickets, seeing that they were there.

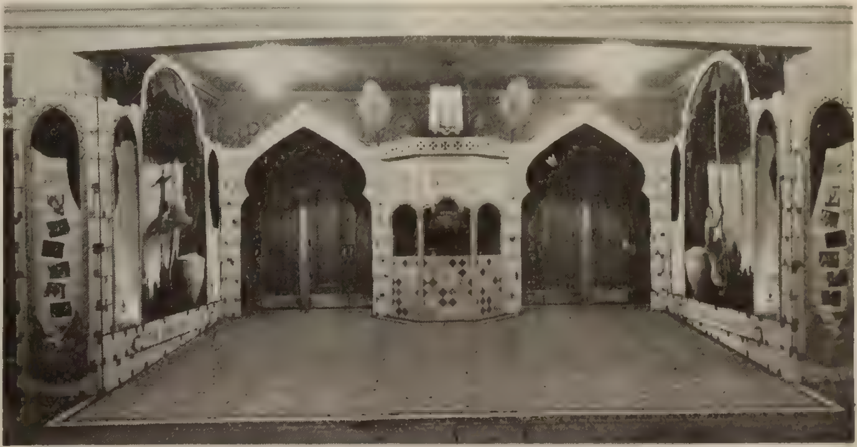
The doors were set into an ornamental stand in the centre of the lobby, close to the building line, to hold the crowd away from the box office. Stills ornamented the post. There was a large hasp and staple, fastened with an ordinary padlock to which had been soldered a pair of heart shaped cutouts, with a keyhole cut in the front.

Rugs Helped

One of the chief decorative items in the lobby of the Tivoli Theatre, Chattanooga, was a collection of oriental rugs suspended from a ledge about halfway up the high obby to advertise The Thief of Bagdad. A dozen streamers of pennants from the centre of the ceiling to the sides aided the effect, which was heightened by the use of crepe paper streamers. It all helped to raise the business.

Another Safety

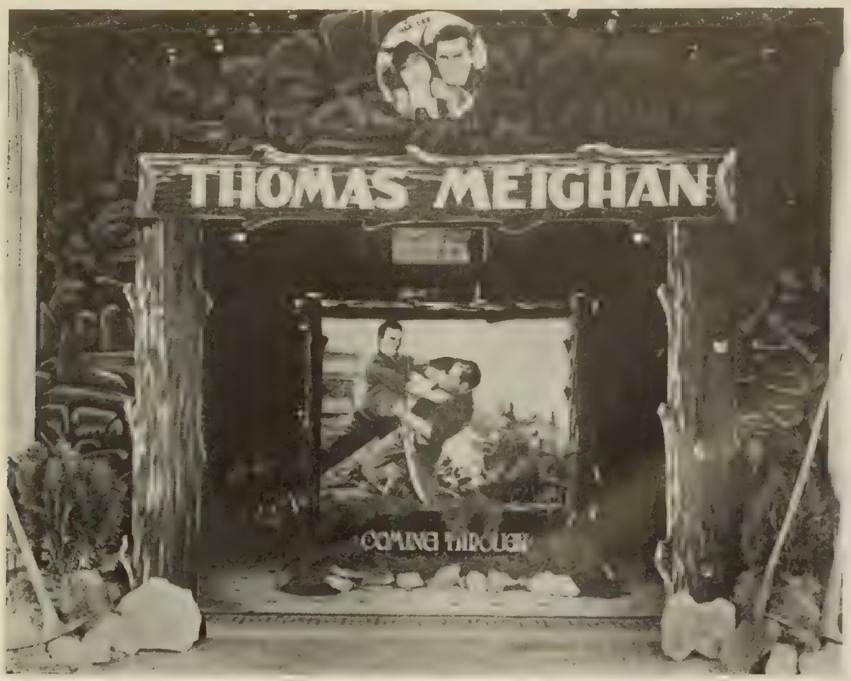
J. P. Harrison, of the Hippodrome Theatre, Waco, Texas, hooked a Man Must Live to a safety campaign with the use of 500 tack cards reading: "Drive slow. A Man Must Live." This copy got him a chance to post every conspicuous lamppost in town. The safety gag always gets over.



A United Artists' Release

A DISPLAY ON THE THIEF OF BAGDAD FROM O. T. TAYLOR

This lobby in the D. & R. Theatre, Aberdeen, Wash., was more than usually elaborate and sold the picture to S. R. O. two out of the three days. On the left is shown the magic carpet, while on the right Fairbanks is shown climbing the rope



A Paramount Release

A MINE ENTRANCE WAS THE DISPLAY ON COMING THROUGH

This was the idea of J. P. Harrison, of the Hippodrome Theatre, Waco, Texas, on the Meighan picture. The fight was framed in split rails and below sod and natural rocks continued the idea. Red lights were used and red lanterns set at the curb.

Take-a-Chance Week Makes for Business

Last Summer Stanley N. Chambers and H. E. Jameyson inaugurated a take-a-chance week at the Miller Theatre, Wichita, Kans. No information of any sort was given regarding the two-change program, and even the overtures were kept a profound secret. You took a chance on the ability of the house to deliver the goods, and the curiosity aroused was a better business builder than the best planned drive on a definite title.

Lately the Finkelstein and Ruben State Theatre, Minneapolis, worked a similar week with The Goose Hangs High for the attraction. This was fully as successful and Lem Stewart has broadcast the idea to all managers of Paramount theatres through one of his advertising bulletins.

The essential is that the selected feature be a "sure fire." It can be used to put over a weak attraction, but the comeback will hurt the house for weeks afterward. The scheme really pays only when applied to a picture of almost universal appeal. It is particularly good for such titles as He Who Gets Slapped, where the rather unpromising title conceals an unusually good play. The Goose Hangs High is a somewhat similar title. The play should be a 95 per cent hit, though the title will draw only where the stage success is recalled.

Having the main title, the smaller lengths and the musical features are as carefully built into the finest program you can conceive. But every feature is kept a secret. Even the house employees are not advised as to the film titles, and the musical numbers are kept as much of a secret as rehearsals will permit.

The advertising starts with teasers, the question mark being liberally employed, works into appeals to the gambling spirit inherent in most persons, and works into veiled hints as to the director or the star. In the case of The Goose Hangs High, it was stated that the story was directed by Cruze, but it was not of the Covered Wagon type.

The Sunday layout carries a scene cut with the faces routed out, or with masks painted over the features if you work from stills, and everything is done to hold the mystery. In Minneapolis the newspapers worked with the theatre to the extent of withholding the title in the criticisms, writing a general story that gave only a hint of the play.

It has made big business in a two-change house and in a week run theatre. It will make as good business for you. Why not get the idea before some other house beats you to it? It's good.

Cutout Three Sheet Cost Swanke $1.60

Here is a lobby design planned by Arthur Swanke on The Golden Bed that cost the Rialto Theatre, El Dorado, Ark., about $1.60 and a little time.

A Paramount Release

FOR THE GOLDEN BED

The backing is made of a couple of pieces of old compoboard covered with a wall paper in a neutral pattern, touched with gold. In front of this is the cutout from the sheet. This rested on a dais in black and white. of this cross throw their light on the figures. black, edged with white. Two lamps back the ornamental bands are scraps of the same paper as was applied to the backing. The cross piece is lavender, with the title in Two potted palms complete the display.

It made a strong flash, and yet the cost is trifling and most of the material can be used again. Pretty good for the price.

Memorial Day comes next. Figure out now some stunt to work on this.

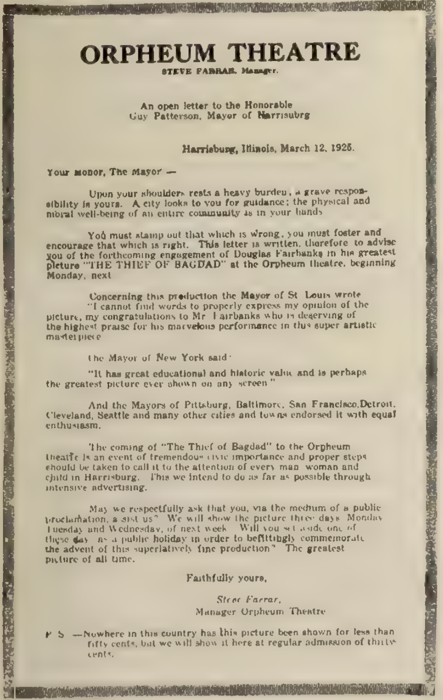
A Metro-Goldwyn Release.

SOMEBODY HAD TO PAY THE PIPER ON HE WHO GETS SLAPPED

J. B. Carroll, of the Victory Theatre, Tampa, got the car from an auto dealer with the calliope thrown in free. It was used both the opening day and the second day of the run and helped to get the crowds in to see this really fine production.

Open Letters Sell for Steve Farrar

Steve Farrar, of the Orpheum Theatres, Harrisburg and Eldorado, Ill., has not been in for a long time, but he comes in with full hands. He sends a set of letters he used to sell The Thief of Bagdad, supplementing his generously planned regular spaces. Two of them were three tens, the first which is reproduced here, being addressed to the Mayor. This, as you can see if you will use the glass, tells the Mayor what the Mayors of New York, St. Louis and other cities have thought of the Fairbanks production. He asks that one of the three days of the run be proclaimed a holiday fittingly to mark the notable event. The real kicker is the announcement that he will show the picture at thirty cents as against the usual fifty cents or more. The second letter, in the same general typographical form, is addressed to the principal of the High School and the head of the grade school. This runs:



ORPHEUM THEATRE
STEVE FARRAR, Manager.

An open letter to the Honorable
Guy Patterson, Mayor of Harrisubrg

Harrisburg, Illinois, March 12, 1925.

Your Honor, The Mayor —

Upon your shoulders rests a heavy burden, a grave responsibility is yours. A city looks to you for guidance; the physical and moral well-being of an entire community is in your hands.

You must stamp out that which is wrong, you must foster and encourage that which is right. This letter is written, therefore to advise you of the forthcoming engagement of Douglas Fairbanks in his greatest picture "THE THIEF OF BAGDAD" at the Orpheum theatre, beginning Monday, next.

Concerning this production the Mayor of St. Louis wrote:
"I cannot find words to properly express my opinion of the picture, my congratulations to Mr. Fairbanks who is deserving of the highest praise for his marvelous performance in this super artistic masterpiece."

The Mayor of New York said:

"It has great educational and historic value and is perhaps the greatest picture ever shown on any screen."

And the Mayors of Pittsburg, Baltimore, San Francisco, Detroit, Cleveland, Seattle and many other cities and towns endorsed it with equal enthusiasm.

The coming of "The Thief of Bagdad" to the Orpheum theatre is an event of tremendous civic importance and proper steps should be taken to call it to the attention of every man, woman and child in Harrisburg. This we intend to do as far as possible through intensive advertising.

May we respectfully ask that you, via the medium of a public proclamation, assist us? We will show the picture three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, of next week. Will you set aside one of these days as a public holiday in order to befittingly commemorate the advent of this superlatively fine production? The greatest picture of all time.

Faithfully yours,

Steve Farrar,
Manager Orpheum Theatre

P. S.—Nowhere in this country has this picture been shown for less than fifty cents, but we will show it here at regular admission of thirty cents.

A United Artists' Release

STEVE FARRAR'S LETTER

"To you Harrisburg looks for the training of its children and your years of service in this line has proven that you know how to do this.

"Knowing that you are ever on the lookout for new ideas in education, this letter is written to you to call to your attention the forthcoming engagement of Douglas Fairbanks in his latest and greatest production "The Thief of Bagdad" at the Orpheum Theatre beginning next Monday.

"There is an old saying that men are only boys grown up.

"So there can be no doubt that the human soul's reaching for finer, higher, more ethereal things is intuitive and first manifests itself in a child's love for fairy tales and fantasy.

"The dreams, longings and roseate ambitions of childhood are relegated to the background of life, by the struggle of existence but stifling them doesn't still them, they persist throughout the year; there are moments when we all "dream dreams."

"The Thief of Bagdad," is the story of the things we dream about, a tale of what happens when we go out from ourselves to conquer Worlds of Fancy. We set out to win our Heart's Desire; we confuse enemies; we demean ourselves bravely; our success is complete; our reward is Happiness.

"I believe that this is the story of every man's inner self and that every man, woman and child in Harrisburg will want to see such a story on the screen at my theatre.

"That's the reason I paid the highest price ever paid for a picture for Harrisburg when I secured "The Thief of Bagdad."

"I respectfully call this wonderful picture to your attention hoping that you will see fit to call it to the attention of the children of Harrisburg whose education you are responsible for.

"Ask these children if they have ever seen? 1—A magic rug soar above the city bearing a thief and a princess? 2—A white horse with wings fly through the clouds? 3—Magic ropes; live dragons and bats as big as elephants. All this and many other wonderful things will appear before your eyes when you view "The Thief of Bagdad."

"STEVE FARRAR,
"Manager Orpheum."

The following day there appeared a single column "reply." Probably no one believed that any workman would spend the cost of eleven inches of space in protest, but it was amusing and it drove home the effect of the previous letters, clinching the series. This runs:

"Mayor Guy Patterson,

"Your Honor:

"I wish to protest against the request made by Steve Farrar, manager of the Orpheum, about making another holiday when work is so dull and already we have too many holidays.

"Mr. Farrar says 'issue a proclamation,' when surely he means, issue a warning. Haven't we got plenty of special police to protect our properties from this Thief of Bagdad without staying home and losing a day's pay to keep our stuff safe from a foreign country bandit?

"Besides I believe in patronizing home industries. We got plenty of thieves around here without sending to Bagdad for one. If what I hear is true this crook's greatest steal was a carpet and that was in Arabia. In that country they expect you to steal all literature says so. Read Longfellow's poem, 'Day is Done.'

"'And folding their tents like the Arabs they silently steal away.'

"I myself steal a 'weigh' on these penny scales around town occasionally, but that don't make me no great thief.

"This carpet thief is supposed to have rode on the carpet., Mr. Patterson, I bet you'd slip and slide yourself if you ever got in some of these swell houses with oriental rugs and waxed floors around Harrisburg. I nearly busted myself on one and would have been floating around on it yet if a partition hadn't stopped me.

"If Mr. Farrar wants to put on an act like that let him wait till April 1st when we will have time for entertainment and I'll put on a performance that will beat any carpet bagging parachute jumper. If he wants to educate our people in crookedness let him get modern teachers. Extend an invitation to Egan's Rats, the Coo-Coo Club or the Jelly Rolls to hold a convention here. Then the responsibility will be divided up and you won't have to issue no proclamation or call a holiday. Everybody will take care of himself, etc.

"Like Mr. Farrar, I remind you that on your shoulders rest a great responsibility, and the physical and moral well being of the city is in your hands. If you call a holiday before April 1st you will be morally responsible for physical suffering 'cause the idea of losing a day's work gives me a pain.

"I did not say anything when I hear Robin Hood and Dick Turpin were to visit Harrisburg. They are high class crooks, but—as a son of toil I want to protest against being dark horsed out by another day's work before April 1st, just because 'The Thief of Bagdad' is coming to town.

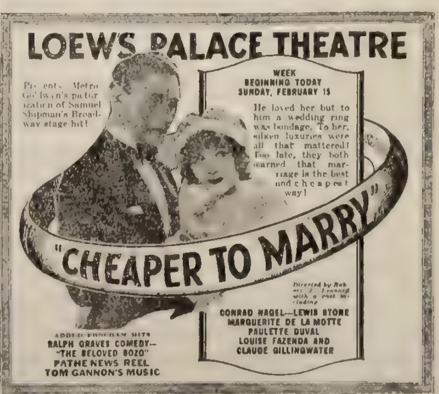
"I remind you again, Mr. Mayor, that we have already eleven legal or public holidays and 45 church or state holidays in a country tht needs more labor days and fewer Thieving Knights. (Signed),

"A WORKER."

It will be noticed that in this last letter Steve keeps in character by changing his style to conform to that of the supposed workman's. There is no argument to this third letter. It will not sell by itself, but it does clinch the effect of the previous letters and gives to these real sellers a more direct appeal to the public. They have been read on the previous days, but they now come back with greater force and the reader remembers all that Steve said about the picture. It might not have made so much of an impression originally as it does now that the statements are mildly kidded. We think it is the best seller of the three, but only in combination with the other two, which is the reason we are giving the series in full. Steve promises to be more regular in the future. We hope so, for we have missed him of late, and Steve is one of the Old Guard.

Washington Ads Are Always Proportioned

Loew's Washington Theatres are among the very few city houses to use the wide display. Both the Palace and Columbia use the same style and about the same proportions, week after week. The space for each is about 80 by 3 and as they are placed together it gives them virtually a drop of 160 lines.



LOEWS PALACE THEATRE
Presents Metro Goldwyn's picturization of Samuel Shipman's Broadway stage hit!
WEEK BEGINNING TODAY SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 15
He loved her but to him a wedding ring was bondage. To her, silken luxuries were all that mattered! Too late, they both learned that marriage is the best and cheapest way!
"CHEAPER TO MARRY"
Directed by Robert Z. Leonard with a cast including CONRAD NAGEL—LEWIS STONE
MARGUERITE DE LA MOTTE
PAULETTE DUVAL
LOUISE FAZENDA AND
CLAUDE GILLINGWATER
ADDED PROGRAM HITS
RALPH GRAVES COMEDY—
"THE BELOVED BOZO"
PATHE NEWS REEL
TOM GANNON'S MUSIC

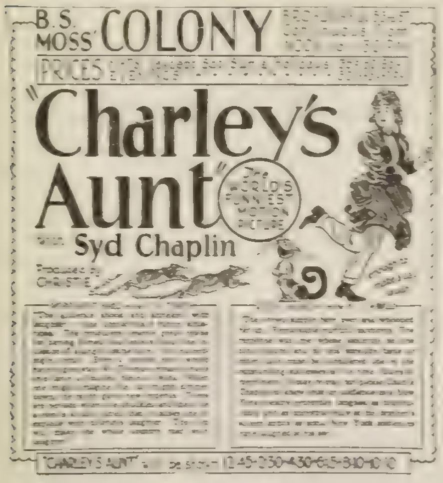
A Metro-Goldwyn Release

A GOOD PROPORTIONING

They are invariably neat in appearance, with a minimum of bold lines, which give strong display to house and title, and the average is better than that of most houses. Week after week they come out with clean, attractive announcements, not too much alike, but always along the same general lines so that you know the moment your eye strikes the page which are the Loew displays. This display on Cheaper to Marry offers a characteristic design that catches the eye at first glance. The title dominates the space, and the text is so placed that you do not have to chase all over to see what it's about. You move naturally from the title to the explanation and the sale is made with the least effort. There is a real advantage in a set style, provided that the style permits the presentation to be varied. People who are looking for a particular house can find it with the least effort. Even if they are looking to see what the other houses offer, there is the suggestion of the Loew houses the moment their glance strikes the page. This is worth real money to the houses, though the matter may seem to be unimportant. Each time you drive home the idea of your house, you are influencing the subconscious mind. If you do it often enough you will get people in the habit of thinking of your house first. Unless the other theatres offer something they particularly desire to see, the first thought of entertainment will be associated with your house, because your house is the one they first think off.

Two Good Displays for Charley's Aunt

These two displays on Charley's Aunt were for the original New York run at Moss's Colony theatre. They virtually are four nines, though the space is sold at a line rate and works out at 125 lines deep. The first of these was used to follow the opening, and embodies a pair of the criticisms. If you will compare this layout with the other you will see how much better straight type is than hand lettered work. Of course the second example looks better because there is less type in the lower section, but cover this part up; consider only the upper halves which are identical, and you probably will agree that the second is much the better display. It's a fine comparison because it is exactly the same copy. The title in the second example is not as large as that in the first, but it is more distinct because, being smaller, it lets in some white space, and there is no comparison between the two displays of Chaplin's name. The prices and showing times also come out better, though prices do not seem to matter much in the Broadway houses. The times of showing, however, did matter. It helped to put over this farce to a third week at the Colony, with an extension at the Cameo. Charley's Aunt would seem to be too well known to need much advertising now, since it is a favorite stock play, but you do need to get a big display to tell that you have it, and you do need the space to stress the fact that in many ways the picture version is even funnier than the stage production with its limitation of settings. It's a picture you can afford to get behind, but we think that you'll make a mistake if you use the "He's a she" type of appeal that some out of town managers are following. This suggests a coarseness that does not exist in the pictured play. It is singularly clean, thanks largely to Chaplin's fine work. Unless you go the limit on this you are going to lose some of the money you might make. Sell it as one of the outstanding comedy hits and it won't curl up on you.



B.S. MOSS' COLONY

PRICES

"Charley's Aunt"

The World's Funniest Motion Picture

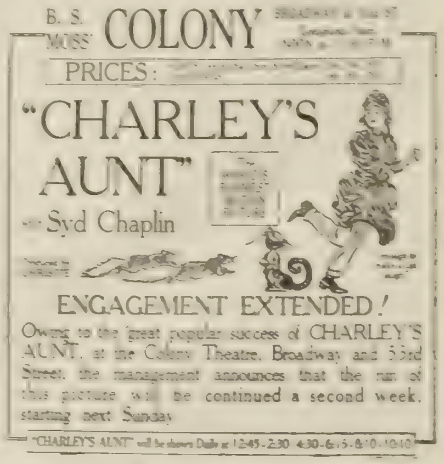
with Syd Chaplin

Produced by CHRISTIE

"CHARLEY'S AUNT" will be shown 12:45-2:30-4:30-6:15-8:10-10:10

A Producers Distributing Release

USING THE CRITICS



B. S. MOSS' COLONY

PRICES:

"CHARLEY'S AUNT"

with Syd Chaplin

ENGAGEMENT EXTENDED!

Owing to the great popular success of CHARLEY'S AUNT, at the Colony Theatre, Broadway and 53rd Street, the management announces that the run of this picture will be continued a second week, starting next Sunday

"CHARLEY'S AUNT" will be shown Daily at 12:45-2:30-4:30-6:15-8:10-10:10

ANNOUNCING THE EXTENSION

Selling Los Angeles on The Last Laugh

Just what The Last Laugh is going to do in most houses is more or less of a problem. But it went over well in Los Angeles because it was sold on an aggressive campaign. It was played at the Criterion and the campaign was begun with 20 by 2 teasers reading to the effect that Los Angeles would have the last laugh on Saturday. A twenty line is about an inch and a half. This was followed by a double four which is a nice example of an all type display. Perhaps the wording is a little too enthusiastic. The picture is a gem, but if it is praised too highly the stranger patron is apt to expect too much and not appreciate the generous measure he is given. It is better to sell this as a wholly different picture and leave the patron to discover for himself that it is an artistic achievement. We think that this oversells, and possibly brought disappointment. Sold as a different picture the patron would then have added the artistic superlatives for himself. It will be noticed that a professional midnight matinee was one of the stunts used to put this over, this matinee immediately following the last regular night show. We think that some managers are going to lose out on this picture through overselling. But the man who sells through interest rather than superlatives should be able to collect if he can draw from a class of patrons able to appreciate some of the finest acting that has ever been put on the screen. But the trick is to let the patron discover for himself that the acting really is superlative. Just hint at it, let him discover it for himself and he'll be so pleased with his cleverness that he will run around telling everyone else. This is a picture that will best be sold in the small town through a preliminary showing, and if possible about a week ahead of the public display, to give them time to talk. This advertisement of the Criterion is a better example of good type work than of the proper selling.

LOS ANGELES WILL HAVE

THE Last Laugh

SATURDAY! AT 7TH & GRAND

THE STARTING TEASERS

THE Last Laugh

TOMORROW! TOMORROW AT 11 A. M.

and running CONTINUOUS all day "THE LAST LAUGH"—and THE LAST WORD in screen achievement. Not only a tremendous picture But the turning point of the entire industry. Watch the crowds turn out for the PREMIERE And watch the stars, the directors, the producers flock to the SPECIAL MIDNIGHT PROFESSIONAL SHOWING to be held immediately AFTER the last regular performance tomorrow night! History, Aye History! will be made TOMORROW at the

CRITERION

LAST DAY "Great Divide"

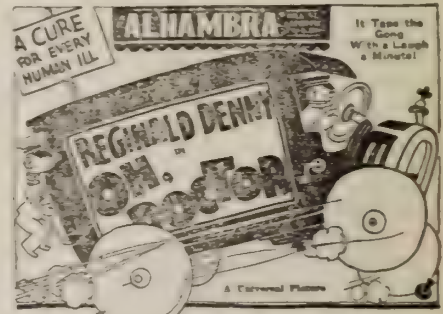
with ALICE TERRY, CONWAY TEARLE, WALLACE BEERY

A Universal Film

THE OPENER

An Ambulance Is Good Background

There is an intelligent idea carried out in this two threes from Los Angeles for Oh Doctor! The ambulance gives a good frame to the medical title and the drawing is sufficiently humorous to win a smile and suggest that it really is a comedy. We do not care much for the Alhambra's signature. The address and the West Coast legend are so small the letters merely look like imperfections in the plate, but the star and title are well put over.



A CURE FOR EVERY HUMAN ILL
ALHAMBRA
It Tops the Gong With a Laugh a Minute
REGINALD DENNY in
OH, DOCTOR!
A Universal Picture

A Universal Release

GETTING IT OVER

THE FIRST RUN

PRESENTATIONS – PROLOGUES – MUSIC

National Music Week

By

Colby Harriman

"GIVE More Thought To Music" is the effective slogan of the National Music Week Committee. Special significance is attached to the observance this year of National Music Week which is scheduled for the week beginning May third, owing to the fact that the leading motion picture theatres of the country have allied themselves with the national and local committees in a concerted effort to make this week a dominant one in all matters pertaining towards the advancement of better music.

The key notes of the campaign may be summed up in the slogans—"Music for Everybody—Everybody for Music," "Music of the People, for the People, and by the People," and "Cultivate a Love for Music."

It is altogether fitting that the motion picture theatre should take cognizance of this particular week as it is this type of theatre which has done more to popularly acquaint people with the best in music than any other amusement agency. Grand opera, artists' recitals and other cultured mediums are not generally within the financial range of the majority consequently the motion picture theatre has been given the opportunity through the musical interpretation of the featured picture and the production of high class presentations to offer the best in music.

Music is more closely allied to the picture theatre than any other artistic agency. A successful musical interpretation is as necessary to a picture as good projection. The truth of this maxim, born of experience, cannot be denied. Music in the motion picture presentation provides "atmosphere" and creates and establishes mood. It infuses the mute action of the motion drama with the life of tone and harmony. When properly used, it may be made to take the place of the spoken word, and underline every detail of picture acting and registration with appropriate tonal comment, explanation and emphasis.

This force at the command of the conductor, the exhibitor, and the producer, should never be considered an accompaniment to the motion picture. It should be a part of it. In this fact, accepted in theory and carried out in practice, we have the gist of music success in pictures. Synchronization is its secret—the welding of picture movement with music movement, the matching of picture mood with music mood, the merging of picture and music in a unit of effect.

There is no excuse for ordinary music to be introduced into a picture program. The repertoire from which to make the constant selections for scores is most voluminous. Where true artistry abides the product devised reflects the handiwork of the masters.

With such an ideal base it is only logical that patrons of the motion picture theatres should regard the houses as the "musical centers of the community."

S. L. Rothafel is quoted as saying that "there is no more popular nor universal means of reaching the public with good music through the motion picture theatre. Ten years ago when I first introduced a symphonic orchestra and music in Broadway's first large motion picture theatre, the wise ones thought that the public would never patronize it. Today, at the Capitol Theatre, we have the ultimate development of that experiment in an orchestra of seventy-five pieces. Over five million people a year enjoy the programs at the Capitol and it is a fact that a huge proportion of this clientele has been built up by the appeal through music. It has drawn a new class of patrons to the motion picture houses and has brought motion picture entertainment up to a new high level."

National Music Week offers the exhibitor an opportunity to get better acquainted with local musical organizations. This team work between the Music Week committee and the theatre manager will be mutually beneficial. Each must GIVE service, however, as well as RECEIVE it. With the manager, this service would embrace a special music week publicity campaign and the introduction of some of the local musical artists in the regular or special program.

In the utilization of this musical talent, the committee should co-operate with the management in the development of novel ideas for the presentation of it. The element of showmanship must be constantly in the foreground. It will not suffice to present the musical numbers merely as fragments from a concert program. They must be invested with a scenic background such as will enable them to hold their own with the film attraction and its resources of pictorial art. These forms of presentation may include; costumed prologues to certain films, a song recital in costume, a cut-version of an operetta, a musical pageant typical of the town or of its section, an instrumental ensemble in a special setting, a program of folk dancing with suitable costuming and musical accompaniment, community "sings," special symphony orchestra selections, the introduction of a song written by local composers which may be made into a contest, and other ideas which are basically musical.

A greater year-round use of the best music in programs will result from this observance. The idea can be firmly placed in the minds of the public that the theatre in question is the only place in town where good music can be heard every day of the year. National Music Week affords the opportunity to testify for better things in music. The support of the public will assure the manager of the wisdom in "giving more thought to music."

Big First Run Presentations

CAPITOL THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

S. L. ROTHAFEL

Featured Picture: "Proud Flesh" (Metro-Goldwyn)

A Song For Eastertide

A simple but effective scenic background embracing a tableau, featuring William Robyn, Douglas Stanbury and Capitol Singers in the rendition of H. W. Parker's, "Come See the Place Where Jesus Lay." Painted church drop hung in two, heavy stone-work surrounding alcoved stained glass window in center. Two large banks of Easter lilies placed right and left of stage. Soloist and ensemble clad in choir vestments occupying center in front of window. Drop is tinted with purple from sides, singers and lily banks flooded with white. Toward the conclusion of the song the lights dim a few points revealing a tableau directly back of the stained glass window suggesting the entrance to The Tomb, with a veiled figure peering in wonderment into the radiant emptiness while a figure in light blue appears at the upper corner of the entrance.

Mlle. Gambarelli

This artiste renders a dance number entitled "A Bit of Bric-a-Brac," dressed in white patent leather ballet costume trimmed in pink paniers and flowers appears as a part of a small Dresden clock. The clock set piece is the same size as the figure. A black drop is used as a backing. White spots to cover.

Impressions of "The Sultan of Sulu"

This delightful presentation which carries with it a refreshing breath of comic opera represents a scene of a section of a sultan's palace overlooking a city. The drop hung in two is a triple frescoed arch of Turkestan design with netted openings. A minaret set piece in black is back of the drop and the back drop contains a city sky line with domes, minarets and the Asiatic towers in umbre and black against an ivory-toned canary sky. Two large stone vases with white flowers are placed right and left stage in front of the cut drop. Two platforms right and left up stage adjoin a center step-platform. Center platform is covered with gold spangled material and rose velour is used to drape upper platforms. A taboret and chair used to dress. The male singers are dressed in naval officer uniforms; the dancers are garbed in a form of a South Sea Island costume using "cocoanut" castenets. The ladies of the ensemble are dressed in ensemble clothes. The presentation features Frank Mulan. The following program constitutes the presentation:

(a) Opening Chorus "Hike"—Capitol Ensemble.
(b) "The Wise School Marms"—Ladies of Ensemble.
(c) "Smiling Isle of Sulu"—Mr. Frank Moulan.
(d) "My Sulu-lulu-loo"—Miss Marjorie Harcum and Ensemble.
Dance by Miss Doris Niles and Capitol Ballet Corps.
(e) "Remorse"—Mr. Moulan.
(f) "Since I First Met You"—Miss Gladys Rice, Mr. Moulan and Mr. Joseph Wetzel.
(g) "Lovely Woman is Always Late"—Miss Rice and Mr. Moulan.
(h) Finale—Entire Ensemble.

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK
MAY 3rd—10th
One Hundred of America's Finest Motion Picture Palaces Will Be Playing
James A. Fitzpatrick's
FAMOUS MUSIC MASTERS
SERIES
One-Reel Episodes from the Lives of Great Masters
"Schubert"—"Mendelssohn"
"Foster"—"Beethoven"—"Liszt"
"Chopin"
Set to their own composition, with full orchestrations, including solo organ and piano parts compiled by
HUGO RIESENFELD
Wire Immediately for YOUR Booking
Fitzpatrick Pictures, Inc.
729 Seventh Ave. New York City
Bryant 8139

MARK STRAND THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

JOSEPH PLUNKETT

Featured Picture: "His Supreme Moment" (First National)

Three effective presentations with an overture specialty featured the 11th Anniversary program of this theatre. With the hymn introduction towards the finale of the overture "Cavalleria Rusticana" the flood lights on the orchestra are dimmed, curtains open revealing a drop with six panelled stained glass windows, each window a separate unit. A large sanctuary lamp being hung center in front of the drop with its red glow, highlighted with green on its metal parts. Back of the drop are toned canary, rose, and amber lamps. Miss Kitty McLaughlin and the Ensemble garbed in black stood in a shadow at stage left and sang, "We Will Sing of the Lord."

Four of a Kind

This clever presentation introduced a piano quartette with Geraldine Valliere and three other lady pianists seated at small white baby grand pianos. At rise a drop is hung in one with large-sized playing cards painted upon it. On the lower half of the drop are painted "four aces." In each area outlined by the card, is scrim; the balance of the drop is opaque. Back of the drop through the scrim openings the four pianos and musicians are visible. A silver drop is used as a backing upon which red and blue spots are played alternately from the sides. The key boards are also illuminated. White from the side floods the musicians dressed in white.

At the Barber Shop

A novelty number introducing the Mark Strand male quartette. A painted drop representing a barber shop, four barber chairs with characters seated in them facing front with a large mirror in the background. Circular openings are cut above the necks of the painted characters permitting the members of the quartette to put their heads through the drop. The faces of the singers are made up to appear lathered. Red foots and borders are used with whites to flood.

Our Birthday Cake

Mr. Plunkett has arranged a very attractive novelty presentation for the anniversary. At the rise the silver curtains are hung in one, and masked on right and left with gold curtains. Pauline Miller dressed in a lace chef's cap, blue and white dress and apron carrying mixing bowl sings a special song arranged by Mr. Plunkett and Mr. Copping, entitled, "Our Birthday Cake." The quartette dressed as chefs carrying mixing bowls enter for chorus of song. The curtains open revealing full stage setting. In the center is a three-tier cake with eleven pink candles placed upon it. Four gray pilasters are right and left with boxes of pink flowers between the two on either side. The drop toned with rose at the top and blue at the bottom is used as a backing. Two wide rose bronze streamers are draped from the center of the drop down to the bottom batten. Mlle. Klemova dressed in white ballet costume is discovered at the top of the cake. Messrs. Bourman and Daks attired in carnival costumes with sashes marked 1914-1925, do a dance number which is followed with "Dancing Out" with Mlle. Klemova and the Mark Strand Ballet Corps clad in white and metaline cloth costumes. "Auld Lang Syne" is used as the finale with the dancers grouped around the cake which is placed on the revolving stage, and rotates until finale. Canaries, pinks, light blue form the lighting scheme.

RIVOLI THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

HUGO RIESENFELD

Featured Picture: "Code of the West" (Paramount)

Overture Feature

"The Dance of the Hours" is interpreted by the Rivoli Dancers. The overture opens with blue flood on orchestra changing to green as curtains open. Two girls right and left prostrate on floor with one girl center kneeling, high lighted with orange amber against a dark green background. Down at curtain line a large arm of a tree at right stretches across top of opening dropping down onto sides at left in base silhouette. Dim outlines of a mountain in deep blue are silhouetted on back drop. During progress of dance the suggested mountain peak is tinged with red, then reverts to deeper green. Entire set is impressionistic in its design. Stars appear on drop at the finale. The Rivoli Ballet Corps effectively render the various movements of the dance. For finale the scrim down at the curtain line is taken away, lights come up full revealing a back drop painted in fantastic mountain design with vari-colored balloons hung on its surface. The dancers dressed in carnival costumes enter with balloons and paper spirals fall from a trip-box entwining the dancers in a wild colorful finish, the center figure becoming a whirling mass of the vari-colored paper.

In the Gloaming

Miriam Lax, soprano, and Adrian Da Silva, tenor, sing "Little Grey Home in the West." The set consists of the end of a cabin set on from left; a green topped birch tree at right center with a brown toned picket fence running from the tree across stage to the house. A black drop is hung back. Rustic bench left of center, base of tree is high lighted with orange amber. Canary and orange amber high light the singers seated on the bench with blues and greens to tone. The two characters are dressed in western roughing togs.

RIALTO THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

HUGO RIESENFELD

Featured Picture: "Adventure"
(Paramount)

Jazz Divertissement

A simple little number featuring the Rialto Syncopaters and introducing Dolores Farris, danseuse. Syncopaters are placed at the right end of the orchestra pit on raised platforms flooded with amber. The close-in curtains are first toned with blue followed by pink, green, red and into white. The Jazz orchestra plays two numbers. Curtains are drawn revealing a long flowered design panel hung in the center with two large spangled strips flanking either side of it. Black plush is used to carry off both right and left. Yellow and red ribbons are festooned over the black on either side. Green tone is used on the background. The dancer, clad in a very abbreviated costume of pink tulle and rhinestones, a la "Artists and Models," does a very attractive dance for finale, with orchestra coming in heavy.

Overture Feature

The "Georg Fredrich Handel" subject of the Famous Music Master Series produced by James A. Fitzpatrick is shown this week in the overture spot. The exquisite musical accompaniment arranged by Dr. Riesenfeld fittingly interprets the theme. The picture carries a story of Handel in his blindness being visited by a mother and her boy who shows promise of becoming a good pianist. Handel recalls the vicissitudes surrounding his own youth and the effort he made when a lad to become proficient, finally overcoming the obstacles raised by his father, and given the opportunity he wanted. This picture is the best short subject on the market today which links the screen with the orchestra resulting in an artistic feature capable of presentation billing.

COLONY THEATRE

New York City

Presentations by

J. DeROSA

Featured Picture: "The Wizard of Oz" (Chadwick)

A Musical Impression

Dan Casler, pianist, and Miss Eva Clark, soprano, are featured. A setting reminiscent of the one used for the musical impression of last week was again offered. Upper right of stage a black plush is hung upon which a large gilt-framed picture supporting two candelabra brackets is suspended. Up center and left a silk transparency on a track is placed. Back of this is blue Cyc. A beautiful light wood grand piano with a batik drape upon it is down right at which is seated pianist; beside it, on stage, the singer stands. Mr. Casler gives an excellent rendition of "Liztiana" which is followed by a rendition by Miss Clark of Friml's "The Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie." Through the courtesy of Mr. Arthur Hammerstein it is possible to give the song an effective climax. As the song progresses the lights back of the transparency come on revealing a large Totem Pole in the foreground masked with a balustrade in Indian design. In front of the deep blue cyc is a mountain row of deep blue, peaks tipped with white. The transparency is taken away for the finale. This is not a practical treatment as the artisticness of the presentation was impaired. The set was more effective through the transparency.

Pastelle Ballet

The (20) Albertina Rasch girls present a very delightful dance novelty. The setting is very simple, gold toned drop hung back stage with fabric legs in one and two. Deep blue and orange amber is used on the right, pink and deep purple and blue on left. Canary spots and floods during the action. The regular vaudeville routine is used; the girls being dressed in pink and white ballet costumes with black bodices. This is a very colorful dancing act, and is one of the few ensemble numbers which can be successfully used in a presentation spot. There is life and vivacity to the act, and all of the girls are good dancers.

The Prologue

This bit is welcomed and the management is to be commended for introducing a real prologue. Curtains open revealing a man attired as a scare-crow hanging on a cross arm standard, which is mounted on a platform. Black plush is used as a backing, scrim hung down curtain line. The scare-crow leaves the pedestal, does a typical dance being highlighted from the sides off stage, the lights dim down as the main titles of the pictures are irised in on the screen. The complete black out occurring before the screen is brought in. The smoothness with which the mechanism worked resulted in a thorough blending of the number with the picture and acquired the atmosphere.

For Music Week

The several program groups consist of selections from which one number is to be used.

All-American Program

Overture

1—"Columbus"—Grand Descriptive Fantasia—A. Herman.
2—"America Forever"—Fantasia—Th. M. Tobani.
3—"Americana Overture"—M. L. Lake.
4—"Suite Aboriginal" (3 parts)—D. Wheelock.

Popular

1—Selection of "Riesenfeld's Classical Jazz."
2—"Hits of Yesterday."
3—Present Day Selections—Musical Comedy Hits.

Presentation

1—Charles Wakefield Cadman compositions.
2—Two Indian Dances—Chas. S. Skilton. (Deer Dance, War Dance.)
3—"Bandanna Sketches"—(Negro Spirituals)—White-Roberts.
  (a)—Chant—"Nobody Knows de Trouble I've Seen."
  (b)—Lament—"I'm Troubled in Mind."
  (c)—Slave Song—"Many Thousand Gone."
  (d)—Dance—"Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child."
4—Soldier Sons—Selection from all national periods.
5—Old Ballads. (North and South.)

Interlude

1—"Evolution of Dixie"—M. L. Lake.
2—"Way Down Upon the Suwanee Ribber"—C. J. Roberts.
3—"Battle of San Juan Hill"—A. C. Sweet.

Organ or Exit

1—"Semper Fidelis"—J. Ph. Sousa.
2—"I Love Thee, Columbia"—Th. M. Tobani.
3—"Triumph of Old Glory"—A. Pryor.

You Can Depend
On Us

For Quality of Materials
Prompt Delivery
Best Prices

General Decorative Supplies
Scenic Accessories

Artificial Flowers, Velvets, Draperies, Papier Mache, etc.

Doty & Scrimgeour
Sales Co., Inc.

30 Reade Street, New York, N. Y.

A Moving Picture World Presentation

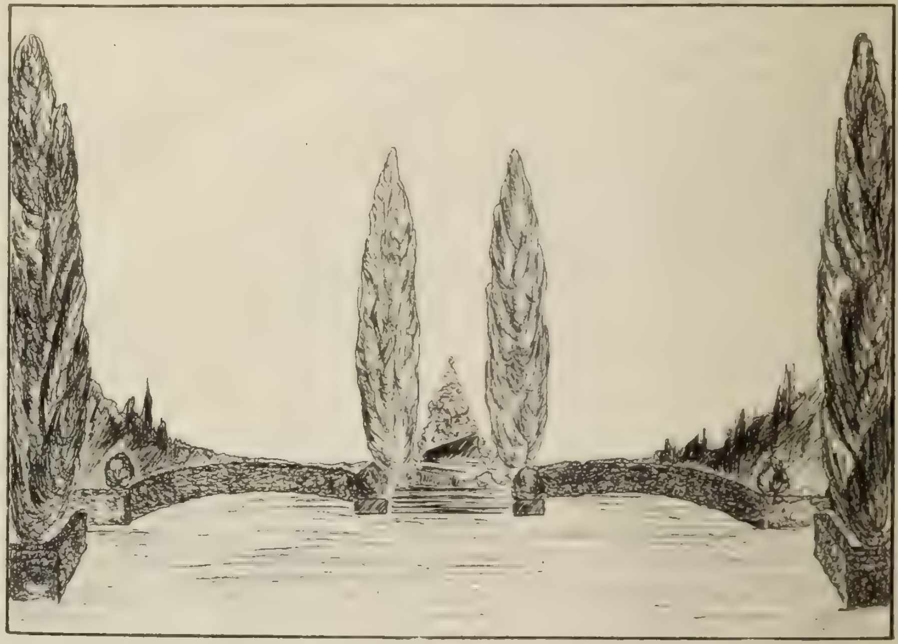
Complete working plans of the presentation suggested herewith, including blueprints, color charts, costume plates, music cue sheets, and other necessary information, are prepared for each subject. The folios are available for IMMEDIATE DELIVERY without charge to any producer or exhibitor engaged in actual production work, and desiring to avail himself of the Colby Harriman suggestions.

A Music Week Novelty

"A Day of Songs"

A "Moving Picture World" Presentation

Devised by Colby Harriman



With the nation-wide observance during the week of May third of National Music Week, it is safe to assume that practically every program in the First Run Theatres will have a musical attraction dominating the presentation spot of the program.

The suggestion offered this week has been devised to meet the mechanical requirements of the average stage. The design, which is strictly conventional, is easy to adapt, and with the proper lighting treatment, the number will prove a scenic masterpiece in addition to a proper background for the various songs.

The set may be called a "WHITE" set, no colors being used in painting the various surfaces with the exception of pale blue and very light green. The surface will permit a better lighting treatment.

At center, up stage, is an 18 inch platform upon which is placed a white baby grand piano. Masking it on either sides are flowers, with a large floral bank directly back of it. On either side of the platform are two medium size poplar trees. At each end of the three steps leading from the platform are low pedestals painted in silver surmounted by a large urn containing a flowering plant.

A hedge curves from either side of the platform across stage to right and left. At the end, which marks a passage way off stage, another silver tinted pedestal is placed, upon which an urn with flowering plant is set..

Near the curtain line, a large poplar tree is set at either side of the stage, a hedge row being used to mask.

A light blue cyclorama is used. If possible, a white ground cloth could be advantageously used.

The action which is centered in the artist at the piano, is interpreted by various singers, instrumentalists and dancers.

The opening scene depicts early morning, at dawning. A pianist is discovered at the piano, costumed in white, preferably a metalline costume. The various foliage units appear in silhouette, when presently, at extreme right, the first flashes of the morning are seen streaking the horizon. The music portrays the dawn, the singing of birds, the dancing of sprites, and as the sun appears in a roseate color scheme, the foliage take on the highlights of the sun, with lighter greens manifesting themselves on the surfaces. The action portrays the school boy and girl rollicking on their way, a comedy song is introduced which may be eliminated if certain audiences are not favorable to "the morning after," the voices of the laborers in the field at high noon, the chorale of singers at a brook in early afternoon, all tell the story of the day. During this action the lighting treatment progresses from the ambers to canary and with attendant highlights and shadows.

The twilight hour, the end of the day, vesper bells and the love songs, all intermingle, until the finale, when the sun which has travelled through its various tones across the cyclorama has disappeared in a gorgeous sunset and the tiny stars appear. The hymn to the night is sung, as a mellow moon rises, and the voice of a watchman chants out as the black-out comes.

The pianist, with a special "recitative" lends continuity to the action, and does not permit any waits between the numbers to mark a change in time, this feature focusing the attention of the audience on the "theme character."

The song numbers used in this presentation have been selected from the best compositions, as particular attention will be given during National Music Week to the renditon of the better class of music.

The various mechanical effects, such as the travelling sun, lighting treatment for white surfaces, and other details are all scheduled in the folio for this presentation. No musical score accompanies the folio as the selections called for can be secured from any first class music dealer or library.

Featured Musical Programs—Week Beginning April 12th

CAPITOL THEATRE—New York

"Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana"
Lottice Howell, soprano, "Blue Danube Waltz"
Ko-Ko Song Cartune—"Swanee River"

MARK STRAND THEATRE—New York

Selections from "Cavalleria Rusticana"
With Kitty McLaughlin and Ensemble

RIVOLI THEATRE—New York

"Dance of the Hours"—With Rivoli Dancers
Riesenfeld's Classical Jazz

RIALTO THEATRE—New York

"George Friedrich Handel," Subject
Famous Music Master Series
Gaston Dubois, cellist, "Elegie"

COLONY THEATRE—New York

"Symphon-a-jazz," arranged and directed by Louis Katzman

CAPITOL THEATRE—Chicago

"An Easter Operatic Medley"
"What We Hear on the Radio"

EASTMAN THEATRE—Rochester

"Midsummer Night's Dream" Organ: "The Good Old Times"

and she wants to come to him, that she return to her husband and when his health breaks down she finds happiness in unselfish service. The human interest element in this picture is intensely strong and the minister's happiness comes in his helping others and the almost worshipful adoration of his little friend who was lame.

Here is a picture that will be endorsed by the best elements of your community and not only will its presentation add prestige to your house, but we believe with its powerful story and intense drama it will appeal to patrons.

Cast

Daniel Gilchrist	Edmund Lowe
Jerry	Raymond Bloomer
Stedtman	Henry Sedley
Umanski	Paul Panzer
Hennig	A. J. Herbert
Goodkind	George Lessey
Benfield	Riley Hatch
Poor Man	Fred C. Jones
Mary Margaret	Anne Dale
Pearl	Mary Thurman
Clare	Brenda Bond

Based on play by Channing Pollock.
Scenario by Edmund Goulding.
Directed by Harry Millarde.
Length, 9,500 feet.

Story

Daniel Gilchrist, assistant rector in a fashionable church is forced out because he preaches a sermon in which he flays his wealthy flock. His sweetheart Clare jilts him and marries Jerry, son of the millionaire warden of the church, who admires Daniel but calls him a fool. This man Goodkind gets Daniel to arrange to settle a mine strike. Daniel applies Christ's principles and is rebuked by the owners and so he establishes a mission. Pearl, wife of one of the miners comes to New York with Jerry and he casts her out. Her husband Hennig, blames Daniel. Jerry has affairs with other women and Clare finds solace working with Daniel. Jerry accuses her of infidelity and she goes to throw herself on Daniel who is trying to live as Christ did. He sends her back telling her happiness comes through service. Hennig gathers a mob and attacks the mission. Pearl confesses to an immoral life. Mary, a little cripple, who has learned faith from Daniel, when she sees him beaten, prays and then walks to him. The mob is awed and declare it a miracle. Goodkind seeing Daniel happy and contented, while his son Jerry is a wreck, wonders whether after all Daniel has made the greater success of life.

"Code of the West"

Owen Moore and Constance Bennett in Excellent Western Romantic Comedy

Reviewed by Sumner Smith

A Rivoli audience laughed heartily throughout the greater part of "Code of the West," a Paramount picture with Owen Moore and Constance Bennett, and then thrilled at the ending when the hero and heroine are menaced by a spectacular forest fire. Really, as this indicates, the picture has two big ingredients, romance and comedy, and a melodramatic trimming at its close. It is excellent box-office stuff; that the Rivoli theatregoers testified to.

Moore has proved his worth before in comedy parts, but the character of the bashful chap he portrays in "Code of the West" for the greater part of the footage makes him more of a foil for the comedy of an exceedingly capable supporting cast. And a very good foil he is. Chief among the comedy purveyors is Edward Gribbon, who gets a laugh about every time he appears, and Gertrude Short, a plump little girl who has been seen in two-reel comedies.

Constance Bennett has the role of a strong-willed flapper who vamps every male within sight and will not listen to reason. Her work could hardly be improved upon. Moore is appealing as the man who loves her but does not dare to make known his sentiments. Other good parts are those of Mabel Ballin, Charles Ogle, David Butler and George Bancroft.

The title of the picture is deceptive, also the fact it originated from a Zane Grey novel. It is not primarily he-man western stuff, though it has to do with an eastern girl among ranchers, but light comedy merely set in a western atmosphere with many well directed domestic scenes. The kick at the ending lies in fast riding and the fire. The flaming forest consumes much footage but the interest does not lag.

Cast

Cal Thurman	Owen Moore
Georgie May Stockwell	Constance Bennett
Mary Stockwell	Mabel Ballin
Henry Thurman	Charles Ogle
Bid Hatfield	David Butler
Enoch Thurman	George Bancroft
Mollie Thurman	Gertrude Short
Ma Thurman	Lillian Leighton
Tuck Merry	Edward Gribbon
Cal Bloom	Pat Hartigan
Bud	Frankie Lee

From Zane Grey's novel.
Adapted by Lucien Hubbard.
Directed by William K. Howard.
Photographed by Lucien Andriot.
Length, 6,777 feet.

Story

Georgie May Stockwell, young and wilful, arrives on the Thurman ranch from New York and vamps all the men but Cal Thurman. At last she succeeds with him, and he is heart-broken to learn she is only fooling. Valuable grazing land is thrown open to settlers by the government and Cal wins a race to claim it from Hatfield, a neighboring rancher. Georgie carries on a flirtation with Hatfield, but he gets rough and is beaten in a fight by Cal. Tuck Merry has advised Cal to use a strong hand with Georgie and Cal spirits her away, forces a marriage in the woods and then takes her to his cabin. A forest fire starts and they escape on Cal's horse after a spectacular leap into a river. The hardship unites them.

"Proud Flesh"

Metro-Goldwyn Offers Amusing Light Romantic Comedy With Eleanor Boardman in Leading Role

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

King Vidor's newest production for Metro-Goldwyn "Proud Flesh" is an adaptation of a novel by Lawrence Rising and in transferring it to the screen the stress has been laid on the comedy possibilities of this story which involves a three-cornered romance between a vivacious American girl reared in Spain, an easy-going Spanish don and a hustling American master plumber.

The plot is exceedingly light and the story is presented as a romantic comedy, the situations being developed more with the idea of providing entertainment than in adhering close to plausibility. There is a laugh in the opening title followed by effective scenes representing the San Francisco earthquake which prepares you for what is to follow and gets you into the spirit of expecting almost anything from the impetuous heroine.

Good satire has been introduced which at times is so broad as to be practically burlesque, as for instance when the lazy don in serenading the heroine has one of his henchmen strum a guitar, another to sing the love song and a whole flock to form a human pyramid that he may reach the balcony. This angle is adhered to throughout. As a result "Proud Flesh" is peppy and amusing and should afford pleasing light entertainment for almost any type of audience. At the Capitol Theatre, New York, its showing was punctuated by much audible merriment.

Eleanor Boardman is excelent as the heroine, playing with dash and spirit. Harrison Ford gives one of his best interpretations as the Spaniard and is convincing. There is effective contrast between his characterization and that of Pat O'Malley as the plumber, a role which Mr. O'Malley handles to entire satisfaction. Trixie Friganza and W. J. Kelly are responsible for several laughs and the clever subtitles furnish more. Rosita Marstini is excellently cast as a Spanish maid to the heroine.

Cast

Fernanda	Eleanor Boardman
Pat O'Malley	Pat O'Malley
Don Diego	Harrison Ford
Mrs. McKee	Trixie Friganza
Gus McKee	W. J. Kelly
Vicenti	Rosita Marstini
Mrs. O'Malley	Margaret Seddon

Based on novel by Lawrence Rising.
Directed by King Vidor.
Length, 5,770 feet.

Story

Born in San Francisco during the earthquake and raised by relatives in Spain, Fernanda is attractive, volatile and impetuous. To test her gay lover Don Diego who has his servants serenade her while he idles in his carriage she says she is going to America, and he receives it so cooly she has to make good. The Don follows, in fact he beats her there. The hills prove too much for Fernanda and she gets out of the taxi. Pat comes along in his car and assists her and loses his heart. Fernanda spurns him when she learns he is a plumber. Pat persists in his attentions and finally sweeps her off her feet. Cooling down, she throws him over, but Pat kidnaps her and takes her to a cabin. The Don nonchalantly follows and Pat lets her go with him when she says she is going to marry the Don. Pat returns home disconsolate, but Fernanda comes to him, and tells him although they are mismated and will be unhappy, she just can't give him up. Fernanda dismisses the Don who immediately looks up another girl whose address he has in his collection.

"His Supreme Moment"

Scenes in Technicolor Effectively Used in Pleasing First National Story of Ardent Romance

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Samuel Goldwyn's newest presentation through First National is a George Fitzmaurice production "His Supreme Moment" featuring Blanche Sweet and Ronald Coleman adapted from May Edginton's novel "World Without End."

It is a romantic type of story that is unfolded here and one which bears out the old adage that true love does not run smooth. The distinguishing highlight of the plot is the fact that while the heroine, a stage star, is madly in love with the hero she is so afraid that marriage may end the romance that in order to try and ascertain whether they are suited to each other she stipulates that she accompany him to his South American mine as his sister for one year.

While this unusual arrangement is not convincing, it gives author and director opportunities for situations that are interesting and contain a fair proportion of drama. Hardships bring about a misunderstanding and this is worked on by the other woman, the force of these situations is weakened by subtitles which anticipate this action and destroy the suspense, and of course the eventual outcome is never in doubt. Excellent direction and fine acting on the part of both Miss Sweet and Mr. Coleman hold the attention although the lack of real suspense makes the final happy ending seem rather drawn out.

There is a novel opening in which the heroine appears in an elaborate oriental dance number in which she is apparently killed. It develops however that this is a play in which she is the star. These sequences as well as another later in the story where she returns to the stage after her disillusionment have been filmed in color by the Technicolor process with the result that they are beautiful and extremely effective. The vivid oriental surroundings lending themselves admirably to this treatment.

The romance between hero and heroine is a case of love at first sight and the courtship is of the whirlwind kind all taking place during one night and seldom have we seen more ardent lovemaking or more of it than in the early reels, which are in striking contrast to the later scenes in South America. These scenes should certainly make a hit with the romantically inclined and there is nothing in the picture that is offensive, everything is perfectly proper.

It would seem that "His Supreme Moment" should afford satisfactory entertainment for the average patron.

Cast

Carla King	Blanche Sweet
John Douglas	Ronald Coleman
Sara Deeping	Jane Winton
Betty King	Belle Bennett
Harry Avon	Cyril Chadwick
Adrian	Ned Sparks
Mueva	Nick DeRuiz

Based on May Edginton's novel, "World Without End."
Adapted by Frances Marion.
Directed by George Fitzmaurice.
Length, 6,565 feet.

Story

John Douglas, mining engineer, returns from South America for more capital. Attending a theatre with Sara Deeping he meets Carla King, the star, and they fall madly in love with each other. Sara becomes jealous and arranges to back John's venture in secret and to follow him to the mine and win his love. John proposes to Carla but fearing marriage she agrees to go with him for a year as his sister. At the mine, lack of conveniences, hardships and loneliness prey upon her and trouble with the men worries John, so Carla comes to believe she hates him. In rescuing him in a mine fight and fire, Carla is stricken with fever. Sara appears and seeks to widen the trouble between them. All return to New York. Sara keeps after John who still loves Carla. Finally Carla's mother claiming that Carla is ill, sends for John who has learned that Carla has promised to wed a millionaire who will back John. John is angry but finally Carla confesses she really loves him and they plan to go back to the mine and fight for success together, this time as husband and wife.

"Lilies of the Streets"

Human Interest Melodrama Dealing With Police Work in Helping Girls Should Please Majority

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

Stories dealing with police activities have always proved a fertile field for the stage and screen, and when they concern actual police work and are authenticated by officials, it adds to their fascination and doubles the hold on the spectator. Such is the case with the F. B. O. production "Lilies of the Streets." It deals with one phase of the work of the policewomen of New York, the protection of young girls, and not only does Mary E. Hamilton, the head of this department, actually appear in her official role, but the story was written by Elizabeth J. Munroe, who has been for many years her assistant.

The plot developed around the activities of a criminal who preys upon young girls and introduces what we believe to be a new angle, for this man gets his hold upon his victims by means of frame-ups which result in their arrest. He then secures their delease upon suspended sentence by persuading them to "take a plea" and sign a card. In this way he secures a hold on them for blackmail or other purposes for they have innocently pleaded guilty to the charge of prostitution.

This is the keynote of the theme and the story which has been written around this idea introduces two girls thus "framed" by the same man; one, a wealthy girl whose parents allow her too much freedom, the other a poor girl. The development follows that of the heart-interest melodrama and introduces many of the familiar situations which have proved of value in building audience sympathy and providing drama and punch. The crook is murdered under circumstances which lead the rich girl to believe her mother is guilty and this girl, to save her, accepts the guilt and goes to trial. The production in court of her plea of guilt shatters the lawyer's contention that she killed to protect her honor. Mrs. Hamilton's work figures in her being convinced that the girl is innocent and finally persuading the other girl to come forward and confess her guilt and to tell how both were framed.

Joseph Levering has forcefully directed this story and though there are points especially in the courtroom scene which appear to take great liberty with court procedure, the story holds the interest throughout, has melodramatic tenseness and plenty of punch. Mrs. Hamilton's work is convincing and her presence adds interest. Virginia Lee Corbin in the leading role as the rich girl, and Irma Harrison as the poor girl give effective portrayals. The romantic angle has been subordinated but Johnny Walker is thoroughly satisfactory in his few scenes. Wheeler Oakman handles the thankless role of the villain well.

While "Lilies of the Streets" is hardly the type of picture that will appeal to the sophisticated, it should register strongly with the majority of patrons and with its excellent exploitation possibilities should prove a good box office attraction.

Cast

Judith Lee	Virginia Lee Corbin
Frank Delmore	Wheeler Oakman
Nita Moore	Peggy Kelly
John Harding	Johnnie Walker
Margy Hopkins	Irma Harrison
Mrs. Hamilton	Mrs. Mary E. Hamilton
Her Assistant	Elizabeth J. Monroe

Story by Elizabeth J. Monroe.
Scenario by Harry Chandlee.
Directed by Joseph Levering.
Length, 7,216 feet.

Story

Neglected by her mother who spends her time at bridge parties with little thought to her daughter, Judith Lee is given too much freedom and becomes a typical flapper. She attracts the attention of Frank Delmore whose specialty is blackmailing women. Delmore takes Judith to a questionable dance hall and posing as an uplifter has the place raided. He escapes but Judith is taken to jail and at the instance of his confederate Nita she signs a plea and is released, not realizing that she has been framed and has confessed prostitution. Delmore's plan is to use this for blackmail, but he finds Nita's mother is susceptible and plans to get her fortune. Mrs. Lee goes to Delmore's apartment. Judith is suspicious and following, hears a shot and sees her mother run out. Judith will give no reason but says she killed Delmore and is tried. Her fiance John Harding seeks to save her under the plea of the unwritten law, but the prosecution produces her plea of guilty to prostitution. At the instance of Mrs. Hamilton, in charge of welfare work in the police department, Margy, another girl that Delmare framed, reveals the truth and confesses she killed Delmore in jealousy. Judith is freed and finds happiness with John.

"Black Gold Bricks"

(Universal—Comedy—One Reel)

The propensity of a husband to invest his every dollar in bogus oil stock furnishes the title and idea of this Bulls Eye Comedy in the series in which Neely Edwards and Alice Howell appear as husband and wife and Bert Roach as the butler. Hubby takes the rent money to buy stock and incurs wife's displeasure so that she has the butler dump all of his samples in the sink. Hubby accidentally cuts the drain pipe and believes he has struck a gusher. This comedy is up to the average of the series. There is a novel opening in which the characters appear to be in jail, but a long shot shows that they are painting chairs and peeking through the bars.—C. S. S.

"Suwanee River"

(Red Seal—Song Car-tune—One Reel)

Max Fleischer's familiar character that makes his appearance out of an ink bottle essays a new role in this the first of a series of Song Car-tunes. Deftly changing his make-up himself he calls a quartette out of the inkwell and they proceed to sing "Suwanee River" the words being thrown on the screen and cleverly indicated by a traveling dot with the intention that the audience will sing them. The idea of familiar songs on the screen for the audience to sing is not new, but Mr. Fleischer has given it new treatment and injected good comedy in his literal "play" upon words, for not only do the words themselves perform funny tricks but a little cartoon negro "plays" around all over them doing all sorts of funny stunts. A pleasing number that is novel and should please the average patron.—C. S. S.

"Hair Cartoon"

(Red Seal—Cartoon—300 feet)

Cartoonist Marcus in Subject RR of these Red Seal "Hair Cartoon" novelties at first sketches three men with copious whiskers. By transferring the hair on the lower part of the face to the head Marcus succeeds in presenting unmistakable likenesses of Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, Gloria Swanson and Jackie Coogan. The pen and ink transformation is quite cleverly done and should be well received by most audiences. —T. W.

"Deep Stuff"

(Pathe—Cartoon—One Reel)

Now that spring is here and the call of the trout resounds throughout the land, Cartoonist Paul Terry deems it a fitting time to release a subject on fishing. In this the farmer and the cat go fishing with astounding results. The family lives of fishes are shown through close-ups beneath the surface. It is funny—very.—S. S.

THE PEP OF THE PROGRAM

NEWS AND REVIEWS OF SHORT SUBJECTS AND SERIALS

"Shorts" Reviewed In This Issue

Adventure of Adenoid (Pathe)
Black Gold Bricks (Universal)
Beauty Spots (Pathe)
Black Hand Blues (Pathe)
Big Chief Ko-Ko (Red Seal)
Color Films (Sering D. Wilson)
Dome Doctor, The (Educational)
Deep Stuff (Pathe)
Don't Pinch (Educational)
Flying Elephant, The (Wilson)
Hair Cartoon (Red Seal)
Hold My Baby (Pathe)
In a Cottage Garden (Wilson)
Pathe Review 17 (Pathe)
S. O. S. (Pathe)
Swanee River (Red Seal)
Remember When? (Pathe)
Thundering Waters (Wilson)
Where the Waters Divide (Fox)
Wonder Books (Wilson)

Color Films

Sering D. Wilson Offers Variety of Interesting Reels Filmed in Natural Color.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell

A new organization, Sering D. Wilson, Inc., has entered the field and is offering several series of single reel subjects which have been filmed in natural colors by the Kelly process. In addition to containing a fine selection of subject matter which effectively shows off the various colors, excellent subtitles which add to the interest have been supplied by Randolph Bartlett.

"Wonder Book Series"

Volume 1 of this series begins with reproductions of several paintings from the Metropolitan Museum including a study of a young girl, and portraits of Franklin and Washington. This is followed by iridescent pottery, the iridescent effect coming out clearly as the different rays of light strike the objects. This is also true of another section showing butterflies, those with vivid and changeable hues being especially beautiful. An extremely interesting section shows views of the total eclipse of the sun in color. Footage of this reel is 625.

"Thundering Waters"

This reel, 700 feet in length, is devoted to strikingly beautiful shots of Niagara Falls in winter with its frozen spray and surrounding trees covered with a mantle of ice. The color effect is not evident in much of the footage, but there are some striking scenes in which the beautiful light effects are brought out strongly and a delicate fairy-like view of the perpetual rainbow.

"In a Cottage Garden"

There is nothing that lends itself to color photography better than vivid hued flowers, and this reel starting with an attractive scene in a charming cottage garden shows a number of beautiful shots of vases of flowers such as roses, dahlias, daisies, snap-dragons, etc., some of the scenes showing the gradual opening of the flowers and the manner in which they are artificially tinted. A very beautiful film, length 700 feet.

"The Flying Elephant"

The subject, running 650 feet is an animated cartoon which is not only amusing but novel as color is used. It shows clearly the possibilities of color in cartoon work, for some of the effects used would be a complete flop in black and white. For instance where the little darkey paints a barber pole and where the white elephant changes color after drinking the red circus lemonade. Not only is the color here attractive but it would seem to open a new field in cartoon work.

"Black Hand Blues"

(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

The Spat Family in "Black Hand Blues" presents one of the livest and most actionful comedies we have seen from that trio in quite some time. This two-reeler is brimful with slapstick stuff of the kind that seldom fails to go over with anything but a bang. The English member of the triumvirate has just come upstairs from the furnace and leans against the wall. The blacken imprint of his hand is taken for the evil omen of gangsters which are supposed to be rampant at the time. In order to combat any insidious attack the Spats adorn their doors with "connecting things" which in turn, as might be expected, hand them the greatest number of wallops. An erstwhile party bent on surprising a newlywed couple picks out the Spat residence by mistake. Shooting, scrambling and a glorious mix-up take place before identities are made known and peace is again restored.—T. W.

"Beauty Spots"

(Pathe—"Sportlight"—One Reel)

Grantland Rice uses the title "Beauty Spots" to exploit some of America's favorite summer and winter resorts. Swimming, horse racing, sprinting and dancing comprise some of the things pertaining to natural rhythm which Rice usually stresses in his screen presentations. This "Sportlight" is up to the author's usual standard.—T. W.

The House of FEATURETTES

"It's very wonderful," says Harriette Underhill, writing in the N. Y. Herald Tribune, after seeing and hearing "Swanee River" the first Ko-Ko Song Car-tune at "Roxy's" Capitol Theatre Sunday night.

600 B'way RED SEAL PICTURES CORP. N. Y. C.

EDWIN MILES FADMAN Pres

"Don't Pinch"

(Educational—Comedy—Two Reels)

This Bobby Vernon Comedy directed by Walter Graham is one of the best farce comedies we have seen in a long time. Keene Thompson's story provided excellent comedy material, the acting is above reproach and the plot—there really is one—moves along at a fast and effective tempo. As to the story, there is some real characterization that grows out of the comedy and does not check its swift action, and enough material for a couple of the old style light comedies. Most of the fun centers around preparations for a costume party, with Bobby wearing a Buster Brown suit. One band of policemen and crooks chase him on the theory he is the recreant son of a wealthy woman, and other policemen and crooks on the theory he has figured in a bank robbery. Despite this wealth of incident, the continuity is perfect.—S. S.

"Where the Waters Divide"

(Fox—Varieties—One Reel)

From the standpoint of scenic beauty alone this reel is deserving of special mention with its magnificent shots of snow-capped mountains, rugged peaks and beautiful rivers as the scenes are those of the Canadian Rockies than which there are no grander views of natural beauty anywhere. But even overshadowing this angle is the interesting fact that gives the film its title. The film shows three mountain peaks situated in Alberta within fifteen miles of each other. From one, the melting snow finally finds its way into the Columbia River, thence to the Pacific Ocean, from another to the Saskatchewan River through the Great Lakes to the Atlantic and from the other through the Athabasca River to the Mackenzie and the Arctic Ocean. An excellent film.—C. S. S.

"Remember When"

(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

Though this film carries less story than some of the other Harry Langdons, it offers a wealth of good gags and the comedy situations pile up nicely. Harry is first seen, (by proxy), as a small boy slipping away from the orphan asylum of which he has been an inmate after his playfellow, the matron's daughter, has gone away with her mother. Fifteen years later he is still carrying the same little bundle, but accidentally he exchanges this for a wasp's nest. One gets down his back and his frantic efforts to dislodge it procure for him a job with a wagon circus. The show pitches on a lot across from the asylum and Harry gets fired for letting all of the kids under the canvas, but the bearded lady turns out to be his childhood playmate and presumably he holds his job. The story is rather bald, but the gags are fast moving and well connected. It's laugh maker.—E. W. S.

(More "Shorts" on pages 798 and 830)

Vitagraph's April Releases Includes "Tides of Passion"

THREE Vitagraph specials are set for releases in April, succeeding each other at intervals of one week. Mae Marsh in "Tides of Passion," a J. Stuart Blackton production, is officially set for release April 12. On April 19 appears Anita Stewart in "Baree, Son of Kazan," a David Smith production, while "Wildfire," starring Aileen Pringle, produced by Distinctive Pictures for Vitagraph, is due April 26.

These pictures cover a wide range of subjects, offering exhibitors as great a diversity as it is possible for three attractions to give. "Tides of Passion" is an adaptation of Basil King's well known novel, "In the Garden of Charity," and its scenes are laid on the rockbound coast and at sea.

"Baree, Son of Kazan" is a typical James Oliver Curwood story with a dog its hero and its action set in the Canadian northwestern country.

"Wildfire" is a picturization of the great stage triumph of the same name, in which Lillian Russel scored one of its greatest successes. It is a fast-moving racetrack melodrama, with New York the centre of action.

Each of Vitagraph's April releases, it will be noted, is from a best-seller or a great play, the title of which has long since "sold itself" to the public. The stars, too—Mae Marsh, Anita Stewart and Aileen Pringle, are of such varying types and styles as to carry appeals to every class of picture-lover, while each has won the favor of exhibitors everywhere as a surefire box office magnet.

It seems to have been a happy circumstance, as Vitagraph points out in its announcement, which has brought these three special offerings to be released almost simultaneously.

PAUL H. SLOAN

Former Paramount director who will handle the megaphone on Rod La Rocque's forthcoming De Mille-Pro.-Dis.-Co. pictures

"Alias Mary Flynn" in Work

Despite the serious injury to Evelyn Brent, the F. B. O. star, last week, production was not delayed on her current vehicle "Alias Mary Flynn" at the F. B. O. studios. While Miss Brent was recovering from the lacerations to her arm at her home, Ralph Ince, the director, made fast time working with other members of the cast including Malcolm MacGregor, William V. Mong and others. Miss Brent returned to work later in the week and reported in good condition albeit a trifle weak. The story is a crook melodrama by Edward J. Montagne and Fred Myton and of a more elaborate character than any of the star's recent productions.

Ginsberg Announces New Banner and Royal Plans

BEN VERSCHLEISER will produce the 1925-26 series of six Banner Productions to be distributed for the independent exchanges by the Henry Ginsberg Distributing Corporation.

Verschleiser made an enviable reputation for himself with three of the Banner Productions of last season, "Speed," "Empty Hearts" and "Three Keys." It was the favorable comment accorded these pictures that influenced Messrs. Briskin and Davis of Banner on their selection of Verschleiser.

The first picture to get under way will be "The Love Gamble" and with the cast and principals to be definitely decided upon this week, production is scheduled for April 20.

"Salvage," by Izola Forrester, has been selected as the fifth of the series of six Banner Productions for the coming season, but will be presented on the screen as "Surging Seas." It is a mystery novel of the sea with an intertwining romance of high society and the underworld.

The Ginsberg organization also will distribute Royal Pictures, a series of stunt and thrill melodramas, headed by William Russell. Russell, a veteran of the screen, is now at the height of his career, and is presenting an entirely different type of characterization than that with which he has been identified in the past.

His two recent pictures, "The Way of a Maid," a Metro-Goldwyn, with Eleanor Boardman and Matt Moore, and "Anna Christie," in which he played the part of the lover, are excellent examples of histrionic ability.

The Royal series will be given pretentious production. Excellent melodramatic stories have been selected and well-balanced and popular casts will feature this product.

A tense instant in "The Air Mail," the Paramount release in which Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Billie Dove are prominent.

Begins "Light of Western Stars"

Under the direction of William K. Howard, production will begin this week on "The Light of Western Stars," another Zane Grey story which will be made as a successor to "The Thundering Herd."

Jack Holt, Noah Beery and Billie Dove, who have been identified with the most successful Zane Grey productions that Paramount has made, will have the three important featured roles.

The story is based on the admission of Arizona and New Mexico to the Union and the outlawry that attended the staking out of cattle land.

AL SANTELL
Director of "Parisian Nights," an F. B. O. picture

All Comedy Program Proves Big Success at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO'S newest first run theatres, the Egyptian and the Aztec, have proven that an all-comedy bill can be made successful.

For the past two weeks these two theatres have been running a show consisting entirely of comedy which has met with such unusual box-office appeal that Max Graf, the managing director of both houses, has declared his intention of repeating the idea in the near future.

The principal picture on the bill was Harold Lloyd in "Now or Never" supported by a strong lineup of short subpects headed by "Our Gang" in "The Love Bug," the "Spat Family" in "Excuse My Glove" and a Pathe Review. The entire program was booked into the theatres by Pathe.

The program was heavily advertised in advance with a promise of "your money back if you don't laugh." The response on the part of the public was even greater than the management expected and the records of the theatres were broken in many instances.

With the exception of the Pathe Review, the entire program at the two houses was produced by Hal Roach. As a result of the success of the innovation the comedy producer received the following telegram from Max Graf:

"Am running Hal Roach all-comedy week in the Egyptian and Aztec theatres, Market Street. It is the first time that an all-comedy week has been tried in this city, and our business is beyond expectations. Everyone pleased. I will run more Hal Roach weeks with full comedy bills."

"Classified" Next

Corinne Griffith's First National Picture following "The Marriage Whirl."

Following "The Marriage Whirl," from J. Hartley Manners' play, "The National Anthem," which is nearing completion, Corinne Griffith will next do for First National, "Classified," from the story by Edna Ferber recently published in the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

"Classified" offers the star a role that is well suited to her, a young New York girl employed in the telephone want-ad department of a daily newspaper. She imitates the belles of Park Avenue so well as to deceive all but the keenest eye. She runs around with married men, intent upon having a good time. She asserts that she will never become the household drudge that her mother is, nor live in such a dumpy flat, but when love comes, the girl forgets all her words and behaves as a healthy young woman in love usually does.

Charlotte Merriam in Cast of "Steele of the Royal Mounted"

VITAGRAPH received word this week that David Smith, who is starting production work on the adaptation of James Oliver Curwood's great novel, "Steele of the Royal Mounted," has added Charlotte Merriam to the cast. Bert Lytell has the title role, "Phillip Steele," and Stuart Holmes for the part of "Bucky Nome."

Miss Merriam will have the character of Isobel. She is regarded as peculiarly fitted for this part, having achieved a notable success in "Pampered Youth," David Smith's picturization of Booth Tarkington's "The Magnificent Ambersons," which, under Vitagraph distribution, is proving one of the hits of the current season. In that special she impersonates Lucy Morgan.

Miss Merriam has appeared also in three other Vitagraph photoplays under Mr. Smith's direction, "Borrowed Husbands," "The Code of the Wilderness" and "Captain Blood." In the last named, the super-special adaptation of Rafael Sabatini's classic, she played Mary Traill, the girlhood friend of Arabella Bishop, played by Jean Paige. She scored successes also as Stephanie Parrish in "Painted People," and Julie Hempel in Edna Ferber's "So Big," both with Colleen Moore.

Miss Merriam recently returned to Hollywood after a visit with her father, a colonel in the United States army, who is stationed at Atlanta. She was feted in that city and, en route, at New Orleans, Kansas City and other cities.

Artclass Conference

Richard Thorpe and Louis Weiss to Visit Cuba, Planning Product

Richard Thorpe, director of the Buffalo Bill, Jr., and Buddy Roosevelt series of five-reel action-stunt features, released by Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation, who will also direct the series with their new Western star, is now en route to New York, according to telegraphic advices received by Artclass this week.

During Mr. Thorpe's stay in the East he will probably make a trip to Havana, Cuba, with Louis Weiss, managing director of Artclass, with a view of gathering material for a big special feature which the Weiss Brothers will make early next fall, and also a special of fifteen episodes included in the Artclass plans for fall release.

Scene from the Hal Roach comedy for Pathe release, "Haunted Honeymoon," featuring Glynn Tryon.

Betty Bronson, Florence Vidor and Adolph Menjou in scenes in the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's "three-star" production "Are Parents People?" Mal St. Clair directed Independent Pictures Has "The Test of Donald Norton

ANNOUNCEMENT was made by the West Coast Offices of the Independent Pictures Corporation that they have purchased the motion picture rights to the novel, "The Test of Donald Norton," by Robert Pinkerton.

Production activity will start early in June, and the picture will be released as a super-special by the Independent Pictures Corporation.

The novel appeared about a year ago and created a stir throughout the United States, being recognized as one of the epoch making novels of the year. Its locale is largely centered around the trading posts of the Hudson Bay Company in Canada. The production will be made there, in collaboration with the Hudson Bay Company.

A special star cast will be engaged and the lead will, in all probability, be Bob Custer, who is now starring in a series of western productions made by the Independent Pictures Corporation and released through the Film Booking Offices of America.

The history of the Hudson Bay Company is one of the most romantic, and, while the story does not trace the history of the company to any extent, it brings out the high lights of the hazards and hardships engaged in by those connected with the organization.

The history of the Hudson Bay Company, the official title of which is "The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson Bay," is traced back to the year 1670, more than two hundred and fifty years ago. Prince Rupert, the first governor of the company, is largely credited with the efficiency of the system which made that company the greatest of its kind. The original charter was granted by King Charles the Second in 1670, as a result of an exhibition, originally planned for a new passage into the South Sea and for the finding of trades for furs, minerals and other commodities.

"The Test of Donald Norton," while entirely modern in its conception, will, when picturized, bring forward a visualization of the early struggles and hardships of those engaged in connection with the Hudson Bay Company. It is estimated it will take approximately nine months to complete the production, since the story is laid in the four seasons of the year and the same locales are covered by the sequences that are followed in the story.

In addition to its historical value, the story is intensely dramatic.

Jesse J. Goldburg, president of Independent Pictures Corporation, had this to say:

"We intend, as a part of our general program of production, to produce for the coming season eight westerns starring Bob Custer, eight stunt westerns starring Bill Cody and Eight 'Big Timber' dramas, in addition to 26 single reel productions to be known as "The Screen Book of Knowledge." It is also our plan to produce and release two tremendous specials during the year, one of which will be 'The Test of Donald Norton.' We have appropriated $150,000 for the making of this picture. We will spare no pains and no expense to make this the biggest Independent production ever produced in the motion picture business. Necessarily we do not intend to spend as much as some other specials that have been made in the past, but the cost allowed will not indicate alone the magnitude of the picture. We are putting our entire organization back of this special."

Borzage and Wray Added to List of Fox Directors

TWO more leading directors of the motion picture industry have been signed by Fox Film Corporation to direct a number of the special photoplays that company will release for the 1925-26 season.

These latest acquisitions to the already strong Fox directorial staff are Frank Borzage and John Griffith Wray.

The contract signed by Borzage with Fox calls for his exclusive services by that organization for a number of years, while Wray will immediately don the harness at the Fox West Coast Studios to direct one of the most important productions on the Fox release schedule for next season.

The addition of Borzage and Wray to the Fox staff of directors gives that company the most imposing group fo megaphone wielders to be found in any studio, and their presence on the Fox lot assures exhibitors of attractions with box-office punches. Both of these men have any number of successes to their credit and their names alone have real box-office value.

Borzage, for instance, hsa such superlative photoplays as "Humoresque," "The Valley of Silent Men" and "Back Pay" to his credit.

Wray won the eternal good will of the exhibitors with such box-office bonanzas as "Human Wreckage," "Jim," "Homespun Folks" and "Beau Revel."

IRVING G. THALBERG
Associate studio executive for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Completing "Don Q"

Douglas Fairbanks' new production, "Don Q," is nearly completed. Fairbanks and Donald Crisp, his director, have taken great care to make the story a true picture of Spanish life in every particular and some of the sets reproduce scenes in Seville.

Booking Drive On

First National's Advance Booking Campaign Off to an Enthusiastic Start

First National's advance booking drive for summer play dates started on April 5 with an enthusiastic response from the field force. All of the branches have been heard from, and the managers report that their salesmen are eager to make the drive as big a success for summer dates as was the Eschmann Month contest last fall for early season bookings and play dates.

The sales force has eight weeks in which to sell the company's product for summer showings and thirteen weeks in which to get the new business written in the drive played. The playing period will end on August 29, at which time the winners will be determined upon the basis of the pictures actually played as against each branch's own record of the same thirteen weeks last summer.

Mr. Eschmann, who returned last week from a trip to the West Coast and to many of the western, mid-western and southern branches, reports the branch managers and salesmen as confident that by the time the drive ends they will have rolled up a bigger business for the company during June, July and August than for any other summer in the company's history.

O'Connor Starts Work

"Go Straight" Is New Title for "When a Woman Reaches Forty"; Big Cast Selected

"Go Straight" is the new title for "When a Woman Reaches Forty," which Frank O'Connor is directing as his first production under a new contract with B. P. Schulberg. The feature is now well under way and will be the next release on this year's schedule of B. P. Schulberg Productions. J. G. Bachman, general manager of distribution, has announced.

The story, which is by Royal A. Baker, motion picture censor for the city of Detroit, has been adapted to the screen by Agnes Leahy. It is a crook play, with the studios of Hollywood as its background.

A strong cast has been selected for the leading roles. Owen Moore and Gladys Hulette head the line-up of players, supported by George Fawcett, Mary Carr, Robert Edeson, Dewitt Jennings, Ethel Wales, Francis McDonald and Lillian Leighton.

Ralph Ince Begins Work

After several weeks spent in working over the script and in conferences with General Manager B. P. Fineman and Scenario Editor Edward J. Montagne, Ralph Ince has begun the shooting of "Alias Mary Flynn," starring Evelyn Brent, at the F. B. O. lot. This is the first picture Mr. Ince has ever directed for F. B. O., and the cast which has been assembled will add luster to the most recent crook drama for Miss Brent, including as it does Malcolm McGregor, William V. Mong, John Gough and others.

JACQUELINE LOGAN
Appearing in F. B. O. pictures

Warners Lend Players

Louise Fazenda and Matt Moore Borrowed by Other Producers

Matt Moore, who has been busy at the Warner Bros. studio for some time past, having appeared with Dorothy Devore in "The Narrow Street," and more recently in "How Baxter Butted In," will be missing from the home grounds for a short time.

While another comedy-drama is being prepared for Mr. Moore and Miss Devore, he will go over to Famous and appear in a picture directed by Paul Bern, formerly a Warner scenarist. Louise Fazenda has been loaned by the Warners for the same picture, and upon her return to the home studio will appear in a picture now being prepared.

Both of these players were recently placed under long-term contracts by the Warners.

"Waltz Dream" Next

Warner Bros. have decided that Ernst Lubitsch's next production for them will be a screen production of the super-spectacular type which first brought fame to the director. The story selected is the famous opera, "A Waltz Dream," by the Viennese composer, Richard Straus, which several years took the American public by storm.

Warner Brothers have acquired the motion picture rights of the story and preparations for the production are already under way. It is their intention to make this Lubitsch production one of the outstanding pictures of the season.

Lubitsch will write the scenario.

Educational Winners

National Board of Review Lists Eleven Out of Twelve Short Subjects

Eleven subjects from the program of releases of Educational Film Exchanges, Inc., are listed in the "Photoplay Guide" for March, issued by the National Committee for Better Films, affiliated with the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures. The first two releases of Educational's new series of "Fables in Color;" "The Voice of the Nightingale" and "In the Spider's Grip" are listed as well as the Tuxedo Comedy: "Dynamite Doggie," with Al St. John; "Half a Hero," starring Lloyd Hamilton; "Hello Hollywood,' a Mermaid Comedy with Lige Conley; "High Hopes," a Cameo Comedy with Cliff Bowes, Virginia Vance and Ruth Hiatt; the Lyman H. Howe Hodge-Podge "Movie Morsels," and four successive issues of the "Judge's Crossword Puzzle" series being released by Educational.

Ten of the subjects listed on the March schedule of releases of Educational Film Exchanges, and "Dynamite Doggie" is a release of the last week of February. A total of eleven pictures out of twelve released during March were listed in the "Photoplay Guide," ten of them in the March issue and the eleventh, "Our Six Legged Friends," appearing in an earlier issue.

To Start Production Soon

Hugh Dierker to Produce "Camille of the Barbary Coast" for Associated Exhibitors

Production will soon start in New York on the Hugh Dierker production for Associated Exhibitors to be known as "Camille of the Barbary Coast."

The picture is a screen adaptation of the story, "The Overcoat," which appeared some time ago in Young's Magazine from the pen of Forrest Halsey. To date no cast has been selected, but Director Dierker will spend the entire week picking his people and will start work on next Monday.

Louise Glaum, who recently returned to the screen after a long illness, is being considered for the name part of the picture. She has just completed "Fifty-Fifty," the Henri Bergere production for Associated Exhibitors. There will be an all-star cast in "Camille of the Barbary Coast," which is scheduled for release early in the fall.

First Marion Production

According to an official announcement coming through Producers Distributing Corporation the first Frances Marion production will be "Ten To Midnight," an adaptation of the famous novel "Pere Goriot" by Honore Balzac written and first published in the "Comedie Humaine" in 1834.

The adaptation of the story has already been made by Miss Marion and it will be produced under her personal supervision at the Hollywood Studios.

M.P.T.O.A.
INDEPENDENTS MEET INDEPENDENTS
in MILWAUKEE
May 12, 13 and 14
VITAGRAPH
ALBERT E. SMITH PRESIDENT

Preparations Under Way For New First Nationals

FOLLOWING the announcement by First National that one-fourth of the coming year's releases has been assigned to the Eastern production units supervised by Earl Hudson, plans for future production are now vying with current activities for chief interest.

With Milton Sills' first starring vehicle, "The Making of O'Malley" well under way, Hudson is centering his attention on scripts now in preparation by his scenario staff. Activity in this department has taken a spurt in order that the cycle of plays assigned by General Manager Richard A. Rowland as vehicles for Sills, Doris Kenyon, Ben Lyon, Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor shall be ready for filming on scheduled time.

Advantage has been taken of Doris Kenyon's convalescence from her recent operation to give additional editorial attention to her next film, "The Half-Way Girl." As a result of new research efforts, more material of an atmospheric tone has been worked into this story of the Far East. Miss Kenyon meanwhile has been studying her colorful role, that of an adventuress of the Singapore streets.

A possible succeeding Doris Kenyon vehicle will be "The Scarlet Saint." It is an adaptation of Gerald Beaumont's short story, "The Lady Who Played Fidele," woven around the New Orleans Mardi Gras Carnival. Eugene Clifford and Jack Jungmeyer are preparing the continuity.

Joseph Poland and Earl Snell, of Hudson's staff, are adapting M. D. C. Crawford's novel, "The Comeback," in which Milton Sills will be starred. It is the story of a prize fighter who goes to the Maine woods after squandering his manhood and there finds regeneration which sends him back to the ring to win the world's championship.

When Ben Lyon returns from the Coast where he is now working in Frank Lloyd's "Winds of Chance," he will find everything in readiness for the start of his auto racing story, "The Pace That Thrills." Continuity is being worked out on this script, which the popular screen and magazine writer, Byron Morgan, wrote expressly for Ben.

This concentration on scenarios give some of First National's directing and production personnel the first respite they have had since the Hudson units were transferred from Hollywood last October. The last fortnight saw the completion of two productions, "Chickie," a special, (heralded as the successor to "Flaming Youth"), and "The Necessary Evil." The negatives are now ready to issue from the cutting room presided over by Arthur Tavares.

John Francis Dillon, who directed "Chickie," has left for a month's vacation in Hollywood, accompanied by Mrs. Dillon and their two-months-old son. George Archainbaud, who directed "The Necessary Evil," in which Ben Lyon and Viola Dana are co-featured, has also departed for the Coast.

Lambert Hillyer, who is directing "The Making of O'Malley," has just completed a lavish masked ball sequence. The sets for this ball were so large that room could not be found for them between the spaces of sets already standing at the Bronx Studios, so the biggest stage at the Cosmopolitan Studios was leased to make these scenes.

The cast for this drama, which centers around the New York police department, has been completed. Besides Dorothy Mackaill, who heads the list of supporters, there are little Helen Rowland, Thomas I. Carrigan, Claude King, Warner Richmond, Julia Hurley and Charles Graham.

Big Press Sheet

F. B. O. has gotten out quite some press sheet for its "Lilies of the Streets." It represents the work of Nat Rothstein, Leslie Jordan and Art Director Strumpf and includes twenty pages. It takes full advantage of the many tie-ups offered by the nature of the plot, which is claimed to be based upon the experiences of Mary E. Hamilton, well known Manhattan policewoman.

Valentino-United Artists Picture Starts Next Week

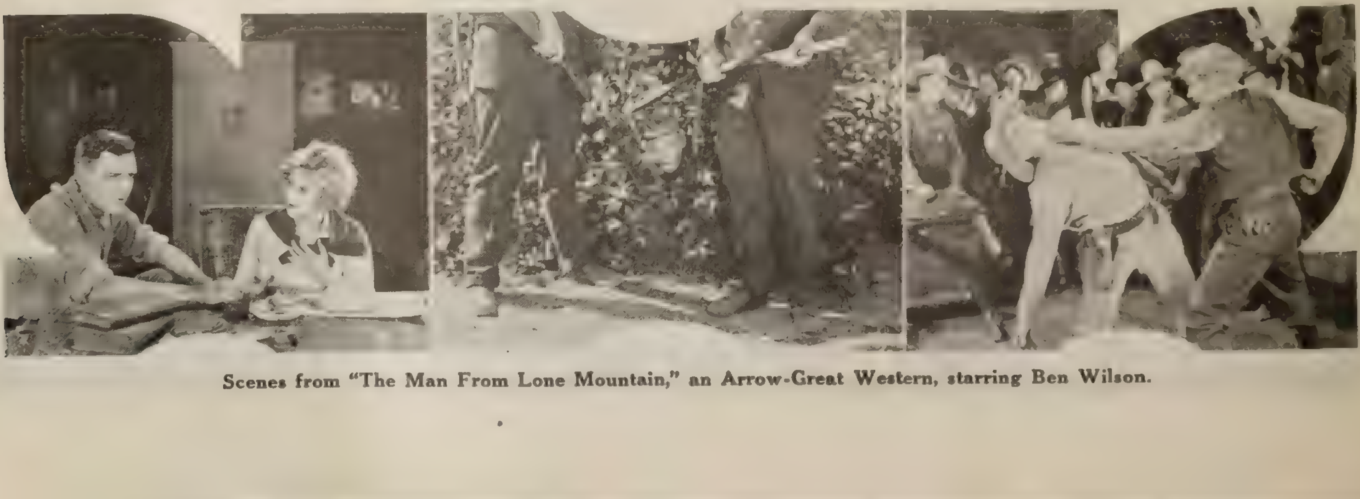
RUDOLPH VALENTINO, the latest star to be added to the United Artists lists of celebrities, will return next week from Palm Springs, where he has been resting, and begin work on his first production for United Artists Corporation. The production is slated for early fall release.

Clarence Brown will direct Valentino. Advices from California state that Mr. Brown this week entered into a long term contract with Joseph M. Schenck, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United Artists Corporation, and will direct pictures under Mr. Schenck's arrangement with United Artists for some time to come.

Valentino's first production under his new arrangements will be "The Bronze Collar," a new novel by John Frederick and is a romantic story of early California in the days of Spanish rule. The title signifies a badge of slavery, which is worn by Valentino in the leading role, and because of this there is a likelihood that the title when released will be changed to "The Slave." The continuity will be arranged by Adelaide Heilbron.

This first Valentino production for United Artists will be produced at the United Studios on a most lavish scale, and in the locale around Monterey. In the leading role Valentino plays a devil-may-care fellow who fights, rides and loves as he alone can do. At the start of the story the hero is a rover of the seas and is captured by the Turks, who sell him to a Spaniard, after which his owner brings him to California, where he escapes to the hills and becomes a friend of the oppressed whose exploits are as daring as they are mysterious.

No better combination than Valentino and Brown could be conceived by Mr. Schenck for this first production and, according to the plans that have been made by him since his return to California, it is predicted that this first Valentino picture will be the biggest thing he has ever done. Mr. Brown is rated as one of the best directors of the day he having been responsible for such directorial work as was so much raved about in "Smouldering Fires," "The Acquittal" and "The Signal Tower."



Scenes from "The Man From Lone Mountain," an Arrow-Great Western, starring Ben Wilson.

"Lost World" Ten Weeks in N. Y.; Nine in Boston; Eight, Philadelphia

FIRST NATIONAL closes the extended run of its special, "The Lost World," at the Astor Theatre, New York, at the $2.20 scale of admission, this week. This will give it a ten weeks' run in New York. It has done a consistently big business every week, demonstrating its extraordinary pulling power with audiences.

This production had a nine weeks' run to very large receipts at the Tremont Temple Theatre, Boston. Its engagement in Philadelphia, at the Aldine Theatre, was extended to include Easter week, which will give it an eight weeks' run in that city. "The Lost World" opened last week at the Globe Theatre in Atlantic City and at the Regent Theatre in Toronto for extended runs at increased admissions, attracting large business.

It will open at the Albee Theatre, Providence, on April 20th, for two shows a day at increased admissions.

The consistently big business which this photoplay has attracted in every city where it has played makes it certain that it will be the biggest box-office attraction available for exhibitors for first run showings next September when it will be released.

The animated brontosaurus which was used in connection with the showing of "The Lost World" at the Astor Theatre, New York, attracted so much attention and comment that the exploitation department of First National has ordered a quantity of them, so that exhibitors wishing to avail themselves of this striking exploitation device when playing the picture, can do so. Orders have already been taken for more than fifty of them. They are available to exhibitors at a very reasonable rate.

"Lost World" in Toronto

W. J. Morgan, assistant to E. A. Eschmann of First National in charge of open market bookings, made a trip to Toronto last week. He reports that "The Lost World," which had just opened at the Regent Theatre for an indefinite run at increased admissions, had made a hit of unusual proportions. The reviews were splendid and the attendance capacity.

Toronto and the surrounding territory was billed extensively and the Canadian premiere of the picture is gaining widespread publicity throughout the Dominion.

"The Lost World" Serialization

More than 300 daily newspapers throughout the United States and Canada are serializing in weekly or daily instalments of "The Lost World," as well as "Enticement" and "Playing With Souls," which First National has offered through their syndicate division, under the direction of Allan S. Glenn, Supervisor of Exploitation.

A check-book on circulation figures shows that these serials reach more than 8,000,000 persons, which embraces a territory of 80,000,000, according to Robert K. Kyle, syndicate editor of First National Pictures.

Thus far, only daily newspapers have been listed as clients, but before the picture is released to other than the key cities, these smaller town weeklies will have come into the fold, perhaps doubling the circulation possibilities.

Many novel and advanced methods of advertising the serial have been used. In Baltimore, Guy L. Wonders, manager of the Rivoli Theatre, inserted in his usual weekly program a four-page advertisement announcing the serialization in the "Baltimore Post," and the first chapter of the novel by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, along with an excerpt from the most thrilling episode in the story in the tenth chapter.

The "Philadelphia Record" advertised "The Lost World" on its delivery trucks and on each newsstand in the city.

W. K. Hollander, of the Balaban and Katz Theatres, in Chicago, effected an arrangement with the "Chicago Daily News" whereby the serial will be advertised by the theatre showing "The Lost World," and in turn the News will advertise the picture at a later date in Chicago.

The "Boston Traveler" and the "Pittsburgh Press" are other large metropolitan journals which have used these First National serials and have advertised them extensively.

Shown in Air, Over London

For the first time in history a huge airplane was fitted up as a motion picture theatre to introduce First National's picture, "The Lost World," to British exhibitors and the London public. It was arranged by Ralph Pugh, general manager of First National, Ltd., in London, as an exploitation stunt in connection with the trade showing of the film.

On Tuesday, April 7th, the huge airplane flew over London, carrying representatives of the principal newspapers, for whom the screen version of "The Lost World" was shown while they were in the air.

The demonstration, which was originated by First National's London executives, was carried out in conjunction with the Imperial Airways, Limited, which is subsidized by the British Government.

The flight was witnessed by tens of thousands of persons on the streets in all parts of London. The newspapers played the stunt up big and it quickly became one of the chief topics of conversation in the city, assuring a big success for the production when it comes to be shown publicly in London. The news agencies carried reports of the screening of the picture while in the air, resulting in world-wide publicity for "The Lost World."

Richard Dix, Paramount Star (center—hat in hand), with his director, Paul Sloane (second from Dix to the left) and his "heavy," Walter Long, to Richard's right, taken from the top landing of the new New York Telephone Building, in "Down-Town" New York, where many thrilling scenes for "The Shock Punch," the forthcoming Dix feature, were photographed. Cameras, Sun-Light, Arcs, electricians, and heads of the A. T. T. Co., are shown on the dizzy heights of the rising skyscraper.

Scenes from "Mock Marriage" which is an F. B. O. release

Film Booking Offices Proud of Production Achievements

ALREADY engaged on its new $5,500,000 program of production for the new year, which looms ahead with brightest signs of prosperity, Film Booking Offices of America view with pride their achievemnets of the past season in point of showmanship, expansion of sales throughout the world and production.

Among the outstanding productions made by F. B. O. during the last several months under the general supervision of B. P. Fineman, general manager, and which are being withheld for release in the autumn, together with other big F. B. O. features, are such productions as "Drusilla With a Million," produced by Associated Arts Corporation, and "Parisian Nights," produced by Gothic Productions.

These pictures, according to F. B. O. executives who have previewed them on the coast, will stand forth as two of the strongest box-office attractions made by any company during the year. "Drusilla With a Million," based on the widely read novel of that title by Elizabeth Cooper, was directed by F. Harmon Weight. In the cast are Mary Carr, Kenneth Harlan, Priscilla Bonner and others and the work of Mrs. Carr in the role of the old lady inmate of a charity home, who inherits a million dollars, is regarded as one of the finest bits of character portrayal recorded this year.

"Parisian Nights" was directed by Al Santell, who made such memorable productions as "Lights Out" and "Fools in the Dark" for F. B. O. Elaine Hammerstein and Lou Tellegen are starred in this production, which depicts the vivid story of a young artist's adventures in the Apache underworld of Paris. Unusual scenic effects high light the production, it is stated.

Another notable achievement of the F. B. O. production forces during the year was the creation of "Vanity's Price," already released. Anna Q. Nilsson was starred in this production based on an original story by Paul Bern and directed by R. William Neil.

Among the other outstanding specials was "On the Stroke of Three," another Associated Arts release also directed by Mr. Weight, and based on the Saturday Evening Post story, "The Man from Ashaluna."

Still another achievement received with interest by hundreds of exhibitors, was the success of the Evelyn Brent series. Five productions, chiefly of the crook melodrama type, have already been produced. Miss Brent is now engaged on her sixth vehicle, a melodrama of the underworld, tentatively called "The Chatterbox," based on Bayard Veiller's stage play of that name.

Fred Thomson rose to the heights of stardom under F. B. O. auspices during the last year. Already he has added new laurels by making two stirring Westerns at the F. B. O. Studios, "Thundering Hoofs" and "That Devil Quemado." Fred is now filming "The Bandit's Baby" and is wearing gracefully the honors he won so swiftly last season as a box-office attraction.

Lefty Flynn, in Western productions, won high success under the banner of Glove Productions. Now this erstwhile Yale hero is being featured in a series of eight comedy dramas, similar to those in which the late Wallie Reid won fame. Flynn is now at work on "High and Handsome," by Gerald Beaumont, and which appeared in the Red Book Magazine. Harry Garson directs the Flynn features.

Another young star who enjoyed prosperity last year under F. B. O. auspices was Richard Talmadge, who has just signed a new long term contract with the company by the terms of which the stunt king becomes a producer in his own right. He is now filming "The Fighting Demon."

Other series of Westerns are being produced with Bob Custer and Yakima Canutt in the leading roles. And the new season's program provides for such notable attractions as "Her Father's Daughter," based on the novel by Gene Stratton-Porter, and a series of novels by Laura Jean Libbey.

F. B. O. also strengthened its position in the two-reel series "featurette" field last season with "The Go-Getters," by H. C. Witwer, and now are producing Mr. Witwer's latest series, "The Pacemakers," co-starring George O'Hara and Alberta Vaughn.

"Broken Laws," starring Mrs. Wallie Reid, and made by the late Thomas H. Ince for F. B. O., as well as Gene Stratton-Porter's "Girl of the Limberlost" were among F. B. O.'s biggest box-office successes in the season now fading out.

Scenes from "Scar Hanan," an F. B. O. picture starring Yakima Can tt.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer One Year Old; Big Production Feature Anniversary

WITH the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization one year old this week, the company is celebrating its first birthday since the merger of April 17 last by the greatest production activity in th history of the combined organizations.

In the year that has passed since Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corporation and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation were formed, this combined distributing and producing organization has advanced to a place in the front ranks of the industry.

Considering that the merged organization is only twelve months old, and that considerable readjustment has necessarily been going on throughout this period, the results Metro-Goldwyn picturse have shown consistently at the box-office are considered in film circles little short of phenomenal. On the strength of what Metro-Goldwyn has accomplished already, some exhibitors predict that the coming season will see this company unquestionably at the top of the field.

Marcus Loew, president of Loew's, Inc., and of Metro-Goldwyn, stated this week that his company is looking for "success that will astound the motion picture industry" next season.

"I think Metro-Goldwyn has proven beyond doubt by its record this season that it is the qualified leader of the industry," Mr. Loew said. "One hit after another, week after week, month after month, such as Metro-Goldwyn has had, is a feat that has not been equalled by any company before. Under the leadership of Louis B. Mayer, Harry Rapf and Irving G. Thalberg, our studio has successively made pictures that have met every test a picture can be put to and have come through with colors flying. 'He Who Gets Slapped,' 'The Great Divide,' 'Excuse Me,' 'The Navigator,' 'Greed,' 'Janice Meredith,' 'So This Is Marriage,' 'Yolanda,' 'His Hour'—who can point to a list of such pictures as that?"

Statement by Major Bowes

Major Edward Bowes, vice-president of Metro-Goldwyn, stated that the present production activity at the company's Culver City studios is the greatest on the West Coast.

"Ten of our own units are now working at Culver City," Major Bowes said, "and in addition Rex Ingram's company is hard at work on 'Mare Nostrum' aboard. Metro-Goldwyn can assure exhibitors that next season will witness from this company the greatest line-up of box-office product that they have ever had an opportunity to play."

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer units now at work on the West Coast, according to special advices from Louis B. Mayer, vice-president in charge of production, are "Ben Hur," being directed by Fred Niblo; Monta Bell's "Pretty Ladies," King Vidor's "The Big Parade," Marshall Neilan's "Patsy," Reginald Barker's "The White Desert," Rupert Hughes's "The Rebellious Girl," directed by Alf Goulding; Robert Z. Leonard's "Time the Comedian," Edmund Goulding's "Wrath," Hobart Henley's "Nothing to Wear" and Tod Browning's "The Mystic." Others are now in the cutting room and further productions are due to be started.

"With the finest equipped studio in the world and a producing organization such as we have today, I am confident that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures the coming season will set a new mark for box-office hits," Mr. Mayer said this week. "We have under contract stars and featured players who have provde themselves the past season the biggest 'draws' in the business, and directors who are showmen, who know how to make box-office pictures.

"That's the important thing Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is remembering. We're making pictures to sell. We started out a year ago with the intention of making our product box-office proof and we're going ahead with bigger plans than ever before. We've been steadily building up our producing organization in every department to a point where its efficiency is such as to enable us to give exhibitors pictures that will contribute greatly toward making next season the most prosperous in the history, not alone of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer but of the whole industry."

Working on "Ben Hur"

Chief among the productions now under way at Culver City is Fred Niblo's "Ben Hur," most of which has been produced in Italy and which is now being completed on the West Coast. Director Niblo is now at work on the Nativity scenes, in which Betty Bronson plays the part of the Madonna. Ramon Novarro has the title role in this mammoth picturization of the famous Lew Wallace novel and play, which is being produced by arrangement with A. L. Erlanger. Betty Bronson, May McAvoy, Francis X. Bushman, Carmel Meyers, Nigel de Brulier, Frank Currier, Kathleen Key, Mitchell Lewis and others are in the cast.

Reginald Barker has returned from his location trip to Colorado, where he filmed exteriors for "The White Desert," by Courtney Riley Cooper, and is now at work on interior scenes with Pat O'Malley and Claire Windsor in the leading roles. Frank Currier, Robert Frazer, William Eugene, Roy Laidlaw, David Dunbar and Sojin are also in the cast.

The entire amusement concession at Venice, the Coney Island of California, has been rented for scenes of Rupert Hughes's "The Rebellious Girl." Alf Goulding is directing this picture with Sally O'Neil in the title role. The cast thus far includes John Patrick, Jame Morrison, DeWitt Jennings, Ethel Wales, Buddy Messinger, Bert Roach, Estelle Clark, Ella McKenzie and Evelyn Peirce.

More than half of "Time the Comedian" has been finished by Robert Z. Leonard. Mae Busch and Lew Cody have the leading roles in this Kate Jordan story, and are supported by Gertrude Olmstead, Rae Ethelyn, Nellie Parker Spaulding, Roy Stewart, George Periolat, Lillian Langdon, Andre Deberanger, Gertrude Bennett, Shannon Day and Frank Elliott.

Norma Shearer's New Picture

Marvelous gowns are being worn by Norma Shearer in "Nothing to Wear," the Samuel Shipman story which Hobart Henley is directing, with Lew Cody, Mary Carr, Miss Du Pont, Estelle Clarke and Vivia Ogden in the cast. Marshall Neilan reports that "Patsy," the picture he is producing from his own story with Sally O'Neil in the leading role, is almost completed. William Haines are in the cast.

Exteriors of "Wrath," the picturization of the Lula Vollmer stage success, "Sun-Up," are now being made by Edmund Goulding in the Tehachepi mountains. Conrad Nagel and Pauline Starke play opposite each other in this picture and head a cast that includes Lucille LaVerne, George K. Arthur, Sam De Grasse, William Orlamond and Arthur Rankin.

ZaSu Pitts has the best role in her career in "Pretty Ladies," the Adela Rogers St. Johns story which Monta Bell is directing. Bell is now staging lavish and spectacular sequences for which a special theatre has been built on the lot. Miss Pitts plays a Follies comedienne and has Tom Moore for her leading man. Gwen Lee, Paul Ellis, Lucille Lesueur, Bernard Randall, Betty Kopa Lanoff and others are in the cast.

King Vidor has just begun work on "The Big Parade," by Lawrence Stallings, author of "What Price Glory." John Gilbert and Renee Adoree have the leading roles in this promising picture. Work has also just begun on "The Mystic," which Tod Browning is directing from his own story, with Aileen Pringle and Conway Tearle in the leading roles.

"Mare Nostrum" (Our Sea), which Rex Ingram is producing abroad, is a picturization of the Blasco Ibanez novel, adapted to the screen by Willis Goldbeck. Antonio Moreno and Alice Terry have the leading roles and are supported by Millie Impolito, Hughie Mack and John George.

M. P. T. O. A.
INDEPENDENTS MEET INDEPENDENTS
in MILWAUKEE
May 12, 13 and 14
VITAGRAPH
ALBERT E. SMITH PRESIDENT

London Hails Mix and Tony; Fox Stars Accorded Honors

DASHING TOM MIX and his satin-coated co-actor, Tony, the Wonder Horse, have captured London.

After spending a week in New York, the intrepid Fox Film Corporation actor-horseman embarked on the Aquitania and reached London on April 14.

Seated astride the prancing Tony, and waving his huge white sombrero, the picturesque Mix was accorded a reception in the British capital that was a veritable triumph. Leading officials of the British Empire seemingly appreciated the fact that the spectacular visit of so popular and virile an American as Tom Mix could not but further cement international friendships.

Unusual courtesies were extended to the cowboy star. He was received at the Houses of Parliament, where he chatted with British statesmen who are making political history just as he is making motion picture history.

In Hyde Park, where royalty and the commons of England exercise, Mix and Tony caused as great a sensation, as they did in Central Park, New York. After putting Tony through his paces, to the great delight of children and grownups alike, Mix gave a demonstration of Western roping and marksmanship.

This is National Tom Mix Week in England. Ever since Mix arrived, all the biggest motion picture houses in London have been devoting their programs to Tom Mix pictures. One of the favorites is "Dick Turpin," in which Mix impersonates the chivalrous highwayman of merrie old England, but the western pictures also continue to gain in popularity.

Wherever Mix goes in London, he attracts attention because of his magnetic personality and his picturesque western costume. He has been visiting many of the haunts made famous by Dick Turpin.

Mix's visits to New York and London, capitals of the great English-speaking countries of the New and Old Worlds, have been gratifying because they have proved to him that he has gained a very high place in the affection of the people. Large crowds gathered to greet him in both cities.

In a London restaurant Mix was highly amused to find the hat check girl proudly exhibiting his big white sombrero to thirty interested patrons and gasping her firm belief "that the tall man with the broad smile and the little patent leather boots who owned that hat must be Tom Mix and no other."

GIBSON GOWLAND

This sterling actor won renown in Metro-Goldwyn's "Greed," but he has been a ripping good actor for lo! these many years.

Noted Additions to Cast of "The Happy Warrior"

RECRUITING of the personnel for the cast of A. S. M. Hutchinson's "The Happy Warrior," which J. Stuart Blackton has started to make for Vitagraph, is progressing. Vitagraph announced recently the addition of three more popular players, Wilfrid North, Eulailie Jensen and Otto Matiesen.

Miss Jensen has been cast for Lady Burdon, the death of whose grandson causes unexpected complications in the heirship to a noble line. Eulalie Jensen was with Vitagraph nearly five years in the old stock company days, and since has been in such successes as "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," and "Rags to Riches," while she has important parts also in the current offerings, "Charley's Aunt," with Sydney Chaplin, and "The Thundering Herd," with Jack Holt.

Wilfrid North will impersonate Mr. Lethem, whose son, in the Hutchinson story, appears for a time to be the legitimate heir to the title. He was the Colonel Bishop of "Captain Blood" and the J. Rufus Wallingford of "The Son of Wallingford." Mr. North also was in "On Thin Ice," which lately had its premiere.

Otto Matiesen will appear as Egbert Hunt. Mr. Matiesen played Chief Justice Jeffreys in Vitagraph's "Captain Blood," produced by David Smith, after having represented the same character in "Scaramouche," also by Rafael Sabatini. Previously, he played in "Vanity Fair," "The Thief" and "The Dangerous Maid" among other offerings, and he was prominent in "The Salvation Hunters."

A scene from Johnny Hines' latest, "The Crackerjack," produced by East Coat Films, Inc., in which the mirth-making film comedian is supported by Sigrid Holmquist

Another Sheik Discovered

Warner Brothers believe they have discovered another "sheik" for feminine hearts to flutter over. He is Don Alvarado, a young Spaniard, who has had a little stage and picture experience and who has been developed quietly by the Warners in an endeavor to find out whether he had the requisites for stellar screen honors. After grooming him for several months, the firm believes he has and have signed the young man to a long term contract. Alvarado was discovered in the way every extra who steps on a set hopes to have a chance.

Records for "Sally"

Colleen Moore's Current First National Comedy a Genuine "Hit."

"Sally," First National's current Colleen Moore production, is making a host of new friends for the star. The picture was shown in seventy-five important key city points last week, and will be shown in at least that many more next week. First National has received most glowing reports on "Sally" from exhibitors in all sections of the country.

Miss Moore has stacked up some pretty high attendance records with her past productions, but "Sally" has brought out bigger attendances than any other of her pictures. The public has found the picture, the star and her mastery of comedy acting, entirely to its liking. "Sally" was released only last week. That it will have played between 150 and 200 of the most important key city points within three weeks of its release speaks volumes for its entertainment value.

The excellence of this showing is due mostly to the merit of the picture, but partly to the wide-spread publicity given to it by First National through its advertisements in The Saturday Evening Post and through the regular trade channels.

First National's distribution department predicts that "Sally" will not only be the biggest booker of any Colleen Moore picture but one of the biggest money-makers in its Leader group of releases.

"French Lon Chaney" Signed

Jacques ("Jack") Chefé Will Be Offered by M. H. Karper as a "Find."

Jacques Chefé, the French character actor, for many years with Sarah Bernhardt, and a distinguished soldier in the World War, has been signed by M. H. Karper, of M. H. Karper Productions, and his services will be available at once. Jacques (known far and wide as "Jack"—a name that clings) has played so many, and such varied, roles that he is known in French and American circles as "The Man of a Thousand Faces," and also as "The Lon Chaney of France."

It is stated that efforts were made by Mr. Karper, and other producers, on the occasion of the last American tour of Madame Bernhardt, to sign M. Chefé to a motion picture contract, but the actor's contracts made this impossible at that time. M. Chefé served on General Preshing's staff at Great Headquarters in France, during the war.

When commenting on his newest contract, Mr. Karper said: During my ten years in motion picture work I have never met a greater character actor than Jack Chefé. I am offering him as the greatest motion picture discovery of the last decade. There is no doubt about his tremendous value to the screen."

"Everyman's Wife"

Elaine Hammerstein to Have Leading Role in Fox Special

Elaine Hammerstein has the leading role in "Everyman's Wife," the last Fox Film Corporation special for release this season, to be put in work at the West Coast Studios of the company.

Herbert Rawlinson has the male lead in this production, which will be directed by Maurice Elvey. Robert Cain has been selected for the "heavy" part, with Dorothy Phillips and Diana Miller playing important character roles.

Richard Bennett, Madge Kennedy and Niles Welch as they appear in a vital scene from "Lying Wives," Ivan Abramson's latest production.

New F. B. O. Series

Hellman and Witwer Will Shortly Start on Featurettes.

Increased production in the short reel field of featurettes made popular by F. B. O.'s "Fighting Blood," "Telephone Girl" and "Pacemakers" series is announced in the statement by Vice-president J. I. Schnitzer that this active independent organization has obtained the rights to two new series of popular magazine stories from each of which twelve new two reelers will shortly be begun.

Sam Hellman has been signed to do one of the new series for F. B. O., according to Mr. Schnitzer, who has just arrived in Hollywood on a flying trip from New York. The title of the series has tentatively been selected as "Push and Pep," and the starring combination of George O'Hara and Alberta Vaughn will be used, together with Al Cooke, Kit Guard and other featured players of "The Pacemakers." Work on this series will be started in the near future on the F. B. O. lot.

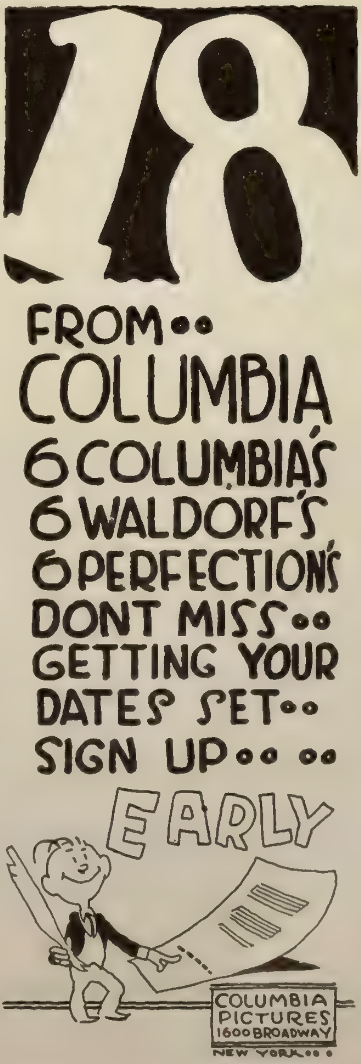
H. C. Witwer will be the author of the second new series. His stories in the Cosmopolitan Magazine are to be used, with Alberta Vaughn as the probable star.

Next Gasnier Picture

Schulberg Selects Eleven Popular Players for Zona Gale's Novel, "Faint Perfume"

B. P. Schulberg announces that eleven popular players will make up the cast of his next Gasnier production, "Faint Perfume," a screen adaptation of Zona Gale's popular book.

Alyce Mills, a recent Schulberg find, will be seen in the leading feminine role. Other principals will be Seena Owen, William Powell, Mary Alden, Russell Simpson, Philo McCullough, Jacqueline Saunders, Betty Francisco, Lee Moran, Joan Standing and Dickie Brandon.



18
FROM•• COLUMBIA
6 COLUMBIA'S
6 WALDORF'S
6 PERFECTION'S
DONT MISS•• GETTING YOUR DATES SET••
SIGN UP•• ••
EARLY
COLUMBIA PICTURES
1600 BROADWAY
NEW YORK•••

"Can't you take a joke?" squeaked Georgie Grandee. It is evidenced that Jack Hoxie, in whose support he is seen, "can't." A scene from "The Trouble Buster," a Universal production.

Langdon and Tryon Leaders On Pathe April 26 Program

PRODUCTIONS featuring Harry Langdon, Glenn Tryon and Charley Chase represent the comedy portion of the Pathe releasing program for the week of April 26. The title of the Mack Sennett-Harry Langdon comedy is "Remember When?" Glenn Tryon is to be seen in "Hold My Baby," while the Hal Roach-Charley Chase comedy offering is called "Big Red Riding Hood." In addition to these, the program features an exciting and dramatic chapter of the Patheserial, "Idaho."

In the Hal Roach comedy, "Hold My Baby," Glenn Tryon sharse the comedy honors with Jackie Hanes, the six-months-old comedy find of F. Richard Jones. The picture was directed by James W. Horne and carries Blanche Mehaffey in the principal supporting role. Those heading the cast of supporting players are Edward Porter, Jules Mendel, Al Hallett and Helen Gilmore.

Harry Edwards is responsible for the direction of the Mack Sennett-Harry Langdon comedy, "Remember When?" which is said to be one of the best productions this screen comedian has made. The story was written by Arthur Ripley and Clyde Bruckman and concerns a romance between Harry Langdon and the bearded lady of the circus. The supporting cast is headed by Natalie Kingston and Vernon Dent.

A strong cast of comedy players supports Charley Chase in his Hal Roach comedy, "Big Red Riding Hood." Heading this cast are Martha Sleeper, Helen Gilmore, Richard Daniels, Leo Willis, Jack Ackroyd and Jack O'Brien. Leo McCarey handled the direction.

In chapter No. 9 of the Patheserial "Idaho," entitled "Unmasked," the mystery of the bandit leader with the streak of white in his hair is revealed. Pathe Review No. 17 carries three interesting subjects. The first is a film story on the raising of tobacco in the Connecticut Valley. The second is an installment of the "Secrets of Nature" series showing how the salmon reaches its spawning bed. The third presents views of Philadelphia in Pathecolor in the "Visiting Our Own America" series. Topics of the Day No. 17 and Pathe News Nos. 36 and 37 complete the Pathe program for the week of April 26. The title of Aesop's Film Fables for the week is "Deep Stuff"

Rush "Manhattan Madness"; Dempsey Stages Exhibition

MR. AND MRS. MRS. JACK DEMPsey (Estelle Taylor) and their producing company have returned to Hollywood from location at Chattsworth, Calif., where they were making scenes for the forthcoming Associated Exhibitors production, "Manhattan Madness."

One of the first things the champion did on this return was to stage a benefit boxing exhibition which was attended by some 40,000 U. S. sailors, members of the big Pacific fleet, which has been mobilized for an attack on the Philippine Islands. The Los Angeles Coliseum was jammed to the doors and thousands of dollars poured into the gate as a result of the undefeated fighter's appearance. Bull Montana, who is taking a role in the Dempsey production, was also on the program.

Work on "Manhattan Madness" is going along rapidly under the direction of John McDemott. One of the biggest sets erected on the Selig lot in many months is in the course of construction. This is a replica of one of New York's most famous exclusive clubs.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey the cast of "Manhattan Madness" includes such well known screen players as Bull Montana, George Siegman, Frank Campeau, Nelson McDowell, Theodore Lorch, Bill Franey and Glenn Cavender. The camera work is being handled by Jules Cronjager. The entire production is being produced under the personal suprevision of Oscar Price.

"In the Name of Love" Completed

Howard Higgin's first production under his new contract with Paramount, "In the Name of Love," has been completed and is going through the process of final editing and cutting.

"In the Name of Love" features Ricardo Cortez, Greta Nissen, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton.

This picture marks the debut on the screen of Greta Nissen, beautiful Norse actress who is the most recent discovery of Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, in charge of production.

Woodman Spare That Limb! That's what Lucy Fox said to Ben Lyon, shown here in a scene from "The Necessary Evil" which George Archainbaud is directing for First National, with Ben and Viola Dana in the co-featured roles.

Metro-Goldwyn's New Trackless Train Proves Sensational Exploitation Stunt

METRO-GOLDWYN will inaugurate the most intensive promotion drive in the history of motion pictures for 1925 and 1926, and the first gun in its big campaign is an exploitation stunt that for daring and attention value will mark an epoch in the career of the ballyhoo. Through the negotiation of Major Edward Bowes, vice-president of the Metro-Goldwyn Company, and his two chiefs on public relations, Howard Dietz and Eddie Bonns, the first trackless transcontinental locomotive and Pullman train will begin its journey from New York to Los Angeles, starting on May 1.

This train was built especially for Metro-Goldwyn, purchased by Major Bowes, and has just arrived in New York from its first triumphant trial journey from Indianapolis, under the pilotage of Eddie Bonns, director of exploitation.

Since the "Metro-Goldwyn Special," as the first trackless train is called, left Indianapolis on March 31, the 100-horsepower motor train has proved a sensation. Equipped with a complete locomotive, tender, Pullman car with dining and sleeping accommodations for five persons, and observation platform, Metro-Goldwyn's trackless train has met with a reception which indicates that the national publicity accruing to Metro-Goldwyn's product next season, which the train is exploiting, will surpass all that could be gained by any other existing advertising medium.

The trackless train is capable of a speed of thirty miles an hour, with the ingenious locomotive complete in every detail and equipped with all necessary safety devices for safe highway transportation. The Pullman car, accommodating five passengers, is luxuriously appointed and is equipped with kitchenette and buffet. It is lighted, heated and ventilated electrically, has hot and cold running water and has radio equipment for entertainment. It is capable of traveling under its own power or being coupled with the locomotive, as shown in the photograph.

The observation platform is one of the remarkable innovations in motor transportation. It is furnished with lounge chairs and permits of unobstructed scenic observation.

"Metro-Goldwyn Pictures" is lettered on the front of the engine and on the sides of the tender and Pullman car, with special attention called to the company's fifty-two pictures. This is also blazoned on the rear of the observation platform. The engineer of the train wears Metro-Goldwyn insignia.

The crew carries an extensive supply of advertising and exploitation material, including Metro-Goldwyn buttons, used with extraordinary effectiveness throughout the long route.

Metro-Goldwyn's trackless train departed from Indianapolis on the last day of March after being host to Mayor Shank. On the observation platform the Mayor was driven about the town while motion pictures were taken of the crowds that thronged around the train on its whole route.

Along the route from Indianapolis to Dayton, Ohio, which was reached on the same day, a continual line of people gathered to marvel at the trackless train. In the smaller towns telephone operators 'phoned their subscribers announcing the coming of the "Metro-Goldwyn Special." Schools were dismissed along the road in order that the children might see this twentieth century wonder.

The populace of Richmond, advised of the approach of Metro-Goldwyn's trackless train, turned out in such force that it was necessary for four motorcycle policemen to escort the train into the city, where crowds lined the curb a half dozen deep. At Dayton, a police escort met the "Metro-Goldwyn Special" and escorted it around the business section of the city, with the mobs of people literally amazed at this phenomenon of a train that moved without tracks.

The entire plant of the National Cash Register Company suspended work for twenty minutes, at a cost of $4,000 to the company, that the 6,500 employes might see this evidence of progressive business exploitation. The National Cash Register firm took motion pictures of the trackless train when it was driven through the grounds of the plant, with officials of the company guests on the observation platform.

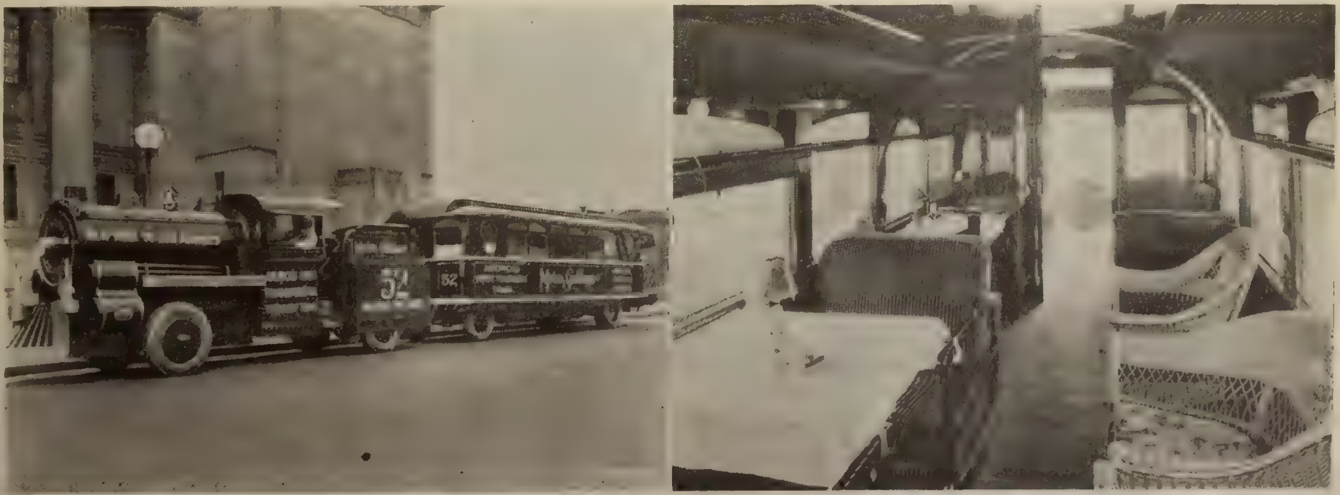
Metro-Goldwyn's trackless train left Dayton on April 1, with the line of spectators along the route to Cincinnati that had marked its progress since it left Indianapolis. At Hamilton, Ohio, the town turned out for the event, with city officials personally waiting to welcome the "Special."

The trackless train reached Cincinnati at 5 p. m. that day, when the streets were crowded. Traffic laws forbid parades or street advertising in the city, but special permission was given the "Metro-Goldwyn Special" to tour the principal streets of Cincinnati the following morning, with the route continuously lined by curious throngs.

The "Metro-Goldwyn Special" returned to Dayton that day, arriving in the city at 6 p. m., and for two hours attracted great crowds to Loew's Dayton Theatre which had previously advertised that the trackless train would be exhibited in front of the theatre.

The "Metro-Goldwyn Special" reached Columbus, Ohio, April 3, on schedule time, and calling at the executive mansion of Governor Donahey Friday morning, drove him and a party of newspaper men to the Capitol. This drive of two miles so impressed Governor Donahey that for another hour he was driven about the city, responding to the cheers from attendant crowds by waving his hat from the observation platform. The Governor was photographed in the cab of the engine.

At Zanesville, Cambridge, Wheeling, W. Va., Pittsburgh, Pa., and other places enroute the reception of Metro-Goldwyn's trackless train was equally sensational.



On the left is America's first Trackless Train, the "Metro-Goldwyn Special," ready to start its transcontinental trip beginning in Indianapolis. The remarkable train is shown here in front of the Indianapolis Public Library. On the right, complete in every detail, is the Pullman Car of Metro-Goldwyn's Trackless Train, the first in the world. It has sleeping and dining accommodations for five passengers, and is equipped with kitchenette and buffet. It is lighted, heated and ventilated electrically, has hot and cold running water, and radio equipment for entertainment. It is capable of travelling under its own power or being coupled with the locomotive. The "Metro-Goldwyn Special" is now on its first transcontinental trip from Indianapolis to New York and thence to Los Angeles. It is in the charge of Eddie Bonns, exploitation director of Metro-Goldwyn Distributing Corporation.

New Hutchison Series

Charles Hutchison, known to the fans as "Hurricane Hutch," will shortly start production on a new series entitled "Hutch of the Secret Service." He will make four other titles of which are "Pirate of the Sky," "The Wrong Man," "Under Arrest" and "The Battler," all of which will be big five part to six part features packed with thrilling stunts with big supporting casts of well known people. The setting will be elaborate and in keeping with each theme. They will be released by the William Steiner Productions.

New Universal Serial

Universal Pictures Corporation has purchased Arthur B. Reeve's popular boy's story, "The Radio Detective." It will be made into a Universal serial in ten chapters. "The Radio Detective" was published in Boys' Life, the official publication of the Boy Scouts. Due to the fact that the locations in the story are mostly on Long Island and in New York City, and due to the proximity of Boy Scout headquarters in New York, it is likely that Universal will produce this serial in the east.

Start on Libbey Story

April 15 will mark the beginning of work on the first Laura Jean Libbey story ever to reach the screen, according to an announcement from Film Booking Offices at their Hollywood studios. It will be "When His Love Grew Cold." Casting has not yet begun, but it is understood that two players of high reputation will portray the leading roles. The production will be made under the general supervision of B. P. Fineman.

Warners Buy "Bunker Bean"

"Bunker Bean," the novel of a decade ago by Harry Leon Wilson, author of "Merton of the Movies," "Cameo Kirby" and other stories that have been adapted to the screen, has just been purchased by Warner Bros. as part of their forty pictures to be made during the 1925-26 season. This story will be used as a vehicle for Matt Moore and Dorothy Devore.

Added to Cast

Claire du Brey, Robert J. Graves, Charles ("Buddy") Post, and Dan Mason are new additions to the cast of Josef von Sternberg's first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Escape." This is Alden Brook's novel adapted by von Sternberg and Alice D. G. Miller with Conrad Nagel, Renee Adoree, Paulette Duval, Helena D'Algy, George K. Arthur and Frank Currier in leading roles.

Moss Books "White Man"

B. P. Schulberg's Gasnier production, "White Man," adapted from George Agnew Chamberlain's novel, has been booked by B. S. Moss and will have its first New York presentation at the Broadway Theatre next week. In this jungle romance, Alice Joyce returns to the screen supported by Kenneth Harlan and Walter Long.

To Adapt "Plastic Age"

Frederica Sagor has been selected by B. P. Schulberg for the important task of transferring to the screen Percy Marks' novel, "The Plastic Age," the big seller of last year, which is conspicuous among the stories that will be on the fall schedule of B. P. Schulberg Productions. Miss Sagor was formerly eastern scenario editor for Universal.

MILTON SILLS
Here we have "The Sea Hawk" as a cop in First National's "The Making of O'Malley"

Signs Lupino Lane

The first interesting announcement of Educational's production plans for next season was made public last week when E. W. Hammons, president of that organization, announced that he had contracted with the noted English stage comedian, Lupino Lane, for a series of six two-reel comedies to be produced in Los Angeles the coming season. They will probably be known as "Lupino Lane Comedies" and will be produced at the new studio just acquired from Principal Pictures.

Wynn Made Business Manager

John Wynn, English film man, has been appointed business manager of Elinor Glyn, Ltd., in charge of the author's motion picture affairs.

Mr. Wynn has arrived in New York from the coast to attend the opening at the Capitol of Mrs. Glyn's Metro-Goldwyn picture, "Man and Maid." He is stopping at the Biltmore.

"The Texas Bearcat" Completed

"The Texas Bearcat" will be Bob Custer's next Texas Ranger release for Film Booking Offices of America. Work was completed on this feature a few days ago under the supervision of Jesse Goldburg, with William Craft directing. Custer will begin work in a few days on another Texas Ranger story, the title of which has not yet been announced.

New Aubrey Picture

Jimmy Aubrey, who is making a series of two-reel comedies for Standard Cinema Corporation and F. B. O. release, in the studio that formerly housed the Fox Film Corporation at 130 West 46th Street, New York, is busily at work on his eighth production titled "Meet the Ambassador." "Meet the Ambassador" will be released on May 17th.

Writes Musical Score

Victor Schertzinger has written the musical score for "Zander the Great," the new Marion Davies picture which will be presented in New York the first week in May.

"Let Not Man Put Asunder"

Vitagraph's "Let Not Man Put Asunder," J. Stuart Blackton's picturization of the Basil King novel, had its release nearly a year ago but continues to attract a heavy booking demand and to draw large houses. When a run was in progress in Amsterdam, N. Y., a few weeks ago, the Record of that city said: "The old S. R. O. sign flashed last night at the Strand, where Pauline Frederick and Lou Tellegen were seen in 'Let Not Man Put Asunder.' The vast throng enjoyed the picture hugely as was made evident by the enthusiastic lobby comment at the close."

Work on New "Pacemakers"

Wesley Ruggles and his "Pacemakers" company, co-starring George O'Hara and Alberta Vaughn are hard at work on Episode six of the new H. C. Witwer series which F. B. O. has scheduled as its best short reel bet for the new season. Ruggles had the company on location at Pomona for a few days this week shooting some college scenes. Al Cooke and Kit Guard, comedians, and Stanley Taylor, juvenile heavy, continue in the cast. There will be twelve episodes.

Production Started

Louis Weiss, managing director of Weiss Brothers' Artclass Pictures Corporation, who distributes the Buffalo Bill, Jr. and Buddy Roosevelt series of high-class action-stunt features in the Independent field, announces that camera work has been started on the first feature starring Wally Wales, the "cowboy prince," who is to headline another series of eight, fast moving, five-reel acrobatic-stunt thrillers for the Artclass program. Tom Gibson is directing.

Will Direct "Bandit's Baby"

B. P. Fineman, general manager of Film Booking Offices studios, has announced the engagement of James Hogan as director for Fred Thomson in the latter's next Western production for F. B. O. It will be titled "The Bandit's Baby" and is based on an original story by Leete Renick Brown. Mr. Hogan has recently distinguished himself by directing a number of successful productions for Schulberg and other producers in Hollywood.

Next for Lefty Flynn

Lefty Flynn and Harry Garson, star and producer of Globe Productions now at work on "Speed Wild," a comedy drama by H. H. Van Loan for F. B. O., will shortly begin work on his fifth production for the distribution organization. It will be Gerald Beaumont's Red Book story, "High and Handsome" in which Lefty will portray the role of a romantic "harness bull," otherwise a detective in citizen's clothes.

Start Work on New Film

With a strong supporting cast, Irene Rich and Huntly Gordon started work at the Warner Bros. studio this week on "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted," under the direction of James Flood. This is an adaptation of the novel by Gertie Wentworth James, and in it Miss Rich will have a strong dramatic role along the lines of those that have lifted her to popularity.

Seldes With Sawyer-Lubin

After observing and writing about the moving picture for more than ten years, Gilbert Seldes has taken charge of the Sawyer-Lubin scenario department.

Seven Wright Novels Remain For Picturing by Principal

IT is understood that Principal Pictures still has seven Harold Bell Wright novels to produce for the screen, and news of the popular writer of the "best-sellers" of our day writing future stories for other companies will in no way effect the schedule planned by Irving and Sol Lesser.

In the first place, the books now in the hands of the Lessers cover a period of nearly ten years and include some of Wright's greatest work. Among the novels yet to be brought to the screen via Principal are "The Winning of Barbara Worth," "Calling of Dan Mathews," "That Printer of Udells," "Their Yesterdays," "Shepard of the Hills" and "Eyes of the World." No other company will have one of Wright's stories until his present one, "The Son of His Father," now running serially in McCall's Magazine, is published in book form.

Wright's record has never been more than one book a year, and in some instances there have been stretches of two years between books. Meanwhile, plans are under way by Irving and Sol Lesser to produce "The Winning of Barbara Worth" on the West Coast, and it will probably cost nearly $500,000.

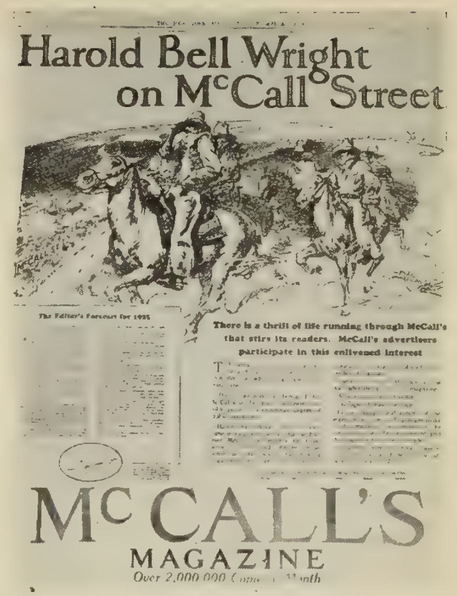
Not so long ago McCall's Magazine, with its circulation of over 2,000,000 copies a month, instituted a tremendous campaign in behalf of Harold Bell Wright. Full page spreads in newspapers in every large city were resorted to, and according to Phillip Wyman, an official of McCall's, a fortune is and will be expended in carrying the name of Wright into every nook and cranny in the country. This is not only paving the way for his new novel but is heavily publicising his already published works, such as those that have already and will eventually be produced in time by Principal.

Not so long ago Irving Harlow Hart, director of the Iowa State Teachers' College, completed a survey of the "best-sellers" published between 1900 and 1925. The basis of the compilation was through the classification of lists of best-sellers published in the Bookman from 1900 to 1918 and in "Books of the Month" from 1919 to the end of 1924. An examination of Professor Hart's survey shows that between 60 and 75 per cent. of the books have been brought to the screen, with others probably to follow this year, and from this large list of 100 books Harold Bell Wright stands second on the list of "best authors." Only Winston Churchill stands ahead of Wright, although Churchill has had only one of his books brought to the screen, while Wright has had four, three of them having been made by Principal Pictures.

Metro Buys "Tongo"

Two new literary purchases were made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer this week, "Tongo," a play by John Balderston, and "Don Quixote Junior," an original screen story by George Scarborough and Annette Westbay.

"Tongo," which will be produced sometime next season, has not yet been produced. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives read the play and were so impressed by its picture possibilities that they purchased the screen rights immediately. The nature of the story is such as to give it wide appeal in the films.



Harold Bell Wright on McCall Street

The Editor's Forecast for 1925

There is a thrill of life running through McCall's that stirs its readers. McCall's advertisers participate in this enlivened interest

McCALL'S MAGAZINE

Over 2,000,000 [illegible]

A facsimile of newspaper full page ads used by McCall's Magazine to further publicize Harold Bell Wright whose books are picturized by Principal Pictures Corp.

De Mille, Picture Bank Head, Reduces the Interest Rate

WHETHER or not the atmosphere of the movies begets charity is not known but, at any rate, the first official act of the first motion picture bank president has been to lower the existing interest rates.

Cecil De Mille, motion picture producer, recently elected president of the Culver City Commercial and Savings Bank, now takes rank in history as the first financial head to voluntarily reduce an existing interest rate. Beginning April 1 all loans existing and pending for the institution just acquired by the America Commercial Company of Los Angeles will be reduced from 8 to 7 per cent. The unique feature of this move is that not only will no new loans be made at 8 per cent., but all existing loans will be automatically scaled down to 7 per cent. on the date named.

"My experience in banking," said Mr. De Mille, 'has been that money offered at generous terms yields far better profits in the long run than the immediate high return which carries in its wake the danger of lost friendship. I want this move to spell to the citizens of Culver City my extreme and earnest desire to enter actively into the development of this district as an integral and important part of the expanding Southwest."

The America Commercial Company, which recently purchased the Culver City Commercial and Savings Bank, is the holding company for the Bank of America of Los Angeles and the Commercial National Bank of Los Angeles. Mr. De Mille is vice-president of the Commercial National Bank and a director of the Bank of America.

"Bandit's Baby" in Work

"The Bandit's Baby," an original story by Leete Renick Brown, is serving as Fred Thomson's next vehicle, following "That Devil Quemado!"

Blanche Sweet and Ronald Colman in scenes in "His Supreme Moment," the Samuel Goldwyn—First National feature that drew glowing praise from the New York critics when it opened at the New York Mark Strand on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. H. H. Buxbaum, the charming wife of the genial First National Exchange Manager, in New York City, on the veranda of her home in Miami, Florida, with her champion police dog.

Casting for "The Wheel"

Harrison Ford and Claire Adams Have Leads in Fox Special Production

Plans are rapidly getting under way at the Fox Film Corporation West Coast Studios to start actual filming of the screen version of "The Wheel," the successful stage play by Winchell Smith produced in New York by John Golden. Victor Schertzinger, who is directing the screen version, has selected Harrison Ford for the leading role of Ted Morton, and Claire Adams will appear as Kate O'Hara.

Mahlon Hamilton has been cast in the villain's role of Baker and Georgie Harris will play the part of Sammy. Clara Horton and Margaret Livingston have been selected to play the character roles of Nora and Elsie. David Torrence will be Mr. Morton.

The tall, handsome Harrison Ford was selected by Mr. Schertzinger because his work as leading man in many recent important motion pictures established his peculiar fitness to portray the role of Ted Morton.

Claire Adams has endeared herself to Fox fans by her appearance as Tom Mix's leading lady in numerous pictures, including "Oh, You Tony," "Just Tony," "Arabia" and "Stepping Fast." She played opposite Edmund Lowe in "The Brass Bowl" and "Honor Among Men."

"The Wheel" is one of the photodramas in the John Golden Unit of Clean American Plays, being produced for the screen by Fox Film Corporation.

Complete Roster Announced for Cecil B. De Mille Studio

COINCIDENT with the starting of actual production work, Cecil B. De Mille and General Manager Fred Kley announce the new roster of department heads of the De Mille Studio.

They include L. M. Goodstadt, assistant general manager; A. G. Volck, business manager; N. M. Stephenson, auditor; I. F. Dawson, cashier; Barrett C. Kiesling, publicity director; W. G. Crothers, casting director; L. J. Lemieux, purchasing agent; Elmer Harris and Bertram Millhauser, production editors; Mrs. Ella King Adams, head of story department; George Dickson, studio superintendent; Chester Gore, art director; Henriette Dallett, wardrobe designer; Mitchell Leisen, technical director; U. S. Poe, transportation manager; Frank Maguire, chief electrician, and Walter Hopman, head of drapery department.

Practically all of those named have been connected with Mr. De Mille in some capacity for a number of years. Mr. Volck, however, was a member of the personal staff of the late Thomas H. Ince.

De Mille Signs Helene Sullivan

Helene Sullivan, well-known stage and screen player, is the newest artist to join the Cecil B. De Mille stock company. Miss Sullivan has been signed under a long term contract and will hereafter be seen exclusively in the productions released through Producers' Distributing Corporation.

Miss Sullivan achieved prominence on the stage touring with George Beban in "The Sign of the Rose" and under the Frohman management in "The Morals of Marcus" and "The Thief." She was for several seasons under Belasco and Morosco management and was a member of the original cast in "The Bird of Paradise" and "Civilian Clothes."

In pictures, she has appeared in Cecil B. De Mille's "For Better, for Worse," "Soul of Raphael," "Midchannel," "The Cheaters," "Whispering Wires" and "The Golden Bed."

Tall, statuesque and blonde, she has been denominated the "white vamp" as distinguished from the dark type because of her frequent appearances as a sophisticated "other woman" of a constructive rather than destructive trend.

Jocelyn Lee Remains

Jocelyn Lee, who deserted the footlights of Broadway only last August, has signed a long term contract as the newest member of the De Mille stock company.

It has not yet been decided whether Miss Lee will make her debut in "Hell's Highroad," the first Leatrice Joy starring picture for De Mille, or in the initial Rod La Rocque offering. Since leaving the "Follies" last fall she has appeared in "Worldly Goods,' "The Golden Bed," "Grounds for Divorce," and more recently "The Dressmaker From Paris."

West Joins De Mille Forces

Charles West, for several years golf editor of the "Los Angeles Times," has resigned his position to join the publicity staff of Mr. Kiesling at the Cecil B. De Mille Studio.

Mr. West has been associate editor of "California Sports," a magazine devoted to golf and country club activities, but will now give his entire time to publicizing the activities of Cecil De Mille, Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque and associated members of the Cecil B. De Mille Stock Company.

Harris in New York

Elmer Harris arrived in New York this week for a conference with Rod La Rocque and Director Paul Sloane on "The Coming of Amos," the first picture in which Rod will be starred on the Producers' Distributing Corporation program.

"The Coming of Amos" is William J. Locke's latest story. It treats of a young Australian sheepherder, rich but uncouth and unsophisticated, suddenly thrown into the super-culture of Cannes, Monte Carlo, London and Paris. The general atmosphere and treatment of the story is considered ideal for the launching of La Rocque as a star.

Immediately upon the completion of the Famous Players-Lasky picture, in which he is now working at Paramount's Long Island studio, Rod La Rocque, accompanied by Messrs. Harris and Sloane, will leave for the De Mille Studio in Los Angeles, where production of "The Coming of Amos" will start about the middle of May.

Contracts for New Series

W. E. Shallenberger, president of Arrow Pictures Corporation, announces the completion of arrangements with Dallas M. Fitzgerald, one of the foremost directorial figures in the world of motion pictures today, for a series of four high class comedy dramas to reach the screen during the coming season via Arrow Pictures Corporation.

Scenes from "Wild-cat Willie," an Educational-Juvenile comedy with Jack McHugh.

CURRENT and ADVANCE FILM RELEASES

Containing in compact, comprehensive form, the title, star, kind of picture, date of review in Moving Picture World, and footage on past, present and future releases

ALLIED PRODUCERS AND DISTRIBUTORS

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
End of the World (J. Pickford)	Comedy-drama		6.500

ARROW

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Come On, Cowboys (Hatton)	Western drama	May 24.	4,700
Mysteries of Mah Jong	Novelty	May 24.	2,000
Two After One (West)	Comedy	May 24.	2,000
Lash of Pinto Pete (Dearholt)	Stunt drama		4.437
Two Fisted Sheriff (Canutt)	Western drama	Dec. 6.	4,625
Sell 'em Cowboy (Hatton)	Western drama		4.821
Ridin' Mad (Canutt)	Western drama		4.927
Desert Hawk	Western drama		4,828
Horse Sense (Hatton)	Western drama		4.648
His Majesty the Outlaw (Wilson)	Western drama		4,069
Romance and Rustlers (Canutt)	Western drama	Nov. 15.	4,939
Rip Snorter (Hatton)	Western	Nov. 22.	4,998
The Fugitive (Ben Wilson)	Western dr.	Nov. 29.	4.920
Lost Chord (Powell-Lake-Binney)	Heart interest dr.	Dec. 20.	6,751
Lena Rivers (Earle Williams)	Drama		6,000

ASSOCIATED EXHIBITORS

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Spitfire (all-star)	Modern drama	July 5.	6,109
Racing Luck (Monty Banks)	Comedy-drama	July 26.	6,000
Never Say Die (MacLean)	Comedy of thrills	Sep. 13.	5,803
East of Broadway (O. Moore)	Police drama	Nov. 22.	5,785
Price of a Party (H. Ford)	Modern drama	Oct. 18.	5,315
Barriers Burned Away	Spectacle	Dec. 27.	6,236
Is Love Everything?	Sex melo.	Nov. 15.	6,000
Adventurous Sex (C. Bow)	Flapper drama
Children of the Whirlwind
Great Air Mail Robbery
Battling Bunyan (Barry)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27.	4,718
Greatest Love of All (Beban)	Drama	Jan. 17.	6,486
Bad Company (Tearle)	Society drama	Jan. 24.	5,551
Introduce Me (Douglas MacLean)	Comedy thrills	Mar. 21.	6,710
Sky Raider (Logan)	Drama
Back to Life (Patsy Ruth Miller)	Drama	Feb. 28.	5,628

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Air Pockets	Mermaid comedy	May 17.	2,000
Lunch Brigade	Cliff Bowes	May 24.	1,000
Dizzy Daisy	Mermaid comedy	May 24.	2,000
Good Morning	Lloyd Hamilton	May 24.	2,000
Tootsie-Wootsie	Christie comedy	May 31.	2,000
Just Waiting	Robert Bruce series	May 31.	1,000
Echoes of Youth	"Sing Them Again"	May 31.	1,000
Hot Air	Lee Moran	June 7.	2,000
In a Drop of Water	"Secrets of Life"	June 14.	1,000
Grandpa's Girl	Kathleen Clifford	June 21.	2,000
The Chase	Alps Novelty	June 21.	2,000
Snapshots of the Universe	Hodge-Podge	June 21.	1,000
The Farewell	Bruce Scenic	June 21.	1,000
Wedding Showers	Jack White prod.	June 28.	2,000
The Ex-Bartender Retires	Bruce scenic	June 28.	1,000
Family Fits	Cameo comedy	June 28.	1,000
His First Car	Tuxedo comedy	July 5.	2,000
Pardon Us	Cameo comedy	July 5.	1,000
Melodious Moments	"Sing Them Again"	July 5.	1,000
Pigskin	Mermaid comedy	July 12.	2,000
Heads On	Cliff Bowes	July 12.	1,000
Jumble in the Jungle	Hodge-Podge	July 12.	1,000
Never Again	Tuxedo comedy	Aug. 2.	2,000
Turn About	Cameo comedy	Aug. 2.	1,000
Frozen Water	Novelty	Aug. 9.	2,000
Savage Love	Jimmie Adams	Aug. 9.	1,000
Good News	Cliff Bowes	Aug. 23.	2,000
Oh, Teacher	Juvenile comedy	Aug. 23.	1,000
Boneyard Blues	Earl Hurd cartoon	Aug. 23.	1,000
Drenched	Cliff Bowes	Aug. 30.	2,000
Wild Game	Mermaid comedy	Aug. 30.	1,000
Don't Fail	Cameo comedy	Sep. 6.	2,000
Jonah Jones	Lloyd Hamilton	Sep. 6.	1,000
Hazardous Hunting	Hodge-Podge	Sep. 13.	2,000
Rough and Ready	Lige Conley	Sep. 13.	1,000
Cheer Up	Cliff Bowes	Sep. 20.	2,000
Stupid but Brave	Al St. John	Sep. 20.	2,000
Dirty Hands	Juvenile comedy	Sep. 27.	2,000
Short Change	Hiers comedy	Sep. 27.	2,000
Bright Lights	Vernon comedy	Sep. 27.	2,000
Her Boy Friend	Larry Semon	Oct. 4.	2,000
Court Plaster	Neal Burns	Oct. 4.	1,000
The Hoboken Nightingale	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 4.	1,000
Crazy-Quilt of Travel	Hodge Podge	Oct. 11.	2,000
Fast and Furious (Conley)	Comedy	Oct. 11.	1,000
No Foolin' (Bowes)	Comedy	Oct. 18.	1,000
Sawmill Four	Hurd cartoon	Oct. 18.	1,000
Why Hurry? (Adams)	Comedy	Oct. 25.	2,000
Kid Speed (L. Semon)	Comedy	Oct. 25.	2,000
Crushed (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Oct. 25.	1,000
Empty Heads (Bowes)	Comedy	Nov. 1.	2,000
High Gear (Vernon)	Comedy	Nov. 1.	1,000
The Mosquito	Instructive	Nov. 15.	1,000
Artist's Model	Hurd cartoon	Nov. 15.	2,000
Poor Butterfly	Mermaid comedy	Nov. 15.	1,000
Watch Your Pep (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 22.	2,000
Easy Pickin's	Christie com.	Nov. 22.	1,000
Cut Loose (Dynham-Vance)	Cameo comedy	Nov. 29.	1,000
A Fat Chance (W. Hiers)	Comedy	Nov. 29.	1,000
Go Easy (Bowes)	Cameo com.	Dec. 6.	2,000
Low Tide (J. White prod.)	Comedy	Dec. 6.	1,000
Little People of the Garden	Instructive	Dec. 13.	1,000
Earth's Oddities	Hodge-Podge	Dec. 13.	2,000
Goat Getters	Juvenile com.	Dec. 20.	2,000
French Pastry (Vernon)	Christie com.	Dec. 20.	1,000
Broadcasting	Hurd cartoon	Dec. 27.	2,000
Lovemania (St. John)	Tuxedo comedy	Dec. 27.	1,000
Mad Rush (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Jan. 3.	2,000
Step Lightly (Lige Conley)	Mermaid com.	Jan. 3.	1,000
Hi-Fliers	Hodge-Podge	Jan. 17.	1,000
Hooked (Hamilton)	Comedy	Jan. 17.	1,000
Weak Knees (Bowes)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 17.	1,000
Have A Heart (Ruth Hiatt)	Cameo Com.	Jan. 24.	2,000
Good Spirits	Christie com.	Jan. 24.	1,000
Motor Mad	Mermaid com.	Jan. 31.	2,000
Sea Legs (Neal Burns)	Christie com.	Jan. 31.	1,000
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Jan. 31.	1.000
Paris Creations	Fashions	Feb. 7.	1,000
Topsy Turvy Travel	Hodge-Podge	Feb. 7.	2,000
His High Horse (Lee Moran)	Mermaid com.	Feb. 7.	1,000
He Who Gets Soaked	Hurd cartoon	Feb. 14.	1,000
High Hopes (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 14.	2,000
Wild Cat Willie	Juvenile com.	Feb. 21.	1,000
Our Six-Legged Friends	Secrets of Life	Feb. 21.	2,000
Great Guns (Bobby Vernon)	Comedy	Feb. 21.	1,000
Welcome Danger (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Feb. 28.	1,000
Paris Creations in Color	Fashions	Feb. 28.	2,000
Half a Hero (Lloyd Hamilton)	Comedy	Mar. 7.	1,000
Two Cats and a Dog	Cartoon	Mar. 7.	1,000
Lots of Knots	Hodge-Podge	Mar. 7.	1,000
Little People of the Sea	Instructive	Aug. 9.	1,000
Voice of the Nightingale	Novelty	Mar. 14.	1,000
Love Goofy (Adams)	Christie com.	Mar. 14.	2,000
Hello, Hollywood (Conley)	Mermaid com.	Mar. 14.	2,000
Dynamite Doggie (Al St. John)	Tuxedo com.	Mar. 21.	2,000
Judge's Crossword Puzzles	Novelty	Mar. 21.	1,000
Merrymakers (Cliff Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Mar. 21.	1,000

How to Use This Chart

First—Booking! Get accurate footage and look up date review appeared in Moving Picture World. Then you can decide if the picture will suit your audience.

Second—Play date! When you set your play date, consult this Chart to set the picture on a date that will not conflict with preceding and following pictures; avoid a sequence of similar type of story; space out your specials.

Third—Laying Out Program! This chart shows star and kind of story as well as accurate length; you can lay out a balanced program easily, avoid over—and under-length program.

Fourth—Exploitation! Through this chart find the review in Moving Picture World; this will give a good synopsis, the all-important cast and a fine line on exploitation possibilities as well as the things you'll want to soft-pedal.

Always! Turn to this Chart when you want accurate information in simple form and easy to get at a glance. AND—

File Your Moving Picture World

$1 for Your Time

Many exhibitors tell us that Moving Picture World Guide to Releases is the most accurate available to them. We know it is the most complete in that it is the only chart containing names of stars, type of picture, and all necessary information to the exhibitor.

We want it to be absolutely accurate—Moving Picture World recognizes the importance of accurate footage information, etc.

If you notice an error in FEATURE footage, or any other major error, we will pay you $1 for the effort on your part of writing us a letter telling us the correct facts.

In many territories local censorship cuts alter the footage to a minor extent. Don't write to tell us of these unimportant variations. But in any case where you feel that our figures will work a real hardship on the exhibitor following them—shoot us the word and we will shoot the dollar for your trouble.

Moving Picture World is willing to back up its complete confidence in the accuracy of its chart with its money.

We can't do more. No one else does as much. We thank you.

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Rarin' Romeo (Walter Hiers)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Red Pepper (St. John)	White-Mermaid	Apr. 4	2,000
Inside Out (Bowes)	Cameo comedy	Apr. 4	1,000
Movie Morsels	Howe Magazine	Apr. 4	1,000
Mellow Quartette	Hurd cartoon	Apr. 4	1,000
Why Hesitate? (Burns)	Comedy	April 11	1,000
In the Spider's Grip	Novelty	April 11	2,000

FILM BOOKING OFFICES OF AMERICA

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Girl of the Limberlost (Grey)	Rural drama	May 10	6,000
Untamed Youth (Lewis)	Gypsy drama	May 10	5,000
Danger Line (Hayakawa)	Japan drama	May 24	5,000
Spirit of the U. S. A. (Johnson prod.)	Patriotic drama	May 31	8,312
Dangerous Coward (F. Thomson)	Western	May 31	6,000
Napoleon and Josephine (all-star)	Hist. romance	June 7	6,591
Fighting Sap (F. Thomson)	Western	June 14	5,138
There's Millions In It (all-star)	Romantic thriller	June 28	6,000
Swords and the Woman (DeCordoba)	Romantic drama	July 12	6,000
Fools in the Dark (Patsy R. Miller)	Melo. farce	July 26	7,002
Neglected Women (Seena Owen)	Society drama	Aug. 9	6,265
Messalina	Italian spectacle	Sep. 6	8,473
American Manners (R. Talmadge)	Thrill-com.-dr.	Sep. 6	5,200
Desert Sheik (Hawley)	Sheik picture	Sep. 20	5,044
Vanity's Price (A. Q. Nilsson)	Society drama	Sep. 20	6,124
Woman Who Sinned (Busch)	Society drama		6,102
Thundering Hoofs (F. Thomson)	Western	Dec. 6	5,033
Stepping Lively (R. Talmadge)	Comedy drama		5,317
Life's Greatest Game (J. Walker)	Baseball epic	Oct. 11	7,010
Millionaire Cowboy (M. B. Flynn)	Western		4,841
Broken Laws (Mrs. W. Reid)	Drama	Jan. 31	6,413
Quemado (F. Thomson)	Western
Cheap Kisses (all-star)	Jazz-drama	Nov. 15	6,53[illegible]
Go-Getters Series	Thrill comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Dangerous Flirt (Evelyn Brent)	Drama	Dec. 6	5,297
Miss in the Dark (Vaughn)	Go-getters	Dec. 6	2,000
On The Stroke of Three (Harlan)	Drama	Dec. 13	6,767
Trigger Fingers (Bob Custer)	Tex. Ranger	Dec. 13	4,775
Going of Cumming	Go-Getters	Dec. 13	2,000
Laughing at Danger (R. Talmadge)	Thrill drama	Dec. 20	5,442
Air Hawk (Al Wilson)	Airplane dr.	Dec. 20	5,000
Who's Hooligan?	Go-getters	Dec. 20	2,000
Heebie Jeebies (Aubrey)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Silk Stocking Sal (Brent)	Underworld dr.	Jan. 3	5,367
West of Hot Dog (Stan Laurel)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
No-Gun Man (Lefty Flynn)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 17	4,522
Flashing Spurs (Bob Custer)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5,068
Youth and Adventure (R. Talmadge)	Outdoor melo.	Jan. 24	5,000
Sleeping Cutie	Go-Getters	Jan. 31	2,000
Midnight Molly (Evelyn Brent)	Crook drama	Feb. 7	6,000
Range Terror (Bob Custer)	Western	Feb. 14	4,7[illegible]
Cloud Rider (Al Wilson)	Airplane-thrill	Feb. 21	5,070
Jimmie's Millions (R. Talmadge)	Athletic-stunts	Feb. 28	5,167
Parisian Nights (Hammerstein-Tellegen)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,278
Welcome Granger (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 7	2,000
Helping Hand (Aubrey)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Breed of the Border (Lefty Flynn)	Western	Mar. 14	4,930
Love's Bargain (Marjorie Daw)	Drama	Mar. 21	6,000
Captain Kidd	Bray cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Scar Hanan (Yakima Canutt)	Western	Mar. 28	6,020
Galloping Vengeance (Bob Custer)	Texas Ranger dr.	Mar. 28	5,005
He Who Gets Rapped (Vaughn)	Pacemakers	Mar. 28	2,000
Forbidden Cargo (Evelyn Brent)	Melodrama	Apr. 4	4,850
O. U. West (Lefty Flynn)	Western	April 11	5,000

FIRST NATIONAL

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Flowing Gold (all-star)	Drama	Mar. 1	8,005
Lilies of the Field (C. Griffith)	Drama	Mar. 22	8,510
Galloping Fish (Ince prod.)	Comedy	Mar. 22	5,559
Secrets (N. Talmadge)	Drama	Apr. 5	8,446
Enchanted Cottage (R. Barthelmess)	Drama	Apr. 19	7,120
Abraham Lincoln (G. A. Billings)	Drama	Feb. 2	9,759
Cytherea (all-star)	Society drama	May 21	7,142
Why Men Leave Home (J. M. Stahl prod.)	Comedy-drama	May 3	8,002
Woman on the Jury (all-star)	Drama	May 17	7,408
Son of the Sahara (all-star)	Melodrama	May 24	7,603
Sea Hawk (all-star)	Romantic drama	June 14	11,527
Marriage Cheat (all-star)	Drama	June 21	6,622
Those Who Dance (Ince prod.)	Drama		7,512
White Moth (LaMarr)	Drama	June 21	6,571
Perfect Flapper (C. Moore)	Comedy	June 28	7,030
Self-Made Failure (B. Alexander)	Comedy	June 28	7,285
For Sale (all-star)	Drama	July 5	7,304
Born Rich (C. Windsor)	Society drama	Dec. 20	7,389
Single Wives (C. Griffith)	Society drama	Aug. 9	7.526
Girl in the Limousine (Semon)	Farce comedy	Aug. 30	5,260
Flirting With Love (C. Moore)	Comedy	Sep. 6	6.926
In Hollywood With Potash and Perlmutter (all-star)	Comedy	Sep. 20	6,685
Husbands and Lovers (all-star)	Dom. drama	Nov. 8	7,822
Madonna of the Streets (Nazimova)	Drama	Oct. 25	7,674
Tarnish (all-star)	Comedy-drama		6,907
Her Night of Romance (C. Talmadge)	Comedy	Dec. 6	7,211
In Every Woman's Life (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,298
Sandra (LaMarr)	Drama	Dec. 6	7,905
Classmates (R. Barthelmess)	Drama	Nov. 29	6,923
Christine of the Hungry Heart (Vidor)	Drama	Nov. 1	7,678
Silent Watcher (Glenn Hunter)	Drama	Oct. 18	7,530
Love's Wilderness (Griffith)	Drama	Dec. 20	7,037
So Big (C. Moore)	Drama	Jan. 17	8,562
If I Marry Again (Doris Kenyon)	Drama	Jan. 24	7,401
Idle Tongues (Marmont)	Comedy-drama	Dec. 27	5,447
Sundown (all-star)	Western epic	Oct. 25	8,641
The Only Woman (N. Tadmadge)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 8	6,770
Inez from Hollywood (Nilsson-Stone-Astor)	Heart interest	Dec. 13	6,967
Frivolous Sal (O'Brien-Busch-Alexander)	Western melo.	Jan. 17	7,307
A Thief in Paradise (Doris Kenyon)	Melodrama	Jan. 24	7,231
As Man Desires (Sills-Dana)	Melodrama	Jan. 31	7,649
Enticement (Mary Astor)	Drama	Feb. 7	6,224
The Lady (Norma Talmadge)	Emotional dr.	Feb. 14	7,3[illegible]
Her Husband's Secret (Moreno-Miller)	Sentiment-dr.	Feb. 21	6,150
Quo Vadis (Emil Jennings)	Special	Feb. 28	8.745
Lost World (Conan Doyle story)	Special	Feb. 28	9.700
New Toys (Barthelmess)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 28	7.811
Playing With Souls (Jacqueline Logan)	Drama	Mar. 7	5.831
One Year to Live (Pringle)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,064
Learning to Love (C. Talmadge)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 7	6,099
Heart of a Siren (La Marr)	Drama	Mar. 21	6,70[illegible]
Sally (C. Moore-Leon Errol)	Stage success	Mar. 28	8,636
Declasse (Corinne Griffith)	Society dr.	Apr. 4	7,869
One Way Street (Lyon-Nilsson)	Society dr.	Apr. 4	5,600

FOX FILM CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Arizona Express (D. Butler)	Railroad drama	Mar. 29	6,316
Plunderer (Mayo)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,000
A Man's Mate (Gilbert)	Drama	Apr. 5	5,812
Circus Cowboy (Jones)	Western drama	May 3	6,400
Trouble Shooter (Mix)	Western drama	May 17	5,702
He's My Pal	Imperial comedy	May 17	2,000
Lone Chance (Gilbert)	Western drama	May 24	4,385
When Wise Ducks Meet	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Western Luck (Jones)	Comedy-drama	June 28	5,000
Magic Needle	"Etching"	June 28	1,000
Romance Ranch (Gilbert)	Comedy-drama	July 12	4,471
Heart Buster (Mix)	Comedy-drama	July 19	4,500
Beaten Gold	Educational	July 19	1,000
Against All Odds (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 9	4,899
Pain as You Enter (Moran)	Comedy	Aug. 9	2,000
That French Lady (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Aug. 16	5,470
Man Who Came Back (special)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,273
Desert Outlaw (Jones)	Drama
Wolves of the Night (W. Farnum)	Drama
It Is the Law (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,895
Dante's Inferno (special)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,480
Cyclone Rider (all-star)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,672
Last of the Duanes (Mix)	Drama	Aug. 30	6,942
Iron Horse (special)	Railway drama	Sep. 13	11,400
Conquerer (W. Farnum)	Reissue
The Fight (all-star)	Drama
Oh, You Tony (Mix and Tony)	Comedy-drama	Sep. 27	6,302
Winner Take All (Jones)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,949
Hearts of Oak (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 11	5,336
Great Diamond Mystery (Mason)	Comedy-drama	Nov. 1	5,096
Warrens of Virginia (all-star)	Drama	Nov. 1	6,535
End of the Trail (W. Farnum)	Drama
Rambles of a Raindrop	Instructive	Sep. 27	1,000
Daughters of the Night (all-star)	Modern drama	Dec. 13	5,70[illegible]
Painted Lady (Mackaill)	Modern drama	Oct. 4	6,936
Jerusalem Today	Instructive	Oct. 4	1,000
Last Man on Earth	Novelty special	Dec. 27
Gold Heels	Race track dr	Feb. 7	6,020
Flames of Desire	Love drama		5,438
The Dancers	Drama	Jan. 24	6,656
The Folly of Vanity	Dramatic fantasy	Feb. 14	5,250
Teeth (Mix-Tony Duke)	Western drama	Nov. 15	6,190
Tainted Souls	Modern drama
Darwin Was Right	Monkey novelty com	Nov. 8	4,992
Everyman's Wife	Modern mystery-drama
In Love With Love	Comedy drama	Jan. 3	5,677
Hunting Wild Animals in Hollywood	Novelty
Honor Among Men (E. Lowe)	Romance-drama	Oct. 18	4,968
Unreal News 4	Novelty	Oct. 11	2,000
Van Bibber Series	Polite com.	Oct. 25	2,000
Age of Oil	Educational	Nov. 1	750
Deep Sea Panic (Parrott)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
Nickle Plated West	Sunshine comedy	Nov. 15	2,000
The Bull Fight	Educational	Nov. 15	1,000
My Husband's Wives (Mason-Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Nov. 22	4,509
Paul Jones, Jr.	Van Bibber com.	Nov. 22	2,000
Finger Lakes	Instructive	Nov. 22	1,000
Brass Bowl (Edmund Lowe)	Adventure dr.	Nov. 29	5,861
Stolen Sweeties (Monkeys)	Comedy	Nov. 29	2,000
Salt of the Earth	Educational	Nov. 29	1,000
Gerald Cranston's Lady (James Kirkwood)	Domestic dr.	Dec. 6	6,074
Masked Marvel (Parrott)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
The Roughneck (George O'Brien)	Melodrama	Dec. 13	7,619
The Burglar	Van Bibber	Dec. 13	2,000
Man Who Played Square (Jones)	Western drama	Dec. 20	6,700
Deadwood Coach (Mix)	Western drama	Jan. 10	6,346
Troubles of a Bride	Melodrama	Dec. 27	4,915
Dick Turpin (Mix)	English drama	Feb. 7	5,224
Hunted Woman	Melodrama
Arizona Romeo (Jones)	Western drama	Jan. 31	4,694
Curlytop (Mason)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	5,828
Stardust Trail (Mason)	Melodrama	Mar. 7	4,686
Scuttlers (W.Farnum)	Western drama		4,686
Movie-Mad Maid (Babe London)	Slapstick	Dec. 20	2,000
Roaring Lions at Home	Sunshine com.	Jan. 3	2,000
Uncommon Clay	Educational	Jan. 3	1,080
Up On the Farm (Lee Moran)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
The Violin Speaks	Educational	Jan. 10	1,000
Dangerous Curves	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Milk Bottle Bandits	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Ports of Call (E. Lowe)	Regeneration dr.	Jan. 24	5.500
Sleep Walker (Sid Smith)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Hell-Roaring Range	Educational	Jan. 24	1,000
Corsica the Beautiful	Educational	Jan. 31	1,000
Nobody Works But Father	Slapstick	Feb. 7	2,000
Trail Rider (Jones)	Western	Feb. 21	4,752
Man Without a Country (all-star)	Special	Feb. 28	10,000
Scarlet Honeymoon (Shirley Mason)	Romantic com.-dr.	Mar. 14	5,0[illegible]
Mysterious Stranger	Comedy	Mar. 14	2,000
Riders of the Purple Sage (Mix)	Western	Mar. 21	5,578
House of Flickers	Imperial com.	Mar. 21	2 000
Gold and the Girl (Jones)	Western	Mar. 28	4,512
Amateur Detective	Van Bibber	Mar. 28	2,000
Hunted Woman (Seena Owen-Earl Schenck)	Curwood dr.	Apr. 4	4,954
Butterfly Man (Sid Smith)	Comedy	Apr. 4	2,000
From Mars to Munich	"arieties"	Apr. 4	1,000
Marriage in Transit (E. Lowe)	Secret service dr.	April 11	4,[illegible]

METRO-GOLDWYN

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Janice Meredith (Davies)	Romantic dr.	Aug. 23	10,655
Rejected Woman (Rubens-Nagel)	Drama	May 3	7,761
Heart Bandit (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 19	4,9[illegible]
Fool's Awakening (Ford)	Drama	Feb. 16	5,763
Man Life Passed By (Marmont)	Drama	Mar. 1	6,4[illegible]
Thy Name Is Woman (LaMarr)	Drama	Mar. 1	9,087
Uninvited Guest (Tolley)	Drama	Mar. 8	6,145
Happiness (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 8	7,414
Women Who Give (all-star)	Sea drama	Mar. 22	7,900
Boy of Flanders (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 5	7,0[illegible]

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Shooting of Dan McGrew (all-star)	Drama	Apr. 12	6,318
Sherlock, Jr. (Keaton)	Comedy	May 17	4,065
Arab (Novarro-Terry)	Drama	July 12	6,710
Bread (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 2	6,726
Tess of D'Urbervilles (Sweet)	Drama	Aug. 9	7,736
Little Robinson Crusoe (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 16	6,126
Broken Barriers (all-star)	Drama	Aug. 16	5,717
True As Steel (all-star)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,454
Revelation (Dana)	Drama	July 5	8,752
Recoil (Blythe-Hamilton)	Drama	July 12	7,089
Wine of Youth (all star)	Drama	July 26	6,805
Along Came Ruth (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 2	5,161
Red Lily (Bennett-Novarro)	Drama	Aug. 16	6,975
Sinners in Silk (Menjou-Boardman)	Drama	Aug. 30	5,750
Circe, The Enchantress (Murray)	Drama	Sep. 13	6,882
His Hour (Pringle)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,300
One Night in Rome (L. Taylor)	Comedy-dr.	Sep. 27	5,883
Navigator (Keaton)	Comedy	Sep. 13	5,558
Bandolero (all star)	Drama	Oct. 11	6,[illegible]
Great Divide (all star)	Drama	Feb. 21	7,811
The Snob (all star)	Drama	Nov. 8	6,513
He Who Gets Slapped (Chaney)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,613
Rag Man (Coogan)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 14	5,908
Silent Accuser (Peter, the Great)	Dog drama	Nov. 22	5,883
So This Is Marriage (all star)	Comedy-dr.	Jan. 3	6,300
Beauty Prize (Dana)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 11	5,750
Ben Hur (special cast)	Drama
Merry Widow (Murray)	Comedy-dr.
The Scandal (Novarro)	Drama
Sporting Venus (Sweet)	Drama
Married Flirts (all-star)	Drama	Oct. 25	6,765
Temptress (Cosmopolitan)
The Square Peg
Zander, the Great (Cosmopolitan)
Romola (Lillian Gish)	Famous novel	Dec. 13	12,974
Greed (Von Stroheim prod.)	Special	Dec. 20	10,067
Chu-Chin-Chow (B. Blythe)	Spectacle	Feb. 21	6,408
Wife of the Centaur	Drama	Jan. 17	6,586
Dixie Handicap (Windsor-Keenan)	Drama	Jan. 10	6,905
Cheaper to Marry (All Star)	Drama	Feb. 14	5,921
A Man's World (Joyce-Marmont)	Drama
Excuse Me (Shearer-Nagel)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 7	5,084
Monster (Chaney-Olmsted)	Weird com.-dr.	Mar. 7	6,435
Daddy's Gone a Hunting (Marmont)	Pathos drama	Mar. 7	5,851
Lady of the Night (Norma Shearer)	Underworld dr.	Mar. 14	5.441
Denial (Claire Windsor)	Drama	Mar. 21	4,791
Seven Chances (Keaton)	Comedy	Mar. 28	5,113
Confessions of a Queen (Terry-Stone)	Mythical romance	Apr. 4	5,809
Way of a Girl (Boardman)	Thrill-comedy	April 11	5,000

PARAMOUNT

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Breaking Point (all star)	West-Metropolitan	Apr. 19	6,664
Confidence Man (Meighan)	Romance dr.	Apr. 26	6,500
Moral Sinner (Dalton)	Crook melo.	Apr. 26	5,439
Triumph (C. DeMille prod.)	Theatrical dr.	May 3	8,292
Bluff (Ayres-Moreno)	Drama	May 10	6,504
Men (Negri)	Society dr.	May 17	6,700
Wanderer of Wasteland (Holt-Technicolor)	Western	May 31	6,086
Code of the Sea (LaRocque-Logan)	Sea melodr.	Jun. 7	6,550
Bedroom Window (W. DeMille prod.)	Mystery dr.	Jun. 21	6,550
Guilty One (Ayres)	Heavy mystery	Jun. 28	5,365
Tiger Love (Melford prod.)	Modern dr.	Jun. 28	5,325
Changing Husbands (Joy)	Dual role dr.	July 5	6,799
Unguarded Women (Daniels-Dix)	Society dr.	July 5	6,051
Enemy Sex (Compson)	Romantic dr.	July 12	7,861
Side Show of Life (Torrence)	Clown dr.	Aug. 2	7,511
Manhandled (Swanson)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 9	6,908
Man Who Fights Alone (W. Farnum)	Drama	Aug. 9	6,337
Monsieur Beaucaure (Valentino)	Spectacle melo.	Aug. 23	9,932
Empty Hands (Holt)	Forest Melo.	Aug. 30	6,976
Lily of the Dust (Negri)	Drama	Sep. 6	6,811
The Female (Compson)	Society dr.	Sep. 13	6,167
Merton of the Movies (Hunter)	Travesty	Sep. 20	7,655
Sinners in Heaven (Daniels-Dix)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,621
Open All Night (all star)	Demestic dr.	Sep. 20	6,881
Feet of Clay (C. DeMille prod.)	Drama	Oct. 4	9,741
Alaskan (Meighan)	Drama	Sep. 27	6,736
Her Love Story (Swanson)	Romance dr.	Oct. 11	6,736
Story Without a Name (Ayres-Moreno)	Prize title	Oct. 18	5,912
Dangerous Money (Daniels)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,864
Border Legion (Moreno)	Drama	Nov. 1	7,048
Worldly Goods (Ayres)	Drama	Nov. 15—	6,055
Fast Set (Compson-Menjou)	Domestic dr.	Nov. 29	6,574
Forbidden Paradise (Negri)	Drama	Nov. 29	7,000
Sainted Devil (Valentino)	Drama	Dec. 6	8,633
City That Never Sleeps (Cruze prod.)	Mother-love melo.	Oct. 11	6,097
Manhattan (Dix)	Romantic com.	Nov. 8	6,415
Garden of Weeds (Compson)	Drama	Nov. 15	6,230
Wages of Virtue (Swanson)	Drama	Dec. 6	7,093
Tongues of Flame (Meighan-Love)	Melodrama	Dec. 27	6,763
North of 36 (Torrence-Holt-Wilson)	Historic romance	Dec. 13	7,908
Argentine Love (Daniels-Cortez)	Spanish romance	Jan. 3	5,970
Peter Pan (Betty Bronson)	Barrie classic	Jan. 3-10,	9,593
Locked Doors (Compson)	Original story	Jan. 24	6,221
Tomorrow's Love (Ayres)	Divorce com-dr.	Jan. 24	5,903
East of Suez (Negri)	Drama	Jan. 17	6,821
Miss Bluebeard (Daniels)	The stage success	Feb. 14	6,453
Golden Bed (LaRocque)	Drama of classes	Jan. 31	8,584
Man Must Live (Dix)	Newspaper romance	Feb. 7	6,116
Coming Through (Meighan)	New type Meighan story	Feb. 21	6,522
The Devil's Cargo (Starke)	Drama of Old California	Feb. 21	7,980
Top of the World (Nilsson-Kirkwood)	Africa and England	Feb. 28	7,167
The Swan (Menjou-Howard)	Stage success	Mar. 14	5,889
Contraband (Wilson-Noah Beery)	Bootleg drama	Apr. 4	6,773
Madame Sans Gene (Swanson)	World Famous drama
Thundering Herd (Holt-Wilson)	Buffalo stampede	Mar. 7	7,187
Forty Winks (Dana-Roberts-Griffith)	Comedy	Feb. 14	6,293
Goose Hangs High (Cruze production)	Typical	Mar. 21	6,186
Code of the West	Western dr.		6,777
New Lives for Old (Compson)	Drama	Mar. 7	6,796
Salome of the Tenements (Jetta Goudal)	Drama	Mar. 7	7,017
Too Many Kisses (Richard Dix)	Comedy	Mar. 14	5,750
Dressmaker From Paris (Leatrice Joy)	Drama	Mar. 28	7,[illegible]
Air Mail (feature cast)	Melodrama	Mar. 28	[illegible]
Grass	Drama	April 11	6,000
Sackcloth and Scarlet (Alice Terry)	Drama	April 11	6,732
Men and Women (Dix)	Feature	April 11	6,223

PATHE

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Bottle Babies	"Spat Family"	May 17	2,000
Going to Congress	Will Rogers	May 24	2,000
Position Wanted	Charles Chase	May 24	1,000
The Cat's Meow	Sennett comedy	May 24	2,000
Cradle Robbers	"Our Gang"	May 31	2,000
Building Winners	"Sportlight"	May 31	1,000
Before Taking	Earl Mohan	May 31	1,000
Rupert of Hee-Haw	Stan Laurel	June 7	2,000
Yukon Jake	Ben Turpin	June 7	2,000
Up and At 'Em	"Dippy Doo Dads"	June 7	1,000
The Flying Carpet	Terry cartoon	June 7	1,000
Declaration of Independence	"Chronicles"	June 14	3,000
Fast Black	Mohan-Engle	June 14	1,000
Lion and the Souse	Sennett comedy	June 14	2,000
On Guard	"Sportlight"	June 14	1,000
Suffering Shakespeare	"Spat Family"	June 14	2,000
Young Oldfield	Charles Chase	June 21	1,000
His New Mama	Sennett comedy	June 21	2,000
Don't Park There	Will Rogers	June 21	2,000
Her Memory	Will Nigh Miniature	June 21	1,000
Solitude and Fame	"Sportlight"	June 28	1,000
Stolen Goods	Charles Chase	June 28	1,000
Jubilo, Jr.	"Our Gang"	June 28	2,000
Jeffries, Jr.	Charles Chase	July 5	1,000
The Wide Open Spaces	Stan Laurel	July 5	2,000
The Body in the Bag	Terry cartoon	July 5	1,000
Yorktown	Chronicles of America	July 12	3,000
Why Husbands Go Mad	Charles Chase	July 12	1,000
Desert Sheiks	Terry cartoon	July 12	1,000
Radio Mad	"Spat Family"	July 12	2,000
Maud Miller	Special	July 19	2,000
Our Congressman	Will Rogers	July 19	2,000
A Woman's Hour	Terry cartoon	July 19	1,000
A Ten-Minute Egg	Charles Chase	July 19	1,000
It's a Bear	"Our Gang"	July 26	2,000
The Sport of Kings	Terry cartoon	July 26	1,000
Our Defenders	"Sportlight"	July 26	1,000
Seeing Nellie Home	Charles Chase	July 26	1,000
Into the Net	Mulhall-Murphy serial	Aug. 2
Romeo and Juliet	Sennett comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
Flying Fever	Terry cartoon	Aug. 2	1,000
Short Kilts	Hal Roach comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
A Hard Boiled Tenderfoot	"Spat Family"	Aug. 9	2,000
The Puritans	"Chronicles" series	Aug. 9	3,000
Amelia Comes Back	Terry cartoon	Aug. 9	1,000
The First Hundred Years	Sennett comedy	Aug. 16	2,000
A Truthful Liar	Will Rogers	Aug. 16	2,000
The Battling Orioles	Special	Aug. 23	5,000
East of the Water Plug	Sennett comedy	Aug. 23	2,000
High Society	"Our Gang"	Aug. 23	2,000
The Prodigal Pup	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Hoofbeats	"Sportlight"	Aug. 23	1,000
House Cleaning	Terry cartoon	Aug. 23	1,000
Alexander Hamilton	"Chronicles" series	Sep. 6	3,000
Lizzies of the Field	Sennett comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
Barnyard Olympics	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
South of the North Pole	"Spat Family"	Sep. 6	2,000
One Third Off	Cobb-Rice comedy	Sep. 6	2,000
The Happy Years	"Sportlight"	Sep. 6	1,000
Why Men Work	Charles Chase	Sep. 6	1,000
Message From the Sea	Terry cartoon	Sep. 6	1,000
Luck of the Foolish	Harry Langdon	Sep. 13	2,000
Outdoor Pajamas	Charles Chase	Sep. 13	2,000
Three Foolish Weeks	Ben Turpin	Sep. 13	2,000
In Good Old Summertime	Terry cartoon	Sep. 13	1,000
Danger Lure	Sportlight	Oct. 11	1,000
Dixie	Chronicles	Oct. 11	3,000
Goofy Age (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
10 Scars Make a Man (Allene Ray)	Serial	Oct. 18
Black Magic	Terry cartoon	Oct. 18	1,000
Sporting Rhythm	Sportlight	Oct. 18	1,000
Riders of the Purple Cow	Sennett com.	Oct. 18	2,000
Every Man for Himself	Our Gang	Oct. 18	2,000
Hot Water (Harold Lloyd)	Feature com.	Oct. 18	5,000
On Leave of Absence	Detective	Oct. 25	2,000
Bungalow Boobs (Chase)	Comedy	Oct. 25	1,000
Sky Plumber (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Oct. 25	2,000
Galloping Bungalows	Sennett com.	Nov. 1	2,000
Stunts	Sportlight	Nov. 1	1,000
Hot Stuff	Spat family	Nov. 1	2,000
Cat and the Magnet	Terry cartoon	Nov. 1	1,000
Fast Company	Our Gang	Nov. 15	2,000
She Knew Her Man	Terry cartoon	Nov. 15	1,000
Gridiron Glory	Sportlight	Nov. 15	1,000
Love's Sweet Piffle (R. Graves)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Are Blond Men Bashful? (Stone)	Comedy	Nov. 22	2,000
Out of the Storm	Detective	Nov. 22	2,000
Good Old Circus Days	Terry cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
All Wet (Chase)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Deaf, Dumb and Daffy	Spat Family	Nov. 29	2,000
Cannen-Ball Express	Sennett com.	Nov. 29	2,000
Champions	Sportlight	Nov. 29	1,000
Lumber Jacks	Terry cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
White Sheep (Glenn Tryon)	Special dr.	Dec. 6	6,091
Feet of Mud (Sennett cast)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
Meet the Missus (Tryon)	Comedy	Dec. 6	2,000
Bucking the Bucket Shop	Detective series	Dec. 6	2,000
She's In Again	Terry cartoon	Dec. 6	1,000
Mysterious Mystery	Our Gang	Dec. 13	2,000
Off His Trolley (R. Graves)	Sennett com.	Dec. 13	2,000
Noah's Athletic Club	Terry cartoon	Dec. 13	1,000
Just a Good Guy (Stone)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2,000
Royal Razz (Chase)	Comedy	Dec. 20	1,000
Mysteries of Old Chinatown	Terry cartoon	Dec. 20	1,000
Nature's Rouge	Sportlight	Dec. 20	1,000
Rubber Neck	Spat Family	Dec. 27	2,000
Bull and Sand	Sennett comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Invaders	Sportlight	Dec. 27	1,000
Down on the Farm	Terry cartoon	Dec. 27	1,000
The Sea Squawk	Sennett com.	Jan. 3	2,000
On the Ice	Terry cartoon	Jan. 3	1,000
Galloping Hoofs (Allene Ray)	Serial	Jan. 3
Wages of Tin (Tryon)	Comedy	Jan. 3	2,000
Rat's Knuckles (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 10	1,000
Rough and Tumbling	Sportlight	Jan. 10	1,000
Our Game Pup	Terry cartoon	Jan. 10	1,000
The Big Town (Our Gang)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Plumber (Graves)	Comedy	Jan. 10	2,000
Wild Goose Chaser (Turpin)	Sennett Com.	Jan. 17	2,000
Hello Baby (Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 17	1,000
Laugh That Off	Spat Family	Jan. 24	2,000
Honeymoon Hardships	Sennett comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Brain and Brawn	Sportlight	Jan. 24	1,000
Boobs in the Woods (Langdon)	Sennett comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Held That Thought	Terry cartoon	Jan. 31	1,000
Fighting Fluid (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Jan. 31	1,000
Beloved Bozo (R. Graves)	Sennett comedy	Feb. 7	2,000
Circus Fever	Our Gang	Feb. 7	2,000
Biting the Dust	Terry cartoon	Feb. 7	1,000
Transatlantic Flight	Terry cartoon		1,000
Change the Needle (Arthur Stone)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Family Entrance (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 14	1,000
Bigger and Better Jails	Terry cartoon	Feb. 14	1,000
Fisherman's Luck	Terry cartoon	Feb. 21	1,000
A Fox Hunt	Spat Family	Feb. 21	2,000
Sporting Armor	Sportlight	Feb. 21	1,000
Idaho (Vivian Rich)	Serial	Feb. 21	10 ep.
Water Wagons	Sennett com.	Feb. 21	2,000
His Marriage Wow (Langdon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Plain and Fancy Girls (Chas. Chase)	Comedy	Feb. 28	1,000
Clean-Up Week	Terry cartoon	Feb. 28	1,000
Haunted Honeymoon (Glenn Tryon)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Raspberry Romance (Ben Turpin)	Comedy	Feb. 28	2,000
Neptune's Nieces	Sportlight	Mar. 7	1,000
Bashful Jim (Graves)	Mack Sennett com.	Mar. 7	2,000
In Dutch	Terry cartoon	Mar. 7	1,000
Dog Days	Our Gang	Mar. 7	2,000
Percy (Charles Ray)	Typical dr.	Mar. 14	6,000
Should Husbands Be Watched	Comedy	Mar. 14	1,000
Hard Boiled (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 14	2,000
Jungle Bike Riders	Terry cartoon	Mar. 14	1,000
Excuse My Glove	Spat Family	Mar. 21	2,000
Giddap (Billy Bevan)	Comedy	Mar. 21	2,000
Traps and Troubles	Sportlight	Mar. 21	1,000
Pie Man	Terry cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Zowie!	Stereoskopik	Mar. 21	1,000
At the Zoo	Terry cartoon	Mar. 28	1,000
Is Marriage the Bunk? (Chase)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000
Plain Clothes (Langdon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Sailor Papa (Tryon)	Comedy	Mar. 28	2,000
Breaking the Ice (Graves)	Comedy	Apr. 4	2,000
Love Bug	Our Gang	Apr. 4	2,000
Housing Shortage	Terry cartoon	Apr. 4	1,000
Marriage Circus (Turpin)	Sennett com.	April 11	2,000
Bad Boy (Chase)	Comedy	April 11	2,000
Are Husbands Human? (Findlayson)	Comedy	April 11	1,000

PRINCIPAL PICTURES

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Listen Lester (all-star)	Comedy-drama	May 10	6,242
Daring Youth (Daniels)	Comedy-drama	May 17	5,975
Daughters of Pleasure (Prevost)	Drama	May 24	6,000
Masked Dancer (H. Chadwick)	Mystery drama	May 31	4,987
Good Bad Boy (Joe Butterworth)	Comedy-drama	June 7	5,198
Captain January (Baby Peggy)	Sea story	July 12	6,194
Helen's Babies (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-drama
Mine With Iron Door (all-star)	Adventure drama	Dec. 27	7,800
Re-Creation of Brian Kent	Drama	Mar. 14	6,878

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Love's Whirlpool (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	Mar. 22	6,605
Hoosier Schoolmaster (Hull)	Drama	Mar. 29	5,556
His Darker Self (L. Hamilton)	Comedy	Apr. 5	5,000
Try and Get It (Washburn)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 12	5,607
Not One to Spare (all star)	Pathos dr.	Apr. 19	5,000
Wandering Husbands (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama	May 10	6,300
Hold Your Breath (Devore)	Thrill com.	Jun. 7	5,900
Miami (Compson)	Drama	Jun. 14	6,317
Night Hawk (Carey)	Western	Jun. 14	5,115
Lightning Rider (Carey)	Western	Jun. 21	6,000
What Shall I Do? (Mackaill)	Drama	Jun. 28	6,000
Legend of Hollywood (Marmont)	Drama	Jan. 10	5,414
Wise Virgin (Miller)	Drama		5,951
Welcome Stranger (Vidor)	Comedy-dr.	Oct. 25	6,618
Ramshackle House (Compson)	Comedy-dr.		6,257
Barbara Frietchie (Vidor)	Civ. War dr.	Oct. 11	7,179
Chalk Marks (M. Snow)	Drama
House of Youth (Logan)	Drama		6,669
Roaring Rails (Carey)	Railway dr.	Oct. 25	5,753
Another Scandal (Lois Wilson)	Sex theme	Nov. 1	7,000
Another Man's Wife (Lee-Kirkwood)	Drama		5,015
Trouping With Ellen (H. Chadwick)	Comedy-dr.		6,452
Reckless Romance	Comedy feature	Nov. 22	5,530
Siren of Seville (Dean)	Drama	Nov. 29	6,724
Girl on the Stairs (Miller)	Comedy-dr.		6,214
Chorus Lady (Livingston)	Comedy-dr.	Feb. 21	6,020
Cafe in Cairo (Dean)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,656
Flaming Forties (Carey)	Western		5,770
The Mirage (Vidor)	Drama
Let Women Alone (O'Malley-Hawley)	Drama
Soft Shoes (Carey)	Western
Off the Highway (Logan)	Drama
Charley's Aunt (Syd Chaplin)	Farce-comedy	Feb. 21	7,243

B. P. SCHULBERG PROD.

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Breath of Scandal (Blythe)	Society drama		6,940
White Man (Joyce)	Jungle romance	Nov. 22	6,370
Triflers (Busch-Mayo)	Paris soc. dr.	Dec. 27	6,626
Capital Punishment (Clara Bow)	Prison dr.	Jan. 24	5,950
Boomerang (Clara Bow)	Comedy-dr.	Mar. 21	6,714
Parasite (Bellamy-Moore-Washburn)	Drama	Jan. 31	5,140
Mansion of Aching Hearts (all-star)	Melodrama	Mar. 14	6,147

UNITED ARTISTS

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall (Pickford)	Romantic drama	May 17	9,351
America (Griffith prod.)	Historical drama	Mar. 8	11,442
Isn't Life Wonderful? (Dempster)	Realism	Dec. 13	8,000
Thief of Bagdad (D. Fairbanks)	Fantasy	Mar. 29	12,000
Salvation Hunters (Von Sternberg prod.)	Symbolical dr.	Feb 14	5,930
Waking Up the Town (J. Pickford-Shearer)	Comedy-dr.	April 11	4,892

UNIVERSAL

	Kind of Picture	Review	Feet
Excitement (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Apr. 19	4,913
Storm Daughter (Dean)	Drama	Apr. 19	5,203
Racing Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Apr. 19	2,000
Forty Horse Hawkins (Gibson)	Western	Apr. 26	5,140
One Wet Night (Edwards)	Comedy	Apr. 26	1,000
Pretty Plungers (Follies Girls)	Century com.	Apr. 26	2,000
Riders Up (Hale)	Race drama	May 3	4,504
Politics (Summerville)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
Green Grocers (Dunn)	Comedy	May 3	1,000
A Lofty Marriage (Earle)	Comedy	May 3	2,000
Taxi, Taxi!	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Pigskin Hero (McCoy)	Comedy	May 10	2,000
Bulltosser (Lyons-Moran)	Reissue	May 10	1,000
Dangerous Blonde (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	May 17	4,919
Fast Steppers (New Series)	Race dr.	May 10	2,000
Ridgeway of Montana (Hoxie)	Western	May 17	4,843
My Little Brother (Summerville)	Comedy	May 17	1,000
The Lone Round-Up (Dougherty)	Short Western	May 17	2,000
The Signal Tower (Super-Jewel)	Drama	May 24	6,714
Tired Business Man (Alt-Follies Girls)	Comedy	May 24	2,000
Honor of Men (N. Hart re-issue)	Western	May 24	2,000
Reckless Age (Denny)	Drama	May 31	6,954
Fighting American (all star)	Drama	May 31	5,251
Case Dismissed (Summerville)	Comedy	May 31	1,000
Boss of the Bar-20 (Lawrence)	Western	May 31	2,000
Delivering the Goods (Pal)	Comedy	May 31	2,000
The Gaiety Girl (Philbin)	Drama	Jun. 7	7,419
High Speed (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 7	4,927
Fearless Fools (McCoy)	Century com.	Jun. 7	2,000
Rest in Pieces (Roach)	Comedy	Jun. 7	1,000
Powerful Eye (Morrison)	Short Western	Jun. 7	2,000
Sailor Maids (Follies Girls)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Winning a Bride (Ridgeway)	Comedy	Jun. 14	2,000
Family Secret (Baby Peggy)	Comedy-dr.	Jun. 21	5,076
Back Trail (Hoxie)	Western	Jun. 21	4,615
Fight and Win (Jack Dempsey)	Fight series	Jun. 21	...
Please Teacher (Messinger)	Comedy	Jun. 21	2,000
Miners Over 21 (Summerville)	Comedy	Jun. 21	1,000
Blue Wing's Revenge (Lawrence)	Western	Jun. 28	2,000
Dark Stairway (Rawlinson)	Drama	Jun. 28	5,000
Iron Man (Albertini)	Serial	Jun. 28	...
Behind the Curtain (Bryson)	Drama	July 5	4,875
A Royal Pair	Century com.	July 5	2,000
Why Be Jealous? (Roach)	Comedy	July 5	1,000
Young Ideas (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	July 12	4,845
Her Fortunate Face	Century com.	July 12	2,000
Little Savage	Short Western	July 12	2,000
Sawdust Trail (Gibson)	Western	July 19	5,500
Cry Baby (Summerville)	Comedy	July 19	1,000
Starving Beauties (Wiley)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Flying Eagle (Lawrence)	Short Western	July 26	2,000
Patching Things Up (Roach)	Comedy	July 26	2,000
Fighting Fury (Hoxie)	Western	Aug. 2	4,491
Kid Days (Snooky)	Comedy	Aug. 2	1,000
Her City Sport (Wiley)	Comedy	Aug. 2	2,000
The Gun Packer (Morrison)	Western	Aug. 2	2,000
Big Timber (Desmond)	Forest dr.	Aug. 9	4,650
Paging Money	Century com.	Aug. 9	2,000
King's Command (Lawrence)	Short Western	Aug. 9	2,000
Love and Glory (all star)	Drama	Aug. 16	7,084
Hit and Run (Gibson)	Baseball dr.	Aug. 16	5,504
Wolves of the North (Duncan)	Serial	Aug. 16	...
Wine (C. Bow)	Drama	Aug. 23	6,220
Hysterical History (Z Series)	Novelty	Aug. 23	1,000
Sagebush Vagabond	Western	Aug. 23	2,000
Butterfly (LaPlante)	Comedy-dr.	Aug. 30	7,472
The Blow Out (Messinger)	Comedy	Aug. 30	2,000
K—The Unknown (Valli-Marmont)	Drama	Sep. 6	8,146
All's Swell on the Ocean (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
So This Is Paris (Dempsey)	Fight and win	Sep. 6	2,000
Scared Stiff	Century com.	Sep. 6	2,000
Mind the Baby (Pal)	Comdey	Sep. 13	2,000
College Cowboy	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
Traffic Jams (McCoy)	Comedy	Sep. 13	2,000
Tempest Cody Gets Her Man (Walcamp)	Western	Sep. 13	2,000
That's the Spirit (Roach)	Comedy	Sep. 13	1,000
Measure of a Man (Desmond)	Drama	Sep. 20	4,979
Fast Worker (Denny-LaPlante)	Drama	Sep. 20	6,306
Low Bridge (Messinger)	Comdey	Sep. 27	2,000
Game Hunter (Roach)	Comdey	Sep. 27	1,000
Between Fires	Western	Sep. 27	2,000
Rose of Paris (Philbin)	Drama	Oct. 4	6,362
Rip Van Winkle	Hysterical Hist.	Oct. 4	1,000
Trouble Fixer	Century com.	Oct. 4	2,000
Western Wallop (Hoxie)	Ex-convict dr.	Oct. 11	4,611
Hello, Frisco (Summerville-Dunn)	Comedy	Oct. 11	1,000
Snappy Eyes (Wiley)	Comedy	Oct. 11	2,000
An Eyeful (Sullivan)	Short drama	Oct. —	—
Pocahontas & John Smith	Hysterical hist.	Oct. 18	1,000
What an Eye	Comedy	Oct. 18	2,000
Ridin' Kid From Powder River (Gibson)	Western	Oct. 25	5,727
Riddle Rider (Desmond-Sedgwick)	Serial	Nov. 1
Robinson Crusoe	Hysterical hist.	Nov. 1	1,000
Some Tomboy (Wiley)	Comedy	Nov. 1	2,000
The Tornado (H. Peters)	Melodrama	Nov. 15	6,375
Sweet Dreams	Century comedy	Nov. 15	2,000
Antony and Cleopatra	Gysterical History	Nov. 15	1,000
Speed, Boys (Trimble, Bobbles)	Century (kid)	Nov. 22	2,000
Oh, Doctor (R. Denny)	Comedy	Nov. 29	6,587
Omar Khayyan (Hysterical history)	Comedy	Nov. 29	1,000
Double Cross (Sullivan)	Drama	Nov. 29	2,000
Smouldering Fires (Frederick-LaPlante)	Drama	Dec. 13	7,356
Hurricane Kid (Gibson)	Western	Jan. 3	[illegible]
Secrets of the Night (Kirkwood-Bellamy)	Drama	Dec. 20	6,198
Mad Whirl (May MacAvoy)	Comedy-dr.	Dec. 27	6,184
Saddle Hawk (Gibson)	Western dr.	Mar. 7	4,419
Eyes of Fools (Rubens-Marmont)	Society dr.	Jan. 24	6,581
Fifth Avenue Models (Mary Philbin)	Drama		[illegible]
Up The Ladder (Valli)	Drama	Jan. 31
Let 'Er Back (Gibson)	Western	Jan. 3	5,500
Dangerous Innocence (LaPlante-O'Brien)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,759
Man in Blue (Rawlinson-Bellamy)	Drama	Feb. 28	5,624
Taming the West (Gibson)	Western	Feb. 28	5,304
Paul Revere	Hysterical histy.	Dec. 20	1,000
Border Maid (Ed Cobb)	Drama	Dec. 20	2,000
Family Row (Messinger)	Comedy	Dec. 20	2,000
Present Arms (Wiley)	Comedy	Dec. 27	2,000
Red Age (Sullivan)	Drama	Jan. 3	2,000
Ponce de Leon	Hysterical history	Jan. 3	1,000
Prehistoric Man	Hysterical history	Jan. 3	1,000

(Continued from preceding page)

	Kind of Picture	Review.	Feet
Sign of the Cactus (Hoxie)	Western	Jan. 10	4,938
Ridin' Pretty (Desmond-Forrest)	Western com.-dr.	Jan. 17	4,812
Looking Down (Wiley)	Comedy	Jan. 24	2,000
Aggravatin' Kid (Messinger)	Comedy	Jan. 31	2,000
Pistol Point Proposal (Eddie Polo)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Whip Hand (Billy Sullivan)	Western dr.	Jan. 31	2,000
Rembrandt	Hysterical histy.	Jan. 31	1,000
Last Laugh (Emil Jannings)	Human drama	Feb. 7	6,500
Fighting Ranger (Sedgwick-Daugherty)	Serial	Feb. 7
Roaring Adventure (Jack Hoxie)	Western	Feb. 14	4,800
Sir Walter Raleigh	Hysterical Histy.	Feb. 14	1,000
Taming the East (Messinger)	Comedy	Feb. 14	2,000
Tempest Cody's Man Hunt (Walcamp)	Western series	Feb. 21	2,000
Seeing Red (Billy Sullivan)	Cowboy drama	Feb. 21	2,000
Lost Chord (Bert Roach)	Comedy	Feb. 21	1,000
Nobody's Sweetheart (Wanda Wiley)	Century comedy	Feb. 21	2,000
Itching for Revenge (Eddie Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Kicked About (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Puzzled by Crosswords (Gordon)	Comedy	Mar. 7	2,000
Olympic Games	Hysterical histy.	Mar. 14	1,000
Dangerous Peach (Al Alt)	Century com.	Mar. 14	2,000
Don't Worry (Wanda Wiley)	Century com.	Mar. 21	2,000
Cowpuncher's Comeback	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Storm King	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Both Barrels	Mustang westn.	Mar. 21	2,000
Girl Problem	Sweet 16 com.	Mar. 21	1,000
Headwinds (H. Peters-Patsy R. Miller)	Drama	Mar. 28	5,486
Fighting Terror (Sullivan)	Mustang westn.	Mar. 28	2,000
Powdered Chickens (Edna Marian)	Century com.	Mar. 28	2,000
Tenting Out (Neely Edwards)	Comedy	Mar. 28	1,000
Burning Trail (Wm. Desmond)	Western	April 11	4,783
Loaded Dice (Ed. Cobb)	Mustang western	April 11	2,000
Papa's Pet (Roach-Edwards-Howell)	Bulls-eye com.	April 11	1,000
Putting On Airs (Edna Marian)	Century comedy	April 11	2,000
Smoked Out	Bulls-eye com.	April 11	1,000

VITAGRAPH

Virtuous Liars (Allen-Powell)	Society dr.	Apr. 19	5,650
One Law For The Woman (Landis)	Mining camp		6,000
Code of the Wilderness (Bowers-Calhoun)	Modern west.	July 12	6,480
Behold This Woman (Rich)	Movie romance	Aug. 2	6,425
Captain Blood (Star Cast)	Sabatini romance	Sep. 20	10,680
Clean Heart or Cruelties of Life	Modern dr.	Sep. 27	7,950
Greater Than Marriage (Tellegen-Daw)	Theatre dr.
Beloved Brute (De La Motte)	Melodrama	Nov. 22	6,719
Two Shall Be Born (Novak-Harlan)	Drama
Pampered Youth (Landis-Calhoun)	Drama	Feb. 21	6,640
Redeeming Sin (Nazimova-Tellegen)	Apache dr.	Jan. 31	6,227
Barree, Son of Kazan	Special
Fearbound (Daw-Welch)	Melodrama	Feb. 14	5,700
Steele of Royal Mounted	Special
In the Garden of Charity	Special
Happy Warrior	Special
Alibi	Special
Road That Led Home	Special
Unknown Story	Special
School for Wives (Tearle-Holmquiest)	Drama	April 11	6,182

WARNER BROTHERS

George Washington, Jr. (Barry)	Comedy-drama	Mar. 22	5,674
Daddies (Belasco)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,228
Conductor 1492 (Hines)	Comedy-drama	Feb. 23	7,080
Beau Brummel (J. Barrymore)	Romantic drama	Apr. 12	10,930
Broadway After Dark (Menjou)	Comedy-drama	May 31	7,019
Babbitt (all-star)	Character drama	July 1	7,900
Being Respectable (all-star)	Society drama	Aug. 16	6,040
How to Educate a Wife (star cast)	Society drama		6,000
Her Marriage Vow (all-star)	Society drama		7,100
Cornered (all-star)	Society drama		7,300
Lovers' Lane (all-star)	Character drama	Nov. 29	5,100
Tenth Woman (all-star)	Society drama		6,250
Find Your Man (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Oct. 4	7,300
This Woman (Rich)	Society drama	Nov. 1	7,100
Lover of Camille (all-star)	Romantic drama	Nov. 29	7,180
Dark Swan (Prevost-Blue-Chadwick)	Drama	Dec. 6	6,800
Narrow Street (D. Devore-Matt Moore)	Light comedy	Jan. 17	6,700
Lighthouse by the Sea (Rin-Tin-Tin)	Melodrama	Jan. 10	6,700
Lost Lady (Irene Rich)	Social drama	Feb. 7	6,700
Broadway Butterfly (Devore-Landis)	Broadway dr.		7,705
On Thin Ice (Moore-Roberts)	Crook drama		7,298
Man Without a Conscience (Rich-Lewis)	Drama		6,850
Recompense (Prevost-Blue)	Society drama		7,480
My Wife and I (Irene Rich)	Domestic dr.		6,700
On Thin Ice (T. Moore-Edith Roberts)	Drama	Mar. 21	7,046
Bridge of Sighs (Dorothy MacKaill)	Pathos dr.	Apr. 4	6,694

MISCELLANEOUS

ARTCLASS PICTURES CORP.

Rough Ridin' (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Apr. 26	4,670
Rarin' to Go (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Aug. 2	5,000
Battling Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 13	4,000
Biff Bang Buddy (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 20	4,500
Fast and Fearless (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Thrill dr.	Sep. 27	4,500
Walloping Wallace (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill western	Oct. 11	4,700
Hard Hittin' Hamilton (Buf. Bill, Jr.)	Thrill western	Oct. 18	5,000
Gold and Grit (B. Roosevelt)	Thrill dr.	April 11	4,650
Bringing Home the Bacon (Buffalo Bill)	Thrill dr.		4,650
After Six Days	Biblical spec.		10,000
Woman Who Believed (Ann Luther)			5,700
Deerslayer (J. W. Kerrigan)			5,000
On the Go (Buffalo Bill, Jr.)	Western	Apr. 4	4,825

BANNER PRODUCTIONS

Truth About Women (Hampton)	Society drama	Review.	Feet
Man Without a Heart (Harlan)	Society drama		6,000
Those Who Judge (P. R. Miller)	Society melo.		5,700
Daughters Who Pay (all-star)	Society drama		5,800
Empty Hearts (all-star)	Society drama		5,860

C. B. C.

	Kind of Picture	Oct. 25	5,600
Battling Fool (R. Fairbanks)	Prize fight		4,975
Foolish Virgin (E. Hammerstein)	Social drama		5,900
Price She Paid (A. Rubens)	Marriage dr.		5,957
Fight for Honor (Fairbanks-Novak)	Railroad dr.		4,570
Midnight Express (Hammerstein)	Railroad melo.	Dec. 6	5,967

C. C. BURR

Speed Spook (J. Hines)	Thrill drama	Aug. 30	6,006
Average Woman (Pauline Garon)	Drama	Feb. 9	6,400
Lend Me Your Husband (Kenyon)	Drama		6,700
Youth for Sale (S. Holmquist)	Drama	Oct. 18	6,500
The Early Bird (Hines)	Comedy	Dec. 27	7,000
Cracker Jack (Johnny Hines)	Drama		6,500

CHADWICK PICTURES CORP.

Fire Patrol (all-star)	Melo. of Sea	May 24	6,600
Meddling Women (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Oct. 18	6,400
Painted Flapper (all-star)	Comedy-drama	Oct. 25	5,600
I Am the Man (L. Barrymore)	Dom. melo.	Nov. 1	7,600
Flattery (Bowers)	Political dr.	Nov. 8	6,000
Tomboy (Devore-Rawlinson)	Melodramatic com.	Jan. 3	6,000
Midnight Girl (Lila Lee)	Drama	Mar. 28	6,300

CRANFIELD & CLARKE

Lily of the Alley (Chrissie White)	Slum drama		6,289
Strangling Threads (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,410
A Soul's Awakening (LeBreton)	Slum drama		5,597
Speak No Evil (Alma Taylor)	Society drama		5,500
Comin' Thru The Rye (all-star)	Romantic dr.		6,500

DAVIS DISTRIBUTING CORP.

Tales of 1,001 Nights (French Cast)	Arabian Nights	Feb. 14	6,800

J. J. FLEMING PROD.

Shackles of Fear (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Trail of Vengeance (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000
Phantom Shadows (Ferguson)	Melodrama		5,000
Scarlet and Gold (Ferguson)	N. W. Police		5,000

FRENCH SUBJECT

(American Distributor not announced)

Miracle of the Wolves	Historical dr.	Mar. 7	10,246

GERSON PICTURES CORP.

Too Much Youth (Richard Holt)	Modern drama	Feb. 21	4,800

INDEPENDENT PICTURES CORP.

Border Justice (Bill Cody)	Western dr.	Nov. 8	5,452
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Bootlegging dr.	Nov. 29	4,960
Bill Cody series of eight	Stunt dramas
Baffled (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,940
Bandit Tamer (E. Farnum)	Comedy west.		5,240
Barriers of the Law (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		4,980
Billy, The Kid (F. Farnum)	Western		4,790
Blood and Steel (Desmond-Holmes)	Society dr.		5,000
Calibre 45 (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		4,950
Courage (F. Farnum)	Western dr.		5,020
In Spider's Web (Alice Dean)	Melodrama		6,000
Moonshine (B Cody)	Western		4,980
Drug-Store Cowboy (F. Farnum)	Western com.-dr.	Feb. 7	4,356

RAYART

Battling Brewster (Farnum)	15 ep. ser.		6,067
Easy Money (All-Star)	Drama
Butterfly Comedies (Gloria Joy)
Super Speed (Reed Howes)	Automobile com.-dr.	Feb. 7	5,227
Geared to Go (Howes)	Drama		5,117
Right Man (Larkin)	Drama		4,571
Winning a Woman (Perrin-Hill)	Drama		4,865
Getting 'Em Right (Larkin)	Drama		4,669
Snob Buster (Howes)	Drama
Quick Change (Larkin)	Drama
Youths Gamble (Howes)	Drama
Double Fister (Perrin)	Drama

RED SEAL PICTURES CORP.

Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Nov. 22	1,000
Should a Husband Tell (Gem of Screen)	Gems of screen	Nov. 22	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Nov. 22	2,000
League of Nations (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Nov. 29	1,000
The Cure (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Dec. 13	1,000
Zoo's Who's Who (Gem of Screen)	Novelty	Dec. 27	1,000
Film Facts	Magazine	Jan. 10	1,000
Marvels of Motion (Issue B)	Slow motion nov.	Jan. 17	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoons	Marcus cartoon	Jan. 24	300
Cartoon Factory	Cartoon nov.	Jan. 24	1,000
Mother Goose Land	Cartoon	Jan. 24	1,000
Storm (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon	Mar. 21	1,000
Do You Remember	Scenic novelty	Mar. 21	1,000
Animated Hair (Issues R and UU)	Marcus cartoon	Mar. 28	300
Film Facts (Issue D)	Magazine	Mar. 28	1,000
Ko-Ko the Barber (Out of Inkwell)	Cartoon novelty	Mar. 28	1,000
Day With the Gypsies	Screen Gem	April 11	1,000
Animated Hair Cartoon F	Novelty	April 11	300

RUSSELL PRODUCTIONS

Passing of Wolf MacLean (All-Star)	Western melo.	Nov. 29	4,712
Courageous Coward (Jack Meehan)	Western	Dec. 6	4,052

WM. STEINER PROD.

Poison (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 13	5,600
Turned Up (Hutchison)	Stunt dr.	Sep. 27	4,900
Riding Double (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,008
Tucker's Top Hand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,618
Rainbow Rangers (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,982
Perfect Alibi (Maloney)	Western dr.		5,108
Left Hand Brand (N. Hart)	Western dr.		4,894
Pot Luck Pards (Morrison)	Western dr.		4,927
Virtue's Revolt (Thornton)	Stage melodrama	Oct. 11	5,179
On Probation (Edith Thornton)	Drama	Dec. 13	5,000
Across the Dead Line	Western		5,000
Always Ridin' to Win	Western		5,000
Hidden Menace	Stunt dr.		5,000
Branded a Thief	Western		5,060
Verdict of the Desert	Western		4,745
Valley of Vanishing Men	Western		4,652
Trouble Buster (Leo Maloney)	Western	Feb. 21	5,000

PROJECTION

EDITED BY F. H. RICHARDSON

Pretty Good Comedy

Not so long ago the official mouthpiece of the supply dealers stated a "Projection Department," which same, in order to secure correspondence, immediately offered a cash prize of $25.00 for the best letter received from an "Operator" during each month, though nothing was said as to the kind of "Operator" the letter was to come from. It might be a bucket shop operator, a telegraph or telephone operator, a man operating a theatre, an operator on ladies' silk underwear, a coal mine operator, an operator on vests or pants, or any one of more than a hundred sorts and varieties of recognized "Operators," including the "operator of a moving picture machine."

Anyhow, the first "prize" letter was duly published in the said official mouthpiece, since which time I have received a goodly number of clippings from the O. M. P. of the "Prize" letter, and I'll say it is SOME prize, alrighty right. The clippings were accompanied by letters ridiculing the letter, protesting against the publication of such stuff in what purports to be a projection department and just plain "cussing" it and the publication.

A Laugh

And now comes one which is pretty good comedy, though to fully appreciate it you would have to see the "prize" letter itself, and it is too long to waste space on. It comes from Grand Forks, So. Dakota. The man sends his name and address, but signs the actual letter under the nom de plume, "Otto B. Shot." With the notation that he is supposed to be writing to the Very Technical Editor of the aforesaid Official Mouthpiece, Otto B. Shot says:

> Dear Mister Very Technical Editor: I would like to win the next wad of dough. I think a good letter on the film-punch change-over signal will have an excellent chance of meeting your evidently very high grade approval and thus bring home the bacon. I can't find anything in Richardson's handbook (I keep right up on my operating and have the second edition of it) on where to start the punching, so I just start about thirty feet from the end of each spool of film, using a punch ⅝ of an inch in diameter, and punch every other pitcher for about twenty feet. From there on I make a long scratch to the end of the film.

Quite a Help

> This is quite a help, especially if there is a fade-out on the end and I can't find where the pitchers are. The reason why I only punch every other pitcher is so that the next OPERATOR will have room for his own kind of punch mark change-over signal. I never did believe in being selfish, or hoggish. Live and let live is my motter.
>
> This is an absolutely infallible change-over signal for the OPERATORS. Even the lamp may be lit and got going by the signal, if you begin punching say about a hundred feet from the end of each spool. Its only objection is that it takes quite a bit of time for the OPERATOR to punch the holes, but at that it's worth it, because it keeps you from missing half the change-overs. Could not you, Mr. Technical Editor, get some manufacturer to make a power punch which could be hitched on to the pitcher machine somewhere, thus relieving the OPERATOR of the drudgery of all this punching? There sure would be a big demand for it from the thousands of OPERATORS still in the game.

Bluebook School

Question No. 266—Assuming a generator of high voltage to be thoroughly and completely insulated from earth, could you stand with your bare feet on earth and handle either positive or negative raw wire with your bare hands?

Question No. 267—Does current seek to escape from positive to earth? Explain your answer.

Question No. 268—Assuming that there is a ground on both positive and negative, will there necessarily be current leakage?

Question No. 269—What would happen were the uninsulated positive of one generator to come into contact with the uninsulated negative of another generator?

Question No. 270—Describe the action of alternating current. Use some words on this one that make it clear that you understand the matter.

Another Idee!

> Now, Mr. Sup. De'lr Technical Ed., if this letter don't win the dough I got another on a new idea for keeping the lens cool without having to put that darn fan out in front of it. I been an OPERATOR for twelve years now, but I never seen nothing that would beat these new steel jacketed carbons I got for the negative side of the lamphouse. With these you can throw the light right into the hole where the film is the first time you start the lamp.

I would suppose after having read the "prize" letter, that this good brother really ought to win the next prize, and that he should have a bonus as well.

However, don't feel too badly worked up about this new "Projection Department." It is about what one expects when men step entirely out of their legitimate field and tackle something they know little or nothing about, except in a very general way—even as I know, in a general sort of a way, how to run a battleship engine, BUT if I actually tried to do it, though I used to call myself a pretty fairly good engineer, still I would hate to tell what a mess that engine, and probably the ship, too, would be in a very short while.

Moral: Let the shoemaker stick to his last.

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

Your own special Ticket, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon Tickets for Prize Drawings; 5,000 for $7.00. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated All tickets must conform to Government regulation and bear established price of admission and tax paid.

SPECIAL TICKET PRICES

Five Thousand	$3.50
Ten Thousand	6.00
Fifteen Thousand	7.00
Twenty-five Thousand	9.00
Fifty Thousand	12.50
One Hundred Thousand	18.00

National Ticket Co. Shamokin, Pa.

Probably Wrong Lenses

Phillip Manino, Manager Wonderland Theatre, Madera, Pa., says:

> Want some information; also hand you herewith answers to questions 241 to 245. Have been a projectionist for more than two years, and have been working around machines (Presumably projectors.—Ed.) for about five years. I am thoroughly experienced and have learned from men who have worked around machines (Again presumably meaning picture projectors. There are many kinds of "machines," you know.—Ed.) Am manager of the theatre and sometimes its projectionist also, as times are so bad that we can hardly afford to employ any help at all.
>
> My screen is 9 x 12 (presumably meaning the picture itself is that size—Ed.) The projection distance is 80 feet. Have Powers 6B projectors. Use A. C. at the arc. Use 7½ condenser and ¾ inch carbons. Had a very nice light until two weeks ago, when I cracked a condenser and put in another. Since then I have had a poor light on both projectors. What do you suppose is the trouble?

Information Meager

Don't know, friend. Your information is entirely too meager to permit of intelligent advice being given. Will help you as much as possible if you will send me the following information: (a) Did you install entire new condensers in both projectors, or only in one of them? (b) Did you install entire new condensers, or just the collector lens—the lens next the arc? (c) How many amperes are you using? Surely not enough to warrant the use of three quarter inch carbons. (d) What are you taking your current through, a transformer, two transformers or through rheostats? (e) What is the free (smallest opening) of your projection lens? (f) What is the exact working distance—distance from film to first surface of the lens—of your projection lenses? Send me ALL of this information, together with about three of your upper carbon stubs, which may be cut off with a hack saw until only the crater remains, provided the crater itself be not disturbed, and I will tell you what you ought to have. It is probable that you have changed the focal length of your condenser, though if you only changed the condenser, and presumably only the collector lens thereof, of one projector, and now you get poor results from both projectors, then something else is wrong.

When you send this data please again set forth exactly what your trouble is, so I won't have to stop to hunt up your former letter.

Not So Bad

C. V. Hile, Projectionist Majestic Theatre, Akron, Ohio, makes a suggestion which, with modification, I think is worthy of consideration and ACTION by all those who have the real welfare of the profession at heart. Here it is:

> Regarding film mutilation by punching, scratching and sticker change-over signals, here is a suggestion which may at least help to minimize the evil of such practices. Let every real PROJECTIONIST who has the interest of the profession and the motion picture industry at heart cut out all such marks in every production, news reel, etc., that he projects, making a comprehensive cue sheet, pasting same into the film container when he re-ships the films.
>
> Personally I believe that projectionists are now in the majority over machine operators, hence the co-operation of all projectionists in this matter would undoubtedly at least greatly reduce the evil. Don't you think so?
>
> Up to Men
>
> We all know film exchanges won't do anything really effective, hence it is up to the projectionists themselves. Could you not start something along this line similar to the "Anti Mis-frame Club?" If you could, then please enter my name as a charter member.
>
> The dictionary defines Projectionist as One who throws out. Let us live up to this definition and "throw out" every possible effort to minimize the evil set up by machine operators and the negligence of exchanges in failing to abate the nuisance.

Has Virtues

Not so bad, Brother Hile, except that pasting the cue sheet into the container won't do, because the same container may not be used for the same reel of film next time, or perhaps it may even not be used for the same production. BUT the idea is a corking good one just the same, and if any considerable number of our gang will follow it for just a few weeks, or, say, for two or three months, results will follow because, if nothing else be accomplished, the punch artists who punch, scratch or stick for the very good reason that they don't know how to make a cue sheet will have the chance to learn how, AND HOW TO USE ONE.

Of course many punch artists punch because they are just too LAZY to do anything they can possibly get out of, but I nevertheless think that a goodly number of men mutilate film who would not do it if they knew how to make an effective cue sheet and learned how to use one. In any event the thing is well worth a try-out.

Work? Certainly it will mean work, but, my worth-while brother, in this old world there is NO EXCELLENCE WITHOUT GREAT LABOR.

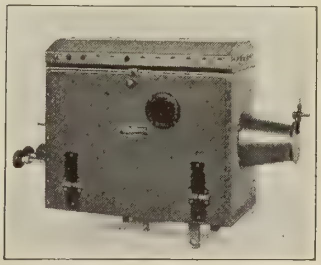
Club? No, Thanks

As to starting a club—no, thanks; I've plenty to do as it is. All I CAN do, as a matter of fact, and more, too. Anyhow, I believe that men who have to belong to a "club" which consists in absolutely nothing except a name, in order to do the right thing, won't do it for long, anyhow. They are too shiftless. Please understand, Brother Hile, that I am NOT taking a poke at you. In making the suggestion you undoubtedly meant well, but did not stop to give the matter due consideration. The anti-mis-frame club, or league, consisted and consists of absolutely nothing under the sun but the name. If it ever accomplished anything of an even semi-permanent nature I never knew of it, and you will, I think, agree that I am in fairly close touch with such matters.

In closing, let me compliment you on the excellence of your suggestion, and ask that projectionists set forth their views as to how the plan may be made effective, or if they think it is practical. DON'T wait for George to do it. Sit down NOW, and let me know YOUR views concerning this matter.

WELDED WIRE REELS
For Sale by
Howells Cine Equipment Co.,
740 7th Ave., New York

SAVE TWO-THIRDS ON CURRENT, 25% ON CARBONS AND GET MUCH BETTER SCREEN ILLUMINATION WITH THE PREDDEY REFLECTOR ARCLAMP.



For any make of Machine. Automatic feed type, $300. Hand feed type, $200. Write for Bulletin. Two of these Lamps may be burned at one time on Rectifier or Small Generator.

Has many valuable features not found in other makes.

WALTER G. PREDDEY
187 Golden Gate Ave. San Francisco, Calif.

"You want Phelco!"

PHELCO
PERFECT ARC CARBONS

Slower burning Increased light
Smooth and quiet arc
Less condenser pitting and cracking
If your dealer cannot supply you, write to us.

Charles W. Phellis & Co.
Incorporated
130 West 42nd Street New York
For Canada: Keystone Trading Co., Ltd.,
10 Ste. Sophie Lane, Montreal

Exchanges Just Won't

John E. Kreger, Projectionist, Haff Theatre, Plainville, Kansas, makes a suggestion, as follows:

> Dear Friend Richardson—Have been reading the Bluebook School in the Projection Department for about two months and it certainly has helped me. As soon as possible I will get a Bluebook.
>
> Have noticed considerable discussion about eliminating punch and other change-over marks put in or on film. My own idea which I have not seen mentioned in the department, would be for film exchanges to themselves make a change-over cue sheet and paste it upon the inside of the shipping box lid, in such way, if it can be done, that the reels won't injure it during shipment. Such a cue sheet would need changing at times, but not often. In this I may be mistaken, but it don't hurt one to make a mistake if in so doing we improve ourselves or our knowledge.
>
> I have noticed that since I have been trying to put into effect those things I have learned through the Bluebook School the exchange is sending me better prints, which indicates that it pays the machine attendant or the projectionist to take better care of the films.
>
> Manager Wondered
>
> When first I started reading our department the manager wondered what had gotten into me, as I was spending more of my spare time in the projection room; also he noticed the improvement in the picture, which shows that some of the things you have set forth have in some mysterious way, penetrated my ivory dome. Needless to say, I wish for yourself and our department continued success.

Well, brother, that last seems fairly well assured, after fifteen years of strife, battles and life—the department was "born" February 19, 1910. You have no "solid ivory dome." The man who is not self satisfied—who realizes he has much to learn and takes advantage of such avenues of learning as may be open to him, is the sort of man who gets somewhere in the end. He is basically a progressive.

About the Bluebook

I would suggest that you get your manager to advance the money to procure your Bluebook, deducting say a dollar a week until it is repaid—that is if he won't get one himself, as a part and parcel of the projection room equipment. That is really what he ought to do. Many theatre managers are doing that very thing, making the projectionist responsible for the book. Some withhold six dollars, which is repaid when the man quits, or is discharged, and the book turned in at the office. That last is fair enough.

As to the exchange making a cue sheet—yes, that has been considered in the department, though quite some while ago. The chief trouble is that the exchanges won't do it. I have never advocated it very strongly, because unless the cue sheet be made up by a man who understands projection it would be worthless or even worse than worthless; also pasting them in the shipping box or reel can is not practicable, because there is no assurance that the same box or can will be sent out with the same production or the same reel continuously.

Your suggestion shows that you THINK, but I am afraid it is not one I can recommend for adoption. Why don't you get your Bluebook and try answering the Bluebook School questions? There is no need for you to be afraid to try it. If your answer is not correct, only I will know that fact. If it is poorly worded I will take care of that end of it. Get busy.

Tranquillity Busted

E. H. Pyle, Projectionist, Lyric Theatre, Chappell, Nebraska, busts our peace and massacres our quiet, as follows:

Dear Brother Richardson: Well, here I am again, busting into the peace and quiet (?) of our department. Should you not recall me to memory, I think brother Thomas, Creston, Iowa, will be able to do so. This time, though I'll try not to pick on a brother projectionist. Like the rest of the guys who know it all, everything and then some, hence don't have to learn any more, I have to come to the "Old Man" for advice.

Recently my boss and I have been engaged in our favorite pastime—an argument. This time it was about the reflector type lamp. I am 'for' them and about the time we had everything about set to go ahead and gettum, a film salesman came along and said "nix on that stuff." Well, to cut it short, I discovered that I knew something less than less than nothing at all about them, when it came right down to brass tacks, though I had read about them in the department. The salesman seemed to know all about them, but being of a skeptical turn of mind I decided to ask your opinion. I might add that the aforesaid screen salesman has a motor generator he desires, with an ardent desire, to sell.

Salesman's Claims

He claims the spot is not clear, it being yellow about the sides (always thought all spots had more or less of that), and it was hard to get a white light without the yellow interfering. Also he said the crater had a tendency to point upwards, so that it was hard to control the arc. Also he said the reflector lamp was much more expensive than the economizer and the Mazda, and less efficient. Also that the condenser (did not know there was any. Must have forgotten everything I knew about 'em) interfered with the forming of a good spot—that is to say they did not permit of the mirror being moved or adjusted.

That's All!

Briefly that seems to be about all he said was the matter with the lamp, and I'm wondering if it is true. Some of it sounds rather fishy to me, and I would like your honest opinion, which I know I may depend upon you to give. Also here are some things I would like to ask with regard to the low amperage reflector lamp. I am using 30 amperes from a 220 volt line, through a mercury arc rectifier. Is it possible to use this on the low intensity lamp, using 15 to 20 amperes at the arc? At present my rectifier only permits of one lamp at a time being used, hence at change-over I must "steal" the current from one lamp to the other, which causes a poor light at the beginning of each reel. Will it be possible to use both low amperage lamps at once?

A Triumph

Just a word concerning the Bluebook School. You certainly, as all motion picture projectionists, as well as the machine attendants, have to admit, scored a veritible triumph when you started the "school." I can say, with absolute truth, that it has made for better projection in this theatre. Had quite a time convincing the boss that the screen needed recoating, which had not been done in more than a year. It was not until I showed him what brother Hanover, Burlington, Iowa, had to say in his answer to one of the Bluebook school questions with regard to screen surfaces, that he was convinced. When he saw how easily it could be done, and the surprising results, he has promised to have it done every ninety days. We use the regular kalsomine, put up in boxes under various trade names.

To this white, which is more creamy than white in powder form, I added some light blue—really showcard blue ink in water form. When the job was done the results far exceeded my expectations. It certainly did make a wonderful difference. This theatre owes the department a lot, for without it I guess I could not have convinced friend boss.

Apologies

My apologies to Brother Thomas, Creston, Iowa, for having criticised him. He says he is now a small-town man and drawing forty berries per week. Well, he ought not to kick at that. My own (Some of you city men get a grip on yourselves, lest you have heart failure) $12.50 per each Saturday night is not such a much, but with it I manage to worry through the week, notwithstanding the fact that I had to buy my own Bluebook, lens charts and Moving Picture World subscription. Also and moreover I have bought and paid for a film splicer and a rewinder motor—a new one too, and a practically complete kit of tools. Oh well, its a great life—if you don't weaken, which I don't intend to do. I'm going to STICK.

Show This to the Boss

Right off the bat, you show this to friend Boss. If he feels that he owes this department anything for the better results its messages have given his theatre, then let him repay it by buying that motor and film splicer for you and adding it to the regular theatre equipment. He should also supply a Bluebook, as many managers are doing. They buy the book—some of them two, one for the projection room and one for the office. The projection room book is charged up to the projectionist. Six dollars are held out of his pay. When he quits, voluntarily or otherwise, the money is returned to him. It is good business procedure. I don't think your friend Boss realizes that it is only fairness that he should at least supply you with what is needed in the projection room. If he had to pay from thirty to one hundred dollars a week, as practically all theatres running full time now do, AND buy the things you have named besides, as practically all theatre managers now have to do—well, tell him I said to think it over, and play fair.

Salesman "Wisdom"

As to film salesman "wisdom" with regard to projection room equipment, it is positively

Complying with the law at a profit

Patrons of your theatre know that DIXIE Coin Vending Machines provide them with clean, fresh, glass shaped, individual drinking cups, for which they gladly pay.

The actual profit from DIXIE Coin Vendors in the foyer, lobby and retiring rooms, is due the theatre owners for this courtesy of supplying a needed convenience, even though the common drinking glass is prohibited by law.

The column of snowy-white DIXIE Cups easily seen, immediately attracts the attention of the discriminating patron whose appreciation of this health guarding convenience is reflected in that greatest of all assets—good will.

Complete information upon request.

A fresh cup with every drink.

Individual Drinking Cup Co. Inc.

Original Makers of Paper Cups

Easton, Pa. New York, N. Y.

With branches at Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore, Los Angeles.

Nowadays—they drink from

DIXIE INDIVIDUAL CUPS

Old Mercury

is on the jump

this month

April is a queer proposition. One day it's cold—the next warm. One week is all rain—the following all wind. And then, before you know it, you may run into a real hot spell—and a crashing drop in business.

Of course, that's only a taste of what's coming a few weeks after. And it's your notice to get information on Typhoon Cooling before it's too late.

Just tell us to mail
you our Booklet W-7

Typhoon Fan Company

345 West 39th Street New York

Philadelphia Jacksonville New Orleans Dallas

amazing what a marvelous fund of "expert" knowledge supply dealers and film salesmen have with regard to projection problems—if you take their word for it. And who would refuse to take the word of a film salesman? When he comes around to sell your boss a production which he knows is poor to rotten, don't he prove his sterling honesty by informing him, the Boss, that it is just that ????? Of course he does NOT! And this particular bird hath a motor generator to sell, you tell me. Certainly he wILL telL YuO the tRuTH abOUT somETHing whIcH wiLL inTERfeRe wiTH HiS M. G. SalE!! Gosh! That lie was so rank that even the typewriter carriage bobbed up and down in protest.

I have not followed up the low intensity development as closely as I should have. Just haven't time to look after everything, but will get after it pretty pronto now, and will presently give our readers the full, up-to-date dope. Meanwhile, I will have low intensity lamp men reply to your queries fully and in detail.

Readers, Write

I would also suggest to users of low intensity lamps that they write friend Pyle. Don't allow the low pay he receives to influence you against him. Chappell is merely a village and village theatres cannot possibly pay high wages, though it does seem as though friend Pyle's boss might boost the ante at least a bit. Twelve fifty is pretty nearly nothing these days, though I well remember the day when the highest weekly wage paid any projectionist in the City of Chicago was $18.00.

But that day was NOT this day, and while Chicago is not a village, still, friend Manager, if I were you I'd boost the twelve fifty to fifteen, anyhow, if I busted a gallus button doing it. You have an energetic, enterprising man in Pyle. He is worth all you can afford to pay him. This department does NOT propose to interfere in the question of wages, except where it seems that a SUGGESTION is for the best good of all concerned. I expect brother Pyle will raise shoel about my publishing this, but after many years of experience I have never yet seen a case where an abnormally low pay worked out to the ultimate good of the employer, and that statement is just plain, honest FACT. I trust brother Pyle's Boss will forgive me for this plain talk, and give the matter due consideration. Encourage ability and energetic enterprise, and the best place in which to give it recognition is in the pay envelope.

CV Splices in One

A Pennsylvania projectionist says:

> Here are some samples of improved labor saving devices. They are a few samples of the 105 (That's what that CV means. Did'nt know, didja.—Ed.) splices I removed from a feature recently. What do you think of them? Why not land on the exchanges first, instead of the projectionist. Please don't use my name or name of theatre, as the exchange would then try to get back at me.

What do I think of them? Better ask me what I think of the exchange mis-manager who allows such junk to go out. They are evidently labor-saving devices all right. That is to say the man who made them evidently did not waste any labor on them, and the exchange wasted no labor removing them. Such things constitute a CRIME against the theatre, the audience, the projectionist and the MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY.

Dean of Them All

William Reed, commonly known as "Billie" Reed, Atlantic City, N. J., who is the dean of all projectionists insofar as has to do with men working continuously at the business, in writing on another matter says:

> Opened the Palace Theatre (Atlantic City) March first. Have never worked for a better manager. Have carte blanche to order anything which will improve results upon the screen, which is something new in Atlantic City.
>
> I have two Simplex machines—(You mean two Simplex projectors, don't you, Billie?) I personally know of a number of different kinds of Simplex "machines."—Ed.) and and a G. E. 70 ampere generator. Have Parabolic condensers. Tried the condensers (Parabolic) out with the regular projection lenses this afternoon. They gave at least thirty per cent. more screen illumination. At night I put on the Cinephor projection lenses, and oh boy, how the picture did stand out. I am tickled pink. Excellence in projection has always appealed to me, but this is my first real chance for many a moon.

This is a photograph of "Billie" Reed, who went to New Orleans with William Rock and his partner Wainright in 1896 and opened what was the first motion picture theatre of which any authentic record exists. Reed was the projectionist. He has projected motion pictures without a break, ever since. I therefore hold him to be the dean of all motion picture projectionists.

The results which surprise you, Brother Reed, are merely proof that your other condensers were totally unsuited to the conditions. It is more than likely that had you selected your condensers and distance "Y" by means of the lens chart the difference would not have been so startling. It is also quite possible, or even probable that there would have been a considerable difference, nevertheless, because it is not always possible to get efficient results with plano convex condenser lenses.

Chart Information

The lens charts tell you how to use plano convex to the best possible advantage, both with the ordinary and the high intensity arc, yet it is astounding how many theatres are blundering along without the charts, wasting more than its price EVERY DAY THEY OPERATE—or at least many of them are. THEATRE MANAGERS WHO DO NOT SEE TO IT THAT A LENS CHART IS ON THE WALLS OF THE PROJECTION ROOM OF THEIR THEATRE AND THAT THE MEN KNOW HOW TO AND DO USE IT STILL HAVE SOMETHING TO LEARN ABOUT THE EFFICIENT, ECONOMICAL MANAGEMENT OF A THEATRE. On the other hand, the projectionist who butts along without so essential a tool as the lens charts is on a par with the doctor who "gets along," without medical books.

However, this much may be said for the projectionist. If the theatre manager cares so very little about high grade, efficient, economical projection that he balks at spending money for anything in the way of projection room equipment which can possibly be gotten along without, then it is but natural that the projectionist himself is not going to feel very enterprising. His attitude is very likely to be: Oh well, if he (the manager) doesn't care, why should I. A wrong attitude, yes—but after all a very natural one.

Callous Conscience

Glenn G. Wallace, Projectionist, Jefferson Theatre, Muskegon, Michigan, says:

> Dear Friend Richardson—Inclosing some of the beautiful (?) splices I removed from a feature we are using. They sounded like a machine gun when they went through the projector, and the musicians had to kick the picture out of the orchestra pit every time one hit the aperture.
>
> Exchange inspectors must have callouses on their conscience, instead of on their fingers.

The splices are the usual too-much-cement kind; strong, but stiff as a board. They are correct width, too, which emphasizes the fact that ONE wrong item in procedure in splice-making will, or may operate to, spoil the whole thing. It looks as though these splices had been scraped too much also, though of that I cannot be certain, as they were so well cemented that I was unable to separate a single one of them.

The exchange inspector should, of course, have removed them, and reported their presence to the exchange manager, who in his turn, should have taken the matter up with the theatre responsible for the fault. "Callouses on their conscience" is distinctly good. Most projectionists and machine attendants (operators) will say Amen to that.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS
Help and Situations Wanted Only

3c per word per insertion
Minimum charge 60c
Terms, Strictly Cash with Order

Copy must reach us by Tuesday noon to insure publication in that week's issue.

SITUATIONS WANTED

FIRST-CLASS EXPERIENCED ORGANIST desires immediate or future engagement. Accomplished musician. Picture player and soloist of exceptional ability. Union man. Magnificent library. Good instrument essential. Wire or write. Arthur Edward Jones, Princess Hotel, Atlantic City, N. J.

PROJECTIONIST and electrician thoroughly experienced on Simplex and Powers with any electrical equipment. A-1 reference. Finkel. 5225 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

PROJECTIONIST desires position with first-class theatre where high-class projection is demanded and appreciated. Seven years' experience, references. Must give present employer two weeks' notice. Box 368, Moving Picture World, New York City.

THEATRE CLOSING MAY 1st—Union projectionist desires permanent position in first-class theatre. Eleven years' experience, any make projectors. Six years with present employer. Married, steady and reliable. Can furnish best references as to ability, character and attention to duty. E. W. Sanor, Box 421, Kankakee, Illinois.

Bluebook School—Answers No. 236 to 240

Question No. 236—Name the various methods used for measuring film footage.

A. L. Fell, Collingswood, New Jersey; Harry T. Dobson, Toronto, Ontario; F. H. Moore, Taunton, Mass.; Glenn G. Wallace, Muskegon, Michigan; Allie Baron, Lodi, California; H. C. Mallery, Castle Rock, Wyoming; Harold E. Hurlbutt, Oskosh, Wisconsin, C. H. Hanover, Burlington, Iowa and S. F. Cooley, Manchester, N. H., all gave satisfactory answers to this one.

Burnett says:

The various methods available to the projectionist for measuring film footage are: (a) By counting the revolutions of the projector crank shaft as the film passes through, each revolution being equal to exactly one foot of film; (b) By using methods a, but with a film footage indicator attached to the projector; (c) By using a film measuring device placed between the two elements of the rewinder and causing the film to pass through it in the process of rewinding; (d) A very effective make-shift for the film measuring device, though not for use between rewinder standards, may be had by removing the intermittent of an old projector mechanism, attaching a counting device to the crank shaft, and passing the film through the upper sprocket. By this plan the counting device will register the footage, since each revolution of the crank shaft measures one foot of film.

Wallace says:

There are several excellent instruments on the market for measuring film, but they are too expensive to form a part of the average projectionist's tool kit, and most theatre managers would not see an advantage in having them in the projection room commensurate with their cost. The projectionist may, however, measure the footage of his entire programme, or any one or more reels thereof, merely by applying the known fact that all professional motion picture projectors pass exactly one foot of film to each revolution of the crank shaft. It therefore follows that if the speed of projection be known, it is only necessary to multiply the speed per minute by the time in minutes, to ascertain the exact footage passing through the projector in any given space of time. If the speed of projection is eighty, and it requires just twelve and one half minutes to project a reel of film, then we may know that that reel contains exactly (80 x 12.5) 1,000 feet of film.

Dobson covers the foregoing and adds:

There are various methods employed to measure film footage. One device is a footage recorder put out by some projector manufacturers, particularly the Power Company. This device is attached to the projector in such manner that each time a foot of film passes through the projector it is registered, very much the same as the milage is registered by the speedometer of an automobile. * * * There is another method which employs measurements and some ordinary arithmetic. It will be quite satisfactory, though not precisely exact if care and common sense be employed. First ascertain the circumference of both the reel hub and the film roll of the individual reel you desire to measure. Add these two together and divide by two, which gives us the average length of each layer of film in the entire roll.

Next we subtract half the diameter of the reel hub from half the film roll diameter. The result will be the depth, in inches, from the outside of the film roll to the surface of the reel hub. Measure one inch, exactly, and count the number of layers of film it contains. Multiply that number by the depth of the film roll in inches, and you have the total number of layers of film in the roll. You then have but to multiply this by the first result (average length of film layers), to get the total length in inches, which divided by twelve will give the total footage in that particular reel of film. However, I repeat, this is closely approximate only. I merely give the method for the sake of completeness.

Question No. 237—What repairs do you consider it the duty of the projectionist to make on film?

Dobson says:

I am firmly convinced that the only repairs any projectionist should make on films in his charge are ordinary running repairs. By that I mean that he should receive the films in A1 condition, and should maintain them in as nearly as possible that condition while they are in his possession. He should re-make any splices which may loosen up in process of projection, or make any splices which it may become necessary to make through accident to the film. He should keep the films clean and free from dirt and liability to scratches through wrong projection or rewinding procedure.

As to him receiving the films in A1 condition, however, in the language of the immoral poet: "Try and get them that way!" One projectionist out of fifty MAY receive film in that condition, but usually he will be the one in an absolutely first run house.

Burnett says:

It is the duty of the projectionist to make such repairs to the films as may become necessary in the process of his work. He is presumed to receive the films free from all mechanical fault which will interfere with their proper passage through the projector. It is NOT his duty to, and he should not be compelled to inspect and repair films before he is able to project them with safety and as good results as the age of the films will permit. The exchange is presumed to do this work. IT IS PAID TO DO IT, hence why should the projectionist be expected to perform the service—and do it free of all cost to any one except himself?

Fell says:

It is the duty of the projectionist to repair all film damage which he himself inflicts upon it while it is in his possession, other than ordinary wear, of course. It is my opinion that every projectionist should inspect his show before he projects it. If found in bad condition he should at once report the fact to the theatre manager, and through him to the exchange, demanding another and a better print.

If this is impractical, by reason of distance to the exchange, then it is the duty of the projectionist to make the necessary repairs, keeping every fault he cuts out, and record of every fault he repairs without cut-out. He should then present same to the head of the exchange, raising a little good warm row about the matter. If more of this were done I believe conditions would quickly improve, because even the ingrowing squarehead don't enjoy an endless bawling out.

Where films are used on circuit, there should be enough honor and respect for the next projectionist who will use them, if not for the profession of projection, to induce each man to send the show out in at least a decent mechanical condition—say, as good, or even in better shape than when it is received. Of course that probably would mean a bit of work which MIGHT be shirked, but don't forget that doing otherwise advertises you as just plain shiftless, lazy, selfish and UN FAIR.

Wallace says:

It all depends upon how seriously a man takes his profession. (And, by heck, no more true words were ever said.—Ed.) The exact limits which his duty as a motion picture projectionist would require would be to repair only that damage he himself inflicted on the films while in his posession. However, any real projectionist who has pride in his screen results, and counts their excellence as of more importance than a bit of added work, will try to put the films into a condition which will enable him to give his audiences the best possible value for their money, whether or not it is his actual duty to make the repairs necessary to accomplish that purpose. IT IS THE DUTY OF THE MOTION PICTURE PROJECTIONIST TO SEE TO IT THAT THEATRE PATRONS GO AWAY SATISFIED WITH THE SHOW IF IT IS POSSIBLE TO SATISFY THEM BY CLEAN CLEAR-CUT, NON-STOP PROJECTION. Incidentally, it reacts against his interests, financially and otherwise, if he does not take this course.

All of which the editor holds to be evenly and exactly true, BUT it does not in any way stop us from trying to compel the exchange to do the work IT IS ITSELF PAID TO DO AND WHICH IT COLLECTS MONEY FOR DOING.

C. H. Hanover says:

It should, by law, be made a criminal offense for any exchange to send to any theatre films not in condition to project with safety. This because unsafe films endanger the very lives of the audience, which may, in case of fire resulting from mechanical faults in film, stampede, with fatal injury to some, or perhaps to many. The projectionist who receives film in safe condition for projection, but which nevertheless have mechanical faults, other than "rain" and jumps in action due to cut-outs, should make the repairs necessary to put the best possible show on the screen, and should consistently and persistently insist upon being paid by the THEATRE MANAGER for so doing, the manager to collect from the exchange. IT IS THE DUTY OF LOCAL UNIONS TO INSIST UPON THEIR MEMBERS BEING PAID FOR THIS SERVICE, WHICH IS IN NO SENSE INCLUDED IN THE PAY THEY RECEIVE AS MOTION PICTURE PROJECTIONIST. The projectionist, should, of course, make all repairs to the films to remedy injury done while he is using the films.

Question No. 238—Give us your views as to the relationship between the theatre projectionist and the film exchange, insofar as has to do with the inspection and repair of films.

C. H. Hanover says:

There is a great deal of unfairness on both sides. The relationship is not at all what it should be. The average exchange does NOT do its duty in the matter of inspection and repairs of films, though this condition is improving slowly, I think. The average projectionist does NOT do his duty in the matter of taking care of the films and "treating them kindly." The exchange too often "inspects" by rewinding the film at high speed, with rewinder elements out of line, and with wobbling reels. It "repairs" the films by making a splice if at any point the film is, in course of rewinding, found to be entirely torn in two, or any splice is found which is open more than two thirds of the way across. And that is NOT an exaggeration in some cases, either.

On the other hand, the man who rather takes pride in declaring himself to be merely the "operator of a machine," too often rewinds at high speed, with rewinder elements out of line and, possibly, crooked reels, though I think that even that boob is now largely using fairly good projection room reels. He neither knows nor cares how tight his aperture tension is, and his take-up tension is jammed down until the film literally sings as it passes over the lower sprocket—and the song is entitled: "This Is The Path to Hell." He "packs" the films into dirt lined shipping cases by the shortest possible method, regardless of what the results will be to the films.

The relationship SHOULD be cordial. The exchange should carefully inspect the films, making all necessary repairs and keeping a careful record of all damage appearing in films as received from the various theatres. A copy of this record be it good or bad, should be sent to BOTH the theatre manager and the theatre projectionist once each month. Unusual and apparently needless damage should be billed against the theatre. The projectionist who habitually returns films in a more or less damaged condition should be warned, in no uncertain language, and if he persists, then the theatre manager should be notified, and ALL EXCHANGES WARNED AGAINST HIM.

On the other hand the projectionist should refuse to do exchange film repair work unless he is paid for it. He should insist on receiving films in safe condition for projection. He should carefully, painstakingly and intelligently adjust his projector tensions and renew his projector sprockets before they get into a badly worn condition. He should handle the films carefully, and do the least possible amount of damage to them, carefully repairing, so far as possible, all the damage he does do.

The relationship between the exchange and the projectionist should be that they work together in harmony for the best interests of all concerned.

Question No. 239—Tell us the various methods by means of which dry, brittle film may be re-moistened.

Chas. Armentrout, Mason City, Iowa, replied correctly to all the foregoing, except the first. The following have made correct answers to this one: Armentrout, Moore, Fell, Dobson, Cooley, Wallace, Mallery, Hanover and Hurlbutt.

It seems to me that brother Wallace has covered the subject quite thoroughly. He says:

There are several very good methods which can be used to remoisten film which has become dry and brittle from long service and high amperage, but only a couple of them can be put to practical use by the projectionist. Probably the best method is that recommended on Page 289 of the Blue Book, which is to unwind the film into a large metal can with several inches of water in the bottom, with a protecting screen to keep the film clear of the water. Place in a moderately warm room and keep well covered until the film is pliable. Watch it closely so that it will not become sticky, and thus cause the emulsion to come off when rewound.

Film can also be given a glycerine bath by drawing it through a long shallow pan of a solution of one part glycerine to thirty parts clear water, and then winding on a drum made of slats. Drum should be about six feet long by six feet in diameter for 1000 feet of film. Wind on with emulsion side out, and when entire reel is on the drum revolve it rapidly until all surplus liquid is thrown off, then turn slowly until film is fairly dry. It is not safe to use it for several days however, as the emulsion may come off with gate tension on it.

But we should prevent the film from becoming dry and brittle in these days of high amperage by keeping them in a film cabinet through which moist air can circulate. I believe a very good cabinet can be made by removing the solid metal bottom of the cabinet and soldering on heavy screen, such as masons use for screening gravel, and in turn soldering, or in some way fastening a pan of water underneath the screen. This will allow the film to absorb directly from the water evaporation. Of course ventilation should be provided for at the top of each film compartment.

Question No. 240—If you were called upon to clean some old, very dirty film, tell us how you would do it.

Fell says:

Cleaning film is a legitimate function of the film exchange, and I would by all means recommend that dirty films be taken there, or else to some one who makes a business of film cleaning.

Of course I know this is not always possible, from one reason or another, in which case I would make use of a drying drum and use tetrachloride (Chemically pure. Ed.) on a soft cloth, pulling the film through, or rubbing it gently if necessary, and winding it upon the drum, which same I would revolve, or cause to revolve until the film became thoroughly dry.

Every one named answered the foregoing more or less perfectly.

By Radio

From the Glen Theatre, Glen Ellyn, Illinois, comes a March program, two pages of which are devoted to the names and dates upon which various features are to be shown and two pages to a reprint of the radio talk the editor of this department gave from Station WHN not long ago. I have been told that many theatres within a less distance had the talk taken down by short hand and published in local papers, and in a few instances in the theatre program, though this is the first program containing the talk just as it was given, without omission or alteration.

If a theatre out in Illinois thinks the talk worth using thus, certainly it should be worth printing in this department, so here goes with the suggestion that projectionists and theatre managers get their local paper to publish it in full. Such publication might save serious trouble in future, should a fire occur in your projection room. The talk was titled "The Total Lack of Danger From a Theatre Projection Room Fire." Here it is exactly as delivered:

"I have been asked by the Loew WHN Broadcasting Station to speak to you with reference to the entire lack of danger to the motion picture theatre patron in the event of a film fire, a rare occurrence, but one which will take place occasionally in one of the sixteen or more thousands of motion picture theatres scattered over the United States of America and Canada.

"I am glad indeed to do this, because I have often been rather badly upset by newspaper accounts of people being injured or even killed, in a motion picture theatre, not by the film fire itself, which would have been entirely harmless except for some property damage inside the projection room itself, but by the foolish stampede that was started by certain individuals in the audience.

"When a motion picture projection room fire occurs, it is PANIC you have to fear, NOT the fire. Aside from the utterly needless panic and the resultant wild stampede, there is no more actual danger to an audience from a projection room film fire, than there is to you when you start a fire in the cook-stove or furnace at home, and it smokes more or less. In fact, even though it may fill the house full of smoke, while the smoke is unpleasant, still it does not alarm you in the least, because you know that the fire is in the furnace or stove, and that it will remain there.

"Precisely the same thing is true with relation to the motion picture theatre projection room fire—the film fire, because, insofar as the fire in it is concerned, the projection room is nothing but a stove with a rather poor draft.

"Every motion picture theatre projection room in all this broad wide land and in Canada as well, is thoroughly and completely fireproof. Theatre managers make a mistake in not making their patrons thoroughly acquainted with that fact. The walls, ceiling and floor of all theatre projection rooms are made of hollow tile, set in cement mortar and plastered inside and out with cement; or of brick laid in cement mortar; or of concrete at least six inches thick or of asbestos millboard (which is about as inflammable as real wet water) or of a combination of two or more of these materials. A thoroughly fireproof projection room for motion picture theatres is an imperative requirement of the law everywhere in the United States and Canada; also, it is an imperative requirement of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and without it the theatre owner could not get a dollar of insurance on the building. You may therefore rest assured that, whatever else the theatre owner may or may not do which is wrong, he has a very thoroughly fire-proof projection room.

"Film burns very rapidly and makes a tremendous amount of smoke. You might, therefore, look back and see smoke seeping out or even boiling out through the crevices around the fireproof shutters which have been either dropped automatically or by the operator over all the openings; or, there may be a big cloud of black smoke puff out when the projectionist opens the door to make his exit. To you, or to your excitable seat neighbor, it LOOKS dangerous. As a matter of fact, it is just exactly as dangerous as the smoking stove we have talked about.

"But, nevertheless, danger sits beside you, for if a panic and stampede is started, there will be a combined rush for the exit, usually for the main entrance, and in all human probability they will just pile up in a heap, with the children underneath. Of course, when it is all over, and the injured and killed have been removed, the rest will discover that they were really in no danger whatsoever, had they just remained calm and sat still, or walked calmly out through some one of the usually unused exits. They then feel tremendously foolish, regretful, and, let us hope, GUILTY.

Be Calm

"Therefore, friends, if you ever happen to be in a motion picture theatre when there is a film fire, don't let yourself be stampeded. If some one near you shouts, 'FIRE!' and starts on a mad scramble for an exit, just assist him on his way with the toe of your shoe, if it is a man. If a woman, then get her outside as soon as possible, and strongly advise her to never again enter any place of public assemblage, unless it be in the open air.

"Then when all the excitables have gotten out, and have thus happily escaped the danger which did not exist, walk calmly out yourself, unless there happens to be but little smoke, as is often the case, and you prefer to remain inside and enjoy the remainder of the show.

"In closing, let me again admonish you to remember that there is and can be no danger from a fire which is confined within thoroughly fireproof walls, as a film fire always is in a motion picture theatre.

"The only danger is PANIC and the resultant stampede, plus the possibility of a bit of unpleasantness by reason of smoke. But since in any event you will, without the least bit of haste, be outside within anywhere from half a minute to four minutes at most, the smoke you may smell and breathe won't do you any serious damage.

The real danger point is the idiot who yells FIRE and starts for the door at a gallop. Don't YOU be the danger point."

Cause of Blur

Floyd Godfrey, Nagrath, Alberta, asks:

Dear Mr. Richardson: What is it that causes a blur in the center of the picture? Have bought new tension shoes, aperture plate, etc. Have changed my condenser and lens, but still the blur persists. Have looked through both the Third Edition and the Bluebook, but am unable to discover the cause of my difficulty. I have a Motiograph, A-1 1916 model.

If what you say is correct—you have installed new aperture plates and tension shoes and have changed both condensers and lenses, without effect—then you seem to have covered about everything in connection with the projector which would cause such an effect, unless for some reason the aperture plate itself becomes slightly bowed when you tighten down the holding screws. However, if this were true, you could clear up the center by blurring the sides, and vice versa. You have said nothing about this being true, hence I presume the blur in the centre cannot be removed in this way.

Had you not said you have changed projection lenses (you say "condenser and lens," which certainly means condenser and projection lens) I would say that either you have a faint finger mark or oil spot in the center of one of the lenses which compose the projection lens, or you have one of the projection lenses (individual lenses) reversed, or you have cleaned the projection lenses and have left out a spacing ring when you reassembled them.

But it is extremely unlikely that this would also be true of the substitute lens you tried, so all that remains, so far as I can see, is something wrong with the center of your screen.

You have not taken pains to describe the effect in detail, hence I cannot be certain as to exactly what the thing you call a "blur" may consist of. Presumably it is merely an out of-focus effect, but what you have said seems to make that impossible. Can any one offer brother Godfrey a suggestion?

5000-Seat Theatre to be Built in Michigan by Balaban and Katz

BALABAN & KATZ'S new motion picture theatre on Bagley avenue, Detroit, Mich., is to be officially known as the Michigan. This is the announcement just made by the Chicago exhibitors. The office building which is to occupy the front part of the site will also be known as the Michigan building. The name of both theatre and building has also been confirmed by the Detroit Properties Corporation. The Michigan Theatre will be completed by July 1, 1926, according to the contractors.

Balaban and Katz plan to make the new Michigan the finest theatre in Detroit and one that is comparable with the finest in the country. It will excel in size any other theatre west of New York, having a total in the neighborhood of 5,000 seats, while its architectural and decorative beauties promise to equal the fabled palaces of Europe.

An unusual feature will be an immense lobby, 60 feet wide and 200 feet long. Sixty feet above there will be a ceiling ornamented in glowing colors. A marble colonnade hung with velvet curtains, will surround the lobby and at its end will rise a stairway 20 feet wide, which will give access to all levels of the auditorium. There will be a promenade on the lobby, mezzanine and balcony floors, with rest rooms and smoking rooms at convenient points.

The entire main floor will be flanked by a series of arches, richly draped and illuminated with shaded, colorful lighting. A minor promenade is to extend on either side and terminate in proscenium boxes, elaborately carved and furnished. The mezzanine floor will present a glittering horse shoe curve, 28 boxes, commodious and luxurious in finish comprising it. The balcony will be constructed on a slight incline, presenting an excellent view of the entire main floor. Twenty-six loges will flank the balcony, adding to the architectural effect. Above the balcony the ceiling will be modeled in three elaborate oval domes, 48 feet in length and 25 feet in width.

At the proscenium opening, marble columns with statues and fountains 25 feet above the stage level, will be placed. The orchestra pit is to be in elliptical form and will accommodate an orchestra of 60. Its platform will be on a hidden mechanism which will raise and lower it upon occasion, bringing it up to star prominence and then letting the entire orchestra sink from sight. The stage will be of such width and depth as required for any possible attraction, including grand opera.

French treatment will feature the general architectural scheme of the theatre as well as of the 12-story office building in which it stands. Faced with terra cotta, the theatre building's frontage on Bagley will be one of the show places in Detroit. Byzantine architecture with ceramic tiles for wall trimmings will decorate the men's smoking rooms, while the women's rest rooms will be lined with Moorish decorations and ceramics.

Interior of the Michigan Theatre, Detroit

Lobby of the Michigan Theatre, Detroit

New Colony, Philadelphia, Opens; Has Seating Capacity of 2500

THE New Colony Theatre, located at Fifth Street and Olney Avenue, Philadelphia, was opened on April 11. The opening marks another step forward in Philadelphia amusement life and welds still another link in the chain of theatres operated by the Stanley Company of America.

The schedule of prices fixes the evenings, Saturday and holidays at thirty cents and for matinees twenty cents, with an admission of ten cents for children. And no matter where one may sit in the Colony an unobstructed view of the stage may be obtained, for there is not a column anywhere to interfere with the vision. There are 2,500 seats on one floor of the theatre. There will be a matinee every afternoon at 2:15 o'clock and two evening performances at 7 and 9 o'clock. On Saturday and holidays there will be the regular matinee at 2:15 and in the evening showings will be continued from 7 until 11 o'clock.

The front of the theatre is of a handsome design in terra-cotta and brick. In the center is a ticket booth of decorative design. From the booth one enters the handsome vestibule or foyer, finished in tracertine and marble, with lobby decorations in paneled and mirror effects, carrying out the Italian Renaissance style which was adopted for the interior.

Then the large promenade is reached, extending the full length of the house, and from there one reaches the seats. The Italian Renaissance or polychrome color enters into the ornamental work throughout the auditorium. The soft velvet carpets are of blue-and-gold colors. So are the elaborate and artistic draperies.

The lighting and power equipment is fed by arteries emanating from the distribution plant in the basement. So that the Colony Theatre shall always be sure of plenty of light and power in case of any failure in the public lighting service, it is equipped with an emergency lighting system of its own, which is automatically switched into action in the event of a stoppage of the public service. The projection room measures 27 feet by 12 feet. It contains three of the most improved Simplex machines, a sport light and a dissolver.

The temperature of the entire theatre is regulated automatically by thermostats. The ventilating system consists of four typhoon fans, two on each side.

Elaborately equipped and decorated series of vanity, smoking and retiring rooms are provided, those for the ladies being on the left of the main vestibule and those for the gentlemen being on the right side. There are also dressing rooms under the stage for performers when needed and rest and retiring rooms for musicians and ushers, all these being of the most modern in equipment. In the promenade are two beautiful drinking fountains.

LOEW BUILDS IN WESTCHESTER

Hardly had his new Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Theatre been opened than Marcus Loew announced that he had purchased property on Main Street, New Rochelle, for a new 3000 seat theatre. When completed it will represent an investment of more than $1,000,000. There is a Loew Theatre in New Rochelle at the present time. The new theatre will be used as a base for theatre operations in Westchester County, and will be equipped so that any form of entertainment can be introduced Loew's newest southern theatre in Birmingham, Ala., will be opened the latter part of this month.

BIG SIOUX FALLS THEATRE

Construction of a new theatre costing upward of a quarter of a million dollars to be located at 312-316 South Phillips ave., Sioux Falls, S. D., will start shortly after May 1 and will probably be completed October 1. The new play house will be owned equally by Jay Dundas and Finkelstein & Ruben, representing the Hamm interests.

ERK BUYS THREE ILION HOUSES

Following negotiations August last by the Ike Libson theatre enterprises of Cincinnati for the purchase of the property, the majority stock in The Piqua Amusement Co., Piqua, Ohio, was sold last week by Harry W. Kress to William and R. V. Erk, of Ilion, New York, former owners of theatres there and at Schenectady. The deal involves largely in excess of $100,000, it is said. The three theatres involved have a seating capacity above 2,000..

As Good As

In describing Eastman Positive Film you never have to say, "It's as good as such and such film."

There just isn't any question about the outstanding superior photographic quality of Eastman Film.

And you know when the print is on the genuine — the identification "Eastman" "Kodak" in black letters in the margin tells you.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Two Sides to the Combine Question; A Natural Forward Step, Says H. J. Yates

HEADLINES in the Trade Papers. Whispers on the streets. All about monopolies, mergers, combines and trustifications.

Much noise, heat, and alarm about their effect on the industry. It seems that every important move forward causes many of us needless worry and distress. We see the imaginary dangers magnified and close our eyes to the constructive developments that insure safety and success for the future.

"Important questions in any industry require a great deal of thought before expression," declares H. J. Yates, Managing Director of the Consolidated Film Industries, Inc. "There are always two sides, and it is foolhardy to view either side alone.

"One side is destructive. It views the tendency toward combination and mergers with alarm and loud cries of lamentation. It darkens the future and dims the present because it discourages those who are engaged on the constructive side of the business.

"The other side is constructive. It views the present situation and trend of the industry in its true perspective. It emphasizes the facts of value, it inspires confidence, harnesses group effort and hastens the rate of progress.

"Every season our records show that we are doing more business with the so-called smaller companies and I know from personal observation that individually and collectively they are making more and better pictures, developing greater executives and sales staffs, and in every conceivable way are making positive headway.

"This activity on the part of the smaller companies is a sure sign of the steady growth and unhampered development of the industry. It is a condition that should inspire unlimited hope and enthusiasm for the future. No one man, no one company or group of companies is ever going to be big enough or powerful enough to control this enormous industry.

"The Motion Picture industry is potentially the largest in the world in point of the number of people and vast sums of money involved. It is greater than steel, oil or automotive industries, or any of the other giants because it more directly concerns and enters into the daily life of the people throughout the world.

"Besides, it is very different from any other industry. Each separate production depends for its success upon individuals and personalities. There can be no dotted line specifications, no machine methods. First, last and always the human element alone counts.

"Any individual, no matter how small or how insignificant, can turn out the world's greatest picture if he is fully qualified, adequately financed and follows the ideals of art and drama, and entertainment qualities demanded by the public.

"The public is always clamoring for quality and novelty regardless of its source. The larger companies know this and they are obliged to recognize individual achievement. It not infrequently happens that a picture is offered and is enthusiastically received by the press and the public, made by individuals only slightly known.

"There can always be a combination and co-operation of brains, but never a monopoly.

"Can it be said that opportunity for any sort of individual or corporate advancement is less today than in the Civil War or Colonial times?

"Look at Broadway, the hub and center of the motion picture industry. The larger companies are well represented. They have choice locations, to be sure. But, three new houses have been opened by the smaller companies or individuals and all are thriving. What is true on Broadway is true on a smaller scale throughout the entire country.

"Remember it is only the good pictures that please the public. Also remember good pictures will be shown in theatres throughout the world. So after all it is the good pictures economically produced that the larger and smaller companies depend on for ultimate success.

"The motion picture industry is passing through a regular and normal process of business evolution. It is perfectly natural for loose ends to be gathered up, for the haphazard methods of pioneer days to be dropped by the wayside, for vast improvements to be made in the executive and sales staffs, as well as in the technical perfection of the films and the picture and screening apparatus.

"It is not only logical but a very necessary development of any industry for producers to seek contact with and direct channels to their ultimate market. The oil producers buy up refineries and gas stations, the electrical companies buy into public utilities and radio concerns, railroads buy the stock of another to promote the exchange of freight, and so it goes.

"Those who see only one phase of this natural development lack information and vision.

"Consolidation and co-operation will bring about a better understanding; better product and service for the public; better earnings for the stockholders—is not this what we are all striving for?

"The very fact that some of our biggest bankers are becoming actively interested in the motion picture industry should convince those who have taken up the destructive side of the question on consolidation and co-operation that the dangers they foresee will never come to pass. Level headed bankers, the type that are coming into the motion picture industry, are very rarely wrong on their combined viewpoint. As a general rule they are over-conservative and rarely over-enthusiastic.

"The growth of this industry is irresistible. A few years from today will show an almost unimaginable expansion. The tendency to consolidation and co-operation is hastening and making possible this development.

"Those who fail to see the situation clearly are doing much harm by spreading misinformation and unfounded rumors of impending 'conflicts' and 'titanic battles' within the industry.

"The larger companies are far too wise to allow petty rivalries or personal aggrandisement to jeopardize their position with the public and their success.

"There is a place in the industry for every individual who possesses constructive ability, and the sooner this is realized and harnessed, the sooner certain restless individuals will return to the constructive side."

New State Theatre, Flint, Opens; Equipped with All Improvements

THE New State Theatre, which occupies the site of the old Orpheum, on South Saginaw Street, Flint, Michigan, has opened. It is an excellently appointed moving picture house, and a credit to the city as a place of amusement.

The structure was built by Lester E. Matt, owner of the Strand Theatre, and a pioneer in the business, and consists of a main floor and large balcony, with a total seating capacity of 1,150.

The interior is rich in plaster relief work of the Addison period, while the walls are panelled in tapestry. A golden glow lighting effect is obtained by the use of beautiful fixtures which adds greatly to the appearance of the interior.

Rest rooms for men and women are provided on both the main and mezzanine floors. The building is of fireproof construction, and has six exits, more than is required by the State law. Bubbling fountains in the lobby provide ice-cold water from a 240-foot well. A pair of seven-foot blowers pour a continual supply of fresh, heated aid into the theatre, while two 42-inch blowers suck out the used air. An ice machine has been installed to provide cool air in the summer months.

The entire building is heated by two smokeless type boilers. Wall and ceiling fans are utilized to augment the circulating system. The latest vacuum system for cleaning purposes has been installed.

In the specially designed projection room, at the rear of the balcony, there are three of the latest type Simplex projecting machines, and two Westinghouse generators. Pictures are projected on a Gardner gold-fibre screen.

An eight-piece orchestra will be quartered in the pit in front of the stage, which will also house a pipe organ, the pipes of which are concealed behind art screening in the walls.

While most of the seven-story building is occupied by the theatre, two small stores are located at each side of the lobby, the basement having a barber shop and a store, while the front of the building is given over to offices.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

VOLUME 73 MARCH AND APRIL 1925

Index to Photoplays

Accompanying list includes, in addition to pictures announced for release during months of March and April, all productions on which reviews were published during this period, the date of issue containing this information being also shown. Where such reference is omitted, information will probably appear in next volume.

Serials are indexed under general title. Unless otherwise specified, all subjects listed are five-reel dramas.

Great care has been used to make this information as accurate as possible. If any errors are detected, we would appreciate having our attention called to them, so that our card index may be corrected.

If information is desired regarding any picture, either previously released or forthcoming, which is not included in this list, we will be pleased to furnish same on request.

A

Adenoid, Adventures of (1 reel) (Pathe-Aesop Fable Cartoon) (Reviews April 25).
Air Mail, The (6,976 feet) (Directed by Irvin Willat) (Paramount) (Review—March 28).
Alice Solves the Puzzle (1 reel) (M. J. Winkler-Cartoon) (Review—April 18).
Amateur Detective, The (2 reels) (Earle Fox) (Fox-Van Bibber Series) (Review—March 28).
Are Husbands Human? (1 reel) (Jim Finlayson) (Pathe—Comedy) (Review—April 11).
At the Zoo (1 reel) (Pathe-Aesops Fable Cartoon) (Review—March 28).

B

Bad Boy (2 reels) (Charlie Chase) (Pathe—Comedy) (Review—April 11).
Beauty Spots (1 reel) (Pathe-Sportlight) (Review—April 25).
Bashful Jim (2 reel) (Ralph Graves) (Pathe-Mack Sennett Comedy) (Review—March 7).
Big Chief Ko Ko (1 reel) (Red Seal-Out of Inkwell Cartoon) (Review—April 25).
Black Gold Bricks (1 reel) (Universal Comedy) (Review—April 25).
Black Hand Blues (2 reels) (Pathe-Spat Family Comedy) (Review—April 25).
Boomerang, The (6,714 feet) (Based on play by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes) (Anita Stewart and Bert Lytell) (Directed by Gasnier) (B. P. Schulberg) (Review—March 21).
Both Barrels (2 reels) (Jack Perrin) (Universal—Drama) (Review—March 21).
Breaking the Ice (2 reels) (Ralph Graves) (Pathe Comedy) (Review—April 4).
Breed of the Border (4,930 feet) (Lefty Flynn) (Directed by Harry Garson) (F. B. O.) (Review—March 14).
Bridge of Sighs, The (6,604 feet) (Based on story by Charles K. Harris) (Directed by Phil Rosen) (Warner Brothers) (Review—April 4).
Burning Trail, The (4,783 feet) (William Desmond) (Directed by Arthur Rossan) (Universal) (Review—April 11).
Butterfly Man, The (2 reels) (Sid Smith) (Fox—Sunshine Comedy) (Review—April 4).

C

Cafe in Cairo (6,020 feet) (Based on novel by Izola Forrester) (Priscilla Dean) (Directed by Chet Withey) (Producers Distributing Corp.) (Review—March 28).
Captain Kidd (1 reel) (F. B. O. Cartoon) (Review—March 21).
Charmer, The (6,076 feet) (Pola Negri) (Based on Henry Bairlein's novel, "Mariposa") (Directed by Sidney Olcott) (Paramount) (Review—April 18).
Code of the West (6777 feet) (Based on novel by Zane Grey) (Directed by William H. Howard) (Paramount) (Review—April 25).
Confessions of a Queen, The (5,809 feet) (Based on Alphonze Daudet's novel, "Kings in Exile) (Alice Terry and Lewis Stone) (Directed by Victor Seastrom) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—April 4).
Contraband (6,773 feet) (Based on story by Clarence Buddington Kelland) (Directed by Allan Crossland) (Paramount) (Review—April 4).
Cowpuncher's Comeback, The (2 reels) (Art Acord) (Universal-Western) (Review—March 21).

D

Daddy's Gone a Hunting (5,851 feet) (Percy Marmont) (Based on play by Zoe Akins) (Directed by Frank Borzage) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—March 7).
Dangerous Innocence (6,759 feet) (Based on novel, "Ann's an Idiot," by Pamela Wynne) (Laura LaPlante and Eugene O'Brien) (Directed by William Seiter) (Universal) (Review—March 28).
Dangerous Peach, A (2 reels) (Al Alt) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—March 14).
Day With the Gypsies, A (1 reel) (Red Seal-Screen Gem) (Review—April 11).
Declasse (7,869 feet) (Based on play by Zoe Akins) (Corinne Griffith) (Directed by Robert Vignola) (First National) (Review—April 4).
Denial, The (4.791 feet) (Based on the play, "The Square Peg," by Lewis Beach) (Claire Windsor) (Directed by Hobart Henley) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—March 21).
Deep Stuff (1 reel) (Pathe-Cartoon) (Review—April 25).
Dog Days (2 reels) ("Our Gang") (Pathe—Comedy) (Review—March 7).
Dome Doctor, The (2 reels) (Larry Semon) (Educational-Comedy) (Review—April 25).
Don't Pinch (2 reels) (Bobby Vernon) (Educational-Comedy) (Review—April 25).
Don't Worry (2 reels) (Wanda Wiley) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—March 21).
Do You Remember (1 reel) (Red Seal-Novelty Scenic) (Review—March 21).
Dressmaker From Paris, The (7,080 feet) (Leatrice Joy) (Directed by Paul Bern) (Paramount) (Review—March 28).
Dynamite Doggie (2 reels) (Al St. John) (Educational-Tuxedo Comedy) (Review—March 21)

E

Excuse My Glove (2 reels) (Pathe-Spat Family Comedy) (Review—March 21).

F

Fighting Terror (2 reels) (Universal Western) Review—March 28).
Film Facts (1 reel) (Red Seal-Magazine) (Review—March 28 and April 18).
Flying Elephant, The (650 feet) (Sering D. Wilson—Color Cartoon) (Review—April 25).
Fool, The (9,500 feet) (Edmund Lowe) (Based on play by Channing Pollock) (Directed by Harry Millarde) (Fox) (Review—April 25).
Forbidden Cargo (4.850 feet) (Evely Brent) (Directed by Tom Buckingham) (F. B. O.) (Review—April 4).
From Mars to Munich (1 reel) (Fox-Varieties) (Review—April 4).

G

Galloping Vengeance (5,095 feet) (Bob Custer) (Directed by William James Craft) (F. B. O.) (Review—March 28).
Getting Trimmed (2 reels) (Wanda Wiley) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—April 18).
Giddap (2 reels) (Pathe-Mack Sennett Comedy) (Review—March 21).
Girl Problem (1 reel) (Universal-Sweet Sixteen Comedy) (Review—March 21).
Gold and Grit (4,712 feet) (Buddy Roosevelt) (Directed by Richard Thorpe) (Artclass) (Review—April 11).
Gold and the Girl (4,512 feet) (Buck Jones) (Directed by Edmund Mortimer) (Fox) (Review—Mach 28).
Goose Hangs High, The (6,186 feet) (Based on stage play by Louis Beach) (Directed by James Cruze) (Paramount) (Review—March 21).
Grass (Paramount) (Review—Apri 111).

H

Hair Cartoon (300 feet) (Red Seal) (Review—March 14 and 28; April 11 and 25).
Hard Boiled (2 reels) (Charles Chase) (Pathe—Comedy)(Review—March 14).
Headwinds (5,486 feet) (House Peters) (Directed by Herbert Blache) (Universal) (Review—March 28).
Heart of a Siren, The (6,700 feet) (Adapted from a William Hurlburt play) (Barbara La-Marr) (Directed by Phil Rosen) (First National) (Review—March 21).
Hello Hollywood (2 reels) (Lige Conley) (Educational-Mermaid Comedies) (Review—March 14).
Helping Hand (2 reels) (Jimmie Aubrey) (F.B.O. Comedy) (Review—March 7).
He Who Gets Rapped (2 reels) (Pace Makers Series) (F.B.O. Comedy) (Review—March 28).
His Supreme Moment) (Ronald Coleman and Blanche Sweet) (Based on novel by May Edington "World Without End") Directed by George Fitzmaurice) (First National) (Review—April 25).
Hold My Baby (2 reels) (Glenn Tryon) (Pathe-Comedy) (Review—April 25).
Housing Shortage (1 reel) (Pathe-Aesops Fable Cartoon) (Review—April 4).
House of Flickers (2 reels) (Fox-Imperial Comedy) (Review—March 21).
Hunted Woman, The (4,954 feet) (Based on novel by James Oliver Curwood) (Seena Owen) (Directed by John Conway) (Fox) (Review—April 4).

I

I Want My Man (6,173 feet) (Milton Sills) (First National) (Review—April 18).
In a Cottage Garden (700 feet) (Sering D. Wilson) (Color Film) (Review—April 25).
In Dutch (1 reel) (Pathe Aesops Fable Cartoon) (Review—March 7).
Inside Out (1 reel) (Cliff Bowes) (Educational Cameo Comedy) (Review—April 4).
In the Spider's Grip (1 reel) (Educational—Novelty) (Review—April 11).
Introduce Me (6,710 feet) (Douglas MacLean) (Directed by George J. Crone) (Associated Exhibitors) (Review—March 21).
Iron Mule, The (2 reels) (Al St. John) (Educational-Tuxedo Comedy) (Review—April 18).
Is Marriage the Bunk: (1 reel) (Charles Chase Comedy (Pathe—Comedy) (Review—March 28).
Itching for Revenge (2 reels) (Eddie Gordon) (Universal Century Comedy) (Review—March 7).

J

Judge's Crossword Puzzles (1 reel) (Educational Novelty) (Review—March 21).
Jungle Bike Riders (1 reel) (Pathe-Aesop Fable Cartoon) (Review—March 14).

K

Kicked About (2 reels) (Eddie Gordon) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—March 7).
Kiss in the Dark, A (5,767 feet) (Adolphe Menjou) (Based on Frederick Lonsdale's play, "Aren't We All) (Directed by Frank Tuttle) (Paramount) (Review—April 18).
Ko-Ko the Barber (1 reel) (Red Seal-Out of the Inkwell Cartoon) (Review—March 28).

L

Lady of the Night (5,441 feet) (Norma Shearer) (Directed by Monta Bell) (Metro-Goldwyn) Review—March 14).
Learning to Love (6,099 feet) (Constance Talmadge) (Directed by Sidney A. Franklin) (First National) (Review—March 7).
Lilies of the Street (7,216 feet) (Virginia Lee Corbin and Johnny Walker) (Directed by Joseph Levering) (F. B. O.) (Review—April 25).
Lion's Whiskers, The (2 reels) (Pathe-Mack Sennett Comedy) (Review—April 18).
Little People of the Sea (1 reel) (Educational) Secrets of Life Series) (Review—March 7).
Loaded Dice (2 reels) (Edmund Cobb) (Universal-Western) (Review—April 11).
Love Bug (2 reels) ("Our Gang") (Pathe Comedy) (Review—April 4).
Love Goofy (2 rels) (Jimmie Adams) (Educational—Christie) (Review—March 14).
Love's Bargain (6 reels) (Marjorie Daw) (Directed by Burton George) (F.B.O.) (Review—March 21).
Lots of Knots (1 reel) (Educational—Hodge Podge) (Review—March 7).

M

Man and Maid (Lew Cody) (Story by Elinor Glynn) (Directed by Victor Shertzinger) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—April 18).
Mansion of Aching Hearts, The (6,147 feet) (Based on song by Harry Von Tilzer and A. J. Lamb) (Directed by J. P. Hogan) (B. P. Schulberg) (Review—March 14).
Marriage Circus, The (2 reels) (Pathe-Mack Sennett Comedy) (Review—April 11).
Mellow Quartette (1 reel) (Educational-Earl Hurd Cartoon) (Review—April 4).
Men and Women (6,223 feet) (From a play by David Belasco and Henry DeMille) (Richard Dix) (Directed by William DeMille) (Paramount) (Review—April 11).
Merrymakers (1 reel) (Cliff Bowes) (Educational-Cameo Comedy) (Review—March 21).
Merton of the Goofies (2 reels) (F. B. O.-Pacemakers Series) (Review—April 18).

Midnight Girl, The (6,300 feet) (Lila Lee) (Directed by Wilfred Noy) (Chadwick Pictures) (Reveiw—March 28).

Miracle of the Wolves (10,346 feet) (Based on novel by Henry Dupuy Mazuel) (Directed by Raymond Bernard) (Societe Francaise d'editions du Romans Film) (Review—March 7).

Monster, The (6,435 feet) (Based on play by Crane Wilber) (Lon Chaney) (Directed by Roland West) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—March 7).

Movie Morsels (1 reel) (Educational) (Hodge Podge) (Review—April 4).

My Son (Nazimova) (First National) (Review—April 18).

Mysterious Stranger, The (2 reels) (Fox Comedy) (Review—March 14).

N

Neptune's Nieces (1 reel) (Pathe-Sportlight) (Review—March 7).

New Lives for Old (6,796 feet) (Betty Compson) (Directed by Clarence Badger) (Paramount) (Review—March 7).

O

Olympic Games (1 reel) (Universal-Hysterical History Comedy) (Review—March 14).

One Way Street (5,600 feet) (Based on story by Beale Davis) (Anna Q. Nilsson) (Directed by John Francis Dillon) (First National) (Review—April 4).

One Year to Live (6,064 feet) (Adapted from the story by John Hutner) (Aileen Pringle) (Directed by Irving Cummings) (First National (Review—March 7).

On the Go (4,825 feet) (Buffalo Bill, Jr.) (Directed by Richard Thorpe) (Artclass) (Review—April 4).

On Thin Ice (7.046 feet) (Based on novel, "The Dear Pretender," by Alice Ross Colver) (Tom Moore) (Directed by Mal St. Clair) (Warner Brothers) (Review—March 21).

O. U. West (5,000 feet) (Lefty Flynn) (Directed by Harry Garson) (F.B.O.) Review—April 11).

P

Papa's Pet (1 reel) (Bert Roach) (Universal—Comedy) (Review—April 11).

Pathe Review No. 10 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) Review—March 21).

Pathe Review No. 11 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) (Review—March 21).

Pathe Review No. 12 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) (Review—March 28).

Pathe Review No. 13 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) (Review—March 28).

Pathe Review No. 14 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) (Review—April 4).

Pathe Review No. 15 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) (Review—April 18).

Pathe Review No. 16 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) (Review—April 18).

Pathe Review No. 17 (1 reel) (Pathe Magazine) (Review April 25).

Parisian Nights (6,278 feet) (Elaine Hammerstein) (Directed by Al Santell) (F. B. O.) (Review—March 7).

Percy (6 reels) (Based on novel "The Desert Fiddler" by William H. Hamby) (Charles Ray) (Directed by R. William Neill) (Pathe) (Review—March 14).

Perfect View, The (1 reel) (Fox—Varieties) (Review—April 25).

Pie Man, The (1 reel) (Pathe—Aesop Fable Cartoon) (Review—March 21)

Plain Clothes (2 reels) (Harry Langdon) (Pathe—Mack Sennett Comedy) (Review—March 28).

Playing with Souls (5,831 feet) (Directed by Ralph Ince) (First National) (Review—March 7).

Powdered Chickens (2 reels) (Edna Marian) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—March 28).

Proud Flesh (5.770 feet) (Eleanor Boardman) (Based on novel by Lawrence Rising) (Directed by King Vidor) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—April 25).

Putting on Airs (2 reels) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—April 11).

Puzzled by Crosswords (2 reels) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—March 7).

R

Rag Man, The (5.968 feet) (Jackie Coogan) (Directed by Eddie Cline (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—March 14).

Rarin' Romeo (2 reels) (Walter Hiers) (Educational Comedy) (Review—March 28).

Raisin' Cane (2 reels) (Beth Darlington) (Universal-Century Comedy) (Review—April 18).

Recreation of Brian Kent, The (6,878 feet) (Based on noved by Harold Bell Wright) (Kenneth Harlan) (Directed by Sam Wood) (Principal) (Review—March 14).

Red Pepper (2 reels) (Al St. John) (Educational-Tuxedo Comedy) (Review—April 4).

Remember When? (2 reels) (Harry Langdon) (Pathe Comedy) (Review—April 25).

Riders of the Purple Sage (5,578 feet) (Based on Zane Grey's novel) (Tom Mix) (Directed by Lynn Reynolds) (Fox) (Review—March 21).

S

S. O. S. (1 reel) (Pathe-Aesop's Fable Cartoon) (Review—April 25).

Sackcloth and Scarlet (6,732 feet) (Based on novel by George Gibbs) (Alice Terry) (Directed by Henry King) (Paramount) (Review—April 11).

Saddle Hawk, The (4,419 feet) (Hoot Gibson) (iDrected by Edward Sedgwick) (Universal) (Review—March 7).

Sailor Papa (2 reels) (Glenn Tyron) (Pathe-Mack Sennett Comedy) (Review—March 28).

Sally (8,636 feet) (Based on musical comedy by Guy Bolton) (Colleen Moore) (Directed by Alfred E. Green) (First National) (Review—March 28).

Salome of The Tenements (7.017 feet) (From the novel by Anzia Yesierska) (Directed by Sidney Olcott) (Paramount) (Review—March 7).

Scar Hanan (4 684 feet) (Yakima Canutt) (Directed by Ben Wilson) (F. B. O.) (Review—March 28).

Scarlet Honeymoon, The (5,080 feet) (Shirley Mason) (Directed by Alan Hale) (Fox) (Review—March 14).

School for Wives (6,182 feet) (Adapted from Leonard Merick's story, "The House of Lynch") (Conway Tearle) (Directed by Victor Hugo Halperin) (Vitagraph) (Review—April 11).

Seven Chances (5,113 feet) (Based on play by Roi Cooper Megrue and J. A. Mitchell) (Buster Keaton) (Directed by Buster Keaton) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—March 28).

Shakespeare (1 reel) (Red Seal Special) (Review—April 18).

Ship Shape (1 reel) (Educational Comedy) (Review—April 18).

Should Husbands Be Watched (1 reel) (Charles Chase) (Pathe Hal Roach Comedy) (Review—March 14).

Smoked Out (1 reel) (Universal Comedy) (Review—April 11)

Star Dust Trail, The (4,686 feet) (Shirley Mason) Directed by Edmund Mortimer) (Fox) (Review—March 7).

Storm (1 reel) (Red Seal-Out of Inkwell Cartoon) (Review—March 21).

Storm King (2 reels) (Edmund Cobb) (Universal Western) (Review—March 21)

Sunken Silver (Ten episodes two reels each) (Allene Ray and Walter Miller) (Based on story "Black Caesar's Clan," by Albert Payson Terhune) (Directed by George B. Seitz) (Pathe Serial) (Review—April 18).

Swan The (5,889 feet) (Based on play by Ferenz Molnar) (Adolphe Menjou) (Directed by Dimitri Buchowetzki) (Paramount) (Review—March 14).

Swanee River (1 reel) (Red Seal-Song Car-tune) (Review—April 25).

T

Tenting Out (1 reel) (Universal-Comedy) (Review—March 28).

That Devil Quemado (Fred Thomson) (F. B. O.) (Review—April 18).

Thundering Herd (7,187 feet) (From the novel by Zane Grey) (Jack Holt) (William Howard Production) (Paramount) (Review—March 7)

Thundering Waters (700 feet) Sering D Wilson) (Color Scenic) (Review—April 25)

Too Many Kisses (5,759 feet) (Richard Dix) (Directed by Paul Sloane) (Paramount) (Review—March 14).

Traps and Troubles (1 reel) (Pathe-Sportlight) (Review—March 21).

Two Cats and A Bird (1 reel) (Educational-Earl Hurd Cartoon) (Review—March 7)

V

Valley of Rogues (2 reels) (Jack Perrin) (Universal-Western) (Review—April 18).

Voice of The Nightingale (1 reel) (Educational-Novelty in colors) (Review—March 14).

W

Waking Up The Town (4,802 feet) (Jack Pickford) (United Artists) (Review—April 11).

Way Of A Girl, The (5,000 feet) (Based on story. "The Summons" by Katherine Newlin Burt) (Eleanor Boardman and Matt Moore) (Directed by Robert G. Vignola) (Metro-Goldwyn) (Review—April 11).

Welcome Stranger (1 reel) (Alberta Vaughn) (F. B. O.-Pace Makers series) (Review—March 7).

Where the Waters Divide 1 reel) (Fox-Varieties) (Review—April 25).

Why Hesitate? (2 reels) (Neal Burns) (Educational-Christie Comedy) (Review—April 11).

Wizard of Oz, The (6,300 feet) (Larry Semon) (Based on play by Frank Baum) (Directed by Larry Semon) (Chadwick) (Review—April 25).

Z

Zowie (1 reel) (Pathe-Stereoscopic Novelty) (Review—March 21).

"The Dome Doctor"

(Educational—Comedy—Two Reels)

If your patrons like frank, fast-moving slapstick, they ought to go into hysterics of joy over this one featuring Larry Semon and including a cast composed of Dorothy Dwan, Frank Alexander, Fred Desilva, Earl Montgomery and Grover Ligon. The scenes are laid in a beauty establishment and a grocery store, which adjoin each other. Larry, an expert hair curler, is in love with the grocer's daughter. This frame of mind leads him to forget to turn off the electricity at times and otherwise neglect business. The riot is complete when a monkey is introduced. It is really wonderful how flour barrels get overturned and both establishments, as well as principals, get broken up. The comedy moves fast. When it isn't a gag, it's an upset molasses jug.—S. S.

"The Adventures of Adenoid"

(Pathe—Cartoon—One Reel)

"The Adventures of Adenoid" relate to the escapades of some mice who thrive under water as well as on land. The sweetheart of one is won over by the other's flivver and the machine takes a dive into the ocean. There the flirtatious ones enter the mouth of a whale which is fitted up like a cabaret. After that they park in an oceanic forest and are spooning away when a shark steals the girl. The true lover hears her cries for help and conquers the shark. In this one, Cartoonist Paul Terry's imagination has traveled a considerable distance and the pen skit is highly amusing. —T. W.

"S-O-S"

(Pathe—Cartoon—One Reel)

Radio and performers for the "ether" theatre take Terry's animal kingdom by storm in "S-O-S." Every thing on fours, from the tiny church mouse to the huge jungle elephant have received sets of all values. When Mrs. Tom Cat starts to vocalize from Station WOW she gets the royal razz in a material way. The cartoonist has discovered a method by which his pen creatures can stone or "tomatoe" an undesirable or unworthy performer. Thus Mrs. Cat is placed on the receiving end of much rotted vegetation coming into the broadcasting room through loud speakers from all sections of the country. This cartoon is especially clever and amusing.—T. W.

"Hold My Baby"

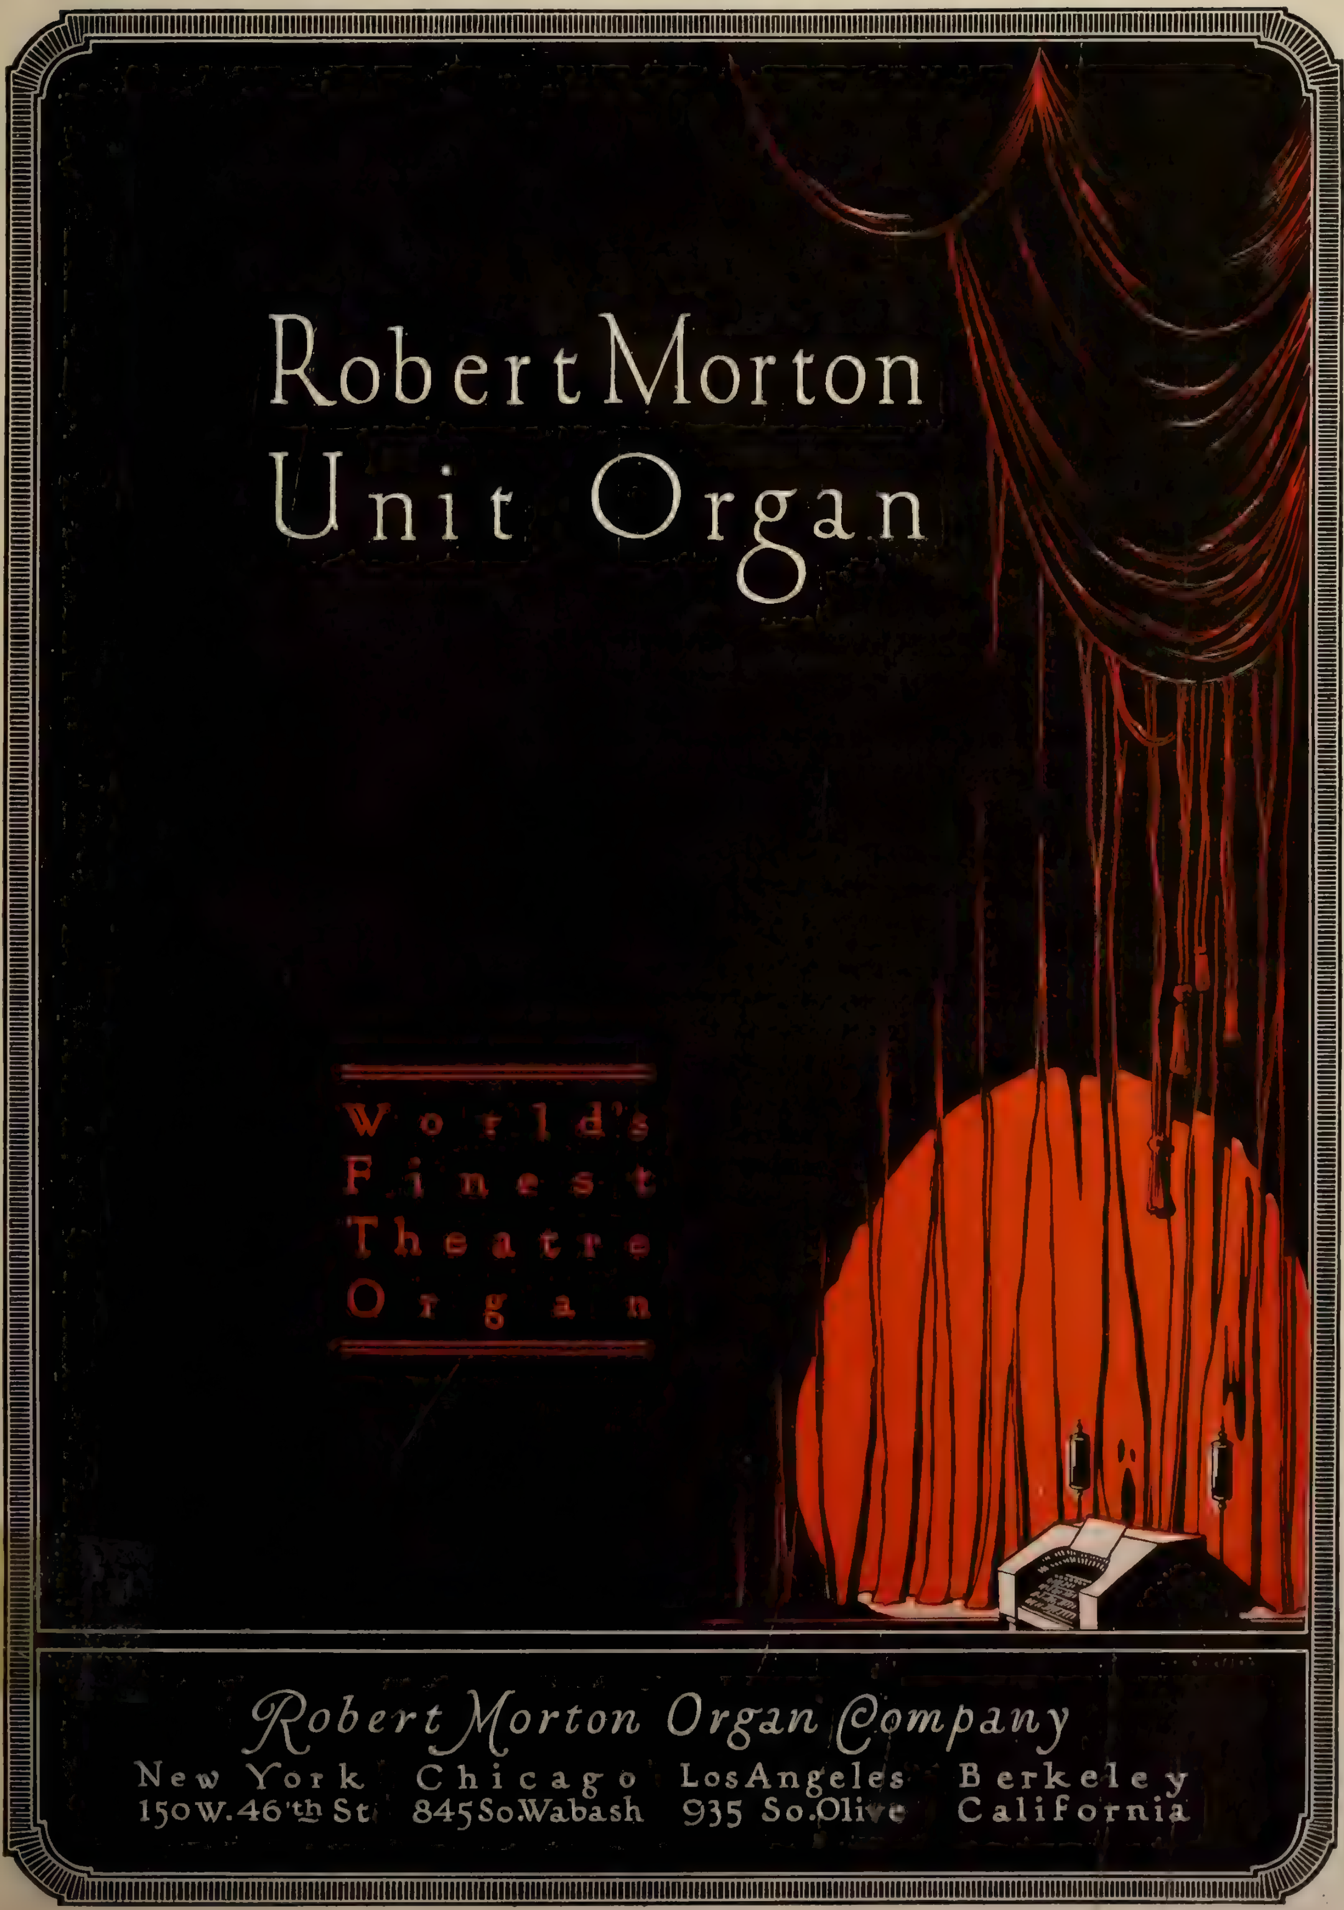
(Pathe—Comedy—Two Reels)

Glenn Tryon, Baby Jackie Hanes and Blanche Mehaffey have the principal parts in this. The action occurs aboard a train and concerns the discovery of a six-months-old baby in Tryon's berth. His attempts to care for it are the basis for some really good comedy. Every one in the Pullman is called on to aid him. with hectic results. The morale of the passengers is disorganized, night and day. Tryon and Miss Mehaffey do good work and the baby is a wonder. Jackie is billed as a "find" of F. Richard Jones and deserves the name.—S. S.

Pathe Review No. 17

(Pathe—Magazine—One Reel)

This has three interesting subjects, tobacco raising in the Connecticut valley, salmon swimming upstream to spawn and a Pathecolor of Philadelphia. A novelty is introduced in the second subject when slow motion shows the salmon leaping. This very effectively emphasizes their feat. It is one of the "Secrets of Nature" series. The third subject belongs with the "Visiting Our Own America" series.—S. S.



Robert Morton Unit Organ

Robert Morton Organ Company

New York
150 W. 46th St.

Chicago
845 So. Wabash

Los Angeles
935 So. Olive

Berkeley
California

GENUINE DEAGAN PERCUSSIONS USED

Gilbert E. Gable presents

THE SKY RAIDER

with Jacqueline Logan and Capt. Nungesser

It Jumps Washington's Rialto $5,000.00!!!

Manager Weil of the Rialto, Washington says " 'The Sky Raider' has done as much business this week as any two houses of this city combined!"

A tremendous business getter, if tied up to the most sensational exploitation stunt yet devised—

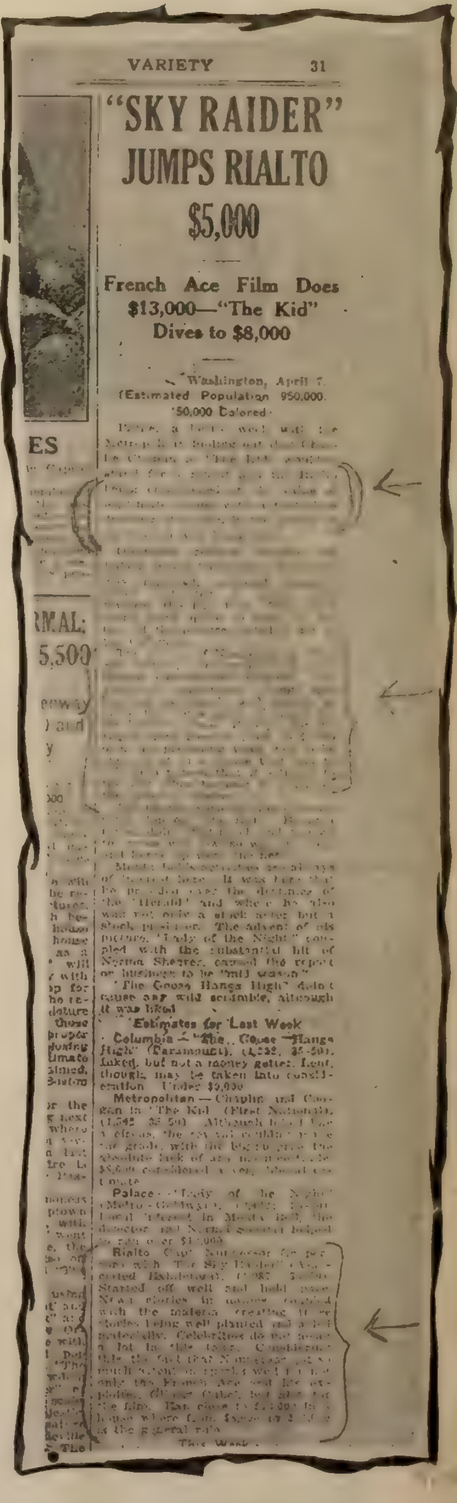
A Flying Circus Headed by Nungesser Himself

The crew comprises

1. Capt. Nungesser, ace of aces, conqueror of over 104 German warplanes. Capt. Nungesser does the most remarkable flying stunts yet seen, including the landing upon a sheet with his airplane, from a great height.
2. Lieut. Maurice Weiss of the French Reserves, the most spectacular stunt flyer imaginable. He will pilot the plane which will engage Capt. Nungesser in an amazing air-battle!
3. Sergeant Gaston Catellin, for 26 months chief mechanician of the French Esquadrille at Metz during the World War.
4. Gilbert Gable, the producer, expert exploitation and advertising man.

The equipment includes two airplanes, automobile, special railroad car, etc. etc.

THERE IS ONLY A LITTLE OPEN TIME LEFT FOR CAPT. NUNGESSER AND HIS PARTY. SPEAK QUICKLY IF YOU WANT TO SET YOUR WHOLE TOWN AFLAME WITH EXCITEMENT!



VARIETY 31

"SKY RAIDER" JUMPS RIALTO $5,000

French Ace Film Does $13,000—"The Kid" Dives to $8,000

Washington, April 7.
(Estimated Population 950,000. 150,000 Colored.)

Estimates for Last Week

Associated Exhibitors

J. S. Woody, President

Physical Distributors
Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Foreign Representative
Sidney Garrett